for years to pass legislation to impose "voluntary" low- and moderate-income housing quotas on individual municipalities. They were never successful, lucause most of the state's lewesters respected the integrity of local zoning powers and felt housing ducinions must runtain the province of local government. Strong local government, with free choice for local voters on all issues of local concern, is a major part of the heritage of Americans. How regrettable it is Democratic Gov. Branden T. Byrne should now make a uniformal decision by governmental edict in violation of unlitteral decision by gubernatorial edict in violation of our cherished liberties.

This is what he first did on April 2, 1976, when very quietly he issued Executive Order No. 35 which was never brought to the attention of the people who elected him. Under this order, Richard A. Ginnan, director of the Division of State and Regional Planning, was instructed to "prepare other housing goals to guide numicipalities in adjusting their numicipal land-une regulations in order to provide a reasonable opportunity for the development of an appropriate variety and choice of housing to meet the needs of the residents of New Jersey."

of lousing to meet the mosts of the residents of New Jersey."

The director was also authorized to "allocate each county housing goal among the municipalities in a county and each housing goal for a group of configuous municipalities."

In November, 1976, one year before the gubernatorial election, Mr. Gidman produced the preliminary draft of "A State-wide Hiusing Plan for New Jersey."

The draft was supposed to be for public discussion. However, the times and places for achtebole public hearings listed therein were stamped catteriled on the copy received by us last hill. Whethire they were giver held, we know not.

Abruptly, on the Friday evening precading this year's long Memorial Duy weekend, a United Frens International dispatch from Treaton in a local daily sevapapeer declared "virtually every New Jersey community are (sic) urged to accept their (sic) where of the moor under recommendations for low- and moderate-income housing quotas launitheediby Gov. Byrne is Union County was among those disligated for large quotas. "The dispatch does not state when these quotas were amounced nor how they will be enforced.

The quotas are politely termed "proposale" — just as in Affirmative Action, quotas are disquised as "guidelines," but in hoth cases, there is nothing voluntary about them.

In the UPI dispatch, Gov. Byrne is reported as saying, "We must give legislators and county and municipal officials an opportunity to discuss the fusure of New Jersey's housing," and "he will call a conference of state and local officials . . to discuss the means of carrying out the recommendations," Recommendations, which clearly are already as established as the Laws of the Medes and the Pernians.

The governor concludes, according to the dispatch, "This report only indicates to a municipality how many low- and moderate-income housing opportunities it muse provide within its zoning code; "Mice and voluntary, to be sure."

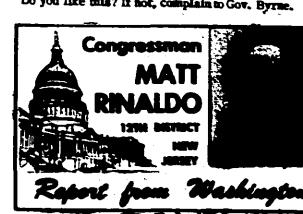

In the preliminary draft, which may or may not have in the preliminary draft, which may or may not have been altered, Clark is listed for 810 "Combined Aliocation Housing Needs" and Rahway for 1,534 of the same. The total allocated for Union County is 28,427.

Who will pay for these units? The taxpayers, of course, When built and occupied, may the occupants be expected to keep them in good condition? Judging from past experience nation-wide, certainly not. Will there be fraud and graft and corruption in the purchase of land and the awarding of contracts? Inevitably.

But this is socialist welfarium: Divesting the middle class of its income and savings and redistributing the wealth to those who are in many cases, to employ the Shavian term, "the undeserving poor."

Do you like this? If not, complain to Gov. Byrne.

New Jersey taxpayers now spend more than $350 million a year throwing away a valuable source of energy and raw materials — their garbage.

There is so much of it, an estimated 30 thousand tons of garbage every day plus millions of tons of sludge waste dumped at sea, that northern New Jersey and New York are running out of landfill sites.

But consider that:

—A single day's yield of 2,000 tons of garbage can -A single day's yield of 2,000 sons of garbage can produce 14 million cubic feet of gaseous fiels, enough -- The New Jersey Dept. of Energy has proposed a $400 million, 10-year resource recovery program that could provide enough power from waste to meet all the

--The largest waste burning plant, in the world near Rotterdam generates 55 million watts of electricity from 3,200 tons of refuse daily.

--Of the 262 plants in the world generating steam by hurning waste, only a half dozen are in the United States.

--The Port of New York Authority is interested in contolidating all of the hurnable refuse produced within a 25-mile radius of the Statue of Liberty. The huge piles of garbage would be recycled and sold at a profit or converted into energy at industrial parks that the Port Authority wants to build in this area.

--New Jersey's garbage is highly energy efficient since it contains more paper and plastics than in most rural and suburban areas where there is a large volume of vegetation and watery materials in the garbage.

--With a deadline of Dec. 31, 1981, to phase out alonge damping in the Atlantic Ocean, New York City aludge champing in the Atlantic Ocean, New York City and New Jersey are exploring ways to convert sludge into fertilizer, soil conditioner and animal feed. and across the country, health care costs have rises over 10% this year alone. Millions of Americans do not even have access to adequate health care services, and private insurance premiums are expected to double between What can people do so cope with these spiraling costs?
One alternative which has not been sufficiently pursued is the creation of Health Maintenance Organizations. These organizations offer members a wide range of health care services such as immunizations, surgery and office visits for a fixed, pre-paid fee.

Regardless of the services performed, patients pay the same fee, and they know precisely where to go to receive the kind of care they need, in addition to improved access to health care, HMO's emphasize preventive medicine and remove the incentive for unnecessary treatment. They also cut down on the incidences of unsecessary hospitalization.

In order to encourage the development of this kind of bealth care system, I sponsored legislation which would continue a federal grand and loan program for the study and establishment of HMO's nation-wide. Thanks to such grants, seven HMO's are in various stages of development in New Jersey, and hopefully this bill will encourage similar growth in the future.

The bill, which would reauthorize the ongoing grant program for a total of $400 million during the next five years, would also make federal funds available to HMO's after they become operational, rather than merely for the study or establishment of new programs.

It would also provide for more effective management of HMO's through an administrative training program and strong anti-fraid and abuse provisions. If funded at levels recommended by the Human Resources Committee, which I chair, $15 million would be authorized for restment. They also cut down on the incidences of untee, which I chair, $15 million would be authorized for in New Jersey, the usury ceiling has been kept at an outdated 9%, even though the state already has the authority to lift it to 9.5%. Families of modest means, who are the major beneficiaries of low down-payment loans, have been hurt hardest of all, according to Gilbert G. Roessner, chairman of City Federal Savings and Loan Assn.

Today," Mr. Roessner said, "many leaders are requiring down payments of as much as 50%."

"But, now, through City Federal's new program, families will be able to secure loans for as little as 5% down — even though interest rates are continuing to climb," he added.

According to the bank official, the plan involves City Federal's making the original loan and then selling is to a federal assert. original loan and then selling it to a federal agency within 13 months after the
