The Class of 2004 dedicates this yearbook to

Harvey

Our Teacher, Dean, and Friend

Dear Harvey,

We dedicate this yearbook to you in appreciation of your patience, sense of humor, and friendship that we have come to depend on during the past four years. Whether it was in the classroom, the hallways, or your office, you were always there with your goofy and endearing grin to get us through our days. Your spirit showed through on many occasions, especially during your stunning impersonation of Michael Jackson, and on Halloween when you disguised yourself as a pirate.

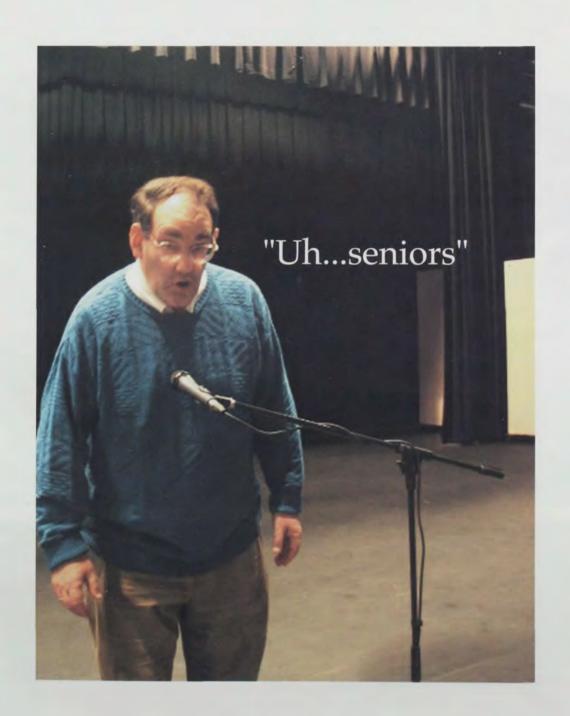

Through unforgettable Halloween Challenges, the many frustrating fire drill practices, and theater lobby closings, your loyalty never failed. We are so grateful and lucky to have had such a funny, smart, and, not to mention, handsome dean. We will not forget the stories you told or the lessons you taught us, and we can never thank you enough for everything you have done for our class. Thank you!

We love you! The Class of 2004

Letter from the Head of School, Judith R. Fox

Dear Members of the Class of 2004,

I write this letter on one of those depressingly cold days that have plagued us this past winter, with unremitting regularity. You will read this letter on what I hope is a warm, balmy day that presages glorious weather for commencement.

Your graduating class is, to me, characterized by a willingness – even an eagerness – to try new things. Some of you performed in your first productions as juniors or seniors. You entered contests, joined sport teams, became involved in clubs and took on school leadership projects well into your upper school years.

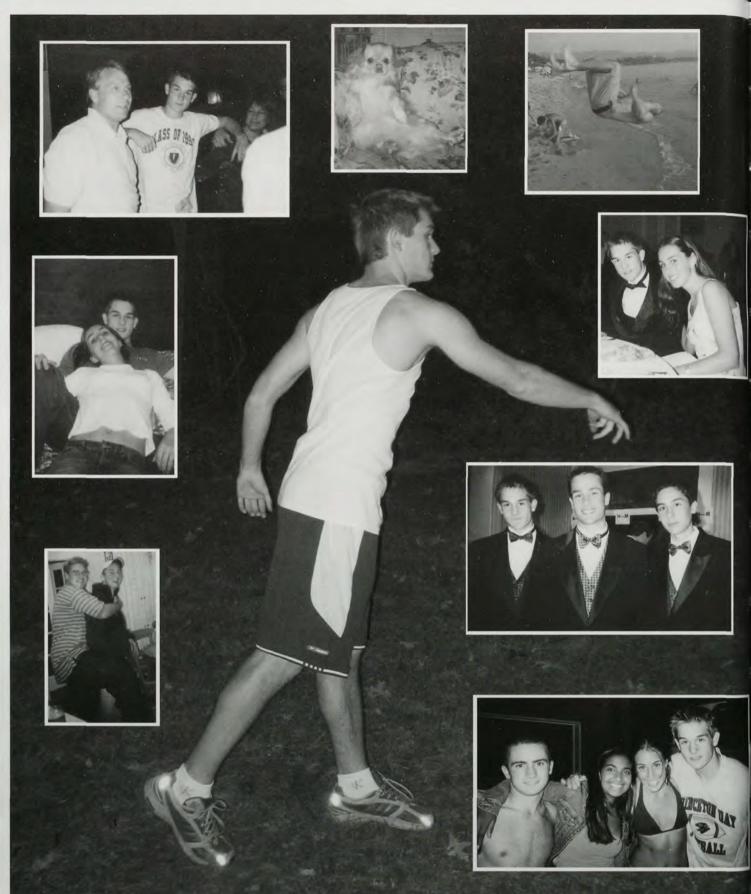

As I engaged some of you in conversations about PDS's core values, you were forthright and clear about how the confidence to try new things seemed part of the culture of a school that nurtures individual expression and supports student exploration.

Thank you, members of the Class of 2004, for embracing the pioneer spirit for yourselves in ways that modeled the value of exploration as a worthy endeavor. You are natural leaders and we will miss your special contributions to PDS.

Sincerely,

Judith R. Fox Head of School

THE 5 LITTLE INDIANS

Written and Illustrated by Bradstreet Allen Rand

They had arrows and bows.

When they were not watching they fell in a pond. Then they sank down and when they sank down they got pinched.

