The first of these is the fact that the system is not a simple one. It is a complex system, and the behavior of the system is not predictable. The second is that the system is not a simple one. It is a complex system, and the behavior of the system is not predictable. The third is that the system is not a simple one. It is a complex system, and the behavior of the system is not predictable. The fourth is that the system is not a simple one. It is a complex system, and the behavior of the system is not predictable. The fifth is that the system is not a simple one. It is a complex system, and the behavior of the system is not predictable. The sixth is that the system is not a simple one. It is a complex system, and the behavior of the system is not predictable. The seventh is that the system is not a simple one. It is a complex system, and the behavior of the system is not predictable. The eighth is that the system is not a simple one. It is a complex system, and the behavior of the system is not predictable. The ninth is that the system is not a simple one. It is a complex system, and the behavior of the system is not predictable. The tenth is that the system is not a simple one. It is a complex system, and the behavior of the system is not predictable.

It's The People

The word "People" is rendered in large, white-outlined letters. Each letter serves as a frame for a black and white photograph of students. The 'P' shows a group of students. The 'e' shows a student with a wide, open-mouthed smile. The 'o' shows a student looking upwards. The second 'e' shows a student wearing sunglasses. The 'p' shows a student looking to the side. The final 'e' shows a student wearing sunglasses.

Who Make The Place

The word "Place" is rendered in large, white-outlined letters. Each letter serves as a frame for a black and white photograph of the school building. The 'P' shows a wide view of the school grounds. The 'l' shows a tall, thin tree in front of the building. The 'a' shows a section of the school building. The 'c' shows a person walking on a path in front of the school. The final 'e' shows another section of the school building.

Metuchen High School
1982

Dedication . . .

There was a world once, that claimed as its boundaries the contours of a certain mind. This world was wonderful and plentiful. It had a scholarly love for its past, a tight grasp of its present, and a well hidden knowledge of its future.

This world took great pride in its history, establishing powerful visages of men on horses, with sword and steel, fighting for peace. It also had scenes of later battles, only the horses were now tanks, and the swords were replaced by advanced explosives, but the cause, however, was the same. There was a keen knowledge of the intricate unknowns of the great men of its history, and the events that made it work. This world's view was high and above the patterns of the average view, but it offered enlightenment to those who wished to learn.

Because it desired to touch those who needed touching, this world took on the physical embodiment of a man, and through this servant, earned admiration, respect, and love. As a man, this world helped everyone who was not as fortunate as he was, and delighted in exhibiting its keen knowledge and philosophies that would make listeners relish at the thought of a recounting. In acts of total selflessness, this man would make others laugh and learn, and from their contacts with this man, others would benefit and be bettered.

But one day, as this world knew would inevitably happen, a flower inside this place lost color and faded away. The glorious history of this world followed; and the once rampant horses were laid to rest, the tanks were dismantled, and the swords, once glittering, were dulled forever. And as a result, the physical embodiment of the ideas and knowledge of this beautiful place had to leave also, and many were shocked, and many wept. And during the pain, all questioned the equity of the passing.

As the world would teach, however, everything has its purpose, and the loss of this world is not exempt. For although the physical form of this world is gone forever, the world still exists somewhere in the vastness of the universe.

In some infinitesimal part of eternity, the world rejuvenates and lives. Horses gallop, swords are brandished, and the once dimmed torch of life burns brighter than ever, and the spirit flows. The smiles shine again, the love touches again, and the caring spreads again. For this world is now needed somewhere else, for its mission lies elsewhere. But as the memory of its past once gleamed triumphantly in this world, so does the memory of the world, in those whom it touched, remain forever. As long as the universe continues to dwell in its vastness, so will this place known as a man called Steve Ziss remain an honored and cherished memory in the hearts and minds of those who knew of this special world.

People are what MHS is all about. Bonnie Sue Fishman beams after getting back her exam, Sue Rebovich celebrates at the country fair, Elise Karvet grins through a tense moment at a soccer match, and Carl Jackson smiles in the sunshine on the commons.

PEOPLE

Our memories of MHS are of special times and special people. Individuals are remembered for their personalities and the unique contributions they made to MHS. Day after day, each of us leaves behind a small piece of ourselves. These pieces build our memories.

IN MEMORY OF ROLAND FUCHS

Leave me no space in your little boat
To pass from life to life and life.
Be content with this letter
And a handful of feathers.
Do not rescue me . . . I crave another destiny.

—Patti Smith

ZIYAD AHMAD

"The man who continuously talks has nothing, but beware of the silent one, for he has everything."

Memories: Class of '80, Zisstory, my Chevelle, my Bel-Air, 3rd period sex-ed, bowling, times spent with the gang.

Likes: fast cars, Chevies, cruising, good music, good times, honesty.

Dislikes: show-offs, liars, fakes.

TROY ALLEN

Likes: interesting females, basketball, artistic drawing.

Dislikes: too much sophistication in a woman and nosey people.

Memories: The only thing I wish to always remember is to let live and never hold back on the future.

LISA BETH ARBEITER

It was . . .

