Liquor license held up after stabbing at club

Two men were stabbed Saturday at After Dark club

BY SUE M. MORGAN
Staff Writer

The stabbing of two Monmouth County men in the parking lot of the After Dark nightclub early Saturday morning has prompted the Old Bridge Township Council to delay the renewal of the club's liquor license.

With six council members present, and a copy of the police report detailing the altercation in front of them, the governing body voted unanimously to table a motion to renew the liquor license for TMJ Corp., the parent company of After Dark, during its public meeting Monday night.

TMJ's liquor license for the nightclub/go-go bar, located at Route 35 and Greenwood Avenue in Laurence Harbor, expires June 30, according to Township Clerk Rose-Marie Saracino.

Saracino said Tuesday she had sent a letter that morning to TMJ, notifying the company of the council's decision to either deny the renewal or to renew the license only under certain conditions.

No suspects have been arrested in the aggravated assault that occurred shortly before 2:30 a.m. Saturday in the club's parking lot. The incident remains under investigation by township police.

Police said they have received reports that an unidentified white male, possibly affiliated with a motorcycle gang, separately stabbed the two victims, Louis Foster, 23, and James Bose, 25, both of Long Branch. The suspect, according to the reports, was accompanied by a group of eight or nine other white men, all wearing the colors of the Bandanas and Pagans motorcycle gangs.

A witness, Ronald Tefteller, 25, of Eatontown, was also reportedly threatened by another alleged gang member who pointed a small silver handgun at him and ordered him to leave the premises. Police reports do not indicate that Tefteller was injured.

Foster sustained a 9-inch wound in his mid-section, and Bose received a 1-inch cut in the right side of his lower back. Police reports indicate that both victims were transported to Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital

Board seeks 4-percent rent hike

Tenants say proposed ordinance would end rent control in O.B.

BY SUE M. MORGAN
Staff Writer

Although the chairman of the Old Bridge Rent Stabilization Board contends that rising utility and operating expenses warrant the passage of an ordinance allowing rental prices to be raised by 4 percent, Ward 4 Councilman G. Kevin Calogera said he wants actual numbers to justify those increases.

Explanations provided by Stuart Simon, Rent Stabilization Board chairman, to township officials during Monday night's council meeting failed to satisfy Calogera, who asked to see actual paperwork showing steady increases in operating expenses incurred by landlords who rent garden apartments to a reported 8,000 township residents.

Because of Calogera's request, originally made at a June 17 agenda meeting, the council did not introduce a rent stabilization ordinance that would allow apartment complex landlords in the township to raise monthly rentals by 4 percent annually. Presently, rents can only be raised by 2 percent per year.

The proposed ordinance includes a provision that senior citizens would incur only a 2-percent rent increase.

Opponents of the ordinance, mainly apartment complex tenants, said that if passed, the ordinance will effectively end rent control in Old Bridge. Approximately 30 tenants from complexes throughout the township attended Monday's meeting to voice disapproval of the ordinance.

Although it had been scheduled for a first reading and preliminary vote without discussion on Monday, council members had not yet received the actual document detailing the ordinance due to their request for more information, said Township Business Administrator Alayne Shepler.

Calogera confirmed that he was the council member who requested more information.

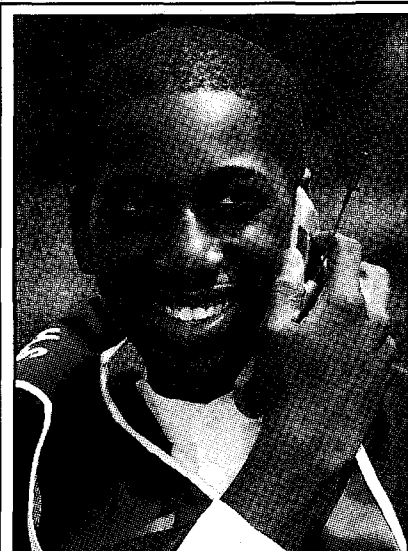

The actual document should be available for introduction and an initial vote at the next public meeting on July 8, said Township Attorney William S. Ruggiero.

To appease Calogera and any other township officials questioning the need for the 4-percent increase, Simon said he would try to provide by the July 8 meeting specific figures detailing the increased costs incurred by apartment landlords.

In his presentation, Simon told the council that when the Rent Stabilization Board reviewed two years' worth of expense reports presented by landlords of various apartment complexes, they consistently found increasing costs for utilities, garbage disposal, taxes and maintenance.

"The landlords have no control over these increases. These are costs they have absorbed," Simon said.

Graduate beats the odds; walks to accept diploma

Ryan Molloy was once given a slim chance of ever walking again

BY SUE M. MORGAN
Staff Writer

OLD BRIDGE — Graduating high school this past Monday was more than just another rite of passage for Ryan Molloy. It marked the realization of a dream to stand up and walk to receive his diploma, something that seemed unlikely two years ago.

Now a 2002 graduate of Old Bridge High School, Ryan, 18, did not allow a paralyzing swimming pool accident to prevent him from walking to the podium at the Sovereign Bank Arena in Trenton to accept his diploma during Monday's commencement ceremony.

Although he has been using a wheelchair to get around, Ryan can now walk approximately 40 to 50 feet at a time using a walker. His mother, Lisa, credits Ryan's continual work with a physical therapist as the means to achieving that milestone.

"That was his goal, to stand up and receive his diploma," Lisa Molloy said last week.

"He has really jumped over some hurdles to get where he is," she added.

Even after a physician told her that the odds of her son walking again were very slim, Ryan was not defeated.

"I never thought for a second that I wouldn't get up on my feet again," Ryan said. "I wasn't going to accept it and just fade away."

Ryan broke his neck in June 2000 when he dove into his family's backyard swimming pool and slammed his forehead on the concrete floor of the shallow end, his mother said. When he failed to come up for air, a few of his friends who were present at poolside jumped in to pull him out.

Once he was out, Ryan told his friends he could not move and instructed them to call 911.

"Once he broke his neck, he didn't feel anything," Molloy said.

The responding ambulance took Ryan to a helicopter landing pad at nearby Cheesequake State Park. From there, he was airlifted to Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital in New Brunswick for emergency surgery. Following extensive invasive surgery resulting in the placement of plates inside his neck, Ryan was admitted to the hospital's intensive care unit.

Unfortunately, a few days later he developed breathing problems and pneumonia, leading to the collapse of a lung, his mother recalled.

Again, Ryan's neck had to be cut to allow the placement of a ventilator in his trachea to allow breathing. That tube remained in place there for the next three to four months, his mother said.

A month later, Ryan was transferred to Kessler Institute of Rehabilitation, West Orange, for more specialized treatment. There, his family said, he had the good fortune of hooking up with Steven Kirschblum, a physiologist who has also treated quadriplegic actor Christopher Reeve.

At that point, Lisa Molloy said she insisted that Kirschblum give her the odds that Ryan would walk again. Reluctantly, she recalled, Kirschblum told her that Ryan had less than a 10-percent chance of walking again. She said she was devastated, but determined to do whatever it took to assist her son.

Ryan remained at Kessler and worked with Kirschblum for an additional four months. On Oct. 31, 2000, he came home.

By then, he had already missed two months of his junior year. Ryan, who then began to be tutored, remained adamant about walking in time for graduation, even though he was using both a ventilator and a wheelchair at the time.

Ryan returned to the high school's west campus in January 2001. By that time, he had been weaned off the ventilator.

Now, Ryan is preparing to move on to the next stage of his life. This fall, he plans to attend Ramapo College of New Jersey, Mahwah, as a communications major. He credits his family and friends for their ongoing support.

"My friends are great. They supported me through everything and still do," Ryan said. "I'm appreciative of both my friends and my family, for that matter."

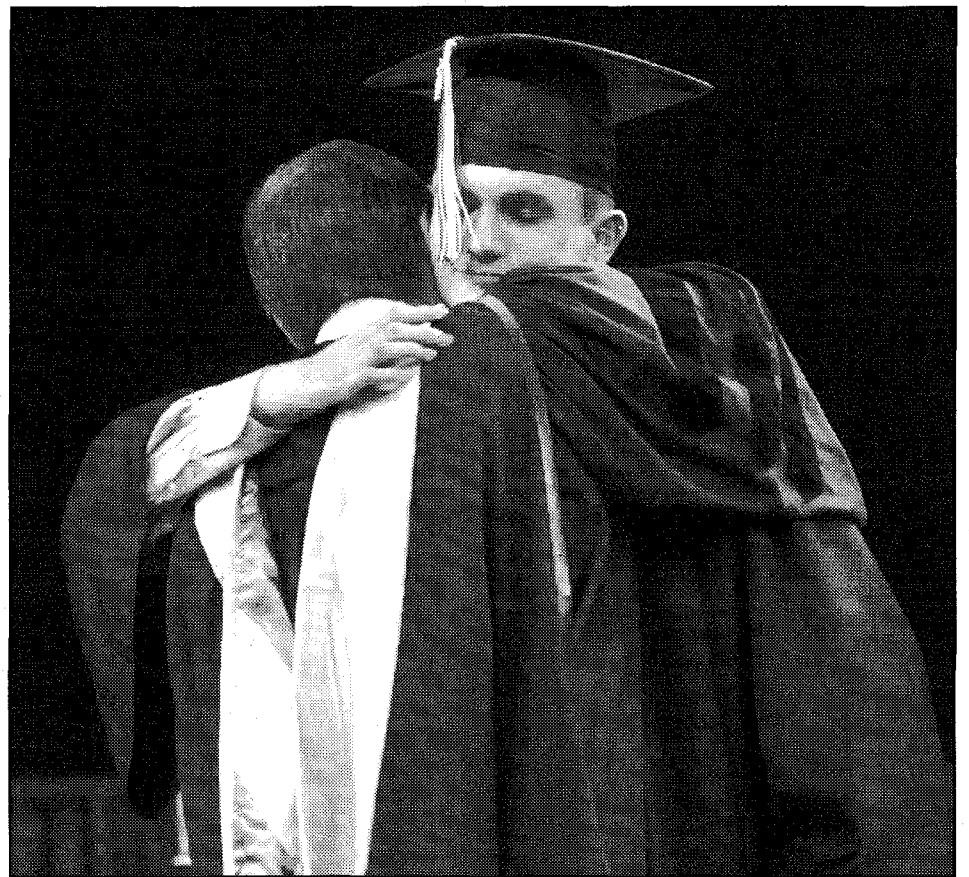

Ryan aspires to work in music production or as a journalist covering rock bands. He names Pearl Jam, Led Zeppelin, Dave Matthews Band and the Red Hot Chili Peppers as being among his favorite acts.

