Alumni Class Notes Take On New Look

Alumni Class Notes take on new look. This spring in keeping with the latest fashion trends, the PDS Alumni Newsletter presents a streamlined silhouette.

This newsletter, which will be published once each year, will take the place of the spring Journal. It will contain class notes, articles written by alumni, and news pertinent to alumni. The Journal will continue to bring you up-to-date on news of the entire school as well as alumni news but will be mailed only once a year, in the fall. The change in format was prompted by economic considerations but we hope you'll find that the Newsletter is just as full of interesting information as the Journal.

Please keep in mind that both the Journal and the Newsletter will welcome your class notes as well as photographs, and will continue to count on your participation.

In the Alumni Office . . .

New Alumni Secretary, Linda Maxwell Stefanelli '62

Linda Maxwell Stefanelli '62 has been appointed Alumni Secretary of Princeton Day School. She will be responsible for correspondence with all classes, an editor of the Newsletter/Journal, and coordinator of all alumni activities. In addition to her work in the alumni office, Linda will be coaching squash and lacrosse. She and her husband Tony are the parents of two daughters and a son, Trip, PDS grade 5. Linda is the daughter of Sanders Maxwell PCD '32. While at Miss Fine's School Linda was awarded the Gold P for her outstanding athletic accomplishment and sportsmanship.

Martha Sullivan Sword '73, formerly Alumni Secretary, will now act as Director of Alumni Relations for the school and Assistant to the Director of Development.

15 No Class Secretary

Lydia Taber Poe writes from Doylestown, PA that she "had to leave Princeton—after 65 years!—for this kind place because my back, like the Roman Forum, is disintegrating."

16-19 No Class Secretary

20-24 Class Secretary
Mrs. T. Stockton Gaines '22
(Katherine Blackwell)
"Fairhaven"—Box C115
Sykesville, MD 21784

20 In July of 1982, I received a card telling me that Myla Raycroft Hahner died in August of 1981. She lived in Califon, NJ and I know she must be greatly missed by her family and friends.

21 Helen Smith Shoemaker lives at "Burnside Farm" in the Green Spring Valley near Baltimore, MD. She spends a few months of the winter in Florida. I see her occasionally, which is great fun for me since I have moved to Maryland.

22 I, your secretary, have just lived through the "Blizzard of '83." "Fairhaven" came through beautifully. The dining room was closed for two days, but meals were delivered to over 300 people. Hot fried chicken—imagine?

23 Annabel Dixon Arnett had a bad accident last spring. She was knocked down by a wave and broke her arm. She and her husband, George, seem to commute to California, where most of their children live.

Long Time No Hear!

What a great surprise it was to hear from CECIL BAKER '25. He wrote from Prescott, Arizona that his old friend and classmate, NOEL BUSCH, of Millbrook, NY "has written me that Miss Fine's School is now the P.D.S. I am prompted by a twinge of nostalgia to write you.

"I attended Miss Fine's in—God Save the Mark—1918, if memory serves. We lived in the Episcopal Rectory that year, with my uncle, the Rev. Dr. Alfred Baker, who for some time was the Oldest Living Graduate of Princeton (University).

"Later, when I went to Lawrenceville, I was told that my Latin foundation was 'very good.' I attribute this compliment to the beginnings of Latin I acquired at Miss Fine's. The fact that I remember the compliment at all I attribute to its rarity in my life.

"As to my life, all I can say is that, in all its aspects, I have been rather pointedly unknissed by that Bitch-Goddess Success.

"But I wish the P.D.S. well, and I salute you from far away and long ago."

Thank you, Cecil.

25 Class Secretary
Mrs. Walter J. Smith
(Florence Clayton)

From Wellesley College recently has come the information that Mary Reddan Jamieson died October 12, 1981. A note of sympathy has been sent to her husband, Crawford Jamieson. Mary, a member of the class of 1929 at Wellesley, formerly lived in Trenton but more recently resided in Lawrenceville, N.J. Sue Blackwell Posey learned from Annabel Dixon Arnett '23 that Mary's daughter, Martha (Mrs. James) Crawley, also lives in Lawrenceville; her daughter, Polly (Mrs. Edward) Meara lives in Trenton as does her son, Tom; Ellen (Mrs. Ernest) Frank is a resident of Long Island, while Susan (Mrs. Max) Creighton is now a Jacksonville, FL lawyer.

Sue Blackwell Posey also sends a do-you-remember-when? question. Let us know if you remember the answer to: Why did Miss Fine not have the Senior Dance for the Class of 1925? May 1982 Sue attended the Smith College graduation of her great-niece, then a grandson's Hotchkiss graduation, followed by her husband, Mitch's, 60th Reunion at Andover. Sue's comment, "Life is good to us!" is indeed true.

Christmas cards and greetings always bring news from classmates. Helen Foster Highberger tells of the successful completion of her husband, John's, operation on his thyroid. A 40th wedding anniversary was celebrated in August with daughter, Judy, and son, Bill and his family at his home in Alexandria, VA. Bill has been made a partner in the law firm of Gibson, Dunn and Crutcher and his wife is now a Deputy Assistant Attorney General. A glorious two week bus tour of Norway, Sweden and Denmark was a September adventure. After a family gathering at the Highbergers' at Thanksgiving, Helen was scheduled for a hospital sojourn for follow-up throat surgery. We hope that Helen has come through with flying colors.

Joan Woolworth Smith's Christmas note gave an enthusiastic account of her move to a fourth floor retirement apartment with a balcony affording a charming view of distant downtown Columbus, Ohio. She is enjoying painting, lettering, reading and volunteer work while keeping in touch with her enlarging family including three great-granddaughters, a great-grandson and a fifth great-grandchild expected in March. Joan, I bet you take the prize for the most great-grandchildren! Anyone challenge that?

Dot Auten Sutton continues to enjoy her retirement community in Hartford, CT, where she is participating in a tutoring program in reading for first and second graders, attending Town and Gown lectures at Trinity College in October, "Great Decisions" discussions in February and March, a symphony series and Hartford Stage Company plays. Her church work continues as she serves on the Vestry and Liturgical Committee at Grace Episcopal Church. She attended the graduation from Williams College of her second granddaughter, Carol, followed shortly by Carol's wedding. No time to be bored or lonesome for Dot!

From Orient, N.Y., Winnie Link Stewart tells of "this charming area of old houses, beautiful countryside and great interest in preserving the old in Suffolk Township" where she is a member of the Oyster Ponds Historical Society. She is happy to have her daughter, Anne Tuthill, and Anne's second husband with her fourteen year old son living nearby in an old farmhouse in an agricultural area where horses, produce and grape cultivation are important. Winnie also enjoys visiting her son, John Stewart, who is Assistant Manager of T.V.A. in Knoxville, TN. Winnie chose last year's Dogwood Festival time to spend with John, wife Nancy, eighteen year old Michael and fifteen year old Cara in their Southern home on a five acre estate.

As for your Secretary, Walter's mild heart attack somewhat restricted our activity in the fall. However, Thanksgiving was celebrated with both daughters—Roxanne McNamara and Deborah Gasior—and their families at Debbie's home in Park Ridge, N.J. Christmas brought son, Ted Jope, and his family from LaCanada, California to enjoy the holiday season in Winchester, MA with us. Any free time left over from Wellesley College, church and hospital volunteer work is taken up with helping with preparation for Walter's five-day 55th Reunion of his M.I.T. Class of 1928 this June of which he is in charge.

Thanks to all of you who have shared the news! We shall hope to hear from the others, too, next time.

Helen Scamell Walton and Margaret (Girle) Wheaton Tuttle (Mrs. Arthur F. Tuttle) are still "lost." Some one in our Class must know their whereabouts. Please send their addresses.

Elizabeth (Betty) Maddock Clissold went to her first Elderhostel. This was on Prince Edward Island at the University. She would like to go to many more.

Betty Maddock Clissold, her son, granddaughter and five great-grandchildren.

Dorothea (Doro) Matthews Dooling is going to meet me in New York for lunch before the end of February—too bad a report on this will be too late for the deadline of this Journal.

Doris Johnson Low brings us up to date on her sons. David is considering several jobs in the Washington area and also the possibility of starting his own business as a financial consultant. Meanwhile, with a Gilbert & Sullivan Troupe of which his wife is President, he sang one of the leads in "Iolanthe." Peter is using in his classes at the University of Virginia the textbook on criminal law which with the help of another law professor he wrote. This book is now being used by 25 law schools.

Doris Johnson Low's son, David, his wife, Nancy, John and Amanda taken at Point 'o' Woods, Fire Island, N.Y. where they spent last August.

Katherine (Kay) Mitchell Osborne and her husband had a festive visit in Savannah last fall stopping at many of their favorite Southern haunts both going and coming. Despite our nostalgia for both Princeton and Savannah, we are thoroughly enjoying Philadelphia and all she has to offer.

Margaret (Stevie) Stevens Stevens spent Christmas with her son, David, and his family in New Canaan, Connecticut. Her grandsons are all in college—one in Springfield College, Springfield, Massachusetts, one in the University of New Hampshire, Durham, New Hampshire, and one in Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pennsylvania.

Elizabeth (Libbie) Noyes Stockman writes that Oregon has the flu and "Recession-depression-obsession—here, as everywhere." However, she plans to make her annual trip this summer to their island in Casco Bay, Maine. Her son-in-law, Donald Hodel, formerly Undersecretary of the Interior, is now Secretary of Energy. He was sworn in on November 5, 1982 and confirmed in December.

Elizabeth (Lib) Blackwell Twyeffort has been a member of the Paul Longenecker Seminar since its beginning. Her paintings of last summer hung in the exhibit held at the James Hunt Barber Galleries, Nantucket, on August 31, 1982. She gave a slide lecture entitled "Castles and Palaces Around the World" to the Colonial Dames in New York early in November. This lecture she will repeat for the English Speaking Union in New York on February 17th.

Margaret (Peggy) Cook Wallace and her husband, Jack, spent the summer in their Nantucket house. In the fall Fred and I had a wonderful time "catching up" with them over a cup of tea in their Princeton home. Peggy and Jack are going on a tour of Germany and Austria sponsored by the Princeton Art Museum in the spring.

Jean March Westphal and her husband, Al, visited their daughter, Gina, and her family in Wassenaar, Netherlands in October. In November Jean was honored by having her photograph hung in the Buchanan Library of Landon School where she worked for 18 years. Al finished a volume published just before Christmas for a distinguished surgeon "who was skilled with the scalpel but weak with the quill."

(ED. NOTE: Your loyal Secretary, Katherine Mitchell Osborne, has asked to be replaced as class secretary. She has done a wonderful job since 1969. We wish to thank her for all her work. If you would be interested in taking on the job, please contact the Alumni Office.)

Jib Johnston Koren spent Christmas with her sister, Sarah (Jab) Johnston Trafford '31. She is looking forward to her 50th reunion at Vassar and her brother-in-law, Barney (Thornell) Koren PCD '26, is having his 50th reunion at Princeton.

Margaret Lowry Butler writes: "After many happy years in Connecticut, we have sold our home in Green Farms and have moved back to Asheville, NC where many of my family live as well as many friends. I am near the same aunt who was like my mother when we all lived on Boudinot Street and I walked to Miss Fine's as did my cousin, Anne Holt Massey '32. She was mother's youngest sister and is now 94 years old and still very keen. We have a nice condominium, the way of life for so many now, and I am glad to be relieved of responsibilities. We'll be coming to the New York area from time to time, and will certainly be on hand in Princeton for the presentation of Pat Herring Stratton's '32 portrait of Hobey Baker '14, given by our own Jean Herring Rowe to the University for the renovation of the Hobey Baker Memorial Skating Rink. New address: GG2 Crowfields Lane, Asheville, NC 28803."

Explanation: For many years one of my treasured possessions was a beautiful piece of art, a portrait which hung in Roy's and my little museum here at the New Age Mission Inc. we founded and built on the Illinois River in Oregon in 1964. My favorite painting was done by my sister whom I call Pat the Painter—Patricia Herring Stratton '32—of one of Princeton's greatest athletes, Hobey Baker '14. He was a close family friend, being only five years younger than our father, Donald Grant Herring '07 who was Hobey's preceptor. (This due to our father's having graduated at age 20 instead of the usual 22.) Hobey spent happy hours with us when we lived on Library Place and Cleveland Lane and at Mantoloking in the summers where he gave me my first swimming lessons. A great bond of friendship developed between us and I was devastated when he was killed. I have written down my childhood memories of our family friend and was planning to come to Princeton to tell them in person on April 9th but now must ask our classmate, Margaret Lowry Butler to pretend she is me and read the memories and unveil the portrait for me. I chose her because she knew about the rink being renovated and when she discovered I owned this beautiful portrait, she began twisting my arm so hard that I finally gave in and agreed with her that more Princetonians than Oregonians should be able to see and admire our Hobey. Sam Howell PCD

'43 of the Athletic Department seemed pleased and set a date for the unveiling at which the artist, Pat the Painter, and I were to be honored guests, after which Margaret planned a lovely buffet luncheon at the Nassau Club. Roy and I feel very disappointed that circumstances don't allow us to take this 3,000 mile trip together. It seems that one of us just has to be here at all times. When we tried leaving together, disasters occurred. So Margaret will kindly do the honors.

Speaking of trips, I just returned from Manila, Philippines where a group of us went to visit the famous psychic surgeons. It was the first time in twenty-eight years of marriage Roy and I had ever been apart and I could hardly stand it. He said he had the same trouble! If I told you what happened there the editors would probably say I am taking too much space as they did once before when I told about a trip to Madonna Inn in California after Sally Gardner Tiers '33 mentioned she had been there. They cut out my whole column for the first and only time, so as not to risk that again, would you like to hear about a most fabulous and rare experience I had which only a few million people world wide have ever had in the next Journal? It's unbelievable because of the way 90% of people have been trained to believe, but nevertheless it is really true. It will startle you, maybe shock you into thinking more deeply. Those who can't handle it, dismiss it as a bunch of lies or "hypnosis," magic, trickery, but these it's NOT! Scientists, doctors, dentists, chemists and researchers of all kinds came to sneer and left with a cheer signing statements that God performs miracles and that they had to believe their eyes. Some even participated and helped the Holy Healers as well as taking thousands of photos and movies of operations. We all watched each other being healed and took pictures. I'll tell you about my trip next time.

Believe it or not, our class has finally come through with some news thanks to Clare Raymond Durant and Jan Wicks Grindley. I had nice newsy letters from both of them and will share the contents with the rest of you.

Clare writes that she is now spending the summers again in the Raymond family place in Woodstock, New Hampshire where, as a teenager, I spent many a happy time. The winters she spends in Stuart, Florida. Her oldest daughter and a friend live with her there in her cypress cabin. She invites us all to visit her in either place. Look out, Clare, we might all take you up on that invitation.

Jan wrote a wonderful letter from Westport Point, MA where she and Bob decided to spend the winter this year instead of going to the Bahamas. They have added another room to their house instead of moving to a retirement home. She and one of her daughters left their families for three weeks and vagabonded around England and had a ball. Jan is now the proud possessor of seven grandchildren. One of her sons is an architect, another is a builder and cleans chimneys on the side (I could use him), one daughter is Alumni Secretary at Marlboro College, VT and youngest daughter is in the pediatric clinic at M.I.T. One by one all the Wicks clan are retiring to Westport Point—Aud is already there and Dave plans to be there soon. Jan's sister, Targ Wicks Spicer MFS '43 lives on a farm in Vermont and her brother, Bob PCD '38 teaches at Newton High.

I am still in the Admissions Office at PDS and will probably stay one or two more years and then will be ready to be put out to pasture. I see Nini Duffield Dielhenn quite a lot as we both work as volunteers at the hospital and both go to the same beauty parlor. She is a grandmother several times over and is a good one, I can tell you. No more news till the next time.

