NATIONAL DEMOCRAT.

Rahway, N. J., April 17th, 1873.

DON'T KICK IT OVER.

Young man, whatever you do, do well; but when it is done, don't kick it over. This is the predominating evil that guides or more properly "ropes in" scores of young men. They launch out in life determined to gain wealth and a name at a single leap; but when a working of prosperity is visible they are dissatisfied. They wish to go too rapidly, and when they do possess a good thing, will not retain it; in other words, they kick it all over. You know the old adage teaches "when you find good picking, keep it." Were this the motto of our young men, the world would be better off to-day. But instability of the mind is the fearful current that undermines and loosens the ends of the various branches of business. It prys up the cross beams and lets drop the under pinnings. It is the parent of discontent and dual misery. Fickleness keeps a man constantly in hot water; he does not stick to good picking, and, at length, down comes the established firm with a crash [illegible] fickleness unfounds it.

A. T. Stewart once sold "Yankee notions" from a common peddler's pack. "Not a decent business to be sure, and I would not advise you to follow it at any rate; the young man of to-day would consider it beneath his dignity to carry such a thing through the streets," but [illegible] the world knows him as New York's merchant prince.

Isaac Miller was once a poor apprentice boy to a weaver. Natural push and a manly dignity was the chisel that carved out this great English philosopher.

Smith Rindley. A common millwright was not the situation to content the mind of so lofty an aspirant as he, and in him did England soon find one of her most gifted engineers; one to whom she soon looked up to as such.

Show me a man who has prospered in life by a continual shifting from one occupation to another, and I will show hundreds who have been dragged down to misery and destitution by this fearful habit. Show me a man who talks about your street corners, ridicules the [illegible] hundred I will point him to you as a leader in trade of trade or requiring of any kind a "stranger on" to humanity—a "loafer" [illegible] society, and one whom he would associate, [illegible] that that man [illegible] he would not [illegible] have been here [illegible] to sit always there [illegible] from degradation. There are exceptions. Mechanics and traffic men of every branch, as drunkards graves; but occupation is the routine that guided many—keeps their faces turned from the card table and faro bank, while steadfastness and studious work [illegible] to [illegible] the chasms that drag them into the sorrows of dishonor and indolence.

It matters not how wealthy a young man may be, he is always on the safe side to be engaged in some useful business. Let him take [illegible] business hours—and enjoy life like other men when their day's toil is ended; but to be occupied is [illegible], it keeps his fingers from mischief, and his person from the billiard hall and beer counter.

[illegible] "push" and stability that go to make up the business career of the world, and a man who possesses no "go ahead" in the nineteenth century may better withdraw from the ranks of [illegible] and will be ruled by the voice of the people.

Young man, always let your motto be, punctuality: your policy, honesty; and when you find good picking, don't kick it over.—W. Arden Jones, in Centreville Advertiser.

A California House 1,000 Years Old.—The loftiest house, and the most perfect in the matter of architecture I have ever seen, was that which a wood chopper occupied with his family one winter in the forests of Santa Cruz county. It was the cavity of a red wood tree, two hundred and forty feet in height.—Fire had eaten away the trunk at the base until a circular room had been formed sixteen feet in diameter. At twenty feet or more from the ground was a knot-hole, which afforded egress for the smoke. With hammocks hung from pegs, and a few cooking utensils hung upon other pegs, that house lacked no essential thing. This woodman was in possession of a house which had been a thousand years in process of building. Perhaps on the very day it was finished he came along and entered it. How did all jack-knife and hand saw architecture sink into insignificance in contrast with this house in the solitudes of the great forest! Moreover, the tenant fared like a prince. Within thirty yards of his coniferous home a mountain stream went rushing past to the sea. In the swirls and eddies under the shelving rocks, if one could not land half a dozen trout within an hour, he deserved to go hungry as a penalty for his awkwardness. Now and then a deer came out into the openings, and, at no great distance, quail, rabbits and pigeons could be found. This Arcadian simplicity would have made a lasting impression but for a voluntary remark, that nothing could be added to give life a more perfect zest. "Well, yes," said he, "I reckon if you are going back to town, you might tell Jim to send me up a gallon of whiskey, and send some plug tobacco." It will not do to invest a hollow tree with too much of sentiment and poetry.—Overland Monthly.

