Dedication

Sanford B. Bing

Warmth and humor create bonds between you and the students of Princeton Day School. Within the last thirteen years, every upper-schooler has known you, whether it be as an advisor, as teacher of an eighth grade IPS class, on the playing field (no one has witnessed more J.V. athletics), or from one of your "welcome back to reality" speeches in the first September assembly. You and your women's lib tie are an integral part of the PDS experience. We thank you.

Tribute Sally Paterson

In her own calm, quiet, intelligent manner, this woman inspired a love of learning and introduced a joy of reading to our children for over eighteen years.

Tribute

Marie Kennedy

Who has withstood more sarcasm? "Filet of highway dog" and "plastic chicken" jokes. Always endured with a wry smile and a ready answer. For this relief much thanks.

Jump up, look around, find yourself some fun.
No sense sitting there hating everyone.

Ian Anderson

Doubt not but angling will prove to be so pleasant that it will prove to be, like virtue, a reward to itself.

Izaak Walton, 1653

I'm sailing away.
Set an open course for the virgin sea
For I've got to be free.
Free to face the life that's ahead of me.

Grand Old Parr

No straight lines make up my life and all my roads have bends.
There's no clear cut beginnings,
and so far no dead ends.

Harry Chapin

David Albahary

Just an excitable boy.

Warren Zevon

Ellen Pinkus

I saw a man pursuing the horizon;
Round and round they sped.
I was disturbed at this;
I accosted the man.
"It is futile," I said,
"You can never —"

"You lie" he cried,
And ran on.

Stephen Crane

Be cheerful while you are alive.

Ptahhotpe

The Western world has created me, given me my name, has hidden the truth as a permanent and historical fact. I may recover from this and I may not. I'm a grim man, young and intelligent enough to tell you that not many survive being born black in America and that America is a creation and descendent of Europe.

James Baldwin

Reggie Reese

They said I'm mad, bitter, possessed, but they never said that I was wrong.

James Baldwin

Abby Hurowitz

We are all here for a spell, get all the good laughs you can.

Will Rogers

True friendship comes when silence between two people is comfortable.

One day I'll be the minstrel in the gallery
and paint you a picture of the Queen.

Ian Anderson

And yet my heart wanders away,
My soul roams with the sea, the whales home,
Wandering to the widest corners of the world.

from an Anglo-Saxon poem, The Seafarer

Had I unknown phrases,
Sayings that are strange,
Novel, untried words,
Free of repetition;
Not transmitted sayings,
Spoken by the ancestors!
I wring out my body of what it holds,
In releasing all my words;
For what was said is repetition,
When what was said is said.
Ancestors' words are nothing to boast of,
They are found by those who come after.

Would that they knew what others ignore,
Such as has not been repeated,
To say it and have my heart answer me,
Relate to it of what I suffer,
And sigh "ah" with relief!

Senator Nicholas F. Brady

'Cause I remember when we used to

Observing the hypocrites,
Yeah, mingle with the good people we

Good friends we have,
Oh, good friends we have lost.
Along the way
In this refuge you can't forget your

So dry your tears, I say . . .
No woman no cry.

... Stand up to the blow that fate has struck upon you
Make the most of all you still have coming to you
Or lay down on the ground and let the tears run from you
Crying to the grass and trees and heaven finally on your knees

Let me live again
Let life come find me wanting
Spring must strike again, against the shield of winter
Let me feel once more the arms of love surround me
Telling me the danger's past I need not fear the icy blast again.

The world is sentient no more.
The living pulse which was the Caribou flutters with the

MOUSE AND MAN

A relative grook on co-existence

A human being sharing with a mouse.
Each thinks himself the master of the house.

In fact, of course, each occupier's place is
The other's insulating interspaces.

invisible to the eye.

Insist on yourself; never imitate.

Your own gift you can present every moment with the cumulative force of a whole life's cultivation; but of the adopted talent of another, you have only an extemporaneous, half possession. I am part of all that I have met;
Yet all experience is an arch wherethro'

Snakes are coiled upon the granite.
 Horesmen ride into the west.
 Moons are rising on the planet
 where the worst must suffer like the rest.

Pears are ripe and peaches falling.
 Suns are setting in the east.
 Women wail and men are calling to the god that's in them, and to the beast.

Love is waiting for a lover.
 Generations kneel for peace.
 What men lose, Man will recover polishing the brains his bones release.