32 No Class Secretary

Exciting news from Margaret Russell Edmondson: "This is our year for weddings! Our oldest granddaughter, Mylene Edmondson, was married Dec. 19th to Michael Melson. Her sister, Cathy Edmondson, will marry Curtis Boster on March 26th, and our older grandson, Eric Olson, will marry Caroline Julius on June 25th. It's a busy and happy year."

Margaret also sends the news that her son, Frank, Jr., after 21 years in the Air Force, has completed Law School and passed the bar exam. Her granddaughter, Mylene, graduated last May from Miami of Ohio.

Don't forget Alumni Day, June 11th. Put it on your calendar now!! Accompanying this article is a picture of the portrait photograph of Albert Einstein by our celebrated artist photographer, Betty Menzies, that we are presenting to the school at our 50th Anniversary! Of course, we hope you will be on hand June 11th to see it and Betty in real life. As you know, Betty has retired from photography. I mentioned in the last Journal that she has taken up silver-smithing and now has her jewelry on sale in four shops, the nearest in Kingston in "Full House." Betty is self taught. A couple of books on the subject, a blow torch, a flameproof stove top, silver, varied colored stones, a lot of imagination and she went to work with gusto. One's birthday and Christmas lists come to mind!!

Betty Menzies '33 holding her portrait photograph of Albert Einstein which the class of 1933 will present to PDS at their 50th reunion. (Margaret M. Fisher)

Following is an interesting tidbit that ties in with our Einstein photo. Recently I saw Anne Armstrong Hutchison's brother, Park, who lives here in Vero Beach, FL. I was telling him about our gift which he thought was a great idea. He said Anne and Einstein had become "pals," as they were neighbors on Mercer Street. Often times, after school, when Anne returned home on the Presbyterian Seminary campus, Einstein would meet her on the north side of the then as now hazardous Mercer Street and lead her across safely! Park didn't mention whether the Good Genius ever helped her with her arithmetic, but he did say he gave her candy sometimes! This all took place in the 1920s.

It is a real happiness to hear from Edythe Miers Woodhouse and her letter merits being quoted: "... Your years of devotion (perseverance) have been rewarded! You have finally unearthed another silent alumna! I'm delighted to contribute to our class gift—think it's a fine choice. I've been reluctant to respond to your pleas "send along news." I can't report that I've climbed the Himalaya, been appointed to some lofty position, nor have I been "published!" However, I've enjoyed living here in Mt. Lebanon (suburb of Pittsburgh) for almost thirty years where I run a book store with a friend. My daughter, Gail, is an architect in Boston; son, Reed, teaches in Boston and is associated with the opera workshop there—as a pianist. I send my best to Betty Menzies, our class celebrity! How well I remember our years on the hockey team, her formidable prowess as well as her mind-boggling science projects which completely baffled my unscientific mind! Wishing you great success with your reunion plans and a happy, healthy '83...."

Edythe—you are now "published!" and we thank you for your news. Your life sounds very pleasant and rewarding, particularly having your children pursuing interesting and diverse artistic careers and living in the same city makes it easy when you visit them.

Nelson Vance indicated in a note that he hopes to be on hand on Alumni Day. Certainly hope we can lure more males that were in our MFS class to show up. If not, us "ole" ladies will try not to smother Nelson with too much attention! And yet we may!!

Lily Lambert McCarthy leads such a busy, interesting and dedicated life and one of great contribution, not only to the English but for us all. Therefore, I wish to thank Lily on behalf of our class and others who might read the following, for taking the time to send in her "News." Several years ago I wrote in the Journal that Lily had given her collection of Lord Nelson memorabilia to the Royal Museum of Portsmouth. It is known as the Lily Lambert McCarthy Nelson Collection and is on display in the Lambert McCarthy Gallery. Last November Lily and John and the Director of the Museum welcomed the Prince and Princess of Wales on the occasion of the opening of a new part of the museum. Later a reception was held in Lily's gallery. In his speech before the reception, Prince Charles said some kind words about her great collection which she much appreciated. Next day the McCarthys flew on the Concorde to the U.S. and far from a restful holiday! This winter in Palm Beach, Lily and John have hosted a stream of English visitors. Their English friends followed them! They included: Mrs. Askew, Wild Fowl Preservation Trust in U.K., one of the finest, John Morley, Director, Brighton Pavilion, and Sir Eric and Lady Drake. Sir Eric is Chairman of the Mary Rose Trust, of which Lily is a member (on the "court") in the U.S. The Mary Rose was King Henry VIII's flagship which sunk tragically on July 19, 1545 with 600 of the 700 crew aboard. The King watched from his battlements of Portsmouth the pride of his fleet slip beneath the waves. The Mary Rose was raised last October!!! The hull's return to the surface was witnessed by Henry's descendent, HRH Prince Charles, and the event was televised in England and the U.S. and considered history's most ambitious underwater archeological excavation. Over 17,000 artifacts were found on board providing an insight into the daily life of mariners of the 16th century. (I missed it!) The English Speaking Union of Palm Beach hosted the officers and dignitaries of the Trust and Lily and John were in charge of the event. Other dignitaries who Lily and John entertained were Margaret Rule, the famous diver of the Mary Rose, also Lord and Lady Casson, Royal Academy of Art, London. Dr. and Mrs. London, head of the E.S.U., Canterbury, England will visit them before Lily departs March 10th for the U.K. and a busy summer schedule. P.S. I failed to mention Lily and John's son, Johnny, is on the Mary Rose Trust. If I ever get to U.K., am going to make a beeline to Portsmouth.

Your Secretary and husband are enjoying life in "Geriatric Land!" This winter Florida is lush green because of too many monsoon rains. Recently my "floating" (big sale for floaters this year) golf ball went astray and was stared at by a cruising alligator in the nearby lagoon! He won! Better to lose a ball, a stroke and save the old limbs! Your sec has good judgment, don't you think?

On behalf of the class I wish to thank again all those who contributed to the anniversary gift. The response was heartwarming. For those who might have forgotten and who feel so inclined, it's not too late. Please send your tax deductible contribution to me or the school. Don't forget June 11th!!! See you then!!

Ed. Note: A picture of three of Sally's grandchildren appears in the PCD notes.

I am so very sorry to have to report the death of Doris Updike Foster in September, 1982. She was living in Buck Hill Falls, PA and is survived by her husband, John, and two sons, Thomas and John, and three grandchildren. She was a very charming member of our class.

A very welcome note came from Barbara Anderson Rulon-Miller. She writes: "I keep busy with the Weymouth Art Center, Garden Club and for some reason, every time there's a benefit, I get to decorate the tables—and there are many dances and fashion shows coming up. My granddaughters, Whitney Ross and Hilary Hayes are at P.D.S. Marjorie Munn Knapp '38 and Dan spent a spring weekend with us for the steeplechase. They are only four hours away so we see them often." Thanks, Barbara!

Tickle Dell Macomber sent a postcard. She has had back trouble so could not get away for a vacation. She is still in Rochester, NY with husband, Eddy. Her sister, Florence Macomber, (they married brothers), lives in Rochester too. Tickle writes, "Our grandchildren are a joy to us and seem to be doing well in everything (sports, academics, etc.). My best to all who remember me."

I am enjoying being back in Princeton after 27 years in Washington, D.C. My husband, Riggs, died and I decided that you can go home again.

Do send news. I would love to hear from you.

Since the rather copious notes for our class in the last issue of the Princeton Day School Journal, the news this time is pretty skimpy! A nice note from Kay Eisenhart Brown tells me that she is planning to attend our 45th reunion on Saturday, June 11, 1983 which is Alumni Day. Please note that the date for our reunion has been changed from the date which appeared in this column in the last issue.

Kay and her husband had a two week trip to Tuscany in Italy in September, visiting hill towns. Kay also reports that the showing of her paintings in Cambridge has been extended through March. She sent me a sample of her work and it is really quite unique and different—and very attractive!

Mary Massey Barber reports that she recently visited her new granddaughter, Margaret Anne Green. Margaret is Mary's fourth grandchild and is the first for Helen and Larry Green who live in Swampscott, MA. Mary also reports she had a Christmas card from Charmian Kaplan Freund who still lives in New York City with her physician husband. One last bit of news from Mary is that she saw Bette Hill Stretch some time ago. Bette lives in South Jersey and is very active in Consolidated Hospital Volunteer work. Her husband just retired so Bette is the one who leaves in the morning carrying a briefcase! (as reported by Bette's sister, Joyce.)

Eleanor Estes Johnstone writes that she is planning—or rather hoping to be at our 45th reunion. (Remember when we thought that age was old?) Unfortunately, her mother has left Princeton (she had lived there since 1912) but is happy at Pine Run retirement community in Doylestown, PA. Eleanor not only has a daughter with an eleven year old granddaughter living close by, but also a son with a two year old grandson (see photograph) plus a new grandson born on December 24, 1982, so she is surrounded by family.

Getty Righter Snow is a faithful correspondent. She loves to read about our classmates, and wishes that more of you would send in news of yourselves. She and her husband were delighted to have their entire family home for Christmas for the first time ever. Their daughter, Marji Mazzanti, her husband and their three children flew in from Florence, Italy, and their son, Tom, his wife and his step-daughter came from California. The weather "cooperated beautifully." Tom has a new album released by Arista, called "Hungry Nights." Between that, Olivia Newton-John's recording of Make a Move On Me and Melissa Manchester's You Should Hear How She Talks About You he is doing very well.

Cricket Myers McLain and her husband are enjoying their retirement very much. Their four grandchildren are their "joy." Their older son is still with the State Department and lives in Virginia. Their younger son is finishing his residency in Orthopedic Surgery, and will very likely return to North Carolina afterwards. Cricket is eager to know about plans for our "50th" in 1984. Any suggestions will be welcome.

As for Bill and me, for a change we had a healthy year in 1982. We flew to California in August to visit our daughter, Sue. She had just recently opened the Malibu Emergency Room and was discovering what a big responsibility it was. She has been much involved in fund raising with much help from many of the residents of Malibu, especially Ali MacGraw. Between that and practicing Emergency Medicine she has had very little time to herself. After our visit with Sue we went on to Hawaii for a pre-40th wedding anniversary celebration which was great. We returned via San Francisco. Then on our real anniversary, right after Thanksgiving, Sue and our other daughter, Kathie Rovetti, gave a lovely party for us at our home. Kathie's husband, Peter, was a big help, and their two boys, Chris and Marc, added much to the occasion, Chris even playing the violin. Kathie says that she is enjoying her music teaching in West Hartford, Conn. more than ever. Bill is still happily practicing law and is much involved with Friends Select School as a Trustee. I find that I keep very busy as President of the Board of Church Representatives of the Presbyterian Children's Village among other volunteer activities.

Louise Fenninger Sayen writes: "I expect I'm medium dull like most of the world! I keep busy with three grandchildren, teaching English to foreign students at P.U., coping with three households, and the usual run of life. Lots of gardening and swimming constitute my pleasure."

Joan Taylor Ashley writes: "Son, Hugh, married a nurse from Newton, MA., Lisa, in Charlottesville, University of Virginia chapel in March."

Helen Crossley also sent in a card saying: "Expect to retire late this year from the U.S. Information Agency after some 22 years of federal service. Will probably continue as Research Consultant."

Eleanor Morgan Drorbaugh's fascinating new house was featured in the February 6, 1983 issue of The New York Times Magazine.

My brother, Ashby Taylor Harper, just became the oldest man to swim the English Channel. His picture was on the front page of The New York Times on August 8, 1982. He graduated from Princeton University in 1939 as one of the few nine lettermen ever to graduate from Princeton. He is now headmaster of Albuquerque Academy. He trained at my daughter's summer cottage on Lake Michigan where the water is cold.

My husband and I are about to leave for Grand Cayman Island to attend a reception for Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, who will visit the island for two days. Grand Cayman is a British Crown Colony and the Queen's stay will mark the first time a reigning British Monarch has ever been to the tiny island.

This note arrived from Betty Hill Stretch. "I am President of The Women's Auxiliary Board of West Jersey Hospital and also on the hospital's Board of Trustees. West Jersey Hospital System is made up of four divisions and 1,000 auxiliaries. It's the largest hospital system in the state. The job is most time consuming. Our two sons and their families live in Keene and Nelson, NH. Each family has three children. Our grandchildren are Amanda, 12, Joshua, 7, Jason, 7, Lucas, 4, Abby, 4, and Seth, 2½. Bill is retired and we enjoy golf and travel."

I do hope each and every one of you will attend our 45th reunion on June 11 at PDS... more on that later. Forgot to mention above that Mary Massey Barber has also indicated that she will be attending.

Julie Sturges O'Connor writes that she is looking forward to being a grandmother in February. This is her first grandchild and she is overjoyed. I certainly do envy her—here I am with three sons and not even a daughter-in-law. Marie Frohling Rawlings has launched her career as "Louey, the Clown of Renown—available for storytelling, birthday parties, face painting, etc." None of us back in 1943 would have imagined that you would ever be involved in "Show Biz." Ah, Marie, the "Roar of the Greasepaint, the Smell of the Crowd."

Please keep sending me the news. You have all been helpful.

Patricia Thorne Carter sent the cute picture of her granddaughters and writes that, "I keep in touch with my godchild, Deany Merrit Wood. (Ann Farr Merritt's daughter.) She and her husband, Bob, have two daughters, Elizabeth and Lindsey. They live in Albany."

I still live in Lawrenceville and enjoy doing some part time work at the Princeton Pike Day Care and at Happy Hollow Nursery School in Lawrenceville. Bridgett won the 1982 Mercer County American Legion Art Award. She is also an excellent soccer player. She plays in the Lawrence Pee Wee League. Last year her team won the trophy. If I sound like a proud grandmother, it's because I am just that. Both of the girls are very special to me."

Philena Locke Richards writes, "My husband, Charley, retired July 1, 1982 and we have moved to Maine year round. We have a very large summer house and have built a small, passive solar house for the winter which is super. Three girls out in the world—Lee, 29, a R.N. in sports medicine in N.Y.C.; Karin, 26, back-packing in Australia on her way around the world; Pam, 25, in California finishing college at Santa Cruz."

Joan Daniels Grimley sent news of her family. "Our first grandchild, Anthony Bennett, Jr., was born on January 13, 1982. Of course he is the cutest, smartest, most advanced, etc. . . . (if you think I am insufferable in print, you should hear me in person.) Tony's grandfather and I are delighted and recommend grandparenthood to all. Our two oldest children, Margaret and Anne (Tony's mother) are married and living nearby—wonderful! Our three youngest, David, John and Joyce, are senior and junior at the University of South Carolina and sophomore at the University of Delaware, respectively . . . all doing well and getting on with their lives! It's interesting and a bit unsettling to have no children at home after so many years—but Dick and I are adjusting, with the help of jobs and many, many activities. Still in Ridgewood, but hope to move to a smaller home or condominium within the year."

Kit Bryan Buckley sent the following news. "Wonderful skiing this past winter. Katie has completed her first year at The Johns Hopkins School for Advanced International Studies. (SAIS) She spent the year in Bologna, Italy. She will be in Washington, DC for her second year. Jim graduated from St. George's School in Newport, RI. He starts at Swarthmore in the fall. He has completed 1400 miles of his cross country bicycle trip from Newport, RI to Seattle, WA. Such energy!

Jim and I are enjoying summer in Aspen. The Music Festival is in full swing and is wonderful."

Not much news from "my little corner of the world"—I'm still working at my two favorite jobs of travel and Bridal Consulting, and for the first time in the growing years of my children, I am alone with husband David. Daughter, Abby, is off at college, and Sandy in his first year in boarding school. Happily they're both in the great state of Pennsylvania only 20 miles apart, which makes it a happy arrangement for all.

