NOTICE.
The German Minister of Instruction has recently issued a report on the influence of gaslight on the eye. The conclusion arrived at in this report—the result of frequent conferences with well known physicians—is that no evil results follow a moderate use of gas, if the direct action of the yellow flame on the eye is prevented. For this purpose screens or shades are employed. Very grave objections, however, exist to the use of zinc or lead shades, most evils affecting the eye being traceable to them. Their use, it is said, inevitably tends to blindness or inflammation, and other harmful effects. The milky-white glass shade is the best, as it distributes the light and has a grateful effect on the eye. The burner should not be too close to the eye, and the light should be diffused by the use of the best kind of glass shade, which is especially useful for the purpose, as it causes an equal distribution of light—necessitating a smaller number of lights—prevents the radiation of heat, and tends to a steady illumination by shielding the flame from currents of air. In cases of highly inflamed eyes, dark blue globes can be very beneficially used. With precautions of this kind, no evil effects from the burning of gas need be feared.

Exchange.

A lonesome-looking boy was yesterday hanging around a wood yard in the Northern part of the city, when the owner of the yard, having both charity and philanthropy for boys with eyes, asked the lad why he didn't peddle apples or do something to earn a few shillings.

"Well, what do you think of it?" said the boy, "I'm going to start you in life. Take this nickel and go and make a purchase of something or other. I put it of you for your nickel, matter what it is. Come now, let's see what sort of a business head you have on you."

"The boy took the nickel and went off, but in ten minutes was back with a gallon jug which he had purchased with the nickel."

"Well, you are a keener," replied the man. "I never saw one of those sold for less than fifteen cents to anyone. I want such a jug, and here's your fifteen cents in apples and I'll buy the jug."

"The boy did not return. Perhaps he fell into a sewer some where; but you can't make the wood-yard man believe so. When he lifted the jug from under the table where the boy had carefully placed it, he found a hole in the bottom large enough to let in a brick and tan terrier.—Detroit Free Press.

MISCELLANY.

"We want a Grave-Board for Mr."

A boy, not over eleven years old, whose pinched face betrayed hunger and whose clothing could scarcely be called by the name, dropped in to a carpenter's shop on Grand River avenue the other day, and after much hesitation explained to the foreman:

"I want to get a grave-board for my mother. She died last winter, and the graves are so thick that we can't hardly find her no more. We went last Sunday, and we came away near not finding it. We thought we'd dig it up, and so we went and lost the grave. When we thought we'd lost it, Jack he cried, and Bud he cried, and my chin trembled so I could hardly talk."

"Where is your father?" asked the carpenter.

"Oh, he's home, but he never goes there with us, and we shan't tell him about the board. I guess he hated me, for he wasn't home when she died, and he wouldn't buy no coffin nor nothing. Sometimes, when we are sittin' on the door-step talking about her, and Jack and Bud are cryin', and I'm rememberin' how she kissed us all afore she died, he says we'd better quit that, or we'll get what's bad for us. But we sleep up stairs, and we talk and cry in the dark all we want to. How much will the board be?"

"The carpenter selected something for the purpose, and asked:

"Who will put it up at the grave?"

"We'll take it upon our cart," replied the boy, "and I guess the graveyard man will help us put it up."

"You want the name painted on the board?"

"Yes, sir; we want the board white, and then we want you to paint on that she was our ma, and that she was forty-one years old, and that she died on the 2d of November, and that she's gone to heaven, and that she was one of the best mother's ever was, and that we are going to be good all our lives, and go up where she is when we die."

"How much will you get?"

"Well, said the boy, as he brought out a little calico-bag, and emptied its contents on the bench, 'Bud drew the baby for the woman next door, and earned twenty cents; Jack he weeded in the garden, and earned four cents; and I earned five more in the road; I run of errands, and made kites, and fixed a boy's cart, and helped carry some apples into a store, and earned sixty-five cents. All that makes a hundred and thirty cents, sir, and he gave me five more, 'cause we kept it hid in the ground under a stone.'

"The carpenter meant to be liberal, but he said:

"A grave-board will cost at least three dollars."

"The lad looked from his little store of metals to the carpenter and back, realized how many weary weeks had passed since the first penny was earned and saved, and suddenly walked out.

"Then we can never, never buy one of these grave-boards!"

"But he let the shop with tears of gladness in his eyes, and when he returned yesterday night Bud and Jack were with him, and they had a cart."

"There was not only a head-board, but a foot-board, and the great well, and painter and carpenter had done their work with all hearts, and done it well."