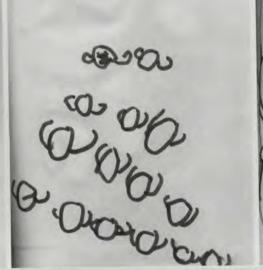

Then they swam back up and got their arrows and they shooted and they got the lobster.

> More lobsters comed. There were 15 more. And then comes 16.

Then they still used their arrows. Then Robin hoods comed. They sank down.

And the Robin hoods got the Indians and swimmed back up. And they saved the Indians life.

When I was a little boy, I believed that if you put a tooth under your pillow, A fairy would come in the night and take away the tooth and leave a dime. Now, I believe in myself more than anything. And, I suppose in a way, that's also believing in God. If there is a God and He made you, if you believe In yourself, you're also believing in Him. So I think everybody should believe in themselves. That doesn't mean you've got to believe in heaven and hell and all that stuff. But it does mean that what You are and what you do is your religion. I can't express myself in easy Conversation - the words just don't come out right. But when I get up on Stage - well, that's my whole life. That's my religion. My music is electric Church music, if by 'church' you mean 'religion', I am electric religion.

"Let us go then, you and I,/when the evening is spread out against the sky/Like a patient etherized upon a table;/Let us go, through certain half-deserted streets,/The muttering retreats Of restless nights in one-night cheap hotels/And sawdust restaurants with oyster-shells: Streets that follow like a tedious argument/Of insidious intent/To lead you to an overwhelming question... Oh, do not ask, 'What is it?' "

I readily believe that in the totality of things there are more invisible than visible natures. But who shall recount to us the family of all these things? And their degrees and relationships and distinctive signs and their individual functions? What do they do? What places do they inhabit? The human mind has always solicited knowledge of these matters but has never attained it. Meanwhile, I do not deny; it is sometimes pleasant to contemplate the image of a greater and better world in the mind as if in a picture, lest the mind, accustomed to the trivia of modern life, should shrink excessivly and sink completely into petty musings. But at the same time one must be intent upon truth, and moderation must be observed, so that we may distinguish the sure from the unsure, day from night.

FIELD HOCKEY

Whack it... WHACK IT GOOD!

Below: Allie Crouse takes the ball down the field.

With determination and the will to dream, the team worked hard to build up the confidence and attitude that allowed them to go on the field and challenge the best teams in the area.

Although the season opened with a disappointing 1-0 loss to Stuart, they were able to come back and defeat

Germantown's tough team 4-3. But this was only the beginning to a very long season.

"Tourney Time" came along, and the 1-0 victory over Peddie in the Prep A quarter-finals proved to be sweet revenge. However, after a hard-fought battle against Allentown, PDS lost 2-1 at the MCT quarterfinals.

But this only allowed them to focus on the semifinal game against Stuart. By playing "their own game" and utilizing the "two-minute drill," PDS proved that they owned the Great Road with a decisive win 4-0.

With faithful fans cheering from the sidelines, the Prep final was the most exciting game of the season. The varsity field hockey team left everything out on the field and had no regrets. They never gave up, down to the last goal, scored by Becky Gallagher with just a few seconds left on the clock. Although the girls lost to Lawrenceville 2-1 and went home with the runner-up trophy, they knew that they would be remembered and knew that they had earned the right to play on the first Sunday of November.

The girls did not just leave with memories of the games, however. Who will forget the Underarmor trend or the "What time is it?...It's GAME TIME!" cheer before every game? What about singing on the bus or sharing gossip in the stretching circles? Or the alliterations they created for each opponent, such as "Jump on Germantown" and "Hammer Hun"? Eating at PJ's, watching Rudy and Remember the Titans to get psyched up, and Amanda's maternity spandex are all things to be remembered as well.

As Coach Thomas said when the season came to a close, "It's all about the journey and the friends you make along the way."

FOOTBALL

Gimme Da Loot!

Ithough the 2003 football season officially started in late August, the team began preparation for the season with conditioning drills and weight training in early July. The team spent countless hours on the rock-hard practice field in both hot and cold weather preparing for hard-fought Friday night and Saturday games. The varsity football team consisted of 35 players, a small number for any football team, but impressive considering the size of the student body at PDS.

With a record of 2-7, a fairly disappointing winloss ratio, the Varsity Football Teamhad a difficult season. However, there were many high points that came out during the 2003 season. Probably the most significant moment came in a game against a bigger and more experienced St. Josephs of the Palisades team. Falling behind early, the PDS Panthers fought back to overcome the early deficit and beat St. Joe's by a substantial margin. The Panthers were able to use great speed and smart defense to defeat the Blue Jays from St. Joe's, two things that the team had lacked during the previous three games. Another memorable moment came against a rival and very strong local team, The Pennington School. Even with seven starters sidelined due to injuries, PDS was able to keep the game close thanks to a strong defense and key performance by younger players.

The PDS Football program has much to look forward to in the coming seasons. With the return of head Coach Devlin next year, along with over ten junior players and just as many sophomores, PDS football will surely continue to grow and improve. Although the team will be losing five seniors, Lon Johnson, Alex Suguira, Dylan Leith, Will King and David Pepperman, their contribution to the team will be extremely difficult to replace. -Will King XII

GIRLS TENNIS

We're Bad, That's Why We're in the Corner

s the 2003 PDS Varsity Tennis team came together at the end of August, both coaches and players looked forward to a great season as they welcomed two strong new players onto the team. Freshman Andrea Spector and foreign exchange student Sylvia Schulz van Endert helped the team achieve new levels of success as the team finished the season with an impressive 13-2 win-loss ratio.

