NINETEEN HUNDRED AND NINETY EIGHT

Regina Spiegel

At the end of Middle School Back-to-School Night in 1972, the mother of one of my students came into the office to introduce me to a new mother who had a complaint to make about music in the fifth grade, on behalf of her newly-enrolled son. It seems there wasn't a fifth grade chorus, just general music. This was Regina Spiegel. After the lady who had introduced her had given me a quick resumé of Regina's activities (opera singer, choral director, violinist, etc.,) I had the sense to ask whether she might be able to volunteer a little time once a week to organize a fifth grade chorus. The rest, as they say, is history. Within two years, Regina was working almost full time, and had largely reorganized the Middle School's vocal music. For me, there began a twenty-five year working friendship of a closeness I could have never imagined.

To say that Regina was gifted is a gross understatement. Among her gifts, aside from the most obvious line of music, were the ability always to speak the truth to anyone (always lovingly), and a deep and abiding faith in the ultimate worth of practically anyone who crossed her path. Time and time again I saw her get music and cooperation from middle schoolers who had no original intention of participating in chorus or any other musical activity. Her eighth grade musicals became legendary. Regina could reduce a full-scale musical comedy to a ninety-minute version that kept the integrity of the original and provided parts for as many eighth graders as wanted to participate. The quality of performance was always high, frequently startlingly so.

To me, Regina was an informed colleague of vast experience and a friend to whom I could bring any problem without embarrassment. She was one of the world's great listeners, and frequently a source of fresh insights and workable solutions. In all those twenty-five years, the day hardly passed that we didn't spend at least a few minutes reviewing and planning together.

I could go on like this for far too long. If I had to sum up Regina's greatest gift to me, it would be that she reminded me almost daily and I frequently needed the reminder,) that the only thing more important than the music being made was the child making it.

Tassie Skvir

This book is dedicated to Mrs. Skvir.

Mrs. Skvir has been a dear friend to our class throughout our four years in Upper School. Her door has always been open and her candy jar always full. Her office has seen us through many things, as the height marks on her doorway show. She has watched us progress from the wave disaster to the successful invasion of the Men in Black. Her honesty, sense of fairness, and ability to treat us as equals have given us a deep respect and fondness for our dean.

We just want you to know, Mrs. Skvir, that all your dedication and hard work is greatly appreciated. Your face is the one that will stay fixed in our minds.

Dear Class of 1998,

As I write this in late October, we are experiencing our first chill and I realize that this beautiful fall will have to end. The warm, glorious weather and your class' enthusiasm and spirited leadership have resulted in a smooth, energetic beginning of your senior year.

Your teachers speak of the vigor and analytical skills you bring to your work; your coaches remark on your tenacity in the face of injuries and disappointing close losses; your peers marvel at the wide array of artistic and musical talents within such a small class. You have been generous with your time and your talents and you provide critical leadership for The Spokesman, Community Council, our many clubs, teams, art exhibits and dramatic productions. You come here early in the morning and leave late at night. For many of you this school has, in fact, been your second home.

As you prepare to leave us, we realize how much we will miss you. We are also confident that you are ready and well prepared to move on. Journey far and wide. Take risks. Ask much of yourselves and give generously to others. Come back often to tell us of your adventures.

Fondly,

Lila Lohr

Three questions never to ask an Englishman:

1. Do you know my friend from some obscure corner of the U.K? Their name's.....
2. Do you really drink tea all day?
3. Can you say "water" in an American accent?

Because we do not know when we will die, we get to think of life as an inexhaustible well and yet everything happens only a certain number of times, and a very small number really. How many more times will you remember a certain afternoon of your childhood, an afternoon that is so deeply part of you that you can't conceive of your life without it, perhaps four or five times more, perhaps not even that. How many more times will you watch the full moon rise, perhaps twenty, and yet it all seems limitless.

"Repent, Harlequin!" said the Ticktockman.

"Get stuffed!" the Harlequin replied, sneering.

"You've been late a total of sixty-three years, five months, three weeks, two days, twelve hours, forty-one minutes, fifty-nine seconds, point oh three six one one one microseconds. You've used up everything you can, and more. I'm going to turn you off."

*My skin is kind of sort of brownish
Pinkish yellowish white.

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or, being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or, being hated, don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master;
If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim;
If you can meet with triumph and disaster
And treat those two impostors just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with wornout tools;

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the Will which says to them: "Hold on",

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings—nor lose the common touch;
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you;
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run—
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And—which is more—you'll be a Man, my son!

As you walk by yourself, you begin by taking a familiar route which you are used to walking with others, but very soon you begin to notice things you hadn't noticed before. Perhaps it is because you are alone and are seeing things differently, perhaps not, but it is the case nevertheless and you are pleased by this new awareness. After a while, you realize you have veered off onto an unfamiliar route, but you have plenty of time and continue to explore freely, allowing yourself to get fairly lost, but gradually find your way home again...As a result, you become familiar with more places you have never seen and seen familiar places in a way you had never seen.

One should always be drunk. That's the great thing; the only question. Not to feel the horrible burden of Time weighing on your shoulders and bowing you to the earth, you should be drunk without respite. Drunk with what? With wine, with poetry, or with virtue, as you please. But get drunk. And if sometimes you should happen to awake, on the stairs of a palace, on the green grass of a ditch, in the dreary solitude of your own room, and find that your drunkenness is ebbing or has vanished, ask the wind and the wave, ask the star, bird, or clock, ask everything that moans, everything that flows, everything that sings, everything that speaks, ask them the time; and the wind, the wave, the star, the bird, and the clock will all reply: "It is Time to get drunk! If you are not to be the martyred slaves of Time, be perpetually drunk! With wine, with poetry, or with virtue, as you please."