Now I see the secret of the making of the best

It is to grow in the open air and to eat and

Here is the test of wisdom
Wisdom is not finally tested in schools,
Wisdom cannot be pass'd from one having it

Wisdom is of the soul . . . ,

Greatness is in the difference,
Not in the sameness.
Not in the conformity to an abstract

But in their own identity,
The very privilege of being
And being God's own unique creation.
Why's it that we have to keep peeling

Digging down layer after layer
Of our person
To discover what's inside

In our very existence
As one of God's creatures on this

In the place where you were born, and where you grow up, the things you learn are the things that all men must know. Although they are the simplest things, it takes a man's life really to know them. And if you are to be a writer, the stories that you make up will be true in proportion to the amount of this knowledge of life that you have; so that when you make something up, it is as if it would truly be: with the good and the bad, the ecstasy, the remorse, the people and the places — and how the weather was.

For Peter

Yesterday was for doing, living . . . living life as though immortal

Living life only to have it taken in its pursuit, but taken only of body, not spirit.
The death of a biological container . . .
friendly to our eyes, yet only a container to house the essence of a true soul, a loving friend.

I do not cry for my departed friend, ever so young. I only cry for myself for he has gone to a higher plateau and no longer needs me, I only need him.

He has earned the final rush of life . . .
being death . . . he has experienced it all.
Birth, love . . . now going on to things I can only try to comprehend.

Now, I can only wish that I too pass, being loved by someone as we have all loved Peter.

A loving friend,

THE ARTS

Light
Is a form of dance.
It plays on the hills in the morning,
Then dips into the valleys,
Energetically dancing with the clouds.
It leaps onto the brooks
Which gurgle back.
But by noon the energy of light is gone.
It falls onto the ground
Resting sleepily on the Earth,
Forgetting the dance,
And the clouds cover it intermittently.
Then
It awakes
And plays with shadows —
A slow pas de deux.
And when they come on for their final bow,
It is night.

Sitting on the Park Bench

Darkness was coming, finally. It came slowly and so the man was suffered to watch the disappearing sun. He hated the sun and the hill on which it perched. He condemned the sun; he condemned Apollo he condemned himself for knowing of Apollo. He condemned memory. It is memory that makes the bench harder, he mused out loud. And surprised, he thought how profound his thoughts were.

The man breathed out and watched the cold mist that wasn't formed. He watched the frozen hardness that didn't numb his skin. He neglected to see the small bead of sweat that slowly crawled through his ragged beard; up and down, up and down. From the oily brown bag he drank gin alternately with deep swigs of air. Near his foot scrounged a small inchworm, and seeing it, the man stamped it. He did all this.

The spring was abominable. With friggin' flowers that made him sneeze and the damn lovers that took up his benches; it was abominable. And as he thought this, he laughed, for he knew it was jealousy and not greed that made him feel so. There is a difference between the two, and for him jealousy was the better vice. At least he was accustomed to it. Dusk came and his bare feet on the cold concrete began to tingle. It is the waking that makes them tingle and not sleep as everyone thinks. And he thought how much more appropriate this was, but he did not want to wake up. He wanted to sleep. He wanted to sleep and stop the thoughts that raced through his head. He wanted to sleep and stop the tingling in his foot. He wanted to sleep. He wanted to stop.

With more gin and less air, sleep came. At first he dreamed of fresh rainy air, warm earth, and soft breezes and then his dream changed and he was sneezing under a hot sun, near a cactus in the sand. In actuality he was sneezing. Damn allergies; he was allergic to everything. Sneezes came one after the other. But the worst was when his nose began to tingle. It is true that drink produces the hiccups. I guess it gets rid of this tingling, though, he thought sleepily. And he guessed right.

After, it was hard to sleep. He tried hard not to open his eyes but soon he was staring into the sky. Wearily he began his task, trying no longer to fight it. There were the numbers in his head and the stars in the sky and somehow they had to be matched up. Then, after much counting, he slowly grasped a star. And from a long, long string he swung. And the star held him with the utmost gravity. On the hard bench he swung. Down on this shrouded earth, down where there were many lights so no one would be afraid of the dark. He swung unafraid. He heard a car lurching, realizing no gravity. He heard a crowd walk by with no center. And it seemed he was in another time, but certainly not a strange time. No, this was the time. Suddenly he lurched from the park bench, expelled from his world. Falling, he came to rest on the tall grasses and threw up. When he woke, daylight streamed in his eyes.

