Each person that belongs to our society has something new and exciting to bring to the community. We are each special and irreplaceable in our own way. This year's theme, identity, touches upon that aspect here at Princeton Day School.

In our tendency to look at PDS as a single body, the individuality of the people who provide our school with its amazing breadth of diversity is often forgotten or overlooked. The daily life of the student places a large emphasis on schoolwork and extracurricular activities, and these tasks can often blind us to our surroundings.

In this yearbook, we can attempt to take a step back from our busy lives and fully experience the society in which we spend the majority of our young adult lives. We all identify ourselves in different ways. Every person that we come into contact with possesses his or her own distinct personality and eccentricity. Whether one is a teacher or a student, each is unique.

The beauty of our community is that each person can choose their own desired path in life and everyone is embraced equally. Some are writers, artists and athletes, others are debaters, poets, scientists, actors and musicians. Many are a combination. Regardless, all of these people make up the one-of-a-kind population that is PDS. Our community is not one that can be easily replicated. You just don't see the combination of wonderfully unique people anywhere else. That is exactly what makes PDS such a great place to be, and that is what our identity is all about.

Michael Malyn, XI

Dear Members of the Class of 2007:

The theme of your yearbook is "identity." How appropriate. You have well established your class identity at PDS. On your watch, during your four years here, we have seen our school grow in many wonderful ways and you have been instrumental in helping achieve those changes.

I speak of the Honor Code, the Halloween Parade, upper school participation in Blue & White Day, coming together as a full community at the start of each school year, Town Meetings, a record of remarkable accomplishment and award-winning athletics, music, theater, art, photography, poetry, debate, mock trial, journalism and academics.

Individually and collectively, you have contributed to our excellence and enhanced your own. You have given life to our mission statement as young men and women "well equipped for college and beyond." You have brought to us "diversity of cultures, views and talents" and have embraced that which enriches us through such diversity. You have served the community both in and out of school. You have touched the hearts and minds of your teachers and of one another.

I feel a special connection with you since this is my last year at PDS, as it is yours. I consider it an honor to be part of the class graduating in 2007. You always will be part of the Princeton Day School identity and we cherish the notion that we will be part of yours, as well.

I wish you health, a life of learning and all the joys and satisfactions that grow from being comfortable and confident with your identity.

Sincerely,

Judith R. Fox

Dear Mr. Levinson,

Ever since you were first introduced to us as our freshman class dean, You have been a "member" of our class.

With your guidance and suport, we have had many success in upper school. You have been our rock through thick and thin. Thanks for always being there for us.

Thanks for everything, Mr. Lev! The Class of 2007 is proud to dedicate the yearbook to you, with much love.

i am a leader

I used to feel that PDS was sculpting me into a certain kind of person that it wanted me to be. Now I've learned that this is not the case. I feel that I can freely be a singer, a writer, a young dreamer, a girl asking for too much and getting just enough, a performer, a laugher, and an over-exaggeration of myself. And that's okay.

Sarah Matthes, X

My position and role within the PDS community is to not only to explore and expand my limitations academically, but also to initiate and maintain relationships with both students and teachers alike. That being said, my biggest goal is to maintain a homeostasis of both academic integrity and social time. By joining a variety of clubs and playing sports, I am able to achieve this balance. Because the PDS community is rather small in comparison to neighboring schools, the entirety of the population feels like one big family to me. This quality is what makes PDS special and unique, and I am proud to be a part of it.

Jeff Young, XI

I feel that I am a person who wants to get to know other people. I have been able to strike the balance between having a lot of friends, while maintaining intimate relationships with a small group of people. I want to be social and talk to as many people as I can. Joining as many clubs as I can is also important to me. I am a person who is constantly on the go and I rely on my friends and the people who surround and support me to help me in my quest to reach my goals. I think that PDS has been such a great place for me to succeed and has been a perfect place for me to receive my education.

Fashion & Trends

From the long ago days when L.L. Bean dominated the halls of PDS, to the fun and glamour of today, I have enjoyed watching the ever-changing fashions of students over the years. They have created their own identity through clothes and accessories. It doesn't matter whether you're wearing leopard print, leggings, Liebeskind-like glasses, or lime-colored polo shirts, it can all work. The whole idea is to wear what makes you feel good, what makes you happy and what says "you" about your clothes. And let's not forget the accessories. I have seen many PDS students make beautiful, sometimes subtle, and sometimes not-so-subtle statements, by wearing the perfect pair of shoes, a scarf, an awesome knitted cap, eyeglasses that say, "I'm smart," or, to my delight this year, cufflinks.

I can say that I not only love fashion, but also love the many wonderful styles of all of us who are at PDS everyday. From Birkenstocks to Manolos, from jeans to couture, from the second hand shop to Fifth Avenue and everything in between, we live happily and fashionably together, and respect and love each other's styles.

The Halloween Parade

Halloween is a holiday that thrives on spirit, energy and imagination. It is an opportunity for even the quietest person to dress up, and to wear a mask, both literally and figuratively. A timid first grader can become a fearless superhero. A 4th grade girl can become a beautiful princess. Often, however, as children grow up, their love and excitement for Halloween fades. Upper School students no longer trick or treat, and therefore see no point in creating an elaborate costume.

In a valiant effort to unite the Lower, Middle, and Upper Schools, and also to promote Halloween spirit, in the past PDS has held an annual Halloween Challenge. Each Upper School class created a skit that was performed in front of the entire school. By turning Halloween into a competition for Upper School students, excitement and spirit flooded the halls of PDS, particularly in the Upper School. The Upper School would put on a great show for the Middle and Lower School. I myself remember being in Kindergarten and thinking that the Upper School students were just about the coolest people I knew.

