JOIN THEM!

The Annual Fund remains Princeton Day School's top giving priority because it directly supports the school's greatest assets—our students and our teachers. The dollars raised each year are crucial in enabling the school to provide superior faculty, small class sizes, individualized attention, state-of-the-art technology and facilities, financial aid support, and dynamic programming. Every member of the PDS community is asked to contribute to the Annual Fund.

LETTER FROM Paul J. Stellato, Head of School

“I see you stand like greyhounds in the slips, Straining upon the start.
The game’s afoot, Follow your spirit...”

Shakespeare, Henry the Fifth

The start of this school year—or any school year, for that matter—is a torrent, a blend of optimism and energy that only youth possesses. These young ones—some focused squarely on a goal, others content (for a few days, at least) to be swept along by the larger group’s tide—know only possibility and promise. Along the way, they will be both giddy with the power of flight and sobered by the tug of the earth (read: homework, grades, college admissions, long lines at lunch). But one thing is for sure: each young body and mind is always in motion, as, to a school-age child, a body at rest is no body at all. As adults in the school community beholding this swelling scene, we are wise to step out of the way and marvel at what unfolds before us.

And what of the start of this school year, in particular? The keenness of its rhythm and brightness of its glow are compelling; and even though we have not yet stopped to take a breath, we seem to be daily nourished by something like breath, only better: the quiet fury of a community in full possession of itself, sensing that the broad achievements of today are there only to be quickly and quietly surpassed.

We have begun as well as any school can begin. For the fifth consecutive year (the only five years in our school’s storied history), our enrollment has risen above 900; within that count is the largest Upper School—411 students—ever to assemble on the Great Road. Just weeks ago, we christened the Alberto Petrella Garden Classroom. Named for a school icon, the classroom is the brainchild of Liz Cutler and Pam Flory, and the handiwork of architect and parent Susan Bristol. Two weeks later, another school icon—long-time athletic director Jan Baker—together with Board Chair Barbie Cole and Director of Athletics Tim Williams, cut blue and white ribbons to mark the opening of a newly turfed Baker Field. (Not to be outdone by the adult ceremony, girls’ field hockey brought home a 1-0 win. Talk about messages sent and received!) Thanks to Assistant Head of School Steve Hancock’s brilliant work (and unalloyed parent generosity), every middle schooler has an iPad; by early winter, they will be joined by their 4th grade peers. Next year, the Upper School.

Within the walls, our conversations range from student health and wellness to student assessment; faculty evaluation to curriculum coordination. Having said a sad goodbye to four board members (including a chair for the ages, Treby Williams), our company is replenished with four new members, guided by a bright and bold star, Board Chair Barbie Cole.

And so my colleagues and I endeavor to keep pace, keep up and, every so often, rush ahead of our young charges. In their service, we are daily reminded that ours is the best work anyone can imagine.

Paul J. Stellato
Head of School

Imagine the Possibilities

Imagine the Possibilities, a program made possible through the John D. Wallace, Jr. '78 Memorial Guest Artist Series Fund, began in 1996 to bring authors, illustrators and poets to Princeton Day School. We were honored to welcome the following distinguished guests to campus:

the Caldecott Award-winning illustrations for Smoky Night by Eve Bunting.

Poet, author, and activist Michael J. Rosen has written and published numerous books, ranging from children's picture books to adult poetry. Students had the unique opportunity to learn Mr. Rosen's writing process in MS

The Alberto Petrella Garden Classroom

Princeton Day School announced the creation of the Alberto Petrella Garden Classroom on campus, located next to the school's bountiful organic garden. The construction, which began in the spring, was ready for students in the fall. Designed by architect Susan Bristol, the classroom

Imagine the Possibilities guest artists: Sara "Zoe" Hart '96, David Diaz (top), Michael J. Rosen, and Dr. Cornel West with LS teacher Bev Gallagher, Head of School Paul Stellato, US teacher George Sanderson, and Trustee John D. (Jack) Wallace '48

Renowned alpine mountaineer and writer Sara "Zoe" Hart '96 returned to PDS to talk with students about the unique challenges and joys of her chosen career. Ms. Hart is the fourth American woman to earn her International Federation of Mountain Guides Associations status, the highest level of credential available to professional mountain guides.

Award-winning illustrator and visual artist David Diaz explored the process of illustration with our students while on campus. An informal session, "Hanging with the Artist," gave student artists the chance to paint side-by-side with Mr. Diaz, whose distinctive work includes and US English Classes and in presentations to the LS students. Mr. Rosen's children's books include Chanukah Lights and Elijah's Angel: A Story for Chanukah and Christmas, for which he received the prestigious National Jewish Book Award.

Dr. Cornel West, a prominent and provocative intellectual and Class of 1943 University Professor at Princeton University, is best known for his classic books including Race Matters, as well as his frequent appearances in films and on television. Dr. West delivered a riveting lecture titled "The Socratic and the Prophetic" to the Upper School students.

serves as a covered extension of the garden and includes tables, chairs, a chalkboard, and a kitchen. Head of School Paul Stellato remarked: "The Alberto Petrella Garden Classroom represents our strong commitment to sustainability at Princeton Day School. It will be a central hub on campus where any teacher in any division or discipline can take a group to have class outdoors, exposing students to fresh air and a relaxed environment for discussion, writing, or performance." PDS Sustainability Coordinator Liz Cutler added, "This space will allow Princeton Day School students the opportunity to embark on the learning journey, from seed to table, right there in the garden."

Barn Week Returns!

Princeton Day School was pleased to hold the second annual Barn Week last spring. This program offers our Lower School students the opportunity to interact with a barn full of farm animals, including a horse, sheep, goats and a pot-bellied pig. The animals stayed at Pretty Brook Farm for a week, and were thoughtfully incorporated into the LS science and social studies curricula. The "Open Barn" visiting day was once again a popular event for our community.

Blue and White Day

Blue and White Day took place on the fields on a sunny Friday in May. The entire school took part in a variety of events, including an epic PreK-12 relay race, Noodle Tag, Capture the Cones, and the much-anticipated Faculty Tug of War. In addition, our Lower and Middle School students paired up for events, such as beach ball relays, potato sack races, and soccer dribble relays. Whether Blue or White, each year this is a day for fun and good sportsmanship for the whole school. (2012 Winner: White Team)

Grandparents and Special Friends Day

On Friday, April 27th, Princeton Day School Lower School students invited their grandparents and special friends to school to see the campus, take in some performances, visit classrooms, and celebrate spring. In keeping with PDS tradition, our second grade class gracefully wove ribbons around the Maypole on the Colross lawn.

A Trip to China

Upper School students, recent graduates, and faculty chaperones, including David Freedholm, Maria Sheperd, Eileen Hohmuth-Lemonick, Barbara Walker, and Tian Tu journeyed to China this summer to explore culture and history. The two-week itinerary included stays in Beijing, Xian, Dunhuang and Shanghai. Mr. Freedholm remarked, "I am very proud of the way the PDS students embraced the experience of being in China; learning about Chinese history and culture, speaking the language, meeting the people, and trying new and unfamiliar things. They were great ambassadors for PDS and their families." One highlight of the trip was riding camels at sunset up huge sand dunes in the Gobi Desert near Dunhuang. Family and friends followed along via the trip blog, which documented the day to day experiences in words and photos: www.globalcultures.net/china2012.

PDS Welcomes the Trenton Thunder

US Spanish teacher Liz Ransom and US English teacher Mary Williams had the opportunity to make interdisciplinary connections between Spanish and 9th grade English classes by hosting three players from the Trenton Thunder minor league baseball team hailing from Mexico and the Dominican Republic to visit PDS and interact with students. This was a great opportunity for our foreign language students to mingle with NY Yankees-affiliated ball players while working at fluency in Spanish.

The Great Giveaway Grows!

At the end of the 2011-12 school year, members of the Community Council and the student group EnAct spearheaded the collection of gently used school supplies destined for a dumpster. The total of 39 cartons of supplies was one up from last year. The cartons went to HomeFront for their summer school and tutoring programs and to the Eastern Service Workers Association. The spirit of former faculty member Anne Shepherd infused this project since she was devoted to the Eastern Service Worker's Association. It was only fitting that volunteers sorted the supplies in Shepherd Commons.

Director of College Counseling Sarah Graham Wins Award

Sarah Graham was awarded the Social Justice and Advocacy Award from The College of New Jersey upon graduation from her program this spring. This award honors a graduating counseling student who has demonstrated a serious commitment to social justice and equity through the development and implementation of a program that has had a major impact upon the health and well being of a culturally diverse group. Ms. Graham was cited for her work on Camp College and College Key.

8th Grade Musical:
Happy Days

Goodbye gray skies, hello blue! Princeton Day School's class of 2016 was rockin' and rollin' all through the spring to prepare for their performances of the 8th Grade Musical, "Happy Days," which took place in May. Created by Garry Marshall, with music and lyrics by Oscar winning composer Paul Williams, the popular show is based on the beloved television series.

Spring Performing Arts Festival

In May, the McAneny Theater was the hub of the Performing Arts Festival, a three-day, nonstop celebration of the arts. From one-act plays to musical performances to dance performances, there was an incredible array of talent on display from our students, faculty, alumni and guest artists.

A Grant for New Musical Instruments

Princeton Day School is grateful to the Kai Yue Foundation for its generous contribution to our music program. Thanks to an award from the Foundation, the school was able to purchase new instruments for the program, including much-needed new timpani drums, a xylophone, violins, and cellos.

"Students in all three divisions have benefited from these new instruments... our students were clearly able to recognize the better sound qualities of their new instruments," remarked Performing Arts Chair Deb Sugarman.

Danji Restaurant Design

US Ceramics teacher Stephanie Steufer worked with her students Georgia Wong '14, Andrea Jenkins '13, and John Egner '14, to design tableware for Danji Restaurant (www.danjinc.com) in New York City. The Korean restaurant, run by Chef Hooni Kim, has been awarded a Michelin star.

Anne Reid '72 Art Gallery Exhibition Schedule 2012/2013

Peter Lighte: Pieces of China

October 1 through October 5

Peter Lighte P'16 created twelve lush paintings representing the ancient Chinese signs of the zodiac. The Anne Reid '72 Art Gallery held a silent auction and cocktail reception on Friday, September 28th, for the paintings, graciously donated by Mr. Lighte, with proceeds providing support for Princeton Day School. The paintings were on display in the gallery for the week following the auction.

Dan Mead and Sally Eagle:

Bhutan Culture of Western Asia

October 15 through November 11

Photographers Dan Mead and Sally Eagle will share their images of the sub-alpine Himalayan peaks of the Asian Kingdom of Bhutan. This landlocked country, an unspoiled environment that has been referred to as The Last Shangri-la, works to maintain its rich and unique cultural heritage, which is steeped in the Buddhist tradition. Mr. Mead and Ms. Eagle will meet with Upper School religion classes to discuss Bhutanese culture.

Secret Lives: Art Department

Faculty and Staff Exhibit

November 26 through December 19

This will be the second annual Princeton Day School Art Department Faculty and Staff exhibit. Painting, sculpture, photography, ceramics, crafts, and poetry from our talented faculty and staff will be exhibited—though this year, the names of the artists will be hidden from immediate view, adding an element of surprise to the exhibit.

Celia Reisman

January 14 through January 31

Celia Reisman paints her architectural vision of suburban landscapes, primarily around Philadelphia. Represented by the Paul Thiebaud Gallery in New York and San Francisco, Ms. Reisman received a Bachelors of Fine Arts from Carnegie Mellon University and a Masters of Fine Arts in Printmaking from Yale University. Edward Sozanski of the Philadelphia Inquirer remarked that Ms. Reisman's work "offers a lushly colored and geometrically harmonious balance between realism and abstraction."

The Art of Imperfection:

Stephanie Stuefer and Chris Maher

February 11 through March 7

Two members of the Princeton Day School Art Department, Stephanie Stuefer, ceramics, and Chris Maher, furniture design and sculpture, will create a collaborative installation which will include clay and wood. This exhibition will be guided by the principles of wabi-sabi, based on the Japanese aesthetic centered on the acceptance of imperfection, and embracing asymmetry and irregularity.

David Wiesner:

Imagine the Possibilities

April 1 through April 24

Three-time Caldecott Award-winner David Wiesner will have an exhibition of preliminary sketches and finished works in the gallery while visiting the school as part of the "Imagine the Possibilities" program. A graduate of the Rhode Island School of Design, with a BFA in Illustration, Mr. Wiesner has generously offered to exhibit rarely-seen drawings from his personal collection.

The Student Exhibition

May 6 through May 22

In May, the Anne Reid '72 Art Gallery, as well as the Arts Atrium, Middle School and Lower School hallways, will feature artwork created by many of our Princeton Day School students. Chosen from works completed throughout the year, the exhibit may include paintings, drawings, printmaking, sculpture, installation, architecture, photography, and film. These exhibits, as well as all of the gallery exhibits, are open to the public.

Princeton Day School Senior Projects

May 29 through June 7

At the end of May, the gallery will feature the Senior Projects which have focused on visual and design arts.

Many of us watched the Summer Olympics, and were undoubtedly moved by the stories of the athletes and their journeys to get to the highest stage in their respective sport. For the brief time that many spent competing (the 100 meter dash was over in 10 seconds!), they spent countless hours at work where no one was there to cheer for them. This is where inspiration plays a part.

What drives someone to work on his or her sport for hours on end? Some may say for the fame and fortune that comes with competing at a high level, but more than 80% of the athletes at the Olympics do not bring home a medal, and many do not even compete in the finals of their event.

Inspiration comes in many forms, but I believe that the truest form of it comes from deep within and it propels someone to keep working when others stop. External rewards are great, but nothing motivates like an internal desire to make oneself and one's team the best.

Many of our Princeton Day School athletes have spent their summers preparing themselves for their upcoming seasons, working with no fanfare to make these their best seasons yet. Their inspiration is most likely as varied as the Olympians, but one thing holds true for these student-athletes: they will strive to make our PDS teams the best that they can be.

Win or lose, that is inspirational to me. I can't wait to see our boys and girls in action, putting their hard work on display. I hope that you will join me in cheering them on this year.

See you on the sidelines,

Tim Williams
Director of Athletics

Princeton Day School Announces Sports for 6th Grade

The Princeton Day School Athletics Department was pleased to announce that a full-year sports option would be available for 6th grade students beginning in the fall. For the first time at PDS, 6th grade students joined their 7th and 8th grade counterparts representing PDS in interscholastic athletics. Team sport offerings include: soccer, cross country, football, tennis, field hockey, basketball, fencing, squash, ice hockey, volleyball, lacrosse, skating, baseball, softball, and track and field. Sixth grade students were given the choice of either joining the sports team of their choice, or continuing with their P.E. class. All Middle School teams now consist of 6th, 7th, and 8th graders, and are split into Blue and White divisions as needed. Opponents will remain the same and all teams will enjoy the travel and benefits of interscholastic competition. "Sixth graders are playing more and more sports outside of school and coming to us better prepared for interscholastic competition, so we felt the time was right for PDS Athletics to move in this direction," remarked Tim Williams, Director of Athletics.

Baseball

The PDS Varsity Baseball team played one of the toughest schedules in the area last spring, yet finished the season with a successful 12 – 9 record. This team was an exciting blend of talented newcomers (J.P. Radvany '15 led the team in hits and batting average) and seasoned upperclassman. It was an extraordinary accomplishment to defeat every NJ prep A team, including a 10 – 0 win over Lawrenceville and ten-run win over the Hun School. The team also posted big wins over Peddie, Blair, Rutgers Prep and Hamilton West. Seniors tri-captains McCoy, Horan and Eisenberg went out with a bang, and with a core of young players coming back, next year should be an exciting season of Panther baseball. (See more about Coach of the Year Ray O'Brien on pg. 14)

Figure Skating

This season, the team focused on basic skills development, short track speed skating and endurance. Each class produced a group production program which was performed at the High School Team Spirit Show. In addition, congratulations to Head Figure Skating Coach Charles Fetter, who received a Lifetime Achievement award from the Professional Skaters Association, the official figure skating coach's education, training and accreditation program for the U.S. Figure Skating.

Golf

The 2012 golf season was very successful. The team had a record of 6-6-2 after finishing 1-9 last year. The team season was highlighted by a win over Pingry, a sweep of the season series with Rutgers Prep, a tie with Lawrenceville and a fourth place finish in the State Prep Tournament. Progress was also made with the development of a JV team led by Rome Campbell. With only two graduating seniors, Paige Dennis-Mundenar and Joe Duvall, the future looks bright for PDS Golf.

Boys Lacrosse

The 2012 Varsity Boys Lacrosse season was a tremendous success from the start as 35 players traveled down to Hilton Head Island to train and bond as a team for a week. Two and a half months later, the team concluded their season in the finals of the Mercer County Tournament and with a 10-7 season record overall. Despite coming up short in the MCT Championship game, hard work, dedication, and a drive for excellence is what defined this group of young men, and what has set the tone for many great seasons to come. (See more about Coach of the Year Rob Tuckman on pg. 14)

Girls Lacrosse

In the business of athletics, there is a saying: it's not about where you start, but rather about where you finish. And so it was for this young team. The Varsity Girls Lacrosse Team began the season 0 and 5, but went on to win the next five. Included in this run were impressive wins at Rutgers Prep and Hun, and versus Hopewell. After disappointing results in the Prep and Mercer County Tournaments, the team set their sights on a strong finish and a MCT consolation win at Hun was just what they needed. The team, with only one graduating senior, finished the season with an overall record of 9 wins and 9 losses, and is well-positioned for strong seasons ahead.

Softball

Girls Softball had a comeback season where the team won some crucial games against rival teams. Lead by pitcher Dina Alter '14 and catcher Jess Toltzis '14, the team had a formidable battery and was "in" every game that they played, win or loss. The team had an "Iron 9" that battled without substitutions for the majority of the season, but was extremely competitive. First year Head Coach Paul Lano was extremely pleased with his young team: "Despite their relative youth and lack of substitutes, our girls played inspired softball this season. We are all very proud of their accomplishments." While the loss of two key graduating seniors will be felt, the majority of the team returns for another strong season in 2013.

