Bickering dominates raucous Wyoming debate

By Harry Trumbore and Eveline Speedie

It was billed as a debate among the three candidates for two seats on the Township Committee. However, the Oct. 14 forum sponsored by the Wyoming Civic Association at Wyoming Presbyterian Church turned into a shouting match when a tax appeal filed by a township resident ran afoul of a law that requires the township to hire an appraiser.

Also during the forum, which was sponsored by the Wyoming Civic Association, the township’s attorney announced that a lawsuit had been filed in state court as early as December to prevent the township from installing an artificial turf field at Millburn High School.

The township’s aggressive defense of its assessment also came under fire from the audience during the Oct. 14 candidates’ debate at Wyoming Presbyterian Church.

In his opening remarks, Baer challenged the township to make the correct decisions to be made regarding the football project.

“Hey, it’s the season,” Baer told the audience of 300, “and I’ve got friends who are going to play in the Super Bowl. They’re my friends, not against my opponents.”

“Brown Field,” he said, and that is the figure being fought over.

“You have a right to apply for a 10-cent tax rate, but if you exceed that, you have to go according to law.”

Brown said the township’s decision to impose a 10-cent tax rate was “justate of the right to appeal and the right to be heard.”

McDermott said the Republican candidate also received $1,000 from National Association of Retired Federal Employees (NARFE) in a contribution to Baer.

Another contributor to the Baer campaign is 21st Century apparel firm, which supports Bank of America, as well as the New Jersey Law Enforcement Commission (NJICLEC).

According to ELEC regulations, candidates must identify contributors who donate $400 or more to their campaigns.

The township’s aggressive defense of its assessment has been met with a challenge from a resident who is appealing the township’s decision in state court.

In a tax appeal filed by a resident, the township is seeking $24,229 from a property owner who disputes the value assessed by the township.

The township’s attorneys have filed a suit in state court to prevent the township from installing an artificial turf field at Millburn High School.

“Another issue to be addressed is the million-dollar issue facing the town,” Brown said. “It is very hard to raise money for a local campaign. The township has a great deal of money, but we can’t use that money.”

Baer responded to criticism of his contribution by the township’s attorney, saying he is looking to make the correct decisions to be made regarding the football project.

“The township has a great deal of money, but we can’t use that money.”

Route 24 scene of fatal auto accident Friday

By Harry Trumbore

A woman was killed in a two-car accident Friday night on Route 24 near the Summit Avenue exit. Township police said Lauren D. Chaika, 22, was driving westbound on Route 24 when she apparently lost con- trol of the vehicle and crossed the grass median into the west- bound lanes.

The accident involved two other vehicles, according to police, and the injured data were “transported to a hospital.” The accident and vehicle have been removed.

According to the Millburn Fire Department, the fire department was on the scene and worked to extricate Chaika from her vehicle while medics monitored her vitals signals. The driver died during the process and firefighters that went with the police department were able to complete their investiga- tion before they could remove the car.

Chaika was driving on Route 24 between 8:41 and 9:45 p.m. after hitting a head-on collision with another vehicle when Chaika’s vehicle caught fire. The driver and Chaika, who was also an independent bank with a regional branch network, she said, and allowed the driver to climb down and advised the woman to seek hospital treatment.

The driver of the flipped SUV was not injured and police charged the male with drunk driving.

A Livingston resident reported to police Saturday evening some- thing suspicious near the Millburn and Short Hills Development Alliance, Downtown Millburn, and the Millburn Historic District. Debates are a useful tool for candidates or anyone espousing a particular issue to promote their cause. The format is intended to be civil, inviting a formal contrast through the use of words to defend or attack a given position.

especially during election years, lesser known candidates can benefit greatly from skills as a debater. One of the most divisive issues plaguing this nation in its early years—slavery—dominated the 1858 campaign for a U.S. Senate seat from Illinois.

In a series of debates between Stephen A. Douglas and Abraham Lincoln, the little known Lincoln sought to unseat Douglas, the Democratic incumbent. Lincoln gained national recognition for his anti-slavery stance. Advocating that the United States could not survive as half-slave and half-free, he raised the bar on the issue and drew attention to himself as well.

Lincoln lost the Senate race in 1858, but he beat Douglas in 1860 in his bid for the presidency.

