MISS DAVIS

Headmistress-Teacher

MISS SHIRLEY DAVIS — HEADMISTRESS

Miss Shirley Davis has been enjoying her "happiest hour," teaching French to the ninth grade since the Fall of 1952.

"I am a French teacher," she said, and has found her teaching a wonderful chance to know the students better.

Her active life as headmistress does not prevent her from participating in community affairs which include the League of Women Voters, the Present Day Club and serving on the joint management committee of the YMCA-YWCA.

"Working on joint management will help me in learning what the problems of the future will be. But I must say that the joint meetings that have been held by Miss Fine's and Princeton Country Day School have shown a wonderful spirit of co-operation."

Both Miss Davis and Mrs. Alfred Busselle, the administrative assistant, are on the council of the National Association of Schools for Girls. Mrs. Busselle, who has been with Miss Fine's for 12 years, is also the editor of the association's 1960 proceedings.

In discussing the school, Miss Davis stressed the growth in importance and responsibility of the middle school council and activities.

The library council has also grown in responsibility and interest, she said. The council was started four years ago and is now bringing out a pamphlet, "Undercover," in which students from the fifth to 12th grades write book reviews.

Two Russian classes are now offered at Miss Fine's, one for beginners and one for the advanced pupils.

Miss Davis also reported that she has been delegated a specialist on Switzerland and was greatly honored to address the sixth grade geography class on Switzerland!

THE NEW SCHOOLS

MFS-PCD

Plans for Miss Fine's and Princeton Country Day Schools on their future joint campus off The Great Road have been reported by the chairman of the Miss Fine's trustees, Mrs. Barklie McKee Henry.

The 58 acre property includes the generous gift of 40 acres of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Mathey and purchase of the 18 acre Colross property with its Georgian 1799 mansion moved from Alexandria, Virginia 30 years ago.

As a first step, Michael Rapuano of the firm Clarke and Rapuano Landscape Architects, has been retained to study the site and to recommend locations for the buildings, roads and playing fields.

A joint steering committee of the two schools has been established. Three sub committees have also been formed to further plans for the joint schools.

The program committee was set up to study what the basic philosophy of the two schools should be and what the educational goals would be for the two schools on a co-ordinate campus. The members stressed the need for excellence, individual attention to students and development of intellectual curiosity. Also stressed was the need for involvement of parents and participation in furthering new classroom techniques.

The new plan will combine the lower schools, administered by Miss Fine's, kindergarten through fourth grade, with both boys and girls totalling 210 students.

Miss Fine's will have a separate middle and upper school, grades five through 12, with 315 students and Princeton Country Day will have its middle and upper school, grades five through 12, totalling 300 students. The number of PCD students is slightly lower due to the larger proportion of boys who go away to preparatory schools. The two schools will eventually total 825 students compared with the present 520 students.

The steering committee also studied what facilities could be used by both schools. The members decided that this will include the library, the auditorium, visual-aid equipment, science and language laboratories, arts and crafts, music, kitchen facilities.

Teachers may be shared for art, music, dramatics, science, Russian, Greek, etc. and in some advanced courses for a few highly qualified students.

The members of the committee who studied these problems over a period of six to eight months were Mrs. Douglas H. MacNeil, Mrs. Robert G. Potter Jr., Mrs. J. Richardson Dilworth and James I. Armstrong, representing Miss Fine's; Marston Morse, Sidney Shea, Chester Stroup and C. William Edwards from Princeton Country Day School and Richard W. Baker and Mrs. Henry, trustee representatives.

The second sub committee decided on the choice of an architect for the new building. Frederick B. Adams Jr. was the chairman and the members include C. McKim Norton, David H. McAlpin. They chose the New York City firm of Moore and Hutchins and preliminary plans and sketches should be ready by Sept. 1.

Moore and Hutchins designed the new music building on the Princeton University campus.

The fund raising committee was composed of Warren P. Elmer Jr., chairman, J. Richardson Dilworth, Bernard Kilgore, Dr. Sachs-Wilmer, Mrs. Hibben Ziesing and Henry H. Patton. They decided to employ the firm of Marts and Lundy. The committee conducted a survey last Fall to determine the climate of opinion and the chances of success for raising the money needed. The findings were favorable and a fund raising campaign will be started this coming Fall.