Dancer

I am a dancer, always one step behind.
There is constantly one beat I cannot find.
Just when I get the step, the music changes beat.
I'm left behind, with two left feet.
I fend the beat.
I keep a tight grasp.
Then the music I knew, is a part of the past.
I practice a new dance, and eventually I get it right,
But the lyrics and notes only last one night.

Thief

The Mindblowing, Murdering Milkman,
 leaving his pretensions in a bin by the door,
Raided the icebox of my psyche
 and helped himself
To the venerable vegetables of my Memory,
 leaving untouched
The rancid fruit of my Hypocrisy,
 the moldy burgers of my Bitterness,
And the spoiled cheese of my numerous regrets.
He drank to the dregs
 the intoxicating fluid of my Happiness
And flung the empty bottle
 at the reeking rubbish of my misspent Love.
He shattered the lifeless boxes
 that contained my buried Secrets
And exposed the putrid contents
 to the eyeball of my Conscience.
And when at last
He was content
With all that he had eaten, pocketed, or stomped upon,
He turned on a hairy heel to leave
and, as an afterthought,
Wiped his bloody boots
on the doormat of my Soul.

Baby Boon

People who haven't been much exposed to babies have often gained the impression that children under two years do nothing but coo at their parents and play calmly in groups on spotless white mats. But not so.

I have been blessed with a bouncing baby brother for ten months now. It was with great expectation that I saw him enter the household. How nice it would be to hear the dulcet nonsensical sounds over dinner, and to watch him placidly play in his white-matted playpen with the mirrors and fuzzies that would shape his awareness. Sure, I had heard the back-row babies fill the silence in churches; I had seen indignant bald heads yelling importunities at their cruel, indifferent, Bloomingdale mothers. But these were the products of neglectful parents. Normal children resembled a Gerber food label. Il ne faut qu'être patient.

As I write this I am sitting just as I was a week ago, when I watched my brother peel off the cover of my pocket dictionary.

"Benevolent brothers do not peel their siblings' dictionaries," I informed him, giving a conciliatory harmonica and putting on the most soothing tape of Berlioz I could find.

His musical interest, however, seemed less inclined to the harmonica than my turntable. Fascinated, he lifted the lid and pushed a pudgy hand toward my seventy-dollar cartridge.

"Wise brothers," I told him, "do not covet their older sibling's seventy-dollar cartridge," and shut the lid.

Still intrigued by this delicate instrument, the creature again lifted the lid and jerkily slapped the surface of the Jefferson Airplane album within. So, without further comment I set him in the center of the room and distractingly blew into the harmonica.

This he did not like. And with copious gesture and a voice antithetical to the "Symphonie Fantastique," he told me how little he did like it. I held him and promised I would not play more, that the music would soon be over, that he too would one day have a turntable and a dictionary to dismember; but he would not be consoled. Setting my brother next to a small pile of belts, I sat, even as I'm, sitting now, and scraped at a nameless taupe smudge my sleeve had acquired straying too near the high chair. The blood of my blood crawled to the door (closed to keep him from dipping his hands in the toilet or rolling downstairs) and bawled. Just then its mother entered and told me I'd been cruel and indifferent. I had to agree, but I had had enough.

Dinners have brought not dulcet cooings but persistent, insistent groans between courses and an occasional drizzle of unwanted strained liver. The playpen too was recognized for what it was, and during a short experimental period, screams for freedom flew through the house. But I have been disillusioned.

Nature demands that dependent young be cute, for they would otherwise starve. And my brother is cute. Wide-eyed, he will call me "da" (also "mother, father, dog," and "Cheerios") and wave. No, even if he were to fall solely into my care, he would not die of neglect.

Our Daughter
Our Sister
Our "Weezie"
You mean the world to all of us.

At many times and in many different ways
you have touched us all.
We are proud, we thank you, and most of all,
we love you.
Mom, Dad, Greg, Doug, Russel

Mom, Dad, Ted, Christi, and Susie — "Home is where your heart is" and mine is always with you. Thanks for more than I can say. I love you very much. Nancy and Charlie — Thank you both for making things easy and so much fun. Your support meant very much to me this year. Sue Neider — you expanded my perspective with psychology. The lesson will stay with me forever, but above all I will remember our friendship. To everyone involved in Peer Group — it was a real "growth experience". Thanks for sharing it with me. To all my different friends throughout PDS — I have forgotten some of the inside jokes and anecdotes but the feeling still remains. Thanks for every year.