SPIRIT WEEK

SPOTLIGHT ON TALENT

We've all seen ballet. We've all seen tap. But on Sunday, September 21, senior Vinaya Sermadevi introduced the PDS community to a new style of dance: southern Indian classical. Vinaya performed for nearly three hours during a mid-afternoon recital attended by more than two hundred people.

Vinaya has been studying Bharathanatyam dance for the past three and a half years. Her teacher, Kamala Lakshminarayanan, was a child prodigy and dancing genius and has been performing for fifty-eight years. In this time, Ms. Lakshminarayanan has presented her talents to prominent world leaders, including Dwight D. Eisenhower and Queen Elizabeth II. Ms. Lakshminarayanan teaches Vinaya at the Sermadevi residence each week.

Bharathanatyam, according to Vinaya, is "an advocate for Hindu mythology," synthesizing facial expressions and graceful movement of the whole body to aid in the telling a mythological story. Until the middle of the twentieth century, Bharathanatyam was considered "immodest" by the higher castes, and only performed in temples by the proletarians. However, since this time it has gained in popularity among all classes.

"You can perform in front of a whole lot of people who don't know anything about it at all, and still make it beautiful," Vinaya commented. In her dances, Vinaya adorned her fingertips and feet with brilliant red paint and wore elaborate costumes of fuchsia, green, white, and gold.

Although the costumes look striking, they are also designed to serve a practical purpose. "When you dance," Vinaya explained, "the costume is not in your way. You can do the steps, you can lift your leg ninety degrees--you can do virtually anything."

The performance itself was a sequence of nine dances, accompanied by a small orchestra. At one point, Vinaya danced to a vocal record which she created herself while in India this summer.

Afterwards, senior David Bailey commented, "It was a great opportunity to witness another culture in action." Indeed, the audience got a very beautiful view of a very beautiful culture.

GIRLS SOCCER

From their beginning sessions at a clinic in North Carolina on August 2nd to their final victory in the Prep A championship game on November 9th, the character of this team and the key to their success was motivation.

From the commencement of the season they traveled a bumpy road that included a seven game winning streak, several major injuries and numerous overtime games. But through it all the team stuck together, and its cohesion couldn't have shown through more clearly than in the semifinal and final games.

On Thursday November 6th, the Panthers faced a challenge in the semifinal game against third-seeded Kent Place. Led on the field by senior tri-captains Suzanne Caruso, Jess Collins and Kari Zarzecki and on the sidelines by coaches Heidi Herms and Bob Thomas, the Panthers took on their opposition. After tying the game with a goal by senior Brittany Golcher in regulation, the Panthers were down 1-2 after one period of overtime. In the second, Zarzecki beat several defenders on her way to re-tying the game. Finally, with less than 15 seconds remaining in overtime, junior Amanda Suomi sent a shot past the goalkeeper to win the game.

It was then on to the finals. The much anticipated rematch against a heavily favored Peddie followed on Sunday, November 9th at Rutgers Prep. After a scoreless first half, with eight minutes left in the game, PDS caught its break when Collins scored to put the panthers up to 1-0. Peddie answered with a barrage of shots on goal in the remaining minutes, but the defense, anchored by Caruso and junior Brandee Adams, met the challenge and came out unscathed. The Prep A championship belonged to the Panthers,

Coach Thomas remarked later, "It was a great game and a great season. They came out fired up after a mentally exhausting match against Kent Place and took it to Peddie. To put it simply, the girls were not going to be denied."

BOYS SOCCER

The PDS varsity boys soccer has slowly but surely begun to head along the path of victory. After starting out the fall season losing five of its first six games, the team improved a great deal in its next five matchups.

On Saturday, October 4, Homecoming Day, PDS soccer won a strong victory, beating Blair, 5-1. "When we beat Blair, we played as a team," said senior Cabral Brooks, one of the team's three captains. Riding in the victory lane, PDS headed to Wardlaw-Hartridge three days later and beat the home team 3-2 in overtime. The team played hard, and was able to win two of its five later games.

Though its 3-8 record is not the greatest, the team does feel good about the improvements it has made. "We have really come together as a team. Everybody has learned what it takes to win," added junior tri-captain Larry Miller.

Even in loss, Miller finds something positive about PDS boys soccer: "We've learned a lot from the Pingry game. Despite losing to them 3-0, we put up a good fight. We didn't back down. We need to play like that every game."

"We are very close to being an exceptional team. Everybody is working hard. We have to get over the hump. Once we do, we'll be a much better team," concluded Miller. PDS boys soccer has learned how to win; now the team has to apply this knowledge to the field. They can and will in coming years.

GIRLS TENNIS

The team has undoubtedly improved from last season, despite a slightly flawed record. When asked about the team's record, senior co-captain Marin Blitzer said, "Our record may deceive our opponents, but our sub-par performance is due to a tougher schedule. We have gone from playing inferior teams such as the Lawrenceville varsity B to their top-of-the-line A team."

The season's key victories have come against Peddie and Pennington, where the Panthers got a chance to test their skill against some of the best teams in Prep B. Sophomore Jen Gladden led the team against Peddie, winning the decisive match. The Panthers swept Pennington 5-0, but it was a significant match because Lauren Kostinas broke out of a slump with her first win at the singles position. On Kostinas' play, Blitzer commented, "Lauren is a great player, but it just so happens that she plays at the most difficult spot. She needed this win, and she got it."