It's a whole new world of getting to know each other again—a happy experience. And we started with a long lovely day together at the beach. Was like being in another world again.

Trust the fall and winter will be active and happy for each one of you.

The accompanying photograph was taken in June, 1982 when we all got together at Kay Gulick Wert's shore house in Mantoloking, NJ. Kay and Don were kind enough to have "the girls" and husbands down for the weekend—and we surely had fun!

Dorothy Fleming French writes, "I had the nicest surprise the other day. I got a letter from Pat Williams Card bringing me up to date on what she's been doing the last 34 years. It's no surprise to find she's up to her eyeballs in horses on a beautiful ranch in Colorado."

Joan Budny Jenkins writes of trips back and forth to England by herself, no husband and no mother. She is going to her niece, Karen's, wedding in June in Pennsylvania. Karen is the late Carl Budny's daughter. Joan is now "helping out" two days a week at an antique shop in Wimbledon Village. She invites any travelling alumni to visit her there. It's called the "Adams Room."

Barbara Smith Herzberg is off to Ecuador and the Galapagos Islands for some unusual snorkeling, and then back to Washington to prepare for a solo show at the Foundry Gallery, an installation of sculpture, photographs and collages entitled "What is There to Fear?" The show will be open May 3-28. Her children are in Maine, Quebec, Kuala Lumpur, Amherst, and no one at home for the moment. She is "learning the joys of motherhood and widowhood," she writes. Pluck, I say!

I am back from a week in London with my brother, Pratt Thompson PCD '48, and his family. Very jolly. My son, Andrew, has recently passed the fifth of his ten actuarial exams and is now an associate actuary at The Equitable in New York. My daughter, Philippa, lives in Concord, NH.

I love being a grandmother to my son Dick's three children, and look forward to daughter Donna's graduation from Stoneleigh-Burnham School. During my visits to Princeton with my mother, Barbara Gartner Parker and I always get together."

From Anne Pacsu Wieland we hear: "I am continuing to work as a Science Resource teacher at 13 schools in Anchorage. In the summer I spend as much time as possible at my cabin on Kachemak Bay fishing for salmon, halibut and crab. We also have a large garden there that provides much of our food. Leslie, 21, will be a fifth year student at Pacific Lutheran University completing her second major in Biology. Linda, 19, will be a sophomore at the University of Alaska in Fairbanks. One or more of us come to Princeton almost every summer to visit my mother. I seldom see a note from other MFS '52 and wonder about you."

It is a pleasure to be able to report that I have heard from four classmates.

Karen Cooper Baker writes that she is living the single life and working in New York City as an account manager for Flair Communication Agency, Inc. The job is terrific, pays well, and affords some travel. Karen would like to hear from anyone in the New York area. Her business address is 246 E. 62nd St. In the family department, Karen has three grandchildren. Susan married a pilot, lives in San Diego, and has a little boy. Bill and his wife, Triva, and their little boy live in Laramie, WY where he attends Pre-Vet school. Rob with his wife, Karen, and their little girl live in Wolfe Point, Montana where Rob is a surveyor. Mike is out of the Army, living in an apartment and is self-supporting. Kitty is a sophomore at Gettysburg College. Thank you, Karen, for such a full report. You will surely hear from some classmates when they are in the city.

Hilary Thompson Demarest along with 1100 others was the victim of a merger between INA and Connecticut General which wiped out Aetna Insurance Co. for whom she worked. Hilary is presently employed by Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co. in Data Processing. If the winter rain ever turns to snow Hilary plans to head for Vermont to ski with her daughter, Lea.

Sad news comes to us from Jane Gihon Shillaber. On January 11th her father died of cancer in Stuart, FL. A memorial service was held in Princeton. Jane, the class extends our sympathy to you and your family.

Susan McAllen Turner informs us that her husband, Al, had two great trips to Europe last winter for bobsledding and a mini-vacation, then in January he went to Italy as manager of the U.S. Team at World Cup Races. Susan is deeply involved in the administration of the sport. Also a trip west is planned for this summer to visit her daughter, Katherine, and her sister, Gordon McAllen Baker '51, of Portland, OR.

Thank you for sending me this news to share with the class. I would love to hear from the rest of you next fall.

54 Class Secretary
Mrs. T. W. Dwight, Jr.
(Kathie Webster)

Louise Mason Bacheider's daughter Cary was married on September 11th to David Dufresne. Cary is a correspondent bank relations officer with the Kyowa Bank at the World Trade Center and her husband is in the executive recruitment training program at Macy's. They commute to New York every day from their apartment in Ossining, N.Y.

Louise's oldest daughter Lisa, a Wellesley graduate, is working in Boston for the New England Merchants Bank.

At Cary's very festive wedding reception I enjoyed talking with Leslie McAneny whom I hadn't seen in several years. Didn't see much of Louise who was exhausted from making all the bridesmaids' dresses, as well as recovering from a serious accident to her left forefinger which was nearly severed in a freak accident during last April's (1982) snowstorm.

That's all the news this time as I haven't heard from any of the rest of you. Please keep in mind that our 30th Reunion is coming up in 1984 and let me know your thoughts on getting together.

Jenneke Barton has given a concert on the University campus, sponsored by the Friends of Music. She sang a group of songs by Scarlatti, Wolf, Faure, Debussy and four songs written especially for her by Andrew Thomas.

55 Class Secretary
Miss L. Chloe King
64 Carey Road

Terry Beck Morse wrote that her sons are studying and working at Marine Ecology (Martin), Computer Science (Tom), Optical Engineering (Sam) and a "College Venture" program in New York in art (Mike). Terry is very involved in the care of an elderly aunt and uncle, and in her spare time she finds great joy in art. She has a beautiful sky-lit studio in the new house—with a wood stove. Dryden continues to specialize in pacemakers at Deborah Heart and Lung Center. Terry's new address is: 28 East Central, Moorestown, N.J. . . . a small town in which three MFS graduates live . . . Kinsa Turnbull and Louisa Marshall.

Annie Belford Ulanov sent news about her new book, Receiving Woman: Studies in the Psychology and Theology of the Feminine (Westminster: 1981) and another book has just come out this fall, Primary Speech: A Psychology of Prayer (John Knox Press), which was done with her husband, Barry. Annie continues as Professor of Psychiatry and Religion at Union Theological Seminary and working as psychoanalyst in private practice in New York City. Alex is now 12 and the older (step) children are launched into their own lives. Annie sent her warm wishes to all.

Penny Cooper Hall, a long-lost classmate from our Middle School days, sent a very newsy card! After twenty years in business Penny's husband, Bob, threw in the towel in 1979—bought an apple orchard and the family is now working full-time at it. They are living in Vermont, but the work is very hard. They have four children: Elizabeth (21) is a student at UVM, Bobby (15) is at Vermont Academy, Chris (13) and Sarah (11) are both at home. The Halls harvest approximately 25,000 bushels of apples and press about 15,000 gallons of cider! They are also raising beef cattle and sheep, and Penny has a horse—of course. Penny's mother died five years ago and her father lives in Florida. Penny's address is Burnham Hollow Orchard, Middletown Springs, Vermont.

Jo Cornforth Coke and family were transferred to Kansas City in March, 1981 to take over the Central Mid-West Branch. They moved into a house kind of out in the woods—four different kinds of woodpeckers alone! They added two Great Danes, two monkeys and a boa constrictor to "an otherwise sane neighborhood." Trey is a junior at Duke—pre-med and loves it. Rob is in third grade and enjoys taking the yellow school bus each day. Jo says her husband is putting together his airplane (as soon as he finishes restoring his '49 MG-TD!) and is happy as a clam holding down the fort "so Mama can run around selling to anybody with money." Such is the life in the midwest. . . .

Ann Freedman Mizgerd, M.D. was happy to report that she is now Board Certified in Pediatrics and she is currently working part-time in the Community Clinic, Inc. Her husband continues to be Director of Pulmonary Medicine at the Washington Adventist Hospital. Their son, Jay, is a junior in high school at St. Anselm's Day School and their daughter, Cathy, is a freshman at National Cathedral School. ("Good to hear from Ann after all these years!")

Mary Tyson Goodridge Tice sent TWO cards from the wild west. Her biggest news is that her eldest daughter, Elizabeth (23), just married this summer. Ty, as Mary Tyson is now called, has her own real estate company in Jackson Hole, Wyoming. She is also very involved in civic activities—hospital board, Substance Abuse Board, Wyoming Trustee Council Board, Alcohol Outreach, etc. She enjoys being so busy. "All children afloat—Meredith is at Colorado College and John is at the University of Wyoming." Her children continue to be her greatest joy! ("Sounds like the same Mary Tyson we knew years and years ago!")

Alice Marie Nelson sent news, as always, but this time she had only struggles to report. Returning to the music world in New York City has been challenging. AMN is trying to pick-up the "threads of my musical life here where my German experience seems to count for little. It's like starting all over again." (We wish you well, Alice Marie.)

Barbara Kohlsaat von Oehsen's husband, Bill, has resigned his position as attorney for the Princeton Borough Zoning Board due to deteriorating health. He will be honored for his work on the Board with a "certificate of appreciation."

Chloe King has nothing startling to report this time—no European adventures or wild escapades in the north woods. Life at Winsor becomes more complex as time goes on—as the athletic scene enlarges for young women applying to colleges. I have spent much time in the last three months writing letters to college admissions officers and to college coaches recommending my students to them. College coaches now come visiting the school coaches and the school girls . . . big time! My nine nieces and nephews continue to keep in touch, as phone bills demonstrate so clearly, and we all see each other during the summer months. Snowfall in the mountains of New England has been disappointing to date—though in Needham we have about 30 inches on our yard now. My best wishes to all of 1955 . . . and keep those cards coming!

Betsy Hall Hutz was the first to return a postcard: "You have already printed 1/2 my summer so I shall go onto August. I was ill for five weeks with dysentery, probably giardia from the Colorado River, but managed to stay alive and come back from Maine with good slides in spite of it. The book Marina and I are collaborating on is in its final stages with us . . . now to find a publisher. Got any ideas? It's on weathervanes, i.e., Americana. Meanwhile the Nikon NCPI calendar is in print with my work on month ten. I've been offered a show here in Wilmington which will be thirty of my color prints of Southeastern Maine: Summer and Winter. I manage to push the vacuum, skate (lessons), bake bread and needlepoint, also."

Marina Turkevich Naumann returned in January from a weekend in San Diego. "With Kris deposited at Smith and Andrew at Lawrenceville, I could easily accept Bob's treat! While Bob worked, I watched koalas nibble eucalyptus leaves at the zoo and jugglers perform in Balboa Park; I caught a few (Indian, Old Masters) exhibits, and generally enjoyed the warm, salt-scented air. Now I think I can make it through til Spring!"

And the beat goes on—the reunion beat, that is.

Bonnie Campbell Perkins was in town very briefly during July. She had just returned from a trip to Scandinavia and paused to recover from jetlag before journeying to the Cape for two weeks. On very short notice I was able to catch Nancy Miller and Mary Strunsky Wisnovsky for lunch and a grand session of reminiscing. Colorado living certainly agrees with Bonnie. At the time these notes are gathered, Bonnie is deep in tax work for H. & R. Block in Denver.

Early in August, Nancy Miller entertained Susie Smith Hillier, Alissa Kramer Sutphin, Mary and me in honor of Roz Webster Perry. Roz, Richard and their daughters, Angela and Virginia, came East for a month from their home in Santa Barbara, California, to visit with family and friends. Nancy served an elegant luncheon and a marvelous time was had by all. Heard some merry tunes from our musicals being sung around Nancy's refrigerator and Roz asked if there were any grandmothers among us. Ouch!

Alissa has been working at Commodities Corporation since June 1st. The commute is simple—only a mile and a half from the Sutphins' front door. Ann is a senior, awaiting word on her college applications, at Princeton High, and while her mother is too modest to mention this, she's President of the Student Government there. Andy PDS '80, accompanied by a friend from Denison College, biked from Houston to Tallahassee during January Term. Had a great time according to all reports, in spite of some violent storms and flooding along the way.

Molly Menand Jacobs and Duke each have new jobs. Duke is back in town working at the University in the Development Office. Molly is coordinating Crosstown 62 which provides auto transportation at little cost, for senior citizens and the handicapped within the Princeton area. Kimberly and Cricket are students in the 6th and 7th grades at John Witherspoon, and Anne Jacobs is a member of Class XII at Stuart Country Day.

Nancy Hagen Spaulding, still active in the residential real estate market in Hawaii, wrote that they plan a move to the Mainland (possibly L.A. area or Seattle) this summer with sons Peter (13) who's in 8th grade at Mid Pacific Institute, and Lance (15) who's a 9th grade student at Punahou. She says, "sold our house (in 60 days—for cash!) in November and did a quick move into an apartment. Everything is in storage and we all love our simple life."

My daughter, Ann PDS '77, is teaching, serving as dorm mother and working in the Admissions Office at St. Margaret's, a small girls' boarding school in Tappahannock, Virginia. Summer plans place her in Maine at Sebago Wohelo for her fifteenth season. Sound familiar? Her brother, Jim PDS '80, enjoyed an Outward Bound Course in the Colorado mountains in August, and as if that weren't exciting enough, he took a six week voyage aboard a 3-masted barkentine out of Boston and The Ocean Research and Education Society this fall. He is attending Boston University now.

Let's have more news for our next column and please call if you come to town. We might even arrange a luncheon in YOUR honor.

Mary Kerney Levenstein writes that Suzy Scarff Webster's daughter, Vanessa, visited her family in Watch Hill, RI last summer on her way to visit the Scarffs in Princeton. The Levensteins spend many weekends in Watch Hill, as well as most of the summer, but do escape to France each summer for the month of June.

Mary continues as Director of the Circle in the Square Theater School in New York City and her husband, Earle, is busy with his advertising agency, Levenstein Gaines, Inc., and with a cable tv series he is producing. Their children, Cairistín and Ruth, are in 10th and 6th grades at Chapin.

It was very nice to hear from you again, Mary, after several years of silence. Hope some of you will take the hint.

Susan Frank Zimmerman is working for the Corporate Office of Scanticon International/Scanticon Corporation in Princeton Forrestal Center as the Administrative Assistant to the Vice President of Marketing. She is also kept busy taking classes at Rutgers, where she has been accepted as a junior, and is majoring in English. Her son Eric is also a college junior (at Antioch) and Jonathan will be starting college in the fall.

The mailbag was pretty empty this time, folks, but it was good to hear from Sue and Mary. PLEASE make a resolution to drop me a few lines next time. Your classmates really are interested!

A happy and healthy Anne Goheen Crane, husband and children were spotted on the Cape this summer. Brooke Stevens and Tom McCorkle are still living in Cambridge where she works at the MIT Press. Sasha Susan Robins Cavander and family are now full time residents of Nantucket, but hoping for a few trips to the Florida sun. Susan Stevenson Badder has produced the most delightful, talkative first grader, Nathaniel, I've ever met. All three Badders will ski in Utah this winter. Harvey and I have survived the Blizzard of '83 and twenty years of marriage.

Do you recognize anyone in our class picture from the Spring Dance, May 24, 1958?

Pauline Mills Low wins the class creative award. She writes, "The children now number 9 with #10 due next fall—the big question—is it the last—who knows?" Louise, the oldest, is a sophomore at Connecticut College. Christopher is in the throes of college choices, and Georgiana is starting to look at colleges. Is bankruptcy in the offing? With Katie in 1st grade, Nickie and Alexander in nursery school, and 14 month old Michael at home, Pauline still has strength to volunteer in the local hospital!

Susan Valentine's children, Shannon and Tara.

Susan Valentine has made the top 10% of Avon's Circle of Excellence and wins a trip to Rome in April for her competence! Shannon, 12, and Tara, 10, are "growing up beautiful." Susan will wed April 9 a research chemist who is apparently a great gourmet and she is busy being a gourmet cook.

