H.E.W. fraud abuses

Out of the $136 billion of taxpayers' money expended last year by the Dept. of Health, Education and Weifare, some $7 billion was lost through "fraud, abuse and waste," according to the department's inspector general. This vast amount of money just fell through the cracks. In order to waste $7 billion in a single year, H.E.W. had to misspend $19 million a day, every day, for 365 days. Note $7 billion is the equivalent of the total amount of federal income taxes paid by the residents of Alaska, Delaware, Hawaii, Maine, Montana, Nevade, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Dekota, Unh, Vermont, West, Virginia and Woming, H.E.W. has 1,217,000 employes. That is more than all four branches of our military services combined all four branches of our military services combined -- Army, Nav, Air Force and Marines. The department conducts no less than 140 separate programs around the country, dispensing goodies to some 1,144,000 persons. In program after program of H.E.W., the inspector general had to report waste, fraud and abuse. In the Madicaid program, costing $9.8 hillion in fiscal year 1977, referral of patients from one practitioner to another within a facility; "ganging," hilling for multiple services to members of the same family on one day when only one member needs treatment; "up-grading," billing for a service more extensive than provided; "steering," direction of a patient to a par-ticular pharmacy, and billing for services not rendered. On Medicare an estimated $2.2 billion was lost on fraud, waste and abuse in the provision of medical services to 26 million senior and disabled citizens. In Aid to Families with Dependent Children, an estimated $745 million was misspent on fraud, waste hand-out programs of which many people have not even media? Instead of "igniting outrage from Puget Sound to Cape Charles," as one commentator put it, it evoked only some cheery be hums. The opinion makes seem to consider throwing money to the four winds on unconstitutional "do-good" rackets to be a kind of holy crusade. How different it is when the Pentagon, charged with the column rack of defeating and a presenting out with the solemn task of defending and protecting our nation, has a costover-run on some new type of air and However, three patriotic senators were horrified by the waste and fraud revealed in H.E.W. expenditures and tried to do something about it. Senators Harry Byrd of Virginia, Kaneaster Hodges, Jr. of Kansas and Jesse Helms of North Caroline sponsored an amendment to cut this year's $179 billion H E.W budget — note increase of $43 billion — by a mere $2.1 billion, representing one—third of the lowest estimate of last year's fraud and waste at H.E.W. waste at H.E.W. Do you think the senators, the supposed representa-tives of the taxpayers, would tolerate such a sensible amendment? Not on your tintype. They defeated it 57-38. Who do those 57 irresponsible solons, plus the five who did not even vote, care about economy in government?

Can Congressmen hear what the voters want?-prune government now decades, as it has increased the role of the federal government in every aspect of life in America. From a legislative body that took time to carefully examine a comparative handful of legislative ideas, it has turned into a political machine pumping out new laws and programs at an overpowering pace.

This excess of government has been carried out with the best of intentions. But its consequences can be found in the heavy price we pay in taxes and government It is time to begin the long process of reversing this trend by slowing down the legislative pace of Congress and taking a hard look at what has bee done and what should be climinated. In a nutshell, Congress should devote the first three months of its schedule to legislative oversight before it embarks on any new laws and spending programs. Hopefully, the rhetoric of the past campaign and the opinions of the American people will persuade the majority in Congress to do exactly that. At the very least, I shall pursue that goal when Congress convenes in January.

One of the measures I shall again sponsor is the Sunset Bill. It would require federal agencies to justify their programs that have outlived their usefulness or offer only minimal benefits to the American taxpayers. Unfortunately, this proposal was killed in the closing hours of the last Congress, but it must be at the heart of any plan to reform our government structure and to bring federal agencies under the control of Congress.

Still another area closely associated with Sunset legislation is a stronger Congressional oversight of committee activities and federal agencies. Congress seldom has the time to look back at what it has started. Far too much attention is given to passing new laws. Far too much attention is given to passing new laws.

A combination of Sunset legislation and Congressional oversight would create an amosphere to achieve a balanced budget in the early 1980's. Increased revenue will not be sufficient to balance the budget without cutting out programs no longer necessary.