At the Mercer County Tournament (MCT), the second doubles pair of Blitzer and freshman Tyler Bracken led the team; they advanced to the semi-finals before being eliminated in three sets (6-4, 4-6, 6-4) by West Windsor. Juniors Kostinas (first singles) and Keri Bernstein (second singles) made it to the quarter-finals of the prep tournament.

"We did well," said Blitzer. "The MCT is made up of mainly tough public schools. We should not be dissatisfied with our performance."

Senior co-captain Andrea Koerte summed it all up: "We started the season with three new players, and in tennis that is considered a very inexperienced team, but they have proven themselves and played well, while the veterans have been stellar. This has been a great season, and we have done a great job."

CROSS COUNTRY

At the start of the 1997 cross country season, no one knew what to expect; not the coaches, fans, or even the runners. The team was faced with a slew of fresh members, and it was hard to say how the new additions would perform.

The grueling practices began. The team familiarized themselves with four- to five-mile runs as well as 400- and 500-meter sprints. The team took regular trips to train on its home course, at Princeton Battlefield State Park as well as preparing themselves for hilly courses on the treacherously steep North Road, off Pretty Brook Road.

The hard work paid off. The team showed definite signs of improvement. "We have a lot of new people, and we're really working hard and making a lot of progress," commented Senior Andrew Bordeman. Coach Eamon Downey agreed: "I'm excited about the dramatic improvement on the part of each and every team member."

Following an exciting win against both Morristown-Beard and Hun, the team headed upstate to Gill-St. Bernard for the Prep B Conference. Upon arriving, PDS met seven other teams, as well as pouring rain and freezing temperatures. Despite the weather, the races proved to be successful. The girls' team took the second place title, with Julie Rubin finishing among the top ten runners. The boys placed fourth overall, with senior David Bailey and sophomore captain Krishna Andavolu among the top ten male finishers.

The season ended on a high note with the win at Blair Academy. Senior Rachel Kleinman described the season to a tee when she said, "It's been a tough but exciting two months. The relatively new team has unified into a tight, experienced pack of runners. We run until our legs collapse, but we also manage to laugh and have fun. Now if we could only get a few more fans over to the battlefield..."

FOOTBALL

"We set out this year with new goals and new expectations," said Head Coach Mark Adams. The coaches counted on returning players-seniors Andrew Dean and Joe Nemiroff, and juniors Andrew Doss, Pat Holmes, Mike Pepperman, and Matt Riepenhoff-to provide leadership for the team. The team also relied on John LaBosco and Rashee Lott to step in and make some big plays.

After pummeling the George School 21-0, the Panthers' confidence level rose another notch. This shutout brought a lot of momentum into the next game against the Academy of the New Church. However, high spirits and momentum weren't enough to overcome ANC's skilled team.

Despite a disappointing first half, PDS showed its will to win and kept fighting through the second. Sophomore John Dorazio rushed for a key 68-yard run that ended in a Panther touchdown. He finished the day with 106 yards on twelve carries, lifting the team's spirits. Quarterback Doss put forth strong effort as well, throwing a total of 141 yards with one touchdown to wide receiver Holmes.

After every week the coaches choose a new captain based on leadership qualities, abilities on the field, and attitudes toward teammates. Junior running back Erinc Sen opined, "It gives you something to reach for, a goal to aspire to." This makes every player on the team work harder and feel as though he is just as important as everyone else. Mike Pepperman said, "Everyone wants to be a leader."

The biggest difference this year is that the team has more heart and intensity when it plays. "This season," Holmes points out, "the team is more focused on discipline and work ethic." Since the team worked harder than ever, its intensity showed on the field.

"The first day of practice, we sat down and talked about our main goals for the season," commented Coach Adams. Some of these goals consisted of playing to full potential, raising standard of play on practice and game field, winning Prep B's, having pride and gaining respect, and stopping big plays. These goals have been the cornerstones of PDS football's success.

In the beginning of the season, Lauren Welsh stated her goals for the field hockey team: "We want to play on November 6th for the Prep A title." Not only did the girls play November 6th, but the team brought home its third consecutive Prep A championship. However, in reaching the final game, the team had to dig deeper than they had all season long.

In order to reach the Prep A championship, the team had to win on November 4th against archrival Lawrenceville. With confidence and a large crowd of PDS fans on hand, the team took control of the November 4th game and played some of the best field hockey all year. In an emotional match, the team defeated their rivals with a final score of 3-0. Head coach Jill Thomas commented, "It was a 'must win' situation. It was the finest played high school (field) hockey game that I've been involved in."

After two days of rest, the girls were faced with the challenge of defending the Prep A crown. Their opponent was the extremely strong Peddie School. On November 6th, the PDS field hockey team showed Peddie and everyone else what champions are made of. Tina Flores netted the first goal of the goal to put PDS ahead early in the first half. Late in the second half, Peddie managed to tie the score. In heart-stopping overtime, excellent shots and saves by both teams drew "oohs" and "aahs" from the PDS fans. Towards the end of overtime, Emily O'Hara dished the ball to Lauren Welsh, who locked the victory with a rocket shot to the back of the net.

Coaches, players and fans rushed onto the field for a traditional "pile-up" to celebrate the teams third straight Prep A championship. Coach Thomas called the game "a battle, where we came out on top."