Boys Tennis

Boys Tennis enjoyed a solid season with a young team. Despite having only five seniors, the team finished second in the state. Doubles partners Josiah Meekins '15 and James Sanderson '12 won their individual Prep B State Championship with the backing of their highly spirited teammates. With key players returning for 2013, and a roster of skilled young players, the team is primed to again challenge for a State Championship in 2013.

The David C. Bogle Award For the Pursuit of Teaching Excellence

Carol Olson, Jenny Mischner,
Karen Pike, Jennifer Vradenburgh

Established in 1995, this award is in memory of David Bogle, who devoted seventeen years of service to PDS. Income from this fund is awarded each year to underwrite an outstanding proposal submitted by faculty members which, in the eyes of the Head of School and Division Heads, most clearly advances the pursuit of teaching excellence at Princeton Day School. This year, Princeton Day School awarded the David C. Bogle Award to LS Technology Coordinator Carol Olson, LS Librarian Jenny Mischner, First Grade teacher Karen Pike, and Second Grade teacher Jennifer Vradenburgh for their proposal titled "Collaborating for Change: Using Educational Technology in Innovative and New Ways."

The Johnston Faculty Enrichment Award

Stephanie Steufer

Established in 1987, the Johnston Faculty Enrichment Award is made annually to a selected teacher to underwrite the pursuit of professional development opportunities related to their disciplines, which will significantly enhance and enrich their own professional expertise and their students' classroom experience. The recipient of this grant is selected by the Head of School in consultation with the Division Heads. Princeton Day School was pleased to present the Johnston Award to US Ceramics teacher Stephanie Steufer who spent a one-month residency at the International Ceramic Research Center in Denmark this summer.

Minerva Grants for Professional Development

Lisa McLane, Rebecca Pagitt-Mungai, Paris McLean

The Minerva Grants for Professional Development provide financial support for members of the Princeton Day School faculty to enhance the craft of teaching through conferences, seminars, graduate study, or other such opportunities as the award winners may determine. Recipients will have demonstrated records of superior achievement in and beyond the classroom, as well as evidence of great promise in the years to come.

Princeton Day School awarded three Minerva Grants to PDS Faculty this year: to US Science teacher Lisa McLane, for her proposal to follow in the footsteps of Charles Darwin in exploring the Galapagos Islands; to MS Humanities teacher Rebecca Pagitt-Mungai, who was able to travel the Viking trail from Copenhagen to Logstor this summer; and to Paris McLean, who will be pursuing a graduate program in Leadership.

Ostro Grant for Interdisciplinary Education

Karen Latham, Elizabeth Monroe

Established in 2000, the purpose of the Ostro Grant for Interdisciplinary Education is to provide ongoing incentive for increasing and strengthening interdisciplinary studies at Princeton Day School. A grant is awarded annually to support an outstanding opportunity to enrich the school's teaching curriculum through the integration of two or more disciplines. The faculty recipients of the Ostro Grant are required to give a presentation to colleagues about what was learned through the interdisciplinary offering and how these lessons can be applied to further strengthen the educational programs at PDS. When appropriate, classroom demonstrations incorporating new materials/techniques/technologies or practices are also required of the grant recipients.

This year, the Ostro Grant was awarded to US English teacher Karen Latham and US History teacher Elizabeth Monroe for their collaboration on "Springtime in Paris," an interdisciplinary approach to teaching art and literature of the 1920s.

The Shepherd-McCaughan, Miss Fine's School Fund, and Minerva Fund Sabbatical Programs

▼ Andrea Schafer, Jerry Hirniak

The Shepherd-McCaughan, Miss Fine's School Fund, and Minerva Fund Sabbatical Programs are intended to promote professional growth for PDS teachers who have served the school well over an extended time period and to enhance their continued contributions to the school after their return.

This year, Princeton Day School was proud to award one full-year and one half-year sabbatical. LS Music teacher Andrea Schafer will spend the year studying the powerful effect of the harp on a lower school general music classroom. US Art teacher Jerry Hirniak will spend a half-year immersed in the artist's studio.

The Carl D. Reimers Distinguished Teaching Chair

▼ Silvia Strauss-Debenedetti

Established in 1999 with anonymous gifts in honor of long-time faculty member Carl D. Reimers, this first fully endowed teaching chair at Princeton Day School provides annual income to underwrite the salary and benefits of an outstanding member of the faculty chosen by the Head of School in consultation with the Division Heads. Exceptional teaching and devotion to students are among the criteria considered. The chair is awarded every three years. This year, Princeton Day School was pleased to honor Science Department Chair Silvia Strauss-Debenedetti.

George Sanderson Honored with Whitlock Award and Stanton Foundation Grant

The Robert C. Whitlock Award for Distinguished Teaching is Princeton Day School's highest honor for faculty, named for the former longtime architecture teacher, and awarded annually by faculty members and the Head of School. This year, the award was presented to Upper School History Department Chair George Sanderson.

In addition, in April Mr. Sanderson was accepted as a participant in the Stanton Foundation's "Innovation in Civics Education" program. As a participant in this program, Mr. Sanderson received a grant to be used during the summer and this academic year.

These prestigious awards present Mr. Sanderson with an opportunity to pursue a new project that he believes can significantly enhance his students' understanding of current events in news and politics. Mr. Sanderson noted, "Students in government and politics classes benefit from applying what they are learning in the classroom to the real world and vice versa. Yet, there isn't any central repository of 'current events in politics' material available to all students and teachers. My hope is to create such a website—ideally, by partnering with a national news organization that embraces this idea—to benefit students not only at my school, but ultimately around the country."

Mr. Sanderson certainly understands the power of harnessing new tools for learning, as last year he piloted a successful iPad program for his 10th grade American History class. One class of students used iPads as their textbook, notebook, and class project device. The text—Eric Foner's Give Me Liberty!—took advantage of all of the technological capabilities of the iPad, offering students features including interactive maps, primary source material, quizzes, a communal annotation system, and video podcasts produced by the author. Mr. Sanderson was able to compare the experiences of this class with his other classes who continued to use the standard textbook. It was an illuminating experience, and one that continues to inform his approach to teaching moving forward.

In the meantime, Mr. Sanderson has developed his own "beta" site, www.apgovnews.com, that he will use with his students this year as part of his new venture. With an aim to post articles and videos on a regular basis, and include polls, Mr. Sanderson hopes to make the site as interactive as possible. "Whether or not a major news organization decides to develop this sort of site remains to be seen, but I could imagine expanding what I have done here to a national level."

Catching up with Susan Ferguson, Winner of the 2011 Whitlock Award

Susan Ferguson has a long and strong relationship with Princeton Day School. She has been teaching in the Lower School since 1987, first in the 3rd grade, and then in the 2nd grade, where she currently teaches and serves as the LS Math Curriculum Coordinator. Her brothers John Claghorn '68 and David Claghorn '71 are alums, as is her daughter, MacAdie (Maddie) Ferguson '07. In addition, Mrs. Ferguson's mother Margery Claghorn was the school receptionist for many years.

The winner of numerous honors at the school, including two Bogle Awards, Mrs. Ferguson was honored with the Robert C. Whitlock Award for Distinguished Teaching last year. When asked what experiences the Whitlock Award afforded her last year, Mrs. Ferguson responded, "It allowed me the chance to travel to Europe, visit international schools, and to re-connect with one of my best friends, who happens to be a PDS alum." Amy Stover Garofalo '75, who has been living in Bologna, Italy for many years, was also excited for the opportunity to spend time with a lifelong friend. "Our mothers were very close, and we have been friends since as long as I can remember," Mrs. Ferguson remarked. With trips to Rome, Venice, Milan, Bologna, and the Amalfi Coast, they covered much territory together in Italy. "We picked right up, which was amazing after so many years. It was great to travel together to places neither of us had visited."

Mrs. Ferguson made stops in Lucerne and Lugano, Switzerland, where she visited two international schools. She also met up with former PDS math specialist Judy Williams, who is teaching 1st grade at the TASIS school in Lugano. Mrs. Ferguson was able to observe her class of six students, and even skype with her 2nd grade PDS class on "World Read-Aloud Day." When asked about any differences between the students at the international schools and at PDS, Mrs. Ferguson remarked, "Kids are the same wherever you go. Though the classes are typically smaller, we are fast becoming a global learning community. Kids are, and should be talking with kids all over the world. We have the technology, and our students should commit to this global approach to learning."

A Legacy of Service: Semper Luceat

Head of School Paul J. Stellato rededicated a new "Legacy of Service" plaque on August 27th to the entire faculty and staff. The plaque, which honors faculty and staff who have devoted 20 or more years of service to the school was originally dedicated in 1984. Mr. Stellato remarked, "This tribute recognizes the distinguished men and women who have served students of Miss Fine's School, Princeton Country Day School, and Princeton Day School. They have dedicated themselves to the education of young people, instilling in them knowledge and curiosity to guide their life-long pursuit of learning." Pictured here cutting the ribbon are longtime faculty members Rink Coordinator Harry Rulon-Miller '51, US Photography teacher Eileen Hohmuth-Lemonick, US History teacher Eamon Downey, and MS Math teacher John Howe.

Celebrates Six Coaches of the Year

Ray O'Brien, Lorna Gifis-Cook, Rob Tuckman, Mika Ryan, Paris McLean '00, and Scott Bertoli

For the 2011-2012 season, Princeton Day School boasted an impressive showing with six of our coaches nabbing the top spot in the local papers. PDS Coaches of the Year for 2011-2012 included Scott Bertoli, Boys Ice Hockey; Lorna Gifis-Cook, Girls Ice Hockey; Paris McLean '00, Boys Basketball; Ray O'Brien, Boys Baseball; Mika Ryan, Girls Basketball; and Rob Tuckman, Boys Lacrosse. Just how did it feel for each of these coaches to receive the top honor? Below are excerpts from a recent interview.

By KATHRYN ROSKO

How did you react when you were named coach of the year last season?

Scott Bertoli: Coaching recognitions like this are more a reflection on how well your team performed throughout the year than they are about how a certain coach performed. It was gratifying to know that our boys varsity team was recognized for having an outstanding season.

Ray O'Brien: I felt an immediate sense of pride. Assistant Coaches Brian Dudeck, Kevin Schneider and Matt Russo did an outstanding job this year. The senior class had a number of talented players and leaders that meshed well with the influx of young talent we had.

Rob Tuckman: It was a nice surprise to hear about the honor that was given to our program. As soon as I heard, I called my assistant coaches and shared with them the news as we are a team of coaches and together share in the successes and failures that come our way.

Paris McLean: Humbling.... There are fantastic coaches throughout this county who have put years of hard work in on and off the court, so to be recognized among them is a blessing.

Lorna Gifis-Cook: With a new coaching staff, there were a lot of unknowns when the season began. The dedication and support we received from the players and parents all season allowed for a smooth transition. This recognition at the end of the season was possible because I had a fantastic group to work with every day.

What was the most exciting moment of last season?

Coach Tuckman: Our run in the county tournament was a lot of fun for the team and school. Two overtime wins, one against our crosstown rivals Princeton High School, gave us an opportunity to play for the county championships as a seventh seed. While we came up short against a very strong number one-seeded Hopewell, we turned some heads and showed that PDS lacrosse is back and ready to steal some banners.

Mika Ryan: Beating West Windsor Plainsboro in the Mercer County Tournament. We were the #12 seed and they were the #5 seed. We came back from 11 points down in the 3rd quarter to win by two points.

Coach Bertoli: Renewing our storied rivalry with Lawrenceville School—in front of a standing room only crowd, the Panthers and Big Red skated to a 2-2 tie.

Coach McLean: An easy answer would be reaching the Prep B finals. However, behind the scenes, people may not have realized that we accomplished this with only one returning starter and only two full-time varsity players from the year before. I was pleased with how our team and coaching staff pulled together for one of the most successful campaigns in recent years.

Coach Cook: Our season ended with a trip to Pittsburgh where we played our best team hockey of the year to win the B bracket championship. Having fun and playing so well at the end of the season was the ultimate sense of accomplishment for our team.

Coach O'Brien: Sweeping (Prep A)—Peddie, Blair, Hun and Lawrenceville Pre—was probably the highlight of our season.

How long have you been a coach?

Coach Ryan: I've been coaching on some level since 1977.

Coach O'Brien: I have been coaching for about 20 years.

Coach Tuckman: This past season was my 9th at PDS and my 18th as a lacrosse coach.

Coach Bertoli: In varying capacities, I've been a coach for 11-12 years: working hockey schools, running youth hockey clinics and coaching travel teams.

Coach McLean: I am starting my 9th year here at PDS and 6th as Head Coach.

Coach Cook: After graduating from college in 2005, I began coaching the following season. I am entering my eighth season.

What made you want to be a coach?

Coach Bertoli: Hockey is such a big part of who I am, and something I've grown up with.... Getting involved in coaching was a natural progression. Additionally, I enjoy working with kids, especially the motivated student-athletes that we have at PDS.

Coach Tuckman: Over my career as an athlete I have had many great coaches, all of which have made an impact on who I am today. Being coach to me means guiding a team and individuals into learning and understanding themselves in ways that they might not have been able to otherwise. To share your passion for something (whatever it might be) and to have a willing and motivated audience is an incredible feeling and is what makes coaching such a pleasure.

Coach Cook: Playing hockey created opportunities and taught me invaluable life skills. Coaching allows me to stay involved with the game I love and pass on my knowledge to others. I enjoy working with young athletes to help them fulfill their potential on and off the ice.

Coach McLean: Playing and coaching go hand in hand. I had excellent coaches at both the high school and collegiate levels. My goal is to pass down and share my knowledge with current players.

What do you think makes a coach successful?

Coach Ryan: There are so many things that go into a successful career but if I had to name a quality that topped the list, it would be the ability to communicate with your players.

16 Coach Bertoli: I've played for a number of great coaches who have gone on to reach the highest level in the game and become successful coaches in the National Hockey League. All of them were successful, first and foremost, because they could relate to the players.... trust and respect need to go both ways between players and coaches.

Coach Tuckman: Good coaching, like anything else, is developed overtime through a lot of trial and error. Self evaluation at the end of every season is critical in understanding your role on your team. The psychology of the athlete is ever changing, having an understanding of the type of athlete that you are coaching is important in leading your players to become the best that they can be.

Coach McLean: A successful coach is not determined by just wins and losses. While it is great to win and the feeling of winning is infectious, it is not the bottom line. As a coach, the goal is to help mold young men who are responsible, thoughtful, caring, and successful on and off the court.

Coach O'Brien: Players are successful when they are confident. A coach's job is to help instill that confidence in every player.

Coach Cook: Passion and communication are crucial skills for a successful coach. The most important thing is to understand how to best communicate with each player to make sure the game is fun. When the passion shows through from the coach, the players feel that and everyone is more driven to give their full effort for themselves and their teammates.

What do you think makes student-athletes at PDS unique?

Coach Tuckman: We have a saying on our team: "if you want to be a student-athlete, you have to be a student first." Student athletes at PDS are unique in many ways but their ability to manage the high demands in the classroom coupled with their athletic interests puts them in a category of their own. When it comes to college athletic recruitment, it is a strong selling point to college coaches that our athletes are well prepared in the classroom and have an innate commitment to their academics as well as their sport.

Coach O'Brien: They have so many other interests outside of sports. The players know that academics will always come first. They juggle the workload, make the commitment to the team and still manage to be involved in a number of other activities.

Coach Cook: In addition to their success in the classroom and in their sports, the student-athletes at PDS are positive role models in the community. They work hard and show respect for their teachers, coaches, teammates and opponents, receiving respect in return.

Coach McLean: A PDS student-athlete is unique because they have the ability to balance many aspects of life. This balance of academics, athletics, the arts, or any other personal ventures carries over into adult life. I reflect fondly back on my days as a PDS student-athlete—it helped launch me into a successful collegiate career academically and athletically.

Coach Ryan: PDS student-athletes are the most unique I have ever coached, in large part, because they are so highly motivated to succeed.

What is your favorite place on the PDS campus to be with your team?

Coach Ryan: My favorite place to be with my team is on the basketball court, of course!

Coach O'Brien: The dugout or batting cage. I love those opportunities to talk baseball with the players.

Coach Tuckman: The Bob Krueger Memorial (the rock adjacent to Krueger field) is a place we tend to bring the team when we are entering into post-season and want to remind our players of the history of greatness of PDS. Under the leadership and coaching of Bob Krueger, PDS lacrosse was able to excel, it is that greatness that we strive to achieve again.

Coach McLean: In the team room. Everything starts and ends there. We prep for our games and we handle our post game there. We watch film together, handle team issues, or even just watch movies there together. It is important to us all because it is time well spent....together.

What is your most memorable moment as a coach?

Coach Tuckman: The 2011 Season, first day of practice: After a winter of traveling to and from the hospital with my wife as she received treatment for breast cancer, and not knowing whether I would be able to coach or not, the first day of practice came and I found myself on the field coaching again and doing what I loved. Practice was called for 9:00am and by 9:10 the team still hadn't showed up on the field. Being eager and anxious, my emotions were starting to heat up. As a team and with great pride and commitment, the 2011 boys lacrosse team finally entered the field draped in pink showing their support for my wife and our family. It was then that I realized the power of athletics and that the game itself was secondary to all the lessons learned throughout a season.

8.23.12

Coach Ryan: My most memorable season was undoubtedly this past year. It was a special group of young women and I was lucky to be a part of their season.

Coach McLean: Beating Pennington my first year as head coach. They had knocked us off three times the year before, and we walked into their place and won 70-60. There was a huge headline in the paper which read "Panthers on the Prowl." I knew this helped with our team's confidence.

Coach O'Brien: Watching the 2010 teams dog pile after winning the State Championship.

Coach Cook: My most memorable moment was the night last season when our opponent didn't show up for a scheduled home game, so we held a competition of our own with trios creating, practicing and performing dance routines on the ice in full gear. Though it was disappointing to not have a game, the team bonding that took place instead was so beneficial for our season.

What are your future goals for your team?

Coach O'Brien: Every year, it's a new team with a different personality and talent level. We stay consistent in our major goals and player expectations. It's all about the team and each player's individual journey to become part of it. It's always fun to watch each player learn the importance of becoming a good teammate.

Coach Cook: Every season has a different look to it and a coach's expectations for wins and losses will change from year to year. However, the more fundamental goals remain the same. I want to look back at the season and feel good about what we accomplished as a team and I want every player to feel that the season was fun, they gave every practice and game their best, and improved as a result. The more result-driven goal is to work our way up in the league rankings, so we can attract more players and continue to build the program at PDS.

