Thieves targeting Nissan Maximas

By KATHLEEN G. SUTCLIFFE
STAFF WRITER

EDISON — Local owners of Nissan Maximas beware. Late model Maximas have been the victim of a rash of headlight thefts in recent months.

According to an informal tally of Edison police reports, thieves have plucked headlights out of at least 30 Nissans in the township over the past three months.

One unlucky Raritan Center

employee returned to the parking lot outside his office on May 8 to find his Nissan's headlights missing for the fourth time.

Another victim, an Edison resident who chose to remain anonymous, looked out his bedroom window one night to find his Nissan's headlights gouged out by thieves for the second time since February.

"If they want them, they're going to get them," said the car owner who reported that after the first theft he'd had a theft deterrent kit installed for several hundred dollars. But the metal plate installed behind the grill, which forces thieves to pop the hood to access the headlight assembly, deterred thieves for only a matter of minutes.

"I was standing by the car. Five minutes later I was inside and heard my neighbor scream. I looked out my bedroom window, and my headlights were gone."

The first repair cost $2,300 and the car owner is waiting to hear what the second repair will cost. But this disgruntled car owner is becoming impatient and reports, "Nissan's not doing anything to alleviate the problem."

Local Nissan dealers refused to comment on the trend of headlight thefts, repair costs, or the effectiveness of anti-theft devices.

But experts say Nissan's xenon headlights, which are standard on all late models, are attractive to thieves because, unlike BMWs, Audis, and Mercedes Benzes, which also feature the high-powered headlights, thieves can often pry the headlights from a Maxima without popping the hood. This, along with the convenience offered by the popular car's widespread availability, has made Nissans particularly vulnerable to headlight thefts.

South Plainfield holds line again on municipal property tax

By CHERYL ORSON
CORRESPONDENT

SOUTH PLAINFIELD — Mayor Daniel Gallagher credits debt refinancing, health benefit changes and attrition for allowing the borough to keep its tax rate flat.

The borough's tax rate has been set at 86-cents per $100 of assessed value. A property assessed at the borough's average value of $117,000 will owe $1,000 in municipal property taxes.

Gallagher said the tax rate has not increased for the past six years and decreased in one year.

Gallagher said the recent refinancing will result in a savings of $155,000. Standard and Poor's upgraded the borough's credit rating for the first time in 22 years, Gallagher said, which means the borough is no longer required to purchase insurance when it borrows. Total savings will amount to $480,000, "money we don't have to pay out," he said.

"I'm extremely proud of this," said Gallagher, who added, "Everyone is working together."

The borough will save $233,000 through attrition and staff changes and another $260,000 on its health benefits package. In addition,

Gallagher said all borough departments met his requirement of reducing their expenses by 5 to 10 percent.

The borough has a tax collection rate of 99.79 percent. Gallagher said he didn't know of another municipality in the county with this high a tax collection rate.

Deadline Monday to clear the air

NJPIRG is urging speedy legislative action on the Clean Car Act. More than 300,000 Middlesex County residents are at risk from dangerous air pollution according to a report released by the public interest group.

The report released June 19 at the Rutgers Ozone Monitoring Station shows that both smog and toxic air pollution are at unhealthy levels in the county.

"Middlesex County suffers from some of the worst air pollution in the country," said Tim Hinkle, a campaign coordinator with NJPIRG. "It triggers asthma attacks and increases our cancer risk. Our air pollution is literally making people sick."

Residents breathe levels of air toxins, like benzene and formaldehyde that are 1,200 times above the federal health standard, the report showed.

There were 17 ozone alert days last summer. The alerts are issued when it is unhealthy to breathe the air due to ozone pollution. In other areas of the state, there were 1 to 3 ozone alert days.

There are 75,838 residents with chronic lung disease, including 8,651 children with asthma in Middlesex County, the report said. Research has established a clear connection between high levels of smog and asthma attacks. Ozone pollution is especially dangerous for seniors and children.

There are several sources for the pollution, the report said. Factories and power plants as far away as Ohio produce pollution that floats into our state. Diesel trucks and buses produce particulate matter, but passenger vehicles are considered the worst offenders.

"It is time that New Jersey adopt the Clean Car Act. There is no more important issue facing our state than the quality of the air we breathe," said Assemblyman Patrick Diegman, District 18.

The act would bring the California Emissions Program (LEV II) already in place in New York, Massachusetts, Vermont and Maine to New Jersey. NJPIRG estimates the act would reduce smog-forming pollution by 19 percent and air toxins by 23 percent.

The legislative session ends Monday.

All that jazz

Highland Park celebrated the start of summer Sunday with a jazz concert and street fair.

 cost $750 to $1,000 a pop, give off a bluish glow and are reportedly brighter and longer lasting than conventional headlights.
 The high-powered headlights are also in vogue with the street racing crowd whose demand, inspired by the souped-up lowriders on display in the summer blockbuster 2Fast 2Furious, fuels the thefts.
 "If you see a '92 Honda Civic with these high-intensity lights, chances are they stole from an auto parts store," said Scott Kendrick, estimator for State Farms Insurance Co., referring to a popular street racing model.

 Kendrick reports that although the headlights are being stolen from Nissans, they do not need to go back in a Nissan. Thieves can separate out the most profitable components of the headlight assembly, the bulbs and igniters, which can then be installed in a consumer's vehicle of choice.

Edison Police Department spokesman Michael Cimino said of the headlights, "They're a hot commodity right now. They steal expensive parts and unload them for a profit."
 Ryan Salonia, a spokesman from State Farm Insurance, said the insurance company has noticed a specific trend relating to Nissan Maximas, "Yes, we are seeing a trend. It's picked up over the past few months... and from the claims side of things, they're expensive to replace."

 Kendrick said that the cost of damage depends on the skill of the thief and reported that the repair costs of the three stolen headlight claims he's processed in the past week had ranged from $2,900 to $3,300.

Some car owners are trying to avoid the hassle altogether, said Kendrick. He relayed the story of a Nissan owner who requested that her xenon bulbs be replaced with regular bulbs to avoid future thefts. But the cost of customizing the vehicle with standard bulbs is prohibitive and would not deter thieves who have intently focused on late model Nissans as their target.

"We know this will continue until the manufacturer figures out how to effectively deter thieves," said Frank Kuehn, vice president of government relations for the Mid-Atlantic AAA.

In the meantime, Officer Cimino advised all Nissan owners to back into parking spaces, exposing their front end and any would-be thieves to all passersby. "That way, they're going to be much more obvious."

Cimino also urged residents to look out for thieves as a favor to fellow car owners saying, "It's hard to believe no one can see anyone steal these things at a shopping mall."

Edison council tentatively boosts its municipal tax rate by 3.9%

By KATHLEEN G. SUTCLIFFE
STAFF WRITER

EDISON — Council members considered a resolution this week tentatively setting next year's municipal tax rate at $0.71 per $100 of assessed value.

The proposed tax rate represents an increase of 3.9 percent from last year, raising taxes by $46 for the average assessed property of $170,000.

But the proposed tax rate won't be considered official until the municipal budget, which hasn't yet been introduced to the council, is adopted. The details of the budget are still being finalized, but township officials say the budget will most likely be introduced at the next council meeting on July 23. In the meantime, approval of the proposed tax increase will enable the township to continue operating.

In addition to the proposed municipal tax rate, residents' July tax bills will reflect a school tax rate of $1.89, a county tax rate of $0.49, and a local open space tax rate of $0.01 per assessed $100. The $0.13 school tax increase which voters approved on April 15 constitutes the bulk of the overall increase of $0.16 which brings the tax rate to $3.10 per assessed $100.

At Monday's council work session, council members applauded the municipal budget's increase while bemoaning the external factors affecting the overall tax hike.

"The lion's share of the tax bill is the one we can't control," council member Anthony Massaro said.

"No matter how hard we work on this budget, no matter how many tax points we squeeze out of it, it's not going to matter that much because of the other tax shares," Council member Joan Kapitan added.

County health department receives grants

The Middlesex County Public Health Department has received notification of two grants from the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection — Office of Local Environmental Management for $165,543 and $75,000. The larger grant will be used to support and augment Middlesex County's ability to respond effectively to chemical, biological, and radiological emergencies.

The funding will be utilized by the Hazardous Materials Unit of the Public Health Department for additional equipment and to enhance capabilities. The equipment will facilitate on-site identification of chemical, biological, or radiological contaminants.

The second grant will be used to purchase equipment and a trailer for use in support of mobile hospital decontamination as well as for enhanced emergency site operations.

Public Health Director, David A

Papi, indicated that, "It is our hope that we will never have to utilize all of the capabilities that we now possess. We would be remiss, however, if we did not fully prepare to protect the health, safety, and well-being of all of our citizens."

 have been found, and carrying the soil back to their homes on their clothing and bikes. Mannino assured Holtermann that the PCB levels in these areas "do not pose a risk to recreational users." It was agreed though to put up more signs in the area warning people not to eat any fish they catch.

After sitting through more than two hours of testimony, Stephanie and Dan DeMico, who live on Arlington Avenue and whose rear property was found to have the highest PCB level recorded on a borough residential site, 44 parts per million, said their questions went unanswered.

"They didn't really give us the long-term effects, they wouldn't tell us," said Stephanie DeMico, who wants the EPA to re-sample both her grounds and inside her home. She also said she is concerned about the health consequences of the PCBs saying her dog, who plays in the contaminated area, has developed growths.

Dee Faro, though, said she thought the EPA "did a good job" explaining things. She also said that she was concerned for her young daughter's health.

Eric Holtermann said he was concerned about children playing along the banks of the Bound Brook, where low levels of PCBs

This led to an extensive exchange with many residents who expressed concern about PCBs migrating. Mannino admitted the EPA has no data on the fenced-in perimeter of the site but said areas within the site were paved and planted to prevent dispersal. Sandy Severini, who lives near the site, said she would sleep much better at night if the perimeter were actually monitored.

Eric Holtermann said he was concerned about children playing along the banks of the Bound Brook, where low levels of PCBs

Veteran cops watch as sons join police force

By CHERYL ORSON
CORRESPONDENT

SOUTH PLAINFIELD — The sons of two veteran police officers were officially hired and sworn in by the borough during the council's June 19 regular public meeting.

The new officers, Peter Papas, 22 and Shaun Clifford, 24, are the sons of Patrolman Joseph Papas and retired Union City police officer Lt. William Clifford. With such backgrounds, both men said they have a long and proud tradition of family community service to live up to.

"I'm very excited. I can't wait to get to work. I've always wanted to be a police officer," said Peter Papas just prior to his induction ceremony.

"I've wanted to be a police officer for a long time and it's a goal I've finally realized," said Shaun Clifford, who added that he was honored to serve the community.

The fathers of both men said they look forward to seeing their sons follow in their career path.

"He'll fit right in," said Joseph Papas of his son. "He'll do good on the force in his own right."

"He's always made me proud and I'm proud he's carrying on the tradition," said William Clifford of his son. He added that the swearing in was one of the proudest moments of his life since his son's birth. "And he has me to lean on and advise him. I'm glad he's chosen this career, he's ideal for it, he has the mettle for it."

Though both new officers have a hire date of July 7, they will not both be joining the force at the same time. While Papas is a police academy graduate, Clifford still needs to go through this additional training.

