BELL & HOWELL

The National Democrat.
RAHWAY, N. J., AUGUST 28th, 1898.
THE MERCHANTS PRODUCTIVE UNION.

It is generally known that the merchants of the city of New York are organized into the Merchants Productive Union. This union is the only one of its kind in the world, and it is the only one that has the power to purchase goods for its members at a price lower than the market price. This union is the only one that has the power to sell goods for its members at a price higher than the market price. This union is the only one that has the power to buy goods for its members at a price lower than the market price and to sell goods for its members at a price higher than the market price. This union is the only one that has the power to buy goods for its members at a price lower than the market price and to sell goods for its members at a price higher than the market price.

There is a general feeling of discontent among the merchants of the city of New York. They are dissatisfied with the way in which the government is conducting its business. They are dissatisfied with the way in which the courts are interpreting the law. They are dissatisfied with the way in which the press is reporting the news. They are dissatisfied with the way in which the people are voting. They are dissatisfied with the way in which the world is being governed. They are dissatisfied with the way in which the future is being planned. They are dissatisfied with the way in which the past is being remembered. They are dissatisfied with the way in which the present is being lived. They are dissatisfied with the way in which the future is being promised. They are dissatisfied with the way in which the past is being forgotten. They are dissatisfied with the way in which the present is being denied. They are dissatisfied with the way in which the future is being denied.
