welcome

Judith R. Glickman

Two fourth graders stop by my office to read their latest poetry excerpt. Students congregate in the Campus Center for a mid-morning snack and conversation. An upper school student is working with a lower school youngster on her writing assignment. A young man is stretched out on his stomach in the art gallery reading intently. And I walk through the campus with a broad, silly smile on my face which sticks like glue. If you think I am smitten with PDS, you are 'spot on.'

Margaret Mead said so well what I have observed: "Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful citizens can change the world. Indeed, it is the only thing that ever has." PDS is a school with remarkable strengths and notable accomplishments due, in large part, to the efforts of so many of you—alumni, faculty, parents, grandparents, friends, trustees, and administration. I have walked in at a point in the school's history of which you can be tremendously proud:

- Once again, we opened at capacity, admitting only 30% of the applicants school wide.
- Our faculty continues to be recognized statewide and nationally for its work not only in the classroom, but for its contribution to other educators' professional development.
- The Campus Center is fully funded and operational. Its design speaks to the future. It is one of the few spaces in an independent school of its size in which all of the student body can convene at one time.
- The new fields are in the final stages of their construction.
- The Annual Fund exceeded $900,000 last year and is slated to hit the $1 million mark this school year.

You cherish the momentum you have, resolved to not only not let it go, but to move further along a clearly defined track.

When a sixth grade well-spoken young man asked assertively, "and Mrs. Glickman, what exactly will you bring to PDS that is something we don't already have or know?", I had a further indication that I had entered a community in which well founded self confidence, direct communication and questioning were highly valued. When my husband, Bud, and I read The Spokesman and saw how well written the articles were, how the students were guided to speak with informed thought, not just mere opinion, we were here for the asking.

Now we have a full year together while we poise PDS for its exciting future. In addition to the most basic and most obvious—promoting a graceful transition, being a highly visible member of the school community, and being of support to the faculty as it continues to address the recommendations of the Middle States Action Plan—I have two additional goals which incorporate my recent experience with particularly compelling needs and interests of the school.

First off, we are developing a master plan for the use and redesign of the entire campus. Fortuitously, the arts department has led the way in this effort producing a comprehensive, thoughtful study of its program and space needs. The full scale PDS master plan is a bit of déjà vu for me, having been highly involved in completing the master plan at The American School in London. To have returned to London this past summer, two years hence, and to see the plans on paper transformed into a strikingly beautiful reality, was tremendously gratifying. Now, to have the opportunity to be at PDS and to enlist the support of an architectural design team to translate what we define as the school's educational needs for the future into improved space for our students and faculty, is exhilarating. Led by a representative committee of faculty, staff, parents, students and trustees we will build our story and watch it become a master plan.

Secondly, I wish to seize the moment, each time it presents itself, to share what I learned as an independent school educator living overseas—how very small, yet how highly diverse our world is. I want us to ponder how we can guide our students to view the world beyond these shores so that they, our future leaders, guide the promising future of globalization and capitalize on the promise of internationalism.

Most importantly, I enlist your support to join me in honoring the traditions of Miss Fine's, Princeton Country Day, and Princeton Day School, as I invite you to share in the excitement of charting our future. Your strong, active Alumni Board headed by Newell Thompson has already shown the leadership we can expect and for which we are grateful. Given your capability and commitment, that $1,000,000 goal, so richly deserved, will be a reality in no time at all. Thank you for all you have done and for what you will continue to bring to this astonishing community.

—Judith Glickman, interim head of school

PDS is known for having an excellent faculty, and USA Today has recognized that fact by naming one of the school's outstanding educators to the newspaper's 3rd annual All-USA Teacher Team.

Third-grade teacher Beverly Gallagher, with 18 years of classroom experience, is one of 20 teachers from around the country named in this recognition program for outstanding educators. She is the first independent school teacher so honored.

PDS parent and trustee Debbie Modzelewski, whose children were students of Ms. Gallagher's, submitted the nomination. "She treats every child as her own," Ms. Modzelewski said.

The USA Today report stated that Bev Gallagher "inspires students to approach reading with the enthusiasm of a trip to Walt Disney World," and she "phones each pupil's parents every two weeks or so to report the child's tiny triumphs, new interests and great achievements."

Some of Ms. Gallagher's initiatives have included the school-wide "Imagine the Possibilities" program that brings nationally known poets, authors and artists to campus; "Weaving Words," a three-day writing workshop for teachers that was inaugurated this past summer; and Poetry Partnerships, which pairs 3rd and 11th graders for two months of reading and writing poetry.

When asked about behavioral problems, Ms. Gallagher replied, "Behavioral issues? I don't see them. When kids are engaged in work they find meaningful, those things fly out the window."

The Campus Center features numerous food stations, offering pizza, a sandwich/ deli counter, hot lunches, a full salad bar, the “grill”, fruit, desserts and beverages. There is also a snack bar in the adjoining hall.

High achievement:

MUSICAL THEME IN HARMONY WITH PDS EDUCATIONAL MISSION

Surrogate kithara. Zymo-Xyl. Cloud-chamber bowls. Chromelodian. Harmonic Canon. No, these are not nonsensical words from a Dr. Seuss book, but names of musical instruments by the late composer and instrument builder Harry Partch.

Partch (1901–1974), was one of the greatest and most individualistic composers of the twentieth century.

PDS had the rare privilege of having the Partch musical instrument collection, as well as the collection's curator, composer/musician Dean Drummond, on campus for two days. The collection, formerly housed at the Smithsonian, is on loan from the Newband Instrumentarium at New Jersey's Montclair State University. The music and instruments of Harry Partch formed the centerpiece of a lively arts cross-curriculum study unit coordinated by poet-in-residence Judy Michaels.

Ms. Michaels was enthused about bringing the Partch collections and guests artists to campus. She explained, "I first heard Partch music back in the '60s, as did (teachers) Susan Daly Rouse, Frank Jacobson, and Bonnie Hunter. When the instruments moved to New Jersey two summers ago, I immediately started negotiating."

Some of the related studies for the unit included classroom visits by teaching artist/percussionist Jim Pugliese, who led students through hands-on explorations in music-making using rhythm instruments. Classes also built their own instruments. Middle school English teacher Susan Daly-Rouse said, "I ran out of time for the ideas I had to bring the richness of this brilliant composer's work to my grade VIII students: a day of listening and creating music with found instruments, another day of reading Li Po's poems to Partch's music, and a third based on body movement for the Castor and Pollux piece. It certainly was a busy and exciting unit." Ms. Daly-Rouse appreciated the opportunity for the PDS community to "discover, through Harry Partch's music, the musician, the sculptor, the physicist, the poet, and the dancer in all of us."

The art gallery tied into the theme with an exhibit and performances of sound sculptures by Roberta Berman, and many teachers developed correlating studies in topics as diverse as physics, music, and poetry. Mr. Drummond presented workshops specifically geared towards students studying physics, music, and fine arts/architecture.

However, the highlight was certainly the concerts presented to all students that featured Newband, a contemporary music ensemble playing music and instruments of Partch and Drummond.

In his lecture, Mr. Drummond, a former student of Harry Partch, talked about Partch, the founder of modern "just intonation." He explained the difference between traditional "Western" musical tonalities and the micro-tonal music using just intonation. Most music heard in the U.S. is based on the 12 notes of the scale. (Picture the white and black notes in one octave on a piano.) The tonal distance between each of these 12 notes is the same, or "even-tempered." In that same octave on Partch's organ-like chromedolion, there are 43 tones, with unequal intervals between each of those tones. Mr. Drummond explained that to him, making music with only the 12-tone scales would be like having your drawing efforts limited to a box of 12 crayons. In contrast the expanded microtonal scale might be more like the box of 48—or even 64—crayons.

The students seemed to agree that this expanded palate of music was different and exciting. Mike Rosen, a violist in grade 10, said that he prefers the modern music to the traditional: "It's different every time you play it," he said. Tenth grader Rosser Lomax, who plays guitar, also enjoyed the concert immensely. He likened some of the Partch music to that of renowned Indian sitar player Ravi Shankar and to certain types of traditional Chinese music. This similarity is not surprising, since most "Eastern" music uses micro-tonality, so vital to Partch's musical style.

Ms. Daly-Rouse said, "The middle school students certainly loved his music and wanted to hear more"—a sentiment echoed by students throughout the school.

'UNLIKELY OLYMPIAN' MICHAEL FERRY '92

Michael Ferry '92 embodies the spirit of the Olympics. He glories in the pursuit of his sport more than in his own achievements. He perseveres. He recognizes and applauds the achievements of his competitors. He is quite willing to share credit for his successes. He gives 100% effort—or more. In short, he is lacrosse. He played lacrosse and football in upper school until his PDS athletic career abruptly ended when he suffered a dislocated knee and shattered kneecap playing football early in his senior year.

Michael also enjoyed woodworking and fondly remembers the summer after his senior the kind of athlete the U.S.—and PDS—can be proud to call one its own.

However, Michael Ferry might be considered an unlikely Olympian. He did not spend his youth working towards an Olympic dream, although he remembers devouring news of the 1984 Olympics Games in L.A. in the special Olympics issue of Sports Illustrated.

Michael entered PDS as a second grader, and by middle school was playing baseball and year, which he spent working with upper school industrial arts teacher Andy Franz building benches, cubbies and other projects for the middle school.

Michael attended Bates College in Maine, majoring in art history and minoring in French. Looking for a way to stay in shape and stay active, and still under the doctor's orders not to put any undue stress on his knee, Michael turned to rowing, then a club sport at

Michael Ferry

Bates. Michael's father had rowed in high school, but the sport was new to Michael. He loved it. He enjoyed the feel of the boat gliding through the water, and appreciated the opportunity to admire the scenic beauty of Maine, his progress noted by the occasional moose or other wildlife.

While Bates did not have formal interscholastic competition in rowing, they did participate in meets with nearby Colby and Bowdoin Colleges. In the long, cold Maine winters, the rowing teams had to be content with working out on an ergometer, a type of rowing machine. They even had a Colby-Bates-Bowdoin "erging" contest, where Michael set the record of erging 6 minutes and 2 seconds for more than 2000 simulated meters. It was to be his only collegiate win.

Michael and his teammates anxiously awaited the day in the spring when they could get out to real water again, since, as Michael states, "You can only erg so long before you go crazy." The team was so anxious each year to get back to real water that they frequently would break the ice on the Androscoggin River, hacking away at the frozen shoreline ice to get to the river's unfrozen middle.

It's ironic that he embarked on his rowing career at Bates, which is not known for its rowing program, while—ironically—Michael's hometown university, Princeton, boasts one of the nation's top-rated rowing programs. None of this stopped Michael from pursuing the rowing career that ultimately took him to the Sydney 2000 Olympics.

After college, Michael was not invited to one of the elite rowing camps that tend to become the training ground—and proving ground—for future Olympians, but he did participate in a 3-week training session at the prestigious Penn Athletic Club in Philadelphia. This brought him to the attention of the man who would become his coach, Igor Grinko. Grinko invited Michael to start training full time in Augusta, GA.

Michael enjoyed a banner year in 1998. He won gold in quadruple sculls in the 1998

National Championships, and a silver in the double sculls. A third place finish in the U.S. Team trials earned him alternate status with the National Team. Michael made the U.S. team in 1999 in a quad that just missed qualifying for finals in the world championships by placing 4th in semi-finals.

In June 2000, Michael competed in one of the most important racing events of his life: He and double sculls partner Henry Nuzum, after working together for only a few weeks, won an Olympic berth at the Olympic Rowing Trials in Cherry Hill, NJ.

Michael was thrilled to be part of the Olympic team, and says "it is an honor to go and represent the country." Like all athletes gathered in Sydney, Michael wanted to be the one to hear his national anthem played at the conclusion of his race. However, his medal hopes were not realized, and Michael and his rowing partner placed a respectable 8th in their category. But Michael was pleased to note that the national anthem that played for his event was played for the first time in Olympic history, with a team from Slovenia winning that country's first-ever Olympic gold medal.

Michael was glad to learn that the Bates rowing program, now a varsity sport, has produced another national team member, Michael's teammate and mentor Tom Keister. As for Michael, he is keeping his options open. He plans to keep rowing, and perhaps there will be another Olympics in his future. He is also investigating career options.

No matter what Michael's future holds, this Olympian holds a winning attitude that will take him far.

DID YOU KNOW?

Others in the PDS community also pursued Olympic dreams:

PDS rink manager Harry Roulon-Miller was one of 70+ young hopefuls to try out for the U.S. Olympic hockey team to participate in the 1960 Olympics in Squaw Valley, CA. It was a highly competitive field of players that year, and Harry did not make the team. That year's U.S. hockey team went on to win "bring home the gold" with a first-place finish.

During the 1980s, middle school English teacher Paul Epply-Schmidt trained extensively in fencing, trying for an Olympic berth in the 1984 L.A. or 1988 Seoul Olympics.

Cornelia (Cory) Fischer Serfl '76 was a member of the 1988 U.S. women's Olympic sailing team that competed in Seoul. She was an alternate for the two-woman team that won the gold in the women's 470.