Coach Bertoli: To keep the program moving forward, continuing to attract and develop outstanding student-athletes and remain relevant as a quality program for aspiring local hockey players.

Coach McLean: To continue to develop positive young men who contribute to the overall growth and betterment of PDS as an institution. Wins will come, championships will come, recognition will come if we continue to do things the right way. We have proven this over the years.

Coach Tuckman: To continue what we have started. The boys lacrosse program is moving in the right direction where our athletes and coaches are being recognized for all the hard work that we have put forth for many years. Our players are continuing lacrosse in the college ranks, playing on high level club teams in the off season and making a name for the school. As banners start to fly we hope to bring the PDS lacrosse program back to the "days of Krueger."

Coach Ryan: Our goals are pretty much the same, year in and year out, PLAY HARD and PLAY SMART.

On September 21, 2012, Princeton Day School celebrated the official reopening of Jan Baker Field, now a new, state-of-the-art artificial turf field. The PDS Community enjoyed the afternoon event, which included remarks from Head of School Paul Stellato and Director of Athletics Tim Williams, followed by a ribbon-cutting over the new field. The crowd was then treated to an inaugural varsity field hockey game between the Panthers and the Academy of the New Church. The dimensions of the new field are 240' x 370', which allows for two teams to practice side by side, and is lined for field hockey, lacrosse, and soccer. Princeton Day School worked with the Clark Companies on the project, which broke ground in mid-July, and was completed by September. Jan Baker Field features FieldTurf technology, the same artificial turf technology used by top public and private high schools, and colleges and universities around the country, including the Lawrenceville School and Princeton University. This new field, now the second turf field on campus (Smoyer Field was opened in the fall of 2004), was made possible through the generosity of parents and alumni. As Mr. Stellato remarked at the ceremony, "the renovation and expansion of this turf field exemplifies Princeton Day School's deep commitment to its student-athletes."

From the Archives: A Century of Athletic Opportunities

May Margaret Fine established her school in 1899 to prepare young women for college. It was a radical idea when fewer than 12% of the nation's children, mostly boys, were enrolled in any school at all. From the beginning, she understood the importance of fresh air and exercise and would often enter a classroom, throw open the windows and exhort her pupils to "breathe deeply." She incorporated sports into the curriculum at a time when athletic opportunities for girls were extremely limited. Girls at MFS were exposed to an enviable range of sports that included field hockey, basketball, badminton, volleyball, baseball, softball, archery, lacrosse and tennis.

Athletics were also an important part of the curriculum at Princeton Junior School for Boys and its successor, Princeton Country Day School. The boys benefitted from a close association with Princeton University, which not only made buildings and land available to the schools, but shared its athletic facilities, its fields and even its coaches. PCD boys grew up watching top collegiate competition and developed high expectations themselves.

By the time MFS and PCD merged in 1965, an extraordinary number of alumni from both schools had found athletic success in prep school, college and beyond. Princeton Day School has built on that athletic tradition and continues to honor it today.

Princeton Day School opened in September 1965 with 625 students. A year later, its first rink was completed at a cost of $610,000, funded by PDS parents and members of the Princeton Skating Club. It had a roof but was open on three sides. The facility was replaced in 1998 with the $3 million Lisa McGraw Webster '44 Skating Rink.

MFS students took mimeographed game schedules home to their parents although very few watched the games. Some alumnae played sports in college although interscholastic competition was limited. Today the PDS Athletic Department communicates with parents primarily online (www.pds.org) where schedules and teams are posted, and the bleachers are packed.

In 1919, Miss Fine moved her school to the former Princeton Inn on the corner of Stockton Street and Bayard Lane. The large building and adjoining lawn allowed space for physical education and sports to become part of the curriculum. Calisthenics were practiced indoors and out. [top left, 1924]

Intramural Blue/Gray athletic competitions were held at MFS. The field hockey team shown above captured the cup for the Blues in 1925. [top right, 1925] At PCD, the rivalry was between Blues and Whites (as it is at PDS) and boys competed in both athletics and academics.

In 1925, MFS converted a former basement kitchen into a gym with donations from Ariovistus and Mary Winans Pardee, a 1906 alumna. Girls gamely dribbled basketballs around the support columns and ducked low-hanging pipes. The few interscholastic contests were held off-campus at other schools. In 1949, on the occasion of the school's 50th anniversary, MFS added a gym/auditorium for a cost of $83,000. [1939]

In 1930, PJS completed construction of a new school on Broadmead on land purchased from Princeton University and changed its name to Princeton Country Day School. The boys used the University fields for baseball, soccer and football, and were given ice time at Baker Rink. [PCD baseball, top left, 1952]

All PCD boys played ice hockey at Baker Rink, many under the tutelage of the University's legendary coach Dick Vaughn, as well as PCD faculty members. On half days during the winter, MFS girls joined the boys at the rink for free skating. The entire PCD student body was transported to Carnegie Lake whenever it froze to enjoy the natural ice. [PCD hockey, top right, 1958]

PCD had no gym in the early days so indoor sports were played at other schools. In 1948, however, its Building Fund Committee, chaired by John H. Wallace, raised the money to build an addition consisting of a gym and a stage for musical and theatrical productions. [PCD basketball, bottom right, 1950]

In 1973, PDS fielded its first girls' soccer team, causing a major reshuffling of talent available for girls' fall sports and increasing the demands on the available playing fields. [left, 1975]

Boys' lacrosse was first played on PDS' Pagoda fields. [right, date unknown] Today, the school fields 63 teams in 24 different sports and boasts two turf fields (read about the newly opened Jan Baker Turf Field on pg. 17) and five natural surfaces. 75% of students participate in at least one sport.

SPOTLIGHT ON ALUMNI Randy Melville '77

By Kathryn Rosko

Randolph (Randy) Melville '77 has had a long, storied, and quite remarkable relationship with Princeton Day School. Mr. Melville came to PDS as a sophomore and became what can only be described as a basketball superstar. In his junior and senior years, he was named PDS MVP, tournament MVP, and First Team All State Prep B, and was also the first basketball player at PDS to score 1000 points in his three years at the school. After graduation, he went to Princeton University, where he was team captain, a leading scorer and rebounder, and ultimately voted NJ Division 1 College Player of the year by sportswriters.

In 1989, PDS awarded Mr. Melville the Alumni Achievement Award for his work with young children, beginning with his work as a TAP (Teaching Assistance Program) student at PDS, and his subsequent volunteer efforts at Princeton University in the Big Brother program. From 1991-1993, Mr. Melville served as a Trustee at Princeton Day School, and in 1999, was inducted into the PDS Athletic Hall of Fame. He is the only PDS graduate to be honored with both the Hall of Fame induction and the Alumni Achievement Award. Since then, Mr. Melville has traveled a long way from the Great Road and, indeed Princeton, and is currently based in Plano, Texas, where he lives with his family, serving as Senior Vice President & General Manager of the Central Business Unit at Frito-Lay North America.

As Princeton Day School shines the spotlight on our athletics program in this issue of the Journal, as well as the importance of being both a dedicated student and athlete, it seemed only fitting to catch up with Mr. Melville.

“Sports were such a big part of shaping who I am today,” he remarked in a recent conversation. “When I was 15 or 16, I thought about what I wanted to do with my life and decided that I’d become an NBA player. Easy, right? Then, I got injured in the summer of my junior year, and really started thinking that I needed a different plan.” Coming to Princeton Day School was a game changer for Mr. Melville. Different parts of his personality emerged and he realized that he was more than just an athlete. “It was the first time that I had to compete intellectually,” he noted.

It often seems that one particular teacher has a significant influence on a student, and Mr. Melville, without hesitation, mentioned that his English/Literature teacher Claire Lockhart was very influential during his years at PDS. Mr. Melville recalls, “I’ll never forget Ms. Lockhart saying to me: ‘Randy, I’m not going to let you be an average student.’ She stayed on me. She saw things in me that I didn’t see.” In addition, Head of Upper School Sandy Bing made an impact on him. Mr. Melville noted that Mr. Bing brought athletics and academics together for him in a new way, and he advised young Randy to never forget where he came from. “And Sandy Bing was the only one, besides my family, who got to call me Randolph!”

As nearly every student-athlete knows, juggling academics and athletics can be challenging. It was especially hard for Mr. Melville, who attended the Trenton public schools through the 9th grade before coming to PDS. He remembers, “When I came to PDS, it was sort of like going to Mars. In my first year, in particular, it was just so different. One of the biggest challenges for me was free time. It sounds funny now, but my time in public school had been so regimented, so scheduled. I remember at one of my first free periods, I was at a loss, so I went to see Ms. Lockhart. I remember asking her, ‘What am I supposed to do now in my free time?’ Ms. Lockhart looked at me and said, ‘Randy, you can go to the language lab, the library, or even go to sleep if you like. You have to make that decision.’ I was actually dumbfounded! It was then that I started learning about personal accountability and time management, and I ultimately learned how to make my own decisions.” Those lessons came in handy when Mr. Melville graduated from PDS and headed off to Princeton. “By the time I graduated, I knew that I’d be able to compete athletically, but also intellectually.”

Mr. Melville has three sons, who all played basketball in high school and have gone on to compete in college. “One son went on to Colgate, one to Dartmouth, and one, a recent high school graduate, is heading to Rider this year. All three of my sons learned life lessons juggling athletics and academics in their school years,” remarked Mr. Melville. Interestingly, his sons’ experiences were quite similar to his own, and he would often have the opportunity to share some lessons he learned during his time at PDS with them. Mr. Melville shared a story about his oldest son. “My son Sterling, who was a McDonald’s All American Nominee, got injured once he got into Colgate. He was so eager to get back on the courts that he played too soon before the injury had fully healed, and wasn’t playing at the top of his game. Because his time on the courts had diminished, he thought about transferring to another school, not of the same caliber as Colgate, but one where he would get more play time. Though I had my own strong thoughts about what path he should take, I talked to him about lessons I learned at PDS—about independent thinking and personal accountability. I wanted him to make the decision for himself, but told him, ‘This is not a today decision, it is a 10-year decision.’ He ultimately decided to stay at Colgate and felt very good about his decision.”

At the close of our conversation, talk turned to the mission of Princeton Day School: to nurture the mind, the body, and the character of each student. As someone who excelled in athletics but also became very committed to volunteering his time to help children, I asked about Mr. Melville’s experiences being a TAP student. He recalled, “Remembering my time as a TAP student brought back so many fond memories for me. Ms. Lockhart suggested that I volunteer with TAP, as she thought my role as an athlete would make me a good role model to the young kids. I worked with Sara Schwiebert and Nancy Miller ’57, and would come into the kindergarten class to work with the kids. One day, as it happens, there was a snake in the classroom. I caught it, and suddenly understood the power of a role model! I was a hero.” As it turns out, Mr. Melville’s favorite PDS memory is connected with his TAP experiences. “My absolute favorite memory came after I graduated from PDS, actually. I was set to play my first game as a freshman at Princeton University, and Ms. Miller brought her entire kindergarten class to my game. I was totally surprised and very touched. And to make it even better, they had made a huge sign that said ‘Randy’s Rooters.’ They cheered for me the entire game. This memory truly illustrates what a special, special school PDS is. Even today, all these years later, I think about how much I love PDS!”

PANTHER PRIDE:

Recent Student-Athlete Graduates Excelling in College and Beyond

23

Mariel Jenkins '09, Harvard University, Women's Lacrosse, Defensive Midfield

A highlight from post-PDS career: "We beat Princeton this year to knock them out of the Ivy Tournament for the first time!"

How PDS led me here: "I owe PDS for teaching me how to balance my academics with athletics; it was at PDS that I really learned to be a student-athlete. It is usually a struggle to jump from high school to college sports and still manage to have a healthy balance. Both the teachers and coaching staff alike at PDS made sure that we were 110% invested in our school work, but also excelled at our extracurriculars. Each party was supportive on and off the field, which made balance that much easier."

Favorite PDS memory: "Having the opportunity to travel to Australia with the PDS Field Hockey team my freshman year to compete against national teams!"

Nota Bene: Sister and fellow PDS student-athlete Sydney Jenkins '11 is currently playing Women's Field Hockey at Harvard as a Midfielder. She was named Ivy League Rookie Player of the Week last fall.

Ali Reilly '11, Brown University, Women's Soccer, Center Midfield

A highlight from post-PDS athletics career: "I'd have to say that my highlight so far was when I scored in my first collegiate soccer game. I was so nervous coming off the bench into our opening game at Liberty University but I ended up getting in position to put the ball in the net. A teammate of mine passed the ball back to me on the six yard box from the end line and I redirected it in. It was a great way to start off my college career."

How PDS led me here: "My experience at PDS was defined by the people there who have helped me grow and see the world through new perspectives. PDS would not be the institution it is without its remarkable faculty. My teachers challenged me, supported me, and ultimately became my friends. The most important thing that I learned during my time at PDS was that when you take the time to get to know your professors or any other teaching figure, you learn so much more and that extra effort is worth the while. I could not be more thankful for the teachers I had while at PDS."

Favorite PDS memory: "I cannot pinpoint one memory of PDS as my favorite, but that is a result of enjoying all the little moments. In an intimate community like PDS you get to truly indulge in the moment and spend time with students and faculty. My favorite moments include awesome class discussions, hanging out with my friends during free periods in the theater lobby, and meeting with my teachers."

Neil Karandikar '10, University of Chicago, Tennis

A highlight from post-PDS athletics career: "One of the biggest highlights of my post-PDS athletics career was making the NCAA tennis tournament in my freshman year. We were borderline in terms of making the tournament for most of the year and it was a big accomplishment for our program when we found out that we had been selected."

How PDS led me here: "I think that my experiences at PDS taught me a lot both on and off the court. I especially learned to be disciplined in the classroom and on the athletics field and to manage my time effectively. Both are skills that continue to be important for me today."

Favorite PDS memory: "My fondest memory of PDS would have to be playing on the tennis team all four years. I enjoyed the team aspect of the experience and the opportunity to be teammates with some very good players along the way."

Jess Frieder '11, Dartmouth College, Women's Lacrosse, Goalie

A highlight from post-PDS career: "That would be when my team won the Ivy League Tournament and advanced to the NCAA tournament this past season."

How PDS led me here: "Through my experiences at PDS, I learned how to be a true teammate and a respected leader. I had great coaches and teachers that led me to where I am today as a student-athlete."

Favorite PDS memory: "I have so many great sports memories at PDS. In soccer, winning the Prep B Championship my sophomore and senior year was incredibly exciting. Another great sports moment was when we won the Mercer County Tournament in lacrosse. Leading up to the championship, we defeated Hopewell in the semi-finals after a 4-year drought against them. We also advanced to the Prep A finals the same season by defeating some of the toughest Prep teams in the state."

Maxime Hoppenot '11, Tufts University, Men's Soccer, Forward

How PDS led me here: "I feel like PDS gave me the ability to be academically available to many coaches while I was being recruited which was helpful and PDS also made me more responsible in terms of planning out my free time."

Favorite PDS memory: "My fondest memory of PDS is winning the Mercer County title my senior year."

Antoine Hoppenot '08, Philadelphia Union (MLS), Men's Soccer, Forward

Antoine Hoppenot played soccer for Princeton University when he graduated from PDS, and had an exceptional career at the University. He earned All-Ivy League recognition each of his four years and was honored as the Ivy Player of the Year in 2010, as a junior, when he helped the Tigers take the league title. In February 2012, Hoppenot achieved the dream of many student-athletes and was drafted by the Philadelphia Union, a major league soccer team. Going from a fan to a player on the team has proved to be a transformative experience. In a recent interview with Town Topics, Hoppenot remarked, "I am trying to figure out what being a pro means; it is tough going from a four-month season in college to 9-and-a-half months in the pros. I am learning more about stretching, nutrition, and rest. I have a lot to improve on...." Perhaps, but with a strong record already in place, Hoppenot seems to have made the shift from student-athlete to bona fide sports star.

Davon Reed '13: Looking Back and Moving Forward By Kathryn Rosko

Davon Reed '13 has been a basketball phenomenon since coming to Princeton Day School as a freshman. He racked up 1000 points in three years, and picked up many accolades along the way due to his prowess on the court (see Rising Stars of PDS on page 7 for some recent accomplishments). He is also a strong student, a team player, and a grounded individual who both appreciates his experiences at PDS and looks forward to his future.

“There has been nothing but growth for me at PDS from the time I stepped foot in the building until my final year at school in both the classroom and on the basketball court,” remarked Reed recently. He has become an honor role student after adjusting to his rigorous academic schedule, and is now the recipient of 20+ scholarship offers to play basketball next year.

Juggling schoolwork and courtwork definitely takes finesse. “It took me until last year to figure out the best strategy,” noted Reed. “The key is to take advantage of your free periods as much as possible. If I knock out as much work as possible during the day, I have enough time to work out after school and study, or finish up the rest of my work later on that night.”

A highpoint of his PDS career? “That would have to be scoring my thousandth point. It took a lot of hard work and I’m so happy I was able to achieve it in my junior year,” remarked Reed. He also shared a fond PDS memory from further back: “My fondest PDS memory was the Peer Group retreat my freshman year. Seeing my whole grade grow together and have fun under the instruction of senior leaders made me realize what PDS was really about. I’m so excited to be a peer leader this year and give the incoming freshman the same experience that I was fortunate enough to experience.”

The future for Davon Reed looks especially bright. Reed will officially make his college decision this fall, but he has narrowed it down. “This fall, I will be take three official visits to Wake Forrest, University of Miami, and Xavier University. Once I finish my visit and evaluate everything, I will be deciding where I want to attend school by the end of October.” Wherever he goes, rest assured this Panther superstar will continue to impress.

REPORT FROM THE Chair of the Board of Trustees

“While this is my 12th year on the board, I begin my first year as Board Chair. I have deep affection for this school and am honored to serve a place that I believe in so deeply.”

The energy at Princeton Day School the last few weeks has been extraordinary. A few days before school, I was on campus waiting in the car for my children to make a last-minute dash to the bookstore just as New Student Orientation was concluding. I watched PDS's newest students strolling with their parents to their cars with a spring in their steps—especially the little ones who were joyfully bounding and skipping, smiles lighting up their faces, happy to be at their new school. This was a moment that will never be repeated for them; they were brand new students for those few hours, and now they are part of the Princeton Day School family.