Papas, a 1999 graduate of South Plainfield High School and the Ocean County Police Academy, is already a certified police officer who previously served in Seaside Heights as a Class 2 Special Police Officer. He will begin his field training with the borough police department on July 7.

Clifford, a graduate of Manchester High School and Stockton College where he earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Criminal Justice, previously worked as a professional fraud investigator for St. Paul Insurance Co. in Edison. He is scheduled to attend the Somerset Police Academy from July 7 through December before beginning his training on the borough force upon his graduation.

The council and Mayor Daniel Gallagher congratulated the new officers, welcoming them to the borough force.

Piscataway honors 2 retirees

By CHERYL ORSON
CORRESPONDENT

PISCATAWAY — Retired Board of Adjustment members Eugene Bower and Ed Wapinski were honored by the township with resolutions during the June 17 council meeting.

Bower, appointed in 1992, was honored for serving 11 years on the board while Wapinski, appointed in 1987, was honored for serving 16 years on the board. Both served as volunteers and were not paid.

Councilman Mark Hardenburg, a former board member himself, said "it's not always fun" with some of the meetings running late.

"To hang in there for 11 years and do the type of job that he has done is a real achievement," said Hardenburg of Bower. "He really has given outstanding service to the township," agreed Councilman James Stewart of Bower. "It's volunteers like him that really make this a wonderful place to live."

Of Wapinski, Hardenburg said if 11 years was outstanding, 16 years was even more outstanding. "It's amazing how volunteers in Piscataway continue to serve over long periods of time," said Hardenburg, who added that this helps give stability to the township.

"It's really great to see people get involved in the town and continue to stay involved," Huben said.

Councilwoman Millie Scott said Wapinski was "really, truly a model volunteer," and added that some people don't stay in a job that long even if they're getting paid.

Wapinski thanked the council for the opportunity to serve and said he greatly appreciated the honor. Bower, a man of few words, said he was "surprised and very happy and honored."

Give blood, food, over the summer

There's a serious drought this summer. With record rainfall this month, it's not a drought that's turning our lawns brown or emptying our reservoirs. It's a drought of a life-giving fluid — blood.

Every summer, as people become busy with leisure-time activities, the amount of blood being donated sharply declines. That worsens an already sad situation; over the years, the number of people who donate blood has fallen. Now only an estimated 2 percent of eligible donors give blood. Unfortunately, that means more blood is being used than is being collected.

It's easy to give a pint of blood. It's not painful and it takes less than a half hour. Many safeguards are in place to ease whatever worries one may have. There is nothing to fear about giving blood. Once you discover how easy it is to donate blood, you may find yourself donating perhaps as many as 5-6 times a year.

According to the American Red Cross, a pint of blood can save five lives.

All residents between the ages of 17 and 75 should think about giving blood. If you have any questions about your eligibility or the procedures involved, you can call your local Red Cross chapter, your local hospital or New Jersey Blood Services at (800) 933-2566.

Businesses, churches and other community groups are also encouraged to sponsor blood drives this summer. New Jersey Blood Services or the American Red Cross would be happy to work with you to organize a drive in your neighborhood.

In summer, when most of us are thinking about going to beach or having barbecue, we tend to overlook our obligations to the community. Food banks report a drop in donations and so do blood banks. But hunger and the need for blood do not go away in the summer — that's why it is important to give generously of ourselves during the summer.

Giving blood is one of the most charitable acts that a human can do for another. Someone's life may depend on whether you can give a little of yourself.

Board right to ban student's T-shirt

To The Editor:

In the past, I have been critical of the Edison Board of Education; I have found it necessary to challenge some decisions I thought illogical. I write this letter today, however, in support of the board concerning its decision to ban a student from wearing a T-shirt that said "Whaq Iraq."

This slogan condemns all people from Iraq and not just those in power against whom the United States declared war. This alone makes this T-shirt one of hate and not one of a political statement. And, it makes a statement against many honest and worthy individuals living in our community.

However, if there are those who do not see it this way, then let me put it another way: If "Whaq Iraq" is protected under the banner of a "political" statement, then so would other hateful diatribes like "Whack the Jews" or "Smack the Gays" or "Crack the Puerto Ricans." And, anyone who wears anything like this in the Edison public schools would need to be protected under our "Constitution," or at least that is the apparent thought of our Republican council candidates who have saddened me a great deal by coming out in support of this ludicrous impending lawsuit.

Again, I commend the school board for its decision in this matter. I just hope that they stick by it no matter who decides to propagandize the issue by jumping on the bandwagon.

Election run is called rewarding

To The Editor:

This year, I once again had the opportunity to participate actively in our political system by running for office in the June primary. The experience was one of the most empowering and rewarding of my life. Being a candidate provides an unequalled opportunity to really learn about one's community, to meet new people, to engage with the issues and to empower others to find their voice in public affairs.

So few people today even vote, let alone consider running for office. Presidential elections, which have the largest voter turnouts, rarely bring out more than 50 percent of the voting population. This is genuinely sad because it means half or more of those eligible are choosing to give up any voice in government and public policy, usually because they feel that nothing they say or do can make a difference.

Running for office has taught me otherwise. By actively taking part in the system, candidates can bring issues they feel strongly about to the forefront of public discussion. They can motivate people to act on their concerns, and they can influence public debate through the media to address those concerns. Today, with new communication technology such as the Internet, they can accomplish these things even without spending large sums of money.

Some people view the campaign process as negative and traumatic, a punishment that is endured rather than a meaningful and joyful experience. I would urge such people to reconsider and offer my example as evidence that campaigns can be uplifting and rewarding. Not once during the three times I ran for office did I experience any negativity or "downside." My campaigns have been some of the most positive chapters of my life, and I am definitely looking forward to running again.

The bottom line is that every person can make a difference. I urge everyone to register, vote, volunteer for campaigns, and consider running for office. Making these choices will invigorate our democracy and might at the same time initiate the most meaningful experiences of one's life.

New Master Plan will choke Edison

To The Editor:

The mayor recently said that by 2005 under the new changes Edison will be built out with a projected population of 105,000 residents. The mayor clearly has not studied his own Master Plan. Between the Revlon site, Frigidaire, Middlesex County College property, Air Products and the entire Raritan Center property, he is proposing possibly 5,000 housing units! Simple math puts a projected population at more than 17,000 additional residents, which will bring Edison's population to nearly 120,000 residents. If he is right about Edison being built out at 105,000 residents, we will be busting at the seams.

Bob Diehl, the Township Council liaison to the Master Plan Committee, attended only three Master Plan meetings over the course of two years. The council will be asked to approve the official zoning map and any zoning changes that will negatively impact our quality of life. Mr. Diehl's absence sends the wrong message to the administration and council members.

The introduction of the Master Plan states that "Numerous public meetings were held to elicit public comment and address concerns relative to land planning in the township." This statement is totally untrue. Yes, we were assured by Mr. Diehl that we could air the pros and cons of the new master plan on Channel 22. Also, the areas in town most affected by the proposed changes should have been notified and informed with neighborhood meetings. Instead the public will have one opportunity to speak out uninformed at a July 2 Planning Board meeting.

With the changes to our township being so dramatic one would think that our leaders would seek to explain how these changes will affect our future. Instead the plan is intentionally being forwarded in a cloak of darkness. The mayor states he has a vision, but his vision lacks details. Mayor Spadaro, along with the entire Township Council, needs to produce detailed information on how this will affect our lives now and in the future.

I feel as though the entire Master Plan Committee was formed as a cover for our township's elected officials. We have made recommendations over and over without consideration. Neither Mr. Diehl nor Mayor Spadaro took the time to detail the Master Plan map during the long process. All the changes the committee has made with respect to housing have been reinserted in the plan by Mayor Spadaro and forwarded to the mayor's Planning Board for adoption.

Planning Board let residents down

To The Editor:

The Piscataway Planning Board has once again let the people of Piscataway down. They have voted to grant bulk variances for a townhouse development, which will increase sprawl and traffic along a dangerous curve on a congested River Road.

I'm referring to the approval of Jeanette Corp.'s proposal for 16 townhouses at the historic River Bend site, currently a Golden Key Realty office. The townhouses will also place new residents right next to the Raritan River, which experienced horrific flooding following Hurricane Floyd in 1999.

Mayor Brian Wahler and Councilman James Stewart both won their elections on campaign promises to combat sprawl and traffic. They did not attend the meeting to cast their ballots. Had they been there and voted in accord with their promises, the variances would have been defeated. Shame on them.

Getting off the derailed Love Train

These are the four words you dread the most to hear from her: "We need to talk."

Once these words fall from her lips you know the romantic jig is up. Kaput. Finis. Adios. Hit the highway, Jack.

What you realize is "We need to talk" really means "I have something to say. You better listen and no matter what you say, I'm not going to change my mind." She is going to talk and you are going to listen because the "we" in "we need to talk" is about to dissolve.

You are defenseless. She has plotted the platitudes and shined the clichés. You really don't pay as much attention as you should because you're too busy thinking — this can't be happening to me! You are aggravated and aggrieved, bewildered and befuddled, confused and contrite, dejected and demoralized, eradicated and erased, frustrated and fretful...OK, you get the idea. You want to react with sangfroid, but you don't know what it is.

She says she loves you as a friend. Great. That's an interesting concept. You now have the same rank of love as rocky road ice cream (how ironic!), her Winnie the Pooh slippers, Yanni and the lucky argyle socks you wear for job interviews. You remind yourself to place a "Loser on Board" sign in the back window of your car, which is now known as the Loserobile.

She assures you it's not the end of the world, but what does she know about the apocalypse? You know you won't be able to listen to love songs on the radio for 23 days; instead you will burn a CD with a continuous loop of J. Geils' "Love Stinks." You know you will wake up at 4:37 a.m. Tuesday wondering what went wrong (you were only following the orders of Commandant Cupid.) She loves you as a friend and wants to stay your friend. That's the sort of emotional abstraction that only works on sitcoms and in the over-excited pages of Cosmopolitan. Chances are if you do remain friends, she will tell you about that really cool guy she's hanging out with, now dating and eventually spending the weekend in Cape May with because she tells you everything. You listen with meaningless nods like an Adam Sandler bobble-head doll. Afterwards, in the privacy of the Loserobile, you will gnaw on your knuckles. You will never fall in love again ("All passengers exit the Love Train at Libido Junction for the Heartbreak Hotel.") You will grow old and become a neighborhood eccentric.

She says there are serious communications problems. You know of many relationships that have become tangled, festered, withered, then die on the barbed wire of semantics. You vowed it would never happen to you, but it has. You realize you're an emotional illiterate. Why can't lovers talk in Esperanto? You want to tell her that Dr. L.L. Zamonhof invented Esperanto in the late 1800s so that people from across the globe could speak with a single tongue and be free of the imperialistic oppression of a conquering language. You want to tell her "Esperanto" means "one who hopes." But it will do nothing to change the outcome.

You want to make a gracious exit. You wish you were Gene Kelly so that you could tap dance down the stairs from her apartment and swing from the lampposts. You wish Noel Coward would enter the scene with a silver tray of martinis. The three of you will be sitting on the divan, passing olives without using your hands as the curtain falls to the sound of glistening laughter. You want to say something memorable, but all you can think about is getting home in time for SportsCenter because, at this point, that's the only thing in the universe you can rely on. You don't want to cry. You don't want to wince with pain. You don't want to make a fool out of yourself. You want to be a man — whatever that means.