HARRIS DIRECTORY WILL BE CONTACTING YOU

The Bernard C. Harris Publishing Company will soon be researching and compiling data for the Princeton Day School Alumni directory, scheduled for release in Fall 2001. This comprehensive hard-bound volume will include current names, addresses and phone numbers, e-mail addresses, academic data, plus business information (if applicable). Each alumna/us will receive a questionnaire from Harris to update information. Please do your part to make sure this volume is as complete and accurate as possible. (If you prefer not to be listed in the directory, please contact the alumni office as soon as possible.)

Newell Thompson '82

Dear Alums,

Having just celebrated our 100th anniversary, the second century on campus at Princeton Day School has begun with a flurry of activity. I urge you to come back and take a look at the new Campus Center, which opened this September. At the same time the campus center was being built, the Herbert McAneny Theater had air conditioning installed ensuring year round use for theatrical performances. Also, the first phase of the "Fields Project" began and will be completed in time for Reunion Weekend. So when you come back to visit PDS, there will be a nice cool theater in which to watch the wonderful PDS plays and concerts, a campus center in which to enjoy food and conversation, and playing fields where you can come to test your soccer, lacrosse and baseball skills at our alumni games.

Overall, PDS is doing exceptionally well and the alumni community has played a significant role in helping to make it that way. The Alumni Board and the activities we organize continue to grow and flourish. We have seen growth at all of our alumni events including the Thanksgiving games, family skating day, career day, and alumni weekend. We also initiated regional gatherings and local "decade" parties as opportunities for alumni to get together and reminisce.

As your alumni president, I welcome your comments, thoughts, and suggestions as to how we can better connect with you.

I look forward to seeing you on campus in the near future!

*Best Wishes,
Newell Thompson '82*

Alumni group working to honor former coach and Hall-of-Famer Bob Krueger

Late last winter, a small group of alumni gathered to discuss the idea of raising the funds to name a playing field in honor of PDS Athletic Hall of Fame lacrosse coach Bob Krueger. Little did they know that just a few weeks later they would be shocked to learn of Bob's sudden death while jogging near his home in North Carolina.

For several months following Bob's passing, the idea of a field in his honor lay dormant. As time went on, however, alumni board president Newell Thompson '82, along with Rob Olsson '78, Phil Clippinger '83, Liz Bylin Cook '90 and Thomas Foster '85 began to contact other alums about the idea of "Krueger Memorial Field". At the same time, the school moved ahead with a four-year program to construct or renovate all of its playing fields, the first phase of which will include two new fields that in the spring of 2001 will become the new home of the school's lacrosse program.

According to Newell Thompson '82, "Our hope is to dedicate one of those fields in Bob's memory on Alumni Day next spring (Saturday, May 19th) in conjunction with the annual alumni lacrosse game. We think this is an especially fitting way to remember a very special teacher, coach and friend, who made such an important impact on so many of his students."

"Like the recently funded William Smoyer '60 Memorial Soccer Field, the cost of what we hope will become Krueger Field is $150,000. Nearly half that amount has already been pledged, and hopes are high that the remaining amount will be pledged following a broad-based appeal to be sent this fall to alumni who were coached by "Kruegs".

"We look forward to talking with and answering any questions alumni and parents may have regarding this special effort to remember a great teacher and coach", said Thompson. "We have gotten off to a very encouraging start. With the help of others—we are confident that Alumni Day will include a wonderful tribute to a very special teacher, coach and friend."

TRUSTEES ANNOUNCE
$1 FOR EVERY $2
ANNUAL FUND
MATCHING CHALLENGE

At the recent Colross Dinner in October, PDS Board Chair Dan Graziano announced a special challenge to parents and alumni regarding this year's historic $1 million Annual Fund goal. As a group, the trustees have pledged up to $150,000 to this year's Annual Fund—an increase of 25% over their gifts to last year's Fund—to encourage others to increase their support of the Annual Fund. The Trustees have pledged to contribute one dollar for every two dollars of new or increased gifts. For example, if an individual did not support the Annual Fund last year and gives $100 this year, the gift will earn an additional $50 from the Trustee Challenge. If the same person had given $500 last year and increased his gift this year to $1,000, his gift would earn an additional $250 from the Trustee Challenge.

Said Graziano, "My trustee colleagues and I are pleased to provide this challenge in the hope that it will encourage others to dig a little deeper to help us reach the $1 million mark this year."

CRITERIA

Purpose

The purpose of the Athletic Hall of Fame is to recognize and honor those student athletes and other members of the community whose athletic accomplishments or other contributions to the athletic program have been of the highest caliber and exemplify the highest ideals of the school.

Structure of the Selection Committee

Permanent members of the committee are the Director of Athletics, the Associate Director of Athletics, the Director of Alumni Relations and at least one school administrator. Miss Fine's School, Princeton Country Day School and Princeton Day School are each represented by at least one alumna/us for a term of three years. Selection Committee members are not eligible for induction into the Hall of Fame while serving on the committee.

Calendar

A request for nominations is included in the Journal. All new nominees are notified and asked to complete an information sheet. Inductees will be notified of their selection by February 15. An awards ceremony is held during Alumni Weekend.

Criteria for Selection

ATHLETES

Player nominees must have attended Miss Fine's School, Princeton Country Day School, or Princeton Day School for a minimum of two years. Athletes become eligible for consideration five years after the graduation of their class. Inductees will have compiled an exceptional interscholastic athletic career or otherwise distinguished themselves through outstanding athletic achievements and exemplify the highest ideals of the school.

Selection is based primarily on athletic accomplishments while at Miss Fine's School, Princeton Country Day School or Princeton Day School. Subsequent achievements in athletics and other areas are also taken into consideration.

COACHES

To be eligible for consideration as a coach, nominees must have retired from coaching at PDS after working at the school for a minimum of five years. Selection is based upon an exceptional coaching career which brought great credit to the school.

SPECIAL

The Selection Committee also considers for induction those nominees:

- a) who have achieved extraordinary success in athletic endeavors or programs not offered by the school;
- b) whose distinguishing athletic achievements occurred subsequent to their time at school;
- c) whose example of uncommon commitment, dedication, and support of our athletic program is worthy of special recognition.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT:

'As You Like It' production benefits from expertise of British Shakespeare scholar

Princeton Day School brought a guest artist-in-residence from Great Britain to direct a fall production of As You Like It this year. Charles Duff is a noted Shakespeare scholar with an "encyclopedic knowledge of British theater" according to PDS artist-in-residence Ross Hindley, who directs the PDS theatre program in the upper school.

Mr. Hindley met Mr. Duff while studying Shakespeare at the Globe Theater in England this summer. During his two-month residency at PDS this fall, Mr. Duff served as guest teacher for upper school English classes studying As You Like It, as well as directing the play.

Mr. Duff has enjoyed a successful career as a performer in theater, television and film in England. He formed Boundary Productions in 1980 and after four successful seasons went to work for the London Theater School as Director of Productions. During this time he also directed works for the Edinburgh Festival, the Shaw Festival, and Trinity College, among others, as well as numerous operas both in England and Europe. In 1997, he joined London's International Shakespeare Globe Center where he presently directs and teaches.

Mr. Duff was been well-received by PDS theater students. "Mr. Duff is unbelievable," says Erich Matthes, who plays Jaques in the production. "He simply knows so much that you can't be around him without learning something."

The hard work paid off. Upper school English teacher David LaMotte voiced the sentiments of the show's large and appreciative audience, "A hearty round of applause and gratitude to the cast and crew of As You Like It, to guest director Charles Duff, and to Ross Hindley for a delightful evening in the Forest of Arden... Even more so than other Shakespeare plays, As You Like It is a play of and on words—and what a challenge to carry a contemporary audience along on this playful current. The clarity, pacing, and sureness of delivery of all the actors was remarkable—one of the most memorable elements of the production. ... In sum, it was a professional, playful, and intelligent production that captured how the play, for all its light-heartedness (or rather, in its light-heartedness) explores the enduring and urgent question of how we keep our promises and make our loves lasting and real. Bravo and thank you to everyone involved in the production."

The publications office has just learned of the death of Susanne Blackwell Posey '25, who passed away several years ago. Our condolences to her family.

We were saddened to learn of the loss of Anne Long Kerney Day '26 in October. Her volunteer activities included helping to found the Fort Dix chapter of the American Red Cross during World War II, chairing the Trenton Chapter of the Red Cross, and serving on the New Jersey Bureau of Child Welfare. She was named "Trenton Woman of the Year" for her many volunteer contributions.

The last issue of the Journal carried the news that Sis Harper Lawrence's mother was posthumously inducted into the Mercer County Tennis Hall of Fame last February. Now we learn that both Sis and her mother have been featured in Sports Illustrated magazine's "Faces in the Crowd" section. Her mother appeared in the October 26, 1970 issue and Sis was pictured 30 years later in the May 1, 2000 issue. That must certainly be unique! Sis writes that her daughter Linda sent in an article on her mother's swimming without her knowledge. The Sports Illustrated text next to Sis' picture reads, "Lawrence, 80, great-grandmother of one and grandmother of five, won the 25-, 50- and 100-yard freestyle, the 25, 50 and 100 breaststroke, and the 25 backstroke, and was a member of the victorious 4x25 medley and the 4x25 coed freestyle relays at the Senior Good Life Games." Congratulations! Sis also reports that she and her husband Merle were in Rome for the wedding of their grandson, Mitchell Lawrence Henderson, on April 8. The ceremony took place at the Basilica of Santa Francesca Romana. The date has special significance as it would have been the 86th anniversary of Sis' parents' marriage.

Our 55th reunion was mini but lots of fun. Friday night, Janet Hill Hurst and her husband Ray, and Claire Grover Parsells came for dinner at my apartment. My daughter Beth Healy PDS '69 had come from New Hampshire to be at the MFS 100th birthday, her school to the ninth grade. I also invited Betsy Howe Smith '44 and her husband J.B., so we had a festive evening with lots of memories.

Saturday dawned rainy and cold when Beth and I set off for a lovely service of remembrance at PDS. Among the tributes were poignant ones for Miss Davis and Madeline Weigel. Then off to a delicious lunch under a large tent adjoining Colross. You will have read of the prizes and tributes in the Journal. By evening, the air had cleared and MFS and PCD had a separate dining area at the McGraw Rink, where we had a lovely dinner. Beth and I were fortunate to flank head of school Lila Lohr and have an interesting evening. Lila will be sorely missed.

In regard to perfect spelling, a requisite at MFS, I correct three errors from my last column: Mlle. Zaepfel, Miss Miller and Miss Jewell Schubert, a math teacher.

This is the last class notes under the aegis of Linda Maxwell Stefanelli '62 and how I will miss her. She always accepts my yellow legal foolscap and handwritten notes! Thank you, Linda. (You're very, very welcome! It's been fun to stay in such close touch with you and the Class of '45 over the years. —LMS)

Like the summer of 2000, the summer that never was, your class notes never arrived for this publication. I can't believe your summers were spent behind closed doors. Maybe next addition you'll put together a bit of news for us all to enjoy.

My summer has been a fairly slow-paced one. However, at the end of June my dear twin and I went off for a vacation together in Bermuda. What a marvelous experience of renewal to each other, and what a great time we had. Lots of R&R and shopping too—too much, in my case. As you may remember, I have a little granddaughter now, and you know what that means. Spoiling with a capital S. Then there's the beauty of the island that seems to be eternally blessed, and always great to find each time one returns. Something I was sorry to find was they don't seem to stock Shetlands anymore, very few, the colors are so drab, earthy and dark. I always looked forward to spotting my wardrobe with a touch of color every time I visited. Thank God, Bermuda shorts are still about.

I did get a chance to talk with Kay Gulick Gardner '48 recently and found that she and her husband Al PCD '44 are planning a visit to Brazil this fall to visit Frances Nevin '48, who at present is living there with her family. They're even taking a boat trip down the Amazon. Head hunters, beware!

Do get something together for the next PDS Journal and make me happy, as well as all your other classmates. We're always interested.

The class of 1956 has also lost another classmate in November, Sarah Sikes Prescott. She was involved in many charitable and civic organizations in Wellesley, MA with her late husband, including Junior League and United Way. She served as a member of the board of trustees of the Ten-acre Country Day School in Wellesley. She also worked in alumni affairs at Dartmouth College, rising to the rank of Associate Director of Alumni Affairs.

Mrs. Grace MacNeil was a MFS trustee and served as president of the Board of Trustees around the time of the merger. She became involved with the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. in 1930 and from 1969 to 1972, as its national president, led the organization to its highest membership of over 3.9 million and increased its commitment to diversity. On her 90th birthday, she was named an honorary member of the Olave Baden-Powell Society which recognizes international leadership contributions to scouting. Born in Natchez, Mrs. MacNeil was a founding member of the Historic Natchez Foundation and served on the board of several other historic and preservation organizations. She owned and operated MacNeil Plantations, winning awards for conservation practices there.

It's happened: we have a word limit for our column. I'm deter-be a senior next year and he is working this summer at Bloomberg Radio News. Busy at work, and trying to simplify, but it is not easy. Peter and I are planning to go to Maine next week to see Bill and Julie Fulper Hardt and Polly Busselle Bishop too. Hope we can have a NYC dinner this fall at my house." Julie wrote, "It's pretty exciting to have my very own e-mail address <Julia@kurfiss.com> here at Kurfiss Real Estate—something to amuse me until that big sale walks through the door. We have moved, at long last, to a pleasant and sensible colonial cape in Hopewell township. The new address is 22 Alta Vista Drive, Princeton, NJ 08540, tel. (609) 737-4370. One of the significant features of this house is the beautiful landscaping, designed, at least in part, by Jeanie Shaw Byrne. It's grand to be able to stretch out again and to reacquaint ourselves with all those treasures which have been in storage for two-plus years."

