Ranwar, Aug. 12, 1878. MR. EDITOR: As you happen to be one the City Fathers, I beg leave to call you attention to an article that appeared in th Sunday Herald of August 4th. Its heading was "Fooled or Robbed," and had reference to the Forbes-Walker affair. This article commenced by saying tha

Rahway was a small sized town. What a idea! and how very presumptuous on the part of this Herald man in calling this place a town, when in reality it is a great city. think if Mr. James Gordon Bennett or any one of his host of reporters could have been here at that grand watch presentation on the Fourth of July, or at that great Politica River and Harbor Dinner at Chamberlin's Hotel, a few days ago, my own impression is that he would feel quite streaked in calling this a town. No doubt he would have then thought that this place is a city, and one of some consequence at that. For I beday, get up such great gatherings and such the editor of that paper so far forgets himself as to call this a town, it is a libel on the far Again he says that we are on the line of soveral railroads which is libel No. two And as he proceeds in his article he accuses us of having a Chief of Police, with three subordinates, which as you are well aware is a libel of the grossest kind, for we have only the Chief with a single subordinate.-Consequently this is libel No three. This Herald man seems to have entirely forgotten the days gone by, when he used to visit this place, putting up at Crowell's old hotel drinking his apple-jack freely, and with his dog and gun sport on the meadows jus times for him then, for scarcely a nigh apple that he could have touched it with his This Heruld man is well known about here and should not put on airs, by calling just for his especial benefit, that the time is not far distant, probably not more than a