Cathy Otis Farrell writes, "I'm one of those still juggling family with job. The children are a joy." She and Greg took the summer of '82 off and stayed at their cabin in the Adirondacks. They have recently moved to Brooklyn. New address, 130 Buckingham Road, Brooklyn, NY 11226.

Two California correspondents head 61's news list—Suie Lerner Olch writes from Los Angeles that her daughter Susannah will be graduating from the Marlborough School this spring and will probably attend the University of Arizona. Her Jenny is a sophomore at Immaculate Heart High School. Suie's husband, a physician, has just received a presidential appointment and will be making frequent trips to Washington, while she is completing her last active year with the Junior League and working part time in a boutique.

Barbara Pearce Williams wrote that she worked in a fast food restaurant in Oakdale, CA for the last issue of the Journal, but I could not find her when I drove through this summer, but did speak later with her husband Tom. (The spot is a bit west of Oakdale proper for all future visitors!) She and Tom are most Enthusiastic about a January cruise to Mexico.

Cary Armstrong Tall has relocated in Norwich, VT, (P.O. Box 794, 05055) where the twins started school in the fall. Cary herself is taking courses in layout, design and offset printing, and if her homemade cards are any indication, she should be very successful.

Alice Artzt has been named one of the top four guitarists in the world by a leading English critic, along with Segovia, Bream and Williams. The British Guitar Magazine describes her as, "America's best player and a model for any guitarist," while the noted Argentine guitarist, Maria Luisa Anido, has stated that, "Alice Artzt is now the best woman playing the guitar in the world." She continues an extensive touring and recording schedule.

Debbie Moore Krulewitch will present Petre with a son in April and Julie Fulper Hardt and I expect to serve as proxy aunts. Julie and I have shared the same pair of X-country skis this winter as we have navigated the back streets of Lawrenceville. Julie is also working part time for an architect in Princeton.

In December I started work as the co-ordinator of the Mercer County Volunteer Lawyers project, based at the Legal Aid Society of Mercer County in Trenton. This job, accepting and then referring out cases on a pro bono basis, reflects present administration cutbacks to the Legal Services Corporation, so I have some genuine skepticism about the situation creating such a position, but the task is of as great importance as ever. I am also teaching paralegal courses at Rider (currently Criminal Law, though my real love is Legal Research) and work with Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Mercer County and am continuing to skate on a steady, if not consistent basis. I would like to sleep less and have a little more time for sustained thought, and wonder how many of the rest of us feel the same way?

Gail Cotton recently relinquished her job of class secretary after 20 years. (Can you believe that?!) Gail's daughter, Anne, 15, visited relatives in Princeton and Long Island in August and stayed with us. Gail boarded the much-feared plane and made the trip from Colorado herself last October. She drove down to Missy Tomlinson Barrillier's house in Bay Head, NJ where she lives with her three young sons. Together, we hosted a small reunion (see picture) for nearby alumnae plus Mac and Charlotte Stetson Snyder who we learned were in the area that afternoon. Stets and I talked about their children, Mary and Nathan, and their love of skiing near their home in Shoreham, VT. She brought the house down with her Agnes Gooch imitation.

Pat Halcorn is back in Washington, DC working for Alaskan Senator and Assistant Majority Leader, Ted Stevens, after some quiet years in Delray Beach, FL. She recently announced her engagement. Best wishes, Pat!

Cindy Brown wrote, "I have given up teaching after six years and am looking for a new career with grown-ups, art and design or travel related." She is currently working for the Creative Director of a small ad agency and is living in Forest Hills, NY. Cindy managed to spend some time in the Caribbean before she made it to our official 20th reunion last spring along with Dede Shipway Webster. Dede, who is now living in Pennington, is keeping more than busy playing tennis and managing her three children. Also at our 20th was Susan Shea McPhearson with husband Bruce, who teaches at Lawrenceville, and their new baby girl, Ellen. Kathy Elsasser Worthington and Sonia Bill Robertson follow in the trend of babies after 35. Gail received an announcement of the birth of Robert Carroll from Pete and Kathy after his birth on March 13, 1982 in Avon, CT. Sonia writes, "1982 was a banner year for us! After working at our business for ten years, we took a real fantasy island trip—to France and England for April and May. Upon return on August 16, Caroline Irene Bill Robertson was born."

Bruce and Susan Mathews Hurd are in Arlington, VA. Susie wakes up at 5 o'clock every morning to jog, goes to her job in Washington working for the Department of Energy, and owns and operates a successful catering business in her spare time. (What spare time?) She must have learned how to tap America's secret energy resources from where she works!!

Tassie Turkevich Skvir teaches Russian at PDS and advises the tenth grade. Her husband, Dan, is Director of Admissions at PDS and teaches Religion with Carl Reimers. He also directs a 40 voice a capella choir that Tassie sings in on weekends. Their daughter, Kyra, is in first grade and Nika is in fifth with Trip Stefanelli. Linda Maxwell Stefanelli rivals Tassie as the most active at our alma mater, though. She coaches Varsity Squash, Junior Lacrosse and has taken over as Alumni Secretary. Everyone had a wonderful time at the Stefanelli's house in Pennington following our 20th last May. Tony probably wasn't all that thrilled when he got the phone bill from us talking to Carol Estey and Mary Liz Keegin Colley all night!

Mary Liz is living in Easton, PA with her husband, Dave, and two young sons. She has her own photography studio and sounds very happy. It was great to hear from her after so many years. Carol is based in New York City but is often on the road with one show or another. She manages to keep quite busy in her very competitive field; when she isn't dancing in a musical comedy, she's choreographing one.

Paige Aaron writes, "I'm well and just finished my fifth year as a psychiatric social worker for the Community Guidance Center of Mercer County. My spare time is spent canoeing and camping and I live in Hopewell."

I was in touch with Paula Cook Sculley's mother last week and learned that Paula is living in England with her husband, David, and their children, Heather Karl, 12, and David, 8. Her address: Little Brampton, Bull Lane, Gerrards Cross, Bucks SL9 8RY, England.

As for me, I am still in Princeton, waiting for Kathryn to finish high school and working for a computer software company. I began painting again and sold a few things this fall. My daughter, Kathryn, is 15 and keeps me young, or makes me old... I can't decide which.

Carol Fried's status in Princeton and with the Alumni Office is "lost." If anyone knows what has become of her, we'd like to know.

The new Alumni Secretary (can you imagine?) is about to exercise one of the prerogatives of her office and butt in to add a few notes of her own. Last May, Barclay Baldrige MacRae came East for the first time in nine years to attend her 20th reunions at Dobb's Ferry and Miss Fine's. She's been living in California and has three teenage children, Sean, Kannyn and Tracy. She's fallen in love with sailing and owns a beautiful old ketch which she thinks nothing of sailing down to Mexico and back. Last I heard, she was flying to New Guinea to meet a friend and help him sail his boat to Japan! We spent a wonderful week together and it was great having her at our rather small reunion. Speaking of which, let's start planning now for our 25th so we can be sure of getting everyone together.

Since I work in Colross, where Tassie teaches Russian, I see her every day as she seeks refuge from her students in our office and subtly checks our stash of cookies. I can report that Tassie and Dan had a wonderful time touring England and France with their children last summer. They stayed in a 10th century abbey in England and were able to see many of Mrs. Wade's favorite spots while visiting Tassie's uncle in Paris.

I'd like to thank Gail for doing a marvelous job as class secretary all those years and, also, many thanks to Susan for taking over her position.

Class of 1962: On top, Paula Cook Sculley; 2nd row, Mary Liz Keegin Colley, Linda Maxwell Stefanelli; 3rd row, Wendy Coppedge Sanford, Cindy Brown, Win Dickey Kellogg.

63 Class Secretary
Ms. Alice Jacobson
12 1/2 Bull Street
Charleston, SC 29401

The Class of 1963 had an "almost 20-year" reunion on December 26 at Jane Aresty Silverman's. Other hostesses included Polly Miller Miller, Colleen Coffee Hall, and Cindy Bull Tyler. The invitation had a copy of our class picture from an old Link; I'd guess it was from the year we were in ninth grade. I am sorry not to have been able to attend, and the only one who reported to me after-the-fact was Susan Lillie. "It was great! Everyone looked fabulous and it was a real pleasure to meet the husbands and children, too. I hope we all do it again sometime soon." Any takers?

Pam Sidford Schaeffer sent a card in late October voting for the reunion in the spring or summer. She and her family had arrived in Minneapolis where Leonard is president of the oldest and largest health maintenance organization, Group Health Plan, Inc. There is a lake right outside their door where son, David, fishes.

A Xmas card brought the news that Laurie Rogers Camps is managing the tobacco shop and mini-super market at the Hyatt in Acapulco. A tennis pro shop will be added soon. She and Jorge are hoping for an up turn in the Mexican economy, and Laurie is not sure how long they will remain in Acapulco although she imagines it will be for a while longer.

Andy Updike Burt writes that she and her family are living in Winchester, Indiana, where she is that state's Field Secretary for the American Friends Service Committee. She helps to initiate peace and social justice programs in Quaker communities throughout the State. Her husband, Stephen, is pastor of a country Friends Meeting. They enjoy their garden and flock of hens. Andy went to the reunion, and she reports, "It was certainly wonderful to see so many classmates—all of us still young in looks and spirit and beginning new endeavors in our lives. Hope we can get together before another 20 years pass us by."

Sally Campbell Haas writes that after a hectic fall, she and husband, Jerry, had a mini-vacation cross-country skiing in Yellowstone Park. They used the occasion to photograph animals and to spend time in the Geyser Basin. Sally has spent most of her time at her pre-school which keeps her very busy.

I am writing you from Charleston, South Carolina where I am now working as associate provost for planning and evaluation at The College of Charleston. The job is an exciting challenge, and I'm enjoying the town very much. In many ways, Charleston has the flavor of Princeton. I have yet to miss New York City although I do miss my friends there. I am in training to be a Southern belle, but it remains to be seen what success I'll have. I shall be sure to keep you posted... If anyone is in the neighborhood, y'all drop in!

1963's Reunion Report

Dear Lifeline Newsline Alice,

From all of us who could get to the twentieth: Everyone missed you. It just doesn't seem fair that you, of all people, had to miss the fun after all the years you have kept us in touch through your notes! Next time!

Dear Everyone Else Who Couldn't Make It.

Did you know that we heard from almost everyone who is living in the US? If you did not write in, please do in time for the next bulletin.

For our twentieth, we met at Jane and Ira's and got caught up on everyone's lives. Our kids got to see first hand who their parents went to school with "in the good old days." For a while, it looked like Jane and Ira just might have 37 permanent houseguests!

Posing for pictures with the whole gang was a riot. There was a question as to who enjoyed the picture session more—Ira, the photographer, who was trying to corral all of us, or the subjects who had fun giving him a hard time.

With all of our ups and downs in the last years, we find a bunch of real individualists—diverse (we like to think, interesting), and full of humor; scattered all over the world. We came together again not really knowing what we might find. All of us left with more than we had when we came. It felt good. We'd do it again. Plan ahead. Remember how quickly it got to be 1983? Keep in touch!

Terry has a Fulbright and is teaching International Politics at the College of Europe in Bruges and Louvain-la-Neuve. Alexander is attending the same school as when we all lived in Brussels seven years ago where he is speaking French. During our visit we spent a week at Crans-Montana in Switzerland where Nick and I learned to ski downhill and joined Alexander in this fun sport. Teaching Psychology at Macalester in St. Paul continues to be fun and exciting."

Karen Fraser reports: "We've moved, due to a Marriott Hotel promotion for Michael (Coffeen) and are located in a suburb of Dallas. Miss the French Quarter sometimes, but Dallas is a lot easier with children, good parks, gymnastics classes, etc."

Paula Cantor Kuriloff recently led a faculty workshop at PDS. She "teaches writing at the University of Pennsylvania and has experience in helping schools review their study skills emphasis."

Gigi Godfrey Leonard's mother has kindly sent in news of her daughter and a picture of Gigi "and her A.F.S. sister, Merethe Lange-Nielson, now Mrs. Berge Ytterstad, with Merethe's husband, a surgeon in northern Norway. Along with their ten year old son they visited Gigi for a week in August; sailing, picnicing and fun." Merethe's address is Mrs. Berge Ytterstad, Ervik, 9400 Harstad, Norway. Mrs. Godfrey also announced the exciting news that on September 30, 1982, Gigi gave birth to a son, Seton Reeves Leonard.

29 Richard Graham Kirchner has just completed writing his autobiography. His daughter Gretchen visited him last fall bringing along grandson Jeremy who attended the Hyde Park, N.Y., school during his stay. Richard reports that in Oregon, his home, Jeremy had started to learn cursive writing, while Hyde Park was still in the "ball and stick" system. His other daughter, Martha, visited later during Christmas season. She has just finished her exams for her Master's Degree in Business Administration at George Washington University. She continued to work part-time at her job with IRS all during her studies.

Ed Yard, your secretary, and wife, Mary E. Howell MFS '33, took a wide tour of this country and Canada last summer. Going first through the southwest, staying in southern California, they then went up the west coast by train to Seattle. From there it was by boat to Victoria and Vancouver, B.C. Returning home via Chicago, they next spent some time with three daughters in New England, checked property in Maine and old vacation spots in Vermont. The Yards also visited old homesites at the Jersey shore and schools Ed had attended in the 1920s. They found remarkably little change.

It is a beautiful and powerful memorial, and a true work of art. I urge everyone to visit it."

The death of Thomas J. Wertenbaker was reported in the last issue of the Journal. John was able to provide more information about this very sad event. Tommy died last July at his place in Canada. There were a number of services, including one in the church on Manitoba Island, Ontario, on July 26th and a brief memorial service in the University Chapel on October 3rd. He was buried beside his father in the University of Virginia cemetery.

Dodie and Charlie Mapes became the First (am I correct?) class grandparents last June 23rd when their daughter, Linda Senior, gave birth to Jeremy Trevor Senior. Can you top that?

Herbert McAneny recently celebrated his 80th birthday and, at the request of his daughters, I wrote a few words about our years at PCD with Herbert. Doing research was fun, particularly looking back through old Junior Journals and Drama Playbills. Question of the month—what part did Hal Elsasser play in "Tom Sawyer"? By the way, Hal is among our missing. Does anybody have his address?

Send me your news—please!

Charlie Mapes '48 with his grandson, Jeremy Trevor Senior.

PRINCETON DAY SCHOOL

66 Class Secretary
Lynn Wiley Ludwig
33 Cold Soil Road
Lawrenceville, NJ 08648

I have received a good bit of news this issue. It's nice to get regular Mail for a change. I only get bills usually. so, keep those cards and letters coming!

Jesse Markham writes that he and Darcey Hartmann were married on August 22, 1981. Since Sept. 1981 the Markhams have been living in Paris, where Jesse practices law with the European branch of Rogers & Wells, a well-known Wall St. law firm. The new Mrs. Markham's father was once headmaster of PCD. They split their summer vacation this year between Jesse's parents' summerplace in Maine and Darcey's family's place in Mass. After that it was back to Paris. I think I could cope with that kind of life.

Is there anyone out there from Tulsa? Rachel Davies Huggins is living in Tulsa and loving it. Both she and her husband are kept busy with their jobs and renovating their house.

Rachel is not the only member of the class who is renovating a house. Hope Rose Angier reports that in November, 1980, she and Fred sold their house on Cape Cod and bought a 200 year old farmhouse on 200 acres on the Sheepscot River in the Boothbay Harbor region of Maine. They say they are in the never-ending process of restoring the house. On top of that they are brokering sailboats and Hope has recently established a wall-stencilling business of Early American designs. The two Angier Rhodesian Ridgeback dogs are enjoying Maine life as much as Hope and Fred.