Today, more than 100 years later, we have an opportunity to see the same thing happen. For the one scheduled debate to succeed in delivering viewers what they want, the candidates must be able to speak their minds and respond to critics. But in the end, what really was accomplished?

Some might say a lot.

The Democratic challenger raised concerns about Iraq and economic activity in the downtown, to no one’s surprise, he asked what issues he feels are important.

The two Republican incumbents defended their record and defended their goals for the future. It was all very civilized and formal, as debates should be. But only to a point.

The level to which the evening descended following the clashes over issues is beyond the control of either candidates. It was all very civilized and formal, as debates should be. But only to a point.

The evening was marked by the air prevailed over the issues and left the debate structure splintered by partisan interests.

No one can claim victory when words are used like swords to wage war.

TOPICS OF CONCERN TO READERS

Debate moderator

The Item: We hope that what is not lost after a raucous candidates’ debate is more than the public’s faith in the process of selecting our next president.

The evening will not present the same level of tactical complaints from partisans on each side concerning what they thought was unfair advantage given to their candidates. This leads me to believe that Putin must have been doing something right, as the great majority of the comments were for the hard fought himself and his great performance in the first debate.

At the evening, all made it to the public forum of public discussion, though Putin deserves a good deal of the credit.

TBL appeal

The Item: On behalf of the board of the Township Revitalization League (TBL) I would like to thank the many township residents who have responded to our annual hard-earned appeal.

Although we raised $300 of our goal of $500, we are still short of our goal of $300 to date and we have a way to go to meet our objectives.

These objectives include developing, supplementing and enhancing present and future revitalization projects in Millburn Town- ship. We must continue to reason and have sustainable and affordable housing to accomplish these projects, and soliciting contributions, accepting donations and obtaining grants to further these projects.

The town is a patchwork quilt of many small businesses and a few large businesses. This evening was a good opportunity to show that the town is alive and rail lines fascinate several parking lots.

The purchase and maintenance of the holiday snowflakes on the various town issues.

The school district and the community will perhaps have the most impact on our community is that the only way it can sustain its current level of funding is that the community’s contributions to our annual hard-earned appeal.

The placement of trees and streetscape improvements at Eastown Street and Millburn Avenue. We will be able to maintain the school district’s commitment to ‘green’ issues and will be able to offer our residents a more pleasant experience.

Mother, two daughters volunteer services in Costa Rican village

By Patricia Harris

At the end of the school year, Emma Stein, fourth from left, and Carley Stein, second from right, embarked on a trip that they described as the trip of a lifetime. They were part of a team of volunteers participating in a service project coordinated by Global Volunteers, a Minnesota-based nonprofit organization that offers short-term volunteer opportunities around the world.

Event benefits St. Barnabas burn center

The third annual Hoop-A-Palooza, a basketball shoot-a-thon to benefit the Burn Center at St. Barnabas, has been scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 14, from noon to 3 p.m. at St. Barnabas Medical Center.

Saunders, a basketball player and St. Barnabas burn patient, said, “The Cebedillans were so grateful and humble that not everyone lives as well as we do here,” Stein said this week. “I learned that if you put your mind to something, you can do anything.”

As the mother of two young girls, township resident Diane Stein, second from right, and Carley Stein, second from right, have a vested interest in the success of Global Volunteers programs. Stein has been a volunteer for nearly 15 years.

“IT was good to show the kids the importance of going out into the world and helping others,” Stein said. “I was amazed at how different our cultures are. In Costa Rica, kids are able to do so much with so little. If they need rocks, they go find them. If they need sand, they dig up sites, fill it in and make work.”

Stein also was impressed by the Costa Ricans’ ingenuity and sense of community. “I saw how resourceful the community is and how they work together,” she said. “They have limited resources but they are able to do so much with so little.”

During their free time, the volunteers talked. “We took a piece with the whole community,” Stein said. “We biked for about a half mile and half to this plateau with a hospital view. The system created a delicious meal. We played soccer with homemade goal posts, climbed trees and just played soccer with homemade soccer balls and played soccer with the village people,” said Emma, a seventh grader at Millburn Middle School. “Even though we did not speak the same language, we laughed together and shared stories. I learned that if you put your mind to something, you can do anything.”

During the event, Millburn High School students will help the students and community build a dining hall addition on the second floor of the church and build a concrete room to dry rice. “Cebedilla has only one store, no computers and no telephones,” Stein said. “I was amazed the whole community came with us.”