"I would like to write for Rolling Stone or Spin," he said.

Ryan's mother admits that she is a little anxious about seeing her oldest child (out of four) leave for college in August, particularly in light of his condition.

"I'm a little nervous," she said, adding that Ryan plans to begin driving and will live on campus.

Ryan said he looks forward to college life. "I'm very excited. I can't wait to be off on my own," he said.

Paralysis in his dominant right hand has not prevented Ryan from expressing himself artistically, Molloy said. He has learned to paint using his left hand. Several of those paintings are displayed throughout the family home.

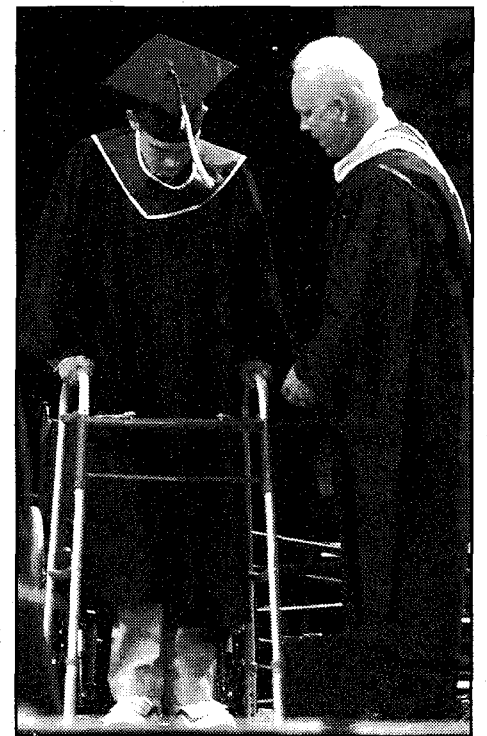

"He paints some beautiful oil paintings," Molloy noted.

Ironically, a good thing has come out of Ryan's injuries with regard to the steroid-dependent asthma condition from which he has suffered since infancy. For some reason, the swimming pool accident seems to have cured the asthma.

"It's nonexistent now," Molloy said. "There have been a lot of miracles here."

Ryan remains philosophical about the lessons he has learned from his injury.

"I definitely think I am a better person for going through the experience," he said. "It's taught me the importance of family and friends, and a lot of things we take for granted."

Disputed zone amendment now before Boro Council

Officials accused of spot-zoning two Washington Rd. lots

BY JENNIFER DOME
Staff Writer

SAYREVILLE — The Planning Board last week voted to recommend that the Borough Council change a zone on Washington Road from residential to commercial.

The amendment to the borough's master plan concerns two lots — one being the location of a credit union, and the other a landscaping business, board members said at the June 19 meeting. According to the board's planner, Heyer, Gruel & Associates of New Brunswick, the lots are in a residential zone but are actually "nodes" or "pockets" of commercial development.

Two board members, along with two council members who attended the meeting, spoke against the amendment to the master plan that would change the zoning of the two lots from residential to business.

Board member Donald Newton voted against the changes, stating that there was no validity to recommend the amendment to the master plan. Newton said he spoke to the borough's zoning officer, Andrew Mashanski, about the landscaping business, and inquired whether its owner was running a business out of his home or living in his place of business.

While Mashanski confirmed that the property's zoning is under investigation, he could not provide further details about whether any zoning violations are pending.

Democratic Councilman Thomas Pollando, who also sits on the Planning Board, abstained from voting on the amendment, stating that the recommendation is "too wishy-washy at this point."

Democratic council members Thomas Marcinczyk and Phyllis Batko spoke as members of the public at the meeting, voicing their grievances with the amendment. They each questioned why the Planning Board decided to look at this neighborhood in particular for a zoning change.

Planning Board Chairman Frank Bella said that Council President Frank Makransky had asked the Planning Board to look into making the area a business zone. Bella said this week that changing the master plan would allow a new business owner for either of the two lots to maintain a business in the location and to expand their premises if necessary. According to Bella, the board looked at the area along Washington Road stretching from Minnisink Road to the railroad tracks.

Approved sports bar has its liquor license denied

Officials cite limit on liquor licenses within 2,000 feet of each other

BY JENNIFER DOME
Staff Writer

SAYREVILLE — The Borough Council voted against a resolution that would have granted a liquor license for the Primetime Sports Bar and Billiards Cafe at a meeting Monday.

The person-to-person and place-to-place transfer would have given the applicant, Ethan H., LLC, a liquor license for the sports bar located in the Sayreville Plaza on Route 9 southbound. However, since two other businesses operate with liquor licenses within 2,000 feet of the proposed sports bar, a waiver was needed in order to grant ownership of the license, borough officials said at their agenda meeting June 17.

According to Mayor Kennedy O'Brien, the police department had initially approved the liquor license transfer from National Amusement to Ethan H., LLC,

FIREWORKS SAFETY

According to Prevent Blindness America, the eyes are the most commonly injured part of the body, with approximately 2,000 fireworks-related eye injuries treated in 2000. That year, ten people died as a result of fireworks and many suffered blinding injuries. Though illegal in many states, and discouraged by medical professionals, many people attempt their own fireworks display. Knowing this, experts have outlined some basic safety tips one should adhere to, when using fireworks. Never light an explosive indoors and never place an explosive in a container. Do not wear loose fitting clothing while using fireworks. Wear protective goggles. Always have water or a fire extinguisher handy, particularly when using sparklers. An adult should always supervise children. Always stand several feet away from the explosive and do not relight "duds". But our best advise at Atlantic Medical Eye Care is to leave the fireworks to the professional and see an officially sanctioned show in your community.

Protecting your eyesight is our goal. If you have additional questions or would like further information, please call us at 732-607-0555 or visit www.njlasikmd.com. We participate with many insurance plans and are located at 3 Hospital Plaza, Suite 310 in Old Bridge.

Continued from previous page but the council tabled its approval June 17 because the police had not rendered an opinion about the ordinance that requires 2,000 feet between businesses with liquor licenses, O'Brien said.

The council waited for a recommendation from the police department, and that recommendation ultimately stated that there were no problems with granting the waiver, Borough Attorney Judy Verrone said Monday.

However, the council voted unanimously against the transfer of the license. Councilman Tom Pollando said that although he approved the application for the sports bar when it came before the Planning Board, he was reluctant to approve the license. According to Pollando, many residents have called and expressed grievances about the addition of the sports bar to the shopping center. Pollando said he was concerned about having three businesses in proximity to one another, all with liquor licenses.

One business, located in a nearby shopping plaza, owns a liquor license that is not being used, according to the sports bar applicant, Keven Seltzer, and his attorney, Lawrence Sacks.

Bourbon Street, the other business in proximity to Primetime, was represented at the meeting June 17. While the Bourbon Street representatives said they had no objection to the applicant owning the license, they did ask the council members to add wording into the resolution that prohibits the sports bar from having live entertainment.

The prohibition of live entertainment was already a condition imposed upon the sports bar with the approval given by the borough Planning Board, Seltzer said. He said that while the sports bar would have billiards tables and possibly hold tournaments, there would be no live entertainment.

The billiard parlor was granted unanimous approval by the Planning Board Jan. 9.

Monday, Councilwoman Phyllis Batko asked council members if there was a way to prevent approval from the Planning Board from occurring before a liquor license is approved. Batko said she wanted to prevent business owners from investing time and money into a place only to come away without a liquor license.

Seltzer said Wednesday that he was uncertain what the next step for the sports bar will be.

"I'm trying to work it out with the attorneys," he said, adding that his previous business partner, Mark Klang, is no longer involved with the business.

The sports bar, comprised of approximately 8,100 square feet, will include 22 billiard tables, with tables nearby for eating. According to representatives from Primetime, the other half of the bar and cafe will include approximately eight tables for dining and a viewing ledge, blocked off by glass, which will overlook the billiard tables. The restaurant will have a large kitchen and bar as well, Primetime representatives said.

Seltzer said last week that he expected the sports bar to open within the first two weeks of July.

Stabbing

in New Brunswick.

While a hospital spokeswoman said Tuesday that there was no record of Foster's admission to the facility, Bose was reported to be in fair condition in the hospital.

Having read the police report of the altercation, and citing security concerns, Council Vice President Larry Redmond urged his colleagues to vote against renewing After Dark's liquor license. His sentiments were echoed by Ward 4 Councilman G. Kevin Calogera.

