MISCELLANEOUS.

GETTING IN AT NIGHT.

[illegible]

... the second story of the back building that stood unconnected with and a dozen yards from the main one. After giving everybody another half an hour to settle down again, I started.

Boys, did you ever try to get up or down a pair of stairs at midnight without making a noise? You may try to do all sorts of ways, but every step is sure to crack, each with a peculiar noise of its own, and loud enough, you are sure to awake everybody. I had got nearly to the bottom, when a little dog came trotting up the entry toward me, yelping fiercely. A suppressed "Come here [illegible]" silenced him, [illegible] but the little fellow started the mocking bird and all the dogs in the neighborhood having learned to take the cue, of course joined in the chorus for the third time.

[illegible]

"So far so good." I now had to go down stairs, reach the back door, unbar it, get into the yard, make for my room, which was in [illegible] ... making a noise.

DIED OF GRIEF.—There is something in the following that will be highly interesting to summer travelers.

I knew him. It was years ago. His name was—well, call it Bumps. If you get into a railroad struggle, where one struggles to get another off the track, you will know more about Bumps, or your friends will. This Bumps was a nice young man. His hair was always combed low down, he wore brass buttons. There was a mysterious report current that he had been known to call on the "sherry" for three, on the 4th of July, and actually pay for it—pay for it, sir! We held him in awe, we boys did. He could talk about lever watches, pointer dogs, steam barges, and he could relate incidents of difficulties in prize fights so beautifully that I used to wish to knock some one in the stomach, and break some ambitious English man's jaw. [illegible] If Bumps said anything, the whole town swore that it was so. If he didn't say anything we all stood back and waited for developments.

At last he went away. His uncle used his influence to get him a position as baggage master. [illegible]

[illegible]

... there when he died. I never want to weep as I wept then. He just sank right away, murmuring [illegible]

HOW TO PREVENT SUN STROKE.—There are certain very simple rules by the careful observance of which sunstroke may be prevented. The use of stimulating liquors should always be avoided, for they serve to weaken rather than induce strength, only temporarily. Iced water or other drinks cooled should not be used. A little iced water mixed with that from a cistern or spring is very good, but no one should drink too much water but rather suffer a little from thirst than the great risks of free indulgence, which are many, including bowel complaint and other effections, which are dangerous.—Men exposed to the sun when at work, should never forget, when the weather is very hot, to dip handkerchiefs in water and put them in their hats. This will abate thirst and keep the system cool. A bunch of green leaves or grass, where water is not readily at hand, will suit almost as well.—Sunstroke, when it does not result in death, leaves the brain always in a highly irritable condition, and renders persons who have ever been effected peculiarly liable to the recurrence of attacks.

Further discoveries have been made in Pompeii in the shape of five musical instruments made of silver and ivory, and having a close resemblance to the flute of the present day.

* * *

PILES.—Make an ointment of equal parts of sage, parsley, burdock and chamomile leaves; simmer half an hour in fresh butter or sweet oil and lard; rub the parts affected twice a day; if the piles are inward, take the same quantity of tar water, and half a small glass of the essence of fir each night on going to bed. Continue this course two months, and it will do you more good than all the quack medicines in existence.

* * *

QUADRUPEDAL QUAKER MEETING.—Thomas V. Gleason, of Dorchester, Mass., has a sort of family gathering of quadrupeds such as is not often witnessed. At about sunset daily a large toad makes his appearance from lurking places under the barn, squats placidly and patiently until the Newfoundland pup and young pussy join him. They all three thus meet at the sunset hour, look earnestly at each other, holding a few moments' Quaker meeting, suddenly puss will "go for" Mr. Toad, when the latter rolls himself up in a ball, and allows Kitty to roll him round for a short time, then hops toward the dog, who will paw the reptile over a few times, the cat looking on quite pleasantly. The performance continues from ten to fifteen minutes, when toady will hop to his hole and disappear, and the party separate, as the theatrical notices say, "highly delighted with the evening's entertainment."

THE MINISTER'S JOKE.—Old Dr. Strong of Hartford, Conn., was not often outwitted by his people. On one occasion he invited a young minister to preach for him, who was rather a dull speaker and whose sermon was unusually long. The people became wearied and as Dr. Strong lived near the bridge near the commencement of the afternoon service he saw his people flocking across the river to the other church. He readily understood that they feared they should have the same young man in the afternoon. Gathering up his wits which generally came at his bidding he said to the young minister:

"My brother across the river is rather [illegible]

The father took in silence a dead coal from the hearth and reached it to his daughter. "It will not burn you, my child, take it." She did so, and behold! her delicate white hand was soiled and blackened, and her dress soiled too. "We cannot be too careful in handling coals, even if they do not burn, they blacken, so it is with the company of the vicious."