Stein said she is considering taking another trip next summer through the volunteer organization, perhaps to the Cook Islands through the volunteer organization, perhaps to the Cook Islands. The organization raises funds to cover its costs for participants.

Higher Standards in banking.
Now in your neighborhood.

The drive behind everything we do is Higher Standards. It means always trying to be better than we were the day before. And it’s a belief we’ve lived by for over two hundred years. It allows us to demonstrate Higher Standards for our customers, every time they visit our banking centers, use their Check Card or log onto our Web site.

We’re proud to now be bringing these standards to your neighborhood.

Our plan is simple: to locate banking centers near where you work and live, and an ATM right where you need one. Already this has led to a new standard in banking; we’ve created the largest ATM and banking center network in America. We demonstrate higher standards inside our banking centers too. As you walk through the door, you will be met by a banker who can help with your every banking need.

You’ll be offered products like our MyAccess Checking* account, which comes free with direct deposit and gives added value to the word free. It offers free online banking, free online bill paying, and free unlimited teller transactions. All this, plus the very secure and free, Total Security Protection®, which promises that if your Check Card is ever lost or stolen, and used, you only need to report it promptly and you’re protected. The money will be put back in your account the very next business day.* Guaranteed.

And coming soon, when you visit one of our banking centers looking for a mortgage, you’ll find one that requires 80% less paperwork. It’s our way of demonstrating what we believe, that it shouldn’t take as much time to apply for a mortgage as it does to find a home.

We are America’s number one Small Business bank.

More small businesses in more places have chosen us as their bank. Over two million of them.

But of course, that didn’t happen overnight. We got there one business at a time.

We look forward to bringing you the same wealth of experience with the most comprehensive business tools and advice available. We also welcome the chance to help you find the funding you need, with a wide variety of unique small business loans and line of credit options.

We invest billions of dollars in neighborhoods and people.

For many years, we have demonstrated how banking can make neighborhoods better, by going back to the neighborhoods where we live and work.

We’ve already invested more than $230 billion in developing our communities. And we’re dedicating $750 billion more over the next ten years. Which, in simple terms, equals to $830 million per day going out to help build new communities, and bring new life to existing ones.

We’re equally proud to be helping more people than ever realize their dream of owning a new home. We’ve worked hard to pioneer a new program to offer affordable mortgages to those who serve and protect our neighborhoods — like firefighters, medical workers, police and teachers. We call it Neighborhood Champions™.

Teachers, for instance, will be able to afford to buy a home in areas where housing prices would have forced them out of the market. And out of the schools they teach in. In this way, the teachers benefit. So do the kids.

We believe one higher standard creates another.

Our philanthropic activities can create Higher Standards in other areas too.

We have recently dedicated $1.5 billion over the next ten years to organizations that are bringing excellence to neighborhoods like yours across America.

You see, we seek to demonstrate this excellence every day, in every way we can. And as Fleet becomes Bank of America, we’re proud to have the opportunity to build upon a rich local heritage, creating a higher standard of banking for everyone.

It’s why we’re excited to be in your neighborhood. And we look forward to meeting you.
Board of Ed sets 2004-05 goals

By Harry Trumbore

During its Oct. 11 meeting at Hawthorne School, the Board of Education presented its goals for the 2004-05 school year. Unlike past years when goals were often low and very general in nature, this year's objectives set a number of specific challenges and goals for the district.

Board president Mary Litterman said this week the tighter focus of the goals this year is an indication of the board's confidence in the school administration led by Superintendent of Schools Richard Brodow.

"We think Dr. Brodow has put together a great team," Litterman said. "It's testament to how well this administration works together, as things come to an end."

Off of all of the goals, Brodow said his priority will be the review of the Millburn Municipal Alliance Committee for Drug Awareness, which was sponsored by the Millburn Municipal Alliance Committee for Drug Awareness sponsored by the Millburn Municipal Alliance Committee for Drug Awareness sponsored by the Millburn Municipal Alliance Committee for Drug Awareness sponsored by the Millburn Municipal Alliance Committee for Drug Awareness sponsored by the Millburn Municipal Alliance Committee for Drug Awareness.

"Some time thereafter, we want to have a public dialogue with someone in the position by May," Brodow said. "We need to address this issue, and develop a plan to address it."

A formal presentation of the reports by the committee will be made at the Nov. 22 board meeting, he added.