In order to control spending, I shall propose that each committee in Congress be required to establish an oversight subcommittee to monitor spending bills authorized by the full committee. I also favor abolishing proxy voting, restoring the requirement of a majority quorum, permitting any member to demand a recorded vote in committee and establishing a limit of six subcommittees under every major committee except the Appropriations Committee, which carries as unusually heavy burden. The House also should continue to broaden the provisions of its new ethics code by enacting more stringent guidelines for the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct. The House should have more authority to require the Ethics Committee to undertake an investigation into the conduct of a member and require it to file a report on every investigation.

The Democratic loadership in the House, of course, has its own priorities in mind, and they no doubt will

Any one who receives a report of the billing dispute must also be informed by the creditor when the dispute is settled.

What if a collection agency is harassing you for payment of a debt which does not necessarily stem from a billing dispute? The Federal Fair Debt Collection Proceedings of the collection of the collecti lection Practices Act is designed to insure consumers get treated decently by debt collectors. The federal law prohibits debt collectors from using harassing, oppressive or abusive tactics and it spells out how debt collectors may -- and may not -- contact protect consumers against debt collectors who use false statements to misrepresent themselves to consumers. The federal statute spells out the rights and remedies available to consumers of all states under federal law.

The public policy behind the law is aimed at insuring debt collectors act responsibly. The law does not make non-payment of debts legitimate — it endorses a civilized approach to debt collection.

If you have a complaint about a debt collection agency's practices, write to the New York Regional Office of the Federal Trade Commission, 22nd floor, Federal Building, 26 Federal Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10007, or to the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs.

I can't understand how I always get side-tracked by three jaws who can talk me into joining their action.

At the last family assemblage, which is not held formally (like the third Monday of the month) but rather spontaneously — when everyone sits down at the same time for a meal — my family pulled apart my hathroom with their hare mouths.

My husband got the hall rolling.

"That room needs something, it's too plain."

"Thought you'd never ask," I grinned. "You realize what an addition of a laundry chute would mean to me? I figured it allout already. You know where the hamper is now, well." -A moving of the head from left to right, nose wrink- hillion in 1977, eighth in to lect and a short wave of the hand, means, "Forget it."

Seconds later, he mutters, "No-No."

"He's right, ma. The bathcom's ugly and what do you want a dumb thing like that when you bring the clothes down in a basket anyway."

"Put something in hermon your rooth hid before the badget and th "Put something in between your teeth, kid, before it do."

"Ok, I'll give up my convenient idea. Bet you were thinking of something warmer — carpeting. A thick, plush, warm carpet."

"Ok other basis." The other kid pipe up. "I like the rug that's in there now. You need something on the walls, ma."

By the look, she knew I was saving that space to hang myself when the laundry chure shifted into reverse and flew the dirty clothes back up.

"The kid's right, Marie. Your walls are too bare."

Smiling from one to the other he mentioned, "plants. How'd they look?"

It was an exemplace of the rug that's in there pared to the previous four quarters. As calculated for the current fiscal 1979 state budget, the permitted increase was 10.38%.

It was an unanimous decision — especially since my vote didn't count — to immediately start shopping. I olunteered to stay home and talk to the one plant I had "it's all your fault. You're the only one I ever kept alive, and now they think I'm a florist." But somehow I can't warm up to cactus and I left the room sobbing. I should've bottled the tears for a reserve supply of water. They returned with a mammoth tree for the corner, ywo hanging plants and one to sit on the tank.

"How do you like it?," they lisked.

"Jame got through the jungle, didn't she?"

Coffee has come a long way since the time, centuries ago, when it was forbidden as an intoxicating drink. Now Americans find coffee so much a part of their lives that restaurants will frequently serve it before even offering a menu.

At home, Americans are experimenting with different kinds of coffee — from French cafe-au-lait to Insh coffee and Italian espresso. For those who like the unmatched smell of freshly ground coffee of any kind, the La Machine food processor can grind coffee beans to drip consistency or even to the fine grind required for making Italian espresso.

A perfect accompaniment for pastries or a light dessert, espresso is easily prepared and adds a continental touch to any meal. Or serve it with a special brunch or to friends who drop in for the afternoon. The schools, each having one voting representative, will decide whether to combine the parochial and public school groups as presently done in girla competition.