With Sylvia and Andrea

as second and third singles, our team went on to place second in the Mercer County Tournament, and third in the Prep A State Tournament. At Preps, Sylvia went on to beat our rival Hun and to place first in New Jersey. Also exhibiting outstanding play throughout the tournament, our first singles player Alexis Jacobi placed second in the state.

The season, although highlighted by success on the court, will always be remembered by the seniors for the bracelets, snacks, sunflower seeds, and of course, for the friendships. As the tight-knit team reached the end of the season, it became clear how much the six seniors on the team would be missed in the coming year.

Cross Country

...IT HURTS SO GOOD!

ross Country is a lifelong sport. On the fields of PDS and the back roads of Princeton, the PDS Cross Country team really learned what the sport is all about: dedication, form, spirit, pride, and hard work. They jogged together; ran together; sprinted together. They formed a tight team that depended on one another and pushed one another to work hard and succeed.

Led by the three senior girls, Katie Hagan, Allie Rubin, and Lily Mitchell, the cross-country team had an exciting season, filled with ups, downs, and loads of laughs. Both the boy's and girl's had young teams this year. The boys were predominantly freshman and sophomores, just starting off their running careers. It will be these boys, though, that will be a force to reckon with in coming years as they continue to grow and improve as runners. The girl's team, too, was made up of mostly underclassmen. Both teams fought through many running-induced injuries, and came away from the season with confidence, a better understanding of the sport, and personal goals for the future. Both the girls and boys teams grew to become close running mates and friends.

Whether the freshman boys were chasing each other like animals, the senior girls were wrestling up on the pagoda fields, or the team was partaking in a victory dinner at Hot Dog Johnny's, the Cross Country team always had fun. They knew when to take time out for skateboarding, and when to push themselves to go for ten 400's, as opposed to just eight. They supported each other through the fall months and prevailed as personal champions as everyone left the season having accomplished personal goals.

GIRLS SOCCER

It's Not a Marathon, It's a Sprint

eturning nine of the eleven starters from last year, they knew that their team would be strong. Eight players went to the Princeton University Soccer Camp before preseason and got back into the swing of things, both on the soccer field and on the dance floor, allowing them to to into preseason feeling confident and playing well.

As school began and they started coming together as a team, their team spirit went into full effect, T-shirts for every event were hand decorated, and signs and streamers were hung all over the school. Amidst the spirit and team bonding, however, they competed intensely.

After recovering from a first game loss against Germantown Academy, they were unstoppable, winning several games in a row, and truly playing as a unit. Their defense was superb. With Katie Levine holding their last line, their new flat back four formation could learn each other's strengths and weaknesses and come together for an amazing season. The midfield dominated opponents, stringing together crisp passes and always going in for strong tackles. The front line was on target from the start, shooting with power and accuracy after making world-class moves around the opponents' defenders.

As the season progressed, however, their excitement waned a little. Regardless, with the help of the coaches, they pulled through with some amazing wins and some very close losses against top rival schools Lawrenceville, Peddie, and Pennington. When discussing with Coach Harrington what made this season feel more successful than the previous three, he explained that there are three types of games. "There are the games that we are supposed to win, the games that are toss-ups, and the games that the other team is the favorite." With strong play, we were able to win more of the toss-up games as well as one or two in which the other team was the favorite, games which we haven't had much success with in the past. On top of our success on the field, our unity was astonishing as our entire team bonded, from freshmen to seniors. In a close mid-season match against Hopewell Valley, we played the best 80 minutes of soccer I've ever seen the PDS Girls Soccer Program string together to win 2-1.

With the changing of the leaves came our post-season tournament schedule. The highlight of our season occurred in the quarterfinals of the Prep A State tournament against seven-time Prep A Champion and rival school, Peddie. We fought tooth and nail against stronger, bigger players, and with ten seconds left to go in the first half we scored off of a corner kick. After a nosebleed, several bruises, and an amazing defensive game, we held them to a 1-0 win.

We were then knocked out of the Mercer county tournament by Hopewell Valley in a close loss, but not before beating West Windsor-Plainsboro South in a "come from behind 4-3 win" in the first round. With Peddie out of the way, we moved on to the semi-finals of the Prep A tournament and played an amazing game against Lawrenceville to lose 2-0 in a very close match.

The 2003 Girls Soccer Program had their most successful season in recent years, finishing with a 12-8 record, five All-Prep Player selections, three All-State Player selections, and one Coach of the Year

Boys Soccer

You're All a Bunch of Wussies!

Ithough they did not have much luck from the beginning, the boys were able to pull through and completed a successful season this fall.

The team was plagued with injuries during preseason, losing some of their most talented players for nearly the entire season. Within two weeks, with a bench diminished by injuries, the team was forced to reevaluate their strategy.

They decided to play a more defensive-minded game, a tactic that turned out to be a double-edged sword. While they were able to stay in most games by stopping their opponents from scoring, however, the team, already short on goal-scorers, found it increasingly difficult to put the ball in the back of the net. In the end, it was a sacrifice worth making, as it always gave them a chance at victory even against the most skilled opponents.

For the second year in a row the team managed to advance past the first round of the state tourney. Unfortunately, for the second year in a row, it was also eliminated in a heart-wrenching fashion.

After pulling out an overtime victory in the first round, the team journeyed to Morristown-Beard for the second round match. The boys out-shot and outplayed the opponents; however, their inability to score goals and "shoddy" officiating ultimately handed the 2-0 result to Mo-Beard.