FENCING

Even the most savvy PDS sports' enthusiast probably never got around to undertaking the privileged task of cheering on the boys fencing team this winter. While only a very few devoted fans made the venture to South Commons to see the team in action, even fewer actually took the effort to travel elsewhere to cheer on winter's "golden boys."

Despite the lack of notice from their peers, and despite a somewhat deceiving overall record of 3-7, the Panthers put together an impressive season. One highlight was 14-13 victory over a North Hunterdon squad ranked fifth in the state.

The culmination of all this season's efforts was the team's third place finish in the Prep Tournament. The tournament included schools such as Hun, Lawrenceville, and St. Benedict's. Individually, seniors Matt Weber and John Podurriel, and junior Mike Bodel made it to the final round of the Tournament. Weber came in third place in the foil competition. According to head coach Paul Epply-Schmidt, "The end of the season produced some of the best fencing, evidence of this being Matt [Weber]'s finish at the Preps and also sophomore Benji Weber's third place finish."

Epply-Schmidt also commented, "We were encouraged by the large number of first time fencers that came out this year. I am very pleased with the leadership that the seniors exhibited, and though it's a somewhat generic statement, we are looking forward to next year."

"We could have done better, but I'm really proud of the work that went on this season," concluded Weber.

By Mike France and Staff

The Shepherd Commons is strangely quiet after school now; the stray masks and jackets that decorated the bench by the window during the day are conspicuously absent. The long winter season has ended, and the PDS girls' fencing team finished another season in style.

PDS had a hard series of meets between February 2 and February 9. The girls faced off against North Hunterdon High on February 2, rematched Hun and Lawrenceville on February 4 and 6, and fenced Oak Ridge the next Monday. Their next meet, and the final one before the Prep Tournament, was against Pingry School.

A week after the Pingry loss, the PDS girls drove the hour-plus to St. Benedict's Academy in Newark, to pit their bladework and footwork against four teams at the Prep Tournament: Hun, Lawrenceville, Oak Knoll, and last-minute entrant Montclair Kimberly Academy. PDS hoped to see a repeat of last year's outstanding épée performance, but unfortunately a rash of sickness seized the team.

After the Prep tournament came the last dual meet of the year against Voorhees High School. PDS lost 6-19. This meet marked the end of the season for the juniors and seniors; however, the freshmen and sophomores has one more challenge at Voorhees High School.

The girls' 1-9 final record wasn't the end any of them wished to the season. However, with the loss of few seniors and the added experience of many freshmen and sophomores, prospects for the next year are good.

SQUASH

This year's squash team has had a very successful start, at least compared to last year's season. Coached by Dede Webster and Dan Scheibe, this team is full of talented freshmen, sophomores, and seniors. Led by sophomore James Utterback, the squash team not only beat last year's record, but it also shut out two teams, something that even Coach Webster cannot remember previously accomplishing.

Sophomore James Pinto comments, "We've had some tough losses, but we're not brooding on them. We're looking into the future, towards the golden horizon where all squash players meet in the end. That will be the ultimate success, the Finale, the Alouette, Gentille Alouette, if you will."

One of the most remarkable events this season occurred when, in our home opener against Blair Academy's JV team (which we unfortunately lost, 3-2) our stadium was packed to its maximum capacity with people. Attending were coaches, teachers, players, and people off the street who just love the game; it was a squashbuckler's paradise.

Playing in number one position is sophomore James Utterback. He has had only one year of experience, yet he has gone head to head and beaten number one players from a variety of schools. In second place, is sophomore Andrew Harrington, who has already beaten some of the greats (And broken a racquet while he was at it.) Then comes Pinto, easily distinguishable by his graceful swings, and his unbreakable confidence.

In the fourth position is sophomore Pieter Heineken, who shocks more people with his torpedo-like serve. After whipping a ball against a wall at over 100 miles per hour, not many can gather the courage to stick out a racquet and face the hurdling shard of plastic headed their way.

In the number five spot is Nabil Laoudji, who plays with patented grace and confusion. Then comes freshman Rick Shatz, brother of former number one player James Shatz, and definitely another player on the rise. Senior Matt Sherring, player number seven, has quickly adapted to the game, and was even called by Coach Webster a "textbook player" meaning that he plays "real" squash. Freshman Ashton Todd, player number eight, is a left-handed miracle who has proved himself worthy of playing on this fantastic team. He plays the sport with energy and passion, something not often found in squash.

Playing ninth and tenth are seniors Erin Conroy and Julie Rubin. Conroy and Rubin are often seen early in practice playing on the squash courts, having a good time. They both have flawless records, having won their matches in the "most important game of the year" against the Princeton juniors at Princeton University, which puts them at the head of the pack in win percentage.

VOLLEYBALL

Midway through the girls varsity volleyball season, the team has shown plenty of potential. Although suffering losses early in the season, the squad fired back to take 3 of its next 5 matches, and has been competitive in almost all of its games this year.

Assistant coach Chris Benacquista explained, "the girls have been playing much better together as a unit. Hopefully we can continue to progress, and by the time we reach the Prep B Tournament on February 21, we will have reached our peak playing level." Led by captains Zoe Czyzewski and Andrea Koerte, the team has had some amazing moments during its season. Junior Sarah Danielson observed that, "The team is coming together and we are playing well under pressure."

This unity was demonstrated in a December game against Newark Academy. After losing the first game, the team registered a win in the second leaving the match to a third final game. The team found itself down 14-6 in the decisive game, but they reeled off 10 straight points and won the contest in an impressive come back. One fan sighed with relief after the game, remarking, "That was one of the most agonizing games I've ever watched, but it was also one of the best."

