'A Voice for All, an Echo for None'

on census facts

The township Democratic ticket, headed by John Pisansky, once again attempted to mislead the people with false statements about the 1980 census, according to Republican Mayor Bernard G. Yarusavage.

"When the figures were released by the Census Bureau showing the population had decreased from 18,829 to 16,541 in 1980, we did not wait until election time to check the statistics. We immediately contacted the Census Bureau at its local operating office in Elizabeth," stated Mayor Yarusavage.

A bureau spokesman reported 99 per cent of the Clark estionaires were returned bymail, and the census people used to check the number of housing units in two of the ceasus tracts. The results verified the ceasus report was indeed correct. This substantiates the claim by the Census Bureau their count is good," he continued. The bureau reported the decline in Clark's population was due to outmigration, grown children leaving home to be on their own, reduction of job opportunities in the state and smaller families. In 1970 the average house had 3.58 people and in 1980 the average household is 2.99 persons, according to Mayor Yarusavage.

"The decline in school population alone is 1.811 pupils and has resulted in the closing of one schoolal ready, "noted the mayor. "Mr. Pisansky is certainly aware of that." School enrollment in the grammar schools was 2,947 in 1970 and now it is 1,397. Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark has dropped from a 1970 high of 1,546 students to 1,285 in 1980 for a total of 1,811, according to the township official.
"In 1970 there were 4,407 homes in Clark," noted the Republican, "Today there are 4,541 homes, an increase of only 134 homes, and Peter M. Campana, (the Democratic candidate for Fourth Ward councilman and a Realtor), should have known this was the accurate figure if he did his homework," charged the mayor.

"There has been more building in Clark during the last 10 years but not in private homes. Most of the construction was in office buildings and commercial structures," explained the township's chief executive, citing figures from the assessor's office. the township did indeed assist the Census Bureau in recruiting personnel to help with all phases of the count and did most wholeheartedly publicly encourage everyone to participate," emphasized Mayor Yarusavage.

"I am convinced that that is why Clark responded to the original census queries by a whopping 99 percent." News releases were used and all senior citizens were advised of the Consus and its activities." he added Censusand its activities," he added.

Officials in Treaton were consulted as to the effect the reduction in township residents might have on revenus sharing. They noted population was only one of the factors on which the formula is based, and they felt no change was imminent, the mayor explained.

"Additional wild statements were made by the local Democrats in the Sept. 4 Clark Patriot other mayors in the county are screaming for recounts and state-wide administra-tors have questioned the results, but that is not true," said the incumbent. "We checked with the bureau, and they have not heard of such nonsense. Many communities have asked questions, just as we have."

The Census Bureau has informed Clark and all other municipalities that have raised questions they would be hapy to have anyone provide people for another count. There are no federal, state or county monies available for such a Board m e m b e r. Mrs. movement, he added.

"Your mayor, being ever vigilant to see the taxpayers of Marie Soyka, said foreign Clark are properly protected in matters of this nature, heartily agrees a good, fine effort has been made by the residents of Clark and the efforts of the Census Bureau. Our the middle-school level, rather than as after school level, rather than as after school level. township, not having the problems of the inner city, clearly demonstrates the efforts this administration has put forth, after Board m e m b e r.

concluded Mayor Yarusavage.

In accordance with the provisions of New Jersey laws, approved on April 3. 1945, the New Jersey High-way Authority began negotiations for a "freeway" or "parkway" right of way through Clark. Their first suggestion was for a "freeway" which practically followed the borderline between Eahway and Clark.

The Township Commissioners rejected this alignment, mainly because of the municipality into a north section and a south section," in the moted.

"borders may also include service roads open to mixed traffic and recreational facilities such as pedestrian, bicycle and bridle paths," Mr. Ayers added.

"In 1945, Clark was still a rural farming community with an approximate population of 3,000. Our big problems were caused by the existence of the Middlesex which is about 1.5 miles long and practically divides our municipality into a north section and a south section," missioners could negotiate time for students from the south section to elementary school was about two mile: or more because they had to travel around the reservoir. The Board of Education members provided complete data about their deliberation and plans for development. To cut future cost of student transportation it was recommended a "pedestrian path" be specified for inclusion in the eastern border of the parkway between Mad-ison Hill Rd. and Westfield Evidence also proved the reservoir interfered with the efficient services rendered by fire department, emergency squad and police de-partment. Therefore, it was recommended to the com-missioners to seek a service road to be included in specifications of the western border between Westfield Avc. and Madison Hill Rd., Mr.