This year over $40,000 in unsolicited gifts have been received for the joint project. The first work to be undertaken will be the roads and playing fields.

Secretary's Report

The annual meeting of the Miss Fine's School Alumni Association was held on May 22 where new officers were elected and reports were given by the treasurer and the president.

Mrs. A. Peter Carter presented the treasurer's report. The Alumni Association has had its own bank account as of February and presently has a balance of $434.15. This year the balance will be made available for the Alumni Magazine.

Mrs. Wells Drorbaugh gave the president's report. The board members had voted not to merge the Parents' Association with the Alumni Association.

Revisions which the board has made for its members were outlined by Mrs. Drorbaugh. The four officers will remain—president; vice president, who is to organize all social activities, secretary and treasurer. In place of the members at large there will be three board members, one to act as liaison to the board of trustees, one to act as liaison to the Outgrown Shop and the current editor of Alumni Magazine.

The association will continue its membership in the Alumni Presidents Council.

Two constitutional amendments were made and passed unanimously. The changes are article IV, section 1, stating the change from nine to seven board members, their terms being: officers, two years; alumni representative to Outgrown Shop, two years; alumni representative to board of trustees, three years, magazine editor, one year.

The other change concerned article V, section 5, stating that the treasurer of the Alumni Association will be given $500 from the board of trustees for a yearly allowance.

SCHOLARSHIP BENEFITS

Deemed a major artistic and financial success was the second annual Festival of the Arts. The festival netted $4,750 for the May Margaret Fine Endowment Fund.

Nearly $100,000 worth of art works were on exhibition and sale at the show held Oct. 17 through 20. There was an over-flowing gallery of contemporary sculpture, ceramics and paintings from nearly every eastern state and several foreign lands.

Mrs. Augustus K. Mills was general chairman with Mrs. Peter C.

Cook and Mrs. Gilbert Lea co-chairmen of the painting department.

Benefit Dance

The Benefit Dance Committee has announced that the dance held in February netted $1,255.63 for the endowment fund.

The 10th annual dance will be held Feb. 4, 1961 in the Miss Fine's School gymnasium.

UNIVERSITY HONORS

MRS. WADE

The head of the French department at Miss Fine's School, Mrs. Mable Hamilton Wade, was named a recipient of the second annual "Princeton Prizes for Distinguished Secondary School Teaching in the State of New Jersey," a series of four yearly awards consisting of $1,250 each.

Announcement of the awards was made by President Robert F. Goheen at Princeton University's commencement, June 14, in recognition of Mrs. Wade's "fruitful teaching, devoted service and human as well as professional qualities."

A graduate of Marietta College and a recipient of a Master of Arts degree in French from Columbia University, Mrs. Wade has studied at both the Alliance Francais in Paris and La Sorbonne.

After two years of teaching at Bradford Junior College in Massachusetts, she joined the faculty of Miss Fine's School in 1927 and has played a prominent part in the school's growth through five administrations.

MRS. IRA O. WADE

At Miss Fine's School, Mrs. Wade, the wife of Professor Ira O. Wade of Princeton University's Department of Romance Languages, has taught French during her entire tenure in grades nine through 12. For 16 of those years, she has served as faculty advisor to the junior class and to the student social service committee.

Mrs. Wade has, for 15 years, served as academic head of the school whenever the absence of the headmistress made it necessary.

In 1959, Mrs. Wade was awarded a "Certificat d'Honneur" from the Concours National de Francais sponsored by the American Association of Teachers of French because of the excellence of her students in these competitions.

Four of the five American Field

Service Scholars from Miss Fine's School have been named to go to France (to spend their junior year abroad) largely because of their excellence and fluency in the language and the extraordinary interest which Mrs. Wade has developed within her students.

The tribute paid to Mrs. Wade in the 1959 Senior Yearbook at Miss Fine's emphasizes the qualities and talents which have led to her selection as one of the 1960 Princeton Prize winners.

"The teaching of French takes on a new dimension in her classes for through her scholarship and contagious enthusiasm, she instills not only a knowledge of the language and literature of France but its culture, its people and its way of thinking," reads the tribute.