Referring to Club 516, another go-go bar in the township which had its license renewed Monday night with the condition that its management provide security in the parking lot, Redmond said the same should apply to After Dark.

"If the other place is required to have security in the parking lot, so should this place," Redmond said.

"I have a problem [approving the renewal] because of the situation arising over the weekend here," said Calogera, "I'm concerned about safety."

According to police reports, Foster was ordered to leave the premises by a club bouncer after engaging in a verbal dispute with a woman and another man inside the club. Once Foster was outside in the parking lot, he and Bose were assaulted by the alleged gang members.

"I see this as a situation that started inside the premises and moved to the outside of the premises," Calogera said.

Police reports indicate that, following the assaults, all of the suspects left the area.

At press time, attempts to reach TMJ's management for comment were unsuccessful.

Anyone with information related to the altercation can contact Detective Scott Crocco of the Old Bridge Police Department at (732) 721-5600 ext. 3181.

Pregnant woman dies after being hit by car on Rt. 35

SAYREVILLE — A 21-year-old pregnant woman died Sunday after being struck by a car while crossing Route 35 at approximately 2:55 a.m.

According to police reports, Denise Gomes Mendez of William Street, Perth Amboy, was walking from the southbound side of the highway to the northbound side in order to use a pay telephone. Although Mendez, who police said was six months pregnant, was using a marked crosswalk, the preliminary investigation revealed that she was walking against the red light, police reports said.

Sayreville Police Patrolman Dave Erla reportedly observed the accident while he was watching traffic on Route 35 near Club Abyss and looking for suspects in a stabbing incident in Old Bridge.

According to police reports, the driver of the 1990 Dodge Ram, Francis J. Catalfumo of Hazlet had been traveling in the right lane of the northbound side of the highway when his vehicle struck the woman.

Morgan First Aid and a Mobile Intensive Care Unit arrived, and Mendez was transported to Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital, New Brunswick, where she was pronounced dead at 3:53 a.m. Her unborn child did not survive, police officials said.

No charges have been filed against Catalfumo, police officials said Tuesday. Police are continuing to investigate the incident.

Legacy Grande decision, comment put off to Sept.

BY SUE M. MORGAN
Staff Writer

OLD BRIDGE — A final decision on whether the Zoning Board of Adjustment will grant a use variance to a developer seeking to construct Legacy Grande, an age-restricted condominium complex on Cottrell Road, is on hold until this fall.

Due to a high volume of applications to be presented during the summer, Zoning Board Chairman Kiran Desai told representatives of the applicant, Jerald Development Group, that the hearings cannot continue until Sept. 5 at 8 p.m.

Although testimony from engineering and planning professionals concluded at the June 20 meeting, public comment has yet to be heard, Desai stated. As a matter of procedure, the board maintains an 11 p.m. curfew at its meetings. Due to the length and extent of testimony, only three people out of approximately 25 in attendance had spoken to the board by 11 p.m.

The public portion will resume where it left off at the Sept. 5 meeting, Desai said.

During testimony, professionals presented revised plans for the application to construct 99 stacked condominium units in three buildings of three stories each off Cottrell Road, between Spring Hill Road and Phillips Drive.

The greatest change to the proposed community for those age 55 and up is that it has been scaled back from comprising one-, two-, and three-bedroom units to only one- and two-bedroom units.

According to Leonard Martelli, project architect, the three-bedroom units were eliminated in order to ensure that only tenants meeting the age-restricted criteria move into the complex.

Jerald Development representatives have stated that, to comply with federal standards for age-restricted housing, condominium owners would have to be at least 55 years old. An owner's adult child over the age of 18 would also be permitted to live there, the application states.

No school-age children will be allowed to live there, according to Raymond C. Liotta, a professional planner with Masur Consulting, P.A., of Matawan, who has also testified on behalf of the applicant.

In addition, the revised plans show that a swimming pool and clubhouse, previously planned for the southwest corner of the complex, have been moved to its center. That change created a smaller site plan and will have less of an impact on wetlands in the surrounding area, Liotta stated.

"This is a significant reduction in scale," Liotta said. "There will be less physical impact on streams and wetlands because it is a smaller site plan than previously submitted."

In response to concerns about encroaching upon those wetlands, Liotta added that the applicant has received the requested stream encroachment permit from the state Department of Environmental Protection.

Jerald's attorney, Jonathan Heilbrunn, noted that sub-leasing of units would not be permitted. The question of sub-leasing had been raised by board member Terri Settlecowski during the previous hearing and again by member Harold Reck at last Thursday's meeting.

"It cannot occur. In accordance with the Fair Housing Act, you cannot buy it and sub-lease it to anyone under 55," Heilbrunn said. "Nor can it be leased or sold to anyone with children under 18."

Jerald's representatives are seeking the use variance because clustered housing is not permitted in that zone.

The proposed site is near farmland and many single-family homes.

The representatives have stated that they will generate tax revenue without adding children to the school system because they own the units.

In addition, Jerald's representatives have testified that the complex will fit in with Old Bridge's town center zoning ordinance. Legacy Grande residents will be within reasonable walking distance of stores and restaurants now under construction at Route 516 and Cottrell Road.

However, area residents opposing the application have stated that the three-story buildings will not fit in with the homes and farmland currently existing there.

Residents have also contested Liotta's testimony that residents would have a seven- to 10-minute walk to the town center and the municipal complex at Cottrell Road and Route 516. Because of the lack of sidewalks and the number of intersections to cross, area residents have stated that tenants, especially senior citizens, will have a much longer walk.

Disputed zone amendment

At a Borough Council meeting Monday, Planning Board member Michael D'Addio questioned why Marcinczyk would be against Makransky asking the board to look into zoning changes for Washington Road. According to D'Addio, Makransky was following up on a request by a resident to look into the matter.

"There's nothing underhanded about this," Makransky said later. He said he asked the Planning Board to look into rezoning the entire neighborhood because a resident had come to him with a problem.

Marcinczyk said he believes the Planning Board may have used "spot-zoning" in order to change the two lots from residential to commercial zoning. He said he intends to have the amendment investigated by a federal agency to determine if the change would be legal.

According to D'Addio, since there are two lots that are recommended for a zone change, the amendment cannot be considered as spot-zoning.

Batko said she was concerned that, since the credit union use was approved by the borough after the area had become a residential zone, the only nonconforming business is the landscaping business.

The two lots, one of which is located on the corner of Dupont Street along Washington Road, are the only consistent blocks of business on the road, although the surrounding neighborhood was examined for rezoning, Bella said.

"If unusual circumstances and a mix of residential and commercial uses exist, a recommendation to permit neighborhood commercial zoning in logical locations may be feasible," according to the land use amendment supplied by Heyer, Gruel & Associates.

According to James Hoebich, Planning Board attorney, the owner of the lot purchased the property when it was zoned for business. After the master plan was revised and the area became a residential zone, his business would still be legal due to "grandfathering" laws, he said.

However, board member Newton argued that it is illegal for a business to be run out of a home. Board members said that, since the owner will have to come before the Zoning Board either way, the borough would have to assume that the lot is used primarily for business.

"We're trying to take an existing business and make it comply with the zone," Bella said.

According to the board's planner, John Leoncavallo, the entire area cannot be rezoned because a hardship would fall on the residents who own homes there. If the zone becomes commercial, and a homeowner decides to build a garage or a deck, he or she would have to come before the Zoning Board, since the home would then be considered a nonconforming use, Leoncavallo said.

According to the planner, the rezoning would improve the two lots in question because they would have to provide additional landscape buffers and fences to comply with the new amendment.

Batko also said last week that she was concerned about the lack of notification to the residents in the area where the zoning change may take place. She said that advertising the hearing about the amendment change in the newspaper was not a sufficient means of notification, and said letters should be sent to the residents.

Man killed in boat explosion

SAYREVILLE — An explosion that occurred on a boat docked at Morgan Marina Saturday resulted in the death of one man and the injury of another.

Donald McGloan, 48, of South Amboy, died from burns incurred when an explosion took place on the boat he was on, State Police Public Information Officer Stephen Jones said Wednesday.

McGloan was transported to St. Barnabas Medical Center in Livingston, and died there from his injuries Monday, Jones said.

The explosion took place in the engine compartment of the 1975 30-foot motorboat at about 3:45 p.m. Saturday.

According to Jones, another man in the boat with McGloan, George Chafos, 40, also of South Amboy, jumped overboard when the explosion occurred. Chafos suffered third-degree burns on his legs and was transported to Raritan Bay Medical Center, Perth Amboy Division, Jones said. According to information provided by the hospital, Chafos was treated and released.

The fire was extinguished by employees at Morgan Marina. The boat was later removed from the docks so that police could investigate the cause of the explosion, Jones said.

Opinion

Our View

Good luck to graduates

As the 2001-02 school year comes to a close, area high school seniors have been busily donning caps and gowns and bidding farewell to classmates, some of whom may have shared memories stretching back 12 years or even further.

It is significant to mention that the class of 2002 carries the distinction of being seniors during the events of Sept. 11, a memory they will pass on to future generations. These students strengthened the bonds with their classmates through that time, gaining a maturity and perspective that only such an unbelievable, unexpected event can impart on young adults.

In an era when young adults have been dubbed Generation X, Generation Y or some other pop culture label, the country witnessed these students pull together in altruistic ways that many people said had not been seen since World War II. The nation looked on proudly as this generation showed patriotism and compassion during the country's darkest hours.

What impact this will have on tomorrow's leaders, the class of 2002, is impossible to say. But we are sure these students will move on with their lives, with the memory of those days forever imbedded in their hearts and minds.