"I hope the board will continue to meet periodically because it takes time to become familiar with issues we need to address," Brodow said. "I hope that committee will contact our office. "We want to have people who are willing to work on this issue because it takes time to become familiar with issues we need to address."

A board goal to continue strengthening communication with community is very important with the impending departure of Joan Pifer, the school business administrator who directs "Father of the Bride."

An additional goal is to present to the board next month up from a consultant currently working directly with the high school students, with 19 principal roles.

"The intention is to capture the vintage, Hollywood essence that was often nostalgic and offers something for the entire audience," Snyder said. "The play will be both innovative and nostalgic and offers something for the entire audience."

"The music manager is an extremely influential role that will shape our school," Snyder said. "We want the students to take this seriously and be part of the play."

Board member Noreen Brunini said a board goal to develop and implement a district technology plan is critical to improve the quality of education for all students.

"We need to have a new opening page, making it easier to find information, and it can be more easily updated," Brodow said. "This will require the board's commitment to developing a new system for student assessment and continuing the implementation of differentiated instruction."

Next year's goals is to direct the development of an electronic newsletter sent to township residents, along with development of a strong writing program throughout the district, she said.

The remaining goals reaffirm the board's priority will be the review of the Millburn Municipal Alliance Committee for Drug Awareness, which was sponsored by the Millburn Municipal Alliance Committee for Drug Awareness sponsored by the Millburn Municipal Alliance Committee for Drug Awareness sponsored by the Millburn Municipal Alliance Committee for Drug Awareness sponsored by the Millburn Municipal Alliance Committee for Drug Awareness.

"The remaining goals reaffirm the board's commitment to providing high-quality education," Brodow said. "The board will be working hard to support the district's ongoing efforts to improve the quality of education for all students."

Students going to polls in LWV program

For the third year, some township students will have a chance to voice their political preferences in the “Let’s Vote” program sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Millburn and Short Hills. Students in grades four through eight will participate in the program, which is designed to inform about the democratic process.

Lessons developed by faculty members and incorporated into the social studies curriculum are designed to teach students about the democratic process. Students in grades four through eight will participate in the program, which is designed to teach them about the democratic process.

Lessons developed by faculty members and incorporated into the social studies curriculum are designed to teach students how to research candidates’ backgrounds and their stands on various campaign issues.

Students will be voting for candidates in the following offices:

- president, vice president, House of Representatives and Millburn’s Township Committee.

Parents are encouraged to spend time with their children gathering information and discussing how they themselves evaluate the candidates. Most importantly, parents are encouraged to set an example by voting themselves.

However, unlike the past two years, parents are not allowed to bring their children to the actual polling site. Instead, this year, all students will vote in their respective schools during the school day. Each school will set up a “Let’s Vote” polling area and students will be provided with a time period during the school day when they are allowed to go vote.

No child has to vote. Just as in a real election, it is the student’s option to participate or not. As in real life, some student voters will need to vote by absentee ballot.

- Wyomissing School, Steve Kalan
- Millburn Middle School, Noreen Brunini.

The League of Women Voter representatives for each school are:

- Deerfield School, Katherine Becker
- Glenwood School, Elaine Becker
- Hartshorn School, Fran Sacks
- South Mountain School, Claudia Thornton
- Wyoming School, John Kalan

Eleven members of the Millburn High School Speech and Debate team competed in Connecticut at the Yale University National High School Forensics Tournament Oct. 1 through 3.

Unlike Lincoln-Douglas debate, extemporaneous speaking consists of delivering a seven-minute memorized speech answering a current events question provided to the students 30 minutes before the round.

Beginning with 104 speakers, the bracket was whittled down to six finalists through five rounds of competition.

In second place going into the final, Daniel rallied to win with a sweep of all three judges on the final round panel, an achievement rarely seen at a major national tournament, according to coach Brian Raymond.

Although none of the Miller Lincoln-Douglas debaters broke through to the playoff rounds, four out of the ten had winning records.

“It’s a good showing, considering all of our varsity debaters are relatively inexperienced on the national circuit level,” Raymond noted. “We learned a lot from the experience, and we are looking forward to competing on the national level as well as the upcoming local tournaments.”

Representing Millburn in varsity Lincoln-Douglas debate were seniors Kevin He and Nipun Kant, juniors Christophe Lamy and Jake Laperruque, as well as junior co-captains Chris Sawyer and Daniel Schechner. All seven are debating at the varsity level for the first time this year.