Unfortunately, this magical tradition was ended after it was agreed that the Challenge was potentially too scary and/or racy to be performed in front of small children. After much deliberation, it was concluded that there would be a Halloween Parade in lieu of a Challenge. Each grade would choose a theme, and each member of the grade would sport a costume that somehow pertained to the theme.

At first, the idea was tirelessly fought against. Many wanted to continue the Challenge tradition, as it had been a longstanding and popular one. After the first year of the Parade, however, people began to come around. Being able to unite under one common theme was a wonderful new concept. A skit allowed a handful of people to shine and be stars, but the Parade allowed each and every person to shine as much as he or she wanted. This past year, the Halloween Parade was booming with spirit. Each grade seemed to go all out with elaborate costumes and fantastic themes. The participation was fantastic, and the chants and cheering made the event all the more successful. Thanks, PDS, for saving the spirit of Halloween.

James Cole, XI

Members of the Class of 2007 Senior Class, united under the theme of 'Pirates,' run a lap around the parking circle to celebrate their victory and domination over the other three classes in the Halloween Parade.

The festive march:

A teacher's perspective

Halloween is my favorite holiday, and I look forward to it each year: I really enjoy dressing up (both at school and at home), giving out candy, and doing dry ice demos with my physics students. It takes much planning, but the fun lasts all day and into the night. It's SPOOK-TACULAR!!

Anthony Lapinski

Upper School
Science

I LOVE Halloween! It's a holiday that allows you to be creative and spooky. I've been dressing up since college. My roommates and I used to go to Halloween parties as a group. One year we were a salad: I was the tomato. I think about what to be for almost the whole year. When I read Great Expectations a few summers ago in preparation for teaching it, I finally got to meet Miss Havisham, the woman who is jilted on her wedding day and becomes frozen in that moment. Although I had always heard about her, reading her and meeting her was so much better than anything I had ever heard. Sitting on the couch in my living room and meeting her that day, I knew I had to become her. When I found the dress and veil, I met with Ross Hindley who told me how to soak it in tea to get it to look aged. I soaked the dress three separate times and lived in it for three full days before wearing it the first time. I slept in it because I knew that Miss Havisham never took the dress off. My students had already read the novel so they helped me with the costume and accessories. A student baked a cake two weeks before Halloween so that it was moldy and crumbly and I carried it around with me.

Susan Stein

Upper School English

For me, Halloween has always been a fun time, but during my years here at PDS it has come to be a very special day. I have never been at a school before where people have such a good time dressing up for Halloween, from the Lower School children right on up through the faculty. For me, it provides a chance to let loose a little bit and do something zany for a change. It's fun taking part in the Halloween experience at PDS, and I look forward to it every year.

cupid's arrow Valentine's Day

The sale of Valentine Carnations is a PDS tradition extending back several decades, with over one thousand flowers sold and distributed each year. The carnations are accompanied by a greeting card sharing best wishes for the holiday among students and teachers. Sponsored by the Exchange Club, proceeds from this popular expression of good will are used to support visiting exchange students, most recently participants in the ASSIST program from Germany.

Model United Nations is a forum for debate on world issues. We discuss issues ranging from nuclear proliferation to peacekeeping in Africa to migrant worker rights. We work alone or in pairs to represent a UN member state from anywhere across the globe at a Model UN conference. There, we debate the issues and ultimately write resolutions- generally, a plan to help solve these global problems. Our club normally attends two of these conferences a year. Between conferences, we have meetings each week to discuss the technical parts of Model UN- from the basic explanations of Model UN to parliamentary procedure to research to public speaking. We also hold simulations after school to help members prepare for the atmosphere within a committee at a conference.

The beauty of Model UN is that it allows students, unburdened by the cynicism of adulthood and the bureaucracy of real life, to attack the issues that plague the modern world. The resolutions produced by delegates working in concert at Model UN conferences are marked by their ambitiousness and multilateralism. Students who routinely wonder, "What if I ruled the world?" have a chance to give global governance a shot, whether at a conference, in another state, or in a room at school late into the evening. And though the committees are intensely focused and the work is demanding, the product is rewarding and no delegate is ever too far from his sense of humor, especially when there's an international affairs joke to be shared.

i am an artist

Everything I've learned through my four years in Fine Art can be summed up in one sentence: Look for art in anything and everything; once you do, you will never be alone. I've learned that even the bad days can be channeled into passion, and that without passion, there is no art. Math is not my strong point, and although math may not have much to do with art, the transitive property can still apply.

So bad days can be art, right? At least this was the case during (most of) my time in the arts program. Freshmen woes, all the way to college application stress streamlined through my veins, producing more intensity in my drawings and paintings than I'd ever thought possible. I've learned that not only does emotion fuel a great work of art, but it can also be produced by sheer effort and fervor. It's an emotional takeover, in every sense – the way a painting-in-the-works can envelop all other thought processes – the way the act of traveling to the art room during any free time becomes mechanical and doesn't require a second thought – the way all of my friends, when asked where I am, say in unison, "art studio."

It gets hard not to be sentimental about leaving the comfort of my home at PDS. I know for a fact that my technique and style, along with my zeal and determination, have grown in leaps and bounds, if only from the strong support system from my fellow art classmates and Mr. Hirniak.

field hockey

At the start of preseason on August 21, the seven seniors on the team knew that we wanted to play like it was our last game every day because from the start we knew that our team was capable of making it to the finals. On opening day, Ms. Thomas gave us a quote to help us believe and trust in each other on the field. She reminded us that it was an "opportunity to be a part of something bigger than yourself."