ALUMNI WHO'S WHO

The achievements of Miss Fine's School alumni are varied—ranging from a pianist playing in Austria to the school's first Guggenheim Fellow. Many of the alumni are quietly disproving the bitter and sometimes extremely emotional argument of career versus motherhood.

Mrs. Marina von Neumann Whitman is certainly such an example. Malcolm Russell Whitman, age seven months and the beginning of a Ph.D. thesis in the area of American private foreign investment have proved to be a perfect combination, aside from the usual demands of a home.

After graduating from Miss Fine's in 1952, Mrs. Whitman majored in government at Radcliffe College. She was co-editor of the News, Junior Phi Beta Kappa and won the Phi

MARINA WHITMAN, '52

Beta award for the highest ranking senior.

She graduated from Radcliffe College Summa Cum Laude and was awarded the Fay Prize for the member of the class "showing evidence of greatest promise."

Commuting four days a week from Princeton to New York City, Mrs. Whitman received her Master of Arts degree from Columbia University's department of economics in February 1959 and passed her Ph.D. orals in May 1959. Her Master's thesis "The United States Investment Guaranty Program and Private Foreign Investment" was published by the International Finance Section of Princeton University in February 1960 and was sent by the State Department and ICA to various embassies and missions around the world.

She has received two Columbia University Fellowships and this past year a dissertation fellowship from the Earhart Foundation.

SARAH HART, '53

Miss Sarah Hart has continued her piano studies and is seriously thinking of a career. She received her Master of Arts degree four years after graduating from Miss Fine's in 1953, from the Yale School of Music.

In Princeton she played with the Princeton University Orchestra and gave a recital after graduating from Yale.

She studied and played in London, England and has been working in Vienna, Austria for the past year, under the famous teacher Seidhofer.

Last Summer she also studied and played in Salzburg. Miss Hart is returning to Princeton this month.

Miss Jane M. Cooper, class of 1942 from Miss Fine's, has been granted a fellowship by the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation. She is the first alumna to have received this distinction.

The fellowship is for creative writing in poetry and she plans to spend a year abroad, principally in Italy and Greece. After graduating from Miss Fine's, Miss Cooper attended Vassar College, received a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Wisconsin and a Master of Arts degree from the University of Iowa. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

At present, she is a member of the faculty of Sarah Lawrence College, where she has taught creative writing and literature since 1950.

COMMENCEMENT AWARDS

Miss Eileen Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Baker Jr., 207 Edgerstoune Road and Miss Catherine Otis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Otis of 838 Princeton-Kingston Road, were presented with high awards.

Miss Baker who graduated with high honors in June, was cited by the Women's College Club of Princeton for her scholastic achievements and qualities of fine character, personality and leadership.

Miss Otis was given the Silver Cup, the school's highest honor award at the 61st commencement exercises held June 9.

Le Circle Francais of Princeton presented their book award to Miss Martha Thompson, the fourth year student who had the highest record of achievement in French during her years at Miss Fine's.

The Gold F, the highest athletic honor award was given to Miss Susan Carter and Miss Sally Hagen, the silver F to Miss Nancy Davison. The Gold Key, the highest honor award of the middle school went to Miss Cary Smith.

The annual literary awards of the Link were presented to Miss Elsie Chase, upperschool poetry; Miss Nan Carey, middle school prose and Miss Sally Behr, middle school poetry.

1960 ANNUAL FACTS

This year, due to the formation of the Miss Fine's School Development and Building Fund, many of our contributors to Annual Giving have specified that their gifts be donated to this new fund. As a result the Annual Giving figures and per cents appear to be lower than last year.