Polly has "pretty much decided to visit my friend in Nevis next March, taking dive course in Statia. News from here is all bliss—great, wonderful evenings by the campfire, terrific gardening success story this summer, most importantly new little ten-week-old golden lab Pascal had arrived to brighten up our life, so bereft of Tashie. Got my wheel and an almost reconstructed gas kiln, new deck-wrapping porch around to other side of house. Found a fantastic walk, top of which one finds oceans of blueberries while you contemplate Walker Pond and surround. Major decision to FINALLY apply to grad school for M.A. in counseling and conflict resolution."

Joan Yeaton Seamon reports, "Yet another huge life change here: daughter Julie announced her engagement in June. She is an attorney in the corporate division of a law firm in DC. Shaun Aslaksen, her fiancé (pretty much a member of our family after three years) is a Secret Service agent whom she met while working during summer vacations on White House tours with the National Park Service. We took a break in July at a beach house in North Carolina with Julie and Shaun, and oldest son John, his wife Raffaella and OUR GRANDSON Mark. Hal and I continue to be the local babysitting nonni—pure delight—while John and Raff finish up their M.A. programs at Georgetown and American, respectively. Other son Jamie has just joined Dell Computer in Austin, TX. In addition to playing with Mark, I am continuing to study Italian. Hal and I dream of getting a small apartment in the Abruzzi region of Italy when he retires.

Julia Cornforth Holofcener writes that "We are now back in the U.S. for the next three months. We start rehearsals for I Don't Live There Anymore <www.idlta.com> on August 5 and open it for a two-month tour in SC on September 8. We are very pleased with Larry's website <www.holofcener.com> and must figure out how to tell the world about it. (I'm starting here.) Have just returned from the Isle of Wight where we kept the Garlic Festival, Oboe Competition and WightOnline <www.wightonline.co.uk> on track. The house in France still hasn't closed. Good news is that we now are the proud owners of a 30-ft catamaran which we really look forward to getting away on. My eldest daughter has found a very special man to spend the rest of her days with. I loved reading everyone's news. It keeps us so close. What a special class we have."

Nancy Smoyer said she had no news, but then added "Oh, I did go to Cuba for a week in May! Very interesting trip for which I wrote a report. I'll think about shortening it and get something to you." [It didn't arrive in time for this issue, but I'll send it out Barbara Pearce Williams (see photo, at left) with brother John PCD '54 and sister Joan '56 at a family wedding in RI) has a new career. "I am working as a relay operator for deaf, hard of hearing, and speech-impaired individuals. Although they can communicate amongst themselves using a teletext (TTY) device, they can't communicate with hearing, voicing people without the help of a relay operator. I am just that little link of wire needed to make the call possible. I read what the deaf person types on his/her TTY and then type what the hearing, voicing person says to the deaf person. An important part of the job is being able to express the deaf person's emotions when reading the typed message. I find it very rewarding in many, many ways and frustrating in others."

I enjoyed a long, catch-up conversation with Gail Cotton, who sounded wonderful. I was so glad to hear from her and encouraged her to send me more information to pass on to the rest of our classmates. She has since sent a long letter and a copy of her Christmas letter, which I'll quote from as an update on her busy life. "I guess we could call 1999 the year of the grandchildren. We have three wonderful new grandchildren, bringing our total to six. Ryan Nicholas Miller was the first to arrive, on March 25. He is Stacey and Erik's first child and our first grandson. Kaliska Patricia Cotton Greene arrived on July 7 in Townesville, Australia. Bo Brandon Miller joined the clan on August 28. He and his older sister Alexia spend every other Tuesday with Nana. They keep me hopping!

"2000 looks to be the year of weddings. Anne was married on May 5 to Jacob Duron. After being single for 15 years, I am delighted that she found someone she is ecstatically happy with. Then Scott (the youngest son of Gail's husband Dennis) and Brandy were married on June 3. I did both the rehearsal dinner and food for the reception. After cooking for two weddings so close together, I am avoiding the kitchen like the plague! Poor Dennis may starve to death! Brandy is a wonderful young woman and we are enormously pleased to have her join the family.

"Colton and his older daughter, Finula, are coming (from Australia) to visit for two weeks September 15. I haven't seen Colton since September 1997 so I am really excited. Three years is too long not to see one of your children! Colton is on a six-month appointment in Darwin in the Northern Territory, mapping the vegetation around wetlands.

"I have been back on the board of directors of Crossroads Safehouse for two years. I have had a long association with that organization and was very active in fundraising and managing a 4,000 square foot addition to the existing facility which was completed in 1995. I am once again chair of the facilities committee and am pleased to report that we finally found a separate space for an outreach center. We opened in May and it is great to have a place anyone in the community can come to because it isn't the safehouse. We have groups for both women and children and a new Hispanic Outreach program which is proving more successful than our wildest dreams. I was approached a few months back by the executive director of A Woman's Place, which is the shelter here in Weld County where I live. They are going to do a major renovation and expansion of their facility. I met with her several times and was asked to also attend one of their board meetings. I now chair their expansion committee. I'm really quite enjoying it and we've already raised close to half of the $600,000 we will need without submitting a single grant.

"A brief update on my job. I am consumed with the renovation of the McClintock Building (which Gail and her cousins inherited in downtown Denver). We have a signed lease for our new retail space and a firm prospect for the third floor."

Thanks, Gail, for letting us know what's going on with you and your family. Gail and I compared notes on our charity work during our conversation. I have just become president of the Guild of Hillside, a home and school located in Pasadena serving abandoned and abused children in the Los Angeles area. I had no idea how full my life would become as a result! The Guild raises funds to sponsor the worthwhile programs Hillside provides for the many children it serves. We held an annual picnic for the children in July, an event I have chaired for the past four years, and we are holding two large public events this fall to dedicate a new Children's Resource Center. We also will sponsor a Christmas season dinner and a black tie fundraiser auction next spring. Although this new responsibility is as demanding as a second full time job, I'm learning a lot and enjoying every minute.

I continue to enjoy my real work at Southern California Edison, where I'm completing the development of a new intranet to streamline communication with our 20,000+ employees around the world. This fall I begin a new challenge, to manage preparation of our company's annual report.

I still manage to squeeze art classes in between the demands of Hillside and Edison. Next summer, Bruce and I plan to spend a few days in Florence, where I attended summer school in 1964, before joining my art teacher for a two-week course in Tuscany and Umbria. I can hardly wait! What I'm not able to squeeze in is contacting classmates who don't send me news. Hopefully I'll have more to report in the next issue. (Suzi's done an incredible job of producing columns chockful of news for many years, but now she feels it's time for a change. We hate to lose her, but she certainly deserves a rest, so if you're interested in being class correspondent, please let her know. It's a great way to get mail—that isn't bills!—and keep in touch with old friends. Thanks. Max.)

I received a note from Susan Lillie, informing me that her cousin, Gretchen Southard Sachse had died of cancer of the sinuses in December of 1999. She attached a lengthy obituary from the Ithaca (NY) Journal. Susan did not include news of herself, but she did include a return address which is in New York City. We'd love to have news of you, Susan.

Gretchen's obituary was impressive. She was the Tompkins County historian until just before her death, and she was very active in community events in and around Ithaca. She had a bi-weekly column about local history in the Ithaca Journal, and she was writing a book on the history of Wharton Studios and the early film industry in Ithaca. "Shortly before her death," the article says, "she was honored by a unanimous resolution of appreciation by the Tompkins County Board of Representatives recognizing her enormous dedication as teacher, mentor, role model and researcher. Her death was immediately and keenly felt throughout the educational community."

In addition to graduating with us from MFS, Gretchen held a B.A. from Vassar College and a from my old home, but in an older neighborhood. My house is a charming Craftsman Four Square, built in 1913. I have been lucky enough to have a mini-sabbatical this summer, and I have enjoyed being in the new place. It's got a great guest room, and you are all invited.

From other sources we learn that Sally Campbell Haas received an e-mail from AFS classmate Turid Helland Remmetuit in January. Sally writes, "She and a colleague wanted to come to Denver for the annual symposium at the International Psychoneurological Society. Turid is a Ph.D. candidate at the University of Oslo with a focus on learning time for skiing, biking (just back from three weeks in Spain's Picos de Europa) and the Cape in July and August."

Andy Updike Burt wrote to say she is working for the Maine Council of Churches on an interfaith project addressing global warming. She also "became a grandmother to Kelsey Margaret Burt, January 22, 2000, born three months prematurely and spent 88 days in the neonatal unit. Everything is fine and (she's) growing like a weed. Child number three, Peter, was married June 18, 2000, blending tradition and cultures in a beautiful ceremony." Congratulations, Andy!

Kleia Raubitschek Luckner also wrote, saying, "Life continues to be a fascinating challenge as a nurse administrator of women's health, which combines both my nurse midwifery and legal training with many community collaborative projects involving law and medicine, and as a mother with a daughter, Maria, a junior at Georgetown majoring in government and a son, Mark, working in Maryland House of Delegates as chief of staff for the majority leader and a grad student at (Johns) Hopkins. My dad, Prof. A.E. Raubitschek, longtime classics professor, died May '99 in California, just after receiving the Austrian Cross of Honor for Art and Science." Our sympathies to Kleia and her sister Marita '65 on their loss. Their parents were both great educators and will be remembered fondly.

It has been a while since I wrote something for the Journal. It was mostly due to the fact that I didn't have any news. Fortunately, this time around, I have some.

First, I would like to apologize to Linda Conroy Vaughn and Gail Petty Riepe for not having submitted photo (at left), taken of us when we had dinner Alumni Weekend, 1999. I think it was the first time the three of us had been together since our 25th reunion. As I remember, dinner was charcoaled to death while we played "catch-up." At that time, Gail's two children had graduated from college and she and husband Jim were busy fixing up an historic old farm in Maryland into which she has only just moved. Quite a renovation! Linda had recently "retired" from working with hubby Dave in their real estate management business, and was filling her days traveling with her family and getting her son off to college. Her daughter had just graduated from college and Linda was getting her settled in a job in Philadelphia.

This past spring I had the privilege of spending a weekend with Linda and Dave in San Francisco, where they have lived since 1968. As you can see from the picture on the opposite page, the weather was glorious! Linda and Dave squired me around town and we had lunch overlooking the new Pacific Bell Park stadium, which had opened the day before. I fell madly in love with the Vaughn's house, located in Hillsborough, in the hills above San Francisco. The house was built in the 1930s. Its Old World charm was detailed and enhanced by Linda's tasteful decorating. Linda had taken on the job of co-chairing an enormous fundraiser, and was busy putting together all the parts and pieces of a silent auction when I was there. Some of the items were astounding. I later heard the evening was a smashing success, due in great measure to Linda's extraordinary organizational skills, no doubt learned early on at MFS.

Also, last spring I had the honor of being invited to the PCD Class of 1959 reunion dinner, along with Wendy Fruland Hopper, where we had fun visiting with old friends Pepper Pettit, Davy Davis, Alex Patton, Peter

Ph.D. in classics from Johns Hopkins University. Her husband Wolfgang Sachse is a chaired professor of engineering at Cornell. They have three children, Will, Erich and Liesl.

As I read of Gretchen's many accomplishments in education and research, I thought of how proud our teachers would have been, and indeed how proud of her accomplishments we all can be.

My main news is that I have moved. Please note the new address, above. I am about a mile disabilities. They arrived February 8 and stayed with us for five days. They were busy with meetings and symposiums but we had a great visit. Turid has published articles in the Journal of Child Psychology and she asked me to help proofread her next article to be published this year. It was all done after she went home by the wonders of the computer. But I did okay and enjoyed it—perhaps a new career for me? I still enjoy my volunteer activities with the Denver Botanic Gardens, church and other annual events. Save Wright, Tom Reynolds, Q Kuser and others. Seeing the old "monument crowd" again took us on a quick trip down memory lane. The biggest surprise of the event was the discovery that no one had changed!

I have been corresponding with Penny Pettit Kreinberg this year. She kindly responded to one of my articles in which I erroneously congratulated her on being a grandmother. Penny and husband Bob live in Portland along with their youngest child, a daughter, who has just completed her M.F.A. Their other two children are out of college and working; their son is married and is a corporate attorney in LA, and their daughter is a nurse doing clinical service at Sloan Kettering in NYC. Penny writes of her life of the last 15 years: "I finished my degree in counseling psych, worked for 10 years teaching in college and counseling adults in transition (both in private practice and at the college). Now I'm in transition myself...I retired to see what I want to do next. I'm keeping my hand in as a disaster mental health volunteer for the Red Cross....on call for local disasters for a week at a time and for national disasters for three weeks at a time. But I'm taking time for art and travel."

Penny almost made it down to San Francisco last spring to join Linda and me. Maybe next time I'll end up in Portland and can view some of Penny's art work. This seems to be a new career for her, as she writes, "I've had several solo shows and actually have sold some pieces. Less distressing than counseling...but I'm still looking for ways to be of service somewhere. I'm thinking about responding to a request from Peace Corps to be on an emergency disaster team for Central and South America...We'll see."