The seniors must also say goodbye to favorite faculty members who strove to inspire them to reach for the stars.

While we always congratulate the departing seniors, we sometimes forget the faculty members who are saddened, we are sure, but also proud to see their students cross the stage for the last time. Certainly these teachers and administrators can take pride in knowing that they played a part in molding these students into the people they proved to be while the nation was in pain.

High school graduation marks the end of childhood and the beginning of lifelong endeavors and responsibilities.

Some graduates will move quickly to fulfill career dreams and take on lifelong responsibilities. Others will follow less certain paths, burdened by indecision or financial or family responsibilities.

Those who are uncertain need to set firm goals and then work to achieve them. With perseverance and hard work, no goal should be insurmountable. With the availability of affordable community colleges and helpful counselors, a college education and satisfying career are well within the reach of almost all people today.

Many graduating seniors are already in pursuit of higher education, while others relish entering the world of work or service to our country. The decision to enter the armed forces would take on even more meaning in these uncertain times.

Regardless of which road they have chosen, we know the new graduates are filled with high hopes and wonderful dreams of what their futures hold, for they are following in the footsteps of all of us.

Their high school memories will fade as the years pass, but they will filter back again and again as a reminder of the special time in their lives when serious problems were someone else's burden.

But if the events of that defining moment in the nation's history, Sept. 11, have proved anything, it is certainly not that this generation will be deterred by fear. To the contrary, this group has shown an inner strength that should serve them well as they face the future's challenges. It's perhaps more than many social critics gave these graduates credit for at the school year's beginning.

To the graduates of all of our local public, parochial and private high schools, we wish the best.

Letters

Trash buildup at Old Bridge bus stops is unsightly, unacceptable

This is a copy of a letter I recently sent to Old Bridge Mayor Barbara Cannon.

I am writing this letter as an official complaint regarding the nonmaintenance and trash buildup at many bus stops in Old Bridge Township.

It should be obvious by now that the contract the township signed with an outside company to put up new bus shelters, display advertising on them and maintain them and do the regular trash pickup, is not working. The trash cans are not being emptied regularly, often resulting in completely full and overflowing trash that winds up on the ground or blows around the area. This is creating an unsightly, unhealthy and totally unacceptable situation for residents and taxpayers in Old Bridge.

There are several constant trouble spots, especially along

Route 9. The worst is at Route 9 south and Throckmorton Lane. As of 6 a.m. on the day this letter was written, the trash was all over the grass island, and not one more item could be put into either trash can. As a commuter, I see this daily.

This situation should not be allowed to continue. It is a detriment to our town. I would recommend that you and the Township Council consider canceling the contract and revert back to allowing our very capable township road department to do the maintenance and trash collection as it did in the past — and it did a very good job.

On a side note, the new bus shelters (with advertising) should not even be called shelters. They have reduced the size of the structure, have less seating capacity, are almost completely open and do not shelter the commuters from the bad weather. At least the old shelters were larger and had four sides to them so you could stand inside, out of the bad weather.

For example, the Jake Brown Road-Route 9 stop is a major commuter bus stop, and there could be as many as 10-20 commuters waiting there at one time. The new structure will accommodate only three or four people, and they are not "inside."

Old Bridge has an exceptionally large bus commuter population. I have talked to many residents and taxpayers who have voiced their displeasure and are upset with these problems, especially the unsightly trash situation. Hope you will resolve this quickly.

Sayreville's DARE program receives praise and support from parent

I am writing this letter to Sgt. Joseph Myers and the Sayreville Policemen's Benevolent Association.

Thank you so much for the wonderful, educational DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program you put together for the children at Our Lady of Victories School, Sayreville. My son John cannot say enough positive things about you and your program.

It is my pleasure to tell you that, as an observer, parent and teacher, I can see that the children love, respect and admire you as a person and a professional. The children and their teachers put together a wonderful tribute to the tune of the song "Copacabana," which touched all the parents, Borough Council members and administrators.

Thank you again for bringing your DARE program to Our Lady of Victories School and for being such a special and important part of our children's lives.

Board seeks 4-percent hike

"In order to make an informed decision as a councilman, I need to know the total amount of expenses," Calogera said. "I need figures. Don't just say expenses went up."

Rent control, specifically the annual 2-percent rent increase, has been in effect since 1997, Simon said.

Council Vice President Larry Redmond asked Simon how apartment rents in Old Bridge compared in cost to those in other Middlesex County municipalities.

"Are we the lowest in the county in rents?" Redmond asked.

"We are," Simon replied.

Prior to Simon's presentation, six tenants spoke to the council during the public portion and begged its members to vote against the ordinance. All who spoke claimed that a rent increase would impose a hardship, particularly for those tenants living on fixed incomes.

One of the speakers, Irene Clavering of the Nieuw Amsterdam Apartments, introduced herself as the president of the Old Bridge Tenants Association.

"We cannot afford a 4-percent rent increase," Clavering said. "Members of council, give us a break this year. Give us only a 2-percent increase."

Clavering's niece, Anita Clavering, also of the Nieuw Amsterdam Apartments, read a statement asking the council not to pass the ordinance. She stated that as the landlords continue to raise monthly rents, they provide "less maintenance and other services."

Simon, who is also chairman of the township's Fair Rent Committee, said that if Calogera or other township officials wanted to review the financial statements of the landlords, the statements are available through the Rent Stabilization Board office. He also said officials could attend the board's meetings, which are held on the second Tuesday of each month.

Amtrak chaos for commuters may be averted

Bush promises to stop traveling turmoil for thousands

BY CHARLES W. KIM
Staff Writer

NEW YORK — Thousands of New Jersey commuters may owe President George W. Bush a debt of thanks.

Trains continue to run after Bush said he will help financially troubled Amtrak resolve a $200 million shortfall, and prevent a nationwide shutdown of the service threatened for yesterday.

Bush's pledge comes just as the state Department of Transportation Commissioner James P. Fox confirmed the worst for commuters.

"A government shutdown of Amtrak could pitch our economy and our transportation network into chaos," Fox said in a Monday afternoon statement.

According to the statement, the DOT learned only Monday that Amtrak would forbid Transit from operating the Northeast Corridor line in the event of a shutdown.

"This is not a question of losing a few tourist trains through rural Montana. These people are going to work."

Sen. Robert Torricelli
D-New Jersey

"The lives of hundreds of thousands of commuters and the economic vitality businesses across the East Coast are being threatened by the ideological battle being waged in Washington, D.C.," Fox said.

Three U.S. senators said at a Penn Station news conference Sunday that a shutdown of Amtrak would send the region's commuters into "chaos."

"This is our economic infrastructure," Sen. Robert Torricelli (D-N.J.) said, stating that the impact of a shutdown would devastate the region's economy.

"This is not a question of losing a few tourist trains through rural Montana. These people are going to work," said Torricelli, flanked by colleagues Sens. Jon Corzine (D-N.J.) and Charles Schumer (D-N.Y.).

"Our region's economy has already been hurt by Sept. 11," Corzine said.

Amtrak President David Gunn threatened to shut down the carrier yesterday if a $200 million bridge loan could not be obtained to keep the financially troubled rail line going until a $1.2 billion federal appropriation is delivered in October.

Gunn stayed the shutdown for the time being while officials try to figure a way to help Amtrak out of the crisis.

Amtrak owns miles of rail track in New Jersey and New York, including the Northeast Corridor Line from Washington, D.C., to Boston.

Officials said Amtrak owns not only the tracks but the radio and signaling systems as well.

According to a letter Fox sent to U.S. Secretary of Transportation Norman Y. Mineta on Monday, there is no contingency plan that could handle the national carrier shutting down.

"It is impossible to prepare a contingency plan for an Amtrak shutdown. More than 60 percent of New Jersey trains, serving at least 80,000 passengers would be stranded," the letter said.

"Wednesday is D-Day for New York area commuters because that is the day that will determine if Penn Station stays open," Schumer said during Sunday's press conference.

The senators appealed to Bush to make the funding available to avert a shutdown of the service.

"This is a crisis that is unnecessary and easily averted," Torricelli said.

In a published report Monday afternoon, Torricelli said that Bush and Mineta gave their word that the shutdown would be averted, and that the administration would find a way to resolve the carrier's immediate financial crisis.

Toricelli said he spoke with Mineta and Bush during the president's trip to the Garden State to speak on improving security for its ports.

While Bush is pushing for major reforms at Amtrak before granting any more federal dollars, Torricelli said that the short-term problem must be fixed so people can get to work.

None of the agencies involved will comment on the potential impact the shutdown will have on the thousands of NJ Transit train commuters.

NJ Transit spokeswoman Janet Hines referred all questions regarding the issue to the state Department of Transportation on Monday morning.

"NJ Transit is under them," Hines said. When asked if the agency was developing any plan to deal with the possible shut down, Hines again referred questions to the DOT.

"We're not going to be able to give out any information," Hines said.

Christina Montorio, a spokeswoman for state Assemblyman John S. Wisniewski (D-19th District) was more optimistic about the commuting situation in case of a shutdown. Wisniewski is the chairman of the Assembly's Transportation Committee.

"We are 99 percent sure that [NJ] Transit will not shut down service," Montorio said Monday.

Montorio said the funding would likely materialize by yesterday's deadline, and if it did not, "provisions will be made" to keep Transit trains running.

Wisniewski responded to a June 13 article published by Greater Media Newspapers which quoted a federal official as saying that Transit trains would also stop if Amtrak closed.