Several of us went on a trip to play skilled field hockey teams in Australia, where we learned that simplicity is one of the most important skills.

Our motto this year was, "fear is not a factor," and with the skills we learned from playing field hockey in Australia, we were ready to play by this motto. We were motivated even when we thought we couldn't take another step in a game. It was always worth it in the end when we met as a team, held hands, and passed down a squeeze either to tuck away a loss or to feel how great it was to win. Our trip, 6:30 a.m. preseason practices, early morning breakfasts, team rugby and huddles before games with our psych chain, were only some of the awesome things that brought us closer together.

It's been so much fun to be with such a great group of girls who really play with all their hearts. Some lead by example, while others talk it up in practice. Either way, our team this year developed and grew stronger after each and every game.

It has been a great experience to be able to be co-captains of the field hockey team this year along with Katie Briody. We had some great wins and some tough losses, but all in all, this season has been so much fun because we were able to share it with our fans, coaches, and teammates.

football

As Tom Landry once said, "Football is an incredible game. Sometimes it's so incredible, it's unbelievable." Last year we were 7 and 1, tying the best record in school history. That was an incredible season. Unfortunately, nine seniors graduated, all of whom were starters. This year, we have a very small 23-man team; four of those 23 are out for the season with injuries. Yet, Panther football has continued to claw its way to the goal line despite the incredibly unfavorable odds. The players are focused, hard working, fully dedicated and never quit, showing their strength when the chips are down and their backs are against the wall. That is truly unbelievable.

I wish the team the best of luck next year.

girls' tennis

The 2006 tennis team probably has about fifteen more "team songs" than any other team. During every bus ride or match, we somehow always end up declaring a new song. The pump-up music has really helped us. We improved so much from last year's 2-10 record to this year's 8-7 record – we quadrupled our win total! We are now defeating schools that we lost to last year, including Prep A schools like Blair and Peddie.

It has been a blast getting to know and playing with the three new varsity players, Raquel Perlman, Nina Limaye and Lauren Constantini, who fit into our energetic and loud team immediately. We have so much fun hitting together and playing games like "Rotating Approach" and "Around the World" at the end of practices.

We, Andrea Spector and Nicole Auerbach, played first and second singles this year, respectively, contributing key victories to overall team wins this season. Lauren played third singles for most of the season, often surprising her opponents with lopsided victories. Both doubles teams communicated well and were awesome at net. Kalla Gervasio and Brittany Christian were relentless and powerful at first doubles. Our second doubles players, Raquel and Nina, played great together and even upset dominating schools like Hun and the George School. Our swingers, Elena Bowen and Amy Strauss, were also amazing. From playing games to stuffing our faces with cupcakes at the Mercer County tournament, the entire team has formed a tight bond. We are so proud of the team, and we know that the girls will also have a great season next year.

cross country

The PDS Cross Country team had another exciting season during the 2006-07 school year. The boys' team had a strong showing from all four grades, with a large group of new freshmen and juniors replacing last year's seniors. At the Patriot Conference, the Boys' Varsity team fought through pouring rain and initial scoring errors to finish second overall.

Although injuries threatened to dampen the team's spirits during the year, Boys' Varsity managed to run several impressive races at various dual and conference meets, such as the Newark Academy Invitational and the Mercer County races, as well as the 'golf course' run at the Prep B finals held at Blair.

One can only hope that next year's team will continue this season's successes. With a strong base of juniors, including current varsity members Jarrett Dury-Agri, Ben Fisch and new recruit Nick Ford, along with freshman star Charlie Behling, the PDS Boys' Cross Country team looks like it will remain a force to be reckoned with.

For the girls, the best part about Cross Country has always been the long distance runs we do as a team. As a senior this year, I was not expecting too much camaraderie from a new group of people; however, we really bonded and came together as a team through pace work and hill exercises. Julia Salem and I were both very impressed with our new young team. All five of the freshman girls competed in two freshmen-only races, the Shore Invitational, and in the county meet. Alex Feuer even won a medal at the Shore Invitational. Since I will be the only senior leaving the team this year, I am thrilled to be leaving an entire team full of talent and ambition, that will work hard in the years to come.

girls' soccer

From singing on the bus to going undefeated for five games, the Girls' Varsity Soccer team experienced a memorable season. After graduating three strong seniors, the girls needed to rearrange their positions around the field. Previous midfielders, Alicia Siani, Keely Langdon, and Sam Morris joined Erin Cook in more defensive roles. Up top, the team drew its strength from leading scorer Ashley Chappo, and fellow forwards Jackie Bowen, Tess Glancey and Niki Asimacopoulos. Alexa Maher, Meg Reilly, Cammie Linville, Julie Worthington, Marissa Davila and Tara Glancey, held the team together in the central and outside midfield positions, respectively. Goalies Maddie Ferguson and Elisa Cichonksi anchored the team in the eighteen.

The girls would probably agree that one of the highlights of the season was dominating and tying cross-town rival Hun. In the 2005 season, we had faced Hun three times on their turf and lost every time. However, this year we did not allow that same result. After enjoying a wonderful pasta dinner and dressing up in the opposing team's colors, we played our hearts out on Smoyer Field. Although eventually tying, even after the regular 80-minute regulation time and two additional "golden goal" ten-minute halves, the girls proved they had come a long way from the previous year.