Despite this disappointing end, nonetheless, the season was undoubtedly a success. Although the record was well below 500 they achieved some excellent results against first-rate teams, including 2-0 losses to Hopewell Valley, Ewing, and Hun, and a 1-0 loss to George.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

or the past four years, the girls' basketball team has been changing constantly. The seniors this year, Kathryn Batchelor, Kate Levine, and Marla Pfenninger, experienced three different head coaches throughout their four years playing.

This year, however, was very different. With the same assistant coach from last year as the head coach and an excoach of boys' wrestling as the assistant, the girls conditioned harder than they ever had in the past and prepared themselves for a challenging Prep

They truly saw this improvement during a home game with Pingry one Saturday. The previous year, Pingry had beaten them quite convincingly, (by over ten points). Because both teams basically had the same players returning, the PDS team was nervous about how they would do against them.

However, the girls' emotions turned from nervous to excited when they beat Pingry by almost the same margin that they had beaten the PDS team last year. After that game, they were truly ready to compete with any team they faced, including old rivals, such as Hun, Lawrenceville, and new opponents in the holiday tournament at Point Pleasant Beach.

The team this year combined everything that was necessary for success. They had fun, but were serious and competitive in practice and games. Everyone on the team contributed to the team's success, and with most of the team returning next year, including leading scorer, Lexi Cheshier. PDS girls' basketball looks forward to another great season.

A schedule. By the end of the first week of practice, almost everyone was exhausted. In the locker room after each exhausting practice, they wondered if they would be able to make it to their cars.

As it turned out, their hard work payed off to improve their 5-17 record from the previous year, posting a 10-10 record during the regular season. The young team, consisting of only three seniors and one junior, proved that dedication is the key to improvement.

BOYS BASKETBALL

Penetrate the D

Ithough from the outset, nobody seemed to give the team a chance, the boys basketball team was very successful during the 2003-04 season.

The question was: the team clearly had talent, but could a new coach exploit it? Furthermore, could a team that played so inconsistently the previous year come together and succeed?

With strong play, hard practice, and determination, the team was able to pull together and ended the year with an impressive record of 16-9. Doubling the win total from just one year ago, the team made unbelievable strides.

Earning the sixth seed in the Prep B tournament, the team's hard work was evident as the it upset the third and second seed teams enroute to the championship game where it faced a Newark Academy team that won each of it's tournament winning smile; Below: (Left to games by an average of 22 points.

A hard fought contest ensued and even though the team didn't come out on top the boys showed their resilience. The seniors combined accounted for 43 of the team's 49 points, with Dylan Leith leading all scorers with 24.

Other highlights included making the finals of the Cumberland Regional Christmas Tournament and beating rival Pennington.

The seniors, Dave Pepperman, Dylan Leith, Alex Sugiura, Rajeev Sharma, Jim Harding, and Lon Johnson, provided consistency all year, and the future of the team now lies in the guards. Sophomores Drew Godwin and Andrew Davidson, along with juniors Pierre Hoppenot and Vikram Gupta, will have to pick up where the seniors left off this year to continue the team's success.

GIRLS HOCKEY

Roll, Jordon, Roll!

oach John Cook's goal for the Girls Ice Hockey team this season was not just to beat the teams that it was expected to beat, but to bring down the top teams as well. At first, it seemed like the girls were doomed to fall just short in every game. Nevertheless, they motivated themselves by looking forward to a win that would be a perfect combination of the skills they had focused on throughout the season.

Several one-goal losses were disheartening, but at the same time proved that they were able to skate with challenging teams like Millbrook and Morristown-Beard, Every day Coaches Cook and Ahlquist emphasized the areas that the team needed to work on in order to succeed. At the beginning of each practice, the girls skated and worked on longer, more efficient strides. They practiced passing the puck deceptively on the ice. While shooting, theydffc were encouraged to "put some zip on it." A play referred to as "hot potato" was devised to set Betsy Welsh up on breakaways.

Numerous inside jokes made the season memorable. Cook family sing-a-longs of "Roll, Jordan, Roll," with the rest of the team singing the chorus, acted as pre-game inspiration. Hilary and Betsy's locker room stories provided constant amusement, while the debate over whether Mr. Beev, a stuffed beaver, was ugly or just speciallooking was ever-present. The girls invented creative, new cheers for between periods, as Alex Ascot enthusiastically counted off. The entire team bonded, especially during the long bus trips to Connecticut.

Though a large and fairly young group, they were led by a core of strong players this year. The seniors (Helena Fishbein, Hilary Cook, Carly Berger, Betsy Welsh, Alex Ascot, and Heidi Morse) all lent considerable skill and commitment. Betsy recorded the most assists, and Katie Briody, Hilary, Helena, and Heidi Morse were the heart of the defense. Meg Kerwin led the scoring with 38 goals and Kristina Costa was in net as a second-year starter goalie.

The girls finally succeeded in their goal of beating a top team when they beat Hill 3-1 a few weeks before the end of the season, experiencing the great feeling of having their talents and team spirit become a force to reckon with. They also made it to the Prep Semifinals, where they fell to Mo-Beard, another close rival. In the PDS Invitational Tournament, they placed second after losing a tough championship game to Canterbury. Overall, the season showed improvement and a commendable commitment to having fun while playing good hockey.

ovember of 2003, with one of the toughest schedules in years and the challenge of coming together as a new team, a slew of underclassmen joined PDS boys hockey program. In the end, the players came through on both accounts, putting together a 17-4-1 record as a truly functioning team.

