Area vandalism bad, but not overwhelming

A study on the vandalism problem in the city has been completed by the Police Department, according to Police Chief Joseph E. Yarusavage. The study, which was conducted by the Police Department and the City of Clark, found that vandalism is a serious problem in the city, but it is not overwhelming. The study found that the most common type of vandalism is the destruction of public property, such as the destruction of school buildings, parks, and public facilities. The study also found that the most common type of vandalism is the destruction of private property, such as the destruction of homes, cars, and other personal property. The study also found that the most common type of vandalism is the destruction of public property, such as the destruction of school buildings, parks, and public facilities.