Hope Rose Angier '66

Hope also sent along news of two other class members. She spoke to Sarah Jaeger's brother, Hector, who has a mail order business near her. He reports that Sarah is living in Colorado and is quite an established potter. Hope also says she ran into Susie Bonthron's sister, Jennifer, who summers near the Angiers. Hope included a photo of herself which shows her looking very well.

The largest amount of news came to me from the Mayor of Virginia City, Montana. Her Honor the Mayor, better known to us as Dale Marzoni Kellogg, was recently appointed to her third one-year term and works for the County Commissioners on a part time basis. Did our class contain potential Presidential material? Moab has started first grade in a two room rural schoolhouse 9 miles from Virginia City. To quote Dale, "While this sounds like something from the 'Little House' series, they have a TRS-80 Computer and the standard hot-lunch program, along with the old boarded-up teacher's house and a WWII field organ that the music teacher uses." Stephen is working for the City and painting in his spare time. He also acts as Dale's editor. Hold on to your hat, Mrs. Shephard, Dale's writing a Harlequin Romance! For 5 to 10,000 dollars a trashy novel, I might start to write one myself. Lynn Marzoni is still in Phoenix, but spent 2 weeks with the Kelloggs this fall. Dale says she is lovely, "tres chic" from all her years in Fashion Merchandising. She is the manager of a "ridiculously expensive" boutique in Scottsdale. Terry Marzoni (PDS '65) is living in Denver with his wife, Betsy, and their daughter, Elizabeth, born Nov. 17, 1981.

Now for my news. I've stayed pretty close to home base the past few years. I'm living in Lawrenceville with my mother, sister Ann and my two children, Becky, 7, and Kit, 5. I work at Princeton University Press as a typesetter (using a computer). It's an interesting job and it adds a lot to my future career plans of going into Graphic Arts. I'm also attending Mercer County Community College, working toward my Associate Degree. It's fun and challenging although a bit hectic at times. On top of all this, I work for a Rock 'n' Reggae band called "DIAMOND JAM." I design and run the light show, I do all the PR and I handle all the finances. In my spare time I try to read, draw and catch up on my sleep. It's a busy life, but I love it.

Well, I guess this wraps up the news for the class of '66 this time! Would those of you who have never written or those of you who haven't written in a long time, please let us know where you are and what you are doing. We seem to be a lost class, but I hope we can remedy this by hearing some news from everybody. By the way, in three years it will be TWENTY years since graduation. Let's start thinking and planning now for a reunion. It really would be terrific to see everyone, but I can't afford the money or time to visit everyone. I sometimes feel like an early morning DJ who wonders, "Is there anybody out there?" Let me hear from you!

Susan Fritsch Rahr
350 E. 87th Street
New York, NY 10028

Julia Lockwood Miller writes from Maine, "We are surviving winter here, with the recent snow storm. Marc is enjoying the practice of rheumatology; I am still driving to Bangor three days a week to work in the genetics clinic, as well as working part-time for the pediatric practice in Bath and Brunswick. We just took a weeklong ski vacation at Sugarloaf, which was a lot of fun. Marc is still working on restoring the old Lockwood sailboat, hopefully in time for summer sailing."

Mary Combs sends news from Washington, D.C. "It's been a wild six months for me . . . three months in bed in North Carolina at my folks' house after falling and hurting my back in the museum. I'm now on the mend and trying to get back into my normal routine at the Smithsonian's Office of Public Affairs, writing for the Smithsonian News Service and handling publicity and public relations activities. Served a seven-month stint as acting Public Information Officer for the Museum of American History—enjoyed meeting Dick Clark, Hal Linden, Rodney Dangerfield, etc., but for each pennyworth of glamor there's a pound worth of hassles in the PR business. Franny Gorman and her enchanting daughter Colleen visited me in North Carolina . . . haven't heard from anyone else. I hope to get up to New York for a visit this spring."

Laura Peterson passed the New York bar exam and is working in New York City as an associate with the law firm of Proskauer Rose.

Chris Otis is designing book jackets at Raven Press in New York City.

Elizabeth Thayer married Goefrey Verney on December 4 in Princeton. Her husband is manager of marketing and a director of Monadnock Paper Mills in Bennington, NH. Ann Morgan Battle's name appears frequently in the paper in praise of the great job she is doing at "Familyborn," an alternative center for birth and women's health. The center is flourishing.

My apologies to you for a scarcity of news in the last Journal. It seems I sent in the notes a week late. It's good to know that the Journal is so prompt with getting notes printed. So you will see that some of the news is not so new.

I spoke with Connie Sayen Ban last year and she and her husband and daughter, Sasha, are now living in her grandmother's house on The Great Road.

Faron Daub Fahy wrote (last June): "Last winter I was Asst. Director of the ski school at Sugarloaf Mtn. We had an excellent season. This summer ('82) I am guiding rafts down the west branch of the Penobscot, the Lower Dead, and the Kennebec. I'm also kayaking a safety boat on the rivers. I work for Maine Whitewater, Inc. My husband, Tom, is building a Pietenpol Air Camper, a 1928 Home Built original. I love Maine and I welcome anyone in the class on a ride down the river, or a day on the slopes!"

Joe Chandler and wife Brenda have become involved in a local theatre group in Saranac Lake, NY. He is working at the Trudeau Institute and finds the research "quite exhilarating, but the reading and writing can be exhausting."

Mazzie Madiera Gogolak has been a faithful correspondent over the years for the Journal. She wrote in June: "Things in Westwood (MA) are great—we're about to celebrate our one year anniversary of living in the suburbs and our two year wedding anniversary. Add to that the arrival of Stephen on March 2nd and we've had quite a year. Charlie's 13 year old daughter (Twisty) and 10 year old son (Charlie) also live with us so I am performing a juggling act with parenthood! Remember when we were 13? Well, not much has changed except I'm on the other end." She wrote again in Feb. '83 and added that " . . . in between growing pains and athletic schedules of the kids, I try to get my exercise and work at starting my own little company, "COMPUTECS", which will provide microcomputer consulting and education to personal and small business users."

And now a note from a mystery classmate, PCD '65 who wrote me the following in January: "Am living in Indiana with birds, squirrels and wildlife. One year so far and it has been quite an adjustment from Boston. But for my four year sabbatical, it's a good experience for learning. I work with Cummins Engine Co. as a management consultant and still do external contract work whenever I can. Also my fingers are finding (finally) the keyboard to write, and I enjoy that. And so life goes on at this point." Whoever you are from Columbus, Indiana, let us know your new address!

Punky Brewster Rutledge works for Shipman & Goodwin in the Hartford, CT area. "Off and on busy—fairly steady—and I'm still feeling lucky to be with such a nice group of people.

"My sister, Shelly PDS '70 had a baby last January on her birthday, named Julie Borden. I must be the proudest aunt around—she is wonderful. I talk with Beth Schlossberg often, and she is finishing her MBA at Boston U, this spring."

Had a note from John Claghorn: "Still living in NYC and working for Tucker, Anthony & R. L. Day in the brokerage business. My wife, Peg, is a V.P. in advertising. We have one child, John W. Claghorn IV, who is 1½ and crazy. I may see Andy Fishmann in Vail this spring—he lives in California and plays doctor."

Rounding out the class news, I just received word from Gail Smith Cleare: "We have sold our house here in Amherst and are getting ready to move down to CT, where my husband has been working in Bloomfield since last summer. Our son, Matthew Stephen, was born on Halloween night ('82) and is keeping me busy, to say the least. I'll be back at work as soon as we move, but for now it's all I can handle to keep us clean, clothed and fed—this is not easy. I'm looking forward to getting together with you, Punky and Sia when we get settled" (Gail, send your new address to PDS and then you will get a Journal.)

As we approach the 15th anniversary of graduating from PDS, may I ask you a favor? There are several classmates "missing" and I know many of you have moved in the last year or so. Please drop me (or PDS) a line with your whereabouts if it is different from a year ago. And if you happen to know where the "missing" classmates are, please let me know. They are: Elizabeth Ely, Holly Sidford Englund, Cynthia Lund, Joan Majarian, Ralph Sandora, Charlie Simmons and Joan Wadelton. Thanks.

A final note comes from snowy Connecticut. The Hysons are thriving in Cheshire. Eric is a staff Radiologist at Waterbury Hospital; Christopher is an active kindergartener; Katie is constantly talking and looking forward to nursery school in the fall; and I am maintaining my squash game, although I am expecting again in July. It seems that every time we move or add on to the house, we have another baby! I think we better not make the house any bigger!

Have a great summer.

Have revived an old friendship with Laurie D'Agostino Staumen '70 since we both live in the Bay area. (Laurie has a 1½ year old son named Matthew). Steve and Barbara spent much of the past year working on their new house, raising a litter of husky puppies and growing their own vegetables in the city soil. It works! Debbie Applegate is looking to live in the Princeton-Pennington-Hopewell area. Any leads? She is a member of the Holistic Health Assoc. and is involved in Massage training. The Arts are still a favorite interest and she planned to do some camping, beaching, and travel last summer.

Address: Meadowbrook Road, Flemington, NJ 08822.

Karen Hoffman Friedlander and Gardner moved to Milwaukee and will both be teaching at the University School there. Her plans for Divinity School have been put on a back burner for now but definitely are not forgotten. She had a terrific year at Yale. Alexandra Holt Schaffner is now in her third year as Assistant Director of Admissions at Wells College and loving it. Last summer she ran a leadership conference for high school women. She is also finally wrapping up her Ph.D. at Cornell in History of Art. She taught this past winter at Hobart & William Smith. She and her husband Len have a son, Lincoln, less than a year old.

Rick and Judy Migliori Firman recently moved to a new home overlooking Jacobs Creek in Titusville. She writes that she spent most of 1982 recovering from the shock of turning 30. (We can all relate to that!) Judy is now a Computer Marketing Representative for IBM which she says is a far cry from teaching third grade. Judy's sister, Jill '77, is also a Marketing Rep. for IBM. Jill plans to be married in June to Joe Maxson from Pompano Beach, FL.

Allison Gilbert Kozicharow, husband Gene, and little Maggie (now 2½) have returned to the USA after living in Brussels for several years. She also says that they see a lot of Kevin and Hilary Martin Foskett who also live in the DC area.

Grace Taylor Harris and Dick had their first child in September, Darcy Caitlin. Grace writes that Darcy is a wonderful baby and is happy most of the time. Pam Orr Marck had her second daughter, Melissa, on October 11, 1982. Shortly thereafter, Pam, Jack, Jenny and the baby packed up and moved to Monroe, CT where they are happily settled in their new house. This was definitely the year for female offspring for the class of 1970! Geoffrey and I also have a new addition to our family, Kathryn Townsend Michael (Katie) was born November 5, 1982, 5 lbs., 14 oz. She is an absolute joy and I only wish she could stay little just a bit longer.

Darcy Caitlin Harris, first child of Grace Taylor Harris '70.

Naurene Donnelly was married in October to Thomas Mark Rosenthal, a staff reporter and editor for the Associated Press. Alice Holiman Foss was a bridesmaid, her son, Britt, a ring bearer and her daughter Laura a flower girl. Lucy Stover Ashton was there. Pam Orr Marck couldn't make it due to Melissa's impending arrival. Naurene also writes that she saw Ann Wiley who is living in Lawrenceville and working in Princeton. She also ran into Bob Salup last summer at Good Time Charlie's. Bob is the Merchandising Manager for Quaker Curtain. He is also president of Zebra Records, Inc. which is an independent record company based in Trenton. Bob says they just released "Bricks & Mortar's" debut album. Guitarist John Bushnell '73 is a member of that group. Bachelor life agrees with Bob. He lives alone except for his two labradors. What ever happened to Erik Heggen? he wants to know.

Pam Woodworth is engaged to be married, is a registered architect, and is ranked # 1 on the B league squash ladder. She is living in Cambridge, MA. Rebecca Bushnell received a Ph.D. in Comparative Literature from Princeton in the fall. She is now teaching at the University of PA. I received a mystery card from a classmate who completed master's degrees in both Architecture and Urban Design at Columbia and is presently developing real estate in NYC. His major project is in Battery City (lower Manhattan) where he is building 170 luxury condominiums. He gave me a phone number # 212-678-0397 but forgot to say who he was! The news for this Journal from our class is brief, but should supply a few pleasant surprises. The first one is news from Lawrence Boyer, someone whom we have not heard from in about twelve years! He is active in the emergency services and municipal government of West Windsor Township and also wrote: "I have pursued both an electronics engineering and management career. I am presently holding the position of Production Manager at Fiberguide Instruments in Princeton. Along with (that) position, I am commercially flying hot air balloons. Holding a commercial license and, being certified as a flight instructor, I have incorporated under the name of 'The Hot Air Affair.' Arrangements have been made for me to supply a balloon to give tethered rides for the benefit of this year's PDS Fair." If you are at the Fair this year, stop by to say hi and take a ride.

Kim Chambers Hughes, who lives in Northbrook, Illinois sent this news: "Since returning from a trip to Ireland and Scotland last fall, I've mainly been concentrating on my writing. I've sold several stories which enabled me to become an affiliate member of the Science Fiction Writers of America; I also won second prize in a Fantasy & Science Fiction short story contest. In March, I've been accepted to attend an F & SF Writers' Workshop, running in conjunction with the Fourth International Conference on the Fantastic. Apart from that, I've been singing Scottish songs for a number of Burns suppers and such like occasions, and both my husband and I do a lot of Scottish Country Dancing, for anything from hospitals to functions at a local Hyatt Hotel. We've recently taken up Highland Dancing as well, better exercise and more fun than aerobics!"

All is well with Lee Morgan and her family in Redding, Conn. She wrote: "Kate (her daughter) is almost one and a half years old and an absolute joy. We're in a 300 year-old saltbox. It's a big change from a Manhattan apartment but overall it agrees with us. I work in New York City part-time for Holt Rinehart & Winston in the Textbook Division. Tom is still doing business importing from China and travelling a fair amount. We see Anne Healy regularly for country weekends and city get togethers." Lee—I sat next to your brother-in-law at a dinner-dance held in the World Trade Center in early December by Guy Carpenter & Company, Inc.

Mim Sawyer Robinson and her family are moving from Juneau to Port Alexander, Alaska in the spring. Her husband, Eric, will be fishing year-round there. "The community is very isolated, but has its own school building, restaurant and store. We are looking forward to the move." is what Mim has to say about their new home. Tania Lawson-Johnston Tassie is still living in Pennington with her two children—Brogann 6 and Mark 4. She is working in New York City one day a week for her father's accountant, playing field hockey in the fall, tennis in the summer, and squash in the winter. Tania serves on the Board of her boarding school and has just resigned from the Association of the New Jersey Neuro Psychiatric Institute Board.

George Treves, a new member of our Alumni Council, continues to live in Princeton and is pursuing the same projects outlined in earlier columns—work, YMCA, Sierra Club, and cooking. George wrote: "Have run into many classmates (recently) . . . John Paine, Tony Dale, Evelyn Sherwood and David Claghorn to name a few. Went to a holiday party at Christine Smith's home where I met her, Paul Lyman and Janie Cross. Most everyone seems well in terms of health, surviving in terms of wealth, but everyone tells a different story when discussing how fulfilling their life has been." Lisa Warren is still practicing law in Newark at Shanley & Fisher; she reports that "all is status quo . . . No earth-shattering news. No major romances, trips, honors, and no babies." Sounds about what I could say about my own life, Lisa.