Even though we probably won't remember every "goal-post" or every game of "windows," we will remember improving every day and growing very close as a team, and as friends.

boys' soccer

The soccer team is just a great group of friends who all love the smell of grass and enjoy the sunshine. Each person contributes to the team in every way possible.

After starting the year off with huge games against Lawrenceville and the Lewis School, we knew we had a fine-tuned soccer machine in the making. Headed by seniors David Coghlan, Hugh Wynne, Chase Langdon, Dave Beard and Derek Mayer, the young PDS varsity squad shined together as one burning star. The superior leadership and back-up goalie performances by sophomore Matt Raborn were only a few of many key factors contributing to the team's success. With such understanding coaches, our season has been filled with happy memories that we can hold onto forever. "He is nice," said Chase Langdon after being asked about head coach Murphy. "He is good looking," said Dave Coghlan when asked about Coach Laughlin. The two varsity coaches complement each other with good looks and strategies to help guide the team to victory.

All in all, this season will be one for the books. As we go onward, we will remember all the times we spent together.

boys' hockey

Returning from one of our greatest seasons, the hockey team had some pretty big shoes to fill this year. With a new coaching staff consisting of Scott Bertoli, Jackson Hegland, and George Bozak, we were not quite sure what to expect. Despite this, we kicked off the season in full force with a 10-0 win over Rye Country Day and the team began to "Do Work". Seniors Brett DePace, Derek Mayer, Marty Rose, Nick Romeu, and Jon Sydlo led the way, helped largely by the other upperclassmen Clint O'Brien, Eric Czapka, Pete Travers, and the newcomer Jon "Gay Gay" Gatarz. With the loss of a great coach, we knew we had to step up and stick with the winning traditions as well as create some of our own. The football games in the locker room will never be forgotten, along with the "Oh Chanukah" before every game, and the street hockey after the Titans game. Some of my best moments have been with this team, and there's no way I would ever give up the past four years. Thank you to the parents and the fans, and here's that last "Warm up the bus" you could never cheer in time. Thanks again.

girls' hockey

The Girls' Ice Hockey 06-07 season was a season for learning and strengthening essential skills. With only two seniors, and a total of six underclassmen on the team, our team lacked the essential depth of experience in order to maintain a winning record. For many of the girls, it was their first time in a pair of skates. But despite the challenges, everyone, regardless of experience, showed up prepared to work and to push herself each and every day. Over the course of the season, many of the newcomers greatly improved their skills and developed a love for the game. Despite multiple losses, we managed to push through our disappointment and continued to play with passion. With three overnight trips this year, our team started to come together both on and off the ice. Hockey is a team sport, and it was necessary for the girls to become a true team. Our perseverance paid off. As a team, we had our ups and downs, but we will move on with no regrets for the season of 06-07.

boys' basketball

The PDS Panthers had a rough but encouraging 2006-2007 season. The season began with 3 grueling weeks of practice, in which players sacrificed their hearts and bodies to the demands of Coach Levinson, Coach Q, Coach McClean and Agent Rogue, a suave man with smooth moves and a killer smile. The "real" season started with a tough loss to Pennington, in which "Dom Dom" (aka Dominique Herald, aka Brielle) had 32 points and led his team to a close win over our squad. However, PDS responded to the loss, going on a winning streak right after, beating first Morrisville, then the George School, and finally Ranney. The Ranney game was a great and exciting win for the Panthers, as they overcame a three point deficit with one minute two go by giving the ball to senior Zack Shechtel, who sank 4 free throws in the final minute to clinch a 44-43 win for PDS.

Even though this PDS team was not the greatest of all time (although they were close), they will always be remembered as the team that gave Q the concussion and Lev the gray hair. We couldn't ask for any more.

At first glance at a 6-15 record, you might think the whole season was a waste, but that is the total opposite of what it was. The Varsity Girls' Basketball team didn't produce a winning season, but we never gave up. Every game we came out hard and played until the end. The scoreboard often gave our opponents the win at the final buzzer, but we had our own wins throughout the season – like beating Lawrenceville in the first half, or making a 15-point comeback against Bound Brook. From November to February, we became great friends, having fun together at every practice and game.

It was sad to see the season end, and it will be even sadder to enter the 07-08 season without our amazing seniors, Keely Langdon and Meg Francfort.

volleyball

Having lost eight seniors from last year, we didn't know what to expect at the beginning of this season. Shortly, however, all of our uncertainties dissolved. On the first day of practice, Coach Lano informed us that this team "represents a select group of athletes." He was right. Our team was perfect. Back from previous years were Andrea "Killerserve" Wexler, Alexa "Libero" Maher, Emily "Chickenarm" Exter, and Lindsey "Beast" Mischner. New to the varsity team were Devon "Setter" Light-Wills, Dana "Alwaysssmiling" Miller, Sara "Reallytall" Katz, and Jess "Jessssssica" Weiner. Raquel "Rock" Perlman was back on the team after taking a year off and Sophie "Raaaach!!!" Gebel brought our team a mind-set all the way from Germany. Our most surprising addition, however, was Sam "Freakishlytall" Morris, who had never touched a volleyball before the first day of tryouts.

There were times when the team felt sad, for example, when Agnis Irwin beat us by only a couple of points, or when Alex "My EYE!" Fizer got hit in the eye with a ball, or when we didn't have enough cream cheese. Even with these set backs, Rachel "smack that" kept laughing and our team played with determination, heart, and on a lot of bagels.