"If Amtrak shuts down, Transit shuts down," the official said in that article.

"Quite simply, the stoppage of trains on the Northeast Corridor Line is not an option," Wisniewski said in a letter to the editor. "Your readers should be assured that I will work with Commissioner of Transportation James Fox and George Warrington, executive director, NJ Transit, to guarantee that NJ Transit trains continue to run."

Amtrak's board of directors held a meeting Monday afternoon to discuss the situation. While a shutdown of the service was averted, Mineta came away from the meeting without any real answers.

"I am confident we can avoid a shutdown of services," Mineta said.

Meanwhile, Fox and Wisniewski scheduled a press conference in Trenton for this morning to discuss a contingency plan should Amtrak face this dilemma again.

"Quite simply, the stoppage of trains on the Northeast Corridor Line is not an option."

Suspect in bank heists captured by marshals

BY LYNN K. BARRA
Staff Writer

A suspect in more than a dozen bank robberies in New Jersey and Florida was captured Friday by officials from the U.S. Marshals Service in Newark.

Lawrence McClendon, 43, was arrested at a boarding house in Elizabeth around 6 p.m. for violation of his three-year supervised parole, according to Deputy U.S. Marshal Michael Schroeder.

The marshals issued a warrant for McClendon's arrest in February 2000, shortly after he was released from a federal prison and failed to report to his parole officer in Newark, Schroeder said. McClendon served part of a 57-month jail term for his conviction in bank robberies in New Brunswick and South Plainfield in 1995 and was sentenced to a three-year supervised release.

"As soon as he got out of jail, he hit the ground running," Schroeder said. "He was surprised we found him (in Elizabeth). He went quietly, without incident."

As a condition of his supervised parole, McClendon was required to report to a parole officer within 72 hours after his release from prison in February 2000, according to Schroeder, who said McClendon never contacted his parole officer in Newark after his release.

"There is no parole in the federal system," Schroeder said. "McClendon's form of parole was one in which he was required to meet with a parole officer within 72 hours after his release from prison. The supervised release was part of his sentencing."

The ex-convict was dubbed the "baseball cap bandit" by authorities because he wore a baseball cap at the time of those robberies.

McClendon is also wanted by the FBI for questioning in connection with up to 10 bank robberies in Milltown, East Brunswick and South Plainfield, where a man robbed a Fleet Bank of an undisclosed amount of cash on May 20. McClendon is also a prime suspect in at least three bank robberies in Florida, according to Schroeder, who could not confirm the dates or locations of the Florida robberies.

"We were involved in a dual investigation with the FBI," Schroeder said. "We were investigating McClendon for parole violations at the same time he was allegedly hitting banks in Somerset and Middlesex counties."

McClendon, whose last known address was in Highland Park, was arraigned June 24 in Federal District Court, Newark, for parole violations. He is being held without bail in a Passaic County jail, pending trial for violation of his parole, Schroeder said.

In East Brunswick, McClendon is a suspect in the robberies of the First Union Bank on Route 18 near West Prospect Street Jan. 11, and the Fleet Bank on Route 18 Nov. 21. In Milltown, authorities said McClendon may have been the man who robbed the Liberty Bank in the Ryders Crossing shopping center Dec. 10, and the Fleet Bank on Ryders Lane Nov. 8.

The Fleet Bank on Ryders Lane was robbed a second time Jan. 17, but McClendon is not considered a suspect in that robbery, according to FBI Special Agent Sandra Carroll.

McClendon is also a suspect in the robbing of a North Brunswick bank in Sept. 2001 and a Highland Park bank in Aug. 2001. He is also a suspect in other bank robberies that took place in Franklin, Metuchen and Piscataway over the past 10 months.

The method of robbery was similar in many of the heists, Carroll said. In most of the cases, the perpetrator said nothing and instead presented a note to a bank teller in which he demanded a specific amount of cash and threatened to shoot the bank employee if he was not given the money.

Carroll said that McClendon — who is 5 feet 2 inches tall with a medium build — fits witnesses' descriptions of the robber. The robber was described by witnesses as a black male, between 5 feet 2 inches and 5 feet 5 inches in height with a medium build. The bank robber also donned a baseball cap during many of the robberies, Carroll said, and wore multiple layers of clothing to appear larger.

In the New Jersey robberies, in which McClendon is a suspect, more than $35,000 has been stolen, Carroll said.

EYE ALLERGIES

When allergies cause inflammation of the conjunctiva - the mucous membrane lining the inner eyelids and covering the exposed part of the eyeball - a person is suffering from eye (ocular) allergies. Seasonal allergic conjunctivitis is the most common form of eye allergy, causing itching, redness, and tearing. Perennial allergic conjunctivitis triggers similar symptoms, but they occur year-round. Environmental factors, including dust mites and chemical irritants, typically cause perennial allergic conjunctivitis. With atopic keratoconjunctivitis, the patient often has an allergic reaction called atopic dermatitis on the face or eyelids. The eyes burn and tear, and red lesions may appear. Corneal ulcers, cataracts, and light aversion (photophobia) may also occur. Vernal conjunctivitis involves inflammation that occurs most often in spring or summer.

Eye allergies can make one look and feel terrible. Don't go around hiding your eyes because of allergies - see an allergist to help you with the symptoms. You'll be glad you did! We're taking new patients at ALLERGY & ASTHMA CENTER, P.C., and will be happy to speak to you about your allergies or asthma. We are located in Hazlet at 1 Bethany Rd., Bldg. 2, Ste. 27. The phone number there is (732) 739-8787. We also have a location in Marlboro at 22 North Main St. (Route 79), and the phone number there is (732) 303-8787. We are currently accepting new patients, and all patients referred to us by their family doctor will receive a complete written report. Most insurance accepted.

P.S. Vernal conjunctivitis occurs most often in boys.

Dogs providing comfort, therapy to those in need

BY JENNIFER DOME
Staff Writer

SAYREVILLE — For many families, dogs are not just the family pet, they're a real member of the family, perhaps even viewed by children like another brother or sister.

Whether it's the calming effect that petting gives to both the animal and the person, or the fact that no matter what you say to them, the dog will still listen, most dogs provide comfort to those they live with.

The nonprofit organization, Bright and Beautiful Therapy Dog Inc., has used these soothing results as a means to help people in hospitals, nursing homes and other medical facilities. By training regular household dogs to become "therapy dogs," an ordinary pet can become an extraordinary friend.

According to Wendy Wojtaszek, a certified evaluator with the company, any dog that is friendly and well-behaved can be trained for therapy work. There is no specific type, size or breed that is best suited for therapy purposes, she said.

"A therapy dog can provide comfort to a patient," Wojtaszek said.

While some dogs that are trained to be therapy dogs have had training for other things, the extra training is not a prerequisite to join one of the classes,

Wojtaszek said.

Currently, Wojtaszek is working with her husband, Terry, at the Trinity United Methodist Church, Bordentown Avenue, to train dogs. During the last run of classes, three dogs and their handlers passed the qualifications to provide therapy, Wojtaszek said.

The next set of trainees, eight dogs, should complete their training in July, she said. Another course is expected to begin in September, but Wojtaszek said the location is yet to be determined.

During the classes, the dogs are taught basic obedience skills and are exposed to medical equipment that they may come across during a therapy visit, Wojtaszek said. They also teach the dog handlers how to guide them and to keep their attention, she said.

Once the dogs have been trained and evaluated, they are tested so that they can visit nursing homes, hospitals and other such facilities to provide therapy for the residents or patients.

In the area, the dogs have visited places such as the Residence at Forsgate in Monroe and the Hall's Corner senior complex in East Brunswick. Soon dogs are expected to visit the Carriage House, Sayreville, Wojtaszek said. Visits are done on a monthly basis, she said.

Jamesburg civic panel to present Vidbel Circus

The Jamesburg Civic Association will sponsor fund-raising performances of the Vidbel Old Tyme Circus at 5:15 and 7:30 p.m. on July 5 under a big top at JFK School, Front Street, Jamesburg.

A ringmaster will introduce Jennifer's Liberty Ponies, other animal acts, aerial trapeze acts, precision jugglers, clowns, acrobats, specialty acts and more. Live music will accompany the entertainment.

The aim of the Jamesburg Civic Association is to help in the improvement of the town by managing community events and by assisting the borough with the revitalization of the downtown business area.

The panel also helps to raise funds for local organizations, including the first aid and fire departments, and sponsors scholastic events for borough schools.

Islamic center gets zoning OK to expand

New school, office building and parking garage on tap

BY CHARLES W. KIM
Staff Writer

The South Brunswick Zoning Board has unanimously approved a variance for expanding the facilities of the Islamic Society of Central New Jersey on Route 1.

REGIONAL INTEREST

"We are very thankful to God," Imam Hamad Ahmed Chebli, the leader of the society said recently.

The proposed expansion to the mosque will include a parking garage, private school, an office building, senior housing, and a funeral preparation area.

The expansions will add more than 106,000 square feet to the current 12,700-square-foot mosque.

The 14-acre site was purchased by the society in 1975. An all-purpose room and some classes started in 1983, and the mosque was built in 1990, according to Chebli.

It took 11 meetings for the society to finally obtain the variance.

"It was a good meeting," Chebli said.

The variance was needed because some of the plans call for two-story buildings.

Chebli said that plans for each building in the expansion will have to be reviewed by the Planning Board.

"We will have to submit actual plans for each of the buildings," Chebli said.

Residents near the site objected to the expansion at the meeting, citing the already existing traffic congestion.

Proponents are claiming that the expansion will help alleviate the traffic in the area, especially during Friday afternoon services.