The team also came back from a large deficit in their second match against Newark in January, once again stealing victory from their opponents. Jamie Miller and Danielson have both made a big impact at the net, averaging a solid number of kills and blocks in the games. Miller has also excelled with her serve, burning opponents regularly with aces. Czyzewski and Mandy Helwig have also played important parts on the team as all-purpose players, both hitting and setting.

A spectator observed, "This team has really improved. They were young last year, but this year they're putting a lot more together." The maturing club has responded well to the graduation of last year's captain, Hadley Hosea, and the members know that they have the ability to win any game they play.

GIRLS

BASKETBALL

At the beginning of the season, the PDS girls' basketball team had one goal: to make it to the Prep B Championship game. This dream was slightly disrupted by a rocky start.

During the slow start, the team lost key games to the Hun School and Pennington, but Head Coach Jill Thomas would like another crack at either team. About the 1-4 start to the season, Coach Thomas commented, "We were playing great [defense], but we needed to score. We've started to gain confidence and our hard work is starting to pay off. Now we're looking to score to 50 points a night."

And score they did. The main reasons for the turnaround have been a significant increase in offensive production and a more aggressive style of defense. "Offensively, we are finishing and making key shots," remarked Coach Thomas, "and our defense is much more aggressive."

Sophomore Page Schumucker led the team in scoring with an average 11.7 points per game, and senior co-captain Kari Zarzecki has developed into a "fine shooting point guard," said Coach Thomas.

The one constant for the lady Panthers has been their second-ranked defense among area prep schools. The team is able to slow down its opponents and hold them to 35 points per game. On defense, senior co-captain Jess Collins has developed into the team's leader. "Jess's role as our defensive leader has allowed everyone to gain confidence," said Coach Thomas.

Although the team lost their last couple games to Blair and Hun, the team's great defensive playing held to the end. The lady Panthers lost each game by only a few points, proving their great defensive abilities.

BOYS BASKETBALL

As the PDS boys' basketball season was beginning, head coach Alan Taback spoke about how the team's record might not represent its true ability. The reason: a schedule featuring some of the top teams in New Jersey. However, after playing these tough teams, the varsity squad has shown that they can play with some of the best.

The team started out the season by beating Blair and then Rutgers Prep by an average of twenty-three points. Then came the Peddie Invitational Tournament (PSIT), where PDS lost to Solebury, the eventual champions, in the first round. The Panthers played tough for thirty-two minutes but came up four points short. The next day the team beat Hill School in the consolation game of the PSIT.

While many students headed off for Christmas vacation, the Princeton Day School Panthers prepared for a game against McCorristin and another tournament, this time at the Delbarton School. On December 20 the varsity team played host to McCorristin, the top team in the CVC's Valley Division. The Panthers came out victorious with a final score of 59-51. The team was led by junior Ted Shoaf's twenty-four points. "Beating McCorristin was one of the high points this year. They're one of the top teams in the CVC. There were a lot of people there, and it was a big game to win," recalled junior point guard Joey Gallo.

Six days later, a day after Christmas, the team jumped on a bus for a long ride up to the Delbarton School Invitational Tournament (DSIT). In the first round of the tournament the team beat Pope John High School 50-43. The next day, PDS faced the host school, ranked fifteenth in the state. In a close game, PDS pulled out the win 47-44.

On December 29, the varsity squad faced Mendham in the championship game of DSIT. Despite LaBosco's twenty-three points, PDS lost 53-61. After a few days of rest, the team began preparing for one of the top five teams in the nation: St. Patrick's. The team went up to Elizabeth on January 6, and was able to show its basketball skills at a national level. Although returning with a loss, Coach Taback has this to say, "Playing St. Patrick's was an important game. We learned an important lesson from that."

Two days later the boys' basketball team went to New Hope for a rematch with Solebury. Playing on a wet floor, the Panther's losing streak reached three games despite the efforts of Justin Leith. The next game the team played was on January 10 against Wardlaw-Hartridge, the team PDS beat in last year's Prep B final. With Co-Captains LaBosco and Leith combining thirty-four points, the Panthers won the game 50-44.

A few days following the Wardlaw-Hartridge game, the team beat Hill School for the second time this season. Then, on Friday, January 16, the varsity squad welcomed Princeton High School (PHS) to the lower gym. The final score was PDS 65, PHS 45. By Monday, January 19, the Panthers were ranked number eight in the Trenton Times Boys' Basketball Top 10.

GIRLS ICE HOCKEY

With the new rink, and a new supporting cast, the PDS girls ice hockey team cruised into the '98 season. Although suffering two losses early in the season, the lady panthers came back with some impressive victories over Pingry, PHS, Stuart and Portsmouth (RI). Senior Robin Ackerman commented on the team, "We have a lot better skills than last year, and more depth, but we still have to come together as a team. Contributing to the team's depth are a strong bunch of freshmen, including Alley Welsh, Courtney Riepenhoff, Tyler Bracken, Stephanie Freedman, Sydney Levine, and Alex Burton. Defensive guru Bracken stated "It's been a good experience going from practicing with the junior team to playing with the girls who have more skills."

Returning team members include sophomores Emily O'Hara, Lila Cruikshank, and Alex Koerte; juniors Lauren Welsh, Stacey Orr, Sharon Herbert, Brandee Adams, Amanda Suomi, and Candace Vahlsing; and seniors Robin Ackerman, Giovanna Torchio, and Marin Blitzer also contribute to the team.