Natalie Huston Wiles sent in a wonderful picture which you will find with this column. She has this to say about it: "This picture from—oh, yes, it's true—20 years ago this spring—Mrs. Barclay's 4th grade class ready for 'graduation' at Miss Fine's. Are we really pushing the big three-0? It all seems like yesterday at MFS to me! . . . Note the art work above us in the photo; I think it is still around. I remember it being shown in PDS some time ago—our version of a 'Midsummer Night's Dream' . . . I think this picture proves that great saying that we're not getting older, we're getting better." Personally speaking, Natalie says that all is fine with the Wiles in Chambersburg, Penn. Her son, Geoffrey, will be a year old in early May and is already understanding the word "no."

Laurie Bryant Young took a photography course at the Smithsonian last fall and ran into Hope Pillsbury, someone I have not seen since a chance meeting at Brown University about nine or ten years ago. Hope moved to Massachusetts after our eighth grade; she now lives in Washington, DC and works for the EPA. We now have a current address for you, Hope, so you will be receiving all the news from PDS. And, don't forget to send us some word about what you are up to!

Tony Dale married Kit Michael on August 28. They are living in NYC where Tony continues to work with Dancer Fitzgerald Sample, the advertising firm. Dede Pickering has returned to the Big Apple from Dallas. What are you up to, Dede? Betti Schleyer sent in the news that she has moved to Nyack, NY and that she and her husband are proud owners of their first house. She is making her contribution to baby years as well in that she has a baby on the way! She has just finished all her pre-doctoral requirements and is just beginning to work on her thesis.

My family is enjoying our home in Princeton very much. Mandy is three and has been in nursery school this year. Thom still travels a good bit which makes living in a familiar area all that much nicer for Mandy and me. My pursuits are still in the non-professional line but keep me busy and happy. I am already waiting for the news to come pouring in for the next issue of the Journal—what easier way is there to see your name in print and keep in touch with old friends at the same time?

Mr. John L. Moore, III

The following bits of information were picked up from various newspapers and personal notes. Sorry, this is all . . .

Mark D. Harrop sent in the news that he graduated from Vassar College in 1976 and from Columbia University's School of International Affairs in 1978. He is the precious metals editor for Metals Week, a McGraw-Hill publication. He married Lucy Ann Mayer of New York City in September 1978 and they live in Greenwich Village. He sends his best regards after all these years from "Mau-Mau." Also from the past comes the news from Brice (Bogie) Hereford who is living in Cambridge, MA that he is "living in 'Genteel Squalor' and working as an account executive at Dickinson Direct Response, a direct Mail/Marketing agency in Boston. Hoping all is well with you." Finally, from the papers we learn that Sam Starkey married Emily Wood, a telecommunications analyst for the Colonial Penn Group in Phila. Sam is a corporate bond analyst at Salomon Brothers in NY. Their wedding was November 13 in Bryn Mawr, PA.

After digging my typewriter out of 24 inches of snow, I started to think back to our very successful tenth reunion in Colross on the day after Christmas. It was quite an experience to set my eyes upon people I hadn't seen since the breakfast party at Beth Sanford's after that long, frenzied graduation night. The first to arrive were Andrea Katin and Robin Kraut Zell. I was amazed at how little Andy had changed in her looks, but I was even more amazed at how I barely recognized Robin. However, Martha came to the rescue before I made an idiot of myself. Then I wondered how many people wouldn't know who I was! I didn't think ten years could make such a difference in people. My next surprise was our resident professional publishers, Roger and Gina (Cascone) Williams. Both are looking wonderfully successful and sounding even more so.

Gina appeared on the "Today" show after publication of her book, Pagan Babies, and it continues to make news in the local papers. Sue Ross and fiancé, Paul Cusack, spent the evening talking to Liz Pratt Bliss and her husband, Zenas. Sue is with the First National Bank of Boston and her fiancé is a furniture designer. Jenny Berger made the rounds with Daryl Janick, while I had my most exhilarating conversations with Joe Abelson and John Bushnell. Joe has traveled all over the country the past ten years, and John has just gotten married to a girl from Newtown while keeping his band going in the NJ/PA area. John has even turned up as the subject in a guitar ad in the better music mags. Of course, Mark Ellsworth was manning the liquor sales. Dan Blum is alive and looking extremely well . . . too bad he's not married! There were many, many other people there, but my mind has failed me . . . oh, yes, Margy Erdman was bubbling about keeping us laughing.

I also got cards from Hilary Morgan, Peter Moore, Erica Klein, Robin Maltese, and Glenna Weisberg. Hilary is still working hard on her singing career and is getting her stock broker's license. She still scuba dives and gambles in A.C. Peter quit his job as Assistant Director of the Environmental Intern Program in May '82 and took on the responsibility of running a new 42 foot commercial fishing boat up the wilderness of the Inside Passage, from Seattle to Prince William Sound in south-central Alaska. This included a 43 hour, 350 mile, open water crossing through the Gulf of Alaska. Storms, seas, whales, fog, salmon, mountains, a month and a half of commercial shrimping was his summer. He spent the fall job hunting and making ends meet. Peter is about to start work with the Dept. of Natural Resources along with 2 grad-level business courses. Erica has started her own business called "Resumes That Work," a career counseling and resume company. She gives special rates for the unemployed and students, in case anyone who wants and needs help isn't a bank president! Robin is still working at Air-Shields in Hatboro, PA. (Why weren't you at the reunion, Robin?) she has had a hand in designing one of their new marketable products called the "infant care system." But the most exciting news is Robin's getting married on June 18 to John Charles Dintinger of Middletown, PA. They're planning a honeymoon cruise to Bermuda. Finally, Glenna says there's nothing new in Buffalo. She's still "trudging" through her second year of residency in OB/GYN. She has delivered triplets!

From other sources we have learned that Cynthia Bishop-Webster has bought a house with her husband, John, in Duvall, WA where she loves her job with "Seattle Rep." She spoke with Hattie Gault Freeman who has a new son named Matthew. Jeffrey Schuss reports in from downtown Cambridge, MA where he is grinding it out in his first year of Harvard Business School. He was sorry to miss the 10th reunion and asks if there will be an 11th? Also in Boston comes the word from Cassandra Oxley that she is living and working there. She works at the Federal Reserve Bank. Her sister, Alyssa '76 is also in Boston, in advertising.

Russell Pyne is engaged to be married to Helen Cooke of Kansas City, MO. Russell is an associate in the corporate and finance department of Davis Polk & Wardwell. They plan to be married in June.

And finally, another classmate makes it into the big time with Richard Olcott's award winning design and completion of a most unusual home in Princeton. In case you missed it, there was a two page spread in the New York Times Magazine, Sunday, February 6, 1983, complete with photographs and much in the way of laudatory reviews of the home.

She sends her best to all.

Eleanor Funk Schuster and Vladimir are now the proud parents of Nikolai, who was born on June 25th, 1982. (See photo) Eleanor writes that "he is now crawling everywhere, and terrorizing N.Y.C. Vladimir is starting an electrical contracting business, and I'm helping out for awhile in between Nikolai's swimming and exercise classes . . ." Trina Kassler is living in Alaska, and working on a film about alcohol in Bush Alaska, with a crew from the University. "In April I sold my stock in N.Y.C. and am back to simple living: 3 rooms and an outhouse in a broad, pristine valley where there are more dog teams than x-c skiers on the trails."

Nancy Kendall writes that all is well in Los Angeles. She is now working for an advertising agency, Foote, Cone & Belding. "I'm one of the characters who helps these corporate giants figure out what they would like to sponsor . . ."

Liz Penick Graham was married in June of '81 to Doug Graham, and, they are "having our first kid in June, '83." Congratulations on both counts Liz & Doug!! Liz and Doug have bought an old house, with a view of Puget Sound and Mt. Rainier. Liz is working for a quasi-state agency that promotes consumption of dairy products, the Dairy Farmers of Washington, doing mostly P.R. and advertising. Doug is V.P. in charge of urban development at Ewing & Clark, Inc.

Diana Roberts is waitressing on Martha's Vineyard, year-round. In September, she will be returning to Wellesley, part-time. "I'll be commuting from the Vineyard and juggling child-care of Orion, 4, and Benjamin, 2½." She is going to San Francisco and Maui this February. Alice Rodgers Tarleton was married to Brian Tarleton, on September 11, 1982, in Ashland, Wisconsin. Alice and Brian are in the process of setting up a small pottery and woodshop at their home in W. Fairlee, Vermont. Terry Ward is currently a Woodrow Fellow at Emory University School of Theology in Atlanta, Georgia. I (Diana Lewis) am still living in Western, PA, and am now a bonafide Nursery School teacher . . . It was great to hear from so many of you.

From other sources we have learned that David Straut is finishing up a training program at Morgan Guaranty and is hoping to be assigned to the Domestic Lending department. James Morgan married Beth Ann Piatnitzka on October 8 in Berkeley, CA. Jamie is an artist in Oakland, CA.

Finally, we heard from Wendy Frieman that she is still working at Stanford Research Institute, developing a China research program. She travels to New York and Washington fairly often so she hopes to be able to get to a PDS alumni day one of these years (it's the 11th of June this year).

A belated Happy New Year and best wishes for 1983 from your class secretary. Before we get on to the business at hand, I would like for you to contemplate the fact that we are edging on our 8th year outside the PDS environment. An even more sobering thought is that our 10th reunion is only a few short years away. The indefatigable planner would appreciate your thinking (if only for the briefest of moments) about what type of reunion we might have. It has always been this writer's opinion that we have a more diversified, if not eclectic, class than those succeeding us (maybe even preceding us). In that vein, we might prefer to not pursue the typical reunion gatherings that other classes have had but rather to do something different: a panel discussion with members of our class who have pursued both a variety of careers and lifestyles, a dinner party or maybe a Sunday brunch? Later this year, we will send out a questionnaire to gather your thoughts and ideas. Your interest and comments will be appreciated and faithfully considered (just as these notes are). Thanks in advance.

As the readers of this article will be able to discern, some of the following news is dated. Your class secretary sends apologies for her negligence.

David Beckwith will marry Amy Dickinson of Cincinnati on April 30. David is working with Lloyds Bank International in Boston where he is a credit analyst.

Anne Altmaier was married on August 28 in Wilmington, DE. She is employed at Young & Rubicam, the advertising agency. Davis Sherman and Anita Gilman tied the knot on June 27 in Cambridge, MA. Another June wedding was Sandi Davies' to John Sherman Barada, a classmate of hers at Denison. She is a sales correspondent with Conokraft International, Inc., a subsidiary of the Continental Group in Stamford. John is a sales representative with Sonitrol Security Systems in Bridgeport. Mary Lane was a member of the wedding party and Alex Shoemaker Enteline, Tad Van Dusen, Molly Sword and Amy Stover attended the festivities. The couple went on a fabulous honeymoon to the Bahamas and London and have now settled down in Greenwich.

Ralph Brown married Sharon Lynn McIntire on October 16 at Saint Bartholomew's Church in New York City. The reception was held at the Waldorf-Astoria. Michael V. Patterson '77 was the best man. Ralph is at Chemical Bank and is working on his MBA at Fordham University. Sharon, a graduate of Connecticut College, is a legal placement counselor at Robert Hadley Associates in the city.

Elliot Pilshaw sends the class news that goes beyond degrees received, jobs found and weddings planned. He reports: "I came out of the closet two years ago as an openly gay person. I do volunteer work at the Los Angeles Gay and Lesbian Community Services as a peer counselor, with gay people who are struggling with various kinds of emotional turmoil. I also am employed by Temple Beth Chayim Chadashim, the gay Jewish congregation here in L.A., as a cantor. I am in the process of launching my career as a political singer/activist, who is concerned about challenging conventional ideas and raising people's consciousness about sexism, racism, capitalism, and nuclear issues. I sing with another gay man named Lorin Sklamberg, and we call our duo 'Pilshaw & Sklamberg.' We perform at many community functions, political demonstrations, and every Saturday night in a funky little coffeehouse. We both sing, play guitars and piano, and our music has a mellow folk/pop kind of feel to it. I think the PDS community will be very interested to know that I, Elliot Pilshaw, have been going to a private gym for the past year and a half and working out with Nautilus machines and weights. I think most people remember me as the professional gym-class cutter. Basically I think people remember me at PDS as a kind of awkward and mysterious kid, kind of clutzy, socially ill-at-ease, not a sharp dresser, pretty unhappy, and not too hot on the dating scene. Coming out of the closet has been the key to my development as a full person. I'm feeling good about myself at last. I feel better about my body, less awkward, less self-conscious. All in all, I'm quite happy. I have many wonderful friends and am enjoying my life to the hilt." Anyone visiting Los Angeles can see Elliot's show on Saturday nights at The Last Drop Coffeehouse, 1913 Hyperion Avenue, L.A. (in Silverlake).

Berkeley, CA is where Caron Cadle is presently abiding. She anticipates finishing her MBA at UC Berkeley in August after a long haul that was caused by some health problems that slowed her down. Her volunteer work includes: being a contraceptive educator and medical aide at the University's Cowell Hospital and helping to coordinate community outreach. Caron is enrolled in a self defense class, "which gives me my weekly workout," and avails herself of student ushering passes to San Francisco's plays, the symphony and lectures "when other commitments allow. Other commitments are primarily my courses in marketing, business-government interaction and finance: my thesis, a marketing plan for a women's-wear company; and brochure-writing for the Clinic as well as helping author a spring revue spoofing the B-school (anonymously I hope!)." The grapevine also informed this writer that Caron ventured to Japan this past summer. How she finds time to keep up with all this is very admirable. A person of unfailing energy!

Alison Hopfield Lifland and Charlie Lifland have moved out to Los Angeles, where he is working with a law firm and she is at a brokerage firm.

As of the summer of 1981, Linda Farlow had joined Hyatt Hotels and moved to Minneapolis. She is employed at the Nicollet Mall as a corporate management trainee. Linda writes that "I was not very enthused with Hyatt's modus operandi, however, and resigned in February (1982). It seems one has to be willing to be 'Hyattized' and live to work 16-18 hours a day, which I don't believe is either ethical or at all necessary." Linda is now employed with Amfac Hotels, which is constructing a hotel in downtown Minneapolis with an opening date set for November 1983. She is in the pre-opening sales office as a sales secretary/administrative assistant. "It's great being in on this end of the business and watching everything evolve." Good luck, Linda. She also sends her greetings to Sally Wright and Elliot Pilshaw. At last report, Sally was in Princeton and looking towards breaking into the advertising field.

Chuck Segal is out in Madison, WI working on his M.S. in Real Estate Appraisal and Investment Analysis from the Graduate School of Business. He anticipates graduating in August and is spending this semester hunting for a job. "Good Luck" are feeble words of encouragement for this type of endeavor; how about "Go get 'um!"?

The latest report from the grapevine is that Peter Lawson-Johnston has been in Oklahoma City working in the oil business. Previously, he had been in Alaska for a year doing whatever people do on an oil rig. Peter, maybe you will drop this correspondent a line to explain the type of job one pursues on such a vessel?

From the "gee, who is this . . . oh, I remember now" category: our blonde haired, carefree gentleman in a blue fisherman's cap, graduated from Stamford in 1979. This can be none other than . . . Jeff Streed. During 1980, he made a "quick tour" around the world, with the majority of his time spent in Southeast Asia. The rest of that year until June 1982 was spent toiling away on his M.A. in Classical Studies at Univ. of Penn. Now that these ventures in academia are completed, Jeff is at another institution of learning, the Episcopal High School outside of Washington, D.C., where he teaches Greek and Latin. You are probably one of the few who have made one of our favorite teachers, namely Mrs. Fine, proud! During the summers, Jeff has been on digs in Greece, most recently on a Bronze Age Mycenaean site on the island of Paros.

Lars Andersen is in his second year at Georgetown Law School, where he continues to work hard but is also enjoying himself. Over the past summer he stayed in Princeton and ran his parents' store in the Shopping Center, Bon Appetit.