A CASE of death from the use of a jute "switch" by a young lady is reported from Waterville, Me. She had been for some time complaining of illness and pains in her head. At last she was confined to her room, and the physician having examined her head found it alive with vermin from this doubly false hair. No remedy was of any avail and the girl died. A post mortem examination showed that the insects had perforated the skull and had been feeding on the brain. If this is not a warning against the use of "Japanese switches," and all jute hair called by various names, we do not know what can be.

A refractory pig got loose in New Britain, Conn., a few days ago and sought refuge in a dry goods store. A dog went for him, bit his tail off, and then seized him by the ear and led him back to his proper quarters, after which he returned and picked up the tail and returned it to the [illegible]

[illegible]

"May [illegible]" answered both Mrs. Leslie and [illegible] at once, "and," continued Mrs. Leslie, "[illegible] Randal will make mention of this event [illegible], that it may, perhaps, [illegible] to others hereafter, in turning them from the road to perdition into that of life. It is awful to think how many different modes the devil has of deluding [illegible]. The vast numbers of people now [illegible] are on the road to Heaven, merely [illegible] from working with [illegible] the Lord's day, and from committing [illegible], theft, and [illegible]. These, you see, are sins which are open to the gaze of the public, and there are they shrink from committing them, while in secret they do not hesitate to pollute the Sabbath by gay conversation or amusement. They also entertain hatred and malice, speak slanderously of their neighbors, and covet their property. They do not consider that 'whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer,' and with God an adulterous look is as bad as the act itself.

"The light of life has never shown in the hearts of these people," said Mr. Leslie, "because 'He that committeth sin, is of the devil.' There are also persons who, we know, lead much more moral lives than those you have just been describing, and yet they are far from the way of life because they do not believe that 'Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth,' but 'go about to establish their own righteousness.' We must pity them and try to show them the true and only way to everlasting life, yet we must be very cautious how we deal with them lest instead of our doing them good, they should do us harm."

"Lucy," said a friend one day, to a little girl who was laid on a sick bed, would you not like to be well and again at play?"

Lucy thought for a moment, and then said, with great sweetness, "God knows best, and what He thinks best, pleases me best."

NATIONAL DEMOCRAT.

RAHWAY, N. J., SEPTEMBER 1, 1870.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

FOR CONGRESS—THIRD DISTRICT,

JOHN T. BIRD.

The war news from Europe for the past week has been the absorbing topic, though no decisive battle has been fought at latest accounts, but it was constantly expected. The Prussians still seem to hold the best hand, and are getting the French army in a tight place.

◆

The Republican papers continually allude to the administration during the period that Andrew Johnson was President, as a "Democratic administration." Andrew Johnson was elected by Republican votes and the managers of the various departments were Republicans during his term, wherefore the Democratic rule, then?

◆

The only argument used, apparently, by the Republicans, for the continuance of their party in power, is the cry of economy, reduction of expenses, &c., by their administration. In the three months ending June [illegible] there was spent for war purposes $[illegible], or at the rate of $[illegible] per annum, and this, too, in time of profound peace. This amount is [illegible] all the current expenses of the government. [illegible] "Let us have Peace!"

◆

About twenty [illegible] at one of the Trenton [illegible] appoint delegates to the [illegible] al convention, but [illegible] date was appointed. ◆

John Hood, Chairman of the [illegible] den Democratic County Committee, has called the next Convention at [illegible], to be held on Sept. [illegible] dates for [illegible], sheriff and three coroners. [illegible]

All opposed to high taxes and an extravagant waste of money—

All opposed to Chinese [illegible] labor—

All in favor of white men as [illegible] and rulers—

All in favor of [illegible] wages for a fair day's work—

All in favor of [illegible]

All who desire [illegible] Administration [illegible]

STATE POLITICS.

Among the Democracy, Warren Burnet, of Chatham; Charles Arr[illegible], of Passaic; Mahlon O. Munson; Charles A. Gill, of Randolph.

"Dead Issues." [illegible] pression [illegible] stances [illegible] thing very [illegible] not a people [illegible] rights [illegible] issue," [illegible] cowardly subterfuge. There are, of course, "dead issues." [illegible] very is a dead issue, [illegible] it back again. [illegible] State authority [illegible] tution [illegible] people [illegible] qualifications [illegible] frage, is not a dead issue. We [illegible] hard to discern any issue [illegible] to the country, North or South, [illegible] whole system of reconstruction legislation by Congress. It is so far from being dead, that if the Democratic party does not gain control of the Federal Government and reform and undo it all, there will be something else permanently "dead" in this country, and that is free, representative Republican government.