Chebli said that between 300-400 worshippers attend services there weekly and that the proposed parking garage will help alleviate the traffic on Route 1.

Chebli said that although the variance has been granted, the construction of the additions will take some time.

"When it happens, God knows," Chebli said, explaining that the funds for the construction must now be raised from the members of the society.

"It takes time," Chebli said.

During the Islamic holiday of Ramadan, around 5,000 to 6,000 worshippers attend society services.

"We took [the services] outside," Chebli said.

Chebli said that because of the large turnout for the holiday, the society rents hotel space to hold the crowd.

Investigation of 1916 shark attacks continues

BY JOSH DAVIDSON
Staff Writer

MATAWAN — It has been decades, but researchers are still looking to solve an infamous crime in the borough.

The crime was not a murder committed by a human being, nor did it take place on land.

What officials are investigating is a shark attack that took place on the Jersey Shore during the summer of 1916.

While sharks that caused other area attacks were caught, the one involved in the attack in Matawan Creek was not.

The attack involved an 11-year-old boy named Lester Stillwell and his friend, Joseph Dunn, 10.

The two boys were attacked while swimming in the creek. A local man, Stanley Fisher, jumped in to try to rescue the boys.

Fisher, who was 25 years old, and Stillwell both were killed, while Dunn was seriously hurt.

In the series of shark attacks that occurred that summer, four people were killed and Dunn was the only surviving victim.

According to Julius Kish, who gives tours of Matawan's Burrows Mansion

VERONICA YANKOWSKI
John and Christine Nichols of Pennsylvania speak with National Geographic television producer Ashley Hoppin about the 1916 shark attack in Matawan Creek that killed Nichols' great uncle, Stanley Fisher.

Museum, 94 W. Main St., no doctor lived or worked in town in 1916.

Kish told a small group gathered recently at the Matawan Historical Society that the victims suffered massive blood loss while being transported to the Matawan train station during the rescue effort.

He said Stillwell passed away before the train arrived, and Fisher died at the hospital.

While Peter Benchley, author of the novel Jaws, claimed he had no intention of reproducing factual events in his tale of shark attacks, he did research the 1916 Matawan attacks while writing his book, said Stillwell.

Because the 1916 shark attacks took place in vast waterways extending 94 miles from Matawan to Beach Haven and occurred over a period of 12 days, the evidence reaches all the way to Long Island, N.Y., and therefore solving the mystery has been difficult.

After years of intense research, the biggest question raised has been why were there so many shark attacks happening in such a short period of time? What made this group of sharks suddenly go out of control?

While researchers from National Geographic Society, Washington, D.C., are presently dredging the bottom of the creek in the hope of recovering sharks teeth and other materials from the now calm waters, during the time of the attacks the area was in panic mode.

Nets were placed in the water 86 years ago in an attempt to prevent further attacks. Fishermen, as well as U.S. Coast Guard personnel, were sent out to catch the sharks.

By the end of July 1916, the shark attacks made national newspaper headlines.

The attacks came when people first began using the waters for recreational use.

National Geographic is planning to film its endeavors and create a program based on its research of the shark attacks.

While attempting to find out more about a past researcher of the attacks, John Nichols, the National Geographic Society crew discovered a distant relative of Fisher, the young shark attack victim. In a twist of fate, the discovery was made because the researcher the society was searching for had the same name as Fisher's distant relative.

"The [National Geographic] television producer was looking for relatives of researcher John Nichols," said John Nichols, Fisher's distant relative.

Nichols traveled to Matawan recently from Pennsylvania to witness the society's efforts. After asking if he was the researcher John Nichols, Nichols told them no.

"I'm not a relative of John Nichols (the researcher). I am the great nephew of Stanley Fisher," said Nichols.

"My grandmother was his (Fisher's) only sibling," said Nichols. "His (Fisher's) sister, my grandmother, had two children. One was alive at the time of the attack, and that was my father."

Police Beat

All items in Police Beat are taken from police department records. All suspects are presumed innocent until found guilty in court.

OLD BRIDGE

A resident of Ocean Boulevard, Cliffwood Beach section, reported that someone removed her five-speed bicycle from the side yard of her house while she and her family were away from home between 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. Friday.

A Rock Hill Road resident reported that unknown subjects removed two hanging flower pots, valued together at $20, from outside her front porch between 5 p.m. Thursday and 4:30 p.m. Friday.

A Manalapan resident reported that unknown suspects broke open the passenger-side front window of her vehicle while it was parked outside the Birch Hill concert hall, Route 9, between 10:30 p.m. Saturday and 12:20 a.m. Sunday. During the same police call, the victim also reported her car stereo, valued at $1,400, was missing.

SAYREVILLE

A motor vehicle was reported to have been stolen from Platinum Motors, Route 9, between 7:30 p.m. Thursday and 9 a.m. Friday, police said. According to police reports, the 1989 Mercury Cougar, valued at approximately $1,500, was taken. The suspect(s) reportedly removed a battery from a customer's vehicle and put it into the Cougar in order to drive away, police reports said. The company also reported that several vehicles have been damaged and various parts have been stolen recently, though those incidents were not reported to the police.

A green Kawasaki motorcycle was reported stolen from the rear parking lot of Crestview Apartments, located on Route 9 between noon Friday and 12:30 a.m. Saturday, police reports said.

Police responded to a report of a fire at the Dwarkadhish Temple, Washington Road, at 11:25 p.m. Saturday. When police arrived, people were being evacuated from the building. Police observed smoke coming from the windows and doors of a structure separate from the temple and located in the northeast section of the property, police reports said. According to police, a fire seemed to be confined in a room on the ground level of the structure. The Sayreville Fire Department responded to the scene and extinguished the fire, which was located in what was later determined to be a kitchen. The borough's police and fire departments are continuing the investigation.

An industrial accident was reported at Co-Steel, Crossman Road, at 1:53 p.m. Sunday, resulting in an employee being burned. The victim, William J. Gallagher, of Matawan Avenue in Cliffwood, was working in front of the furnace, taking temperature readings, when material was put inside, police reports said. A reaction with the material reportedly caused an explosion and a hot substance flew out of the furnace, burning Gallagher's face, neck, shoulder and chest area. According to police reports, the Morgan First Aid Squad and the Mobile Intensive Care Unit transported the victim to Amboy Cinemas, where a helicopter picked him and took him to St. Barnabas Burn Center in Livingston. According to police reports, Gallagher was wearing protective clothing, a helmet and a face shield at the time of the incident. According to a spokesperson at St. Barnabas, Gallagher was in critical condition on Tuesday.

EAST BRUNSWICK

Police arrested two men on charges of possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia after responding to a report of a dispute at Motel 6, Route 18, at 8:48 p.m. June 8. Police said Patrolmen Robert Zielinski and Martin O'Neil encountered the two suspects, Vellis Burnett, 34, whose residence was listed as being Motel 6, and Bennett Sims, 32, of New Brunswick in the motel room, and were reportedly told that the dispute was due to an argument they had while playing a game of Trouble. Police said the officers learned that both men had outstanding warrants out of New Brunswick. After arresting the two men, police allegedly found Sims to be in possession of a clear plastic bag containing marijuana, and in the hotel room police discovered a small quantity of cocaine, along with pipes suspected to be paraphernalia. Sims was additionally charged with possession of marijuana. Both men were released after posting bail on their warrants, according to police.

A North Brunswick man was arrested on charges of forgery and prescription fraud after attempting to pick up a prescription at Eckerd Pharmacy in Loehmann's Plaza, Route 18, at 7:35 p.m. June 11. Police said Hugh M. Moss, 50, was arrested after returning to the drug store to pick up a fraudulent prescription for Ritalin that he had dropped off the previous day. Police said the prescription appeared to be computer-generated, and was supposedly written by a doctor in Bridgewater. That doctor, however, told police she did not write the prescription and that her signature had been forged, according to police. The subject was lodged at the Middlesex County Adult Corrections Center, North Brunswick, in lieu of $2,500 bail.

Police arrested and charged a Somerset woman at 3:03 p.m. June 13 with forgery and possession of stolen property after a woman attempted to use a forged prescription at Eckerd Pharmacy, Route 18, according to police. Melvina Robinson, 31, had reportedly been employed by a doctor's office in Somerset but had been terminated for stealing a prescription pad, police said. She is accused of forging the doctor's name on one of the blank prescriptions and attempting to have it filled. She was released on her own recognizance.

A Passaic man was arrested and charged with possession of stolen property and eluding police after it was learned that the motorcycle he was operating had been reported stolen from Hampton, Va., May 30. Police said they received a report that a group of people on motorcycles were speeding and driving in an erratic manner. Patrolmen John Sisolak and Jeff Marino tried to stop one motorcycle, but the driver refused to stop and ran a red light at Route 18 and Hillsdale Road, police said. The officers pursued the motorcycle until they reached St. Thomas Church, where the pursuit was terminated. Old Bridge police eventually stopped the bike, a black 2002 Kawasaki, on Route 18 near the Wawa store, and its driver, Jahhon H. Willis, 20, was arrested. He was transported to the Middlesex County Adult Corrections Center, North Brunswick, in lieu of $20,000 bail.

A suspicious incident was reported to police June 19 when three 10-year-old girls were walking to school at 8:30 a.m. and were allegedly followed by a male in a car. The man followed the girls for three blocks until they reached Central School, according to the police report. The man was described as being in his late 40s, with dark hair and facial growth. The vehicle was a blue or gray four-door car. The man did not speak to the girls. The case is being investigated by police Detective Paul Natalicchio.