Anne Russell is still in the Baltimore area teaching. She spent New Years with Caroline Erdman, Kathy Burks, and Ellen Albert, which she felt was "delightful." This summer Anne will be at Columbia during the month of June and then out to the western hinterlands to climb mountains. "Maybe some day I will get my dream house built out there." Caroline, as of last report, is still in Dallas teaching kindergarten. During the summers she travels the entire length of the East Coast to vacation in Maine. Ellen graduated from the Univ. of Penn. with a master's degree in architecture in June 1982. She spent the summer in Europe. In fact, Ellen lives around the corner from Kathy, who worked at Wm. Sword & Co. during this past summer. Kathy is "forging ahead" in her final semester at business school.

Janet Rassweiler is also in the Big Apple, where she is pursuing an M.S. in teaching at the Bank Street College of Education. Her program is rather unusual in that she is in the Museum/Special Education program, which will prepare her to teach in a museum. She wistfully adds "assuming, of course, that I ever get a job." Janet is very happy with her present endeavors and finds "it's fun living in NYC although it's much faster moving and much more expensive than Philadelphia. Can't have everything."

Lorin Sklamberg and Elliot Pilshaw

It would have been easy enough to check the following information (which is dated from the spring of 1982) but it will appear here as received. My apologies, Kip, if you have moved on to bigger and better things, although what you have been doing sounds wonderful! Kip Herrick is Fashion and Beauty Merchandising Editor for Glamour Magazine in NYC. She travels extensively throughout the country giving fashion events at different retail stores. Some of the states she has been to include Texas, California, Alabama, Georgia, and Washington, D.C. "I love living in the city and working midtown allows me to walk to work—a luxury in NYC!" This writer can relate to that since it takes her about 1 hour and 40 minutes to get to work!! Kip had seen a great deal of Ruth Barach, while Ruth was working in an antique store. She is now living in Wilmington, DE with a part-time job at Henry DuPont's estate and museum—Winterthur—in painting conservation and a commissioned job at the Delaware Art Museum conserving and re-costuming their 18th c. Neapolitan creche figures. She was even sent to the Metropolitan Museum of Art to exchange thoughts with the curator of their 18th c. baroque creche figures. At night Ruth is studying chemistry and plans to apply to the 3 art conservation programs in the U.S. for the fall of 1984. She has also been involved in several short term projects using art conservation skills, including helping conserve and inpaint wallpaper at The George Reed House in Newport, DE. "I'm absolutely loving the field of conservation and the opportunities it's providing."

Nadine Sobolevitch is living in Philadelphia and studying for an M.S.E. in Computer Science at University of PA, a change from her undergraduate major in Greek! She writes "Like the apocryphal sign on the gates of Georgia Tech: 'Last year ah didn't know wat an engineer wuz. Now ah is one!'"

Naples, Maine is where you will usually find Paul Goldman working full-time with his brother and father running Camp Takajo. Otherwise, he is playing basketball with Frankie K. (otherwise known as Frank Konstantynowicz '76). Paul also sees Shawn Ellsworth since he is a frequent customer of Ellsworth's Wines & Liquors.

As for the New Jerseyans in the crowd: Marita Sturken is busy making her videotape of Hoboken, where she is a loft dweller. (Her brother, Carl, class of '73, lives several blocks away.) Grayson Ferrante is happily working at the Princeton Energy Group, where he is able to combine his construction experience with his economics degree. Hilary Winter graduated from the Divinity School at Harvard and, at last report, has been working in the publishing field. Molly Sword is trying to break into the New York musical world with her songs.

Gay Wilmerding is once again a Princeton resident. She "graduated" from UC Berkeley with a master's degree in architecture. While at Berkeley she was on the steering committees of the Organization of Women Architects and the Women's Environmental Network. She worked very hard for the ERA through the aforementioned steering committees. She also founded the Ecological Design Resource Center. As a reflection of the California experience, Gay learned how to make wine in Napa, California. In the fall, Gay journeyed to Japan where she spent several months. While in Tokyo, she visited Kenya Yamamoto, our AFS student in 1975, who stayed with the Wilmerdings while in the U.S. He is a music talent scout for Sony. Gay is actively seeking employment and by the time you read this hopes to be among the 88.6% of Americans who are working.

Through the grapevine: Molly Moynihan is thinking about entering acting school in the near future. Eric Dunn is at Harvard Business School. Marget Jacobus is living in Warwick, RI and is gainfully employed. Tad Van Dusen is working with his brother Bruce in advertising in NYC.

Michael Shillaber is engaged to be married to Joanne Faraone. He is employed by William Barthman Inc., Jewelers.

Tim Fabian is one of the founders of "The Blatent Image" gallery in Pittsburgh. The Image, an avant-garde, "anti-conventional" gallery exhibiting photographs has recently opened and is still in search of people willing to "help us run the gallery with money, time, brains—whatever," says Tim. The newspaper review of the gallery goes almost as far, but not quite, as to call the gallery a home for "Punk Photography."

This writer was out of town when this article was due for the last Alumni Journal. Then in December, Jeffrey and I returned from a fascinating trek across North Africa (through Morocco—you will probably be disappointed to know that Casablanca no longer has Humphrey Bogart's "Rick's Cafe"—Algeria and Tunisia) and then a delightful visit to Italy. Morocco was a revelation of camels or horses pulling hand made plows, old cities with narrow, winding streets crowded with people selling everything imaginable, men in long hooded robes, and veiled women with only eyes and feet visible to the public. Locals frequently mistook me for a Moroccan and spoke to me in Arabic, causing consternation rather than comprehension. Italy was a relief, thanks in large part to delicious pasta and pizza. . . . My more normal routine, however, finds me still at U.S. Trust as an officer in the Personal Banking Division. Hard to comprehend 3½ years in the same organization.

My interviewing now taps the barrel at both ends. As Harvard Schools Committee Chairperson coordinating interviews in the "08" zip code, I have had the opportunity to meet a diversified group of young people eager to go to college. As an interviewer for U.S. Trust (at Harvard!) I see them when they're eager to get out of college. It is quite a revelation to chat with college seniors who (profess to) aspire to employment in banking. Sometimes I wonder whether in a couple of years I'll be re-interviewing some of the same students on the "out" end of the cycle that I saw on the "in" . . . I see my role as Government chair in the LWV of Trenton as a way to be socially and politically involved—in a community where such involvement can, I hope, make a difference. . . . In short, ever active. P.S. Have you contributed to the Class of 1975 Fund recently? If not, please consider doing so. Thanks.

On the wedding/engagement scene we have the news that Cintra Eglin will marry Wayne Willcox. Cintra is a legal assistant with the firm of Drinker, Biddle and Reath in Philadelphia and her fiancé is an investment officer with the Republic Venture Group in Dallas, TX.

Lucy D'Agostino married Dr. Daniel J. Crowe on October 10 in Spokane, WA. where they live. (Our condolences to Lucy whose father died in early March). William Martin, Jr. sends in the news that he married Angela F. Cannon of Willingboro on August 14, 1982. He is employed at Trenton State Prison as a correctional officer. And finally on the wedding circuit, Martha Borie married Thomas W. Wood on September 18, 1982. They are living on Southampton Rd. in Philadelphia.

Bebe Neuirth was one of the six "new faces" in "Upstairs at O'Neal's" a musical revue in New York this past fall. Laurie LaPlaca has also been in the limelight with her photograph in the local papers as part of the professional team which offers full interior design services for homes and offices through Nassau Interiors.

Joseph Feller writes from Randolph, NJ that he is an assistant manager with AT & T International in Bid and Proposal Development. He says that "world travel is an excellent contrast to life in North Jersey." And Mark Blaxill sends his best wishes from Boston where he is at Harvard Business School and enjoying it very much. Finally, a humorous but welcome donation to the annual fund came to the development office from Steve Judge. He let us know that "he broke down and got a job." His current address is still Poë Road in Princeton because he is "on the road."

Stephanie Cohen is happily living and working in New York City as a group sales representative for the Home Life Insurance Company. She finds City Life great and her job "demanding but rewarding." Having graduated from Williams College last May, Lisa Yokana is now with the Stoneleigh-Burnham School, Greenfield, MA, working as the Assistant Director of Admissions and teaching Houseparenting. She hopes to begin work on a Ph.D. in Art History next fall, and eventually wants to curate for a contemporary museum. If anyone is in the Greenfield, MA area, you have a cordial invitation to visit Lisa. "I'm right off Route 91 just south of Brattleboro." From Highland Park, NJ, Randy Melville is happy to report that all is well. He does, however, want to know if anyone is giving a crash course in cooking. So classmates, to prevent Randy from starving or buying one more frozen dinner, please send your favorite "E-Z" gourmet recipe to Randy, c/o 38C Bartle Court, Highland Park, NJ 08904.

Rachel Abelson Hickson and husband David are living in a big apartment with lots of character in Weehawken, NJ. They live within two blocks of the Hudson and have a spectacular view of the West Side. Rachel is enjoying her job in Market Research with the Magazine Publishers Association. Celia (changed her name from Spanel to) Schulz graduated from Cornell, in May, with a Degree in Medieval Studies. She is now staffing the Shelter for Battered Women in Ithaca, NY and playing in an Indonesian music ensemble associated with Cornell. Celia travelled to Scandinavia and Russia, "a beautiful part of the world," this summer. She has seen Jennifer Horton '76, Rachel Abelson Hickson, and Hope Blackburn, and had a great time visiting Jennifer Weiss in Washington, DC this fall.

Doug Boone is living in New Zealand. Enjoying Pittsburgh and her job with Mellon Bank, Becky Hafitz is on a temporary assignment in the Charge Services Division of the Community Parking Department. (If anyone gets a parking ticket while in Pittsburgh ...) Becky and Livia Wong are planning a vacation to St. Kitts. Sabrina Plante is at Georgetown Medical School getting a Master's Degree in Physiology. She plans to continue with the full medical school curriculum next year. On the verge of beginning a career as a Correction Officer at Trenton State Prison, Alan Johnson has intentions of working his way up through the Prison Reform Movement and getting his M.B.A.

Sandra Benson, having finished her Penn degree with a semester in London studying Anglo Saxon, Arthurian Legend and James Joyce, has been living in Madrid. She spent much of her free-time with Allison Hughes '75 who is a teacher in Madrid. Sandra is "going to Russia next week," and once stateside, she will begin work on a Master's Degree in Computer Science at Montana State. If anyone is wandering through Montana—give Sandra a call (406) 995-4667.

I received a great note from Harold Tanner which arrived too late to make the last Journal. Harold spent four months in Nepal, in the fall-winter of 1981, studying with the Experiment in International Living. He then travelled to England via Jordan, Palestine, and Egypt, and I believe he has now graduated from New England College, in England, with a B.A. in Political Science. "Any of you up and coming executives needing the services of a Nepali speaking American with good contacts among Kathmandu dealers, beggars, farmers, and hotel managers in Chame and Manang," can contact Harold c/o New England College, Arundel, Sussex, England BN180DA.

I talked to Michael Patterson the other day. He is a sophomore at Rider College studying Politics. Michael reports "I guess it's alright to say that Quinn McCord is living somewhere in PA and is planning to get married." I had dinner with Jill Migliori recently. Jill is living in Philadelphia and working for IBM. Alexis Arlett and husband Bill had a fantastic time honeymooning in Bermuda and are now living in Manhattan. Their apartment is right across from the World Trade Centers on The Hudson; they have a great view of "across the river." Bill works for Con Ed and Alexis is now a Bond Coordinator in The Bond Funds Group with Merrill Lynch. Allegra Smith sends "Greetings to friends from years ago." Allegra spent the summer and fall at Arcosanti, a future-oriented architectural project in the desert north of Phoenix. "The environment is alien, scorching sunlight, cactus-covered mesas, spectacular thunderstorms, and the Community hardworking and fun loving." Now living and working in Charlottesville, VA, Allegra plans on returning to Arcosanti to work in the fields, camp kitchen, and print shop. Karin Morgenstern had a wonderful time sight-seeing and museum hopping in Venice, Vienna, and Frankfurt this fall. Having returned to Princeton, Karin is taking a class at Mercer County in preparation for a summer course in Publishing.

Two cards came in without any names on them but with a little detective work we think they came from Carol Katz and Stephen Farr. If our hunch is right, Carol is living in Chicago and working for a Business Research Analyst for the management consulting firm of Booz, Allen & Hamilton. She will be going to graduate school in business administration in the fall. And from Stephen we hear that he plans to graduate this spring—he claims the six year plan has its advantages but he is psyched for the real world. Plans include San Francisco via Europe and employment "(ugh)". He is wondering if any rich and famous classmates have need of a lacky? Recent encounters with PDSers include backpacking in the Sierras with Ted Stabler, skiing in Vermont with Ted and Andrew Hildick-Smith, and sailing in the San Francisco Bay with Kerin Lifland. Quite the outdoorsmen, eh?

From the local papers we have found out that Holly Burks plans to be married in June to Paul Becker, fellow Dartmouth alum. Holly is an assistant to the director of admissions at Dartmouth.

Pete Buck is soon to be married to Nancy Brown of Richmond, VA. Pete is working in Boston with Eagle Income Management, dealer/broker in government securities.

Elizabeth Carothers has moved to southwest Florida where she is reporting for WEVU-TV, Channel 26. She was an anchor-reporter for Central Jersey Newscable in New Brunswick. Russell Haitch graduated summa cum laude and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa at Amherst College. He studied also at the Oundle School in Northamptonshire, England as a Sir John Dill Fellow of the English-Speaking Union, and at University College, the University of London.

Also in the Princeton Packet was a most interesting article about Morgan Hite who, last year began the exceedingly long trek of the Appalachian Trail. Beginning in Georgia, he wound up on Mount Katahdin, Maine 166 days and 2,126.2 miles later.

I enjoyed hearing from the above classmates and hope you will continue (or begin) to keep in touch. I am living in Philadelphia, working as the Assistant to the Director of Development, Philadelphia Council, Boy Scouts of America. An interesting job to say the least. Please give me a call if you are in the "historical" Philadelphia area. HAPPY, HEALTHY 1983 to all.

Survivor list as of the winter of '83 looks grim—Only a few loyal '78's could afford the pen and ink to send an SOS, despite the self-addressed, stamped postcard contributed by our alma mater. The few who were able to correspond in the midst of this madness demonstrate tenacity, charisma, imagination and fortitude in the face of the onslaught of the REAL WORLD. Suggested solution: Bribery.

Now that I've sufficiently chided you for not writing, and hopefully aroused a twinge of curiosity concerning your fellow survivors as well, be patient with me gentle reader, because the author has not yet emerged from her cocoon of academia. I join Steve Rowland (University of Chicago Law School) and Jay Itzkowitz (Rutgers Law School) in pursuit of Justice, Fairness and the most recent citation for my Moof Court brief. (I am at Boston College Law School). I'm sure that there are others in our class still combing through library stacks, and living the pizza and beer existence of a student; so take heart from our classmates who are playing the Real People game—we'll get there soon!

Jay Itzkowitz, when he's not giving free legal advice to former classmates, reminisces about this past summer on "The Vineyard" where he and Jim Jeffers ran into: "Jackie O, Danny A, and the ghost of Johnny B." Is that a morbid joke, Jay? Probably since the last issue of Harvard's "Lampoon" parody of Newsweek was Jay's major project of the summer. The "Lampoon" did such an excellent job that Life magazine did a feature on it and somehow Jay's picture wound up on the cover instead of the psychological projection-portrait of the Tylenol killer. Oh, dear, these things happen in journalism, Jay.