The first major landmark of the season came at the Barber Tournament at St. Mark's School where the team went 2-1 against New England prep schools, proving that they could compete with top teams. After the PDS team returned, they notched a big win against Bergen Catholic, ranked number one in the state at the time, before taking a trip to Shady Side School in Pittsburgh where the team won 2-0 against Upper Saint Clair in a shootout. After a very close loss to Lawrenceville at home, PDS went on to win games against Malvern Prep, Hun, Seton Hall Prep, Portledge, Montclair-Kimberley, and Morristown-Beard, the last two being for the Prep state championship. The team ended the season taking the championship title in the PDS Invitational Tournament with a victory against Wyoming Seminary in overtime.

Throughout the entire year, the team was given great support from the home fans who created a home ice advantage. Each and every team member greatly appreciated all of the fan support. Although the pre-game O Hanukkah and the prospect of hearing Endless Love in the dark after a win might have helped as well.

ith five strong returning Varisty members, the girl's varisty volleyball team considers this season a success. Despite the half win and half loss record, we beat some of our strongest opponents, and surprised even ourselves. We were called the underdogs, and "The Come Back" team.

Playing all Pennsylvania teams left us with long bus rides of entertainment provided mostly by senior Suzanna Curtis. Captain Allie Rubin, was the spirit of our team. "Panthers, BABY!" Also returning to varsity was junior Lauren Hinkel who was a help all over the court, as was Sylvia, an unexpected and welcome surprise for the team.

We were a close knit team, always laughing and enjoying ourselves while working to improve the PDS volleyball program. Graduating five members of the varsity team and losing Sylvia as she goes home to Germany will be a challenge left for the junior varisty and remaining girls to take on next year. As the only returning Senior next year, tricaptain Lauren Hinkel looks forward to leading the PDS team forward, and she is expected to continue her "Captain Runs."

SQUASH

Hard and Tight

ith a very young team consisting of four freshmen (Allie Zindman, Daniel Gentile, Bam Miller, and Jason Kann), four sophomores (Ethan Buchsbaum, Jon Zindman, Clark Bristol, and Greg Rosen), one junior (Toby Fox), and only one senior (Michael Costa), the future looked bright for PDS squash. Captains Ethan Buchsbahm and Michael Costa lead the team to a 9-4 season. But this could not have been accomplished without the strong play from all members of the team. Jon Zindman really stepped up his play this year and was relentless, fighting for every point; And Allie Zinnman had the best record on the team with only two losses, and we think she's still bitter about those. But the real attitude of the team came from a strong team bond and having fun on court. Most of the PDS squash players have and still play together on an outside team, so the new freshmen were less of new teammates, and more of old teammates on a new team. This made transition from last year to this year very easy.

After a great season, next year looks promising. Two of the tops three were sophomores and the number four was only a freshman. If the young players continue to improve the PDS squash team will become a force to be reckoned with.

FENCING

And Your Point Is?

he PDS fencing team followed up its previous 1-8 record with yet another disappointing season. Led by senior captains Brian Caulin and Mike Young, the 2004 boys fencing team managed only one win while the girl's team remained consistent throughout the season, ending up 0-9.

Despite solid performances from senior veterans, their individual efforts rarely coincided with one another. The team's inability to fit these competitive showings together in a consistent fashion and to stay healthy is widely blamed for their shortage of W's—and if you don't buy this excuse, fencers will maintain that this year is yet another one for rebuilding.

The team's one win came in the middle of the season at a Somerville, a large public school. When the matched tied 13-13, the fate of the meet fell heavily upon the shoulders of senior epecist Benji Ostro, who rose to the occasion, and finished with 5-2 giving PDS the dramatic victory. What appeared to be a rallying point for the team proved only to be a vessel in avoiding a winless season.

Leaving the disappointing regular season behind them, PDS fencing looked optimistically towards the Prep State tournament held annually at home. Out of the four other teams, Hun, L'ville, Newark Academy, and St. Benedict's competing, the boy's sabre squad finished in fifth place, foil in fourth over Hun, and epee in an impressive second topping L'ville, Hun, and Newark Academy.

As coach Paul Epply-Schmidt waves goodbye to five of his nine starting varsity fencers leaving for college, he is left yet again to look towards the future. The future, however, for once looks rather bright.

Fortunately, the girl's team will be losing only one senior, Brett Downey. The epeeists look towards a promising future as Sophomore Arvind Thambidurai and Junior Jay Thornton look to lead the squad in the coming year.

BOYS LACROSSE

Do it

hen asked how he thought the team would do this year, captain Russell Joye XII responded, "I think we have one of the best and most cohesive teams in recent years, which gives us plenty of confidence to beat the top teams in the league." It seems that this confidence draws from the strong leadership of the solid core of seniors, including Bradley Dickerson, Laddie Sanford, and Michael Crowley, who serve as the captains. These boys are comfortable with playing together, as they have been on the same teams for the past two to three years. Therefore, they have the common goal of defeating schools such as Hun and Princeton High, that have beaten them in the past. This year, they are working on "playing four full quarters", and playing their best to the very end. This weakness was displayed when the Panthers battled against WW-P South and were barely able to hold on to their 8-7 win against the Pirates. However, they also undoubtedly wowed fans, who came to support the boys despite unpleasant weather conditions, with their speed and impressive offensive plays.