Students, teachers, and staff recognize the promise of a new academic year filled with so many opportunities. It is a time of resolutions and clean starts. This fall marks a new beginning for me, as well. While this is my 12th year on the board, I begin my first year as Board Chair. I have deep affection for this school and am honored to serve a place that I believe in so deeply. I am looking forward to working with my fellow trustees and Head of School Paul Stellato to advance initiatives that will build on our school's strengths and proud history. As we look to the future, we do so with the leadership of one of the finest heads of school in the country, outstanding and dedicated faculty and administrators, motivated and inquisitive students, wonderful facilities, and financial stability.

Over the last year, the Board of Trustees, in partnership with Paul Stellato, has been exploring long-range initiatives in support of the school's mission, programs, and financial sustainability. The board has been reviewing and assessing our campus and facility needs. In addition, we have been engaged in an ongoing analysis of the financial sustainability plan, which suggests an increased need for financial aid funding. In response to this review, the board and Paul, alongside students, faculty, administrators, and outside consultants, have been researching four potential initiatives: a new campus master plan, including vehicular and pedestrian circulation and outdoor gathering spaces; the renovation of Colross for our Admissions, Alumni and Advancement efforts; facilities to support expanded and new programs in athletics, performing arts, and music; and finally, a financial aid task force has been working to determine the additional level of support for need-based financial aid.

This fall, the board will continue their research and evaluate the feasibility of the four initiatives. Later in the year, we will select which projects to embark upon from the initiatives we have researched, prioritize them, and develop a 10-year phasing plan. We are striving to create a comprehensive vision that responsibly plans for the growth and stewardship of our campus, while allowing for financial sustainability and building upon our rich history and tradition. It is very exciting to be part of this outstanding independent school at this time in the school's history, and like the Lower School students who were literally bouncing with anticipation after Orientation, I am eager and enthusiastic about the meaningful work of the board in the months ahead.

We Thank Our Departing Trustees for Their Inspiring and Dedicated Service

Peter M. Fasolo “I have had the honor to work with so many dedicated and committed trustees during my tenure on the PDS board. These men and women work tirelessly, sharing their gifts behind the scenes for one purpose only—to ensure we have the most academically prepared and socially aware students to lead in a changing world. On a personal level, I want to thank the board, faculty, administration and the entire PDS community for the privilege of serving and for their friendship.”

Laura Hanson “Serving on the PDS board for seven years was a privilege. It was rewarding to work beside a group of smart, professional, and devoted individuals—all committed to the long term health of the institution. I truly admired and enjoyed the company of my fellow trustees. Further, I was continually impressed by Paul Stellato, the administration, faculty and staff. Now that my children have graduated from PDS and I have retired from the board, I am truly going to miss my daily connection. I’ll be back to cheer on the teams and support other events.”

Jill Mundenaar “Being a member of the Board of Trustees was a truly rewarding experience. I had the opportunity to work with extremely talented, intelligent, and dedicated people who all share the same goal: the goal of making Princeton Day School the best independent private day school.”

C. Treby McLaughlin Williams '80 “Serving as a member and chair of the PDS Board of Trustees was a privilege and a joy. The dedication of my fellow trustees, Paul Stellato’s passion for the school, the faculty and staff commitment to the students’ growth and the students’ deep engagement in the PDS experience provided daily inspiration. The school is stronger than ever and I look forward to being an active PDS community member for years to come.”

MESSAGE FROM The Advancement Office

There is perhaps no better indication of the vitality and strength of Princeton Day School than the following pages of individuals, corporations, and foundations who have chosen to support our school. It is within these pages that you will see a true representation of our community who show their support by generously contributing to the school. I am struck by both the magnitude of our community's generosity and the sheer number of those who have participated. The students and faculty of Princeton Day School benefit each and every day from the generosity of so many, and it's my pleasure to acknowledge their support in this year's Annual Report.

Thanks to you, we had a record-breaking year of fundraising. The Annual Fund, which provides unrestricted support of our school, met and exceeded our goal raising $1,375,692. This is the most the school has ever raised for the Annual Fund. In fact, overall, the school received $6,865,000 in gifts and payments on existing pledges. We were able to support the arts, sustainability, technology, athletics, and our faculty through the generosity of designated gifts above and beyond the Annual Fund.

To our many volunteers who help us reach our parents, alumni, grandparents and friends, I offer my special thanks. Simply put, we could not do our work without your volunteer efforts. Our school benefits from your time and energy and we are grateful for your help.

To all who have helped make 2011-2012 such a successful year, thank you for helping us serve the students of this community. Thank you for choosing to make a difference at Princeton Day School.

Sincerely,

Kathy Schulte
Director of Advancement

The following individuals, families, foundations and corporations have made contributions from July 2011 to June 2012. Princeton Day School wishes to acknowledge their generosity and commitment to providing outstanding educational opportunities for our students.

The May Margaret Fine Society

Established in 1998, the May Margaret Fine Society recognizes those loyal alumnae/i, parents and friends who have informed the Advancement Office that they have made provisions for Princeton Day School in their estate plans. We recognize that this is a partial listing, and ask those who have taken this important step to inform the Advancement Office and have their name(s) added to this list.

Including the school in their will, establishing a charitable trust while maintaining life income, or naming the school as a life insurance beneficiary are some of the ways these individuals have helped secure the long-term strength of Princeton Day School.

Tracey Gates
Director of Alumni Relations

As we enter the holiday season, the Alumni Board is kicking into overdrive. So far this year, we have hosted successful alumni events in New York and Philadelphia, and over the coming months, we are looking forward to gatherings in Boston, Princeton, New York and Washington D.C. We are still finalizing the calendar, so if there are other locations that we should consider, please do not hesitate to contact any of the Alumni Board members.

For those of you planning to be in Princeton for Thanksgiving, please join us at PDS for our annual Thanksgiving Games on Friday, November 23rd. This year's festivities will feature alumni hockey, soccer, and basketball games, and a family skate at the Lisa McGraw '44 Ice Rink. Young alums, don't miss our 5th annual Young Alumni Pub Night at The Nassau Inn Tap Room in Princeton on Friday, December 21st.

We are excited to welcome our four new members to the board: Barbara Rose MFS '64, Mark Egner '82, Arianna Rosati '88, and Justin Revelle '03. Our newest members, along with the rest of the board, are working hard to represent our alumni with creative ideas and enthusiasm. Our goal is to help you stay connected to your alma mater!

For more information about all of our upcoming events, to see all of your Alumni Board representatives, and stay connected with our alumni community, please visit our website at www.pds.org. There is a Class Notes feature, where you can share what is new in your life and check to see how your classmates are doing. Additionally, you can also find us on Facebook at PDS Alums.

We are always looking for creative and different venues and events, and we welcome your ideas. Please get in touch with Director of Alumni Relations, Tracey Gates, at tgates@pds.org if you have an idea to share or are interested in hosting an event.

I look forward to welcoming you at our events this year!

Benjamin M. Frost '92
President, Alumni Board

A group of parents from the Class of '03 have been gathering for 10 years now to stay connected to each other and continue to learn about all the wonderful things the kids are doing. Sometimes the kids even join them, but they are all far afield this year.

The annual barbecue is hosted by Dottie and Joe Highland, parents of three PDS alumni: Rebecca, Michael '03, and Vladi.

The others in the picture are from left to right: Etienne Perold and Stephanie Perold (parents of Nick '03, and also Aniella '07) Lisa Schmucki (mother of Eleanor Oakes '03) Jim Alsup (father of Alex '03 and also Claire '07) Vince Gentile and Pat Pickrel (Parents of Andrew '03 and Daniel '07), Richard and Diane Dreher (parents of Rich '03, and also Ryan '07 and Dylan '09) Dottie and Joe Highland (parents of Michael '03, Rebecca '95 and Vladi '11), Laurie Smaldone (mother of Alex Alsup '03 and Claire '02)

Ruth Druck Ward's life has included a lot of travel and living in interesting places – on army bases and in Japan, Rome and Washington, DC. She and her husband retired to Mt. Holly, where her son still lives, and then moved to a retirement spot in Whiting, NJ. Her husband died nine years ago, and she says she keeps active and enjoys visits with her daughter and grandchildren. It was good to get a phone call from her after 72 years!

Joanne Sly Hicks died in Florida February 19 of this year after a brief illness. She is survived by her husband Lige and their children, including daughter, Joanne Hicks Robblee, who wrote to say, 'I know how much Miss Fine's School meant to my mother and how much she valued the friendships she made while there.' I visited Joanne and Lige a couple of times in Sarasota, and I will never forget their hospitality and the zest with which they enjoyed their retirement life.

Louise Russell Irving was a member of our class in the very early years – she said she can be seen in a picture of Ann Tomlinson's birthday party in 1928. Louise lives again in Princeton; it would be nice to meet her.

I just talked to Peggy Munro Griffin; she is having a wonderful time with visiting family at her house on Cape Cod. She and Hase are both very well and active, and Peggy manages to get in a lot of sailing with her children and grandchildren.

It was good to receive an email from Alice Northrop Robbins who says she is doing OK. 'The only thing of note lately is my nice long (6-week) stay in my house on the coast of Maine with my two daughters and a son-in-law there at various times. We all love the place: the views of Frenchman Bay and the Mt. Desert mountains and the spruce and balsam trees.'

I just phoned someone in my UU congregation, who turns out to be Jean Williamson's niece. I'll meet her in a couple of weeks and have news of another classmate.

Molly Grover Shallow sent the alumni office the following news:

Molly Shallow lives next to the old ship basin in Key West, Florida. During World War II the basin was home to submarines of U.S. Naval Station Key West. Today, looking from her patio, Molly can see Navy and Coast Guard ships approaching the island as well as an occasional foreign naval vessel moored across the basin on the Outer Mole.

But hers is more than idle looking. Molly is on watch for ships that are due a delivery of books collected by the Friends of the Key West Library. During this past year, with the cooperation of the Navy League's Key West Council, Molly delivered over 900 books to 25 different ships, all in shopping bags of 20 or so volumes, all lugged by foot and car to the ships and their sailors, most of whom are her grandsons' ages. She has been doing this for the past 10 years. One ship's lieutenant wrote: "I am interested to know how without fail one of your representatives [Molly] always shows up almost immediately upon our arrival. It's like magic!"

One can only guess how many crew will read the books, or how many ports the books will visit. One ensign reported that due to an unscheduled extension of patrol, "many crew members realized that they did not pack . . . enough novels to last them the trip, making your donation come at a very useful time!" There is even a reverse "books to shore" possibility. A couple of years ago the manager of a library bookstore in Port Angeles, Washington, reported receiving a bag of Key West "books to ships" as a donation from a Coast Guard cutter that had been sailing out of both ports. And beyond all of this, a rather poignant use of the program is by ships involved in the interdiction of families with children attempting illegal entry to the Keys via the Straits of Florida, many from Cuba and Haiti. To occupy young minds during a very stressful time, Molly provides the interdicting ships with children's books in Spanish and French.

The connection between libraries and United States military ships is long and admirable. According to Charles A. Seavey: "By 1910 or thereabouts the presence of libraries on board warships, at least in the US Navy, was simply part of doing business." ("Books for Swabbies: Ship's Libraries in the 'New' Steel Navy, 1880s – 1930s", www.desertsailor.info) Molly Shallow is doing her part to keep this connection strong.

Friends of the Key West Library is curious about whether there are any other "books to ships" programs in military ports of call. If you know of one, please contact Sandy Stover at kwesters@comcast.net.

70 Anna Rosenblad Davies wrote from the south of France that she lives in a small, enclosed 'Domaine' consisting of 5 houses and a swimming pool. Furthermore, that during the summer, she lives in a topless bikini in her garden which is well protected. Anna clearly has lost none of her irrepressible joie de vivre. During her recent vacation in Greece, she eyed the topless, overweight ladies gamboling about the beach and adopting the 'when in Rome, do as the Romans' attitude, Anna said to herself, 'well, if they can do it, so can I.' That's our Anna!

Judy Gihon Leppert shared the news that she now has a great-grandson, born on June 29 in Virginia, and that 'he is already big and handsome.' This is hard to fathom – that any of us are old enough to have a great-grandchild! To my mind, Judy will always be eternally youthful with her petite figure and short blond hair.

Aggie Fulper reported that she had a fun lunch with her nephew, John Andrew Merlino, (her sister Rada's son) when the Brantley Gilbert Band, for which John is lead guitar, performed at the Pavilions in Albuquerque. This band was named 'The Best New Live Act' by American Country Music Awards. Their CD 'Halfway to Heaven' is now a gold record! Aggie adds that she wishes that Rada were still here to witness her son's success.

I was pleased to hear from Helen Keegin Hetherington. Helen wrote 'I and I are still, while we can, living between two countries – six months in South Africa and six months in England (Devon). I refuse to drive the Devon lanes – I'm sure Kathy sympathizes (and maybe still does if her daughter is still here). This has been a joyous summer to be in England, what with the Queen's Jubilee and the Olympics. All concerns about the economy, the recession, football hooliganism and race riots forgotten for a few weeks. Again, I invite any of you who might find yourself in Devon (13 miles from Exeter) or Capetown, to please let us know. We do pretty good tours of historic houses, cathedrals, and Bronze Age settlements in and around Dartmoor or vineyards and mountains in Capetown.'

At my end, I cannot report much that has changed since the spring issue – I'm still enjoying singing in the Encore Creativity for Older Adults Chorale, daily walking of an energetic Labrador Retriever, and keeping very busy with my Pennsylvania farm on weekends!

Aging and a minimum security women's prison; and enjoying children, grandchildren, my partner, and my new puppy. Everyone asks when the next book is coming out – it isn't, but I would like to develop a similar project without the stress of publication and marketing. I hope everyone is doing well at age 75!'

Jeano Crawford wrote that her grandson made it to the Junior Olympics in track and field. No medal, but maybe next year.

Barbara Kohlsaot von Oehsen had a marvelous 75th birthday celebration with her family! They were at their Vermont home, and all 10 grandchildren, four sons and their spouses were there. Barb was thrilled!

Alice Marie Nelson wrote that she and her partner spent a lot of time this summer at their cabin on Lake Swartswood in Sussex County, NJ, where they enjoy sailing and kayaking.

I enjoyed a marvelous river trip in Germany in May! We also went to Prague; Warsaw and Krakow, Poland. Our next trip is scheduled for late November. It is 'Christmas Markets on the Danube' – sounds delightful! We have spent a lot of time at our NH cottage this summer where there are NO 100 degree days! Best wishes to everyone!

Where can we find MFS '56? Everywhere!

This summer's plea for news reached several of our classmates in flight (or near thereto):

Marina Turkevich Naumann wrote 'quickly' as she and Bob 'ready to fly to Paris for a short Seine cruise (Rouen, Giverny, Normandy Beaches, etc. all while sipping complimentary vin) with our caretakers,' Kristin '82 and her Esme (13). Not incidentally Kris (and Esme) recently attended a most happy and touching 30th PDS Reunion in Princeton. Marina looks forward to our 60th in 2016 being 'a biggie at the place we shared and knew/know best.'

Joan Pearce Anselm wrote from Santa Barbara where she and Klaus were judging two dog shows. 'Next week, off to Eastern Europe for a snapshot look at countries from the Danube to the Black Sea. We'll start off in Prague, end up in Odessa. In October, we'll stop off to see Charlotte Harding Cook on Martha's Vineyard; a lot to look forward to!'

Kay Dunn Lyman and Dick were at Logan Airport waiting to take off for a trip to Bryce, Grand, and Zion canyons, when she got my message. 'I've wanted to do this for years,' she wrote. Kay is still hoping for a mini reunion in 2013.

Hobey Alsop Hinchman and Dave 'have just come up for air after having all the grandchildren here and their parents for a month. The girls were in the summer island musical production, which kept them pretty busy.' They were looking forward to a late summer trip to China, 'a Princeton tour with a prof.'

Betsy Thomas Peterson was 'just back from another great trip to Alaska. This one started with an expedition to the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, sponsored by The Nature Conservancy – five days at a base camp, with wonderful hikes in foothills of the Brooks Range. That country has stolen my heart. The big picture of that landscape is so spare—no trees except willow shrubs by the rivers. But in detail the plant life is amazingly varied—30 kinds of plants in bloom within a few feet, the biggest only a few inches high.

'That expedition was quite a contrast to the second, a river trip in the St. Elias-Wrangell National Park south of Anchorage. We had lovely sunny weather in the Arctic; in the mountains it was almost always cloudy and sometimes cold. There were lots of flowers but only 10 or so species in bloom. We had better wildlife sightings in the Arctic, too: a pair of grizzlies across the river, a herd of 50 caribou, a moose guiding her calf up a steep river bank.

'But one of my favorite moments was on the river trip. We stopped to watch a grizzly forage on a hillside—and when I got my turn at the scope, discovered that he was eating the yellow flowers!'

Margy Pacsu Campbell and Cicely Tomlinson Richardson each contributed to a new book published this year:

Margy is one of the interviewees for Remembering Glenn Gould. Twenty Interviews With People Who Knew Him, by Colin Eatock, that was launched on August 15 in Stratford, Ontario 'where we have our theatre festival—Christopher Plummer is doing a one-man show this summer at age 82 among other performances.' Margy's bio can be found on <http://penumbraress.com/interviews/pacsu.php> along with a sound clip which, as she promised, 'is funny.... I seem to be the only funny person among the other 19...hmmm,' she added.

According to her Penumbra Press bio, Margy, a CBC broadcaster for 22 years, knew Glenn Gould in the 1970s when he had an office next to hers. In 1980, their friendship culminated with her playing dual roles in his satirical radio play, A Glenn Gould Fantasy, in which Gould played himself and four fictional characters.

I (Cicely) liken my role in the creation of Voices in the Hills: Collected Ramblings from a Rural Life, by Nessa Flax, to that of a midwife. Launched last spring, this book gives wonderful snapshots of and insights into this area of northern New England that John and I call home.

During my 10 years as managing editor of our local weekly newspaper, one of my more enjoyable tasks was the very hands-on, joint editing of Nessa's weekly column (with Anne Shepherd always peering over my shoulder). Several more years of culling and polishing by the two of us gave birth to this collection that I recommend to all of you.