1933

Sarah Gardner Tiers' news came to us from 12,000 miles away. Sally writes that she has lived in Singapore for three years, and loved every minute of it. She writes us of her new home: "Sorry girls, you will have to change your thinking—Singapore is not in China, is not in the jungle, is not infested by cobras and malarial mosquitoes. Singapore, as of May 31, 1959, is a state, (island country of its own, 24 by 16 miles, off the South tip of Malaya, 65 miles from the equator) a member of the British Commonwealth. The days are hot and mostly sunny—(never as hot as Princeton Summers) and the nights cool. I forget whether it's June or January—No screens needed in doors or windows, and one can drink soft water from the tap! We live two minutes from a 36 hole golf course—we have 13 public and religious holidays a year, celebrating such events as Mohamed's birthday, Chinese New Year, Deepavoli—Hindu Festival of Light, Vesak Kay—Lord Buddha's birthday, and the Christian holidays. Eighty per cent of the 1,500,000 population are Chinese, following in order: Malays, Indians, Europeans and Eurasians. There are about 600 Americans. I spend my time taking odd courses in the religions of Singapore—Yogi too—playing golf, writing for the American Community Newspaper, and traveling in S. E. Asia." Sally and her husband, who is with The First National City Bank of New York, will be in Singapore until the Summer of 1961. Sally has three sons: Harry Rulon-Miller finished two years in the Navy this June, Sumner Rulon-Miller finished his junior year at Princeton, and Patrick his sophomore year at Yale.

Elizabeth Bright Morgan writes that she is running the 1960 Cancer Crusade for Philadelphia district 18, and says she has lots of children.

Anne Armstrong Hutchinson moved to Lake Forest, Ill. two years ago. Her oldest son enters Lafayette College in the Fall. Anne is active in church work, P.T.A. board, and is on the Woman's Board of Presbyterian St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago. She will be in Princeton in the Fall.

Elizabeth Menzies writes from Princeton that though she is still a professional photographer, she also paints. She has developed a special technique for making abstract lacquer paintings. The paintings are handled by The Little Gallery in Princeton. Elizabeth traveled 8,000 miles through Western U.S.A. and Mexico last year for inspiration.

Cornelia Duffield Dielhenn writes that her oldest son, Clarence D. Kerr, III, is married to Hope Thompson, M.F.S. 1953, and son Douglas is with the Army, stationed in Germany. Twelve year old Pamela keeps them busy at home.

OUR 125th ANNIVERSARY YEAR

a brand new house in Rumson, N. J. with husband, Carl, three children ages five, almost two, and six months, and two golden retrievers. Sounds like a full house!

Hilary Thompson Demarest and husband are still working in the Research Laboratories of United Aircraft Corp. in East Hartford. Hilary is working as a mathematical analyst and computer programmer for IBM 704 and Philco Transac electronic computers. The Demarests are about to move into their new house in Ellington, Conn.

Hope Thompson Kerr and husband spent two weeks over Christmas in England visiting her parents in Oxford. The Kerrs took daily excursions about the English countryside, and claimed that they never saw an American while they were there. Skip is working in New York City, and Hope is teaching at the Cathedral School of St. Mary, Garden City, L. I., as head of the physical education department.

Louise Hiden is living at 201 East 15th Street, Apt. 7-E, New York, and is a ticket and reservation agent and ground hostess for Delta Air Lines. Aside from her job, she has managed to squeeze in several trips to Georgia, Florida and San Francisco. Weezie expects to investigate the Caribbean and Caracas, Venezuela in the Fall. Weezie comes back to visit old M.F.S. friends frequently, and manages to keep in touch.

Wendy Hall Alden was married in September and is now living in New Haven, Conn. where husband, John, is doing graduate work at Yale.

Jane Gihon Shillaber is living in Princeton with husband, Mike, and two sons, ages three and one. Jane says that the family keeps her busy, but that she loves every minute of it.

1954

Cathy Hammell is now home after working with Simplicity Pattern Co. in New York for a year. She is now working at the Firestone Library and is a present member of the Junior Contemporary Club of Trenton.

Susan Creasey Gertler writes that she now has a house and a child, her first of each. Jeremiah Joseph Gertler was born a leap-year baby this past Feb. 29, and the Gertlers are living in North Babylon, L. I.

Susan Thompson Millard has moved into her new home in Hurst, Texas, and she has a two year old daughter.

Mary Runyon graduated from the Wood-Country School in 1954, and spent a year in school in Switzerland. She graduated from Wheelock College in 1959, and is now teaching in New York City.

1955

Carol Stokes spent three months in Europe last Summer, and is currently living and working in Princeton.