Local stars honored with All-GMC, division selections

BY DOUG MCKENZIE
Staff Writer

With the passing of yet another scholastic sports season, it is time once again to recognize the area's top athletes from the spring season.

This year, a number of local athletes distinguished themselves, and were rewarded for their excellence by earning spots on the All-Greater Middlesex Conference and All-Division teams, which were selected by the conference's coaches.

In baseball, a pair of local products earned All-GMC recognition, starting with Spotswood senior catcher Kevin Brown. Brown batted .486 (34-for-70) this year with four doubles, three triples, three homers, and 25 RBIs. But he was just as brilliant in the field, where he established himself as the GMC's top defensive catcher, wreaking havoc on would-be base stealers throughout the campaign. Brown will continue his baseball career at Middlesex County College, Edison, next year.

South River's Mike Feaster also earned First Team All-GMC honors, after hitting .419 this past season. The stand-out, three-sport star was one of the top offensive threats in the conference this year, hitting three doubles, two triples and four homers, while knocking in 27 RBIs. Remarkably, Feaster only struck out twice in 84 plate appearances.

South Brunswick's Dan Rodriguez was selected as an at-large addition to the team after batting .390 (30-77) with four doubles, one homer, 21 RBIs and 10 stolen bases. He also pitched to a 6-2 record, with a 1.39 ERA. His outstanding play helped lead the Vikings to their first-ever GMC championship, and provided a fitting cap to one of the GMC's most established careers in recent history. The Montclair State-bound Rodriguez was a three-time First Team All-GMC player for the Vikings.

His teammate, Brian Sock was also an at-large selection, after going 7-2 with a 1.27 ERA. The junior right-hander led the GMC in strikeouts with 74, and was instrumental in the Vikings' playoff run, winning a pair of games in the GMC Tournament, including a 12-strikeout effort in a win over Bishop Ahr of Edison, and a complete-game win in the nine-inning thriller with Piscataway in the final.

The Vikings' coach, Leo Danik, was named the GMC's Coach of the Year, after leading the Vikes to the conference title in his first year at the helm. The story of Danik's controversial hiring is a well-documented one, but any questions regarding the move were quickly brushed aside as he helped the team overcome a 4-5-1 start to reel off 11 straight wins.

Old Bridge's Gerard Haran was also named as an at-large All-GMC player, after leading the Knights' offense this season. The junior catcher was instrumental in helping the Knights to another solid season, and should be one of the GMC's top offensive threats next year.

A number of other local players were named to their respective all-division teams. Both Brown and Feaster were named to the All-Blue Division team, as were South Rivers infielder Steve Zdep, Spotswood outfielder Peter Forte and Monroe outfielder Tom Woolfolk. Spotswood's Colin Feneis and Monroe's Steve Romulo were at-large selections.

Sayreville infielder Jeff Toth and North Brunswick infielder Anthony Alfonzo were All-White Division selections, while Alfonzo's teammate, Aaron Teitelbaum, was an at-large selection.

Four South Brunswick players, Rodriguez, Sock, infielder Nick Clemente and outfielder Kyle Cleffi, were All-Red Division selections, while Danik was the division's coach of the year.

Softball

The contingent of local softball players who earned All-GMC honors is led by East Brunswick junior Dara Gadziala, who faced the unenviable task of replacing All-State phenom Marissa Busch this year, and did so admirably. Gadziala won 17 games, including 10 shutouts, and had an ERA of just 0.59 on the year. She recorded 175 strikeouts in 155 1/3 innings, while also batting .319 with 11 RBIs.

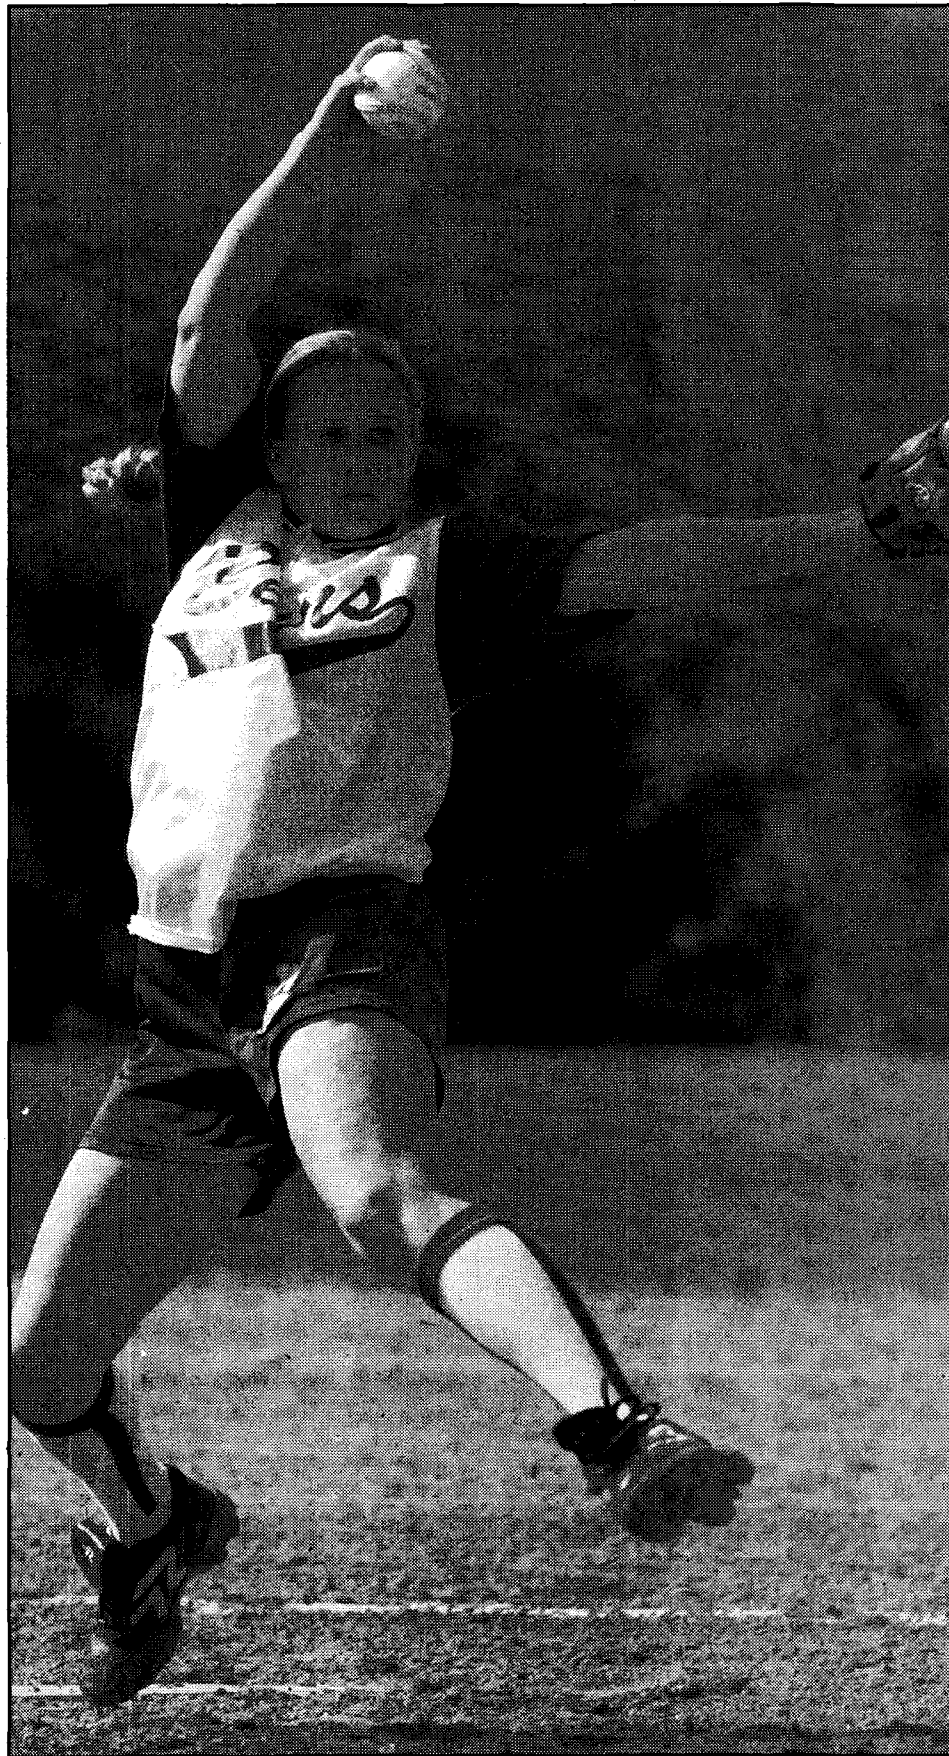

Gadziala is joined on the All-GMC team by her teammate Ashley Stapleton, a senior outfielder who had 30 hits in 25 games this year for a .353 average. A brilliant outfielder, Stapleton is the perfect lead-off hitter, mixing her excellent speed with her ability to put the ball in play consistently. She will continue to set the table next year at Philadelphia University.

South Brunswick's Jen Luis is the GMC's top second baseman this year, after having a tremendous year as the Vikings' lead-off hitter. Luis hit .386 with 15 runs scored and 10 RBIs to go along with 12 stolen bases. Luis, who was an outfielder before this season, is an excellent defensive player, who contributed to many Vikings' wins this year with both her bat and her glove.