Margy and I both hope that by now you have run, not walked, to Amazon or your nearest book purveyor in support of our endeavors!

Our 55th Reunion was great! Kudos to Helen Wilmerding, and her husband, Gerald Beale, for hosting our delicious, elegant and fun class dinner catered by Helen's son, Alan Heap, his wife and the grandkids, Caroline, 16, and Brooke, 14 (PDS '15). Thanks also to Ros Webster Perry for initiating a class lunch as well as 'Town and Gown' walk.

Many of us hadn't seen Kinsa Turnbull, our senior class president, fearless leader and infamous songwriter, since our school days. Now retired from teaching high school English in Moorestown, NJ, Kinsa still has her effervescent exuberance.

Paul and Catherine Carter, husband and daughter of Betsy Baker Carter (1939-2009), joined us for dinner from Ridgewood, NJ, and NYC, respectively, and enjoyed catching up with old friends of Betsy's.

Nancy Miller wrote: 'We had a wonderful reunion, seeing classmates from 55 years ago, and laughing about some of our escapades. Helen and Gerald are great hosts and, of course, the food was wonderful. Helen's granddaughters have grown into lovely young ladies. Seeing Alissa, Anne, Helen, Kinsa, Molly, Ros and Susie made the years melt away. It was so exciting to see Kinsa after 50-something years. It was also great fun having Susie stay with me. We were both so sorry Tina (Burbidge Hummerstone) was sick and missed our 'slumber party.' Our class was an amazing one and we are lucky to have these lifelong friendships renewed. I only wish that the missing classmates could have been there, too.'

Alissa Kramer Sutphin wrote: 'Bill and I were really happy to have Kinsa and Ros stay with us. Helen and Gerald were very welcoming dinner hosts and it was lovely for all who could come to be together for an evening. As for Sutphin personal news? Our son, Andy, and his family have bought a house and are moving to Princeton.'

Nancy Hagen Spaulding wrote: 'I was sorry to miss our 55th. My son, Peter, 42, was graduating that weekend from the University of Colorado at Boulder with honors in Architecture & Planning. He is now well prepared for his mid-life career change. Lance, 44, has moved back home with me. He is handling his own investments while looking for a job in management here in Colorado.'

Ros Webster Perry wrote: 'I am so happy I traveled from California for this historic reunion. Seeing all these Miss Fine's friends was the best experience possible. Thanks to Susie, Helen, Alissa and Nancy for rounding up so many classmates from near and far, and making it happen!'

Many of the MFS '58ers enjoyed going back to their 50th college reunions in May and June.

Betsy Carter Bannerman was very enthusiastic about her return to Connecticut College from California and is all ready for a MFS 55th reunion in the spring. Linda Mullaly Masten and her husband Ric celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary by taking their entire family of 17 – including her 98-year-old mother – to Maui.

On their return, the Mastens took their little rail car to Vancouver, British Columbia and fortunately managed to stay out of the way of freight trains, bears, etc!

Sue Frank Hilton and Dick had a wonderful trip to Ireland in May and she would be most happy to see any classmates who are going to Naples, Florida.

I had a wonderful chat with Emily Vanderstucken Spencer who lives in Kennebunkport and makes trips back to Texas from time to time. Emily's daughter, Polly, is a jeweler and metalsmith in Portland, Maine. She works mainly in silver and uses brightly colored stones. Her wonderful items can be purchased on the web (www.maryamalia.com).

The Keuffels have had a busy year. A new grandson in Seattle, Nancy's 50th reunion at Sweet Briar where she received the Outstanding Alumna award, and lots of golf here and in Scotland and Ireland. Let's do something fun in 2013 to celebrate our 55th at MFS!

Abby Pollak is writing about three generations of Polish Jews in NJ circa 1958 in her third novel. Dana Conroy Aymond and I were both in Paris for the end of the Tour de France, but were unaware of this until we both returned! She and Charlie had been in Aix en Provence; I was ending a one-month European trip, business and pleasure, half with son, David, and his family (who would take a two-and five-year-old to Europe??). Dana and Charlie were both recovering from back problems and I had just recovered from back surgery. (EVERYONE reports aches, pains, etc, but I KNOW we will still be the best and the brightest at our 50th college reunions.) Wendy Yeaton Smith's daughter, Carrie, heads the foreign language department at Brookwood School where Wendy taught for many years and her grandson attends the school. My five-year-old granddaughter, Ella, will enter Calvert School as the fourth generation of Clapps to attend. Sadly, I must report the death of Karl Light, the beloved husband of Lucy James.

A decade older and...we celebrate! Ten years after Sally Hagen Schmid invited us all to Florida for our collective 60th birthday, Carol Garrigues Scofield hosted our 70th at her island in Rangeley, Maine this June.

We came from everywhere: Eileen Baker Strathnaver and Harriet Gaston Davison from England; Anne Kales Howson from San Francisco; Jane Dielhenn Otis from Chicago: the rest of us—Nancy Davis Sachner, Louise Scheide Marshall, Martha Thompson Eckfeldt, Mary Liz Alexander, Sally Schmid, Mary Lee Skinner Bayne, Caroline Godfrey Werth, and I—from the East Coast.

As always, it was wonderful to be together. Stories from the olden days gave proof that at least our long-term memories are still sharp. Some of us even remember the dates of each others' dogs' birthdays and old phone numbers. (My mother's is still the same after 66 years.) Robert Scofield, our inimitable co-host, stimulated an intriguing dinner table discussion one night. His question—what had Miss Fine's been like for each of us?—evoked moving memories and evaluations of the school that ranged from the very good to the horrible.

But with every reunion, our friendships expand and deepen in real time. We share in the losses (Harriet's husband John and Martha's husband Dick have both died in the last year; my stepfather Karl Light died in June) and in new joys (grandchildren, of course, travels and, in Caroline's case, a flourishing new romance).

Being on the Scofields' gem of an island was a joy in itself. Some of us swam and kayaked, but mostly we talked and talked. Except, that is, during two dramatic departures from the island: first, when Louise, having learned that husband Gordon had been hospitalized, was fetched from the dock by seaplane and flown back to Vermont; second, when Sally had a TIA scare and was hustled off the island on an EMT rescue boat.

These two events, following weekend exchanges of info about our various infirmities, prompted Mary Liz to ask, 'Well, Carol, will you be hosting our 80th?' 'Sure,' said Carol, 'If you each bring your own doctor.' Will do. Meanwhile, our deepest thanks to both Carol and Robert for hosting us—for the second time—with generosity, humor, and aplomb.

After the reunion, Harriet, Martha, and Eileen represented us all at the New York wedding of Amanda Maugham Pearson's daughter, Diana. Hal Pearson said how much it meant to have Amanda's friends there, and Diana was touched and grateful for the gift we collected as a contribution to her honeymoon trip. Harriet writes that Diana was a 'gorgeous bride' (no surprise), 'radiating happiness, absolutely charming, and such a warm person, just like her mother.'

From Nancy:

It looks like we've been doing a lot of visiting each other over the summer. Tibby Chase Dennis wrote, 'Having just returned from a wonderful little visit with Cynthia up in New Hampshire, it seems a good time to jot a line or two. Not much real 'news' news, but Chip and I have been doing a lot of traveling over the last few months: visiting his daughter and granddaughter in Pittsburgh where Abigail (his daughter) has bought a 'shell' in a gentrifying historic district and is renovating it for (hopefully) occupancy in September; and back and forth a lot to New Hampshire and Cape Cod, where we are at the moment. We have even fantasized renting an apartment in Pittsburgh to have a sort of 'half-time home' near Abby and Nora, but that probably won't materialize in reality. Ah, well. Oh, and we're involved in a lot of church groups in Northampton, with Chip slated to teach a new group on Jesus' parables in the fall.'

And Sheila Long said, 'Cherry Raymond stayed in our guest hermitage for about 10 days in June, worked on a writing project and helped me with my first-ever vegetable garden. The broccoli, collard greens, zucchini, green beans, lettuce and tomatoes are all doing well. I can't tell if it's time to pull up the beets, but I know I should wait for the potatoes. The pumpkins are invading everything else. I planted melons like the ones we have in my French monastery, but they're overshadowed by the pumpkins, and I'm not sure they're getting enough sun.'

'Two days ago, I saw Miss Davidson, alias 'Dibby,' our music teacher, at the home of a friend in Cambridge, from whom she rents an apartment. She is in her mid-80's and is packing for a move to a continuing care facility in Wellesley, after selling her gorgeous harpsichord back to its maker and getting rid of her grand piano as well as her house in Maine. She has accepted all these losses with very good grace and is glad she will be moving to a town with a good library. She salutes all of you.'

The excitement in Julia Cornforth Holofcener's life continues. 'Life has been too good for us lately! We settled in Cowes on the Isle of Wight, joined the Royal London Yacht Club, and Larry started sculpting the life-size Shakespeare in a beautiful gallery on the waterfront. Then, we decided we wanted a bit more space for sculpting and painting, so Larry went online and found a glorious place, overlooking the English Channel, on the south side of the Island near a village called Bembridge. AND then, we got an email from The Churchill, a Hyatt Regency hotel in London off Portman Square where Michelle Obama stayed during the Olympics, stating that they wanted a new life-size Churchill, different from the one on Bond Street, for a terrace they are renovating outside their smoking bar. So Larry has to finish the Shakespeare, which is to be sold at Sotheby's in November, and start the Churchill, which has to be ready for an unveiling the last week in November. Good thing he's young (86)!

'The Queen visited Cowes in July, and our precious Corgi/Jack Russell was all decked out in a red, white and blue lei and tutu. She is such a joy and makes us laugh all of the time. Life without her is unimaginable!

'We'll return to the States in December to pack up all Larry's sculpture and paintings (again!), as well as our furniture, etc., for shipping to the IOW, as well as visit the kids for Christmas. We'll put the Mount Dora house on the market (that makes three in two countries for sale) and return to the Isle of Wight in January. We've been very lucky with Larry's health since the pacemaker was put in May 2011. As my sister says, he's a regular Energizer Bunny. Wish me luck!'

Lucia Norton Woodruff wrote encouraging words for all of us: '...am finding a silver lining in the aging process. I am enjoying a lot of things so much more (performing music, for example). What I am, I am. And if I do it, I do it to enjoy it. Period.'

I am planning to attend our 50th reunion in May, and I hope that as many of our classmates as can do so are saving the weekend of May 17, 2013 for the event. I am aware that some of us are on the reunion committee, and PDS is attempting to locate all the alumnae who have been part of our class.

When my call for news went out, I received an immediate return e-mail from Colleen Coffee Hall. It said, 'Would you believe I have Bonnie Strong Berge visiting right now from South Africa? Her mom is 96 and not doing too well. I have told her she must write a long epistle about her life. We'd all love to hear what it's like to live in South Africa. Will work on her.' Bonnie, if you read this, please do share a bit about your life and the road you've taken in the last 50 years.

Kathy Sittig Dunlop wrote, 'Life is good. Summer in Florida is great. We love our island breezes and the fact that so many people 'go back north,' wherever that is. This means that there is seldom a need for a reservation at a restaurant. No traffic, no crowds anywhere we go. The living is definitely easy here – would love to have visitors.' She continued that she and her daughter Allison went to the French Open in Paris. They stayed for an extra week in Paris, and Kathy sent a picture of herself at a reunion with the woman she worked for 27 years ago. She keeps busy with church (just finished helping with four- & five-year olds at Vacation Bible School – exhausting but fun), golf, exercise, family. Both of her children live in FL now, and she is still her sister's legal guardian. She and her husband Richard are looking forward to a trip to Italy in October/November. She concluded, 'We are blessed.'

Laurie Rogers retired in mid-January after 16 years at York Analytical Labs in Connecticut. 'I decided to jump off the cliff and enjoy life while I'm still active enough to do things I like such as being outdoors, traveling, and spending more time with friends and family without worrying about using up vacation days.' On August 1, Laurie's mother turned 98. Laurie and her sister have cleaned out and sold her mother's house. Laurie's e-mail ended with, 'Watching her live that long has raised many questions for us about the quality of life beyond a certain age and what we're able to do about it for ourselves.' Laurie, too, hopes many classmates attend our 50th reunion.

Sally Campbell Haas has been working to clean up our e-mail addresses, and she has sent me her refined list. Sally and her sister Bonnie '57 went to Scotland on a Clan Campbell Society tour of the family historic sites and castles. She spent July and August on Cape Cod, and expects to take bike trips in Colorado and Washington this coming fall. Sally plans to attend the reunion.

I received a lengthy e-mail (complete with a picture of her son, daughter-in-law, and grandchildren) from Sharon Stevenson Griffith. She has been married to Chuck for 41 years, and they live in Pound Ridge, NY. She spent a week in July on Nantucket with Polly Miller, her two sisters, Susan Stevenson Badder '59 and Lissy Stevenson Bryan '67 and many other relatives. The family celebrated son Cable's engagement to Jess Marie. Cable is the Director of Exhibitions at Cornish College of Arts. Sharon's other son Alden is an assistant professor of environmental biology at Wellesley. Sharon has retired from teaching after 12 years of working in special education. Chuck has also retired from his career in advertising, and he has a woodworking business (www.shakertofit.com). 'We're very lucky to be healthy, happy, and looking forward to new prospects ahead.'

Ellen Levy forwarded a picture from her web site (www.WaveryArt.com). She is making and selling stunning art bracelets and cuffs, and we are invited to visit her site. She is also designing web sites for others.

Pamela Sidford Schaeffer and her family spent a week on vacation in April on the big island of Hawaii. Her daughter Jac has finished a script, a romantic comedy, for Disney, and she is waiting to hear the next steps. Pam and Leonard have had a summer full of guests at their lovely home on the Cape. 'Our children were paddle boarding off our beach on the bay and were followed by a 6-foot bull shark who decided they were not worth the bother, thank heavens. We have been using the pool ever since.' Son David spent part of August hiking the 215-mile-long John Muir Trail. 'He started by climbing Half Dome at Yosemite, and he will wander out of the woods at Mt. Whitney in three weeks. Will my nerves survive?' His children are Samantha, 4, and Benjamin, 2. Pam asks, 'How can we stop the growing right now and keep them at these magical ages?' Pam, too, plans to attend the reunion.

Laurie, Pam, and I spent a few days together in May at the Schaeffers' home on the Cape. We are very lucky to have had this time together, and we plan to spend the first week in October here in Oregon. We'll be in Portland and at the Oregon Coast. We are very fortunate to have these visits together, and we spend some of each visit reminiscing about our time at MFS. It is amazing and wonderful that we have maintained our closeness after all these years. I am still doing a bit of consulting and have an executive coaching practice which I enjoy immensely. And, of course, we are looking forward to our reunion and to seeing as many of you as possible.

Thanks to everyone who sent news! Best turnout we've had in a while. There's room for improvement, however, which means I hope to hear from more of you for the next issue of the Journal.

Fran Wolff's notes for the spring Journal did not make that deadline, so I'd like to include them here with an update. Writing last February, Fran said, 'I'm getting ready to retire at the end of April when my web site will come down, so I'm preparing for that. Business has been slowing for years, but much to my surprise I am being flooded with potential client calls just as I've mentally prepared not to work anymore! I just returned from St. Maarten. My brother, who teaches at Boston College and advises the students applying to med school, got a free trip to see the med school there. Nice brother that he is, he invited me to go with him! Last Fall I visited Bosnia, Croatia, Serbia, Montenegro and Slovenia. Beautiful countries but discouraging in that I didn't see any real reconciliation between these people in the foreseeable future.' Fran's update: 'Well, I retired in April and haven't missed working a bit! I've been spending my time doing renovations on my house and playing a bit of duplicate bridge. Now that the renovations are complete, I so like being home that I haven't really travelled much! I'm sure my adventurous spirit will return sometime soon. I did spend a week in Maine in July at the house my brother and sister and I inherited from my parents. We've been working on turning it into a home with more of a cottage feel, and the three of us are pleased with how that's turning out. On my way up to Maine, I had lunch with Barbara Kneubuhl in Boston. It was fun to catch up since our reunion in Palm Springs. I'm eager to hear what everyone else is up to!'

Sue Jamieson mentioned in an earlier email reported: 'My daughter, Emily, is getting married in October...she found a wonderful English major and middle school teacher who lives in DC where she works with the American Immigration Council.' More recently Sue asked, 'Did Dora tell you that she and I traveled together in July to Missoula and Glacier National Park? She joined me and friends from Atlanta and we had a very fine time exploring the National Bison Range, the Glacier Park red bus tour, several hikes and some wonderful small towns in Montana and Idaho. We plan to try a half marathon walk in Baton Rouge in January. Renewing a friendship is a remarkable thing.'

So glad to hear from Susie Moulton! She had lots to say, which I'm pleased to share. 'I sold my house of 26 years in 2010, moved north to Salem, MA, which is gorgeous, and have just closed on a great condo. I have downsized and feel like I did when I rented in my 20s. The full circle... I love not being responsible for a house and the simplicity of my new small space is wonderful. But that is the last move until they roll me out. A gazillion lists to make. I am still working full time as a consultant in economic development and don't know what I would do with my time if I were not working and I love the work. My 27-year-old son is a foodie and after sous-chefing, chefing and waitering he is now living in Palo Alto and managing three dining halls for Stanford! He has fallen hopelessly in love with California, to my distress, because I am a crusty New Englander and don't ever want to leave here. If my Internet were connected I would send pictures but this will have to wait. Onward and I hope everyone is well and if anyone ever comes to Boston please let me know. Frannie tried to connect but I messed up but there is always next year.

'I do get to see Annie Harris, who is a longtime Salemite and a wonderful connection to MFS. My best to all.'

Jane Budny Conrad wrote it to say all is well where she lives in Lawrenceville. Jane, we'd all love to hear more about your doings.

Wendy Fruland Hopper also responded to my call for news. She wrote the following: 'Hoppers are loving their summer in the Adirondacks.....we presently have a full house.....Our three girls with two husbands, five grandchildren ranging from 6 to 10, two dogs and Art and me!! Lots of activity!!! Hiking the 46ers, swimming the lake, fishing (not good), eating! cooking!! and generally enjoying each other. Back to NJ in late September. Art is enjoying his partial retirement and I'm enjoying being a granny. Still riding everyday when I am home. Have a wonderful horse and fox-hunt two days a week. North Carolina for three months in the winter...horses and golf. Life is wonderful and we count our blessings every day! So far our health is holding!!!'