In anticipation of a trip to Atlanta in September, I called Fran Wolfe, who lives there, along with Joanna Hornig Fox and Sue Jamieson, and suggested we get together for dinner. Fran suggested I stay with her when I am in town, and has volunteered to round up Sue and Joanna. I am very much looking forward to this reunion. Fran seems to have settled permanently in Atlanta, giving up a career as a stock broker in Texas in favor of counseling people and companies on stress management, and offering classes in yoga as well. I hope to be able to attend one of her classes.

About three years ago, I gave up my career in real estate and started a new career in the telecommunications business when I went to work for the start-up Internet telephony company, ITXC. Internet telephony is an exciting new industry, filled with young people with new and exciting ideas for the future. I feel most lucky and grateful to be able to be a part of it. I think I am working harder today than ever before, putting in 12 hours a day in sales. But I love it! Look for us on the Nasdaq. Last fall I moved back into my little house on Hawthorne Avenue, and seem to fill whatever hours are left in the day, painting and fixing it up, after having rented it for 10 years. My children have all finished college and are working and living in Boston, NYC and the Princeton area.

I urge you to write and let me know what you are doing, or if you know what someone else in the class is doing, tell me about that. It won't take long—a short e-mail. You never know when I might call and say I'm coming to your town—the roving Journal reporter.

Peggy Woodbridge Dennis brings us up to date with the following note, "Life in metro-DC continues richly and frantically. Son Peter is at Boston College and loving it—just became co-chair of Model U.N. Son Alex is eighth grader, busy with Boy Scouts, honors chorus and soccer. Husband Bob is still with C.B.O. I am far busier as a full-time mother and civic activist than I was when 'employed full-time.' This year we have a foreign exchange daughter from Finland—scanty clothing and hedonistic, exuberant outlook on life. What a change!"

We were happy to hear from Bradford Locke who brought us up to date on his activities. Now an Episcopal minister, he is a veteran of World War II, having served in Iwo Jima with the 4th Marine Division. He recently attended the 55th anniversary reunion of that battle. On February 20, he gave the invocation at a special memorial service at the Marine War Memorial in Arlington, VA. More than 600 veterans and the Commandant of the Marine Corps were present. James Bradley, who recently published a book entitled Flags of Our Fathers, was the main speaker.

Michael Erdman sent these tidbits: "Through the G-2 word of Tom Duckworth, who took time off from his security job at Yankee Stadium, we now know the whereabouts of Bruce Raymond, who tipped me off that Pierce Millholand has recently found Steve Stock. I reached Bruce via U.S. Mail, and he called me, forgetting the three hour time difference. At midnight my wife answered the phone and turned it over to me for the voice from the past. Bruce did not stop talking for 45 minutes, at which point I fell asleep. He did, however, shake my memory of the many Miss Fine's School girls that we all knew, and was very enthusiastic about what all of you are up to. He is still a consultant to doctors about how to be better communicators. There must be a lot of them with this need in L.A. I spoke with Steve Stock yesterday. He has undoubtedly had the most unusual career of all of us. Corporate life for him consisted of graduating from bus boy to owning restaurants in Belvedere (Seattle, WA), after a college degree in math. He then ran the restaurant in the Seattle Space Needle, and later a Playboy Club somewhere that I missed. He ditched this life for twenty years or so on the high seas, running boats in the Caribbean, skippering for Ted Turner, and completing many ocean races: 17 trips across the Atlantic, and numerous trips across the Pacific, including the Sydney to Hobart race (but not the tragic run of this race in 1998). He has now settled for daily yoga among the spruce needles in the suburbs of Selma (pop. 500), Oregon, near the California border.

PCD. At Princeton Country Day our teachers loved us; school was a lively, exuberant place, something like summer camp. We enjoyed school, our teachers and learning. I remember happy boys, animated hallways and classrooms, memorable, role model teachers and coaches. I can still see Mr. Gorman aiming the chalk at one of us (when we got out of line), or looking to the right just as he questioned to the left. That head fake got us at first; it kept us on our toes. Learning was a game, a sport, and we relished it. French class developed our peripheral vision. We learned to be quiet, or to duck. Webb was a straight A student, and well behaved. He never had to duck. He always knew the answer so Mr. Gorman never even tried to fake him out. He was quick, organized, impeccably prepared. Most of us worked hard and did our best, but Webb was naturally gifted; his understanding often was well beyond ours. I can still hear Mr. Ross dramatizing A Tale of Two Cities. I picture Messrs. McAneny, Smyth, Whitlock, Whitehead, Robson, Griggs and Tibbals. I'd like to pay tribute to each of them; they are the reason we loved school, the reason I am still involved in education. Webb was one of their favorites.

BIKES, DOGS, AND HAIRCUTS:

Webb lent me my first two wheeler, came to my kindergarten birthday party and made mother famous. From the day she cut his hair in the garage and nipped his ear, the kidding never stopped, and from that point on, even I started going to the downtown barber. Every morning several of us would ride our bikes down Battle Road to Webb's house at number nine. We'd go in. The family was usually finishing a formal, sit-down breakfast. Anne's dog Taffy, and later, Rowdy, who was Webb's, (Rowdy was fussy and only Webb could pat him!) would greet us. My family had cats, including Calico, famous, perhaps, for standing her ground with Rowdy. But I envied Webb, always accompanied by Rowdy, racing around and playing with him. All my friends had dogs and I envied them too. Today, I have an aging Golden Retriever, my ever youthful, acrobatic sports pal, Sandy. She brings to mind this special memory, and I still smile as I see Webb on the grass in his back yard, wrestling a happily growling Rowdy.

SPORTS PARADISE: Every day, rain or shine, Webb, Joe Wright, and Staffy Keegin from just around the corner (there were others but the memory is distant) rode along College Road, under the arch, past the Graduate School, Springdale Golf Course, McCarter, Dillon, Baker Rink, and Palmer Stadium. Princeton, when I think of it, was a kid's dream, a sports paradise, and in the days when we could sneak into Baker Rink and have the ice to ourselves, onto the golf course, or into Palmer Stadium as the ticket takers winked, we had a ball. To be fair, I don't remember Webb joining any of our bad-boy escapades. No matter what the sport, Webb stood out. In pickup touch football, basketball, or baseball around town, or playing flashlight tag, if he wasn't the leader, he was the first to be chosen. A particular memory is of hockey. Webb and I played as forwards together for two years, but as seniors, I was moved up to first line for a day or two. Then I blew it—I threw a paper ball in study hall one day, and was caught. I had to miss hockey practice. Webb took over "my" spot on the first line that day, alongside Pony Fraker and Tim Carey. In 1956–1957 we were the first in a long line of undefeated PCD hockey teams.

PCD and sports, as I saw them, were one and the same. I really looked forward to school, that is, to playing soccer, hockey, baseball or tennis in the afternoon. I didn't fully realize it then, but at PCD we were surrounded by some incredible athletes. Webb never mentioned grades, and later, never mentioned the great athletic recognition he had received. He was among the most modest of athletes.

Before I heard of his exploits in college, I used to think that tennis was Webb's best sport. He was one of the top juniors in New Jersey. I took up the game fairly late, in sixth form. Webb played on the baseball team, but on days when we had a tough tennis match, somehow Mr. Tibbals "borrowed" Webb for our number one position. Webb never lost. For me, as a new player, I was thrilled to hit with him in the warm up. I have stayed with tennis over the years, and my last clear memory of Webb was the day, more than a few years after college, when I won the Princeton men's championship. Webb sat on the hill with my father and watched. That, he later said, inspired him to get back into the game. I heard that he won the tournament the following year. I ran into him a few more times along Battle Road, and we had several conversations, not about sports, though we did get out to play some tennis.

It was nice to reconnect with my soft-spoken, sensitive, always thoughtful childhood friend.

PRINCETON OR YALE? I always knew Webb, Joe, Pony and a number of schoolmates would go to Princeton. Ironically, I ended up (with a few others) at Yale. At first I persisted as a Tiger. I went to my first Yale-Princeton football game, not knowing which side I was going to root for. Raised on Princeton bonfires, torch-lit Friday night football rallies ending at Blair Hall, and those impassioned "Hate Yale" cheers, we grew up, fanatical Tigers all. Yet on one fateful college freshman day at the Bowl, Yale scored two touchdowns in the first two minutes, on its way to a rout and an undefeated season. At that moment, November 1960, I became a Yalie. While "bright college years" were indeed special, they have never displaced the indelible imprint of growing up in Princeton, spirited PCD days, early friendships and magical neighborhood memories.

Class of 1960 40th Reunion! Well, it seemed like a small miracle, but it happened! Yes, the class of 1960 actually had a reunion, and it was a wonderful affair. When Tom Reynolds and I developed the full list of our classmates in October last year, we came up with 31 names. Of course, all didn't graduate as class members in 1960, because 18 had left the class to go to prep school, high school or move out of town with their parents. We only had 13 in our graduating class: Jimmy Aul, John Brinkerhoff, Walter Edwards, Peter Hart, Jonathan Howland, Burty Jackson, Larry Kuser, Johnny Odden, Pepper Pettit, Brock Putnam, Fred Sayen, Bill Smoyer and Peter Wright.

Tom and I were able to contact Bloxy Baker, Davy Davis, Jonathan Howland, Larry Kuser, Johnny Odden, Alex Patton, Brock Putnam, and Peter Wright. Bloxy had coincidentally planned his wedding to Nancy Wilson in Lakeville, Connecticut on reunion weekend, so was unable to attend.

Jon Howland had planned a special 50th birthday party for his wife Liz on reunion weekend and they therefore had a conflict. Johnny Odden was stuck in Montana with his wife Jenny, fighting forest fires, and Brock Putnam and his wife Marian had planned an anniversary celebration for the same weekend. But all the rest made it!

We even enticed two of our favorite Miss Fine's School alums, Barbara Rose Callaway '64 and Wendy Fruland Hopper '64 (with husband Art) to join us. The big night was Friday night, and we all started to arrive on campus at about 6:00 p.m. Davy Davis, Alex Patton, Peter Wright and I started out at the Hall of Fame induction ceremony in the tent behind Colross—a very warm event.

Davy and I were hoping to find Liza Maugham MFS '63 and Donna Maxwell Griggs MFS '64 at the ceremony, but to no avail. We did find Amanda Maugham Pearson MFS '60 and Linda Maxwell Stefanelli MFS '62, however, and had great talks.

Our reunion really started to roll at 7:00 p.m. at (Pretty Brook Farm) where we started with cocktails on the back terrace. It was great to learn of Larry Kuser's bed and breakfast venture and nursery in Bordentown, NJ. Alex Patton and his wife live in New York City where he makes his living as the renowned, nationally-recognized baseball trivia expert.

Peter Wright finds soothing winds for his soul on Barnegat Bay where he spends a serious amount of time sailing. He and his wife are living in Brielle, New Jersey. Davy Davis is making the slow transition from Boston lawyer to gentleman farmer and landscape architect. He is very talented. By the way, I had the pleasure of attending his son Ethan's wedding in NYC on July 29th!

He and his wife Jennifer had their reception at the New York Botanical Garden—an incredible venue for a very special wedding.

Back to reunions... Tom Reynolds and his wife Marianne also attended. Tom is still practicing law in Princeton, and making trips to Eastern Europe. And, as for me, I'm an architect and Studio Principal for The Hillier Group in Philadelphia, where I live with my daughter Pauli (now a freshman at Temple University), and my son Karl IV.

When we all sat down for dinner, conversation was nonstop. In addition to the wonderful conversations, we entertained ourselves by taking turns reading stories and poetry we had written as third formers that were published in the Junior Journal—they were hysterical. The evening and party rolled on nonstop until about 12:30 AM. It seemed like it was only yesterday that we had been together before. Reunions are good for the soul! Let's have another one next year.

If any more proof of a great evening is required, Peter Wright wrote the publication office that the "60s 40th was a great reunion. Great to see five or six classmates not seen since graduation. No one has changed at all."

We had a great reunion. Meg Brinster Michael hosted a terrific party on Friday night. And a number of people attended the various events on campus on Saturday. It is always dangerous to make a list of who attended because I am sure I will leave someone out, but here goes: Lew Bowers, Freddi Cagan, Heidi Flemer Hesselein, Louise Hutner, Allison Gilbert Kozicharow, Mark Lane, Debby Lawrence, Allyn Love, Pam Orr Marck, Hilary Martin, Janet Masterton, Wendy Lawson-Johnston McNeil, Meg Brinster Michael, Bob Peck, Eve Robinson and

Bob Salup. A number of people also had the opportunity to talk on the phone with Chris Reeve at Meg's party. (See more on Chris at end of column.)

I received an e-mail from Marjorie Shaw who reported that they have moved to Amsterdam.

Congratulations to Allison Gilbert Kozicharow who, as class agent, led our class to the highest per cent participation in the Annual Fund this year.

On behalf of the class, we send our sympathy to Hilary Martin whose father passed away in July. He was an emeritus professor of art at Princeton University and an authority on painter Peter Paul Rubens.

From other sources, we've learned that Chris Reeve wrote a piece for the May 1 issue of Time magazine on the importance of research using human embryonic stem cells. The cells have recently been proven to have the potential for curing a wide range of diseases and conditions, including Parkinson's, multiple sclerosis, Alzheimer's and spinal cord injuries. In the "Viewpoint" article, Chris called for federal funding and supervision of research to avoid abuses by for-profit corporations.