We would like to thank the 11 girls on this team for making this season what it was; we couldn't have done it without you! Many thanks to the Athletic Association for letting us play five of our home matches in the Big Gym; it changed everything. Shout out to Amanda Bynes, our hero. And immeasurable thanks to our coaches: Coach McLane, Coach Webster, and Coach Lano. Your dedication to the program was unwavering. We will never forget your inspirational speeches, which were always, well, inspiring.

fencing

The boys' fencing team experienced a great season this year, ending with a 6-4 winning record. The team incorporated a diverse skill range, from first-time varsity sophomores to seasoned senior fencers. The upper classmen took the initiative during the season, providing strong leadership and presenting themselves as role models for the large group of new freshmen. Team spirit abounded throughout the season, and no matter what one would see team members doing—whether it be putting up signs around school, warming up to classic rock played over loudspeakers, or lifting winning fencers onto their shoulders in triumph—it was clear that boys' fencing not only knew how to win, they knew how to have fun.

As for the girls' squad, despite our small size, we were a tough nut to crack. Although we never actually won a game, we fought hard and came close on numerous occasions. We really bonded as a team over the course of the season, and our girls supported each other through countless injuries and defeat. Being a captain of this team was a great honor, and I loved spending time with the girls during long bus rides, in practice or during our team breakfasts!

i am a scholar

The move I made to teach at PDS in 2000 set off the ripple in an intellectual pond for me. The splash of that incursion has continued to have repercussions. The excitement of being a teacher at PDS is belonging to a knowledgeable, professional faculty that is committed to academic and artistic excellence and to providing tomorrow's professionals with the tools they need to be effective in a world hungry for the wisdom of truehearted individuals. It's always encouraging to watch students as they grow and to see them come back and share what PDS has done for them.

This year we are watching the slow growth of a magnificent addition to the school paid for through the benevolence of alumni, parents, and friends of the school. I've seen it grow bit by bit outside my classroom window: the foundation, the girders as underpinnings, the wiring, and recently, the facades. I think of it as an outward manifestation of my own students' learning accumulating slowly through the strenuous efforts they make and through the strides of our professional staff to help them. Just as the skilled craftsmen who are constructing our new arts center work in varying ways to make a place that will serve the PDS community in future years, the professional staff at PDS works together to create something wonderful and extremely important, a community grounded, centered, strong, and serviceable.

Princeton Day School Mission Statement

Princeton Day School nurtures the mind, the body, and the character of each student.

In academics, athletics, the arts, and service, we celebrate the pursuit of individual excellence and the spirit of collaboration that binds us together as a community. We seek diversity of cultures, views, and talents to promote the intellectual growth and moral development of our students.

Our rigorous and broad JK-12 program is designed for motivated and academically talented students. We emphasize both creative and critical thought and their clear expression. Supported by an exceptional faculty and a cooperative partnership of school and home, our students discover the joy of learning. They explore their interests, cultivate enduring relationships with teachers and peers, take risks, and thrive.

Integrity, respect, and compassion are essential to the school's mission. Our students leave Princeton Day School well equipped for college and beyond: prepared to act knowledgeably, to lead thoughtfully, to share generously, and to contribute meaningfully.

The lower school represents the foundation for all that is to come in a child's education. Teachers at PDS nurture a joy in learning, respect for all, and the ability to ask questions and make connections. The curriculum stresses thoughtful responses, independent thinking, and understanding differing points of view. At this level, children are learning how to learn; the curriculum is authentic and children are thoroughly and happily involved. The second grade "Create A Culture," the third grade "History in Our Own Backyard," and the fourth grade "Immigration Study," are but a few examples of how teachers create these connections. Although these examples are taken from the classrooms of older students, the school is full of wonderful and exciting experiences in every grade and in all the special classes. It is no wonder that children love being at PDS!

middle school

Led by a strong eighth grade class this year, the middle school is interesting, engaging, and fun. The eighth graders are focused on learning and achievement, but in a way that keeps the day-to-day schoolwork entertaining and even a little silly. They have continued the treasured middle school traditions of attending dances and skating parties, providing cheering sections at middle school sports, forming an active student government, and holding passionate debates on everything. For their part, the fifth, sixth, and seventh grades are doing a great job of making sure PDS is a fun and energetic place to learn. The smiles and enthusiasm they bring to school are part of what makes this a great place to be everyday.

upper school

The upper school is a welcoming environment in which students experience the joy of learning. Some of the hallmarks of the upper school are a varied curriculum, after-school athletic programs, activities and clubs, and the relationships between faculty and students.

PDS is fortunate to have a deeply committed and well-educated faculty. Our teacher-scholars are passionate about their disciplines and gladly share their insights and understanding with their students. The constant dialogue between teachers and students fosters a mutual admiration and respect. The upper school's strong focus on education teaches students to find a balance between their sense of individual freedom and responsibility as they are offered a broad curriculum and a multitude of activities from which to choose.

As Head of Upper School, it is a privilege and an honor to watch our students grow and mature, knowing they are well prepared for whatever the future may bring.

Message from the Dean

Dear Seniors,

It has been a wonderful journey these last four years and it is difficult to believe that the time has come for you move on to life beyond PDS. I cannot thank you enough for the tone you set this year as seniors. You brought warmth, humor, sensitivity and spirit to the halls, classrooms, athletic fields, and stages. From the opening 9/11 ceremony, Halloween Parade and the stressful college process, you handled yourselves with poise and confidence. You were a comfort to each other that was heartening to see. I will miss seeing you in the theater lobby each morning, gathered together around those comfortable new chairs. It felt just right to see you there this year. Thanks for everything and I will miss all of you. Don't be strangers! You are always welcome with open arms.