Got a wonderful invitation to lunch from Linda Conroy Vaughn in July. Linda and husband, Dave, were visiting their son Bradley at his home in Bay Head, NJ, and asked me to join them. Brad's first visit to the Jersey shore occurred about 30 years ago (age 10) when he and Linda visited me there. It was Brad's first glimpse of the Atlantic Ocean, being a California boy. Guess he liked what he saw. I don't think Linda and I drew a breath, catching up on one another's lives as we walked the town of Bay Head, and I recollected youthful memories of my many summers spent there. Dave kindly took a picture of the two of us with the view from Brad's front door as background. So peaceful! Linda's daughter Heather lives in Nashville with her husband and baby daughter. Two good reasons to return East, Linda. Looking forward to our next visit.

Lunch was also the order of the day for Mea Aall Kaemmerlen and me last month. We were joined by Tracey Gates, Head of Alumni at PDS. As I'm replacing Mea on the Alumni Board, the three of us had much to discuss. Mea looks great, as always, and is now fully retired.

Rose Cousins: Pam Sidford '63, Hope Rose Angier '66, Sandy Sidford, Barbara Rose '64, Holly Sidford

Her newest project is a condo she purchased on the Chesapeake, not far from her sister Pamela '68.

Not much to report from my camp. I continue to work hard as a real estate broker based in Princeton and, in addition to serving on the PDS Alumni Board, am on the Executive Board of Northeast Organic Farming Association of New Jersey, an organization which promotes farming (offers a beginning farmer program) and organic practices, supports and encourages regional food production, and educates local growers of all kinds.

I enjoy spending time with my grandson, Jasper, 7, who keeps me on my toes (son of Elizabeth Hare '88), my daughter Katherine Hare who lives and works in New York City, and son Hobie Hare '93, who moved from Chicago to Boston a few months ago and is working with The New England Revolution soccer organization. So nice to have us all on the East Coast within striking distance of one another.

Until next time, I hope you all have a safe and happy fall season.

The headliners of this column are babies, with the birth of William Watson Gilbert (Sally Stewart Gilbert's first) in Chicago in early May. Perhaps he and Simon Fraser Coffeen (first grandson of Karen Fraser) can get together in Chicago sometime. Ahead of the curve is Lauren Adams Fortmiller with not one but two granddaughters, twins Emily and Claire born in mid-August to Lauren's son Ben. Emily and Claire join their 2 1/2-year-old sister Adela. And we would surely love to hear of more grandbabies, although the concept of ourselves as grandmothers hardly seems possible.

From grandmothers to middle age, we have a poem from dear class friend Andrew Littauer, entitled Late Middle Age Lament:

When we get up, we take our pills
And over breakfast read the Times.
Headlines highlight the planet's ills;
Or accent a tale of venal crime.
The day, as always, breaks in the east.

School buses, yellow hulks, lumber down
Hodge Road. A new generation feasts

Upon the printed page and frowns

In concentration, I go outside.

A chill wind tousles my thinning hair.

Leaves piled in curbside mounds provide

Reminders of the branches they left bare.

Musing on the passage of time as I write this, may I share that I attended a Bob Dylan concert last night and he was fantastic--smiling all the while, very happy with the crowd--and he's someone who has matured with us. Even as he sang his signature songs (whichever ones of the 100s they may be) he updated them and made them his own NOW as opposed to reflecting on how they were THEN. It was awesome. The significance for us it seems to me is that it's OK to change and "there's a dance in the old dame yet toujours gai toujours gai." We were fabulous as the class of '65; we are fabulous now, albeit in a different way.

Until next time, when I hope to have news from others in the fold.

Peter Rossmassler and Frances are back in 'God's Country' - their Thousand Island home between the U.S. and Canada. Like most of us, they are 'trying to take it easier but find it hard to do...' Your scribe remembers the fun visiting Peter especially when his father took us in his boat to Canada and heeded the suggestion of the Canadian customs agent that we take a 'circuitous route' back with our couple of cases of 'hooch.' Seems his U.S. colleagues were patrolling. A different era, indeed!

Malcolm Peyton is composing, teaching at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, very happily married and has collaborated on writing a piece with his wife. They look forward to traveling while they both have lots of 'vigor.'

Dr. Paul Roediger and Shirley have the travel bug - two wonderful weeks in Portugal, side trips to Cooperstown and Wilkes Barre, plus days on the Atlantic shore. Still finds time to donate a day a week to Abington Hospital.

Rowland Burnstan, Jr. squeezed five people (wife, daughter, son-in-law and granddaughter) into a river boat—very small, but 'with yacht-like elegance'—for an eight-day trip from Toulouse to Narbonne. His offspring were 'open ocean sailors' so he opted for the K.P. duty. His beloved son-in-law was 'up at dawn,' hopped on a bike daily and brought back fresh French baked bread - not always to the delight of those who watched their diets! Burnie reported that despite the media reports, Southern France seemed extremely prosperous and industry booming.

As for Shepherd Roberts, your scribe caught him near 10 pm breathing heavily after 'taking' one of Celia's dogs on an 'agility run.' Shep kept apologizing for being 'out of breath' and 'I still have my yellow jacket on.' Seems the dog gave him a good workout. Congrats, Shep!

Your scribe, David Rogers, is still practicing 'financial competitive intelligence,' this time telling one of our biggest defense contractors how designated key competitors probably will bid on a specific large contract. Then in October it is off with Louisa on the Queen Mary 2 to Europe, where we will have a family reunion in the U.K. and then go on to France for 10 days.

We're reliving the college days we sailed – not flew – overseas.

For myself, I carry on, if slower and crankier. Posterity Press's big fall book is a lovely visual volume and narrative, Into the Light: The Healing Art of Kalman Aron, which limns a Latvian artist who survived the Holocaust, came as a refugee to California and, eventually, thrived. Check it out at the website, www.KalmanAron.com. I am also in the early stages of a reprise. In 1991, I wrote the 50-year history of Washington's great museum, America's National Gallery of Art. Now I am embarking on an entirely new retrospective of the same institution, two decades later. Look for it in three or four years ('God willin' and the creek don't rise').

Bob Hillier sent the following news:

'Our life is full and there is no discussion of retirement in this house. Daughter Jordan is off to U of Penn as a sophomore, having transferred out of Trinity. She keeps us forever young!

'Five years ago, when Hillier Architecture was the third largest solely architectural firm in the country, we merged with a firm from Scotland to become the third largest firm in the world. It was the largest financial deal of the year in the architectural profession.

'After a couple of years of dealing with the transition, Barbara left with a two-year non-compete and decided to pursue her dream of earning a master's degree in architecture, which she was fortunate enough to do at Princeton.

'I had a five-year non-compete, but with a 'carve-out' that allowed me to continue architectural design on projects 'for my own account.' After two years of traveling around the world in behalf of RMJM/Hillier, I decided to leave and pursue my own dream of doing design and development of very special projects.

Eight members of the 1955 class of PCD returned to Princeton this past June for their 50th Reunion from the Princeton class of 1962. They were: Bucky Kales, John Bales, Bob Fernholz, Chip (Taylor) Woodward, Roger Hoit, Joe Delafield, Andy Kerr and (not in photo) Ed Thurber. This included 2/3's of the PCD six man football team (Kales, Bales, Hoit, and Kerr)

'With non-competes now behind us, we have started a new firm, StudioHillier, which provides architectural services mainly to educational institutions, but also to 'J. Robert Hillier,' our development company. We have a staff of 12 and about six projects under way with about 10 more in the pipeline. Most are in Princeton including a luxury apartment project known as Copperwood for folks over 55. There are 153 units in the project and 212 people on the waiting list, which shows that there is a pent up demand for this type of housing in Princeton.

Additionally, Barbara and I are major owners of Town Topics and, two years ago, we purchased PRINCETON Magazine. We redesigned and relaunched it and have seen it enjoy huge readership (35,000 circulation) and demand from advertisers to the extent that the number of issues has grown from five to nine per year. We have now gone to a hard copy called 'lifestories' and it is off to a strong start.

I am starting my 20th year of teaching a graduate seminar at Princeton University's School of Architecture besides doing lectures at other architecture schools in the region.

Finally, with so much spare time, I had a great time as Chairman of the Princeton Regional Chamber of Commerce over the last two years. I happen to believe Princeton is 'the best little city in the world' and the experience in that role convinced me that description is spot on!

Thirteen was our lucky number. That's the number of classmates who returned for the greatest PCD reunion ever held—our 50th on May 11 and 12: a remarkable achievement considering we had only 12 classmates graduating from our ninth grade.

Lee Maxwell and his wife Bronwyn journeyed from Australia to present Jets owner Woody Johnson with the PDS Alumni Service Award. Honored for his pioneering support of medical research dealing with autoimmune disease, Woody joined a list of distinguished PCD alums receiving such awards, including former U.S. Attorney General Nick Katzenbach '36 and former President of Princeton University Bob Goheen '34.

Attending our class dinner after the awards ceremony were: John Baker and his wife Linda, Craig Battle, Rick Delano, Rick Eckels, John Gaston, Woody Johnson and his wife Suzanne, Rob Maxwell, Lee and Bronwyn Maxwell, Jack McCarthy and his wife Susan Anable, Rod Myers, John Petito, and his wife Barbara Winter, John Poole, and Allen Wood. Before dinner, we attempted grace in the Tebow position as a salute to Woody, but most of us were afraid we could not get up!

Three members of the PCD Class of 1961, Bob Griggs, Regan Kerny and John Sheehan, joined us as did our former history teacher and hockey coach, Bud Tibbals.

Updates from our returning classmates:

In his 'fourth career' that has taken him to Vienna and Hungary, Jock Baker has produced and recorded eight classical CDs, two of which are being submitted for Grammy nominations.

Living and working in Princeton, Craig Battle stills plays competitive hockey and shares with his son a niche investment banking firm.

Just retired from senior hockey, Rick Delano lives in Bridgehampton, Long Island and is working as a consultant for the Ford Motor Company helping high schools improve educational and workforce outcomes.

John Petito reported: 'after a checkered career in government, law, and making video documentaries, I ended up as academic dean at Buck County Community College, which I admit is pretty surprising in view of my checkered academic career at PCD.'

Rick Eckels recently retired from Morgan Keegan in Memphis after 40 years in the securities business. Rick told us he plans to spend his extra time 'tracking Elvis who was recently sighted in LA singing only John Denver songs in an obscure coffee house.'

Unlike Rick, John Gaston said, he'll 'never stop working and other than his awkward gait, things are doing well.' John recently joined a team totally renovating the San Diego airport.

Lee Maxwell is enjoying grandparenting with two grandsons close by and another expected in Melbourne, a short one-hour flight away. He consults with the timber industry regarding health and safety issues and is trying to lower his golf handicap.

In February, brother Rob and wife Susan retired to Ormond By the Sea, Florida. With a son in Philadelphia and a daughter in San Diego, they 'watch the tide roll in and watch it roll away again.'

Fully retired from Prudential, Rod Myers and his wife Pat live in the DuPont Circle area of Washington, DC. In addition to being a golf nut, he enjoys traveling to Florida and Oregon.

John Petito switched professions, leaving the law for academia, first teaching and now in administration.

Allen Wood lives in Dover, New Hampshire and is a counselor.

Wise words from John Poole: 'Boring stuff. Live in Silverton, Colorado doing Pilates with, mostly, younger, better-shaped women in spandex. Doing as much hiking in summer, x-country skiing in winter as body will allow when not in Mexico pursuing retirement hobbies of sailing, heavy drinking and catching up on good reading'

Class of '59 classmates: Nick Hare, Walter Smith and Huck Fairman

Bob Griggs '61, John Sheehan '61 and Regan Kerney '61 attended the class of PCD '62 50th reunion dinner last May.

that I missed in the past 50 years. Refuse to carry a cell phone or go on Facebook. I've been very fortunate in life and regret only that our generation has not passed much of substance or our good fortune on to its successors. Only worthwhile advice: difficult as it may seem at times, keep idealism alive.'

Unable to attend the reunion, Paul Vogel perhaps best captured memories of PCD in his inimitable style: 'Trying to explain/excuse my slipshod dissection of a fetal pig because I was Jewish. Most pointedly I remember the wonderful and kind teachers: Bill Ackley, Langdon Lea, Mr. Smyth...the list goes on and on...The friendships I made are indelibly etched in my memory and heart.'

All in all, happy confirmation that ours is a class Class.

Blueberry season is coming to an end, Machias Festival celebrated the harvest August 18-19, and the smell of football is in the ocean air. It has been a great summer, unless you are Mr. Frank McD., who just drove the six hours up from Princeton, NJ and unfortunately has a 'Volvo of Princeton' insignia P on his car. In the parking area of H.B. Provisions, here in the Port, he heard a play-by-play of PDS boys lacrosse success against Notre Dame, Princeton H.S. and how well they played in the final against Hopewell Valley. Coach Rob Tuckman's team showed a lot of pride and perseverance, overcame adversity, and demonstrated its determination in playing HoVal hard into the fourth of the MCT championship. Names like Bump Lisk, Cody Triolo, Colton brothers, Tucker, and Taran were mentioned with excitement, and one adds Conrad Denise, Connor Walker in goal, Grahame D, a few underclassmen, and PDS has a pretty good hockey team, like the hockey played at PCD. Mr. Frank McD. just happens to be the proud grandfather of Taran Auslander '13, and shared my enthusiasm for PDS sport.

Several classmates (PCD '65) have resurfaced but have requested anonymity. The number of "missing" (nci) classmates has been reduced to a handful from 15 nearly six months ago.

The class extends its condolences to Donald A. Pickering and Dede Pickering '71 on the passing of their mother, Mrs. Dorothy Carll Franklin.

This is the time of the year when friends from PCD come to mind, fall Saturday mornings walking by The Ivy Club, Cottage Club, a right on Roper Lane to Dean Ernest Gordon's house on Ivy Lane for a touch football game before the 'Real' game in Palmer Stadium. Where the house once stood, there grows the astrophysical science building, Peyton Hall, and the stadium is called Princeton. The fine memories from a short 45 years ago are still vivid.

Fast forward to hockey. Keith Hereford (NH), Chris Laughlin (NH) and Hugh Samson (MA) are here in New England. Notice is given to Whit Raymond, Tom Ford, John Claghorn, Sandy Wandelt, John Taylor, 'Rock' Ross, Evan Donaldson and fans of PCD/PDS hockey to reserve December 14- 15, 2012 to attend the 42nd William W. Barber Hockey Tournament, hosted by Middlesex School and St. Mark's School in Southborough, MA. I have attended over the past several years, the schools are great hosts, impressive facilities, and skate a darn good brand of hockey. PDS coach Scott Bertoli has some of the above-named PDS lacrosse players in his lineup, which should be an exciting tourney for PDS hockey. I'll be happy to write 'Notes' to attend. This is an ex-BB player asking PCD hockey classmates to attend a hockey tournament?

I've been watching the London Olympics, amazed at how accomplished the athletes are. It reminded me of when I was a member of the YMCA Flying Fish Swim Team in 1964 and the Princeton Y's very own Lesley Bush won a gold medal for platform diving. After her win, we all had, naively, high hopes for becoming Olympic swimmers. Obviously, that didn't happen, but I wondered if I might still have a chance to win a gold medal if PDS started to award prizes to class secretaries for their columns. You know, which class has the most contributors, the longest columns, the best pictures, stories and writing? Also, as you well know, sometimes gathering information from classmates is a difficult challenge. Hello? When I sent out my August class notes request as a group e-mail, I believe that some Internet authorities (like AOL) recognized my missive as SPAM, which means many of you may have deleted it. Please give me a yell if you didn't get my note. Believe me, if you'd read it, you would have written me.

As part of their 50th PCD celebration, this group had a walk down memory lane as they toured their old PCD school building.

Our class continues to display Olympian traits in their achievements. I am in awe of their energy levels. For example, Barbara Sullivan, master of degrees, besides having a law degree, added an MFA to her resume in December, and continues her writing, working part time at Kids Making It (a woodworking program for at-risk teens) and master gardening. In July, she and law school friends got together in Paris for a reunion. Her husband Michael continues his law work, playing tennis and hiking. Son Charles is in medical school, and daughter Rachel is working for the World Wildlife Fund in D.C. And Barbara reported, 'We are surrounded by movie stars whom we never see because Wilmington, NC is currently the film location for six movies and TV shows. We are calling it 'Wilmywood.' Oh, there goes Hilary Swank! Where? I missed her. My husband told me the morning after a dinner out that we had sat next to Gwyneth Paltrow the whole time. Dang, missed that too.'

Susan Bonthron, master book binder, continues to teach workshops throughout the year, at her own Otter Pond Bindery and at selected locations, most recently in Deer Isle, Maine. One of her book-binding classes in July had participants creating suminagashi (ancient Japanese art of marbling) and learning book binding techniques. Susan has also been helping make a documentary about her beloved teacher, Paulus Berensohn, in North Carolina. 'I've had some good fortune with my artist books. One is touring the country with the Guild of Book Workers' exhibition called Horizon. The exhibition travels to venues all over the country for two years. Another is in Asheville, NC at a book arts show titled, 'Mini-Moveables, a Collection of Pint-Sized Pop-Ups.' Two others are at 'Unbound, Vol. II' at the Artstree Gallery in Woodstock, Vermont for their 2nd annual book arts show, judged this year by Daniel Kelm.

'Schoolhouse No. 10 has been busy with out-of-town students and guests. It's available for visitors in September and October—I hope some of you will come up and stay. Gilbert continues to restore antiques. So come up to Vermont, make a book and bring that old chair that needs re-gluing.' All of this activity AND Susan still finds time to drive to Princeton from Vermont twice a month to visit her mother, Jane Bonthron, at Stonebridge in Skillman.

Debbie Hobler, master class correspondent, will also be making the trek to Stonebridge in Skillman in early September, to celebrate her parents' 90th birthdays with the rest of the family.