Love, Vicki

Ebe — canoe trips down the Rocky Hill Rapids, our mutual love problems, long talks on all our car rides, Early Decision partying, Vermont, . . . thanks for all the memories — I love you. Yôtée — "Dit!" I'll never forget you or your bomb of a car. Keep in touch, Bunnibus. Sam, Brew & Mayer — The Bomb, wild partying, the Twilight Zone, the munchies, the giggles, playing "Who Am I?", we've become close in a special way. Rena, Sarah, Laurie — the Prom, exams, bullfrogs, Bird, good partying times and many laughing sessions are the memories of us that I'll have forever. Although I've drifted lately, I really love you all. Louise, Carrie — From Blueberry muffins and dead leg fights to my snorting, Carrie's uncontrollable badder and Louise's purple hands we always stayed friends. Karri, Adam, Janet, Stewart, Earl — I'll miss you. Mom, Dad & David — Through all my traumas and "stages" you've stood behind me and given your support. I need and love you more than I would ever let you know. Don't forget about me next year. Love, Bonnie

Laurie — Thanks for your friendship this year. Good luck next year and don't lose touch. P.S. Maybe Scott and I will walk through a blizzard to see you sometime soon. O.K.? Love ya, Lynne Louise — Sun Valley summers, Dockside bubbly margarita nights, "I'll have a bowl of vegetable spaghetti," "Anastasia? Isn't that what they use at the dentist?" "Girl you want", dancing in the Besselaar's pool, the Intrepid party and cab driver, Phil Collins, Dartmouth champagne, Rena's drinking game and adding squares to it, trying to get out of the gondola at Stowe. Guess we never made it to Middlebury! . . . I'll keep pissing on working sprinklers if you keep knife-throwing in restaurants. O.K.? Take care next year at Dartmouth! I'm coming up to visit — OK?

Love ya, Lynnish

Beans — Que Pasa? Your friendship and advice has meant a lot to me this year. Thanks. Remember . . . the Athenian, "Excuse me, can I have a bib?", eaves droppers in Andy's Tavern, your drinking game, the ski trip, "whatta ya mean a junior's getting served over me?", writing the log with Carrie — trying to read it later, "Blow, blow, blow" . . . New Years Eve, the "love scene slip" in the Blaxills' driveway, xeroxing at Constitution Hill (yeah, right). I'll miss you next year! Take care of yourself and keep in touch! Love ya.

To Mike and Barb Gilroy
Our Link Saviors!

How can we thank you enough or truly acknowledge that this book would not be here without you?
(Let's hope you're reading this in June.)

With all our love,
Your faithful (though not always present) Darlings.

P.S. Isn't it time we had that beer?

Geor — you horny Skunk! What am I supposed to say to my closest friend who I have know since nursery school? I could go on forever with do you remembers but I won't because it would never come close to what you and I have shared over the years. I love you Pal and always will. The both of us will be inseparable no matter how far apart we may be.

Craig

Hawkesay — No. Wait. Hold on a minute. Listen you Dumb Ass. Baa, shoo, baa, shoo baa! What more do I have to say? Just kidd'n, Ands. I've spent some of the best days in high school with you, bud, and I'm looking for many more good times to come.

Craig

Weeze — Too bad it never worked out — Nuge, Nuge, Wink, Wink, Say no More, Say no More, Know what I mean, Know what I mean? Take care cause you are the greatest and I love you.

Craig.

Mom and Dad, You are the Greatest I love you very much.

"Hi, just call me Peachy."

Keri Sheehan to her classmates upon entering sixth grade (as told by Chris LaRiche)

We have called you "Peachy" almost from the day you were born. Although everyone else now calls you "Keri", you will always be Peachy to us. How much we've enjoyed watching and participating in your growth!