Mr. Lev

"It is not the critic who counts: not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles or where the doer of deeds could have done better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood, who strives valiantly, who errs and comes up short again and again, because there is no effort without error or shortcoming, but who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, who spends himself for a worthy cause; who, at the best, knows, in the end, the triumph of high achievement, and who, at the worst, if he fails, at least he fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who knew neither victory nor defeat."

"The athlete's anerobic threshold, the point at which the body's muscles have exhausted their oxygen store and start burning other fuel. For regular folks, reaching that threshold is quitting time; anaerobic work is 19 times harder than aerobic work. But rowing is all about harder. Elite rowers fire off the start at sprint speed — 53 strokes per minute. With 95 pounds of force on the blade end, each stroke is a weightlifter's power clean. Rowers cross their anaerobic threshold with that first stroke. Then there are 225 more to the finish line."

—Dr. Seuss

"Whatever we learn has a purpose and whatever we do affects everything and everyone else, if even in the tiniest way. Why, when a housefly flaps his wings, a breeze goes round the world; when a speck of dust falls to the ground, the entire planet weighs a little more; and when you stamp your foot, the earth moves slightly off its course...And it's much the same thing with knowledge, for whenever you learn something new, the whole world becomes that much richer."

Remember, you cannot be both young and wise. Young people who pretend to be wise to the ways of the world are mostly just cynics. Cynicism masquerades as wisdom, but it is the farthest thing from it. Because cynics don't learn anything. Because cynicism is a self-imposed blindness, a rejection of the world because we are afraid it will hurt us or disappoint us. Cynics always say no. But saying "yes" begins things. Saying "yes" is how things grow. Saying "yes" leads to knowledge. "Yes" is for young people. So for as long as you have the strength to, say "yes."

Dear Andrea,

From the minute you arrived on the scene, you have brought joy and happiness to our lives. We have watched you grow with great pride into the amazing person you are today. Your kindness to others and fun-loving nature are attributes we admire. You will always be the "best daughter in the world."

Love,
Mom and Dad

Congratulations Shilpa!

It has been a joy watching you grow up. We can't believe you are already graduating high school. You are a wonderful daughter and a terrific sister. We are so proud of you and all of your accomplishments. We wish you all the happiness and success in your future. God bless you.

CONGRATULATIONS TO YOU AND THE CLASS OF 2007

To my best friend, my daughter, Maria,

This has been the best time of my life. You are my life. I couldn't be more proud of you and so very grateful for the wonderful woman you've become. You've brought nothing but love and joy to me and the entire family.

You've never faltered in the good times and a lot of bad ones. You managed to find the good in things and go with it. You have a great outlook on life and it will take you far. Always reach for that Moon. If anyone can get it, you can.

You have always given your all at everything you've attempted; and you've continued throughout not only your school career but also in your life goals and responsibilities. You have tremendous courage.

You are the perfect example of the independent and loving woman I always thought you would be. You have fulfilled every life dream I have ever had for you. I'm sure you will continue on in your college career.

Thank you for being you. I could not have asked for anything more. I wish you a healthy and happy college career. Oreo and I will miss you.

With love that knows no limits,

Mom and "Oreo"

NICOLE,

Your PDS graduation is another wonderful step in your ever changing journey through life. Just remember, along the way, we will always be there for you (anytime) with unconditional love and support.

You are an amazing person and we are so proud of you. You have accomplished so much already and your future seems boundless.

Remember to follow the brilliant soccer strategy you used when you were 4 years old ... when life goes racing by (just like your soccer teammates), stop, pick some flowers and enjoy the moment.

Life's experiences do not follow in a straight line, so remember to bounce well, believe in yourself and be optimistic about tomorrow!

WE LOVE YOU VERY MUCH!!

Mom, Dad, Jen & Greg

Chase and Keely,

From the early days of JK to the late night Physics study sessions, you have always had a unique and special relationship. Keely with your intensity and drive for perfection you were an inspiration for Chase. Likewise Chase with your calm pragmatic manner you always brought balance and reason to Keely. You are the perfect complement to one and other and the keystone to our family. As your roads in life diverge, take this lesson with you.

Congratulations on a job well done. With all our love and pride,

Mom, Dad and Kaitlyn

WORLD

1. President George W. Bush announced in January 2007 that he would send an additional 21,500 troops to Iraq to improve security and assist with U.S. efforts there. Bush vowed that the Americans killed would not have died in vain. The 2008 budget projection for fighting in Iraq and Afghanistan and repairing and replacing equipment lost in combat was an estimated $141.7 billion. American death tolls in Iraq eclipsed 3,150 and the official total for Americans wounded surpassed 23,500.

EVENT

2. Austrian police confirmed the identity of Narascha Kampusch, believed to have been held captive since her abduction as a 10-year-old.

3. Through the prime cruise season, there were outbreaks of the highly contagious norovirus on ships sailing the world's seas. Hundreds fell victim to the virus' flu-like symptoms.

4. Congress extended Daylight Savings Time for the sake of energy efficiency. Clocks were changed March 11 rather than the first Sunday in April.

5. Texan Andrea Yates was found not guilty by reason of insanity of murdering her five children by drowning them in a bathtub five years ago.

6. A newborn male white buffalo in a Wisconsin herd attracted the attention of Native Americans who consider the animal sacred for its potential to bring good fortune and peace. This is the third white buffalo born into the herd.

7. In January 2007, Northern Europe was hit by an unusually strong storm which killed an Englishman when a falling branch crushed his car. Heavy rains and gale-force winds caused delays in air and sea travel. 8. Former State Department official Richard Armitage admitted that he inadvertently revealed CIA employee Valerie Plame's identity to reporters.