Suddenly the right words arrive. But it's too late. You're already gone.

Open space panel chair opposes Master Plan elements

To The Editor:

The Edison Township Open Space Advisory Committee has been part of the Master Plan review process since July 2001. We have reviewed and given our comments on the first seven drafts of the Edison Master Plan to the administration and Master Plan consultant, Schoor DePalma.

The eighth draft of the Master Plan is the version that was given to the Edison Planning Board on April 14. At the same time the eighth draft was given to the Open Space Advisory Committee for continued review and comment.

After reviewing the eighth draft, and discussing it at our June 5 meeting, the Open Space Advisory Committee has two kinds of comments. One is a list of errors, omissions or other detailed comments that should be incorporated before the Master Plan is adopted. The second, more serious type of comments follows:

— The Open Space Advisory Committee does not endorse the omission of a housing element of the Master Plan. The committee recommends that a housing element be shown in the Master Plan as a separate element, even though it may be incomplete. When the judge who has jurisdiction over the township's affordable housing commitment releases his determination, that finding can be incorporated into the Master Plan in the housing element.

— The Open Space Advisory Committee does not endorse residential uses on the Revlon mixed use site. Such residential uses were not recommended in draft No. 7.

— The Open Space Advisory Committee does not endorse residential uses on the Air Products "compact mixed use" site. Such residential uses were not recommended in draft No. 7. The committee feels that this site is too small for a mixed use. The committee recommends that the Air Products site remain OS or GB zones consistent with adjacent uses.

— Until the Army Corps of Engineers certifies that the property is free of munitions and hazardous toxic waste, the committee does not support residential use on the former Raritan Arsenal property on Woodbridge Avenue due to contamination in groundwater plumes and buried munitions at the former arsenal.

— The Open Space Advisory Committee does not support the Middlesex County College efforts to sell a portion of its campus for residential use.

— The Open Space Advisory Committee recommends that any residential uses in the Raritan River Revitalization District (or, as shown on the maps, the "Riverfront and Center Revitalization District") be concentrated in a small seaport village setting, along the Raritan River, and nowhere else in that district. (The boundary of this district was also expanded from draft No. 7.) The committee also recognizes that this location is part of the former Raritan Arsenal and recommends that no approval for residential uses be given until after the Army Corps of Engineers certifies the site is free of munitions, hazardous and toxic waste. The committee additionally recommends that the Master Plan text for this district mention the recent work that the township is doing to turn the Edison municipal landfill from a brownfield to a greenfield.

— The Open Space Advisory Committee does not endorse the use of terms in the Master Plan that are not commonly understood, unless they are defined and are included in a glossary of terms in the Master Plan. Terms such as "New Urbanism" and "rational nexus" are not commonly understood and need to be defined.

— The Open Space Advisory Committee has been tracking the township's purchase of open space for the past three years and recommends that the tables, text and maps of the recreation and conservation elements of the 2003 Master Plan be updated with the newest acquisitions up to the date on which the final version of the Master Plan is adopted. This would give the most accurate accounting of open space parcels. Examples included but are not limited to the December 2002 Middlesex County acquisition of the Middlesex Greenway, a tract of more than 20 acres, and the recently acquired parcel on Meyer Road.

We offer these comments based on almost two years of intensive work and discussion on the new Master Plan with the intent of making this an excellent guide for the development of the township over the next decade. We look forward to working cooperatively with the Planning Board during this final phase of the Master Plan process.

Program paves way for non-English-speaking tots

By LIBBY BARSKY
CORRESPONDENT

SOUTH PLAINFIELD — A new program designed for students starting kindergarten whose first language isn't English is being offered during summer school. The classes run for two hours and continue until July 17. Thirty children are eligible for the classes and 16 are in the program, said Schools Superintendent Robert Rosado.

"Prior to this year we never did anything for kids coming into kindergarten and we found that many of our kids were having language development problems because the language at home isn't English. If it's not their native language they fall behind," said Rosado.

"We are trying to involve every student," added Rosado, who is still contacting parents to have their children in the class.

In the past, the summer school classes have been for pre-school handicapped and elementary students who need remedial work in basic skills, reading and speech. This summer, high school students will be able to take Advanced Academics — a program covering English and Social Studies for credit. An SAT prep class is also available.

Tractor-trailer snaps guide wire, causing outage, damage

SOUTH PLAINFIELD

A tractor-trailer, owned by Old Dominion Trucking of Springfield, Ill., and operated by Richard Governale, 52 of Edison, struck a cable guide wire snapping a telephone pole as it entered the parking lot at Roosevelt School June 18. The accident caused power outages within sections of the school. Within 20 minutes of the incident,

Police Log

A vehicle, owned by Mary Spisso of South Plainfield, was damaged when an insulator for the power lines fell on her vehicle on Jackson Avenue near Evona Avenue, where Spisso is a crossing guard.

Three homes also sustained damage. The homes at 111 and 127 Jackson Ave. had the electrical service ripped from the homes. The home at 131 Jackson Ave. was damaged by water when the sump pump failed due to the power outage.

All of the children, who were scheduled for early dismissal as part of the year-end calendar, were escorted to the gym where they were dismissed at 1 p.m.

You can find perfect pets at Shake-A-Paw

For 11 years, Jeff Morton, owner of Shake-A-Paw, has been finding homes for puppies and kittens.

Morton learned dog grooming and obedience training and owned several St. Bernard's and Old English Sheepdogs and cats. Morton brings his experience to work for his customers. Shake-A-Paw features more than 90 breeds of puppies and kittens.

Shake-A-Paw, located at 14 Route 22 West in Green Brook, has an open-cage environment, allowing puppies and kittens to socialize. Shake-A-Paw's belief is that early socialization of a puppy or kitten is one of the most important aspects of raising a well-adjusted adult pet. Shake-A-Paw's unique open cage environment allows young animals to play and be loved. The constant exposure to children and families helps to assure a happy and well-adjusted companion.

Shake-A-Paw buys its puppies and kittens from private breeders in the tri-state area, hobbyist breeders and USDA inspected and approved kennels. Every animal arrives at Shake-A-Paw with a health certificate from the breeder or kennel's veterinarian and only after an examination by the store veterinarian is your new pet ready to go home.

Shake-A-Paw also has hypo-allergenic breeds for allergy sufferers and offers a comprehensive warranty. Customers can also special order breeds of puppies not carried at the store.

For more information about Shake-A-Paw, call the store at (732) 968-2522 or visit the store's web site at www.shakeapaw.net.

American Asphalt will take care of driveways

Business has been fantastic since American Asphalt Sealcoating (AAS) opened a new branch in South Plainfield last year.

The Ohio-based company, which has branches in six states, has been renovating driveways for more than 15 years. Its seal-coating service was ranked No. 1 in the nation by Pavement Maintenance magazine.

AAS's coal tar and asphalt-based sealant protects driveways against the elements better than those oil and latex products available to the average do-it-yourselfer, according to Matthew Russell, a service consultant for the company. "Our product is three times more concentrated than anything you can buy out of a bucket," he said.

By using AAS, homeowners get a good-looking and long-lasting weatherproofed driveway. The company's fully-insured workers use only top-quality, mechanically mixed sealant and are trained each year at the company headquarters to ensure a professional job.

Village Construction can meet all your needs

Village Construction Services L.L.C., of Middlesex is a full-service construction company which is owned by Michael, John and Anthony Vizzoni.

The three principals have been raised in families that have been in the construction and real estate development business since the early 1970s.

This second generation of builders have each put in about 15 years with the family business in various capacities. With their years of experience in the construction business, the three have decided to venture into other segments of the real estate market and put their expertise to use through the Village organization.

Recognizing that the lifestyles and needs of individuals and families such as theirs change over the years, the three owners have entered into the home addition, renovation and remodeling business.

Whether a homeowner is part of a growing family and needs additional space in a home, or a homeowner wants to create that perfect kitchen or home office for a spouse, or needs an additional bedroom or playroom for a visiting grandchild, or wants to create a living quarter for an elderly parent who may need assistance during his or her twilight years, Village is there to meet all their customer's construction needs.

If perhaps a customer has found that perfect property and wishes to build their dream home, Village can also undertake the entire construction process.

With their vast experience in the construction industry and their access to only the best subcontractors and suppliers, the three business owners can assure cost-effectiveness without ever compromising quality so as to meet any budget, whether large or small.

The three are able to use their talents and expertise to make every aspect of a customer's home development needs, from start to finish, a success that the Vizzonis are proud to attach their name to.

Satisfy your taste at What's in the Ice Box

People are not satisfied with just meat and potatoes anymore. Tastes have become more sophisticated as people become more and more familiar with different cuisines from throughout the country and the world. As tastes have become more diverse and sophisticated, it's become increasingly difficult to find those special ingredients and other gourmet foods at the local supermarket. But What's in the Ice Box can fulfill all your gourmet needs. According to owner Ceil Brody, the key to What's in the Ice Box success since its opening in 1991 has been the individual attention the courteous and knowledgeable staff gives to every customer. The staff is able to meet the specific needs of each customer, from custom gift baskets to catering a single dish or a full-scale sit-down dinner. The staff will even use the customer's own recipes if requested. The joy that Brody experiences in serving customers and satisfying their gourmet needs is shared with every customer. "Even after 11 years, I still look forward to opening the store every day," Brody says. What's in the Ice Box is located at 392 Route 22 West, Green Brook. The telephone number is (732) 868-0280. Hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

You will be surprised at World Dollar

One never knows what can be found at World Dollar Market in Middlesex. Located at 736 Union Ave., the popular store has only been open since July 2002. "We'd like to thank the community and our loyal customers for their ongoing support during our first year," they said. "We will continue to provide an enjoyable shopping experience to our friends and customers." Among the many items the store sells are plastic-ware, pet supplies, crafts, party supplies, beauty and health products, gardening tools, painting supplies, electronics and cords, jewelry and toys. The Bercaw family — Joe III, Mom Sue and Joe Jr.

Eagle Fence and Supply has 'the best customers in the world'

With a family background in the fencing business that dates back more than 35 years, Eagle Fence and Supply, 3220 Route 22 West, Branchburg, provides a full assortment of products and services for fencing, landscaping and much more.

Eagle Fence and Supply was started by Joe Bercaw III after graduation from Syracuse University. Joe III had worked with his father, Joe Jr., on crews all through his teens and during college. He has also attended the American Fence Association Field Training School in Waco, Texas.

Joe Jr. has been in the fencing business for more than 35 years. He sold his own company about 12 years ago to join the family business full time, bringing his expertise to outside sales, both commercial and residential.

Mom Sue had also worked for another large fence company before the opening of the Route 22 location 17 years ago. She runs the office and performs inside sales, as well as helping to design specialty fencing for individual customers, particularly "those who dare to be unique."

The 2.5 acre site on Route 22 features a large fence inventory stocked year round. Eagle offers delivery, service and a hassle-free refund policy. There is a wide variety of fencing, including chain link, PVC, post 'n' rail, split rail, slipboard, aluminum, custom wood, lattice, electric and 8-foot high deer fence.

But there is more to the business than just fences. The business also has a selection of pet kennels and pet houses, wooden lawn furniture, sheds, gazebos, swing sets, playhouses, as well as a large assortment of arbors. Eagle Fence and Supply even sells holes. The Dandy Digger is "the ultimate hole digger."