With returning players and the top newcomers, PDS has obtained an impressive record thus far. With significant wins against over PHS and Stuart, the girls went up against rival Pingry hoping to redeem themselves from last year's defeat. The team "played well throughout the game," according to Lauren Welsh, and came away with a 3-2 victory. Coach Matt Henderson commented, "The team is playing well and skating hard. They are displaying a lot of effort and it stood out against Pingry."

However, there were some problems that surfaced for the young team. Sophomore Lila Cruikshank added, "We're working with different combinations of offensive lines for more goals, but we still have to find the perfect balance." In preparation for the Lawrenceville, Stuart, and Beacon Hill Club, the team scrimmaged with the junior team, and practiced with the junior varsity boys team for valuable ice time for the freshmen.

Practices also helped the dual goalies Giovanna Torchio and Brandee Adams sharpen their skills. With a strong defense and an always improving offense, the PDS girls are a team that can compete with almost anybody.

BOYS

ICE HOCKEY

Last year's PDS hockey team saw disappointment after disappointment. Unable to break away from a seemingly irreversible losing streak, the Panthers lost twenty out of twenty-four games, were beaten in their own tournament, and floundered in the Prep B's. It seemed that Princeton Day School's mascot, depicted on varsity jackets as a ferocious, fang-bearing feline, was actually, on the ice, a lost kitten.

But as 1997 rolled into 1998, a reborn confidence bolstered the varsity team. Slow but steady progress on the new rink combined with an influx of promising athletes from around the state spurred fresh optimism. "Right after winterbreak," remembers varsity player Mike Bracken, "we used our new ice rink for the first time. It was definitely a highlight of the season, a real morale booster."

The most noticeable additions to the 1998 team were Chris Barless and Devon Ruben, two new coaches. Energetic and demanding, they added the last ingredients to a formula for victory: direction and drive! Hockey player Mark Treilman comments, "Instead of letting us loose on the ice to do what ever we felt like, they had a system—a system by which we would play and win."

Indeed, they did play and they did win. In mid-January, PDS demonstrated the full capacity of its revitalized hockey team in a game against Brick School. With the remarkable goal-tending of Andrew Warren and offensive punch of Ryan Thornton, the Panthers secured a win (2-1). Against a "state power house" like Brick, the slim victory indicated that on the ice PDS would be a force to reckon with.

In the months that followed, the Panthers went on to shock the hockey circuit with an unprecedented winning streak. Hun, once revered as the "school to beat," now cowered before the mighty Panther roar. "Beating Hun twice, especially in the Prep finals, was the culmination of the whole season. It was a united team effort," said team Captain J.D. Schaub.

Princeton Day's success on the ice continued through the PDS Tournament, where for the first time in thirteen years, Princeton Day School emerged victorious. Building momentum with each win, the Panthers plowed through the rounds of the Prep B tournament deep into the finals. By March, their seasonal tally glistened: nineteen wins, one tie, and just four losses.

Only through extraordinary effort driven by fresh blood, unified purpose, and unshakable morale could a team with such a long history of disappointing defeats become, in one season, an unstoppable juggernaut of playing power. The members of this year's hockey team have started what everyone hopes will be a long PDS tradition of excellence on the ice.

The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred with dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs and falls short again and again; who knows the great devotions, the great enthusiasms; who spends himself in a worthy cause. Who, at the worst, if he fails at least he fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat.

To Mike:

We are proud of you for standing tall within the arena. Victory was yours!

To my big sister:

Through your high school years, I've watched you struggle and cry
Through your high school years, I've watched you work hard and try
Through your high school years we have become one another's friend

But now your high school years are coming to an end

College is almost here and coming so fast

So these next few months had better last

Because soon enough will be the day

That I'll watch my big sister go on her way.

I'm so proud of you for never giving up! I love you with every little piece of my heart!

Good luck!!!

There was a little girl with pigtails in her hair
Who came to PDS with hardly a care
She worked and she learned and seized all she could
And made many contributions - all of them good
Her goals were high, her determination strong
With positive attitude she couldn't go wrong!
She rose to the challenges and every test
And readily succeeded for she gave her best!
So now it's time to start anew
Kari, dear, we're gonna miss you!
Without you at school it won't be the same
They'll probably still see us at PDS games!
How quickly time passes, how super it's been
To watch you emerge as a fine, young woman.
You have made us proud in all you do
We thank you for everything - for just being you!
Best always, love and God bless,
Mom, Dad, Matt and Mike

Ryan, You have earned multiple sportsmanship awards and team captaincies along with being selected as a peer group leader. These are not random events but part of the fabric of who you are - a kind, humble, honest inclusive person with innate leadership qualities. The personal characteristics are what we are most proud of. The sports and music are a nice adjunct but it is your soul that we love.

Keep on keeping on!

JAC-

From the moment we met, "I knew that you were blessed with something that (would) grow and bloom." That sparkle in your eyes, the curling smile, the hop in your step; you were entering PDS a "tabula rasa." (Or so I like to believe!)

As the years flew by, how much you've changed. No longer a wide-eyed inquisitive freshman, but a beautiful and confident graduating senior. You've touched my life in ways which no one could have. I have learned from your generosity, open-mindedness and wonderful ability to "live outside yourself."

And as you saunter into the gates of Princeton singing "Ain't nothing gonna break my stride. Ain't nothin' gonna slow me down. Oh no...", I'll be waiting to say: "Go get the cones and pinneys, FRESHMAN!!"

Congratulations, Sis!