Catherine Morgan writes, "Greetings to all my classmates from the Big Island of Hawaii. I am sorry not to make the reunion and I salute all those who worked so hard to make it happen. Best to Jack Kilgore, Hallett Johnson, Allison Gilbert, Meg Brinster, Allyn Love, Chris Reeve, Vicki Johnson and anyone else who may remember me!"

Lee Morgan writes, "I have been busy this past year finishing up my master's in education. As of June 1, it was done, so now I plan to relax and concentrate on teaching and my family! I am teaching fourth grade in Brookfield, Connecticut. This will be my fifth year at this school. I have really enjoyed the challenges, and the school schedule has let me still make it to my children's after-school events.

"Our daughter is leaving this fall for college at McGill University in Montreal, Canada. She is very excited about starting a new life on her own. Our oldest son will be a sophomore at Joel Barlow High School in Redding and our youngest boy starts kindergarten in the fall, so we have the school territory covered. Tom is still very involved in Asia, designing and manufacturing furniture. He travels extensively around Asia about twice a year. He still enjoys the travel and having an opportunity to use his Chinese language skills."

On behalf of the class, we send our sympathy to George Treves, his brother Fran '74 and sister Claire '77 on the death of their father in June. Mr. Treves was a chemist and an accomplished cellist. In addition, we have just learned of the untimely death of Lawrence Boyer who passed away in 1998. Our deepest sympathy goes out to his family and friends.

Greacian Goeke sent an update on professional activities: she received a Theatre Bay Area CASH grant for completion of a script. She was presenter at the 2000 American Society on Aging Summer Institute in San Francisco, speaking on the topic "In Praise of Hands" about drawing, movement and oral history. She also presented "The Orff Process with Elders" (music and movement) at the 1999 American Orff Schulwerk Association National Conference in Phoenix. She performs with Xephyr, the Bay Area Orff music teachers' ensemble.

Diane Jass Ketelhut writes,

The children of Ellen Fisber Stockmeyer '73 share a hammock and some giggles. From left, twins Pieter and Luke (or is it Luke and Pieter?) and daughter Devon.

"Hi—I can't believe our 30th is coming up so soon—since the really enjoyable 25th, I've been living in Singapore for a year, and have now left high school teaching to pursue a doctorate in education at Harvard. Kristin, my 19-year-old, is at Brown studying geology and music. Bill, my 16-year-old, is at the local high school. On a sadder note, after 25 years of marriage, I am pursuing a divorce. Looking forward to seeing everyone next year."

I have received absolutely no news about any classmates this time, so I hope more people will send in their news for the next issue. I did have a wonderful conversation with John Lockette, our class agent. Thanks for the call, John. It was nice to talk with you again after so many years. PDS connections are strong! That's all. Send in your news, please!

Actually, Kacey Constable did send a note on her Annual Fund envelope: "Hi, Jan. We're fine. Living in Louisville. My daughter is five—going into kindergarten next year. Wow! The time does fly. I still remember exploring the old cemetery in the middle of the cornfield near your house on Route #1. Or have I totally got it mixed up? And I thought you'd become a dentist. Whoops!"

Hello everyone! It has been a very rainy summer in Delaware, but it also made time for reading and relaxation on the back porch, a much needed commodity after a long year of teaching, counseling, and freelance writing. As my son grows taller by the minute, and I realize driving a car is around the corner, I reflect back to the days when we were first driving and it only raises my anxiety more! Cynthia Bishop had a really nice visit with Mike Felder in June while he was at a conference in Seattle, where they met for lunch. A photo should appear in the future. Cynthia also got to experience a lifetime goal: taking her daughter Emily to Europe at the end of June, although it was not the "biking-across-Europe-sleeping-in-monasteries-or-roughing-it-in-youth-hostels-along-the-way-for-three-months" she'd always imagined. It was, thanks to United's mileage program, a free round trip ticket for Emily. They tacked on a week at the end of an event Cynthia was doing in Munich. They met in Frankfurt and trained their way along to Mainz (one night reward for her first really long plane ride), to Paris (two nights) stayed on the left bank side, rented bikes on their one full day and wheeled their way between the Eiffel Tower to Notre Dame on both sides of the Seine as much as they could see in a seven-hour bike rental, and finally to London (three nights) and walked everywhere, became intimate with the tube, did the British Museum, a tour bus, Hyde Park, Wimbledon and queued at Wimbledon 2000, saw a show, Doc Martin and The Body Shop, shopping and had a ball!! Cynthia says she was "thrilled that I got to shoot for some new lifetime goals and feel really lucky that the work I do gave me this last opportunity with Emily!" Sounds delightful, Cynthia!

I heard from Tucky Fussell who was out in Anchorage, visiting Hilary Morgan. Tucky writes, "For the past four years, I have been teaching overseas, in Pakistan. I taught first grade up in Lahore, and fifth grade in Karachi, as well as middle and high school French. It has been the most exciting and adventurous part of my life. I love teaching abroad, and have loved exploring Pakistan. I learned enough Urdu to get by. Over the past four years, I have visited the Philippines, Nepal, northern and southern India, Thailand, Vietnam, Malaysia. I have skied in north India, ridden camels with Hilary in Baluchistan, and have travelled to Kashmir in a local bus. I have gone to all the places in Pakistan I was told to steer away from by the State Department. I continue to pursue my art and organized an art show in Karachi, with a human rights theme, by four teachers, including myself. The Taliban didn't close it down, luckily, even though there were some nudes. I have published several cartoons in The International Educator. Currently, I am working on a book about my experiences in Pakistan, and am preparing to go off to Bucaramanga, Colombia to teach fourth grade at an all-Colombian school in January." So glad to hear about your latest adventures, Tucky. Were you able to hear Hilary's CD? A couple of us want to get a hold of it. That's the news from the Delaware beaches. Have a great year everyone!

From other sources, we learned that Peter Moore "launched Ocean Organic, a consulting/production business, targeting seafood-producing groups in developing countries wishing to break into natural foods/organic market. Partners are from seafood marketing and production backgrounds. Company based on successful Alaskan model we developed for remote communities. First project will likely involve rope-grown mussels from Newfoundland. Our brand is Wild Fish and is in Wild Oats stores and other leading retailers in Europe. Mission is to return profit share to small producers and communities we operate in." Congratulations, Peter!

Glancing at the A.A. Milne

book, When We Were Young brings back memories of youth, good cheer and the many challenges that we did not know would lay ahead. Seeing classmates, some of them for the first time since 1975, brought back memories of teachers, friends, our boundless energy and a time that seemed like only yesterday.

We were fortunate that Shawn Ellsworth and his wife Robbie opened up their house to us on Friday night before the actual reunion festivities. Shawn has an adorable daughter (see p. 26) who graciously accepted all these people crowding unto her house. In that relaxed setting with both classmates and some faculty members, our classmates had a chance to visit and marvel at how we had (or had not) changed and to ask: "So, what have you been doing this past 25 (or less) years?"

Following is news from some of the people attending the reception at Shawn's house and the reunion party at PDS on Saturday night. In the absence of any detailed material submitted by members of the class, these notes are inevitably spare and fragmentary. In addition, reunion participants offered some tidbits of news about other classmates which I also include here.

Molly Moynaham flew in from Chicago with her son to attend. Among others in attendance were Bill McClellan, Kathy Burks Hackett, Caroline Erdman Hare, Chuck Segal, Shelley Gordon-Feryus Farley.

Molly Sword McDonough has been running her own production company, organizing concerts and fundraising efforts. For example, she has been booking talent for the Urban Word Cafe, an art and music crowd cafe which is redeeming a gritty crossroads in Trenton. In September, Molly was appointed the executive director of the War Memorial, Trenton's great concert hall/auditorium. She and her husband Peter live in Pennington.

Jack Bonini flew in from Cincinnati, where he lives and works. He is a partner at PriceWaterhouseCoopers and is in charge of their east coast operations strategy group, which means he travels extensively. Cincinnati, however, is a good location to commute to and from. Jack's wife works at Procter and Gamble and they have two children.

John Brinster and his wife Lucy '78 run their own travel business in Flemington.

Dafydd Jones currently is at home with his children while his wife teaches. He is active on the board of trustees of a school for the learning disabled. We talked about Phil Benson, who is living in the U.S. for the first time in years. Phil and his wife Dierdre are in Oregon, where Phil is teaching. Phil called me prior to the reunion and expressed regret at not being able to attend our 25th. He sends his regards to his fellow classmates.

New Yorkers: Alison Hughes is currently living in Brooklyn. Glen Russo lives in central New Jersey and works in human resources, specifically in labor relations, at Reuters in New York. Elliott Philshaw sings with a group in Brooklyn.

Ruth Barach Cox came up early from North Carolina to visit with Kip Herrick O'Brien. They both left their children at home and were enjoying being back in Princeton together. Ruth has a son and daughter. Kip writes, "Had a blast at our 25th reunion, staying up until 2:00 a.m.! Great catching up with 'old' friends! Would love to hear from anyone: <ob44@optonline.net>. Will be at Fisher's Island for July, then to Jackson Hole, WY in August with the kids."

Davis Sherman and his wife Anita live in Baltimore. He is a health care lawyer in a corporate law firm. They have two children. They talked about the challenges of both living in a city environment and schooling children in a city.

Lars Selberg and Julie Sly '74 live in Connecticut with their two children. He is an engineer working with laser and optics.

Marjorie Williams lives in the D.C. area where she writes for the Washington Post and Talk Magazine.

Grayson Ferrante and his wife have two children, one in fourth grade and the other in eighth. He is a computer programmer with a company that lays down undersea fiber optics between the continents.

Steve Mantell has his own production company which does documentary work as well as children's productions and internet news. He lives in New York state with his wife and two children, ages six and 10.

Chris Miller is a procurement management consultant in Washington, DC.

Tidbits (second hand): Eric Dunn works at Intuit. David Apgar is married and living in DC. He is in economic research consulting. Jeff Streed is a Latin teacher at Episcopal High School. He has three children. Gay Wilmerding has moved from Albuquerque to Vashon Island, Washington.

I enjoy working back in New York City (as chief administrative officer in the Private Banking Division at U.S. Trust Company of New York), although logistics related to our son are always a challenge. He is a good sport and even commuted during the summer between Trenton and Princeton Junction, where my mother met him and then took him to camp. I continue to be active with the Harvard Alumni Association and have the pleasure of being the president of the board of a community development corporation based in Trenton called Isles, Inc.

To those classmates who were not with us in May for our 25th, we missed you. As Molly Sword McDonough writes in her note to those in attendance, "It was just too fabulous for words. Let's do it again." Drop a note—my e-mail address is above—so we can answer the question, albeit electronically, "So what have you been doing?" Ciao.

Caron Cadle writes, "Working away on two book manuscripts and a news/audio lecture on the civilization of ancient Crete (a product of my visit there last year)! This year we await the University of Florida's decision on my husband's tenure as a professor of theater (we'll know by July) and are planning a trip to France with my goddaughter (age 14) and her best friend. Later in the year I'll be off to Malta and Sicily for a tour of goddess sites with my friend, artist Lesley Gemble. It's a great life!"

On behalf of the class, we send our deepest sympathy to Shawn Ellsworth and his brother Mark '73 on the death of their father in September.

Eleanor Barnes wrote to say she's moved to Amherst, MA. "Boyfriend Brian Bixby (Harvard '80, MA, New School for Social Research, 1998) and I have moved from cosmopolitan Greater Boston to small college town, USA. Brian's starting a Ph.D. program in history at UMass. I'm looking for a software engineering job. I've been terribly spoiled by the job market in Boston. High-tech companies just aren't as common out here, and they're not all in constant-hiring mode. In the meantime, I've become an absentee landlord. I've even grown the fangs to prove it. Hope there will be more professional and artistic news in a couple of months. Marmalade is just realizing that she's been turned into an indoor cat, and is bouncing off the walls of our apartment."

My mailbox has not been bulging with post cards, so I'm assuming that everyone is busy with life, jobs and family. At the time of this writing, it's almost the end of summer and I'm looking forward to our annual family vacation in Lewes, DE. My daughter Liz is getting ready to begin third form at the Groton School in Groton, MA this fall. Sid, age seven, will begin second grade at our neighborhood elementary school. Pat and I celebrated our 16th wedding anniversary this summer and I, like most of the class, celebrated my 41st birthday this year. My mother recently dug up a vintage PDS sweatshirt and it's fun to see Sid running around wearing it. I'd love to share your news in the next Journal so please send me a note, photo or e-mail.

From the local papers we learn that Nancy Bonini was one of only 48 researchers nationwide selected to become a Howard Hughes Medical Institute investigator. Nancy is an assistant professor of biology at the University of Pennsylvania who has pioneered the use of the common fruit fly as a model to understand the mechanisms of human neurodegenerative diseases such as Alzheimer's, Huntington's and Parkinson's. Congratulations, Nancy!