Because the business is family-owned and diversified, it can offer customers a unique combination of experience, expertise and selection.

All the members of the Bercaw family believe the same thing: "We have the best customers in the world!"

Eagle Fence and Supply is open 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday. The phone number is (800) 262-EAGLE (3245).

Landscape Materials devoted to homeowners

Doug and Patti Urbano worked to evolve a family-owned business into a one-stop landscaping and construction supply superstore.

"We've been in the landscape materials business for 16 years and have enjoyed serving the community," said Patti Urbano.

Landscape Materials, located at 311 Roycefield Rd. in Hillsborough, sells everything for your home and garden needs including topsoil, decorative stones and gravel, pavers, mulch, grass seed, fertilizer, dramatic outside lighting and gardening tools.

From its inception in 1986, Landscape Materials has devoted itself to the homeowner spending time with the customer to understand their project so they buy the correct materials and have knowledge of what they are doing.

Their helpful and friendly attitude is used toward the professional contractor customers as well to get them in and back out on the job quickly. Landscape Materials tries to stock what contractors commonly need and can get what they do not stock.

Landscape Material, Inc. is open 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. For more information contact the store at (908) 252-1550.

FAMILY OWNED BUSINESS

Boyt's is a fixture in downtown Metuchen

Boyt Drug Store, 411 Main St., Metuchen, started as a thought in 1936.

Harry Belafsky started working in a drugstore. For three years, he worked to save enough money to attend pharmacy school three years later. In 1941 he graduated from Rutgers College of Pharmacy and enlisted in the U.S. Navy as a pharmacist mate. He was wounded in the action in the south of France while serving on a PT boat and shipped back home in 1944. He went to work for Arnold Boyt, his pre-war employer, in South River in 1945 upon discharge after V-J Day. And married Miriam Friedman in 1945.

Looking to open his own store Harry and Arnold heard Metuchen was a nice place to work and to live and on Dec. 10, 1948 Boyt Drug Store opened for business.

Boyt's (the Belafskys) have seen many changes in Metuchen in the 27 years of partnership as well as changes in their pharmacy does business. In 1948 and up until 1961 there was a complete soda fountain in the store with five booths in addition to 16 stools. In 1981 a fire completely destroyed the store leaving only the pharmacy records that were saved by the Metuchen Fire Dept. and in only two days Boyt's was up and running in a trailer in the parking lot behind the burned-out building.

In only four months, Boyt's was in a building in the same location. This was a terrible time in which great risks were taken and much hardship was endured, but with the support of our loyal customers and the town of Metuchen Boyt's survived and changed.

In 1975 Harry and Arnold dissolved their partnership and Harry became the sole owner.

The Belafskys' concept in 1948 through to the present day has been to provide superior customer service to all, serve the community in which it belongs and give back to the churches, synagogues, civic organizations and charities that have helped Metuchen to grow over the last 51 years.

Boyt's loyal workforce has included future doctors, actors, submarine commanders, fighter pilots, ministers, pharmacists, lawyers and many other young people who went on to great things. Their loyal customers have included celebrities, doctors, lawyers, politicians, housewives, artists, authors, clergymen and just plain citizens of Metuchen and Edison. The current staff includes three people with over 30 years of tenure at Boyt's.

New to Boyt's are expanded vitamin, herbal and homeopathic sections, which undergo continuous change through the research of Don Belafsky along with Marty Fisher RP, chief pharmacist. In addition, Joyce Barry RP. Together they attend seminars and reassert the latest findings to provide good answers to alternative therapy and to dispel or enforce any new information about controversial vitamin or herbal treatment.

Our pharmacy technicians, often answer the phones Barbara Cruz, Diane Hendricks, Lauren Atkinson and Tina Than or our fine sales associates Debbie Berg and Carol Wilson.

Don, Judi and Oksana Bokala (Gift Dept.) travel to the entire best gift shows to ensure that Boyt's has a unique selection of giftware that cannot be found in malls. Along with the winter gift catalog a new spring gift catalog Boyt's provides those special gifts in a downtown, Main Street environment in which shopping is safe and easy. Many customers are called on a first name basis their needs attended to with promptness and courtesy that one cannot find in any mall or any chain store.

Council and school board discuss technology sharing

By LIBBY BARSKY
CORRESPONDENT

SOUTH PLAINFIELD — Board of Education Vice President Sue Peck and Mayor Daniel Gallagher will discuss the feasibility of sharing a "Wide Area Network" (WAN) fiber optic system.

"An agreement to share services will benefit the borough and it can get county dollars," said Peck.

The Board of Education has been attempting to install, and sought bids for, a fiber optic system to link all the district's school computers and provide Internet access. At the same time, the borough has been exploring ways to expand its computer systems to link all borough services.

The original specifications for the system called for burying the fiber optic cable; however, the cost was prohibitive. Installing the cable on poles was deemed as effective and cheaper.

The Board of Education rejected bids on the underground system on June 17.

According to board member Kenneth LaFreniere, the board will be asking the three vendors who are certified by the state of New Jersey to install fiber optics, to provide above-ground bids for the system.

Emphasizing the concept of shared services, the board approved a resolution at last Tuesday's meeting expressing its appreciation to the Borough Council for obtaining a state grant of $322,000 for sidewalks on Belmont Avenue near Roosevelt

Elementary School.

A related resolution endorsing the efforts of the governing body to complete the Helen Street Project that would remove a "significant portion of truck traffic from the Belmont area and ... improve the safety of students at Roosevelt Elementary School" was also approved by the board.

The resolution referred to U.S. Sen. Jon Corzine's recent meeting with borough officials at which he endorsed the Helen Street Project, which would redirect trucks away from Hamilton Boulevard. The resolution thanked the senator for his support and urged him "to do whatever is possible to ensure total funding for the project and to assist in expediting any or eliminating all regulatory requirements for the monies."

Summer is prime time for families to be on the move

By JAMES M. WOODARD
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Summer is the most popular season for families with children to move because they want generally to settle in to their new residence and community in time for the new school year.

Children are often apprehensive about making new friends and entering a new school. They're leaving friends and a familiar community and entering totally unfamiliar territory. This can be quite traumatic for youngsters.

Parents can help their children adjust to a new community and routine. Here are a few suggestions:

Take your children to their new community on one or several pre-move trips. While there, visit points of interest for the children, such as their new school, the close-by library, sports stadium - even a pizza parlor.

Contact appropriate organizations in the new community and schedule your child for participation in a library function, sports league, art class or other community activity.

Participating allows the child and parents to make friends more quickly and easily, find new friends who share their interests and form positive relationships.

Visit the new school as a family to meet administrators and teachers and learn about the school's schedule and general layout.

These steps were suggested by Nan Jespersion, a relocation expert working with RE/MAX Real Estate. She recently consulted with psychologist Thomas T. Olkowski in producing a video made for children by children. The video, "Kids' Survival Guide to Moving" is available via the firm's Web site at www.remax.com.

Q: How long should mortgage rates be "locked in"?
A: Mortgage rate lock-ins are confusing to many consumers when they are applying for a mortgage loan or to refinance an existing loan.
An interest rate lock-in is simply a lender's promise to hold a certain rate for a specified period of time while the loan application is being processed. Typically, a rate is locked in from 30 to 90 days, but the period could be shorter or longer.

It should be noted that a lock-in is not the same as a loan commitment. A loan commitment is the lender's promise to make a loan in a specified amount at a future time. In most cases, such a commitment is offered after the application has been approved.

The interest rate lock-in period should be long enough to cover the average time for processing loans in the area. Also, any special factors that might delay the settlement of a loan should be considered.

The lock-in is important to the consumer because it provides assurance that the interest rate will not increase while the loan application is being processed - that is while work is under way to prepare, document and evaluate the loan application.

In some cases, the lender charges a fee for the lock-in. Often that fee is nonrefundable.

"Reasonable lock-in fees are a justified method for a lender to protect his financial interests," said Michael Levy, president and chief executive officer of Home Savings Mortgage, a mortgage banking firm based in Oxnard, Calif. "Considerable time is expended by the lender's staff during the processing procedure, and not all loans are accepted and closed. However, our firm generally does not charge such fees."

Lock-ins work well for consumers when the prevailing interest rate creeps up while the loan is being processed. But when rates go down during that period, some applicants start shopping for another loan with other lenders.

In cases where interest rates have dropped during the lock-in period, it is in the consumer's best interest to discuss a possible lowering of the rate with the lender processing the loan. An adjustment in the rate can often be arranged.

When applying for a mortgage loan and determining the timing and length of a lock-in period, there are many personal factors that should be considered. It is important to discuss it in detail with a loan officer.

Q: Why are there hardly any large ranch properties on the market?

A: An increasing number of successful and affluent business and professional people are choosing to leave the city for life on the wide-open spaces of a large ranch or farm. But a growing problem is the diminishing number of such properties that are available for purchase.

In recent months, there has been a considerable amount of renewed interest in what are called "trophy ranches," according to seasoned ranch broker Ted Schaal with Mason & Morse Ranch Co. of Aspen, Col.

There are few large ranches in accessible area for sale that have a history of good cattle production, outstanding scenery and excellent hunting and fishing. Because so many people want a first or second home in rural areas, many large ranches have been divided into smaller parcels. Hence, fewer trophy ranches.

Also diminishing the number of large ranches is the fact that a number of ranchers have sold conservation easements on their properties to protect them in perpetuity from development. This allows the owner to stay on the land and continue ranching.

For the buyer with a high gross income, the conservation easement is a good tool to help defray some of the income tax bite, Schaal said. For example, Schaal cited the Fortune Ranch in Colorado that is currently on the market.

The property includes more than 14,000 deeded acres, comprised of eight individual parcels - three of them being connected by State lease land or National Forest land. The deeded and leased acreage for the ranch is more than 34,000 acres.

More tips for families on the move

HILLSBOROUGH — To leave familiar surroundings and start a new life in an unfamiliar place can be scary and stressful for children. Without guidance, kids can develop emotional issues that prevent them from adapting happily to their new environment. Fortunately, there are positive steps parents can take.

Joe McDonald, Weichert, Realtors' regional vice president, offers the collective wisdom of Weichert's nearly four decades of helping transitioning families turn those small frowns upside-down.

Be Positive. The key ingredient in easing stress and helping your kids accept a move is you. Children will often emulate the moods of those close to them. So, right from the start, parents should launch an atmosphere of excitement and adventure. Your children will be swept up in the positive spirit and accept the move much more easily.

Make It Real. The more real you can make a move, the more you reduce your children's fear of the unknown. Involve your kids as early as possible in your decision to move. Take them house-hunting, or visit the new neighborhood and take a tour of the schools, playgrounds, video and toy stores, etc. Or, check out the area on the Internet or library.

Be a Team. Help the kids feel part of the family

by involving them in as many aspects of the move as possible, such as participating in age-appropriate tasks, planning their new room décor, packing their own bags, and so forth. Encourage involvement and questions.

Keep Connections. Saying goodbye isn't quite as hard on kids if they can keep a connection to their friends. Kids can gather friends' phone numbers and email addresses, and take photos. Likewise, they can hand out their own contract information at their new home. Photos or videotapes can also be taken of your kids' rooms, the house you're leaving, favorite places, etc. All of these will be warmly appreciated later.