GIRLS LACROSSE

How High Can You Reach?

esides the new required eye protection, there is much to be excited about this season for girls' Varsity lacrosse. The team consists of a mix of experienced returning players and young, new ones, so the girls are working on getting used to playing with one another and improving their communication on the field. Both young and old athletes have talent and much potential, and as stated by co-captain Betsy Welsh, "We will do great if we work hard and use our strengths." A team with a impressive speed and talent, their strengths were certainly exhibited during their victory in the first game of the season against Pennington. However, with much potential there is room to grow, and the team is working hard to improve in their play and team unity, which they hope will take them to new heights come tourney time in May. They certainly have fun off the field as well as on it, especially on their trip to Florida during spring break, from which they will cherish memories of a huge 3legged walk. Consequently, they plan to continue building their spirits at home and have done so by making teeshirts, doing secret psyches before games, and having team lunches. The leaders of the team, including captains Betsy Welsh and Danielle Horowitz, have high hopes for the girls as the season progresses.

aptains Vikram Gupta and Trevor Campbell are the only returning experienced varsity team members this year; nevertheless, young team expects to have a good shot at in the Prep B Tournament and also hopes to place well in the Mercer County Tournament. Their team's greatest weakness is certainly the lack of experience in the majority of the boys, but with a new training strategy developed by the team captains, which involves much more running and sprinting, the boys are sure to improve in their play and athleticism. It is definitely a team with much potential, which will surely help the boys reach new heights. Although tennis is generally an individual sport, the boys' varsity tennis team members exemplify team unity and certainly know how to have fun and enjoy each other's company, including that of the friendly coaching staff.

BASEBALL

Dirty Balls!

The varsity baseball team this year is working to win the Prep B championship and finish the season with a solid winning percentage. With strong defense, excellent pitching, and consistent hitting, their talent is sure to take them far, especially with the leaderhip of the eight seniors, including captains Rajeev Sharma, Will King, and Alex Sugiura. Another excellent addition to the team is junior Danny O'Brien, but as a team consisted mostly of very experienced players who exhibit strong team unity, the team as a whole expects to do very well this year. In a recent game against Oratory Prep early in the season, PDS dominated 11-1, displaying their talents and showing their team spirit, which they have developed during their practices and trip to Florida over spring break. They play with a fun, relaxed attitude while working hard and focusing on taking advantage of all the talent they posess. The boys look forward to a very successful season.

SOFTBALL

Hits, Hits, Hits!

ith many freshmen and only two seniors, the very young softball team is still getting used to playing with each other. There are very skilled players along with girls who are fairly new to the game, but everyone is working on gaining experience and learning to deal with new situations.

They have a solid infield with a promising new pitcher in freshman Nicole Auerbach, skilled catcher, sophomore Hannah Tamminen, freshmen Katie Hartnack at third base, and left-fielder Jacqui Bowen, a freshmen, who also plays some third base. However, although these new players are very strong, the rest of the team is still working on getting used to playing with them, and they too are learning to play as a team.

Also, though senior Beth Breslin is a strong asset to the outfield, it consists mostly of inexperienced players, so they plan to build up their outfield. Their biggest problem now is that they tend to have hiccup innings toward the ends of games, so the team is practicing hard to play and make decisions with confidence, which will allow them to get better hits and smooth out the hiccups in their games.

With co-captains Michelle Howe and Beth Breslin leading the team, the girls plan to make great strides and take advantage of all of the talent and potential they posses. Michelle Howe XII

GOLF

Swear to Celibacy

ith eight returning seniors, the golf team this year certainly has a lot of serious potential and experience. Although it is a team normally consisting of eleven members, the roster this year has stretched to thirteen to allow a couple of underclassmen to gain experience and prep up for next spring. So far, due to inclement weather, the team has only had one match, but it's not hard to see that the boys, and one girl, can definitely contend for the MCT and Prep State titles. In the first match of the season against Hun, held at Springdale Country Club, Benji Ostro led the team with an impressive score of 37 to beat the opponents by ten strokes. Seniors Ostro, Chad Bernstein, Kathryn Batchelor, Scott Rosenberg, freshman Chris Ellinghausen are some of the team's top players this year, though it's difficult to tell thus far, since the team has had only one match and few practices. Since golf is an individual sport, new team bags and shirts definitely help to make the group to feel more like a team, a team that is bound for success this season.

FIGURE SKATING

Ice, Ice, Baby!

Below: Kristina Budelis IX doing a scratch spin

he 2004 Varsity figure skating team looks forward to this season, as it is the first time that it will be competing in two high school team opens. With four returning seniors, two juniors, and five new freshmen, the team consists of a variety of different levels of experience, ranging from Beginner to Senior. This is a sure way of having an advantage when it comes to high school team competitions, since it is better for the team to pool in points from many different sources in the Compulsory Moves,

Freestyle, and Dance events.

On April 3, PDS hosted the First Annual High School Team Open of New Jersey. All of skaters were very successful individually, each leaving with at least one medal, and helping the team win several trophies. The girls ended up with 1st place in Freestyle and Dance, 2nd place in Compulsory Moves and Team Maneuvers, and 1st place in the overall competition, after facing tough challengers, especially from Lawrence High School.

The team also attended the Massachusetts High School Team Held in Fall River, Mass, and left with 1st place in Freestyle, 2nd in Overall Compulsory Moves, 1st in Dance, and 2nd Place overall. The girls would like to thank their parents for all of their love and support.

First Annual Co-ed Volleyball Tournament

On Saturday, February 7, SAC hosted the tournament as a fundraising event, expecting five teams to participate. Unfortunately, the Sophomore Franchise never showed, but the other four teams were ready to play exciting rounds of intense volleyball. Surprisingly, the math department (and Gwen Reed) were strong competitors, with MVP John Baldwin shocking opponents with his awesome spikes and finesse on the court. However, as the Crab People gained more experience as a team and learned to play together, with the help of their new rotation strategy, pretty soon, only a few people were being hit in the head by bad serves. The Crab People were just getting started while the Mathletes suffered from poor endurance and forfeited the tournament match against the Crab people, giving them the Prize of $50 worth of Conte's Pizza. After the tournament, the Crab People generously took the Tough Cookies out for a late dinner.