Monroe's Vicky Blevins is at at-large selection to the All-GMC team this year after hitting .398 with 28 RBIs and seven doubles. Blevins has been one of the GMC's top offensive forces over the past three years, and will leave the school with quite a few batting records.

A number of other local players were named to their respective all-division teams. Gadziala, Luis and Stapleton all made the First Team All-Red Division, as did East Brunswick's junior third baseman Valerie Staub and senior outfielder Michelle Baiera, Old Bridge's junior pitcher Andrea Meatto, and South Brunswick's senior pitcher Colleen Cresci.

Tennis

On the tennis courts, the East Brunswick boys' team was dominant this year, which opened the door for numerous All-GMC selections for the Bears.

Sophomore Vivek Subramanian was the obvious choice at first singles, after rolling through the regular season, winning the GMC Tournament for a second year in a row, and advancing to the quarterfinals of the state individual tournament, where he lost to eventual runner-up Gordie Milchutsky of Holmdel, 6-4, 6-4.

His teammate, Ilya Kazakin-Kateyev, was the top third singles player in the GMC, as selected by the coaches, after dominating the position throughout the year for the Bears.

Ross Cohn and Ross Switkes got the nod at first doubles after winning the GMCT and advancing to the quarterfinals of the NJSIAA doubles tournament.

The Bears' second doubles team of Jonathon Cohen and David Liu were also named All-GMC, after dominating the GMC at second doubles.

Old Bridge's Jason Lefkowitz and South Brunswick's Shangril Shah received at-large honors.

South River's first doubles team of Bryan Floodman and Dmitry Petrov received First Team All-Blue Division honors, while their teammates, Adam Torge, Mario Maltez and Mike Huneke, received at-large honors.

North Brunswick's Pavan Wunnava was a First Team All-White Division selection, as were the Raiders' first doubles team of Brian Wolfson and Tom Weiman. Monroe's Ariel Stern was an at-large selection.

The All-Red Division team was a carbon copy of the All-GMC team, with the same players appearing on each. However, Old Bridge head coach Bob Brander was named Red Division Coach of the Year.

Golf

The All-GMC golf team featured several local players, including Old Bridge's Dave Scalomonti, the GMC individual winner, and Tim Daily; South Brunswick's Tom Poorten, and Tony McCracken; East Brunswick's Jon Kaczmarek, who qualified for the Tournament of Champions; Spotswood's Carl Allen, who also qualified for the Tournament of Champions; North Brunswick's Chris Osborne; and Monroe's Anthony Barbato. In addition, South Brunswick's Mark Kraft was named Coach of the Year.

Poorten, McCracken, Scalomonti, Daily, and Kaczmarek were also named to the All-Red Division team, as were South Brunswick's Chris Ardolina and Paul Kauders.

Osborne and teammate Steve Wayne received All-White Division honors, while North Brunswick head coach Ed Brehency was named Coach of the Year.

And Allen joined teammate Greg Zohovetz and Monroe's Justin Rohrig and Barbato on the All-Blue Division team. Monroe's Pete LoPresti was named Coach of the Year.

Sullivan had fewest putts with 13.

At the June 20 outing, they played four clubs and a putter, full handicap, and Parlin's Anabella Donnataria won Flight A with a 34, followed by East Brunswick's Marion Batchelor (39), Monroe's Ellie de la Bandera (40), and Haskins (41). East Brunswick's Inge Robinson won the B Flight with a 32, followed by Ertle (33), Lorber (35) and Plainsboro's Jeanne Reaph (36). Kendall Park's Gloria Frock won the C Flight with a 36, followed by Avenel's Marge Wukitsch (37), Jamesburg's Anne Jawidzik (38) and Florence Margulies of Cranbury (39). Donnataria, Karen Weinberg of Jamesburg, Edythe Gutman of East Brunswick, and Robinson had fewest putts with 16.

The following are the results of the Tamarack Women's Nine Hole Golf Association's June 13 outing at the Tamarack West Course. The game played was "play with the U.S. Open-pick pro as a partner," full handicap. Ronnie Sullivan (Tiger Woods) of Old Bridge was the winner with a 34, followed by South River's Joan Haskins (Phil Mickelson), Spotswood's Jean Ertle (Mickelson), and Monroe's Mary Ann Gelsinon (Mickelson), who all scored 37. In third place were Somerset's Sandi Sulam (Woods), Princeton's Abbey Lorber (Woods), East Brunswick's Marion Marshall (Mickelson) and North Brunswick's Linda Pitone (Woods), who all scored 39. Old Bridge Lacrosse Assoc. continues to attract players

Annual alumni game becoming a big draw among local products

BY WARREN RAPPLEYEA
Staff Writer

Current players downed former players 12-6 on Saturday in the Old Bridge Lacrosse Association's third annual alumni game at Geick Park in front of more than 200 spectators.

More important, the game's attendance highlights the growth of the association, which began with just 12 players in 1996 and now has more than 80 players in its middle and elementary school divisions, in addition to an indoor high school program. The high school players participate in the alumni games.

Rick Gergasko, Devin Refferty, Nick LaCava, Paul Antonson, Eric Goodwin and Mike Gafney, were among the current players in the game. The alumni team included Jason Siegert, who played at Stockton State College; Mike Doris, an '01 graduate who plays at Maine Maritime; Rob Hobson, another '01 grad who plays at Marist; Garrett Eaton, John Smigelski and Joe Stanilaus. All of the players also played for Old Bridge High School.

The association was founded by local residents Bob and Irene Ritz as a recreation program to develop players for the Old Bridge High School team.

"Kids would get to high school and want to play lacrosse," Ritz said. "You'd have a situation where four or five guys knew what they were doing, while the others had to be taught the basics. We wanted to change that."

Ritz, who grew up in Old Bridge and played football for then Cedar Ridge High School, had never seen a lacrosse game until he watched his son, Eric, play a college game at Rutgers in 1993. The senior Ritz was captivated by the sport, and as he learned more about the game decided to form a league.

"We put the program together to be strictly for the kids," he explained. "We had no idea it would grow like this. The response has been excellent."

Ritz noted that the association's coaches are often former lacrosse players who are not the parents of current players. Bob Pense and Karlie Mount, the coaches of Old Bridge High School's boys and girls lacrosse teams, respectively, have been advisors, and many of their players serve as assistant coaches.

In addition to the indoor high school team, which competes in the Tri-State Lacrosse League, the association fields boys teams at the eighth, seventh, and fourth through sixth grade levels, as well as a girls team for eighth graders and younger players.

These teams are part of the New Jersey Youth Lacrosse League.

"It can be expensive to play lacrosse, but we try and keep costs down," Ritz said.

"This year we charged $65 per player and we provided many of the kids who had not played before with at least some of their equipment."

For more information call the association's hotline at (732) 238-8668.

ASK US ABOUT NO DOWN PAYMENT FINANCING
Monthly payments are for 30-year conventional fixed rate mortgages as detailed below. Ask about: Lower Downpayments • Lower Monthly Payments • Other Options. For purchase prices up to $375,875 monthly mortgage payments (principal + interest) quoted in our ads are to qualified buyers, based upon a 20% downpayment and a conventional 30-year fixed rate loan at 6.375% with 3 points. A.P.R. 6.723%. As an example, a $100,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $623.87. For purchase prices from $375,875 to $812,500, the monthly payments are to qualified buyers based upon a 20% downpayment and calculated at 6.625% with 3 points on a "Jumbo" 30-year fixed rate mortgage with an A.P.R. of 6.934%. An example of a $500,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $520.55. Figures herein are approximate and do not include property taxes, hazard insurance, or homeowners association dues for a condominium purchase. Business Briefs

Van Buren joins staff at Coldwell Banker, E.B.

Lynda Van Buren has joined the Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage East Brunswick office team. She is a member of the Middlesex County Board of Realtors.

Van Buren recently completed Coldwell Banker's new associate program, which includes workshops in marketing, real estate law and ethics, negotiations, computer training and customer service. The program is required for all new sales associates and is the first step in the company's ongoing program of career development and continuing education.

A 20-year resident of New Jersey, Van Buren has lived in Milltown for the past nine years. She has a diverse background in information technology and was a project manager for AT&T and Bristol-Myers Squibb.

Van Buren earned a bachelor of arts degree in art, English and education from Tusculum College, Greenville, Tenn., and a master of business administration degree in marketing from Fairleigh Dickinson University, Madison. She also is certified by the Chubb Institute of Programming.

Bradshaw wins honors at ERA Jersey Homes

Stephen Bradshaw has been named sales associate for the month of May at ERA Jersey Homes, Old Bridge.

He accumulated more than $800,000 in dollar volume for the month.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN
(Never known to fail). O most Beautiful Flower of Mt. Carmel, Fruitful Vine, Splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me, and show me herein You are my Mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech You from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand Your power. O Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee (3 times). Holy Mary, I place this cause in your hands (3 times). Say this prayer for three consecutive days. You must publish it, and it will be granted to You. D.L.

HOW TO PUBLISH A NOVENA

Prayer to St. Jude
Oh Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near Kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depth of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return, I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. Say three Our Fathers, three Hail Marys and Glorias. Publication must be promised. St. Jude pray for us all who invoke your aid. Amen. This Novena has never been known to fail. This Novena must be said for 9 consecutive days. Thanks L.M.F.

If you wish to publish a Novena in Greater Media Newspapers, you may use the coupon below or call 1-800-660-4ADS

Your prayer will be published in our newspaper in your community.

Cost $35. per zone Pre-payment required. Mastercard, VISA or discover accepted