Reduce Change. Try to lessen the impact of change by maintaining continuity of your children's interests. Enroll your kids in the same activities in their new school and community that they currently enjoy, such as baseball, clubs, or band.

Maintain Comfort. When moving into your new home, set up the kids' rooms before anything else to establish feelings of security, control and normalcy. Try to maintain your usual schedules of dinnertime, bedtime, rules and regulations. Give your children special attention and room to express themselves and adjust.

Each family's solution to moving stress will differ, based on the size of the family, age of the children, distance of the relocation, or reason for the move. Likewise, each child's psychology is different, and parents should watch for any persistent behavior out of the norm, such as signs of distress, continuing bad moods, changes of usual habits, lying, emotional outbursts, depression, disturbances with friends or in school.

"Overall," says McDonald, "let common sense and love rule the day. Listen to your children and be there for them, and you will find that settling into your new house will be a positive moving experience for all."

Post 435 sweeps to push winning streak to 5

NO. BRUNSWICK — With its offense apparently in mid-season form, Post 435 has gotten off to a great start.

After dropping two of its first three decisions, Edison made it five straight victories in the National Division of the Middlesex County American Legion Baseball League with a sweep of a double-header from North Brunswick 16-3 and 12-2 Tuesday night.

In boosting its record to 6-2, Edison remained a half-game behind division-leading Old Bridge, which owned a 6-1 mark through Tuesday. Head Coach Chris Banos, who guided Post 435 to a 20-10-1 in his first season last summer, likes the way his squad has been playing of late.

"I'm very happy with 6-2 at this point, although we could easily be 8-0," he said. We struggled a little bit with our hitting early, but lately the offense has started to come around. I knew we'd be able to hit, but I thought it might take us a while.

"If we hit and pitch we're pretty good. The defense has played pretty well. We've only made six errors so far. I'm not worried about the defense. I think it's pretty good. Our pitching has been our strength, and if we keep getting good pitching we're going to be tough to beat."

Whether the pitching is enough to win the division remains to be seen, but Banos likes the makeup of the staff.

"I'd like to think we can win the division, but there are some pretty good teams that could win on any day," he said. "I think if we play our best we could be the team to win it, but I think any one of four teams could win. I would be disappointed if we didn't make the playoffs.

"As far as depth goes this is the best staff we've had since probably 1999. That team had Bob Brownlie and probably had five all-county pitchers. This one ranks up there if they pitch like they're capable of. If the pitching comes through we're going to win some games because I think we're going to score some runs."

Edison has five quality starters in Edison High's Brian Cirri (1-1), Kevin Dalton, Billy Alec (1-1) and Ryan Klouser (2-0) and Highland Park's Joe Augustine (2-0), while Alex Abelo and Brian Zavistoski will see action in relief. Banos is also hoping to get Robert Hrapisky of Highland Park back from an injury.

Doing the catching is Kyle Hart, who along with Abelo, Cirri and Zavistoski were 2002 Edison High graduates and were eligible to return, while Derek Gianakas can also play there as well as centerfield.

Mark Blevins and Jake Schuck, who have played together for a while, form the middle infield with Blevins at shortstop and Schuck at second, while Mike Shymanski plays third. Augustine can also play short, while Abelo, Alec and Dalton share the job at first base.

Lucas Cittone, another player from Highland Park, Mike Manfre, and Klouser play the corner outfield positions as does Hrapisky.

Post 435 received two excellent pitching performances against North Brunswick (2-5-1), although they were hardly needed as Edison pounded out 16 hits in the opener and then came back with 11 more in the nightcap.

Alec went the distance in the first game and scattered eight hits while striking out two and walking one, while Klouser had a complete game in the six-inning second game, spacing six hits, striking out five and walking none.

Blevins singled, stole second and third, and scored on Abelo's sacrifice fly in the first inning in the opener, while Gianakas snapped a 1-1 tie with a three-run homer in the fourth inning.

Abelo finished 3-for-4 with five RBI and three runs scored, hitting a two-run homer in the sixth and a two-run double in the seventh, while Blevins went 3-for-5, scored three times and knocked in a run. Shymanski (1 RBI), Zavistoski (1 RBI) and Klouser had two hits each and Schuck contributed a two-run single during an eighth-run seventh.

North Brunswick took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning in the second game, but Edison scored a run in the bottom of the inning on a double by Dalton and Manfre's RBI single before taking command with a seven-run second. Schuck and Alec delivered two-run singles and Manfre added an RBI single.

Alec collected three hits in four trips, while Hart singled in a run in the fourth and Zavistoski had a two-run single in the sixth to end the game.

Supersonics excel in AAU regional

NEW BRUNSWICK — With spots in the nationals on the line, the Supersonics came through in impressive fashion this past weekend despite some bad weather along the way.

Competing in the AAU Region I Track & Field Championships at Memorial Stadium, more than 30 members of the Supersonics earned at least one top-four finish to qualify for the AAU Nationals, which will be held July 23-30, at Eastern Michigan University.

Piscataway High standouts Collene Cumberbatch, Michelle Losey and Ayana West all turned in solid performances in the Intermediate Division (15-17 years old), including a gold medal in the 1,600-meter relay in 4:03.98 with Danielle Brown as the fourth member of the squad. That group also took second in the 3,200 relay.

Cumberbatch also claimed gold in the triple jump with a top effort of 31 feet, 11 inches and placed second in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles in 1:14.3, while Losey and West finished second and third, respectively, in the 400 meters.

Brown finished second in the high jump and fourth in the intermediate hurdles, while Aisha Shaw, another Piscataway High student, placed third in the discus and fourth in the shot put. Alicia Presley was third in the 400 hurdles.

Asja Goode had an outstanding meet in the Sub-midget Division (11 years old) as she captured first places in the 200 meters in 26.82 and the 400 in 1:03.36, while she ran on a leg on Briana Barlow took the 100 in 13.12 and Tylia Gillon was second, while those that pair and Goode combined with Alexandria Ridley to take the 400 relay. Barlow added a second in the 200, where Ridley placed fourth.

Kia and Kyla Williams teamed with Quaneeka Davila and Timber Times to place second in the 400 relay behind their teammates, while the William sisters combined with Ridley and Nadia Hernandez to take runnerup honors in the 1600. Hernandez added a silver medal in the 800, while Kayla Williams was third in the 400.

Symone O'Connor had a strong showing in the Youth Division (13-14) as she captured the gold in the 400 in 56.83, placed second in the 200 and third in the 800.

Sadiki White captured three gold medals in the boys Midget Division (12) as he won the 400 in 59.67, the 800 in 2:18.73 and the high jump at 4-8. Toodrick Darden was second to White in both the 400 and 800.

Josh Cumberbatch paced the field event competitors for the Supersonics with a gold in the Youth Division's discus with a toss of 122-7/4 and a second in the shot put.

Also on the girls side, the Bantam (10 years old) 400 relay team of Yakira Carpenter, Yamika Carpenter, June

Post 261 wins two to up mark to 5-0

MIDDLESEX — Despite not having played for a full week, Post 261 did not look rusty at all in its return to play Monday night.

Facing a winless Middlesex squad, Piscataway improved to 5-0 in the American Division of the Middlesex County Senior American Legion Baseball League by sweeping a double-header 10-1 and 14-2.

David Hemmerly pitched the opener and breezed through a two-hitter with seven strikeouts and one walk for his third victory, while a trio of pitchers combined on a five-hitter in a six-inning game in the nightcap that dropped Middlesex to 0-6 for the season.

With last week's bad weather wiping out the rest of the Post 261 schedule after winning June 16, Head Coach Tony Danella was happy to get something of break. The start is also considerably better when a 1-3 getaway cost the team the regular-season title.

"It was nice for us that Middlesex is down a little bit this year, so we didn't have to come in a face one of the league's top pitchers after being off for a week," he said. "I think these games should get us ready for the rest of the week."

"Without a doubt I've very pleased to be 5-0 at this point, but I'm not happy with only having played five games. We want to win every game, do I don't think a loss at any point is good. Even when some of our younger kids play we expect to win and play well."

Piscataway had a game scheduled for Wednesday against John F. Kennedy, which improved to 6-1 Monday night for a share of first place, while it will face South Plainfield in a twinbill starting 5 p.m. tonight before hosting Iselin 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Although it did not play for a week, Piscataway got some bad news when it was learned Marcus McArthur will miss the season with a knee injury, which will hurt the team both on the mound and at the plate.

"This should be a tough stretch for us coming up, and we'll see how good our pitching staff is, especially without Marcus," Danella said. "It's a big loss for us because he hit well during the high school season, and he was going to come in here and be one of our top pitchers."

"Carlton, of course, will start to get more starts, and guys like Brandon Renkart, Matt Goumas and Matt Goumas will get more work. We know we'll score some runs for our pitchers, so we'll see what happens. We'll set our rotation and we'll stay with it no matter who we play."

In the opener against Middlesex Ray Rose singled in the game's first run and Renkart followed with a sacrifice fly as Piscataway scored twice in the top of the first inning and that

Clara Barton facing schedule backlog

EDISON — Post 324's scheduling problems grew a little larger Tuesday night.

Despite the warm and sunny weather Monday and Tuesday, Clara Barton had its game against Middlesex postponed when its field was ruled unplayable by the umpires. It left Post 324 with nine games to be replayed.

"I'm (nine) games in the hole now," Head Coach Bill O'Leary said. "Where J.P. Stevens is there's a swamp right now. I'm looking at my schedule and I definitely have two of them rescheduled. Fortunately of the 18 kids I have 12 of them pitched in high school, but then again not many of them have pitched in a while."

The last pitcher to work for Clara Barton, which had a game set for last night at Iselin and was slated to return to Stevens tonight against Carteret, was Eric McCormick. McCormick went 6 2/3 innings when Post 324 edged South Plainfield 9-8 June 17.

Clara Barton struggled against a young Post 243 team, but rallied from an early 6-1 deficit to improve to 3-2 as McCormick survived despite allowing nine hits as he struck out four and walked four. Kevin Mulvey fanned the only batter he faced on three pitches for the save.

"Eric hadn't pitched since opening night," O'Leary said. "He didn't have his best stuff, but he hung in there. I give South Plainfield a lot of credit. They're a scrappy club, and they're not going to roll over just because it's Clara Barton. We had a number of chances to break that game open and didn't get it done."

Bobby Beyer singled and scored on an error in the top of the first, but South Plainfield answered with two in the home half on Steve Turrise's RBI single and an error, and then went up 6-1 after two innings. Chris Bakazan doubled in two runs, while Danny Piowar singled in a third.

Clara Barton began its comeback with a three-run fourth as Beyer doubled in a run and Brett Augustine, who was 3-for-3, and Justin Braverman singled in a run apiece. In the fifth Post 324 scored four times after three batters were hit by pitches. Augustine and Beyer drew RBI walks, Braverman had an RBI single and Tom Battista was hit by a pitch to force in the go-ahead run.

Clara Barton added an insurance run in the seventh on Battista's run-scoring single, and it needed the extra as South Plainfield scored on a double by Matt Santone and Kyle Kazimir's single before leaving the bases loaded. Turrise and Piowar had two hits apiece for Post 423.

South Plainfield had games scheduled for Tuesday, Wednesday and last night in a bid to improve on a 2-3 start, will visit Piscataway in a double-header tonight before hosting Carteret tomorrow.