The current status has the public schools listed, according to enrollment from the 10th to the 12th grades, in groups 1, 2, 3 and 4. Parochial schools, also based upon enrollment figures, are in classes a, b and c.

If the groups are combined, championship competition

The Robway football fans are asking the question, "Why is a Robway High School Indian Team forced to again play at Philippining when the Rabmay team has a better deasen record of 8-2, and school efficials had been said by state sports officials the facietted Hillards game, towis into his faces on comment to be estimated in the Agree with Rabway Mayor Daniel L. Martin, who sent a mingram to the New Jersey State Interchafted. Additio Aden. on New. 22 calling plants to play the game at Philippining "unlist, terrodomoble and arbitrary." He sought reconsideration of the decision on the grounds it had been determined in the recent case of Groon Brook forfested games should not affect the playell status of a team.

Rabway, having defeated Hillaids in its opening game of the section, was required to forfest the vin when it was discovered as inclinible player performed in the game. Rabway subanquestly carred the played with a 6-2 mark, as did Philippining, which plays a stronger should not play in NISIAA determinations. We feel they should not play in NISIAA determinations. We feel they should not play in NISIAA tournaments unless they play at least half of their games with atrong New Jersey play at least half of their games with acrong New Jersey play at least half of their games with acrong New Jernsy years.

Mayor Martin said the ruling to require the Rahway-at-Phillipoloury contest is an "injudicious and unfair double standard." He calimed if Green Brook's on-the-field record was considered to allow that toom to participate in the playoffs, then Rahway's on-the-field mark of 7-1 at playoff time and 9-1 at present about earn it the home-field advantage. Phillipoloury, which lost its final regular senson game to Easton, Pa., is now 7-3.

According to Joseph M. Hartnett, city business administrator, achool officials have been unsuccessful in communicating with the NJSIAA to discuss their position.

"I minemed to talk to someone there, but I didn't have much lack," he said.

"I told them Rahway would be willing to play on a sentral site and recommended flutgers Stadium in Piscatsway. The reply was Rutgers is playing Colgate on Saturday, Duc. 2, and they wouldn't believe me when I told them the game was Saturday, Nov. 25, not Duc. 2.

Mr. Hartnett said school officials asket the mayor to become involved when they claimed the NJSIAA would to become involved when they claimed the NJSIAA would not even talk to them. (This has been going on for years). "We think their home-field advantage would be tremendous," he said, "since our team would have to leave Rahway very early in the morning to make a 1:30 p.m. game. It first makes more sense to play the game on a neutral site."

When will the NJSIAA officials begin to listen to Entitled "The Bishops of Newark 1853 to 1978," the hook traces the roots and development of the archdiocese by examining the lives and careers of the never the second content of the sec leaders who shaped its course. Its publication coincides with the year-long commemoration of the 125th anniversary of the archdiocese,

"The Bishops of Newark" is the first comprehensive history of the archdiocese to be produced in book form. The only previous history was encompassed in a general history of Roman Catholicism in New Jersey, published The sixth largest Roman Catholic jurisdiction in the United States and one of the oldest, the Archdiocese of Newark has been as important institution in one of the nation's prime "melting pot" regions, its story is also the story of the people and problems of various immigrant and ethnic groups, and much of the book centers on the assimilation of these groups into the mainstream of American life. The book also details the growth of the Roman Catholic school system and the founding of religious, educational, health and social welfare institutions in the archdiocese, which today is composed of Essex, Union, Hudson and Bergen Counties.

The book contains many anecdotes as well as the The book contains many anecdotes as well as the records of accomplishment of the seven bishops, and the 256-page volume is illustrated with photographs of churches, schools, parishes and people who have figured in the life of the archdiocese.

In the opening segment on The Most Rev. Bishop James Roosevelt Bayley, Seton Hall sociologist, Edwin Vose Sullivan, delineates the early years of the Roman Catholic Church in New Jersey from its beginnings to 1872 and chronicles Bishop Bayley's efforts to organize the diocese. The Most Rev. Bishop Michael Augustine Corrigan, a native of Newark, led the diocese from 1873 so 1800, facing major social problems in his jurisdiction. During a difficult period from 1881 to 1901, under the leader-ship of The Most Rev.