A time of innocence,

A time of confidences.

Long ago . . . It must be . . .

I have a photograph.

Preserve your memories;

They're all that's left you.

—Simon & Garfunkel

Loves: MY FAMILY, talks with Jeanne, skiing, BBQPC, reunite and killing two birds with one bonfire, P.M. with Onee & GPA, Swans.

What a long strange trip it's been.

—G.D.

BETH BAUMAN

There is a legend about a bird which sings just once in its life more sweetly than any other creature. From the moment it leaves the nest it searches for a thorn tree, and does not rest until it has found one. Then singing among the savage branches, it impales itself upon the longest, sharpest spine. And, dying, it rises above its own agony to outcarol the lark and the nightingale. One superlative song, existence the price. But the whole world stills to listen. For the best is only bought at the cost of great pain.

—C.M.

MICHELE ANNE DANTE

When we are young and look ahead,
Life seems without a worry.
We have such time ahead of us,
Yet we're always in a hurry.
And when we are old,
and rush should we,
Our spring runs down,
and down runs we.
Perhaps it all is in our fate,
To start out fast and slow down late.

—Alva Nelson (Grandma)

It was the magic year, almost gone, and it was the end of the night, and even in the beginning, the music was almost over. We can turn out the lights now. 1982 will be another year, and the distance will be greater, and there will be other things to think about.
But the man is still at the door, and the killer is still on the road. And the cold grinding grizzly bear jaws grow hotter on our heels every hour. It's time to roll.

Give a smile to someone passing, thereby making his morning glad. It may greet you in the evening when your own heart may be sad. Do a deed of simple kindness; though its end you may not see. It may reach, like widening ripples, down a long eternity. Cherish yesterday. Dream tomorrow. Live today.

So you've been to school for a year or two and you know you've seen it all

...

—Jello Biafra

TODD POOLE

Stand for the things you know are right, even though the truth will get someone up tight. Stand, don't you know that you are free? Well at least in your mind if you want to be.

—Sly Stone

Memories: me and Reem, 'you' California '79, '80, '81, BASKETBALL, 'chillin' out,' Casanova, Christopher.

DEAN POST

Grasp the yellow goblet
From the cask of '43.
Crimson tales and memories,
A hazy glimpse of me.
Give me back the wonder
Of something left to give.
It really doesn't matter
We've got much more to live.

—Neil Peart

Memories: Poinz & Princess, O.C.
with D. Virginyah!, Fla., life at D's ... many munchies & geggars.

HILARY PRAMUK

Ooh standing on a hill
In a mountain full of dreams
Telling myself it's not as hard, hard, hard
As it seems ... Ooh.

—Led Zeppelin

Why not think about times to come,
And not about the things that you've done

If your life was bad to you
Just think what tomorrow will do.

—Fleetwood Mac

Memories: family, friends, mighty Jets, music, JKO ultimate, having control over the cash at the fair.

SUSAN SHEEHY

Happiness comes from within. Being yourself can only lead to happiness.
Originality, holding onto your ideals, and believing in yourself when all else fails will pull you through.

JOSH SILVERMAN

You can lead a horse to water, but if you make him float on his back then you've got something.

I'm just a boy whose intentions are good, Oh Lord — please don't let me be misunderstood.

ANDY SLOBODIEN

Now far ahead the Road has gone,
And I must follow, if I can,
Pursuing it with weary feet,
Until it joins some larger way,
Where many paths and errands meet.
And wither then? I cannot say.

GEORGE YANIK

Think in terms of bridges burned;
Think of seasons that must end.
See the rivers rise and fall.
They will rise and fall again.
Everything must have an end,
Like an ocean to a shore,
Like a river to a stream.
It's the famous final scene.

—Bob Seger

A black and white photograph of four young women posing outdoors. Three women are standing in front of a large tree trunk, while one woman is perched on a branch behind them. They are all smiling and dressed in casual 1970s-style clothing. The woman on the left is wearing a dark sweater and pants. The woman in the center is wearing a light-colored sweater and pants. The woman on the right is wearing a dark skirt and a light-colored jacket. The woman perched on the branch is wearing a dark sweater with a white collar. In the background, a brick building with windows is visible.

GROUPS

The mixture of academics and activities blends to create a unique M.H.S. student. Activities seem to inspire and direct our talents and energies, and it is certainly not unusual to see a varsity football player also showing his dramatic abilities in the school play. By this diversity of people and interests, M.H.S. activities create expansion and enjoyment for all.

MEMORIES

Your first spoon, little socks, that special teddy bear, all kept in memory of those first innocent months.
Your toy, kindergarten picture, jumping rope, all in memory of carefree and learning years.

Year books, faded photos, pressed flowers, all as a memory of fun filled days. Old compositions, report cards, book reports, all in remembrance of sleepless nights.

Yellowed wedding dress, wrinkled napkins, old bouquets, in memory of that Special Day.

Her first spoon, little socks, that special teddy bear, all kept in memory of her first innocent months. Her toy, kindergarten picture ...