You have filled our home with laughter and tears as you and your friends have rollicked through your adolescence and our kitchen and refrigerator. You've exasperated us, frustrated us and, most of all, gratified us. We will miss you more than words can tell. Who will discuss life's intricacies as seen through "The Guiding Light"? Who will extol the virtues of, sink me, Anthony Andrews, Treat Williams and Harry Hamlin? How will we maneuver the Green Machine without the accompaniment of (now what was it? Oh — yes) Simon and Garfunkel? How will we ever plod through the routines of daily life without the strains of Jesus Christ Superstar, Hair, Crosby, Stills and Nash or J.T.? (Actually, our sixties flower-child has pretty good taste in music). How silent the house will be without the exuberant recitations of whatever role you're playing — on stage or off!

Who's arm will Bobby twist; who's friends will Jonny insult; who's arguments will Daddy refute; who's mammoth mounds of laundry will Mom do while acting as the foil for ideas alternately outlandish and incredibly keen? (We'll resist the temptation to say "Peachy-k . . ."). Or what will it be like not to trample through a week's worth of shoes, books, sweaters, coats, papers, squash balls, Doo Dads, Peanut Chews and other assorted oddities?

Some of these things we'll manage, in time, to get over. But how much we'll all look forward to your returns home — to the vitality that encompasses both you and those around you. One of the dictionary definitions of "peach" is "any person or thing well-liked". How very apt!

For you, Peachy, the future is boundless. Go into it with our boundless love.

Mom, Dad, Bobby, Jonny, Papoo and, in spirit, Gi.

Good Luck Seniors
May all your endeavors lead to excess!
Love, all the Shmen.

FRIENDS OF A COMPLIMENT

Dan,

You can climb the highest mountain
And stop the fastest puck,
And be the most successful
But it doesn't just take luck!

Be willing to work hard
With an attitude that's right
And the furthest goal is not too far
For you to set your sight

Be humble with success.
Work hard for every break.
And, most of all, throughout your life,
Give, as well as take.

To a Chocolate Chip! Love, Mom and Dad

Dad and Mom: Thanks for always being there. You were always around to back me up. I'll miss you. You really put up with me well during those tough times. Madzy: We have gone through good times and bad. I hope you will remember our times together. I'll miss your zany acts to keep my spirits up. Francine: I will never forget our times in Princeton and over the summers. I have learned a lot from you "beanst". I hope my college days will be as fun as yours. (I love girls "like the sun" loves the moon".) Clay: Thanks for the times, dude. I will remember the fishing trips, the pool games, and powerhouses, and the tennis games forever. Take care. Norm: You get me in trouble too often but it was all in good fun. Thanks for going through my high school years with me. Without all the good times, who knows where I'd be now. Macky: What can I say to a guy I have known since 3rd grade. I guess, only, that I'm looking forward to the many times still ahead. Thanks for being around. All dingys: I will miss all your screaming and weirdness. Thank you all for making my life at PDS bearable. I love you all.

Best wishes to the class of '83

Mom and Dad,
 You've both always been there.
 I thank you for all the learning experiences that I gained from you.
 I thank you for the gift of knowledge that you have given to me. I will never lose
 it. Thank you,
 All my love,

Danny.

In Peter's memory, Nancy, Charlie, and Charlie Hatfield wish the class of 1983 the best of luck and happiness in the years to come.

Dearest Frits,

We've had so many great times together and I'm going to miss you. I love you so much.

Madzy

Dear Frits,

Good Luck!

All my love, Francine

Sam and Sarah: "You just call out my name and you know wherever I am, I'll come running to see you again, winter, spring, summer, or fall, All you've got to do is call and I'll be there, yes, I will, you've got a friend." J.T.
 Mom and Dad: I'll miss you next year. Thanks!
 Mrs. Hat.: Thanks for all you've done for me!
 I love you all.

Dad — Thanks for everything throughout the years, especially my 13 at P.D.S.

Eli and Lisa — I finally made it — Thanks for being there when I needed you.

Miss M and Mrs. H — You've been my second home.

Love to you all —
 Abs

BEST WISHES TO YOU ALL!
The Schluter Family

Steve — in days gone by —

Griggstown — there's so much to say and so little space. Never forget Simon and Garfunkel in the park, our day in New Hope with Stew, Jerry Garcia and the day after, and ZBT! Ame, I'm gonna really miss you next year — these have been good times, definitely, and they won't be forgotten. And so, to my best buddy; I love you. Amy

Stew — University of Bethel this weekend? I think so! Remember Christmas in Vermont, backrubs, long walks, touch football and hunting porcupines — we will return. You're a special buddy and I won't forget you. Love, Brewhaha

Sam — clothies, munchies, b'eeeee, ZBT, Frees, and plopsies! Do I need anything else to describe the greattimes? Maybe the third floor and a drink before French! Take care, I love you.