9. CBS correspondent Kimberly Dozier was the only member of her crew who survived a June car bombing in Baghdad. 10. Students found a way to receive messages in class by downloading a ringtone with a pitch so high teachers couldn't hear it. 11. As much as 75 percent of California's citrus crop was damaged in a January 2007 cold snap that lasted more than a week. 12. Gerald Ford, the 38th president, died on Dec. 20, 2006, and was buried in Grand Rapids, MI.

13. On Sept. 6, 2006, British Prime Minister Tony Blair announced that the 2006 Labour Party conference would be his last. 14. Apple Computer's new $499 iPhone was a major release at Macworld 2007. 15. The death of former Chilean dictator Augusto Pinochet prompted demonstrations of celebration. 16. The family of Milena Del Valle filed a wrongful death lawsuit after she was crushed by 12 tons of concrete in a "Big Dig" accident at the Boston highway reconstruction project.

China successfully used a missile carrying a "kill vehicle" to blast an old Chinese weather satellite from its orbit 537 miles above Earth. U.S. government officials said that the test could undermine relations with the West and pose a threat to satellites important to the U.S. military.

A team of French doctors removed a cyst from a man's arm in a 10-minute mid-air surgery used as a feasibility study for possible surgery in space. The five-doctor team operated in near zero-gravity conditions produced by an Airbus 300 looping to create interval dives simulating weightlessness.

A Kansas teenager racked up perfect scores on the ACT and SAT. Jakub Vohoril of Wichita got a 36 on the ACT on his third try. He received his SAT results shortly after the perfect ACT score: a perfect score of 2400. He did check out test prep books, but his advice: "Pay attention in class."

The baiji, a rare, nearly blind white river dolphin, is effectively extinct. Researchers say pollution and overfishing in the Yangtze River caused the species' demise. Plus, ship traffic there confused the sonar the baiji used to find food.

Americans won the Nobel prizes for physics (John Mather of NASA Goddard Flight Center and George Smoot from UC Berkeley with their satellite program that backed up the Big Bang theory), chemistry (Roger D. Kornberg from Stanford School of Medicine who studied how cells take information from genes to produce proteins), medicine (Andrew Z. Fire from MIT and Craig C. Mello from Harvard who discovered a way to turn off specific genes) and economics (Edmund S. Phelps from Columbia University for examining the trade-offs between inflation and its effects on unemployment).

Houston truck driver Tyrone Williams was spared the death penalty and sentenced to life in prison for his role in the nation's deadliest smuggling attempt – a journey that ended in the deaths of 19 illegal immigrants crammed into a sweltering tractor-trailer, after Williams abandoned them and the rig.

1. The American Border Patrol monitors a 4.5-mile metal fence separating the two cities named Nogales. About 20,000 people live on the Arizona side (left); 200,000 on the Mexican side. Immigration remained an emotional issue. In addition to legislation strengthening border security, the Senate proposed programs where long-time illegal immigrants could apply for guest worker permits or "earn" their citizenship. Conservatives opposed the legalization plans, saying they amounted to "amnesty."

2. Congressman Bob Ney, R-OH, pleaded guilty to federal criminal corruption charges and announced he would not seek re-election.

7. January was warmer than usual in many parts of the country. Punxsutawney Phil predicted an early spring on Groundhog Day, but bitter cold, days of ice and as much as 10 feet of snow (in parts of upstate New York) typified February.

13. Animal rights activists were up in arms when more than 50,000 dogs were slaughtered in China in a government-ordered crackdown after three people died of rabies. Only military dogs and police canine units were spared.

17. President Bush signed legislation in October authorizing tough interrogation of terror suspects and trials before military commissions. While Bush claimed that he knew the bill would save lives, the ACLU called it "one of the worst civil liberties measures ever enacted."

18. A 6.3 magnitude earthquake struck Indonesia on May 27, 2006, killing more than 5,800 and injuring 36,299. Thousands of aftershocks followed and hundreds of thousands were left homeless in central Java.

19. November releases of Playstation 3 and Wii were immediate sell-outs. Sony's 400,000 Playstation 3s cost $600, but Nintendo priced the Wii at $250 including one game and expected to sell 4 million units by year's end.

20. Scientists documented more than 1,000 biological species unique to the Eastern Arc Mountains of Tanzania and Kenya. The area, which is slightly smaller than the state of Rhode Island, is mainly forested.

3. For these youngsters in St. Louis, fire hydrants were the only source of relief from July's heat after storms knocked out electrical power.

4. Citing climate change as a cause, scientists studied a giant ice shelf – the size of Manhattan – which broke away from an island south of the North Pole and was adrift as an independent island.

5. Findings from the surgeon general declared secondhand smoke at any level a hazard.

6. Fighting in Lebanon lessened after the U.N. Security Council passed Resolution 1701, but Hezbollah leaders insisted they would not drop their weapons.

8. Billionaire Warren Buffett announced that he would be donating the bulk of his wealth to charity, mainly the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation.

9. Health issues caused Cuban leader Fidel Castro, 80, to relinquish power to his brother, Raul, in July. Officials would not disclose his condition.

10. In August, a Lexington, Kentucky, crash killed 49 of 50 people aboard the Comair flight bound for Atlanta when the plane was assigned to a runway too short for safe take-off. New policies for air traffic controllers resulted.

11. Enron founder Kenneth Lay (who died in 2006) and former CEO Jeffrey Skilling were found guilty of fraud and conspiracy in Houston in July.