Edison 9, South Brunswick 1 — Brian Cirri (1-1) tossed five innings of three-hit ball with four strikeouts and four walks and Brian Zavistoski tossed two hitless innings of relief as Post 435 coasted past South Brunswick (1-3-1) Monday night to improve to 4-2 for the season.

Edison pushed across three runs in each of the first, fourth and fifth innings as it collected nine hits. Derek Gianakas singled in a run in the first inning after Mike Shymanski had doubled home a pair and then belted a three-run homer in the fourth.

Kyle Hart drew a bases-loaded walk in the fifth when Edison took advantage of walks and errors. Shymanski collected three hits in four trips.

CLINTON — After stumbling for the first time in their previous outing, the Bulls took a hard fall last Thursday night.

Coming off a 6-5 loss to Montgomery that snapped a season-opening four-game winning streak, North Plainfield-based Ball-Kirch Post 265 dropped a 10-0 decision to powerful Clinton in Somerset-Hunterdon American Legion Baseball League play to slip to 4-2 for the campaign.

Ball-Kirch, incredibly, out-hit Clinton 5-4 but the hosts took advantage of a combined seven walks by starter Chris Bumback (0-1) and reliever Paul Ignoscia along with four errors. Bumback walked three and struck out four in four innings as he left trailing 4-0.

Ignoscia then saw the game fall apart in the fifth frame with him on the mound when a two-out error with nobody on base opened the door to four unearned

(Continued from page C-1) Trailing 3-2 entering the seventh inning, Edison scored twice to edge Old Bridge June 16 as Joe Augustine earned his second victory without a loss with a complete-game seven-hitter in which he fanned 11 and walked five.

Kevin Dalton followed walks to Alex Albello and Shymanski with a run-scoring single to tie the game, while the winning run scored when a ground ball to second was bobbled. Lucas Cittone, who collected two hits along with Shymanski, singled in a run in the first.

runs as Clinton used three walks and three errors to break open the game without getting a hit in the inning.

When the home club added two runs in the top of the sixth to end the game by the mercy rule, it was the fourth straight time the Bulls had been 10-runned by Clinton.

Offensively, Nick Cesare had a great game against Clinton with a 3-for-3 performance but only two other Bulls managed hits as Clinton used four pitchers to produce the shutout.

Ball-Kirch ran its record to 4-0 with a 13-4 rout of Alpha June 16, but then lost to Montgomery the following night 6-5 in a game that saw the Bulls nearly overcome a 5-0 deficit.

Montgomery 6, Ball-Kirch route-going one-hitter and 10 strikeouts as Edison improved to 2-1 with an easy victory over South River.

Dave Zavistoski collected three hits for the winners, while Bryan Elvina added a pair and drove in a run. Jack Sernal delivered a two-run single and Setphano Vargas stroked a double.

Fords VFW 5, St. Joseph's 4 — Trailing 3-2 and down to its final out in the top of the seventh inning, Fords VFW tied the game on a throwing error and then won it on a two-run single by Doug Zimeckis to boost its record to 3-1.

Andrew Biancosino worked the first 6²/₃ innings, striking out six, to pick up the victory, while Nick Triano got the final two outs for the save after St.

Ray Lepski singled in a run apiece and Goumas delivered a two-run single. Robert Rose's RBI single, his second hit, capped the scoring in the seventh.

In the second game Derrick McCain led off Piscataway's eight-run fourth inning with his third home run of the season, while Carlton Smith later belted a two-run homer in the inning and then belted a lead-off shot in the fifth.

Post 261, which made the most

5 — Dickerson (0-1), who struck out two and walked three in five innings, surrendered a first-inning grand slam homer and a solo shot in the second to put Post 265 in a hole it couldn't come back from although the Bulls came close.

Chris Hewitt doubled on and scored on Andy Cupido's ground ball in the third inning, while Frank Veglatte delivered a two-run pinch-hit single in the sixth to narrow the gap to 6-3.

In the seventh R.J. Dilts drew a walk, while Hewitt and Cupido singled to load the bases. Kevin Hatcher walked to force in a run and Jimmy DiPaolo singled in a run to bring North Plainfield to within a run with one out, but a foul pop and a fly ball ended the rally.

Angel Roman finished the game 3 for 4 while Hewitt added a pair of hits. Cesare pitched a scoreless sixth inning in relief of Bumback.

Joseph's had pulled to within a run.

Edison 10, Milltown 3 — Jon Mendez allowed four hits and fanned nine batters in six innings to earn the victory and helped himself with three hits at the plate, including a three-run homer as Edison thumped Milltown.

Ed Meyer also homered for Edison, belting a solo shot, while Tim Ryan collected three hits and Mo Riley ripped a run-scoring double. Ryan Peterson struck out the side in pitching the seventh inning.

Fords VFW 2, JFK White 1 — Down to its final out, Ford VFW received a bases-loaded single from Anthony Santangelo and slipped past JFK. Zimeckis went the distance for the victory, striking out eight along the way.

of eight hits, got two-run singles from Goumas and Brigham Eubanks, who notched a pair of hits in his first senior division start, while Ray Rose had an RBI double.

Goumas worked three scoreless innings, striking out four, and Robert Rose pitched a scoreless sixth. In between Smith allowed both Middlesex runs on three hits but fanned four batters in his two innings.

PISCATAWAY LITTLE LEAGUE Major League

Dodgers 9, Tigers 6 — Corey Griffin delivered a two-run single in the top of the sixth inning to snap a 6-6 deadlock and the Dodgers went on to trim the Tigers June 6. Matt Fiorella allowed two runs to earn the victory, while Doug Walton, James DeChristopher and Jarred Barnes notched two hits each to pace the winning offense. Justin DeCarlo, Terrance Williams, Anthony Wilt and Scott Kinney had two hits each for the Dodgers, who battled back from 4-1 and 6-4 deficits before bowing.

Dodgers 14, White Sox 0 — DeChristopher and Walton combined on a perfect game as both struck out five in three innings of work in a victory over the White Sox May 31. Brad Lynch made a running catch in left centerfield and Kenny Blair made a play up the middle to get the runner at first for the big defensive plays that preserved the no-hitter. Fiorella knocked in five runs with two doubles, while Michael Patterson, Tyler Adams, Barnes and DeChristopher collected two hits each.

Dodgers 15, Astros 2 — Patterson and Fiorella combined for 10 strikeouts as the Dodgers beat the Astros May 30. Griffin clubbed a bases-loaded triple, while Ben Prohaska and Adams drove in two runs apiece, Dominec DiLeo and Patrick McNamara knocked in a run apiece for the Astros.

Dodgers 10, Orioles 1 — Patterson and Walton banged out three hits apiece, while Fiorella and DeChristopher combined on a five-hitter with three strikeouts apiece as the Dodgers topped the Orioles 10-1 May 12. Barnes and Lynch collected two RBI apiece for the winners, while Kevin Winslow had two hits for the Orioles.

Reds 8, Astros 4 — Cooper hit an inside-the-park homer, Anthony Sokalski had two singles, Beverly doubled and Baldwin added a single as the Reds shaded the Astros May 5. Matt Buaron stroked two hits, while Matt Thompson, Matt Recine, Mike Dziayk and C.J. Gulmantovitz each added a hit for the Astros.

Minor League

Royals 8, Red Sox 4 — Brandon Charles tossed a complete game with 11 strikeouts and the Royals made an early lead stand up to capture the American Minor League championship June 18 with a victory over the Red Sox. The teams shared the regular-season title with 13-3 records, but the Royals captured the best-of-three title series in two straight.

The Red Sox grabbed a 2-0 edge in the top of the first inning when Justin Lyons and Zack Lane singled and both scored on a double, but the Royals came back to grab a 5-2 edge and led the rest of the way. Charles had a two-run single to help the Royals go in front, while the winners took advantage of walks and stolen bases to pull away.

Royals 4, Red Sox 3 — Lee Ann Ielmini followed hits by Justin Howell, Charles and Chris Cucciniello with a three-run double and then scored the decisive run on a passed ball in the top of the first inning, and the Royals held on to edge the Red Sox in the series-opener June 16. Cucciniello went the distance for the victory, fanning nine batters. Lyons delivered a two-run single in the first after hits by Jessie Arnold and Ben Leonard in the bottom of the first.

Royals 12, Yankees 0 — In the first round of the division playoffs June 15, Charles whiffed 11 batters in a complete-game effort as the Royals eliminated the Yankees. Charles also singled in the game's first run during a three-run first inning capped by Ielmini's two-run double.

Yankees 18, Angels 10 — Connor Hollan pitched the Yankees into the playoffs with four-innings of four-hit, eighth-strikeout ball as the Yankees beat the Angels June 10. Craig Cere finished 3-for-3, drove in three runs and scored three times to lead the winning offense, while John Hanlon was 2-for-2.

Royals 13, White Sox 3 — Cucciniello whiffed 15 batters to earn the victory in a complete game and Sierra Hare had a two-run single in the first inning to give the Royals the lead for good in a triumph over the White Sox June 10.

Sharbjack, who finished with a pair of shutouts in a performance matched by Ferrante, tossed a one-hitter in the title contest as the Blue Devils trimmed the Long Island Chargers 3-0. In sweeping the competition North Edison outscored their opponents 35-2 as Maureen Sharlow, Brenna Dean and Sharbjack paced the offense.

Lindsey Brown, Caroline Vitale, Leah Ferrante and Kelly Prendergast provided strong infield play to back the pitching, while outfielders Dean, Laura Sharlowe, Mel Galella, Jessica Ballate, Ashley Krusucki and Missy Long all contributed solid play during the Devils' championship run.

Johnny Maestro and the Brooklyn Bridge will be performing Friday evening at the Forum Theatre.

Classic 1960s groups coming to the Forum

METUCHEN — The Forum Theatre Company will host the next "do-wop" and rock-n-roll concert as part of its ongoing series on Friday at 8 p.m. Performing in a crowd-pleasing double bill will be Johnny Maestro and the Brooklyn Bridge and Kenny Vance and the Planotones.

The '60s pop outfit Brooklyn Bridge was lead by Johnny Maestro, the former front man for The Crests. The group was formed on Long Island in 1968 from the ashes of local rivals The Del-Satins (a vocal quartet which included Maestro) and The Rhythm Method.

Upon joining forces as the Brooklyn Bridge, the group issued their first self-titled debut album in 1969, scoring their first Top Five hit with the Jimmy Webb composition, "Worst That Could Happen." Since then, they have had a loyal regional following as well as continuing to perform internationally for more than three decades.

Members of the band include Johnny Maestro, Fred Ferrara, Jim Rosica, Les Cauchi, Lou Agiasta, Marty D'Amico, Ed Liscandro and James Sarle.

Among today's great vocal pop musicians, Kenny Vance and the Planotones have voices of original and inviting dimension. The group, Kenny Vance, Murray Weinstock, Angel Rissoff, Kurt "Frenchy" Yahjian and Johnny Gale redefine oldies with vocal authority and freshness.

Their material is influenced by the music of the '50s and '60s but they consistently bring a unique and musically sophisticated point of view. In this sense, they are classicists, opening the eyes of a new generation to a rich historical musical style. With their cool and sultry musical approach, filtered through a Brooklyn vibe, they give a gift to long-time followers as well as those discovering them for the first time.