Merriol Baring-Gould has a fellowship from the German Government to study in Berlin, and as German universities have vacation during most of March and April, Merriol has been driving with a friend through East Germany, West Germany, Austria, Italy and Yugoslavia, and back through Switzerland. On the way she had six days of skiing in the alps, and went to England for April. She will be home in August, and is having a wonderful year.

Terry Beck Morse is living in Moorestown, N. J. with her two small sons and husband. From the sound of Terry's card, she and small sons are very much involved in painting and sculpture. Talent starts young, you know.

Lucy Busselle Hanschka is teaching French at Milton Academy. Husband, Mark, is at the Harvard Medical School, and both are having a very exciting and interesting time.

Jo Cornforth Cutler is working for New England Tel and Tel as a service representative, while husband, Miles, finishes his graduate career at M.I.T. this Summer. The Cutlers plan to leave for Europe on July 1, and will return on Sept. 6, when they will move to Dallas, Tex. Miles has a job with Texas Instruments.

Jean Crawford has been living in Greenwich Village this Winter, and has been working for McGraw-Hill Book Co. Jean will be returning to school next year to get her Master of Arts in Teaching at Brown University, and will eventually teach English and art in odd places in the world, she hopes.

Ann Freedman graduated from Connecticut College in 1959, and has just completed her first year of medical school at Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania.

Ellen Jamieson took a non-matriculated philosophy course in graduate school at Columbia and Fordham last Fall, and is now facing the hard cold work working at Compton Advertising.

Mary Goodrich Thomas announces the birth of a daughter, Elizabeth Dixon, born July 7, 1959.

Laura Travers Pardee writes from Princeton that son, Michael Ward Pardee, arrived on April 30, 1960.

Elsa Johnson is now employed in New York City in the advertising agency of J. Walter Thompson, and enjoys it a great deal.

Chloe King writes: "My most urgent news is that I am trying to organize a reunion for the class of 1955. However, this is a bit difficult without a complete list of married names and addresses of my classmates." Chloe is teaching at Concord Academy, Concord, Mass., and says that it is "superb." Chloe's present address is 2A Aberdeen Court, Cambridge, Mass., but she will return to Maine for the Summer.

Alice Marie Nelson graduated from Bennington last June and is now living in New York, working for Columbia Records in the Classical Record Department. Alice is also studying voice and cello.

pital on Long Island. She returned from Hawaii in March, where she visited her brother, Bob Kales, who is in the navy. Joan also saw Hobey Alsop's brother, Peter, who is teaching school there.

Lucile Stafford Crisfield graduated from Wellesley College in June having been a Wellesley College Scholar, was married in Princeton University Chapel on June 25 to James P. Crisfield, Yale University, class of 1953. They will spend the Summer in Lancaster, Pa., where Jim is an electronics engineer with RCA. They will live in Boston next year while Jim finishes at the Harvard Business School.

Ann A. Smith graduated from Sarah Lawrence College, where she has been majoring in psychology. She studied at NYU during the Summer of 1958, and last Summer attended the Westchester Business School. At Sarah Lawrence Ann managed the college dining room, was secretary of the college scholarship committee, served on the social service committee and of the NAACP. She was also assistant to the editor of the college alumnae magazine, a house committee member of her dormitory, assistant in the library, and a reporter on the campus newspaper. Besides all of this, she has been working with Puerto Rican adolescents at a settlement house in New York City, and was a student observer in the Sarah Lawrence nursery school. Ann is now hoping for a job in the field of fashion magazine publicity, and perhaps in a few years will return to Sarah Lawrence to work on the administration staff.

Bettina Burbridge is now studying at the Sorbonne in Paris, and her new address is c/o Mme. Brisson, 21 Rue du Vieux Colom-bier, Paris VI, France.

Nancy Miller writes that she was on the college senate this year as junior representative, and has been elected president of her house, for next year, but she omits the name of her college. Nancy also added that Tina Burbridge has had a wonderful year at the Sorbonne and spent Christmas vacation in Switzerland, toured Spain and Italy and this Summer will tour the Continent, including Russia.

Judy Vollbrecht has managed to stay on the dean's list at Newton College of the Sacred Heart, where she graduated this year. She adds, "I guess most of my Summer will be spent in Princeton, trying to get my thesis finished."