There is another issue that is neither dead, nor will it be permitted to die, and that is that this was made a white man's government for white men and their posterity forever, and white men have sworn the Jacksonian oath, "by the Eternal," it shall remain so. The Pittsburg (Pa.) Post, an unwavering Democratic paper, has this very decided opinion on the subject:

It is the duty of the Democracy to undo the revolutionary innovations and retrieve the retrogressions of the Radical party. The cry of dead issues is mere puerility. There can be no temporizing indulged in. Satan cannot be propitiated by burning incense under his nose. He must be fought with his own weapons.

You cannot make a "dead issue" of this instinct of the white race until you open its veins and squeeze out every drop of its native blood. It will not [illegible] "down at your bidding."—Mobile Register.

The Republican party is in favor of making white labor cheaper, by importing Chinese coolies, and putting them in competition with white men. The Democratic party is opposed to coolie importation, favors white men, and paying a fair day's wages for a fair day's work. Workingmen, which party do you want in power?

Two blue fish, united a la Siamese twins, were caught in the Great South Bay, L. I. last week. The tails and fins were grown together for several inches, the heads being nearly at right angles with each other. It is believed that no fishy pair were ever found before with such a fishy tie to unite them.

The bolt of electric fluid, six inches in diameter, of a bright blue color, as it passed through the tent, was visible to all. The excitement, consternation, and confusion among 4,000 people may be better imagined than described.

A little discrepancy occurred in our account of the fire last week, referring to fire companies first on the ground. We stated No. 2 gave water to No. 5, but did not state what hose was used, which was that of No. 2, it being the first company on hand, and must have been so much in advance that our informant lost sight of it.

The house was a frame one, and was totally destroyed, the occupants losing all his effects, valued at about $1,500, which was fully covered by insurance. The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary, as there have been several cases of arson in Elizabeth lately.

Still persisting in his determination, he let the matter drop, until one fine day he was made aware of the fact that some other person had obtained a patent for the same thing and worst of all, had sold it to a clock company for $30,000. He has patented everything since.

THE [illegible] WATCH.—[illegible] Wiggins [illegible] We [illegible] Wiggins [illegible] twenty years [illegible] carry a watch [illegible] and a [illegible]

"Last [illegible] the old [illegible] part of [illegible] was [illegible] had [illegible] into a full barrel. I want to make it very [illegible] out on the [illegible] touch it and [illegible] believe [illegible] eating.

"One day my wife [illegible] she 'Wiggins, [illegible] going very [illegible] I [illegible] and [illegible] was going [illegible] faster. I thought it ought [illegible] noticed [illegible] long time, and my wife [illegible] is [illegible] Why don't [illegible] trap?'

"But my neighbors were all good-hearted kind of folks, though [illegible] two of 'em might [illegible] inclined to poke around where they did not belong, and I didn't want [illegible] 'em. I concluded to wager [illegible] would be best to put [illegible] what little beef I had left down into the cellar, and I did it.

"Well, when the beef was used up, and I went to clean out the [illegible] I found this watch in the [illegible] It looked like Tom's [illegible] Tom had worked for me considerable, and I have seen him have [illegible] or one very [illegible] like it. When I saw Tom I showed him the watch [illegible] said right off it was [illegible]

"How did you come to lose it?" said I.

"I carried it in my pocket without a chain, and I must have dropped it out when I was stooping," said he.

"Well," said I, "then you must have been stooping over my beef barrel, for I found it in the pickle."

"With that Tom [illegible] kind of sheepish, and I guess he saw the twinkle in my eye.

"Let me look at that there watch again," said he.

He looked at it a little while and then handed it back to me.

"On the whole, Mr. Wiggins," says he, "I guess that ain't my watch, after all. It must belong to somebody else." And with that he walked off.

"I carried the watch to our jeweller, and he found that the cases had [illegible] so tight that the works hadn't been pickled a bit, and set it a running— It's a first-rate time keeper, and I reckon when it took my beef I paid all t'was worth."

The Buffalo Express lately contained the following: "Acheanario!!" The next day it explained it thus: "It's easy—A-eighty (cat) caught (caught) a r-eighty (rat)—A cat caught a rat. Ain't it?"

A time ago some one [illegible] or three eminent lawyers gathered together on a spot supposed to be likely to be chosen as the site of the new law courts, said that they had met there to view the ground where they must shortly lie."