12. A frilled shark was captured on videotape south of Tokyo. These sharks are rarely seen because they live in water between 1,968 and 3,280 feet deep – which is deeper than humans can go. The shark died shortly after its appearance.

14. Warren Steed Jeffs, a polygamist sect leader on the FBI's Most Wanted List, was arrested near Las Vegas in August. He was wanted for arranging marriages between underage girls and older men. 15. Timers hidden in pencils were discovered at several of the seven sites where bombs exploded on commuter trains in India's financial capital, killing 185.

16. Gas prices repeatedly hit record highs in July and August, averaging more than $5 for a gallon of self-serve regular when a technical fault and pipeline corrosion in BP's Prudhoe Bay oilfield in Alaska cut production.

21. Polar bears are considered a "threatened" species as scientists predict that global warming may eliminate their habitat entirely by 2040. The report said there is little doubt that global warming has been caused by human activities.

22. A woman who disappeared in the jungles of Cambodia as a child was found 19 years later. The 27-year-old, who does not speak, was identified by a scar on her arm. She disappeared in 1988 while herding buffalo.

Blast injuries killed Al-Qaeda leader Abu Musab al-Zarqawi in June when bombs were dropped on the Iraqi safehouse where he was meeting with associates.

In October, searchers found bones believed to have been overlooked in searches following the 2001 World Trade Center attacks. Search officials identified dozens of areas to be re-examined; the active search to identify the dead ended in 2002. More than 40 percent of the 2,749 victims have never been identified with DNA matches.

The Dow Jones industrial average closed above 12,000 for the first time ever on Oct. 19, 2006, and remained above that lofty benchmark through year's end.

Concentration camp and incarceration records would be the first Nazi documents released under a plan to make millions of files stored in Germany accessible to Holocaust researchers. Holocaust survivors have waited decades to see records meticulously kept by the Nazis; transport documents and death lists, and notes on concentration camp inmates ranging from their hereditary diseases to the number of lice plucked from their heads are included.

At 14, Michael Perham, from Potters Bar in Hertfordshire, England, became the youngest person to sail solo across the Atlantic Ocean. He arrived in Antigua in January, seven weeks after setting off on the 3,500-mile journey from Gibraltar aboard the 28-foot boat, Cheeky Monkey.

Three climbers stranded after a fall on Oregon's Mt. Hood were rescued in February after spending the night amid ferocious winds and blowing snow. The two women and a man slipped off a ledge and fell about 100 feet in the process of descending from a winter climb and camping expedition interrupted by bad weather. In December, three members of a climbing party perished on the 11,239-foot mountain when the group became separated. After 10 days, searchers recovered one of the bodies in a snow cave and called off their work as another winter storm approached the area. The other climbers were presumed dead.

1. Women made history in Kuwait's June Parliamentary elections as it was the first time females were allowed to run for office and the first time Kuwaiti women were allowed to vote. 2. The outbreak of illness linked to E. coli in spinach in September hospitalized 60 and caused a ban on bagged California spinach. Before year's end, another E. coli outbreak; this one traced to lettuce and green onions served by the fast food chain Taco Bell and others, sickened more than 70 who had patronized East Coast restaurants.

3. King Taufa'ahau Tupou IV, who reigned over Tonga's 170 islands in the South Pacific for 41 years, was buried in September. 4. Microsoft's Windows Vista, the operating system that replaced Windows XP, was released too late for the holiday sales season after five years in development. 5. Japan's long-running debate over whether women should be allowed to succeed to the throne ended in September when Princess Kiko gave birth to a son, Hisahito. The new prince is third in line for the throne behind his uncle and his father. 6. Airline passengers faced new travel restrictions after British authorities uncovered a terrorist plot to use liquid explosives to blow up airplanes headed to the United States.

7. After firing a number of test missiles during summer months, North Korea agreed to a deal to begin closing down its nuclear arms program in exchange for $500 million in fuel and financial aid. 8. 10. Former Soviet spy Alexander Litvinenko died in November after exposure to a radioactive poison. 11. Sony mylo (my life online) was created to attract younger users with Web browsing, messaging, phone, and digital music capabilities.

12. Entrepreneur Anousheh Ansari paid a reported $20 million to become the fourth private spaceflight participant. 13. More than 9.8 million acres burned during the 2006 fire season, the worst in 50 years. 14. With the population of wild panda bears below 1,000, the Chinese began breeding in captivity; 30 cubs were born in 2006. 15. Breaking the record for American cars sold at auction, a 1966 Shelby Cobra sold for $5.5 million. 16. The FDA approved a vaccine for cervical cancer in June and Merck and Co. began distribution. 17. The Libyan Supreme Court overturned death sentences of five nurses and a doctor accused of intentionally infecting more than 400 children with HIV, the virus that causes AIDS.

9. In the nation's third deadly school shooting in less than a week, a milk-truck driver killed five female students before he shot himself. The Oct. 2 incident sent shockwaves through Nickel Mines, PA, a Lancaster County town where the one-room Amish schoolhouse was located. The gunman, who left notes for his family before heading to the school, was not Amish but was apparently acting out of revenge for something that happened when he was a boy. In other instances of school violence, deaths occurred in Bailey, CO; Montreal, QB; Sudbury, MA and Tacoma, WA.

1. In June, President Bush designated a group of remote Hawaiian islands that cover 84 million acres and are home to 7,000 species of birds, fish and marine animals as the nation's 75th national monument. At the White House ceremony, Bush described the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands as "America's Galapagos" and revealed that the 139,000 square miles of uninhabited islands, reefs and atolls is more than 100 times the size of Yosemite National Park.