The Forum Theatre offers a distinctly intimate setting for this special event in its 500 seat theatre. Fans who have seen these groups perform in such venues as Madison Square Garden, The Taj Mahal in Atlantic City and Radio City Music Hall will appreciate an "up-close" experience with these gifted veteran musicians.

All tickets are $45 and can be ordered by contacting the box office at (732) 548-0582.

Cotton candy and a macho man dominate cinema scene

NEW RELEASES

"ALEX & EMMA" - The setting is Boston and is almost entirely on two sets - the big loft of Alex (Luke Wilson), facing writer's block on his second novel and under extreme pressure to pay off gambling debts, and a 1920s mansion that houses the improvised book story. Alex dictates, in glib spoonfuls of exposition, a Prohibition Era romantic trifle to his new stenographer Emma (Kate Hudson). She serves as critic and muse and perky foil. Clearly, Alex and Emma will fall in love, but this is so very clear that the story can only spin its twist of cotton candy, as the stars play with moods and zips of "inspiration." Cast: Kate Hudson, Luke Wilson, Sophie Marceau, David Paymer, Rob Reiner. Running time: 1 hr., 40 min. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 1 1/2 stars.

"THE HULK" - It's excessive and too long, but with exciting macho blows it pounds away at machismo. The nerdy, but more than sturdy scientist Bruce Banner (Eric Bana) becomes a plaintive monster, morphed by digital effects into a furious green giant. The Hulk doesn't merely leap tall buildings in a single bound. He springs over Wile E. Coyote canyons and falls from the upper atmosphere into San Francisco Bay and turns huge U.S. tanks into twisted toys. "The Hulk" presses on like a Wagner opera of "Fight Club." You can end up pulverized and satisfied, whipped and wowed. Cast: Eric Bana, Jennifer Connelly, Sam Elliott, Nick Nolte, Josh Lucas, Paul Kersey. Running time: 2 hr., 15 min. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 3 stars.

RECENT RELEASES

"BRUCE ALMIGHTY" - One more bulldozing "concept" comedy, with silly outtakes at the end. It uses some of Jim Carrey's amazing gift for physical humor, playing a TV news goofus who yearns to become an anchor and, sinking fast, is loaned divine powers by God (Morgan Freeman: Who better?). Sadly, there is no shape or style; smart gags like a "Ten Commandments" spoof are followed by dumb ones like the shots of a dog urinating, and more time is found for gummy uplift than for Freeman and Carrey to overlap their remarkable talents. 1 hr., 45 min. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 2 stars.

"The Incredible Hulk's" box office revenue will make anyone green with envy.

"DOWN WITH LOVE" - She's ginchy, pink and perky, she's the "writer" as cupcake (Renee Zellweger). In the JFK '60s, she falls for a swingin' grabber guy, acted with oiled hair, shark smile and nips of wit by Ewan McGregor. He's like Tony Randall promoted to Rock Hudson, but has his own Randall stooge (David Hyde Pierce) and the real Randall also appears. Director Peyton Reed loved snapping the retro plastic twinks together, the decor and old songs. Some fun, but this is a candied mothball. 1 hr. 36 min. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 2 stars.

"DUMB AND DUMBERER: WHEN HARRY MET LLOYD" - True to title, this idiot prequel to the 1994 hit (quite a funny movie) is stupefyingly juvenile. Erik Christian Olsen (as Lloyd) and Derek Richardson (as Harry) are endurable facsimiles of original stars Jim Carrey and Jeff Daniels, but with talents miniaturized.

Eugene Levy and Luis Guzman are wasted. The plotline about "special ed" kids is awful. 1 hr., 22 min. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 1 star.

"FINDING NEMO" - Not since "Bambi" has an instant Disney family classic caused such species guilt. The joyously animated Pixar package tells of a clownfish dad looking for his wee son, who was netted for a tank (neat touch: in a dentist's office). Exciting liquid adventures, sporty wit, a grand span of fishy life and fine voicing, especially by Albert Brooks and Ellen DeGeneres. For all its fun, the movie arrives as news floods in of collapsing marine populations around the world. Maybe this charmer is a wake-up call? 1 hr. 41 min. (Elliott) Rated G. 4 stars.

"HOLLYWOOD HOMICIDE" - A cheesy action lark, with Harrison Ford huffing and grimacing as an LAPD veteran whose young partner (Josh Hartnett) prefers yoga and acting; this demure boy-toy (women ambush him) yearns to be Stanley Kowalski. Ron Shelton, who did valid films years ago, directed with assaultive banality. Along with a rap score, there's a plot hook about black performers ripped off by a black producer, who even murders them - some take on history! Hollywood has rarely seemed such an available old tart. "Homicide" is suicidal. 1 hr., 44 min. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 1 star.

"THE IN-LAWS" - Remake of a fairly funny 1979 film with Peter Falk and Alan Arkin, in which a casually insane CIA agent involves a wired-tight dentist, whose daughter is to marry the agent's son, in an escalating series of sub-rosa intrigues. The 2003 version offers Michael Douglas in the Falk role and, perhaps on the premise that feet are funnier than teeth, Albert Brooks as a podiatrist. Douglas and Brooks measure up, but the filmmakers miscalculate by putting the best stuff up front: This kind of movie has to keep upping the goofiness, and 2003 has nothing to match 1979's Central American dictator talking through a hand puppet. Running time: 1 hr., 38 min. (Salm) Rated PG-13. 2 stars.

"THE ITALIAN JOB" - A sharp remake (the 1969 original is now little remembered) with a swift heist in Venice, updated speed thrills, but the little Mini Coopers are back and niftier than ever. A chilling villain (Ed Norton), and blithe crew of crafty heisters looking to avenge their beloved leader (Donald Sutherland): Mark Wahlberg, Charlize Theron, Mos Def, Seth Green, Jason Statham, all crisply propelled by F. Gary Gray's breezy, beautifully timed direction. Despite some implausibles and an overdone soundtrack, this is a classy caper show. 1 hr., 51 min. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 3 1/2 stars.

"THE MATRIX RELOADED" - Another gusher of effects, bland hyperviolence and "mythic" plot, strictly for rabid fans of the 1999 hit. Keanu Reeves barely acts (a blessing), looks chic, seems to be ruled by an epic fate fathomed only by computer nerds in some parallel universe. The Wachowski brothers made it on a huge budget, treat females as toys, load on glossy visuals, multiply the coldest villain. Even Laurence Fishburne, his cranium bulging with belief, ends up puzzled. "To be continued" this fall. 2 hrs., 18 min. (Elliott) Rated R. 2 stars.

"RUGRATS GO WILD" - Another giddy splurge of show-biz synergy, this Nickelodeon pairing of the TV Rugrats and Thornberys has cute spoof bits ("Taxi Driver," "Titanic," etc.), childish poopie humor and rampant verbal attitude. Animated by pure formula, with little story, it seems right for the very young, but prematurely jaded. 1 hr., 24 min. (Elliott) Rated PG. 2 stars.

"2 FAST 2 FURIOUS" - 2 dumb 2 often. A loud, force-fed sequel to the 2001 street-racing hit, which had the sass and pop of good pulp. Now the pulp is a cheapo crime story in Miami, with likable, but light Paul Walker partnered by the hunky smiler Tyrese. Generic thugs are led by a sado-narco creep (Cole Hauser). The races are nothing but editing in overdrive, and the aroma is from dumb old Florida movies like "Tony Rome" and "Band of the Hand." John Singleton did hack direction. 1 hr., 44 min. (Elliott) Rated PG. 1 1/2 stars.

"X2: X-MEN UNITED" - Another bloated dolt, festooned with special effects that zip by so fast they provide little satisfaction. Bryan Singer directed this sequel, as industrially cold as its title. Hugh Jackman, Halle Berry, Famke Janssen, Rebecca Romijn-Stamos add their faces to costumes, while Ian McKellen and Patrick Stewart are contending Old Mighty Wizards, their Brit accents trading pompous, grammatical blows. The film is a mugging. 1 hr. 40 min. (Elliott) Rated PG-13. 1 1/2 stars.

'Sleeping Beauty' will open summer season at Forum

METUCHEN — The Forum Theatre Company's program for children, "A Kid's Forum," now in its 7th season announces an exciting 2003 summer schedule that brings classic children's stories to life on stage.

The summer season opens July 1 with an adaptation of the French fairy tale, "Sleeping Beauty" (playing through July 19). It is the story of Princess Beauty's encounter with a scary fairy and her eventual rescue by an overzealous Prince Charming. This show has the double advantage of action and wit to make the occasion not only pleasant for children but also enjoyable for adults. The production is directed by A Kids Forum Artistic Director, Ellen Beattie who directed the past productions of "Sword in the Stone," "Charlotte's Web" and "Beauty and the Beast."

Opening next is "Jack and the Beanstalk" (July 21 through Aug. 2), the tale of a young boy's adventure when he climbs an enormous magical beanstalk into the land of the giants. Brimming with wit, adventure and warmth, this exciting production offers intriguing special effects to tickle the imagination. "Jack" is directed by Forum Theatre co-founder and Producing Artistic Director Peter Loewy.

Playing from Aug. 5 through Sept. 27 is "Goldilocks and the Three Bears." This offbeat retelling of a little girl's misadventures when she wanders into the Three Bear's home features delightful twists and turns. After "breaking and entering" the Bears' home, "vandalizing" Baby Bear's chair and "stealing" food, Goldilocks is put on trial by the animals of the wood.

The audience serves as the jury in this whimsical production written and directed by Paul Whelihan. Whelihan wrote the books for and directed A Kids Forum productions of "A Winnie the Pooh Christmas," "The Velveteen Rabbit," "Thumbelina and Other Tall Tales" and "James and the Giant Peach."

Performance times are Tuesdays and Thursdays at 10 a.m., Wednesdays at 1 p.m. and Saturdays at 11 a.m. Some added performances on Sundays and Fridays are on the schedule and can be found on the theatre's website (www.forumtheatrecompany.com) or by calling the box office at (732) 548-0582.

All musicals are recommended for children ages 2 and up. All seats are reserved. Ticket prices are $12 for everyone with discounts for groups of 20 or more. Camp groups, daycare centers, Boy Scout and Girl Scout Troops as well as other organizations are all encouraged to book early for best availability.

A Kids Forum productions are performed by professional actors (members of Actors' Equity Association, the union for professional performers) with live music, colorful sets and imaginative costuming. Cast members meet and greet the children after each performance, signing autographs and having their pictures taken with new friends from the audience. The Theatre is also available to host birthday parties.

'Ya Gotta Hear This!!'

Singer and songwriter Buddy Mondlock will perform in the Watchung Arts Center Folk Concert Series "Ya Gotta Hear This!!" at 8 p.m. July 25. Tickets are $10. Colonial Symphony will feature a new season of transition BASKING RIDGE — It's a year of transition for the Colonial Symphony of Morristown, which recently announced its 2003-2004 season.

After 15 years, the Colonial's beloved music director, Yehuda Gilad, has stepped down, but returns in the role of Conductor Laureate to be one of four guest conductors for the coming season. As always with the 53-year symphony, the season will feature outstanding soloists, beautiful classic works, and well-chosen new works.