Brew

Ebe, Bonnie and Annie — you guys helped make Vermont the greatest! I love you all, Ame. Hey Ebe, watch the logs you throw to me!

Marcus — We've had fun trying to Americanize you. We'll miss you so keep in touch.
Love, Happy, Jack, and Margie

Louise: "Do you know who you look like?" Dancing to the Groceries, going to the Promas Sparky, Squeeze, Tripper and Beauty, winning the states, celebrating with the trophy, giggling at should have been victory parties, and staying at my house. I could go on, but I won't, instead I'll just say thanks. I'll miss you next year Louise! Lot's of love,
Margie

Edith — Thanks for your help, understanding, and love, you're one of a kind, love always, Danny. Susan — Through all the fights and fun we have both survived. Remember parties, trips, stealing G.C., Thanks for being a great sister. Love always, Danny. Geordie — Great times this summer, Good Times, Scanticon, Hockey, Tennis (haha), New York — G&S, Pre-practice fun, anything else unmentionable, Thanks, Danny. Andrew — "Have you been whipped lately?", great barn parties, video flicks, Beefsteak's after acceptance (a little toooo drunk), Hockey — alternate, N.Y.C. — G&S (dog), skipping school, Sack's, "Trip the truck!!" Your a great friend, Danny. Craig — Parties in your room, quarters, Sunday football, tennis with Dad, N.Y.C. — trying on hats, Thanks, Danny. Katherine — You've been a great friend, talks at parties, lusting and busting, can't forget those ski trips, Have fun — always, love Danny.

Budda & Katherine — Thanks for always listening to my many problems and showing me how to laugh at them all. Champagne school nights seem to be the only answer to life. Sandi H. — We can never forget (no matter how hard we try) our Cornell summer. Laughing, singing, and more laughing. Molly and her cousin who went to Deerfield, Ellen, Ann, Debbie, and guys who play the guitar. Our ledge outside Sibley, Chocolate Chip Cookies and TAB. The Hills are Alive in the Rand Hall Girls Bathroom, Architecture, lectures, critiques and all-nighters, Wash-a-ton, Dancing around in punk ties and sunglasses. Like wow like you know, Guys and Matt. Tab Bottles, and worst of all, South Carolina and Tab. All I remember is listening to your ski trip and then — I will stop in the name of love before — — Matt — Thank you for all the smiles and the years. Rehobeth Beach, Cornell, and phone calls, Hockey games, 4-wheeling, Rednecks, Blind Dates, Parties, Jealousies, Beers, Anniversaries, Beefsteak Charlies, Proms (?) Dignity, Dorset Vermont, breaking up and making up. Our hay truck wishes will come true. Mom, Dad, Suzanne, Cynthia, and Wickie, thanks for all your advice, patience, time, and love, over all these years, I love you all — Jeannie

Boots, Harry and Cricket

Peachy — Five and a half years out of seven makes for a great friendship, even though we never did make up nicknames. And don't ever climb out on a snowy roof in your pajamas — you might see spots and faint. Louise — My ski trip roommate and fellow history cringer; may the fire always light under your fondue, and red lights never catch you by surprise. Caroline Crawford — Painting Devo suits, sledding at Textile and calling taxis in pajamas, thanks for all the wild times. Katherine — Late hospitality and early trips to McD's, I will miss your contagious laugh. Kim — It will be hard to match the elegance of our Wednesday dining. I'll meet you in N.Y.C. for lunch (before council, of course). Mr. Lawrence and Mrs. Sheperd — To my favorite office-mates many thanks for your help and encouragement. Bepper — It's been a long time since Mrs. Graff's class, but I hope you'll always be there to hold my arm when we walk by Gypsy. Thanks for being such good company. Mom, Dad, Cordy, Carol, Face and Face — Surprise! The littler little kid finally made it to the podium . . . Thank-you, I like all of you a lot, I suppose. Love, Julia

We are forever walking upon these shores, betwixt the sand and the foam.
The high tide will erase our footprints,
and the wind will blow away the foam.
But the sea and the shore will remain forever.