I love you,

Dear Melanie:

In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths. Prov. 3:6. Congratulations on your graduation. I wish you all the best in college. The foundation has already been laid, the example has been set, and the pattern has been cut into 6 pieces- 5 have been put together, your piece is missing. The pattern is waiting for you to complete it, and it will be when you finish college. With God's help you will complete this pattern. The sky is the limit.

You are sweet,
God Bless you,
Love you very much,
"Mom"

Melanie, during your studies at PDS your antics often relieved my stress. Your frequent tricks and games sometimes caused me pain, whether crawling on the floor or jumping from behind the door, you caught me. Sometimes my gestures would say "Spare Me."

I confess sometimes I should have said don't scare me. From many tears through adolescent years, your behaviour has grown from deplorable to absolutely adorable. By the way, it's common knowledge I won't miss you at all when you leave for college.

Your Willer Bear,
Willie "Daddy" Moore

Melanie,

We first would like to tell you how proud we are of you and that we will support you in continuing your education. To achieve means to bring to a successful end; carry through; accomplish. This symbolizes what you have done in your many years at PDS. We know that you will continue to strive for excellence to reach your future goals. God bless you, Fred and Tammy

Proverbs 22:6 states, "Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

Melanie, As you embark on this journey to further your education, remember the values, morals, and religious teachings that were instilled in you. Always put GOD first in all you do, and you cannot and will not fail.

I'm so proud of you, I love you and wish you all the best.
Your sister, Shari

Congratulations, you made it! Guess what, now you must start all over again. You know I have tremendous faith in you. You're very intelligent, charming, and pretty, but most of all God fearing. Remember that big brother is 200% behind you so don't worry. Keep God first in whatever you do, and you can't go wrong. Set your goals and fly!

God Bless you,
Martin

Dear Mel, Finally, after all of your hard work, the day has come. Congratulations on your graduation from Princeton Day School! You have put so much time and effort into reaching your goal, and now you've done it! It's an outstanding achievement. We're all very proud of you. Kudos to you!

Knowing just how clever and conscientious you are, I'm sure that you'll continue to do well in your next endeavour - Rutgers. All the best in the years to come.

Love, Gerald.

Mellie-Mel:

We have watched you grow from a little girl to a beautiful young woman. As you leave high school and move on to college, there are so many dreams for you to attain and many memories to cherish...ChuckE Cheese...Super Mario Brothers... "Just jump off the cliff and you'll win!"...ITT Operator...Chicken Fingers (AGAIN!)...shopping and more shopping...suits...bike rides...GRRRR! (taking ideas from innocent little children). Wherever you are, you will always be in our hearts no matter what distance lies between us.

Love always, Tasha & Gary

STILL A SUPER GUY!

CONGRATULATIONS DAN!

WITH LOVE FROM MOM, DAD AND LIUBA

Hunter

Congratulations!!

We are so proud of all your accomplished and achievements.
Your warmth, humanity, and sense of self are wonderful qualities that we know will serve you well.

You enrich our lives, warm our hearts and keep us smiling!

Lots of love always
Mom, Dad and Graham

Congratulations to the PDS Class of 1998
Best of luck in all your endeavours -
The Schwarz Family

Congratulations to you, Leys, at your graduation and congratulations to the very special Class of 1998!

We've been the wind beneath your wings.

Now, it's your time to fly and for us to watch your beauty and to stay behind.

We'll watch you soar off to higher grounds.
Know that our love will always be here for you, at home, on the ground.

Love, Mom & Dad, Ashley, Allison & Elliot

SENIOR FAREWELLS

H.S., R.T., J.D., P.D. - Thanks for all of the good times: Cotillion, Rana summer party, family Jamieson nights, and b-ball clapping. I will miss you. P.R., J.C. - I've had so much fun with you these past few years. Jess, I'll miss playing on a team with you, but I'm glad you'll be close by. My dear La, it's been a blast. Thanks for always being there. Love always, Annie.

To H.S., A.W., C.B. It's crazy how in only one year people can become such good friends. No matter how many times you made fun of us, you always managed to make us laugh. "Mal free" was always the highlight of our day, even though we knew we would be ripped on. Good luck and we'll really miss you next year, "dongs"!

Love, M.S., K.B., L.K. & T.F.

EW, DZ, LZ, EG, AK: Thanks, ladies, for another great year and another fabulous LINK! Your talent, patience and contributions will be greatly missed. Good luck in college. Come back to visit. Miss G.

Bryan Newman

Laughs: I wanna get to red, white and blue and get a hoody!

Good Times: Animal Rights Ruckus

Cheese: We'll miss you. Give 'em heck at NYU.

Love, the ladies (Kathy and Molly)

Robin - I don't how I'll go on without you next year. You're a great friend, role model and teammate. Miss our talks, and your advice, driving to Maryland or just to Princeton. For all the times you've made me smile, and all the times you've made fun of me, thank you! I'll never forget any of it! I'll miss you and I love you. Love, Lauren.

To: Keen the Disco Queen, my Diva Partner in Crime, My Best Friend - You know that words cannot even begin to describe our friendship. We have ALWAYS been there for each other & have definitely shared some good times. Remember: The Diablo Song, your parking skills (the car is moving!), the Hyatt slumber party, "Exhale Excursion," "Count on me," guys with trucks (and kids, too), "bathroom excursions," (psst psst), modelling, "Always and Forever," the fine Wendy's employees (yeah right) and on...I can't believe you're leaving me! (sniff sniff). You know I am going to miss you like crazy. But I know that you are definitely going to go places in life because you have the brains, beauty and Diva attitude that only me & you (and a few others, maybe) have been blessed with! "Me and you will never part..."