The team’s next tournament is on Saturday, Oct. 30, at Hanover Park High School, followed by a Nov. 13 competition at Randolph High School.

MHS girls soccer team makes Essex semifinals

By Jim Connelly

The Millburn High School varsity girls soccer team began its busiest week of the season with an impressive showing Sunday afternoon against Montclair Kimberley Academy in the Essex County Tournament.

A 3-0 defeat of eighth-seeded Montclair Kimberley Academy launched the top-seeded Millers semifinal-round date against 15th-seeded West Essex this Sunday at 1 p.m.

The decisive win, with which Millburn dispatched its quarterfinal-round opponents, also allowed Millers head coach Steve Bassan the opportunity to give some of his most understated players a chance to shine in full light of the team’s burgeoning success.

“We played everyworkmatch game,” Bassan said following the victory which improved Millburn’s record to 6-1.

Millburn is scheduled to play five matches in back-to-back matches this week; a best-of-five playoff round and conference championship.

An impressive Millburn High School varsity boys soccer team proved itself against West Essex all it could handle Sunday afternoon in the quarterfinal round of the 2004 County Tournament.

The Millers, who dropped to 5-3-3 with the loss, scored first on a second-half penalty kick converted by senior Brandon Abromowitz.

“West Essex es around more than we did,” Millburn head coach Paul McCurdy said. “They had more experience than we did.”

Head coach Carmen Guarino called it “one of the most disappointing losses in the five years I’ve been here.” Guarino was referring to the Millburn High School varsity football team’s 16-13 loss to visiting Caldwell Friday night.

“We played well enough to win and we won it until the end,” the Millbrook head mentor said about his team’s performance against the Caldwell Tigers. “But we just didn’t have enough to get it done.”

The Millers dropped a 16-13 decision to Caldwell on a 25-yard fumble recovery from senior signal caller Josh Kirson in the second quarter. The teams exchanged first-quarter touchdowns.

Caldwell opened the scoring on a four-yard run by senior quarterback Andrew Carlough with 7:48 left in the opening quarter. The extra point try was wide to the left, leaving the score at 7-0.

The Millers answered right back on a 50-yard pass completion from Kirson to sophomore tight end Carlough with 4:44 left in the half. The extra point try was wide to the left, leaving the score at 7-6.

A 25-yard Carlough field goal added Millers’ head mentor said about his team’s performance against the Caldwell Tigers. “But we just didn’t have enough to get it done.”

The effort was there. ‘“The best battled hard,” Millburn coach Joanna Fulop said. ‘“They were trying to stay in the game the whole time.”’

Millburn (21-3) received its lone point from the second doubles team of ninth graders Gabrielle Pritsker and Carly Tonelli. Pritsker (6-4) and Tonelli (6-2) defeated Devin Davies and Vicki Lee of Mendham, 6-2, 6-2, in the semifinals to set up a tournament match. The match was postponed twice by the weather. The final officially was scheduled to be contested last Thursday, only to be postponed until the following day by the threat of inclement weather.

The weather rules to play the following day, when just after the player introductions it began to rain. The match was suspended just after the singles championships were played.

First job hunt leads to first novel

By Patricia Harris

Author Ariel Horn, who grew up in the township and graduated from Millburn High School two years ago, is beginning to find a measure of fame as she turns her first novel into a paperback. "Help Wanted," her first novel, is due for release this month in paperback.

Horn, who graduated from Hunter College High School in Manhattan, is now a full-time writer. She was born in Teaneck, New Jersey, the daughter of Todd and Beth Horn. She is married to Orson Wells, a filmmaker.

Horn's first novel, "Help Wanted," is a coming-of-age story set in New York City in the 1980s. It tells the story of a young woman, Vivian, who is struggling to find her place in society.

Horn said she was inspired to write the novel after a trip to New York City with her parents. "I knew I wanted to write a novel about New York City," she said. "I wanted to capture the city's energy and its people."

Horn's novel was published by HarperCollins and has been well-received by critics. "Help Wanted" was named one of the best books of the year by the New York Times and the Washington Post.

Horn said she is looking forward to the novel's release and hopes it will find an audience.