We received more news in the publications office. Alexis Arlett Kochmann writes, "We had a wonderful reception at my home over the holidays for Alan Taback. Joining us were Suzanne Vine '78, Libby Hicks Blount, Caroline Hartshorne '79, Bill Martin '76, Paul Goldman '75 and Laura Farina '79. We had a great time and presented Alan with a poster-size picture of the fall '76 girls varsity soccer team which Alan coached to an undefeated season. Personally, I can't believe my son Nicholas is 19 months old already! We spent a great month in June down the shore in Mantoloking. My e-mail is <a.arlett@worldnet.att.net>."

And Sandra Benson Cress writes, "It's already been an exciting year. We had our first child, Lauren Dominique, on February 4 in Charleston, SC. Now we are planning our move back to Princeton this summer (after 23 years!) where I will be getting my 'mid-career' master's in public policy at the Woodrow Wilson School. Anyone in the area, please get in touch! <SBCress@aol.com>. Look forward to seeing old classmates."

A recent note from Rachel Abelson Hickson '77 reveals that she is a sociologist with the NJ department of Human Services. Her husband David is Principal of the Upper School at Ranney School. They have two daughters, Meredith, 11, and Jessamine, six, Jenny Chandler Hauge got in touch. She still has a few of Liza Constable's CDs as incentive gifts for "heretofore silent classmates who may be moved by this shameless bribery to send in news to the PDS Journal." Jenny's own news is that she's back practicing law full-time at a nonprofit law firm. "I find that both my dog, two kids, hubby and I have survived the back-to-work transition and turning 40, all in the same year!"

I spied Tommy Gates on a tennis court in Princeton this August and duly noted his youthful moves at net and power serve. (You've improved a lot since eighth grade, Tommy.) He has been appointed vice president and director of marketing at Arlington Capital Mortgage Corp. in Princeton. He has also held Brook Tennis Club. Tommy wrote, "We are in Long Island with John Wallace's sister Margie (Wallace Gibson '84) and her family right now. Saw Wally (Mike Walters) a couple weeks ago when he came up from FL. He is doing well. I heard Andy Sanford is engaged, my source is his brother Larry, but no visual sightings yet. Last Monday I went to a memorial service for Terrie Gilman Worley's mom, who passed away after a battle with cancer. Lucy Englander Brinster was there. We've moved a mile away to 211 Penn View Drive, Pennington. Miss our old house, love the new one. More grass to mow, less time to play tennis." Deepest sympathies to Terrie Gilman Worley for the loss of her mother.

Sue Fineman Keitelman had some news. She, her husband and their three children are moving to northern Virginia. Her new address will be: 9408 Crosspoint Drive, Fairfax Station, VA 22039-2658. Sue also wrote of a serious eye disease from which her daughter is suffering.

"Last August my daughter Rebecca (who was almost six at the time) was diagnosed with an eye disease called uveitis. In her case it is caused by juvenile rheumatoid arthritis (JRA). We did not know she had either. She had complained about light sensitivity last summer, so I finally took her to an ophthalmologist who gave us the uveitis diagnosis. As a result of this disease, she developed cataracts, and her eyes do not dilate properly. Fortunately, we had it diagnosed before it was too late or she probably would have lost her vision completely. She has had two surgeries and is going to have four more. The reason I write all of this (even though I do not know how common this disease is) is to let alumni know that they shouldn't ignore children (or adults) experiencing light sensitivity. Uveitis can also be caused by Lyme's disease and, I believe, other things. So please take your children's complaints seriously." Thank you for including that, Sue, and I wish Rebecca the best recovery possible.

Don Gips is still loving it out in Colorado. Here is what he sent in. "Liz and I are living in paradise in Boulder. I hope never to leave. Three happy, healthy boys: two, five and seven. It's a lot of testosterone, but at least they get to run around in the mountains to burn off energy. Level3 is a global communications company, providing broadband communications to internet companies. I am running our global marketing and sales, and having a great time."

Barry Smith got in touch: "I live in VT, and I am writing my dissertation on the New York jazz community, 1940-1967. It's a neat book, but it's taking far longer than I wanted, mostly because I fell ill two years ago. Twenty-five docs, and four medical centers later, I still don't know what this thing is." Later Barry wrote again and things had improved: "I've been slowly recovering. Better than 90 per cent now, though I still have no solid diagnosis: TMS, CFIDs, brain injury—they don't know."

The last time I wrote about myself, I was pregnant. So here is the update. We had our fourth girl last September. Her name is Georgia—named after my mother Georgette and she is a pure joy—I can't say more than that!

Wishing you and your families the best possible health. My e-mail will be changing. Please send your messages to both addresses for the interim: <catherine.tapsall@imc.gte.com>, <catherine.tapsall@verizon.com>.

From other sources we learned that Keith Baicker and his wife Mary Elizabeth appeared in a TIAA-CREF publication, talking about their experiences with the retirement annuities, mutual funds and life insurance that organization provides. I'm sure all who attended will agree that our 20th reunion was quite a success. It was a terrific weekend and I thought it was a blast, seeing so many classmates back in our old stomping ground.

On Friday night, Leslie Straut Ward and Jamie Phares Jacobson hosted a great welcoming party at Leslie's lovely home. There was a fabulous turnout, with at least half of our classmates making appearances. I enjoyed meeting and greeting many people that I hadn't seen in at least a decade!

Saturday afternoon's rain dampened some of the outdoor plans but reunion spirits were still high. Many alumni enjoyed faculty tributes at Colross, while others had family fun in the gym. John Banse, his wife Sarah and their two children were in for a brief visit from Wayland, MA. Also in from the Boston area were Liz Segal, her husband Peter and child very soon. Jono Rush, his wife Debra and their two beautiful children were up from the Atlanta area. Sara Cooper came for a few hellos. She lives in Titusville and works as a caterer. Amy Stackpole Brigham and Abby Stackpole McCall were there, looking an awful lot alike! Abby has been busy with her third child, a baby boy born in February.

There were a number of long-distance travellers in attendance. James Cox made his first appearance in 20 years from Los Angeles. James is in the military and is planning to be married at the end of the year. Doug Patterson also flew in from California. He lives in San Francisco where he works in commodities. He brought along his fiancée Lynn to meet the PDS crew. Also in from San Francisco were Kara Swisher and her spouse Megan. Kara writes for The Wall Street Journal and we should keep our eyes out for her on television.

My personal thanks to Stephanie Trock Stott, who housed me and my family for the weekend. Stephanie and her husband Chris have one son, George. Stephanie works locally for Main Street Caterers. It really was a great weekend, one that we'll long remember. Thanks to all who made the effort and travelled long distances to attend. Let's plan for our 25th!

Thanks, Jennifer, for a terrific column! Two alumni who attended the reunion wrote to confirm your take on the weekend. Sophie Carpenter Speidel wrote, "I really enjoyed seeing everyone at our 20th. It was great to be back at PDS and we had a great turnout for our class! See you all again for the 25th." Bill Haynes also wrote to say, "I had a terrific time at our 20th reunion. It was great to see classmates, coaches and teachers I had not been in touch with for a long time. I was honored to give the introductory remarks for Tim Murdoch's induction into the Athletic Hall of Fame, and to play in the alumni lacrosse game with Tim and my brother David '85. I'm having fun

Laura Farina '79, Caroline Bush '79 and Suzanne Vine Drucker '79 on a trip to Washington, D.C. last April.

The intimate nature of a house party made this an especially well-attended event. In fact, at least a dozen people chose to attend only Leslie and Jamie's party. Thanks for organizing and hosting a great party!

Sue Vaughn O'Brien is still involved with her acting career and is expecting her first baby. Kathryn Rhett and her husband attended. They both are teaching at Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania. Kathryn has published a memoir and recently spoke at the Centennial Symposium at PDS. It was great to see fellow UVM alumni Jim Groom, Jon Peter and his wife Nancy, Jennifer Brannon Manning and Jodi Kramer Howard. Also there were Chris Wallace, Bill Haynes, Lynn Shapiro Starr and Kate Shaplen Kahn, who is expecting her second child. Jay Marcus was in from his new residence in Palm Beach, Florida where he works in real estate investments.

their three children. Virginia Ferrante Iqbal, her husband Manzar and their two children were in from Connecticut, their new home since they returned from Hong Kong.

Saturday evening's festivities at the beautifully renovated rink included a great meal, music, dancing and lots of time to catch up with old friends. Dr. Carl Reimers and his wife Pam were in from Greenwich with their two children. Carl has made a name for himself as a cardiologist. Lolli Dennison Leeson, who is expecting her third child, and her husband Bob were in from Marblehead, MA. Also in from Marblehead were Billy Ross, his wife Norma and their three children. Tom von Oehsen and his wife Jane Farley '75 were both celebrating their reunions. Tom is still "clowning around" while they are kept busy with their three children. Carla Ruben and her husband are expecting their first

The local papers carried a story about Doug Atkin, who it seems is the CEO of Instinet, a New York-based brokerage that sponsored the first PGA event held at Jajnsa Polana in Princeton. The Senior tournament was held in July, with players such as Arnold Palmer attending. Doug told how he used to sneak over the fence of the estate (before it became a golf club) when he was a student at Johnson Park Elementary School nearby. He said he was always stopped before he got to the main house. All that changed this summer, however, when he hosted this biggest golf tournament in the area.

From the papers we learn that Christian Wallace married Nadia Ahmad Nagib in September at a ceremony held in the garden of Fernbrook, an 18th-century estate in Borden-town, N.J. Chris currently works as an assistant and investment advisor to the chairman of the Joint Board of the Electrical Industry, a non-profit organizations in Flushing, Queens, that manages benefit plans for unionized electrical workers. He also serves on the board of directors of the Community Capital Bank in Brooklyn.

Matt Richter got engaged this past spring. His fiancée Jodi is from Kendall Park. The wedding is planned for March 3, 2001 and will be in Short Hills, NJ. He writes, "We just got back from two weeks in South Africa, and I am now involved in a job search. Weekends are busy, but we are having fun."

Beth Geter-Douglass, Ph.D., e-mailed me recently. "I recently moved back to NJ last year after living in the Baltimore/Washington area through college and graduate school. I live in West Windsor with my husband and work in Titusville in the pharmaceutical industry. It is strange being back after so many years.

"I have been working in the pharmaceutical industry for about a year. I develop clinical trials to examine the therapeutic effects of drugs to treat central nervous system disorders. Currently, I am working on the development of an Alzheimer's medication. I have also worked on drugs for anxiety and depression. I am enjoying it and find it challenging. There is never a dull moment. I haven't really kept in touch with any of our PDS classmates. I read last year in the PDS magazine that Cedric Harris works in a restaurant in Forrestal Village, so I went to surprise him one afternoon. He is doing well and is enjoying being a chef. I also ran into Tracey Eskridge and her daughter at the mall a few months ago. Tracey is a lawyer in this area. I haven't seen Wendy in years, but know that she has a daughter who is probably a teenager by now. Wendy's brother is a minister in Trenton."

Last time I heard directly from Kang Na was during Lent. "As for my Lent, not only have Amy and I been co-leading a Lenten series at a local Presbyterian church, but I gave up all desserts and all between-meal snacks. So, I get really hungry for each meal, but nevertheless I try to eat moderate amounts—all so that I might be reminded to spend a little more time with spiritual disciplines. Well, I do look forward to the Easter feast indeed." During the school year he sends me a great daily prayer/quotation e-mail in multiple languages. I manage the English one, only.

Ruth Edelman spent her second summer travelling to Russia with the winners of the annual Olympiada of Spoken Russian. The group travelled for three weeks, including an orientation in Washington, DC, two weeks in Vladimir and three days in Moscow. The trip was a great success and Ruth particularly enjoyed having the opportunity to spend time with her friends in Vladimir.

Antonia Jameson Jordan celebrated her wedding anniversary in July. She and her husband are expecting their first child in September and are purchasing their first house in Ithaca. "We have closed on the house, but the big move won't be until July 29. Meanwhile, Phil has been painting the baby's room (white—it was gray) and doing some other minor work on the house. I've been moving in some kitchen things. In the evenings, we sometimes take dinner over there and sit out on the deck and enjoy knowing that this will be our new home. It's a very modest little ranch...for this stage of our lives, it seems just right. Close to where we work. Lots of neighbors with kids. My official due date is September 16. I had an ultrasound yesterday: everything looks good. The baby is already big...It's very exciting and also rather scary." With the advent of the first grandchild, Antonia's mother is also moving up to the Ithaca area.

Lisa Ruben got a hold of me via e-mail and writes, "I recently wrote to PDS to let them know that I want to be made aware of

MAY I HAVE YOUR PALM IN MARRIAGE?

William Strugger '81 was married in October to Jenifer Anne Steig. The couple, who reside in Manhattan, had a Palm-Pilot-based courtship, according to the wedding announcement in the New York Times.

"Jen and I, like most New Yorkers, are very busy," Mr. Strugger said. "It's a task just figuring out how to get together." The two found the Palm Pilots to be indispensable in coordinating schedules so that they could find time together, time that they affectionately referred to as P.P.M.s, or Palm Pilot Moments.

Last March, when preparing for a date at Beekman Tower on the Upper East Side of Manhattan, Mr. Strugger was most insistent that Ms. Steig bring her Palm Pilot.

"At first, I resisted," she said. "The Beekman Tower was a beautiful Art Deco building with a restaurant that has a panoramic view of the city. I didn't see how Palm Pilots would add to the romance."