Sarah Jaeger, master potter, was featured in the December 2011 Pottery Making Illustrated magazine. She too has been teaching workshops around the country when she isn't creating more of her beautiful pottery. Upcoming September classes are at Haystack Mountain School of Crafts on Deer Isle, Maine, (sounds as if she and Susan B are crossing paths there) and Jackson Hole. Sarah was also a presenter at the Potters' Council Conference in Columbus, Ohio earlier in the year. The Clay Studio, Philadelphia's premier nonprofit ceramic arts organization, hosted a Sarah Jaeger: New Work exhibit in March. Remember you can buy Sarah's pottery directly from her.

Patience Morgan-Irigoyen, master jeweler, moved her studio to higher ground after the hurricane last August. Her website is PatienceMorganDesign.com. Sadly, after 16 years, the family's beloved standard poodle, Homer, passed away. 'We felt too sad not to share our home again with another, so a gorgeous three-month-old poodle, Henry, was adopted and has brought joy to his new parents.' Mario, Patty's husband, opened up his own private psychotherapy practice in Englewood, NJ. He sees private clients and also runs groups for the Division of Youth and Family Services for NJ, and other organizations. 'Son Morgan, who's living in Harlem, continues his studies this fall at the New School for Jazz and Contemporary Music and Eugene Lang College, The New School for Liberal Arts in NYC, pursuing a dual degree in jazz performance and history. He loves it there.' In the summer, he and Patty took a trip to California to attend a wedding, along with Morgan's girlfriend and other Morgan family members.

Linda Staniar Bergh, master humorist, is happy to report that she and Bill's daughter Courtney '02 was married to Kieran Pedley of Great Britain, on June 2, 2012 at Trinity Church in Princeton. The wedding was followed by a fabulous reception held at Bedens Brook. Parking and wedding arrangements had been complicated by the wedding being on the same weekend as Princeton Reunions. Both the bride and the groom work at a market research firm in London. Linda hopes to travel to see the new couple in London in November.

Galey Bissell Sergio-Castelvetere, master traveler, has been on numerous trips from home in La Paz, Mexico this year. In October she and Max will be going to son Alex's wedding to Kristin Komen in San Diego, which will be held on the Silver Strand Beach in Coronado. The couple, who met at Alex's 30th birthday bash three years ago, call Newport Beach home, where Alex sells computer software and Kristin sells health care to corporations. Our class congratulations to Alex and Kristin.

Dale Marzoni Kellogg, master urban farmer, is becoming our olympic vegetable gardener; composting, growing and harvesting everything from apricots, cucumbers, tomatoes, lettuce, melons to chilis. (She does live in New Mexico after all.) Additionally, she's keeping her hands in top olympic form by milking her goats and feeding her chickens. I'd like to have breakfast at Dale's. Figure skating remains her favorite activity, and she says this winter she 'met Dick Button, the Olympic figure skater, who came to the Santa Fe rink I'm involved with. He's 84-years-old, personable, gracious and entertaining.' Dale also took a trip back to her old home in Colorado this summer to see old friends.

Hope Rose Angier, master interior decorative painter (go to www.hopeangier.com to see her new house!), enjoyed a Rose family reunion at Pam Sidford's '63 house on Cape Cod in June. 'There were 15 of us. Hard to believe that Pam, Sandy, Holly, Barbara and I represented the 'old guard.' We had a great time. In early August, I had a visit from my old neighbors (144 Mercer Street), Johnnie '62 and Harriet Gaston Davidson '60. I hadn't seen Harriet since I was 17 (she used to baby sit us), and Johnnie was at our wedding 42 years ago. It was a great reunion! Fred and I have been in our new home just over a year, and after intensive interior decorative painting were thrilled to have our house on the Camden Garden Club's House and Garden Tour in July. We're looking forward to a feature article on our house/artwork in Down East magazine's September issue. After 11 years of floating around, I can't tell you how nice it is to be rooted on another beautiful property in Maine. We are healthy and well.'

And now for the three Sallys:

Sally Harries Gaudie, master grandmother, has her grandchildren closer to home these days, which means she is called on to babysit more often. She reports that she enjoyed the company of her grandchildren this summer, although after one four-day stint Sally said, 'After two days of trying to keep up with them, I was 'totally knackered.' Who else is taking naps now in the afternoon? My sister Mary Hobler and her husband Eric visited Sally and Jack at their home in Hamilton in June, and had a good time catching up. Soon after that visit, the Gaudies took off for a vacation at a beautiful rented home in France near Bargemon, with friends, and then moved on to Menorca for another week.

Sally Lane, master reporter, and her husband Sam have been living in their home while renovating it. Sally reported 'that it's chaotic, yet on the other hand, I'll have plenty of room to entertain the group at our next PDS reunion.' Granddaughter Nicole Graff graduated from Drexel University in June.

Sally Behr Ogden, another master traveler, spent three weeks at Christmas in France with Christy Love Sadron and her husband in Burgundy, Paris, and then St. Tropez for the new year. In the spring, Sally ventured south to Mexico on the Mayan Peninsula with her daughter, and then attended golf school in Florida with friends ('Now I can hit absolutely nothing!'). Sally continues to reflect on her travel to China last fall with five of her friends. Shanghai, the Karst region, Xian, Kashgar, and Beijing were on their schedule, and Sally was struck by the population boom and the consequent building boom. 'There are 64.5 million apartments that have never even had their electric meters turned on.' Sal said 'this is the Mother of all real estate bubbles, a lurking time bomb for the world economy.'

'My kids are all well. Oakley wrote a proposal to the court system in Manhattan for an experimental program to serve kids in the justice system, ages 16 and 17. It was accepted and she is in the midst of it now. Nick is starting a small real estate holding company in Nashville, and Lacey is still riding and working for a caterer in Boston, while she finishes one more semester at BC. Then real life begins.'

I am sad and so sorry to report that Andrea Hicks' brother, Ted, who was 62, died on June 20, 2012. He left behind his wife of 33 years, Beth, and their daughters Kristin, Katie, and son Thomas; his parents, Reeve and Joan Hicks, and four sisters, all members of the PDS family, Andrea, Lindsey '70, Daren '73 and Libby '77. Ted, who attended PCD, the Hun School, and Lynchburg College, was employed as a property manager for Mid-America Management Company in Pennsylvania. Andrea told me a sweet story about Ted that occurred when after his Hun School graduation he did a post-graduate year at the Stowe School in Stowe, England. Sally Harries Gaudie (who lived with the Hicks family during our senior year at PDS) was back living in England at the time. Sally used to call the school, pretending to be Ted's mother, giving them permission to let him out of school so he could play hooky and visit her. The class of '66 offers its deepest condolences to Andrea and her family.

Pam Erickson MacConnell had hoped to come to PDS for her reunion this past May; however, her youngest child Jay graduated from Stetson University that day. She has been the CEO of the West Volusia Association of REALTORS® for the last four-and-a-half years. She wrote: 'This has been an interesting and challenging job, especially in the real estate market of the past few years. I just recently received my RCE (REALTOR® association Certified Executive) designation, which is a major accomplishment in my field. There are more than 1400 REALTOR® associations in the country and as many as 3,000 to 5,000 association executives and senior staff that are eligible to seek this designation. There are just over 410 REALTOR® association executives who have received this designation. So, I am rather proud of achieving this!'

From Susan:

As I write this, summer is drawing to a close, with warm and dry weather in Connecticut. Thanks to the class members who have sent in news and photos.

Franny Gorman sent in a wonderful photo showing her and her grandchildren, Max and Sailor. I am very lucky to spend as much time with them as I do. We have a lot of sleepovers at Baba's house and we were all together at the Cape. I ran into Betsy Gilliam the other day and we had a nice chat and, of course, I see Woody...but not recently as she is at her house in Maine.'

Julia Lockwood wrote: 'Rachel, our 26-year-old daughter, is heading out to Ann Arbor this week to begin her PhD program in American Studies at the University of Michigan. We'll miss not having her nearby as she had been for the past four years. Shradha, now 20, returns to St. Joseph's College in Standish, Maine as a junior, majoring in environmental studies. Priyanka will be beginning 8th grade here in Freeport. The five of us had a wonderful trip to India last January, our second together after 10 years. We visited both orphanages, toured the beautiful Ajanta caves and Ellora temples in Aurangabad, World Heritage sites, and spent a few days in Bangalore at the Baptist Hospital where Marc has previously volunteered his rheumatology services. Just yesterday we visited with Jennie Borgerhoff and her two children, Arthur and Corie, who are vacationing here in Maine for two weeks. It was great to see her and her sister Beth and husband Ricky. Marc and I are still busy with our practices, thinking about, but not yet planning, retirement.'

Phoebe Knapp's large installation piece 'Tomb,' a sort of mythological labyrinth, was on display in a show entitled 'Do you see what I see? A fine art experience for children & everyone else' that ran in September and October at the Freight Building in Denver, CO.

Polly Smock wrote: 'I'm still living in Staunton, VA and leading hymn-sings once a month at a retirement community with a small group. We're lively with a bit of a bluegrass edge and plenty of improvised harmonies. It's a lot of fun, and seems to be uplifting for everybody. I live near my daughter and her family and my life is, other than the music, pretty quiet.'

Polly said she's learned, through Facebook, 'of a documentary being made by Brad Mays, PHS class of '70, about growing up in Princeton during the late '60s and early '70s. He has filmed a number of people talking about their memories, and has received home videos and personal photos as well. He plans to edit them all together to create a mosaic of sorts about coming of age in that time and place. He hopes to connect people's memories to some of the larger issues of that time. Many of us in the class of '67 were mostly gone from Princeton by then, but some came back or spent summers and after-college time back at home. All memories, whether 'small' and personal or seemingly more important, are welcome, as well as your musings about what it was like to grow up in Princeton or what your part in some of the events may have been. Still photos showing you, friends and/or family along with Princeton landmarks are also welcome. The deadline for sending things in will probably be spring of 2013, but the sooner, the better. Send photos, videos or questions to brad@bradmays.com.'

The Hunter family had a busy spring and summer. I couldn't make it to our 45th PDS reunion in May, because my daughter Lauren was married on May 20 to Ryan Collier in Harwichport, Cape Cod. It's been an eventful year for Lauren, who earned a master's degree in nursing and her nurse practitioner certification in adult mental health. She's working on the psychiatric floor at Mass. General Hospital in Boston and will start working full time in the fall, specializing in adolescent counseling, at a psychiatric clinic in Brockton, MA.

Pam Erickson MacConnell '67

Because we couldn't make it to PDS this year, Phoebe Knapp Warren, Julia Lockwood, Jennie Borgerhoff and I had a mini-reunion in June in Princeton. We had a great time, visiting our old haunts and childhood homes and neighborhoods, and had a short visit with my mother, Eleanor Fritsch, in Newtown, PA. Phoebe also visited her PDS art teacher, Arlene Smith. The four of us talked nonstop for two days, adding memory upon memory (Who knew that Ophie Benson '65 dubbed us "The Beatles?")

Amidst happy times, comes sadness.

Our condolences go out to Franny Gorman and her family on the death of her sister Martha's daughter Missy in an automobile accident in California.

And our condolences go out also to Laura Peterson, whose father, William H. (Bill) Peterson, died in June at his home in Washington, DC. Laura wrote: 'He was 91 and his death followed Mother's by seven months and my brother Mark's by about six years. He was an economics professor, teaching at NYU's business school while we were growing up, and a prolific author in publications ranging from the Harvard Business Review to The Wall Street Journal, to which he contributed around 500 articles including its former 'Reading for Business' column. Among all his accomplishments, though, one stands out: his marriage to my amazing mother, whom he had the good sense never to let go of after meeting her in 1948 at St. Bartholomew's Church (St. Bart's) in New York City.'

From Mary:

Lisa Lawrence sent me a photo from 1990 with this background story. 'I am posing on the 1500-pound rhino made of cement and steel that was made for an art event in Santa Fe. After the outdoor exhibit, the rhino was placed on a huge lawn in front of a state office building. Then it was moved by crane to the front of a gallery at a fork in the road. It was there that I painted the rhino in public. I was nervous as this was the first time I had done 'performance art' in public. I painted before an audience that was anything BUT bashful about voicing opinions.'

I think that this column is always a good place to give free promotion of books written by classmates. The 2012 spring issue highlighted Ann McClellan's book Cherry Blossoms, which was published by National Geographic to help celebrate the 100th anniversary of the gift of 3,000 cherry trees from Tokyo to Washington, DC. What an honor.

There was an in-depth article by Anne Levin in the March 2012 Princeton Magazine about

Lynn Behr Sanford's book, Starboard at Midnight. Levin wrote: 'She (Behr) wrote the book, weaving together fiction and history. She followed the lives of her grandparents, Karl Behr and Helen Newcom, who were survivors of the Titanic tragic sinking in April 1912. Lynn felt determined to get to know their story and she found scrapbooks and memoirs to help her do just that. It's a good read.'

Gail Smith Cleare is not new to the world of book publishing. She wrote: 'My first novel, Destined, has over 17,600 readers from sales on Amazon.com (mostly e-books) and won honorable mention in general fiction at the 2012 Green Book Festival in San Francisco. My second novel, Secrets We Keep, has been rewritten umpteen times, is looking for an agent, and is currently in the top 30 on Authonomy.com (a website for authors owned by Harper Collins publishers). My third novel, I Love Chocolate, is a romance with recipes!'

Gail added, 'In the last couple of years of George Packard's life, I helped him self-publish three new books and republish his novel that originally came out in 1968. Rick Ross and I have arranged also to have them printed in limited edition hardback format and with George's widow Kordula are donating a set of his works to the PDS library with a plaque to commemorate his contributions to the school. We're hoping to have a little ceremony when we have our 45th reunion. I hope everyone who used to hang around his office will come and we can summon up his spirit!'

Gail's oldest son Matthew got married to Ashley in Vermont. They are expecting a girl any moment. Gail will attend the birth. She wrote, 'I am very honored. I got to be there for Camila's birth and it was fabulous. It's a lot more fun than having a baby yourself!' She was thrilled to go to Puerto Rico for the wedding of her middle son Justin and his wife Judy. And Ryan, her youngest son, is heading to Ithaca College this fall to get his BA in writing and film making.

In mid-July there was news from Sue Kleinberg: 'At the end of 2010, I retired from the Motor Vehicle Commission, where, as part of the legal staff, I primarily regulated bus services. In May of last year, I moved in with my mother in Keyport, since she had become too frail to live on her own. She passed on in December. I am still in Keyport, which I am trying to settle her affairs, to restore my childhood home to its former 1950s glory and to embark on a second career. My children, fortunately, are nearby and pursuing successful careers. Cecily is marketing manager at Huntington Learning Centers in Oradell and Teddy is a management trainee at Enterprise in Toms River. Not so fortunately, unlike many of you, I don't have any grandchildren yet. Next year is our 45th. Can you believe it? I'd like to help out with our 45th reunion.' Your help will be most welcome, Sue! I'll sign you up right now!

Leigh Keyser Phillips has been commuting back and forth from Vermont to Florida for a couple of years and feels it's time for a change. 'We've decided the time has come to downsize and to put our house in VT on the market. We are continuing to work on our golf games, with some progress. Peter is still the chair of the Forman School (Litchfield, CT) board, and I am still on the board of the Flynn Center for the Performing Arts in Burlington, VT and co-chairing the committee rewriting the VT non-profit corporation statute, which we hope will be introduced and passed next year. My daughter Hally, her husband John and two-year-old Clara live in Lexington, MA and they are expecting their second child. Brent is still in Park City, UT working for Skullcandy as Director of International Operations and pursuing many outdoor activities. Stewart works in west L.A. as a sales associate for professional recording equipment.

Seems there is a baby boomlet going on for the class of '68! In addition to Gail and Leigh, I, too, am pleased to announce the arrival of Sean Masin Nierenburg, my daughter Katie's firstborn.

Classmate Bob Spears sent a quick update: 'Right now I am in Vegas watching the women's Olympic marathon. I am here because last night my wife and I ran the ET half marathon at area 41. Started at midnight. Lots of fun. We both just retired and are having fun.'

Here is the latest from Bob Ramsey: 'I am pretty much retired from the practice of law at this point and have devoted my energies to teaching. My wife Kelley and I own an education company named 'Garden State CLE.' We provide continuing legal education to attorneys in NJ, PA and NY via live classes and online video. All the classes are free. Check it out at www.GardenStateCLE.com. My two boys are growing up quickly. Patrick is now 11 and Jack is 9. Both are looking forward to attending PDS... a full century after I enrolled there.' How exciting to carry on the PDS tradition!

Lisa Lawrence '68: Living Dangerously in Santa Fe, 1990

On behalf of our class, I'd like to extend condolences to Sue Kleinberg on the passing of her mother in December.

Can you believe that we will be celebrating our 45th reunion in May 2013? I hope we have a good turnout as in years past.

Joan Williams continues to run the Center for WorkLife Law. She is finishing an advice book for women professionals – The New Girls Network – written with her daughter, who is headed to Yale Law School. Her son just graduated from Johns Hopkins in materials science and is looking for a job in solar or battery design in the Bay area. Joan and her husband Jim try to hike in Marin every weekend.

Wendy Lawson-Johnston McNeil and her husband Tom are now permanently living outside of Charleston, SC in their cabin in the woods on family property. Wendy wrote: 'It is a beautiful way of life, even though it is hard to be away from family and friends on a daily basis. I ride a fair amount, bang through the woods on my ATV and continue to do the typical work I always have for the Guggenheim and other family interests. I don't miss the suburban life at all, although there are times when I wish I didn't have to drive 20 minutes for the closest loaf of bread.

'I still return to Princeton and New York on a regular basis while fitting in as many visits as possible with both children, their spouses and our two grandsons in Richmond, VA. Highway 95 seems to have become my second home! However, with my wonderful annual trips out west to trail ride and now living in the forests of the low country, I must say the live oaks sweep away the stress, which at 60, is a nice direction to be headed.'

Our condolences, Lindsey, to you and your entire family.

It's been a while since I've submitted a class note, so I have some catching up to do, at least for the classmates I haven't seen in recent decades. I am still married to the same man after 31 years, am still living in the same house, and still have the same one child Mario, now 23.

Banking and I parted ways seven years ago, and my post-banking career path has led me to the nonprofit sector. I am now head of the resource development department as well as capital campaign director for Isles, Inc., a community development organization close to our home in hardscrabble but historic Trenton. People in our PDS class will certainly understand the magnitude of problems in Trenton. In fact, many families I had come to know through PDS have been among the most stalwart supporters of Isles' work.