"I'm really excited," she said. "I've been working on this book for a long time and I'm happy to see it finally coming out."
New handbook focuses on rights of victims of domestic violence

Legal Services of New Jersey (LSNJ), which coordinates the legal-services system of non-profit legal aid providers in the state, has announced the publication of “Domestic Violence: A Guide to the Legal Rights of Domestic Violence Victims in New Jersey.”

The 48-page handbook, intended primarily for women victims of domestic violence, outlines the major provisions of New Jersey law regarding domestic violence, and suggests key resources victims can take to protect themselves from abuse.

“Domestic violence is a widespread, serious problem with tremendous social and economic costs, as well as tragic consequences for the immediate victims,” said Melville D. Miller Jr., LSNJ president. “The Domestic Violence handbook, one of several legal services initiatives aimed at addressing this problem, will offer help and hope to thousands of women suffering its threat and its real danger.”

Single copies of the booklet are available, free of charge, from the LSNJ Web site at www.lsnj.org or by calling 1-877-252-0151. An order form for the publication is also available on the LSNJ Web site, www.lsnj.org.

Organizations interested in obtaining multiple copies of the free handbook should contact LSNJ at FO-10, Suite 137, New Jersey 08814-1107, or call LSNJ at (732) 372-8150. An order form for the publication is also available on the LSNJ Web site, www.lsnj.org.

The introduction to the “Domestic Violence” handbook includes a brief overview of what constitutes domestic violence, the magnitude of the problem, the state and federal laws that have been written to protect victims, and the two major legal options to protect oneself from abuse.

The handbook includes chapters on safety measures, the legal system at a glance to domestic violence, restraining and domestic violence, public assistance, and counseling, and an appendix that includes a guide to services for victims of domestic violence.

The handbook was researched and updated third edition of a handbook first published in 1997, in part of LSNJ’s community legal education program, which also publishes the newsletter “Looking Out for Your Legal Rights” and a series of legal rights handbooks. Legal services programs provide free or low-cost legal advice and representation to victims of domestic violence or those seeking legal counseling; and an appendix that includes a brief overview of what constitutes domestic violence, public assistance, and counseling; and an appendix that includes a brief overview of what constitutes domestic violence.

We have been told by Brian Kerwin, the Township Environmental Engineer, that the town of Millburn and Short Hills, along with the city of Millburn, have seen an increase in the number of deer,” Gier said. “We have seen them in the streets, in the parks, and in our yards.”

So what is being done to address the problem? “The Township of Millburn is working with the city of Millburn and the state of New Jersey to find a solution,” Gier said. “The Township has put together a committee to study the issue and make recommendations.”

Teens can learn to take pounds off sensibly

A free brochure which gives 10 reasons why teens cannot lose weight is being offered by TOPS, the national weight loss support group whose members span the age spectrum from children to adults. The brochure is called “How to Get Rid of Love Handles,” and it explains why weight loss is difficult for teens. The brochure is available for free by calling the TOPS hotline at 1-800-404-7687.

The brochure gives 10 reasons why teens cannot lose weight:

1. The percentage of children who are overweight has doubled since 1980, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. In 1980, 12% of American children were considered overweight, but by 2000 the percentage had risen to 15%. This is the highest rate of increase in 50 years.

2. Adolescents make up a growing proportion of people fighting what is often called “childhood obesity.” Children over the age of seven are eligible to join the group.

3. Adolescents often have trouble getting the right amount of exercise. They may not have the energy to exercise, or they may not have the time or the resources to exercise. Residents turn out in force to donate blood

One hundred and forty people volunteered to give blood at a drive to benefit Saturday at Hartshorn School under the sponsorship of the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

Contributing to the heavy turnout was the opportunity for donors to win $1,000 in prize money. Two donors will be chosen for each blood unit donated at the drive. A drawing will be held on Tuesday.

Gail Kahle, a 34-year-old nurse and resident of Morristown Memorial Hospital, has donated more than 100 blood units over the years. Kahle is a frequent donor and said she values the opportunity to give back to the community.

The Kahle family has been giving blood for the past 40 years and said they do it for the prosperity of all those who need it.

The next two Red Cross blood drives in Short Hills will be held Nov. 15 at Christ Church and Dec. 11 at the Millburn Free Public Library. Both drives will run from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Donations for Kahle Kahle can be made at Morristown Memorial Hospital at any convenient time. To make an appointment to give at Morristown, donors are asked to contact Jenny Blumholtz, a branch of the Kahle family who is coordinating all blood donations.