However, Mr. Strugger convinced her that they needed the Palm Pilots to plan a vacation. At the restaurant that evening, they finished vacation planning and he told her he had one more message to "beam" over to her. After Strugger's message had been sent, the Palm Pilot displayed the customary query "Will you accept this message?" In the subject line was the heading "marriage proposal." Ms. Steig wanted to read the actual words, and momentarily struggled with a dysfunctional Palm Pilot before the full message appeared on the screen. Once she read the proposal, she chose the more direct—and traditional—method to say yes to him: she kissed him.

As for me, I started working at Oracle Corporation in March as a senior financial analyst in the Internet sales division. I'm very happy here. My fiancé Jim has completed his bout with lung cancer and is recuperating his strength this fall. With that, we still plan to wed, but the wedding's date is completely undetermined.

I hope you all are well. The e-mail address to use for me is still the same as above.

Additionally, there is a new website that I see a number of us registered at. If you WANT to exchange e-mail addresses, etc., it is a good vehicle through which to do that: <www.classmates.com>.

A note from Jennifer Powers Mitchell reads, "My husband Paul and I have two wonderful children, Ned, age four, and Katherine, age two. We will spend the summer on Martha's Vineyard with my brother Howard '80, his wife Alex and their children, PDSers Will, Peter and Eric Powers. We also look forward to seeing Leslie Pell Linnehan, Kitty Ijams Butt and Newell and Sara Griffin Thompson '84—all this summer." It seems that Lindsay Suter has been doing some architectural work for none other than Prince Charles of England. He writes, "I built the monument to the Millennium at the edge of his land in Dorset, in a rural but quite historic area. The building was dedicated in October. It was quite an affair. The press, BBC radio and BBC 1 covered it—though only briefly—so I do have some good photographs of the building, me, Charles, Sir James, Sir Andrew, etc." Sounds fascinating, Lindsay, and yes, we'd love to see those pictures!

Past alumni award winner Tom Marshall, formerly lyricist for the band Phish, has formed a new group, Amfibian, which features a different kind of sound that is more folk-influenced. From Noelle: I received a long letter from Victor Federov, who is teaching and living in Princeton, ruminating on the misadventures and social Darwinism he remembers from high school and experiences as a teacher today. He welcomes any dialogue or movement among grads that would assist PDS in increasing humane relations among students, parents and alums. Opinions? Snail mail him at 68 Laurel Road, Princeton, 08540. Vic also mentioned that he and Chris Franz rowed and sailed on a catamaran 200 miles down the Delaware from Hancock, NY to Trenton, tenting it five nights and

Aside from Vic's letter, my mailbox has been empty regarding PDS alum news. I hope by listing my e-mail address, I'll hear from a few more of you—please! It's very, very weird to just write about yourself and one other person!

We do have a bit more news that came in on Annual Fund envelopes and we thank the donors for both their news and their contributions! Lorna Mack Sheridan writes, "My husband, two kids (four and two and a half) and I have moved to Miami and we are loving it. Lynne resigned from her job at Young & Rubicam advertising, where she was a V.P. account director for 10 years, to be a full-time mother.

Kate Marquis "recently moved from Boston to northern Virginia, giving up the easy life of an international affairs grad student for the frenzied life of real international affairs. DC is a hopping town and with the election coming up, everyone is talking about the new administration's foreign policy plan." tion I headed over to France. First, I spent a week sightseeing in Paris and then I headed to Burgundy for a week-long wine tasting/cycling tour of the local vineyards. The trip was incredible and I had a great time (despite the fact that I can't speak a word of French). My adventures were not over when I returned home, be-left, and plan on attending physician assistant school in Florida when I get out."

Zach Gursky writes that he is "living in San Francisco selling internet advertising for DoubleClick."

From Eric: I am sorry to have missed everyone at the reunion and didn't get a chance to catch up, but the last few months have been extremely busy. I (finally) graduated from Rutgers University this spring and after gradua-cause two days later I was moving to North Carolina. As some of you know, I have been working as a web developer for the last four years, first with Bloomberg Financial Markets in Princeton and then later as a consultant in New York City. While the web developing is fun, after four years, I had gotten a little tired of it, so I accepted a position with Cisco Systems as a software tool engineer in their Network Solution Integration and Testing Engineering Division in Research Triangle Park, NC. The job is really great and is providing a great challenge. I am working on projects that will really advance the field of computer networking.

In other news, Myong Lee is moving to the New York Metro area. He has accepted a position as a equity research analyst with the Manhattan-based firm of Gerard Klauer Mattison. He is also seriously enjoying his new job, and wishes everyone well. Feel free to drop him a line at <mlee@gkm.com>.

Hi everyone, it's Missy. Hopefully, everyone has adjusted to life after college, or if you're some of the lucky ones who are still in school, enjoy it! Getting up early is definitely not all it's cracked up to be! I was so happy to see everyone at our reunion back in May. Those of you who didn't show up missed out on a great evening. Jenn Mitchell, Andrea Morrison, Zaneta Shannon and others worked really hard to make our night at Triumph Brewery perfect. And although about a quarter of our class showed up, it would have been great if more people had made the effort to come. For those of us who were there, we had a great time catching up and laughing over old memories. Now, for the moment you've all been waiting for... here's what's going on in the lives of our classmates. Be prepared, this is the most info I've collected in years.

Dan Knipe is enjoying the beautiful scenery out in Arizona. He's attending school out there and informed me that Ren Thompson is living out in Jackson Hole, Wyoming with his girlfriend. Kelly Babbitt just finished up at Vanderbilt and plans on staying in Tennessee to teach nursery school. However, before tackling the challenges of three-year-olds, she spent much of the summer in Thailand with her brother. I actually saw her recently in Winberie's but she was walking out the door and I didn't realize it was her until she was gone. Sorry, Kelly, for not saying hi. Taryn Esposito won the award in my book for having the coolest job. At the time we all got together, she was working for a prominent New York events planner and spent her days planning celebrity weddings. I hear that she has since moved on to bigger and better things, although I'm not exactly sure what those things are.

Taryn is one of many in NYC, including Lindsey Sternberg, Carolyn Sivitz and Blythe Quinlan. Lindsey was working at Mount Sinai Hospital and working through the fun process of applying to med school. She told me that her summer would be spent travelling between NYC and LBI where her boyfriend owns a store. Carolyn finished up her job at a small production company and at the time I last spoke with her, was looking for a job in the business end of production. And Blythe spent the summer in upstate New York, designing sets for summer stock productions. She has been written up in The New York Times for similar endeavors. This fall Blythe starts a teaching job in a private Brooklyn high school with the title of set designer. Blythe, Andrea, Jenn and myself all dragged our boyfriends to the reunion and, I must say ladies, I think we all have great taste! Jenn lives in Virginia with her boyfriend, and is a paralegal at a firm in Virginia. Apparently, this particular firm handles some pretty high profile cases, and she is loving it. Andrea was working for an advertising firm in the city, but was contemplating moving down to DC.

Heather Payne also works at an ad firm and hopes to move to the city soon. Weston Willard lives down in DC, Jeff Goldenson is moving to San Francisco and Dan Rizza is already out there, working at an Internet start-up company. I ran into Dan's mom and she says that he loves living on the West Coast. Jon Graziano stayed in Boston after graduation last year and now works in the human resources department of an engineering firm. Deb Pollard is also in Boston and works at a food bank distribution company. Zaneta is moving to north Jersey to teach first grade and Amanda Tate has been working at Zoe, the clothing store in Princeton. Amanda and I found out through a round about way that she had been dating my landlord's son. Very random!

And finally... Wendy Walters and Adaishala Hendrix win the award for being the most mature members of the Class of '95. Both are married! Wendy lives in Michigan with her HUSBAND. (Sorry, Wendy, I just can't handle the fact that my witch apprentice from the fourth grade operetta actually has a husband!) The two of them made the trip out here for the reunion, and they're a great couple. Adaishala is not only married, but she is pregnant! Actually, at the time, she was seven months pregnant, so by now the baby should be here. Adaishala—congratulations! I hope both you and the baby are doing well. Send pictures!! As for me, I'm still living in Princeton with Kevin and our dog Dixie. I start graduate school in the fall. I'll be getting my master's in human development from UPenn. While I'm in school, I'll continue to be an au pair and I'll substitute teach. Once again, you guys, it was so wonderful to see everyone in May. You all look great and I can tell everyone is happy, which we all know is the most important thing. Hopefully, all will remain well, and I hope to see more of our class there next time. Talk to you soon.

It's hard to believe there's even more news of the class from sources other than your prolific class secretaries. It's understandable that Shawn O'Connor wasn't at the reunion, since he's still living in Buenos Aires, Argentina. He's there on a Fulbright scholarship to do graduate research on new social movements. He can be reached through the alumni office at PDS. Amy Livingston writes, "I just celebrated my first May Day with Millstone River Morris, New Jersey's finest Morris dancing team. (Okay, we're also new Jersey's only Morris dancing team.) I'm also attending a lot of music and dance events and, in general, keeping ridiculously busy."

In July, she started a one-year research program at Cornell Medical School. The above photo shows Andy Golda and John Bussard at New York University's Baccalaureate ceremony for the College of Arts and Sciences on May 9. In April Andy was one of only 24 NYU student athletes to be given the university's Student-Athlete Academic Achievement Award. He majored in Russian and politics at NYU and studied in St. Petersburg for a summer session. He was a four-year member of the men's swim team and was named captain his senior year. John majored in Spanish, studied in Madrid for a semester and was a member of NYU's Bagpipe and Drum Corps for four years. He also ran with the school's running club. Andy is now working for the American Councils for International Education (ACTR/ACCELS) in Washington, DC and John is at the Marine Corps Officer Candidate Training School in Quantico, Virginia. Edmond Landry graduated from Albertson College of Idaho on June 3 and has accepted a position with Diamond Sports Management which manages four local minor league sports teams and the BankAmerica Center Arena in Boise. Jess D'Altrui finished her collegiate field hockey career as the University of Richmond's fourth leading scorer in history and a second team All Conference player.

Katie Jamieson graduated from Princeton University in June, 2000, where she majored in psychology. She has been named executive assistant for the TEAK Fellowship project, a program designed to help low-income but high-achieving public school students in New York City get into and succeed at top public and independent high schools.

From Mandy: Another summer has gone by and I was lucky enough to get to spend some time with some of our fellow classmates, which was great. Mike Zarzecki is doing well as always, and aside from hitting the jackpot in Atlantic City, spent the summer working on the stock exchange. Charley King was living in NYC with Pete Casey while working and taking a couple classes. Brooks Landry came in to New York one weekend and it was a reunion of sorts with Charley, Pete, Brooks, Janie Egan and myself. Gayatri Bhatnagar has moved to Berkeley with her mom. She will be spending this coming semester on Trinity's San Francisco campus before returning to Hartford to graduate with the rest of our class. Louise Sturges is doing great. She was in Princeton for a while this summer to beat the heat of Santa Fe, and it was really nice to see her. I was able to spend some time with Tom Anderman in NYC. He is, as always, doing marvelously. Ameesh Shah was also in NYC this summer, working before returning to a grueling senior year at Penn. While many of us were spending our summers on the East Coast, Kevin Mackay got away from all that by participating in a Georgetown program in Hong Kong. I personally spent my summer in New York where I worked in the marketing department at Chanel. It was a great experience. Personally, I can't wait for school to get under way. Hard to believe there's just one more year left! Best of luck to everyone!

From Ellyn: Hi!! Sorry for missing that last Journal, I hope you can forgive me. I can't believe it has been three years since we have been out of PDS! Many of us are heading into our senior year of college, and have done some great things along the way. Seth Adler was chosen head chef at a large event that the Cornell Hotel School puts on every year. In addition to that, he spent the summer in Italy, working on a vineyard and travelling around that country. I ran into Katie Griffith who told me that she was working in NYC at an art gallery. Connie Hwong spent the summer working at a photography studio and will return to Barnard in the fall. I've seen Josh Goldston a couple of times. He is doing well. He spends a lot of his time at Harvard with his band and working on plays. Hilary Harris spent her summer in New Hampshire, working on a farm and for the local fire department. I talked to Vanessa LaFranco, who was working in NJ for the summer. As for me, I spent the summer in Washington, DC, taking classes and working for a grassroots political organization. It was great to be in DC and I was very sad to leave. Good luck to everyone, have a great senior year and please write if you have news about yourself!!

From other sources we've learned that diver Danielle Stramandi captured first place at the Zone A Senior US Division Qualifiers last spring, enabling her to compete in the US National Championships in April. She just finished her sophomore year at Princeton University. Austin Williams is enjoying Dartmouth and was planning to spend her fall semester in Paris.

Julie Hillimire, a senior at Vassar, served as costume designer for a production of Shakespeare's Twelfth Night. The play was produced by the Experimental Theatre of Vassar College in the Powerhouse Theatre.

The class of 1997 sends heartfelt sympathy to Hadley Hosea and her family as they mourn the loss of her grandfather, John P. Murray, Jr.

