The National Democrat

(Formerly RAILWAY DEFENDER)

RAHWAY, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1867.

OH! THEN.

A LYRIC FOR THE TIMES.

There was an old woman, oh! then,
Oh! then,
Who thought her not shame, nor a sin,
To sell his old clothes, and make an exp're,
Add pinch the old clothes too,

Oh! then,
And pinch the Republicans too.
Now about this old woman, oh! then,
Oh! then,

I'll go on with my story and spin,
How she came to the city, to draw out the pity,
Of the Republican party, so thin,

So thin,

The Republican party, so thin,

This clever old woman, oh! then,
Oh! then,

Consulting with none of her kin,
Herself and a lady, commissioned one Brady,

To sell her old clothes at his den,

Oh! then,
To sell her old clothes at his den.

This foolish old woman, oh! then,
Oh! then,

Wrote it off to the Congress of tin,

Would never reveal how Republicans steal,

But perhaps she will still make them feel,

Oh! then,

Perhaps she will still make them feel.

This cunning old woman, oh! then,
Oh! then,

Directed friend Brady began,

To sound Wakeman's feelings, and touch upon dealings,

When he made appealing, oh! then,
Oh! then,

When he made appealing, oh! then,

This indigent woman, oh! then,
Oh! then,

Snow finds out the falsehood of man,

When he was in power, would dance by the hour,

And valuable shower, oh! then,

And valuable shower, oh! then,

This pitiful old woman, oh! then,
Oh! then,

Not aware to the presents of men,

Made a little noise, if we judge by the lob,

Exposed to the view of the mob, oh! then,
Oh! then,

Exposed to the view of the mob,

This indigent woman, oh! then,
Oh! then,

The not being the pose, was the bon,

Who was ready to hunch golden eyes by the batch,

With greatest despatch, for those that cringe,

Oh! then,

With greatest despair, for those that moe,

With this a graver old woman, oh! then,
Oh! then,

Results but one chance for to won,

For her make a clear breast, and show the nest,

Which our country evet,

Oh! then,

Which our country infat, oh! then,

And this smart title of man, oh! then,
Oh! then,

Will sing, like her, for part of the sin,

And raise a scold, quite worthly incisive,

To show our affection, oh! then,

To show our affection, oh! then.

SIGILLAR MALFORMATION.—In San Francisco where there are a number of varieties in a large breeding cage. Some weeks ago, one of the female birds was highly engaged in building her nest preparatory to laying when a well-known deformed woman, whose presence on the streets has long been a nuisance and a source of annoyance and danger to married ladies, entered the cage. It is declared, that the bystanders remarked at the time the bird's flight at the horrid appearance of this handless dwarf, and that the bird shewed its terror, the most unmistakable manner. That a bird should show any signs of aversion to a human being, because of personal deformity, is extraordinary; but the most extraordinary is the fact that when her brood of four little ones came forth from the shell it was found that every one of them were deformed in the same manner as the revolving looking-little-beggar, the difference being that the birds' want of arms are deformed at the feet. The birds have knots in place of feet, the ends having the raw flesh-like appearance of the woman's ungainly stamp of arms and the fourth has no feet at all, but stumps of legs at the ordinary length. In all other respects the birds are healthy and perfectly well-formed, and they are alive and doing well.

The birth of deformed children from causes similar to the above is not a novelty, but that birds should be affected in like manner by horrible spectacles of different species, is almost beyond belief. There may be no connection between the mother's fright and the imperfect progeny, but it looks plausible to the unscientific. If this is an instance of cause and effect it is worth recording, and worthy of the consideration of all likely to be affected by similar accidents. While the greatest pity and kindness should be extended to such unfortunate creatures as women, society is bound to protect itself if necessary by the sternest measures against the effects she is producing, or the evil will multiply itself to an extent that is too terrible for contemplation.

THE POSTMASTER GENERAL ON JOHNSON:

"A friend correspondent writes:

"Postmaster General Randall, in reply to a friend in Wisconsin asking what he ought to do about supporting the Republican State ticket, writes that he had never voted for any man on any ticket who favors the independence of the President; that there is no reason or excuse for this war upon Mr. Johnson; that the latter has endeavored to bring about upon just terms a complete reconstruction of the Union; has followed the policy of Mr. Lincoln, which all Republicans can appreciate; has no other policy, and if this policy had been carried out there would have been perfect peace, with the Union fully restored. Another member of the Cabinet who has also been publicly accused by Johnson's newspapers as unfriendly to the President, will soon write a letter similar to that of Randall's."

Sir James South, the eminent astronomer, is dead.