"Ain't it awful nice?—nicer than rich folks have!" whispered the children, as the boards were being placed on the cart, and the great well, and painter and carpenter had done their work with all hearts, and done it well."

ADVOCATE & TIMES.

UZZAL M. OSBORN, EDITOR.
WEDNESDAY, NOV. 6, 1879.

Proclamation.

By the President of the United States, a Proclamation:

The recurrence of that season at which it is the habit of our people to make devout and public confession of their constant dependence upon the Divine favor for all the good gifts of life and happiness, and of public peace and prosperity, recalls to the mind of the nation the abundant reasons for our gratitude and thanksgiving.

Abundant harvests, productive mines, ample crops of staples of trade and manufactures have enriched the country. The resources thus furnished to our thriving industry and expanding commerce are hastening the day when discord and distress, through the length and breadth of the land, will, under the continued care of Providence, have given to confidence and energy and assured prosperity. Peace with all nations has continued unbroken, domestic tranquillity has prevailed, and the institutions of liberty and justice which the wisdom and virtue of our fathers established remain the glory and the pride of our country.

The general prevalence of the blessings of health through our wide land has made our nation more joyful in the unity of spirit in our people. The Divine Father has tempered to the suffering communities in the universal aid and succor which have flowed to their relief, and the whole Nation may be truly said to be in the unity of spirit in our people by which they cheerfully share one another's burdens.

Now, therefore, I, Rutherford B. Hayes, President of the United States, do appoint Thursday, the 28th day of November next as a day of National Thanksgiving and prayer, and I earnestly recommend that, withdrawing themselves from secular care and labors, the people of the United States do meet together on that day in their respective places of worship, there to give thanks and praise to Almighty God for His mercies, and to devoutly beseech His continuance.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this 30th day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and third.

By the President—Wm. M. Evans, Secretary of State.

This result of the election in this city yesterday, in the county and in fact in the whole county is most gratifying to the people who have stood hand and foot by principle and party during one of the hottest fights the party has ever known, attacked in front and rear, every shot from the enemy but drew the ranks closer and closer and made the party firmer either to win the fight for the right or to die in the attempt. That the result is glorious and one worthy of the return felt. In no candid manner, either the mission of the party, nor the honor of the party dead. Another rally like yesterday in party dead. Another rally like yesterday in party dead. Another rally like yesterday in party dead.

The vote in this city yesterday was a glorious victory for the Republicans. The result was so confident that they would beat Mr. Clark by 100 votes but the verdict showed that their money and their work were both thrown away and Mr. Clark carried the city by a small majority over Ross. The result was so confident that they would beat Mr. Clark by 100 votes but the verdict showed that their money and their work were both thrown away and Mr. Clark carried the city by a small majority over Ross.

The Camden Robbery.

How the Two BROTHERS WERE ATTACKED AND ROBBED BY MARKED BURGLARS.

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 31.—The daring robbery of the Belzer Brothers by five masked burglars, who handcuffed them and carried from the house $16,000, is the sensation of the hour in this usually quiet city. The victims of this daring robbery are both advanced in years, and live very frugally. Neither of them had any confidence in banks, and all their money was kept hidden in the house. On Wednesday evening the cash thus stored away in a safe on the second floor amounted to nearly $17,000.

On Wednesday both brothers were absent. Wesley was the first to return home, and he had no sooner opened the door than a sheet was thrown over his head and he found himself pinioned behind by two strong arms. He was handcuffed and thrown into a pantry. An hour later his brother returned, and the entering was seized, pinioned, and thrown into the pantry upon the two hours, and, after repeated efforts, succeeded in kicking down the pantry door. They then made their way to the porch and shouted "Murder!"

Officer Hawkins came up, and, hearing their story, freed them, and then began to search the house. They discovered that over $15,000 of the money had been rifled, and the men related their story to the police, but neither could give any further description of the burglars except that two were tall, and the others low-sized. The police are looking for the burglars, but so far have obtained no clue to them.

Detroit, Nov. 1.—J. J. Shearer of Greenville this State, who committed an aggravated assault on Congressman Ellis, was this morning sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and be imprisoned six months.

Boston, Nov. 1.—J. O'Reilly, late chief clerk at the pay office of the Charleston Navy Yard, is several hundred dollars short in his account. There are other serious charges against O'Reilly. He has fled from the city.

Throughout the world 7,000,000. He hovers are scattered.

Banders are visible everywhere in the Mississippi river.