Love you always, Adrena "Temptress" Cunningham

Congratulations to the Class of 1998! It has been a pleasure getting to know you. This class will always be special to me because you are my first senior class!

Remember that now you are alumnae/i, you are still an important part of PDS. So, good luck and stay in touch!

Janet Perkins

Phil, We laughed, we cried, we uked. We saw many great spectacles, maybe one too many, and we watched you become the greatest party referee in history. We had some great memories in JV basketball getting --- slapped and obscene words on PDS Net. Thanks for helping us sell out, and thanks for the great memories. Hopefully, you'll never have to witness another spectacle. "Go to your home Phil." Love, Sam and Brian

TANJ - Started in Michaels' English, stayed strong since. Understanding, admiration, similarities, silliness, "The Toast." Thanks for always being there...Forever friends. PJ - Tsweets, predictions, Jo Jo's, neverending saga, slippery steps, nightly calls. More fun in college. Can't wait. Love you. LIZ - Hey Samantha, my name's BLAA!! Canoe, MIB's, skiing...falling "that was so much...", deep Lift conversations, train smells. "Yeah baby-bpshhhp!" Wish I had known you sooner. Thanks for all your advice. See you at the wedding! HUNTER - Frosh year you didn't exist, but I've always loved you. Soph english, cotillions, Spain, The Ball. You know the rest...see you in Madrid in 2001.

POWDER - Every sport, Ho-kay, physics, bball shocks, good music, bus rides. Better visit me! I'll find you a "Greek God" too. Stay silly. ROBIN - Four years of laughs, growth and fun. Glad I could amuse you. Be positive. LEIF - PG was destiny, so glad. Love triangle, gagung. Same wavelength, you and me. Ewing and Trenton are close. Remember that. ERIN - locker, Spain, yeah PG, April, cookies. So happy got to know you. SUE - All started w/ Wilks "no rules" ODP, then school, futbol, Devils game, sleepover, PG. Love the laughs. RYAN, JAKE, MIKE L. - freshmen posse, hacking, concerts and mudsliding. Y'all the greatest. MAREN - Spain photo booth, coffee talks, Mock...you must visit me at school, Pat. Gonna miss you much. KARI - sports, Disney, Boston, Spain. Laughs and memories. Keep me posted on your college adventures. JILL, RACHEL - wish we started earlier. I love your spirits. You'll go far and have so much fun. JAMES - "Time it goes so fast!" I'll visit you in 2001. We'll dance to the spice. So glad you came. LEX - Missed you. The "club" lives on. The years ahead will be fun. DMD - This time I can write with a smile and say I'll be seeing you soon. Can't wait. Love ya lots. LOVE YOU ALL...HAVE FUN AND KEEP IN TOUCH! - Jess

DZ: Original songs, the office on weeknds, trips to Starbucks, pottymouth, incomprehensible conversations, "alrighty!" It's been fun losing my mind with you. Let me know when you need that down payment! MT: Thursday lunch trips, conversations on only one topic, and, above all...ENTERPRISE!! Even though we were rarely profound, we were always interesting and usually right! Call me in a few years (when we need to make plans for the...business) SE-A: In general, our relationship is based on hurting each other, insulting each other, and generally acting like infants. But we have also had amazing conversations. We're going to have so much fun in NY next year. AK: Wherever you end up at college, you'd better tell 'em all just to keep their HANDS OFF. I won't allow it. No matter what, I'll always be here for you. EH: I could never have gotten through "da French" without you. Good luck.DL: Get a car! Just kidding. I love hearing your voice every morning. All my love, Emma.

EW: Songs..Titanic...Al-righty then...the insanity of the office...Starbucks...our conversations, both serious and insane. Thanks for going through the insanity of yearbook with me and being such a great friend. Stay in touch.MT: Laughing, joking, and the one topic that always seems to come up (you KNOW what it is!)You're a sweet girl. Stay that way and stay in touch.SEA:Keena-Beenah, what will I do without you to cheer me up!Who else will call me Fluffy? You're sweet, smart, and beautiful.Stay exactly the way you are and stay in touch.AK: Wherever you go to college always remember me...and try not to laugh too much! I'll always be here for you. All ya gotta do is call. We WILL stay in touch (after all we went through HELL together.) GOSPEL: I'm going to miss singing with you. You guys are more than just a choir to me. You are all dear friends.I'll come and listen to you next year. Keep the faith and stay in touch.All of my love always, Dawn

Tommy Wommy: Just looking at you makes me laugh. 8th grade lounge talks. Diners. Dana Smith. One word... popcorn! You'll always be my favorite little monkey. Can't wait to see you on when stunts go bad. Tanji: Always the shower first. If you're about to tell me something from 5 months ago I'm going to be mad. Tabasco sauce, tickling fits. My glass will never be empty when you're around. Jess: Oh man, ski lift chats. If you ever want to scare off guys, just do THIS...MIB, bonding in the canoe, shhp. You're my shamrock princess. Marg: Trust me, I know this is his house! Mexico, crushes- the guy in black. Rachel: But I love the fuzzy tomato, singing in your car, sleepovers, without you we'd never have a bake sale. Megan: I cherish our monthly catchups. Jill: That was deep. If I put a nickel in your mouth, would a gumball come out of your conch? We've been best friends for the last 6 years and all I have to say is...shotgun! Love, Liz