...with overwhelming gratitude to the teachers who gave us wings and confidence to use them... Dearest Melissa,

What can we say! A senior already! Where has the time gone and so quickly too! Wasn't it just yesterday you were catching bugs and flying kites?

Honey, as you know I lost my parents at a very early age. From that time on there was a deep empty hole in my soul. A void as wide as the Grand Canyon itself. There were times I wondered how I even made it. I think God knew my pain and sent me something to ease it.

From the day you were born with that knowing look on your face, you have given your Dad and 1 the greatest love we have ever or will ever know. The pain in my soul became a bearable ache and the Grand Canyon became a place I want to visit.

The power of 1. It is true! One solitary person can affect and change the course of life as we know it. You have given Dad and I a reason to do our personal best, to be good, honest people, to find humor in the darkest times, to be loyal and true to ourselves and you. And even when we falter we can pick ourselves up and go on. We've tried to be good role models for you! We've tried to instill good work ethics, honesty, and the ability to admit and accept that we all make mistakes. But the weirdest thing of all, as a parent, is I find myself looking up to you, and trying to follow your lead. Your ability to be so steadfast in your honesty to yourself and everyone else you know is aweinspiring. You never waver. Your level of maturity has, is, and I'm sure, will always be a source of amazement to me. Your ability to look at a problem and solve it almost effortlessly still make me pause. (And your fashion sense leaves mine in the dust, and as for Dad, we just won't go there!)

We are proud of the committment to yourself to become your very best. It is so inspiring! You've taken a dream and turned it into a reality. Your resolve is nothing short of a miracle to us. You've taken your pain and turned it around to become the best you can be. What power, what drive, what ambition!

Next year will be a year of change and growth for all of us. We are so proud and happy for you. Your childhood dream of going to Princeton is now a reality. Although we're extrememly happy for you, we can't help but feel a little sad. I can't imagine waking up day after day without seeing your beautiful smile every morning. I'll miss watching beautiful sunrises and sunsets with you. I'll miss our own private languages spoken without words, only eye and hand gestures that only we understand. I'll miss our daily laughs, and each of us finishing the other's thoughts and sentences.

Remember every thing we've taught you. Ying and Yang, pain and gain, give and take. Please be careful! You have a great head on those shoulders-use it wisely. It takes as much energy to be happy as sad, angry and at peace so you choose. You are the captain of your own ship named Destiny! Most of all remember that every day of your life as long as Dad and I are on this great Earth, you are loved unconditionally. You never have to take abuse from anyone. Remember, you will always, always have a home no matter where life takes you. And remember there will be four outstretched arms to help catch you and push you back up if you should ever fall.

We love you with all our heart and all our soul. Forever and unconditionally, Mom and Dad 2004

Congratulations to the Class of 2004!

Max

We are so proud of you and all of your accomplishments! We are thrilled with the kind of man you have become. Your great wit, intelligence, sense of humor and kind and gentle nature will take you far in life. You have an enduring sense of right and wrong and the gift of being a generous and caring friend.-"Live your beliefs and you can turn the world around"- Henry David Thoreau. Your convictions about how you want to live your life are admirable. "The ultimate measure of a man is not where he stands in moments of comfort and convenience, but where he stands at times of challenge and contreversy." Go and live your dreams, create new ones and know that there is no limit to what you can achieve.

We love you, Mom, Dad, and Katilin

P.S. To Catherine,

You are a joy to know! Your quick smile and your love of life are infectious. You are talented and ambitious yet humble. We are proud to know you and we have grown to love you. Good luck at Penn!

Congratulations! We are so proud of you and all of your accomplishments.

May God be with you always.

Your loving family, Mom, Dad, and Chris

Have a beautiful, blossoning future, our little princess.

With love, Mom and Dad

Congratulations and Good Luck to the Class of 2004!

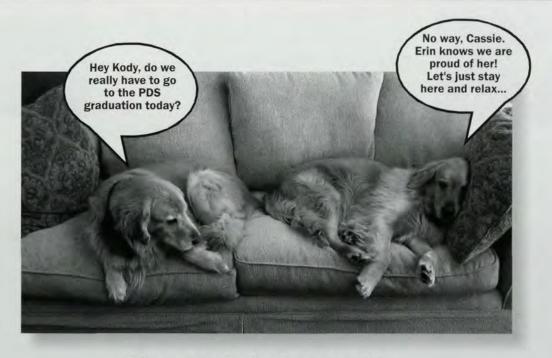

Allison, we are very proud of you.

Love,

Mom, Dad, and Samantha

Congratulations, Erin, from the entire family!

YOU'VE CHANGED A LOT OVER
THE PAST EIGHTEEN YEARS,
AS YOU'VE GROWN FROM A LITTLE BOY INTO A YOUNG MAN.
BUT ONE THING THAT'S NEVER CHANGED - AND NEVER WILL IS OUR LOVE FOR YOU.

CONGRATULATIONS ON ALL YOU HAVE BECOME- AS WELL AS ALL YOU HAVE REMAINED.

WITH ALL OUR LOVE, MOM, DAD, AMANDA, MARIA, BRIAN, JESSICA

We love you with all our hearts. May you have a wonderful time in college. Our wish for you is much health, happiness and love. We're so proud and thankful to have you as our wonderful son and brother.

Love, Mom, Dad and Jonathan

Maria.

The year is 2004 and our "Princess" is graduating high school. "OH MY GOD!" The Battaglia family has been part of the PDS community since 1989, 15 years, and we are saying good-bye to a fine academic institution. Another completed chapter in your book of life comes to a close and a new one begins.