I had never imagined myself in a fundraising position, but the opportunity to work for an organization that makes an important impact in our community's many distressed neighborhoods was compelling. In fact, for five years during my career at US Trust, I was president of the Isles board of trustees, so I was very familiar with the organization's good works. I'd be happy to show those works to any classmate interested in seeing them!

I have been active in other (unpaid!) avenues of public service. It was a surprise to me when Governor Jon Corzine in 2009 appointed me a commissioner of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission, which operates all 20 bridges between New Jersey and Pennsylvania from Trenton north to the New York state line, but I have found it a fascinating window into how bi-state agencies operate. I've also recently joined the board of the Open Space Institute, which protects scenic natural and historic landscapes in the East – ironically, serving in the company of another one-time PDS trustee, former board chair Samuel W. Lambert. I had been elected a director of the Harvard Alumni Association back in 1994, and eleven years later became the Association's 127th president. During my one-year presidency, I had to represent the Association at alumni conferences in places as far-flung as Istanbul and New Delhi, and in the latter venue to introduce prime minister Manmohan Singh to the 500 participants. It was an honor to acknowledge, and in a sense embody, the changing face of the higher ranks of American education.

This has made me especially appreciative of the tireless efforts at maintaining connections with alumni that Molly Sword McDonough has undertaken for our class. Kudos to Molly, and greetings to you all!

From Molly:

To all of our wonderful classmates, thank you for your fun, fascinating and generous sharing of news and photos. If you are not on my e-mail list, or if I have an inaccurate e-mail address for you (you will know this if you haven't received a swarm of e-mails with the subject heading, "PDS Class Notes," or "PDS '75.")

She loves the stage and unlike her mother who was put in the back row of the tap number in 'No No Nannette,' she shines front and center. The new passion is paddle surfing. My husband has five boards for all sorts of conditions, including surfing in Dubai.'

I am in the heart of the conservation treatment and then the curator and I will go to collections in Spain and Europe to look at other works by Vincent Carducho in the hope that we can confirm the work's authorship. My daughter Sarah will be starting her freshman year at Oberlin this Fall – her interests are neuroscience, psychology, theater and writing. I also had the opportunity to see Molly (Sword McDonough) a month or so ago. She hasn't changed a bit...still a total hoot to hang with.

The L-J family update is simple. I have a wonderful wife and three great boys. Unfortunately for my wife, the three boys are just like me. We are essentially 'red necks' who spend virtually every free moment either hunting, fishing, or enjoying the odd cocktail. Not exactly the life most women embrace. Peter also commented to Sally (Blodget Carton) that his firm, Guggenheim Partners, is co-headquartered in Chicago (and NYC) and hopes to catch up with her on one of his visits; to Anne Russell, he noted that the Guggenheim Museum has plans to build a Frank Gehry-designed museum in Abu Dhabi; and to John Joyce, Peter stated: "Boy that septic tank leach field sounds like fun!!!"

Lucy Gorelli, who lives in Hopewell Township, was a flight surgeon for the US Navy for many years. She is now a civilian, and processing physicals for the military at Fort Dix/McGuire/Lakehurst.

Molly Sword McDonough: 'I have been busy writing PDS Class Notes....as well as working on an event for the 25th Anniversary of Habitat for Humanity of Trenton, in September. I am also involved in the Princeton Cemetery Committee at our church, which may seem bizarre, but it is fascinating! Pete and I celebrated our 27th anniversary in August, and our kids are totally engaged in living their lives to the fullest. From Martha:

As summer winds down, the PDS class of '79 is showing no signs of slowing down, judging by the many interesting posts showing up on Facebook and Twitter.

For this edition of the Journal, Laura Farina filed this report:

Lots of changes in my life since the summer of 2011 but first want to share one of the highlights of the summer of 2012! Last month I had lunch with someone many of you will remember from our middle school years, David "Un" Settle. The first love of my life and great middle school friend, David and his family are doing well in Arlington, Virginia. We met for lunch at Joe Theisman's (of course, a sports themed bar :-)) and talked for three hours like no time had passed since I last saw him in the late '90s in NJ. We reminisced about most of the years since 1973-74 and he wanted to start at the beginning. He is as sweet as ever. He and his wife have three children, from post-college to middle school, and (I think) I got a commitment from him to attend our next class reunion! In any case, it was so nice to go down memory lane with a guy who has a better memory than I do. Also, last summer I left Discovery Communications after 12+ years, the final seven years managing global litigation, and then finished a master's program in sports industry management at Georgetown. I wrote my thesis on the historical and economic analysis of team relocations based on five case studies (yes, the Brooklyn Dodgers to LA and the Baltimore Colts to Indianapolis were two of them) and am now writing a book based on my project. Cousins Jill Migliori Maxson '77, her husband Joe and son Joey attended my graduation. Last but not least, I launched a company, Huggy Duggy, LLC (www.huggyduggy.com, website relaunching this fall), inspired by my adopted flat coat retriever/border collie mix, Seaver. We design and sell apparel and products for people and their pets. My goal is to become a recognized brand and give back to shelters and rescue organizations for dogs and cats. Currently we are selling online and in boutiques from NJ to San Francisco. We have a Facebook page and Twitter feed ... check it out!

Nick Donath is wrapping up his studies at the William S. Boyd School of Law at UNLV. He is about two semesters and 11 months away from taking the bar. We're hoping he'll give it back when he's done, but we're not counting on it.

Cathy White Mertz and I both have kids becoming high school seniors this fall and have spent our respective summers helping them sort through the college planning process. Guess which of our kids has figured out which school he wants to go to, and has finished his common application and essays? Now guess which one has not. Remotely.

Kelly Lambert Walker wrote that the past year has been a crazy one for her family. We are back in the college search for our middle child Anne, who will graduate next June, also from Tabor. I am lucky enough to be one of her class' advisors and have her as one of the captains of my field hockey team this fall. Our youngest Sarah threw us a curveball with her pleas and final decision to go to boarding school this fall. She will be a second form student at Lawrenceville starting this coming week! I learned last night that one of her classmates to be is Griffin Thompson, the son of Sarah Griffin Thompson '84 and Newell Thompson '82. I won't be surprised if we run into more people we know when we are there. It is a very exciting time for all of us. I am starting my 26th year teaching at Tabor and we have a new Head of School for the first time in 24 years. This past June, we were in Princeton to do a memorial burial for my mom. My sister Sarah '89 and brother Sam '86, and I were also able to have our families together in Colorado to do a similar event for her at our house in the mountains. Her passing has been difficult for all of us but we also recognize that time together is so valuable. I hope to be able to be in Princeton for our 30th in May 2013.

I'm living in Seattle and no matter how far I am from PDS, I am reminded of the teachers through some everyday encounter. I am working for an architecture firm downtown (will always be grateful to Mr. Whitlock) and am Project Manager on a Santa Barbara Museum of Natural History project. This summer in Seattle has been stunning; blue skies, cool evenings, completely stellar. My sister, Wickie, arrives this afternoon from LA for the weekend and we'll get together with our sister, Cynthia, who lives in Duvall for a Bishop bike riding reunion. It is with great sadness that I report the passing of our long-time classmate, Rita Sweeney Ehmann. Rita started at PDS in kindergarten. She died after a courageous battle with melanoma on August 9, 2012. The following obituary appeared on the legacy.com site:

Rita Anne Sweeney, 46, died on August 9 after a long struggle with melanoma. She died peacefully at home with her family in San Anselmo, CA. Born in New York City on Sept. 23, 1965, she attended Princeton Day School, and for her final 2 years, Princeton High School. She attended Cook College of Rutgers University, graduating with a BS. Rita played lacrosse at Rutgers, where she was named All-American in her third year. After working for Merck Pharmaceuticals, she decided on medicine as a career. She graduated from UMDNJ-Robert Wood Johnson medical school in 1999 with MD and MPH degrees. She practiced at Marin General Hosp in Marin County, CA. Shortly after moving to the San Francisco area, she met her husband, Charley Ehmann, and they were married in 2007. Their family includes a son Charley John, 3, a daughter August Jeanne, 4, and Charley's children: Ruby, 10, and Simon, 15. Rita's colleagues, friends and family were all devoted to her, and especially attentive during her long illness and numerous difficult treatments. She is survived by her husband and children; her father William A. Sweeney and his wife Dorothy H. Shannon; her brothers, John A. Sweeney and his wife Cary R. Speidell; Mark W. Sweeney and his wife, Catherine Wolf Sweeney and their children Evan, 16, and Heather, 13. There will be a service of celebration of her life to be scheduled later in the fall. In lieu of flowers, donations may be sent to: St. Aidan's Episcopal Church, PO Box 629, Bolinas, CA, 94924, or Yoga for Cancer, PO Box 64, Fairfax, CA, 94978-0064 or Melanoma Research Foundation, PO Box 759329, Baltimore, MD 21275-9329.

From Arianna:

The big, inevitable news: 2013 brings our 25th reunion. Mark your calendars for the weekend of May 17-18. Details will follow over the next few months, but we hope to see everyone there. Your reunion committee so far includes Collins Roth, Kit Greenberg, Dawn Feldman Fakuda, Brit Eaton, Julia Herr, Taylor Hwang, Courtney Shannon, and myself.

Our sympathies and condolences to Andy Shaffer, whose father passed away this summer.

Dawn Feldman Fakuda reported: 'I was recently elected Chair of the National Association of State and Territorial AIDS Directors (NAS-TAD). Spending lots of time in D.C. and Alex Wolfson '87 and his son, Kai, in Germany.

Atlanta talking about the importance of health care reform and what we have learned in Massachusetts. I will be participating in a 5K run later this month to raise funds for our local symphony orchestra. The event is being managed by Greg Gordon, class of 1989! See everyone in May.'

Holly Greenberg wrote: 'Nothing much has changed save for being accepted into a doctoral program in depth psychology with a focus on psychotherapy and nearing the last of my intern hours to complete my marriage and family therapist licensing. I am thrilled about the Ph.D. program and excited to see where it takes me! I will do my best to be at the 25th as it's also an excuse to see my dad and Lambros Xethalis and Amy Venable Ciuffreda – like I really need an excuse.'

Taylor Hwang 'went to a wedding in Seattle last month and saw Siobhan Stiglitz and met her husband, Stanley, and daughter, Rianna. We hadn't seen each other since college and we spent the day at the Seattle Aquarium and had dinner together. It was great catching up and introducing our respective families to each other.'

Jeremy Rabb just filmed a role in the as-yet-untitled new Spike Jonze movie. You can congratulate him at the reunion.

Laura Heins just started working as a managing director at Charles Schwab Investment Management in charge of structured products research. She and her husband live in Pacific Heights with their 19-month-old twins, Brewster and Hunter. If you want to be cheered up by funny baby videos, search Yahoo for 'Hubbs twins.' Apparently, all her boys do is laugh all day. She adds, 'Elizabeth Hare was in SF around the end of May and we hung out one afternoon in the park with our boys. Her son Jasper was soooo good with the boys. It was great to see.'

Christine Grounds is settling into her new Tribeca digs with her husband Jon and their two sons. I saw Jessie Robertson and Nicole Dunn '89 this spring before Nicole moved to Los Angeles. Jessie is thriving in private practice. She thought it would reduce her hours; of course it hasn't. (At what point, by the way, does work get easier? Is that for the 50th reunion update?)

Julia Herr checked in from the US Open (once a tennis lover, always a tennis lover) to say she's looking forward to seeing everyone in May.

Collins and I met up in New York recently. His travel schedule is as active as ever and his family is doing well.

I had lunch with Kit Greenberg Herrera in London in the spring. She was pregnant with Sebastian, who was born in July and is totally adorable. On the same trip I saw Melissa Baron Murdoch, which was great fun.

I spent a few weeks in Croatia this summer; it's my new favorite place. I think we should have our 25th on Brioni, Tito's former Yugoslav holiday island, though I realize that the commute will be a bitch and Mrs. Skvir would never approve it. See you all at Colross.

From Mandy:

As always I hope this edition finds the class of '97 well. As I write this, sadly, summer is coming to an end and always I think of September as a new year, despite the fact that I have not bought new school supplies, or back-to-school clothes in longer than I care to put in writing, or attended twice-a-day pre-season field hockey practice in a long, long time (which I am totally ok with). This past summer I did, however, get to celebrate the wonderful and joyous wedding weekend of Louise Sturges to Tyler Brodie. It was truly a perfect weekend in Maine, and the bride was, of course, beautiful, every detail was pure Louise! We had a mini-PDS reunion on the coast of Maine as Mariana Sparre and Gayatri Bhatnagar were both bridesmaids, and Charles Plohn was a guest along with myself. It was definitely a great way to cap off the summer!

Earlier in the summer I was able to steal away to Connecticut to visit Janie Egan Bertelson and family, where they are doing great - watch out as I think her son Mac is bound for the PGA tour, keep your eyes peeled in 15 years! Aside from these great weekends away I started the summer with an amazing trip to Cuba for the Havana Biennial with the Museum of Modern Art. It was definitely one of the most fascinating places I have ever been! I hope everyone is doing well. As always please send any information my way!

Reese Jamieson Applegate, daughter of Annie Jamieson Applegate ('99).

Kevin McCormick, Missy Woodruff McCormick '95, Matt Rominger, Joanna Woodruff Rominger '99, Connor McCormick, Tina and Lou Woodruff.

From Joanna:

2011-2012 has been quite the year for some in the class of 1999. Many of us have completed master's and doctorate programs, got married, had babies, and made some big moves around the country. On October 9, 2011, I married Matthew Rominger, in a beautiful outdoor wedding at the John James Audubon Center at Mill Grove (a nature preserve outside of Philadelphia, PA). My sister, Missy Woodruff McCormick '95, was my matron of honor. My husband and I met four years ago while teaching in the Lower School at Germantown Academy. He is now the Assistant Director of Admission, and the Head Ice Hockey coach. I have been given the opportunity to start a Drama program in the Middle School, which will include 6th grade drama, 7th and 8th grade public speaking, and three productions annually. We now live in Lansdale, PA with our 2 dogs, Madison and Gunnar, and couldn't be happier!

Amanda Suomi married Robert Gorrie, Hun '98, in an intimate ceremony on the north shore of Kauai this summer. Amanda was a teacher at the Hanalei School in Kauai. Her bridesmaids included Candace Vahlising, Stephanie Sanders, and Pooja Raj '98. Rob's groomsmen included David Suomi '91 and Peter Suomi '96.

John Griffith is getting married on September 15 to Rebecca Lintner. Rebecca attended PDS as a member of the class of '95, until she left to attend Lawrenceville. They are currently living in NYC, but are in the process of buying a house in Princeton. John is still working at BlackRock, where he has been for the past nine years, and Rebecca is a pediatric anesthesiologist at Montefiore Medical Center in the Bronx. They are looking forward to escaping NYC more often for their favorite town of Princeton!

Annie Jamieson Applegate welcomed her first-born this past summer. Annie says, 'Reese Jamieson Applegate was born on July 8. She's perfect, and we are loving every minute with her!'

If anyone else in the Class of '99 has exciting news that you would like to include in the next Journal, please reach out. I'd love to hear from you, and share your updates with the rest of the PDS community. Hope all is well!

In West Africa, DJ Put On, who we remember as Kunle Onitiri, was making it big as an international DJ. Onitiri writes: 'I recently came back from playing in West Africa, where I spent most of my time in Nigeria where I dj'd on live radio, television, and a few prominent clubs and weddings.' Onitiri says his 'new regions of musical conquer include Ghana, South Africa, the UK, and the UAE.' He also played in Jamaica in April. In the United States, Onitiri was the official DJ of African Fashion Week in NYC, and is the weekly MC and DJ at Bleu Martini in Philadelphia. He has two radio shows, including one on BottomMusicRadio.com. For more updates from DJ Put On, you can check out his Twitter feed at <http://www.twitter.com/LiadPutUOn>.

'04 classmates Julianna Clark and Jeremy Hofmann at their wedding in July

Mike Rappaport is taking the San Francisco startup scene by storm as the senior customer delight manager at AdRoll, a startup in San Francisco that specializes in targeting online advertisements. Rappaport wrote: "AdRoll was just named the #1 fastest growing advertising company in the country by Inc. magazine. Crazy! I knew the company was special, but it's always nice to get some outside recognition.' Rappaport also enjoys 'hiking in Lake Tahoe, playing golf around the bay, and going to a ton of concerts.' While the 'West Coast is absolutely amazing,' Rappaport admits that he 'miss[es] Jersey from time to time' and 'had a great time hanging with Kevin Smith and Fred Mittnacht when I went home for two weeks in July.'

Tanvi Goel and Hannah Tamminen are changing location to pursue advanced degrees. Goel is getting her MBA at Harvard, while Tamminen is leaving New York to get her MFA in acting from UCSD. In order to get to San Diego, Tamminen is driving across the country, and reports that she 'already misses the East Coast.' Tamminen thinks she saw me in Central Park a few months ago near the softball fields. This is very likely, since I loiter on the Great Lawn on Saturday afternoons attempting to pick up Jewish girls. I spend the rest of my time as a law student at Columbia. This summer, I worked in Washington, DC as an intern for the Navy's Judge Advocate General Corps, where I went on an aircraft carrier and got a sunburn. The internship over all was pretty cool, though. The way the law job market works, I am already looking for jobs for next summer. (Contact information for parents who are big machers in law firms is always welcome.)

“The education I received at PDS extended far beyond the classroom.”

2011 Alumni Service Award Winner

“Lifelong friends, athletic competition, art, music and a great mixture of academic classes proved a firm foundation for my life. I can't imagine other children not having the same opportunity that I had. That's why I've included Princeton Day School in my estate planning.”

The May Margaret Fine Society: Established in 1998, the May Margaret Fine Society recognizes those loyal alumnae/i, parents and friends who have informed the school that they have made provisions for Princeton Day School in their estate plans. Including the school in their will, establishing a charitable trust while maintaining life income, or naming the school as a life insurance beneficiary are some of the ways these individuals have helped secure the long-term strength of Princeton Day School.

If you have included Princeton Day School in your estate plans or would like to learn more about including the school in your estate plans, contact Kathy Schulte, Director of Advancement, at 609-924-6700 ext. 1255 or kschulte@pds.org.