Telegrams and urgent messages have reached the Gips' poolside control tower, that Don has singlehandedly changed the Indian Himalayas into a bustling metropolis and plans to initiate an economic system there similar to the New York Stock Exchange. He has been trekking (avec copain) through some wild terrain all winter and since March has been stationed in Sri Lanka to work on his fellowship project studying the influence of Westernization on the culture there. At least that was what he was studying the last time I heard ... We all hope to catch you Don, before your next trek somewhere so we can hear about your experiences. Send all messages to Mrs. Gips who is the official interpreter for Don's voyage.

Nora Cuesta started her Real World career this January as a Claims Adjuster with Allstate in Cherry Hill, NJ. She graduated from Upsala College, honored with a by-line in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Nora hopes that her fame from Who's Who won't deter any of her high school friends from writing her at: Hoddevview Apts. 1401-N #7 MacArthur Blvd., Westmont, NJ 08108 (609) 858-1751.

Lee Ross writes on "Glamour" magazine stationery that he wishes to re-instate his existence in the PDS alumni journal! I guess emerging into the Real World can do that to you ... or was it the "Glamour" stationery? Lee drank his way through Europe this summer from what I gather, and calls Lake Bluff, Illinois home these days. After a major knee operation Lee hopes to be back in shape, coaching Lacrosse at a camp this spring. Lee's graduation picture is proof that his sense of humor survived the rigors of Lake Forest. Lee, were you the one who threw bebe's on the floor in dancing school???

Barry Smith writes: "Last winter and spring I spent staring at the ceiling due to a severe back injury. Recovery has been slow and I will forever have to answer to a slightly more limited mode of life. No major sacrifice. This summer I took off across the country, taking the Northern Route through British Columbia, Yukon, Alaska, Alberta and Vancouver and back down the West Coast. 21,000 miles that stopped just short of a dream. It was a good experience that I'm still digesting." Barry has been renting in North East Vermont since April which is the lifestyle he has sought for quite a while.

Pamela Macleod graduated with distinction in journalism and business from Penn. State, was editor of the Daily Collegian, varsity field hockey goalie, member and founder of a fraternity and a sorority, and active in the skating club. Wow! Now she is into even more exciting news with the Wall Street Journal, European Edition (brand new as of Jan. '83) at their headquarters in Brussels. Her address for any of you jet-setters who would trade a ride in her Porsche for a croissant or two ... Rue des Guildes, 25/1040 Bruxelles, Belgium. Tele. 32-2-230-9982. Pam was recently honored by being named an "Outstanding Young Woman of America."

Suzanne Pritchard writes from Europe where she is teaching children with dyslexia aboard a 136' rigged schooner. The cruise started in Copenhagen and will end in Greece. The students are learning both sailing and about different parts of the world. Tom Gates reports from Colorado that he is having a ball in Dillon, CO and is a bellman at Keystone Lodge. There is much skiing, good friends, and "some" partying. He is hoping for a real job from Princeton Pool & Patio this summer. He will be back east for Pete Buck's '77 wedding in April. He plans to take off to Scandinavia for some Blond Action in July then Europe, then ... the Big Apple beckons for "this future producer of films and television."

Mike "Wally" Walters worked in Delaware last summer, played league softball, and at the U. of Delaware was the Co-captain of the soccer team. His soccer team compiled the best record ever and broke all previous scoring records. Patricia Metzger is engaged to be married to Daniel Thomas of London in September 1983. She is a claims broker for Willis Faber & Dumas Ltd. International Insurance Brokers in London.

Also getting married is Siri Huntoon to David Fox. They are both seniors at Brown where she is studying literature and photography. They plan a June '83 wedding. Todd Miller married Ruth Craig on September 25. He is a petroleum engineer for Mobil Oil Co. in Midland, TX. Will Kain married Kathryn Keith on August 28 last year. They live in Coronado, CA while he attends surface warfare school. He will fulfill his naval commission in Hawaii.

The Holiday must really have been busy for many of you because our turn-out at Colross before Christmas was sparse. Fred Woodbridge deserves our thanks for throwing the evening together. Attending the shindig were Lucky Pyne who is in a Master's program (Biology) at the University of Vermont, Rob Whitlock, Hannah Felton, Betsy Murdoch, Steve Rowland, Steven Cragg and various other '77's and '79's were enjoying the festivities too. Betsy is busy recruiting students to go with her on another trek in the Himalayas this summer. Steven Cragg is writing cartoons, splitting wood and entertaining Buff in Vermont. Rob Whitlock's portfolio is emerging from under T-square and charcoal pencil as he readies applications to design school. Hannah graduated from Middlebury in 1982 and is presently in a fabulous program at Massachusetts General Hospital which will train her as an RN in two years and she'll emerge with her Master's after the third. Susan Blaxill, also in Boston as a paralegal, readies her water skis and fishing rods for Law School in Miami next year.

The rest of you, I know you're out there! Take care, and let us know what's happening in your lives.

Mr. Evan R. Press
331 Gallup Road
Princeton, NJ 08540

Just a few postcards were returned to the class secretaries but other news has been gathered from newspapers and the like. We heard directly from Vance Camisa that he is engaged to be married this June. Then he and his wife will move to the Washington, D.C. area for at least a year while his wife finishes graduate school at G.W. ("By the way, Scott Green is down there at Howard University—and we manage to stay in touch.") Laura Farina sends in the following: "I am winding down my senior year at Georgetown. Spent last summer working a few part-time jobs in D.C. (an advertising agency, The Athlete's Foot) while taking a course, 'History of Russian Expansion' (I will graduate with a History/Government major)." Laura is playing women's lacrosse and thinking towards her future plans—perhaps in government or law. She also plans to relax this coming summer somewhere other than Washington or Trenton while enjoying her cousin Jill Migliori '77's wedding day, June 11th.

Nick Donath has survived 3½ years at Princeton and has a 100 page thesis to write... in two months. "Can Nick do it?" you may wonder, then again you probably don't care. He asks if anyone will hire him if he graduates. He does do windows. He also suggests we get cracking on plans for a 5th reunion in 1984.

John Hall has decided not to attend graduate school next year but will consider that route in one, maybe two years. He has been interviewing with consulting firms and investment banks for a job. He would like to work abroad for a year preferably in a developing part of the world; the two year commitment to the Peace Corps is too long. He is still involved with politics and journalism at Dartmouth and is in the midst of writing a thesis on "partition as a framework for resolving the Palestine question." Also at Dartmouth is John Pyne who was recently awarded a Xerox Corporation Undergraduate Project Grant to pursue an interest tied to his major but separate from the regular courses. He will be working at the medical school. Across the way at Middlebury, Jeffrey Johnson has been named a College Scholar, the highest recognition for academic achievement. He was awarded this last spring by virtue of earning 3 As and a B or better during the semester. Moving a little bit further south, Susan Wiener, member of '79, graduate of '78, has graduated Magna Cum Laude from University of Rochester. She was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and is now a law student at Columbia Univ. She sends her best to all.

Cathy White says she is working harder than ever at Smith this year. She will be working at Princeton Bank for three weeks in January and hopes to be hired permanently as a management trainee starting in July. Mark Chibbaro was featured in Manhattanville's Portfolio—a printed leaflet which described a few students at the college and their interests and activities. Mark was cited as one of the Outstanding Young Men in America for 1982 on account of his service as president of Manhattanville's Pre-Medical Society and because he started a screening program to monitor the blood pressure levels of everyone on campus. From Mark we hear that he plans on attending Dental School at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey. He wants to be kept informed when the parties are held.

Either Martha Hicks or Kent Wilkinson sent us a card (there was no name on the card, only an address in Boulder, CO). Whoever it is is alive and well and living in Boulder. "I should be graduating in December '83 with a B.A. in English, and I plan to go into journalism of one sort or another. I hope to be working for Cable News Network in Atlanta but we'll have to see if that materializes."

Frances Weisberg writes: "I am graduating from Mount Holyoke College this spring, and will hopefully be going to graduate school next fall in Clinical Psychology. I have spent this past winter skiing and writing my thesis. This coming summer I will be on Cape Cod basking in the sun and merely relaxing!"

Miss Treby McLaughlin
263 Mercer Road
Princeton, NJ 08540
and
Miss Liza Stewardson
635 Snowden Lane
Princeton, NJ 08540

Close to home, at Princeton, Hank Urbank spends countless hours studying architecture. Tim Murdoch, who plays a lot of Lacrosse, and Billy Haynes, who majors in anthropology, room together. Treby McLaughlin is studying history, teaching skating, and spending some time with Carla Ruben who is taking time off from Northwestern. In New York City, Stephanie Trock lives in her own apartment and cooks for a restaurant in Greenwich Village. A bit south, Kara Swisher is gaining experience in journalism by working on her school paper and a Washington paper. She played field hockey in the fall and saw Kathy Rhett at Johns Hopkins where she is studying English. In the "North Country," Doug Matthews enjoys the fraternity life. He will be heading west this summer for the third year in a row. Diane Edelmann is at Harvard as an exchange from Smith, and Tom Borden sings with the Colgate 13 with whom I saw him at Princeton in the fall. The opportunity of a European education has attracted a few of our classmates. Abby Stackpole spent the fall term studying in London, and both Hilary Bennett and Nicky Osborne will be in the same city this spring. Jamie Phares and Liza Stewardson left Holyoke for the rest of the year to study art history in Italy. Abbie Barclay completed his basic training and is now stationed with the Army in Germany. Further east, Chris Wallace is taking a year away from Princeton and will be spending one semester at the University of Leningrad. It was great that so many people showed up for the alumni party in the fall, and I hope that you keep up your class spirit (or whatever drove you to go to the reunion) and send us news.

Dana Stewardson is studying in Philadelphia this term in a program that combines seminar and field study in and of urban society. Sally Robinson is studying at Wellesley College as part of Wheaton College's 12 college exchange program. A project to resurrect the Georgetown Journal has been approved for a group of students at Georgetown. Virginia Gilbert will be working on this project and hopes to accept pieces in September.

Because I received exactly two index cards with news for the Journal, I feel obligated to construct something relatively interesting from the sparse bit of information I have amassed from letters, phone calls and visits. My apologies to those of you who wanted to remain anonymous, but a reporter's got to have a scoop.

Wade Speir will take his spring semester in gale Paris, while it is rumored that Ian Rothrock is spending the winter scoping ski bunnies at a New England resort. Where are you, Nose? Buried in an avalanche?

During exam period, I received a 5:00 A.M. phone call from Dave Blair in Georgetown, in which he described his most recent car wreck. How many does that make, Crash? Stick to windsurfing, it's safer. As for the Eli contingent, Kevin Johnson is studying English and continues to shine at Lacrosse, while Mandy Katz plans to major in History and hopes to spend the summer in China.

I recently spent a weekend at Cornell with Kim Hillier who spends her waking hours in the arts studio studying graphics and interior design. We talked to Jane Gerb, now an engineering major at Duke. The three of us plan on spending the summer in Boston, so if you're in the neighborhood...

The other night, we staged another Boxer Rebellion at Harvard, but Mark Goodman and I agreed that it just wasn't the same without all you wild PDSers. Keep having fun, wherever you are, and for God's sake, don't embarrass me by not writing!

From other sources we learned that Janet McAlpin made the Dean's List in the College of Arts and Sciences at Washington University in St. Louis. Leslie Olcott is a sophomore at Mt. Holyoke. Peter Yocum made the Dean's List at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, NY where he's a sophomore majoring in computer science.

Barbara Zeitler is almost fully recovered from her car accident last spring and has become actively involved with the Tuft's Women's Center. She had another winning Varsity soccer season (9-3-1) with Kate Kilbourne.

This summer the Princeton Women's Summer Lacrosse League was in full swing. The players were made up of people with a variety of levels of capabilities. Sara Burchfield was involved with the league, and was named as one of the outstanding scorers.

Richard Hawkes spent the past year in Germany with A.F.S. He is now attending Hamilton as a Freshman.

Alice Ganoe writes that she "loves Hamilton and I've had a busy fall with field hockey!"

Kristin Naumann is an art major at Smith and last year she was represented in a two-person show, "People, Places and Things," at the Princeton University League. She was designated "Promising Young Artist" in the 1981-82 Arts Recognition and Talent Search Program sponsored by the National Foundation for Advancement in the Arts. In January, an exhibition of her recent paintings entitled "Vistas 18" was on view at the Montgomery National Bank in Rocky Hill.

Five Faculty Members Named Recipients of Distinguished Faculty Chair

A Distinguished Faculty Chair in honor of long-time teachers Anne B. Shepherd and Wesley A. McCaughan was established by an anonymous donor to recognize unusual and meritorious work by teachers who have been at Princeton Day School for at least seven years. Acting Headmaster, Sanford B. Bing announced this year's recipients. They are:

Elizabeth B. Fine, teacher of Latin and Greek since 1932 joined Miss Fine's School in 1954. She received an award from Princeton University in 1979 for Distinguished Secondary School Teaching in the State of New Jersey.

Nina Rulon-Miller of Pennington, an elementary school teacher since 1967, joined PDS in 1972 as a first grade teacher. She is married to Harry Rulon-Miller '51, also a teacher at PDS.

Anne B. Shepherd, a teacher of English since 1930, joined Miss Fine's School in 1949. She also received a Distinguished Secondary School Teaching Award from Princeton University in 1967 for her service to education in New Jersey.

Arlene Smith, a teacher of fine arts and Head of the Art Department at PDS since 1967. She joined Miss Fine's School in 1963.

Regina Spiegel, a teacher of music, both voice and instrument, since 1957, has been at PDS since 1972 working with students in the Middle School in both orchestra and choral work.

PDS TEACHERS, l. to r., Arlene Smith, Anne Shepherd, Nina Rulon-Miller, Elizabeth Fine, Regina Spiegel.

$1,000 Scholarships Awarded

Two PDS Seniors, Rachel Leader and Erica Weeder, both of Princeton, have been awarded $1,000 scholarships by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. Approximately 1,800 students nationally qualify for this type of award which is judged by a committee of college admissions officers and secondary school counselors on student's abilities, accomplishments, and promise for the future.

Four-Year Scholarship Granted by RCA

Jon Firester, a Senior at PDS, has been awarded a renewable four-year Merit Scholarship sponsored by RCA. He is among seventeen students nationwide who have been granted such an award by RCA to children of its employees.

Jon has maintained an interesting and demanding schedule while a student at PDS. In addition to receiving honors grades, he has pursued both professionally and on a volunteer basis his knowledge of and fascination with computers. Last summer he taught children ages 7-12 about the use of computers at the Monmouth County Adult Education Commission. During last year's school year he held a part-time job at a local store, "Computer Encounter." He designed, for Mr. Daniel Skvir, Director of PDS Admissions, a computer program which will aid in the clerical demands of the school's admissions process. In addition to attending two courses and two seminars at PDS during his last semester of high school, he is employed by McGraw-Hill as a computer programmer. He has participated in two theatrical productions while a student at PDS, "Pfeiffer's People" and "The Real Inspector Hound." Jon has also been a Peer Group Leader to PDS Freshmen.

His plans for the summer entail an eight week exchange program to Japan with the "Youth for Understanding" program. He will be living with a host family there and has already started to study the Japanese language. Jon will, in all likelihood, attend Harvard University next fall, where a large portion of his educational expenses will be covered by the RCA award.

Three PDS Students Win Scholastic Art Awards

The national Scholastic Art Awards program for the encouragement of student achievement in creative art has announced their 1983 awards. Three seniors from Princeton Day School received top awards of gold achievement keys in the regional exhibition sponsored by the Philadelphia Inquirer and Daily News and the Philadelphia College of Art. They are: Sarah Cragg, pencil drawing; Laurie Gallup, oil; and Ebe Metcalf, sculpture.

The competition, nationally sponsored by Eastman Kodak, Hallmark Cards, and Strathmore Paper is in its 56th year. Conducted by Scholastic, Inc., with the cooperation of public-spirited sponsors, it has become an institution in the high school world. The regional exhibitions give students the opportunity for local recognition.