From Gio: Hi everyone! I have seen more of our class than normal lately, thanks to our class's up-and-coming band, RANA. Andrew Southern, Ryan Thornton, Matt Trowbridge and Scott Metzger have had several events in New York City this summer. They played at the Wetlands every Tuesday night in July, drawing crowds up to 200. I was lucky enough to attend some of these shows. It was like a PDS reunion! Ross Milestone was there a few times enjoying the music. Hunter Schwartz, Mike Levine, Pooja Raj, Matt Sherring, Mark Mezrich, and, I'm sure there are some that I am forgetting, were all there having a good time. I encourage all of you to check RANA out some time. They have a website too, <www.ranaweb.com>. Good luck, guys, and don't forget all those Band Barbecues where you started out.

As far as the rest of you...I saw Erin Conroy, Julie Rubin, Jill Maxwell, Marguerita DeSenna and Liz Gordon at Leys Bostrom's house in the beginning of the summer. Andrew spent two months with the Navy on a nuclear submarine. Leys had an environmental studies internship at Connecticut College. (By the way, the Bostroms have moved to New Canaan, CT). Erin was working at the Boston Stock Exchange, but left in July for a semester in Australia. Robin Ackerman spent the summer working at a camp for girls in Vermont. I think that's all.

I know many of you will probably be studying abroad this coming year. So any of you in Europe, please e-mail me. I will be in Prague for the fall semester and I look forward to hearing from all of you before the next Journal!

The class was shocked and saddened to learn of the tragic accident that took the life of Andrew Warren's mother this summer. His parents were driving with his sister Alix '02 when they were hit by an oncoming car. On behalf of the class, we send our deepest sympathy to Andrew and his family.

Thanks to our new class correspondents for volunteering to keep the class in touch with each other through the Journal. A bit of news came in through the college directory notes. Mark Webb reports that he was accepted into the six-year medical program at the University of Newcastle Medical School in England. She visited London, Venice, Sardinia, Paris and Amsterdam.

Ben Brickner is "alive and well but very cold up in Ithaca, NY. I received my private pilot's licence at the end of June and have since been flying up and down the northeast."

Mrs. Deidre Bannon MFS/PDS faculty (middle school science)

The PDS community mourns the loss of former faculty member Deidre "Didi" Bannon. Didi was affectionately known as a character who marched to her own tune.

While a science teacher at PDS, she established the IPS—Introduction to Physical Science—a program in the 8th grade that is still used today. Together with former MS math teacher John Howe and former music teacher Regina Speigel, she started the Gettysburg Mini-Week Mini-Course. She also started the PDS bridge group.

John Howe says, "I think the two things that made her special as a teacher were her curiosity for learning new things and her interest in people, including her students. She was always willing to look beyond her curriculum, to stop and consider new ideas from students, and to explore new approaches in her teaching."

She suffered from emphysema as well as a degenerative spine disease which had left her unable to use her arms and hands, but she always maintained her high spirits. One of the original bridge group members, Darlene Byrne, states, "I can't remember her ever being depressed throughout her long illness."

"When she realized that her health was beginning to fade, she bought herself a camper (pick-up truck with a cap on it) and drove across the US all alone one summer, and over vacations she would take off in that camper to just about anywhere. She wanted to see it all. While she could still talk, she would communicate with me via the computer. She was the first person I knew with a voice activated computer. When she could no longer talk well, she had someone else e-mail me with her messages. Didi was always upbeat and positive about everything. This was a 'gutsy' lady."

Mr. Herbert J. Padillo, PDS faculty (Spanish)

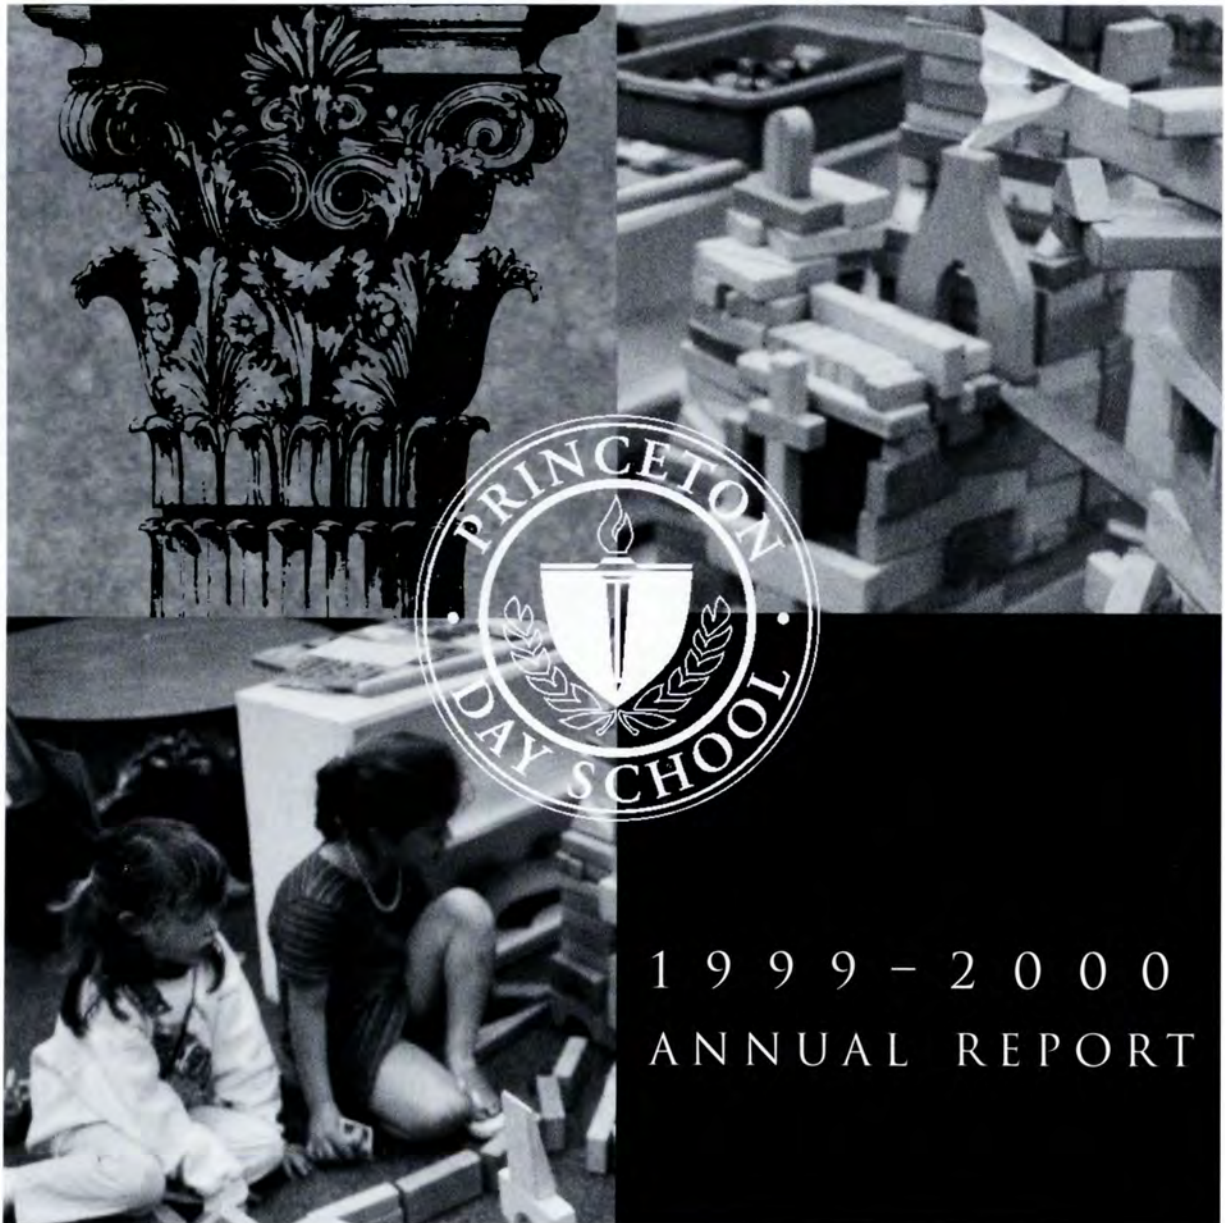

PDS marks with sadness the passing of former PDS Spanish faculty member, Herbert Padillo of Alabama. The acclaimed Cuban poet was famed for criticism of Fidel Castro that earned him imprisonment, torture, and eventually exile from his homeland. "He will be forever known as the first poet to have the stature and courage to object to Fidel Castro's regime," said Roberto Gonzalez Echevarria, the Sterling professor of Spanish at Yale and chairman of the Portuguese and Spanish language departments. "And he suffered immensely for it, not the least being his death in exile." Mr. Padillo's publications include a novel, Heroes are Grazing in My Garden, his memoirs, Self-Portrait of the Other, and books of poetry, Legacies: Selected Poems and A Fountain, a House of Stone.

Message from the Director of Development

The unprecedented support that Princeton Day School received during academic year 1999–2000 is both a testimony to the strength of our programs and a powerful indication of the commitment our alumni, parents and friends have for keeping our school strong and in the forefront of independent education. In recent years, total gifts to the school have increased dramatically. But last year, total support went well beyond what we expected by increasing over 100% to over $5.5 million. New pledges brought the grand total to just over $7.6 million!

THE ANNUAL FUND—$935,000—an all-time record—received against the goal of $900,000. The end-of-year challenge to air-condition the theater was a stunning success. Ten parent classes needed to reach 80% participation to earn the $100,000 air-conditioning challenge, but when the dust settled on June 30th, all 14 classes had surpassed 80%, two classes (K and 3rd) surpassed 90%, and one (JK) reached 100%!

Overall, parent participation in the Annual Fund reached an all-time record of 85%, which is extraordinary among independent schools. Including parent gifts for other purposes as well, that figure increases to 88%—a level that puts PDS together with only a handful of JK–12 independent day schools nationally.

Alumni also continue to play an increasing role in supporting our efforts on campus. Just over 28% contributed $185,000 to the Annual Fund. Reunion classes set several new records and increasing numbers of alumni joined the Colross Society with gifts of $1,000 or more.

Clearly, a distinguishing feature of Princeton Day School is the remarkable number of individuals who step forward each year to participate in strengthening the school.

THE CAMPUS CENTER—Current and future generations of PDS students will benefit from the generosity of the individuals and foundations that collectively provided just over $2 million to fully fund this project. When school opened in September, students and parents found that the old cafeteria had been transformed—kitchen, serving facilities, tables and chairs, snack bar, ceiling, floors and walls...everything—into a beautiful, larger, air-conditioned Campus Center.

THE FIELDS PROJECT—Phase One—As of this writing, the new playing fields are nearly complete, and crews are hard at work finishing two state-of-the-art playing fields that will include irrigation, drainage and viewing stands. Gifts and pledges from alumni and parents helped fund this first phase of the four-year $2.3 million effort to renovate all of our outdoor athletic facilities.

FINANCIAL AID—Last year, the school received over $1.7 million in gifts and pledges to either establish or supplement endowed financial aid funds that produce annual income for students whose financial circumstances would otherwise make it impossible for them to attend PDS. Additionally, $175,000 was received in gifts and pledges to directly supplement the school's financial aid budget. We are also grateful to the many volunteers whose ongoing efforts in the Nearly New Shop resulted in over $60,000 in direct support of our financial aid program.

FACULTY SUPPORT—The school received an unprecedented amount of gifts and pledges in support of our commitment to attract and retain the best teachers. Among them were the proceeds from this year's record-setting parent auction. Through the hard work of dozens of parent volunteers, over $93,000 was contributed to support faculty summer study and continuing education.

ENDOWED TEACHING CHAIR—The largest single gift in the school's history—$1.5 million—was received this year in support of our faculty. The gift established the school's first teaching chair—The Carl D. Reimers Distinguished Teaching Chair. Last spring, Head of School Lila Lohr appointed poet-in-residence Judy Michaels as the first recipient of this three-year honor, which includes a $2,500 annual stipend for supporting educational programs and initiatives at PDS. The balance of the annual income generated by this endowment will increase the salaries and benefits of all teachers.

There have been many other gifts, and they are detailed on the pages that follow. On behalf of our students and faculty who directly benefit from this support, I extend my most sincere thanks to all those whose generous gifts of time, wisdom and resources have strengthened our school immeasurably.

Andrew C. Hamlin

THE MAY MARGARET FINE SOCIETY

Established in 1998, the May Margaret Fine Society recognizes those loyal alumnae/i, parents and friends who have informed the Development Office that they have made provisions for Princeton Day School in their estate plans. We recognize that this is a partial listing, and urge those who have taken this important step to inform the Development Office and have their name(s) added to this list.

Including the school in their will, establishing a charitable trust while maintaining life income, and naming the school as a life insurance beneficiary are some of the ways these individuals have helped secure the long-term strength of Princeton Day School.

What's up?: Well, for one thing, a portrait of upper school head Carlton Tucker, by son Micabel, a PDS junior kindergarten student.

"Jazzed up": Tenth-grader Rob Jellinek and 11th-graders Bob Grannatt and Ryan Dreher provide music for the first art gallery opening in September.

Dressed up: Kindergartner Oren Karsen (left) and lower school French teacher Ms. Morgenstern, a.k.a. Madeline, (above) get into the Halloween spirit.

(Green) thumb's up: First grader Anthony Norcott concentrates as he participates in the annual daffodil-planting ritual.

"Yukkin it up": Fifth graders (l-r) Emma Morehouse, Morgan Curry, Jael Atchison and Pamela Lee mug for the cameras.