We are so proud of you and truly feel comfortable about the decisions you've made. Don't be afraid of the future. Embrace it. These next few years will be filled with many opportunities and new experiences. Never stop learning, be open to new ideas, and always keep your feet squarely on the ground to help you balance reality with fiction.

Mom and I raised you with a strong foundation of ethics, morals, and family traditions. You have always been an excellent student. Your strongest subject may have been shopping in which you've earned an A+. You are definitely your mother's daughter; she has taught you well!

It hasn't been easy being the only girl with your three over-protective brothers, especially Michael who would put the fear of God in any guy who came close. (Thanks Mike for making things easier for me!) Even though you don't have a sister, Jules has been the closest person to having a sister of your own. We love you Jules.

Maria, you have matured beautifully and so gracefully. You are a respectful, loving individual who has made us proud. We love you very much and wish our Princess nothing but happiness in the future.

If you go into the future with your dreams in front of you, anything is possible. Know that you have our love and support in every endeavor you may have. May God guide your way. Stand tall, your achievements are plentiful and the best is yet to come.

Michael- "Maria, congratulations! We both made it as "lifers", K-12, going to the same school all those years. Did I hear you say Muhlenberg?"

Anthony- "Maria, I'm going to miss you. Who's going to stick up for me now?"

Joey- "Maria, I love you. You are the best sister ever!"

Jessie- "Wuf-Wuf"

Maria- "Duh Dad, that's why they call it hot chocolate."

"All we have to decide is what to do with the time that is given us."

To Jason,

We are so proud of you and your accomplishments. Our love and support are always yours. Godspeed.

~ Mom, Dad and Ryan

CONGRATULATIONS ANDREW AND THE CLASS OF 2004

Andrew,

The day you were born life began for us as a family. The joy you bring us each and every day is a gift. We are so proud of the young man you have become. You are thoughtful, kind, understanding and gentle. Work hard, enjoy life to the fullest, and remember that there is nothing as wonderful as love.

We love you, Mom, Dad, and Lauren

Dear Chad,

We are so very proud of you and your classmates - Congratulations!!

May your quest for knowledge like your pursuit of the perfect golf shot provide you with a lifetime of inspiration and pleasure.

Wherever you travel we hope you do so with a strong mind and a good heart and yes it is now your turn to be the guide - We will forever be cheering you on!!

We love you, Mom, Dad, and Keri

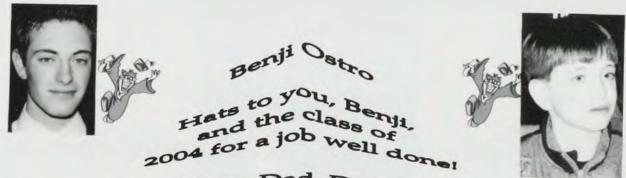

To Our Beautiful Lillie,
May all your wishes come true.
Congratulations
Sweet Lillie
Our hearts are filled with joy and pride.
We love you so much!

Reach for your dreams, keep that winning smile, and always know that your family loves you. May God bless you and keep you close.

Much love,

Mom and Dad

To Tyler,

Best wishes for all that lies ahead! Love, Nana

Tyler,

Know you what it is to be a child? It is...

To see a world in a grain of sand, Heaven in a wild flower, To hold infinity in the palm of your hand, And eternity in an hour.

Know you what it is to be a man? It is...

To give to the world with strength, commitment and honesty,
Hold only love in your heart for others,

Render judgments that are true and make for peace, Say, "Here I am, Lord. I will go, Lord..."

To Tyler,

A wonderful grandson...

Whose roots extend from:
Princeton Junction, N.J.,
Philadelphia, P.A.,
Boyton Beach, F.L.,
Cape May, N.J., and Plymouth and Needham M.A.,
and Stratton, V.T...

A future humanitarian who reacher out to help and aid those less fortunate.

A grandson to be proud of and whose future is bright and fulfilling!

--Isaiah 30:21

Dear Tyler, We are so proud of you. -- You have accomplished so much already and the future lies open before you. As you embark on your journey, we know that you will come to many crossroads where you will have to decide which path to take, which possibilities to pursue, which options to exercise. Our prayer for you as you make you way is that you will always know that God will be with you no matter which road you choose. What matters is not what you do but who you are and who you believe in. You, Tyler, are a person of integrity and faith. The Lord be with you wherever life leads you.

With love,

Ionathan

Heddy, Clark and

Dear Tyler, Congratulations.

Congratulations on having reached your graduation while having kept your sanity. Congratulations on being a great friend to many, and an amazing brother to me.

Congratulations on having become a person who I and others can believe in, trust, and emulate.

Congratulations on having become someone with his own thoughts, opinions, and values.

Congratulations on your future. There is no decision you can make, which, if made with integrity, faith, love, caring and determination, can bring you anything but success.

Continue to mold your beliefs with an open mind and a solid heart.

Believe in yourself.

Keep living with passion and compassion, and the relationships that follow will help define your life. Most of all, THANK YOU for making my life a better journey. I am honored to call you my brother.

Love you biggest fan, Geoff

Jason,

We are so proud of you. Your four years at PDS have gone by so quickly and now it's time to move on to greater things. You are a son that any parent would be proud of.
Marissa and Michael think the world of you and love you so much,

Your individuality is "one" of your best qualities. Don't ever change your ways; they're what have made you the person that you are today.

Congratulations and the best of luck at the University of Michigan.

We love you,

Mom, Dad, Marissa and Michael