On Saturday, Oct. 18, George Marriner Maull, the dynamic leader of the Philharmonic Orchestra of New Jersey, will conduct the season-opening concert with works by Franz Joseph Haydn, Arcangelo Corelli, Mozart and Bach. Joining Maull is the premier harpsichordist in the tri-state area, Edward Brewer, who will be the guest soloist for Bach's "Concerto No. 1 in D minor." Brewer, whose live performances and critically acclaimed recordings can often be heard on New York's classical radio stations, is known as a "consistent and artful" performer according to the Star Ledger.

On Saturday, Dec. 6 the holidays begin with conductor Raymond Wojcik, the former music director of the Garden State Philharmonic, as he conducts a gorgeous serenade by Dvorak, two light-hearted Vivaldi concertos and a special treat — a world premier work by Colonial Symphony's composer-in-residence David Sampson. The spectacular flutist Eugenia Zukerman will be the guest soloist for the Vivaldi concertos. The multi-talented Zukerman is "one of the finest flutists of our time," according to the Boston Globe. New Jersey's leading oboist, Richard Foley, known for his rich and haunting tone, will be the guest soloist for the David Sampson premiere.

The Saturday, April 3, 2004 concert welcomes back Colonial Symphony's former music director, Yehuda Gilad, for the spring concert. America's "First Lady" of piano, the legendary Ruth Laredo, is the soloist for Robert Schumann's "Concerto in A Minor."

This three time Grammy nominee is known worldwide for her recordings. Completing this beautiful concert is New Jersey composer Trent Johnson's work, "Dances for Orchestra" and Sergei Prokofiev's "Symphony No. 1. Classical."

On Saturday, May 8, 2004 legendary conductor David Gilbert, former conductor of the American Ballet Theatre, former assistant conductor of the New York Philharmonic, and music director for the Greenwich Symphony, returns to the Colonial Symphony for a fun-loving season finale. Audiences will get a treat when composer, musician, author and satirist Peter Schickele, renowned for his humorous performances, narrates Camille Saint Saens's delightful "Carnival of Animals." For an added tickle, Schickele will conduct his rollicking work "Uptown Hoedown." The concert will also feature Beethoven's "Symphony No. 8 in F Major," one of Beethoven's personal favorites.

Don't miss a single concert! Subscribe now and save. Subscriptions for the 2003-2004 season are available for four concert series for $150, $115, and $80; or a three concert series for $115, $85, and $60. Single tickets are $42, $32, and $22. Students in grades K-8 are free with a paying adult. Students in high school and college are $5. For tickets, call the Colonial Symphony at (908) 766-7555.

All concerts are held at the Community Theatre, 100 South St. The concerts begin at 8:30 p.m. with a pre-concert lecture hosted by 'the voice of Lincoln Center,' Martin Bookspan at 7:30 p.m.

For additional concert information, contact the Colonial Symphony at (908) 766-7555 or visit our web site at www.colonialsymphony.org.

Duke Island to host Somerset County's Party in the Park

BRIDGEWATER — Families are invited to enjoy this year's Party in the Park 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Sunday at Duke Island Park, Old York Road, near the bandshell.

This annual event is sponsored by Somerset County United Way, the Somerset County Park Commission and Wegmans.

"This year's Party in the Park will feature all kinds of free events, including children's activities, samples and demonstrations, tips on how to beat stress and more," said Deanna Keller, senior manager of community initiatives for United Way. "The event is designed to raise awareness of health and safety issues and, at the same time, be a fun event for families. Entertainment will be provided by the Hoop Wizard as he works magic with a basketball and by the band, Saturday Night Fever."

Local health and human services organizations will be on hand to educate people about the services they offer. They will also be publicizing volunteer opportunities and ways for people to get involved in community service. And, local businesses in health-related fields will be offering free samples of their services.

Visitors can help their community by participating in one of the hands-on projects at the event: decorating flower pots and planting a flower for the elderly, and writing a message to America's veterans on a giant mural that will be delivered by the Elizabeth Snyder-Continental Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution to the patients at Lyons V.A. Medical Center.

Visitors can also help local food banks by bringing a non-perishable food item to donate. They will also have the opportunity to donate blood at the New Jersey Blood Services Blood Mobile and to register as an organ donor with The Sharing Network of New Jersey.

"We hope to see a lot of people at event," said Keller. "It's a great way to kick-off your summertime activities and, at the same time, learn more about being safe and living a healthier lifestyle."

For more information about Party in the Park, call United Way at (908) 253-6512 or visit SomersetOnline.org. In case of inclement weather on that date, you may call (908) 722-1200, Ext. 351.

Last year's Party in The Park attracted hundreds of happy families.

Music on vinyl show in Springfield is set for Sunday

SPRINGFIELD — Most people haven't really thought about what happened to those millions of records and LPs printed from the early 50s on — were they thrown out? Stashed in attics? Do people care? There are many people who do care, and they can be found browsing through thousands of vinyl "platters" at record shows.

Compact discs debuted in the early '80s and less than 10 years later, record sales had dwindled to a mere trickle. Or had they?

Club DJs are constantly searching for fresh grooves on vinyl for their mixes. Record collectors, those purists on the prowl for gem mint LPs and covers, never went away.

Lately, a crop of popular television shows that focus on antiques and collectibles and their potential value has rekindled interest in all things "old" including that box of LPs and 45s hidden at the back of the closet.

One place where all of these collectors converge is at record shows, such as the one being held at the Holiday Inn on Route 22 in Springfield, June 29.

"The show is just as popular as the first day it was held in this location, over 10 years ago. That's because we have just about anything anyone would want — from 50s rock through music collectibles and videos — all kinds of music-related items," said show promoter Dave Lenz, who has more than 20 years experience in the retail music business. "Really, vinyl is just as hot as ever. Maybe more so, as people in their 20s are 'discovering' the old record player stuck in a corner of the closet and realizing that instead of paying $18-$20 for a new CD, they can pick up maybe a dozen LPs for the same money. That, and the fact that quite a few small independent record stores have closed their doors means that record shows are one of the few places to find records."

Although music videos, CDs and tapes abound at record shows at cut-rate prices, the main thrust is records — affordable LPs, rare 45s and unusual albums.

The show on June 29 runs from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. at the Holiday Inn, Route 22 West in Springfield. Admission is adults $5; seniors $3; kids under 12 admitted free.

For more information on the Greater New Jersey Record Show, or selling one's records, call Lenz at (908) 925-9667 or e-mail: GNJRecordShows@aol.com.

Vintage fire truck show in Manville on Saturday

MANVILLE — Dukes Park in Manville fills up with vintage fire engines 10 a.m. Saturday, June 28.

That's when the Antique Fire Apparatus Association of Central New Jersey holds its 10th annual Fire Apparatus Show under the trees along the Raritan River.

For many families the event has become a favorite June activity. Everyone loves to see the lovingly preserved and polished old trucks on display. Many spout great plumes of water as it is drawn from the river.

There is always an opportunity for would-be firemen to try their hand with a fire hose at the hands-on demonstrations specially designed for youngsters.

"Lots of moms and dads like to aim the nozzle, too," said Richmond Shreve, a show organizer.

Much of the apparatus to be exhibited is of museum quality and depicts the evolution of firefighting over the past 100 years. Some of these were in service in the community, like a 1960 Mack pumper from Somerville.

Trophies are awarded to the apparatus' owners based on condition, authenticity and completeness of equipment.

"If you want a helmet or a real fire ax for your den, this is the place to come," said Helen Burns of Piscataway, the show's secretary.

You can also get used firefighting gear, souvenir T-shirts and memorabilia at the flea market on the show site.

Hot dogs and soft drinks will be available from Manville firemen, making this an easy Saturday picnic in the park.

Dukes Park is on Dukes Parkway, just west of North Main Street near the Reading Cinemas. From Route 206 take the Dukes Parkway East jughandle near the Hillsborough-Somerville border. Follow the "Fire Show" signs and Maltese cross emblems.

Bargain hunters should delight in BMW roadster

BY JERRY GARRETT
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

BMW's discontinued Z3 roadster has left the 3-Series family. Reborn as the Z4, it's now a family of one.

What people will notice first about the Z4 is its pretty new packaging. What they'll appreciate most is that it's a blast to drive.

That's because BMW engineers have addressed a core issue with the Z3, and made the Z4 a lot easier to control.

BMW started with an all-new roadster-specific chassis, with bracing and reinforcing that make it almost as rigid as a sedan, significantly better than the Z3.

The basic intransigence of the chassis made it easier to mount suspension components, including a new multi-link rear, which stay put. Use of more aluminum in the front suspension reduced unsprung weight. The crowning touch was the addition of an electric power steering unit.

Steering dynamics - such as on-center feel - return to center and shock damping are all controlled by software installed in an electric servomotor, which replaces the traditional hydraulic pump.

Ergo, the driver needs to apply very little input to keep the Z4 going exactly where pointed.

Despite an all-new body that is slightly larger than the Z3, the lean, athletic-looking Z4 actually weighs slightly less than its predecessor.

The highly styled shape is a symphony of intersecting lines and beveled edges intended to convey classic roadster proportions in profile, a Coke bottle shape when viewed from overhead and pure BMW fore and aft. One compromise is the very low chin that is prone to scraping on curbs and steep driveways.

The Z4 features the traditional long hood, short overhangs and setback two-seat driver's compartment like its six-figure sibling, the Z8. But the Z4 is a comparative bargain in the heavily populated roadster class.

The base model, the 2.5i, starts at $33,795 - just 5 percent more than the last Z3 and with more standard equipment. An up-rated engine model, the 3.0i, costs about $7,200 more, and includes some additional standard equipment.

BMW plans on making up to 230 Z4s a day at its plant in Greer, S.C., which should be enough to avoid the dreaded "added dealer markup" attached to so many other roadsters.

BMW reports the base model traditionally accounts for about 65 percent of sales. And based on our test drive of it, bargain hunters should be pleased with their purchase.

The 184-horsepower 2.5 inline-6 is perfectly adequate for maximum droptop enjoyment. For the extra cash, the 225-horsepower 3.0 inline 6 supplies a delicious basso profundo exhaust note and 14 percent faster zero to 60 times (5.9 seconds to 7.1).

The vigorous acceleration is facilitated not only by the expanded use of aluminum in the suspension components and other areas such as the hood, but also by packaging decisions.

Run-flat tires eliminated the spare tire and its attendant bulk and mass. That in turn permitted expansion of trunk capacity by 50 percent - big enough now for two golf bags, BMW says.

The easily folded soft top is also a lesson in lightweight packaging, and requires almost no theft of trunk capacity, or intrusion upon the already snug passenger compartment. All that, plus a third layer of sound-deadening padding and a glass rear window with heating element.

Rain-sensing wipers and heated outside mirrors complete a foul-weather package that makes the Z4 a fully functional four-season form of transport. Heated seats are an option.

Leatherette seating surfaces are standard in the base model. The 3.0i comes with leather standard, but cowhide connoisseurs can shell out an additional $1,200 for a premium leather option.

All our test models were equipped with the standard leather seats, which various journalists swore were way different from vehicle to vehicle. BMW maintained we were nuts. True, but beside the point.

Prayer to the holy spirit.
Holy Spirit you solve all problems and light all roads so that you can achieve my goal. You give me a divine gift to forgive me and forget all evil against me and in all instances of my life are with me. I want this short prayer to thank you for everything. You confirm once and again that I never want to be separated from you even in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with you in eternal joy and thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. (Say this prayer for 3 days then your favor will be granted even if it seems difficult, publish the prayer adding your initials at the bottom.) JK