The Cincinnati Times publishes the following reminiscence of the late Garret Davis:

They tell this story of the late Garret Davis, who was very much given to joking, and a Kansas Senator. The Kentucky Senator was one day snoozing quietly in his Senatorial chair, when a bill that had been taken up during his nap came to a vote. A neighbor punched his ribs and said, "Wake up, Mr. Davis, your name is called." Half unconsciously the Kentuckian arose, and asked the Vice President what they were voting on.—The Vice President explained that it was a railroad bill in Kansas. "Well, said, Mr. Davis, in that shrill voice and pointed manner of his, "what I want to know, before I vote, is the amount of stealing in this bill."

Whereupon the Kansas gentleman arose, his face beaming all over with smiles, and said:

"If the Senator from Kentucky will permit me, I will explain. I have thoroughly investigated this bill, sir, and I assure you if there is any stealing in it I cannot find it."

"All right, Mr. President," responded Senator Davis, "if the Senator from Kansas can't find any stealings, I'm satisfied there is none there." And all over the Senate chamber there was an audible smile.

The following, of course, happened in Paris: A servant entered her mistress' apartments sighing and sobbing. "Oh madam! Oh madam!" "What is the matter, Francoise?" "Madam, I have stuck a fork into my finger." "Oh, that's nothing, Francoise; you will not feel it to-morrow." "I should not be afraid madam, if I was sure the fork was silver."—"You may, then, be perfectly easy; the fork is; all our forks are silver." "Oh, then, I don't feel alarmed; but I was dreadfully frightened, for I thought the fork was plated." The next day Francoise disappeared, taking all the forks with her.

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

Among the great discoveries of modern science, few are of more real value to mankind than this effectual remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. A vast trial of its virtues, throughout this and other countries, has shown that it does surely and effectually control them. The testimony of our best citizens, of all classes, establishes the fact, that Cherry Pectoral will and does relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence; and it is unwise to be without it. As a safeguard to children, [illegible]

Throat and Chest of childhood, CHERRY PECTORAL is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and saved to the love and affection around them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, securing sound and health-restoring sleep. No one will suffer troublesome Influenza and painful Bronchitis, when they know how easily they can be cured.

Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, no cost or toil is spared in making every bottle in the utmost possible perfection. It may be confidently relied upon as possessing all the virtues it has ever exhibited, and capable of producing cures as memorable as the greatest it has ever effected.

APRIL.

BY MRS. [illegible]

Month of smiles and showers,
Changeful skies and flowers,
Hither, hither come;
I have wooed thee long,
These woodland scenes among—
Hasten ty thy home

Scatter from thy hand
Upon the teeming land
Garlands fresh and fair.
Call the swallows back
From their pathless track
To meet thee here.

Thou ridest on the gale,
And the lily pale
Upraises its head;
Let thy dew-drops lie
Beneath the changeful sky,
Where Flora's couch is spread

The cuckoo's voice is clear,
And to the listening ear
Bright promise brings—
Of flowrets wild and free,
To whom the wandering bee,
Its welcome sings.

The rook builds in the wood,
And rears its cable brood
Secure on high;
The lark from upland springs,
And loud its carol rings,
Ascending to the sky.

Sweet month, I bid thee hail!
The winter's coat of mail
No more is seen;
But on the flowery lea
And on the budding tree
Fresh shoots of green.

Oh! we shall miss thy tears
When fragrant May appears,
Than fare thee well,
The birds at early dawn,
Upon the budding thorn,
Shall sing thy knell.

METROPOLITAN LIFE.

No. 5.

SATURDAY NIGHT IN NEW YORK.

Saturday night is the one night of the week to which all New Yorkers look forward with a sort of delight. There is no difference as to who is the most pleased when the day records itself on the page of time, those that are not pleased to see it and fail to welcome the morn of the busy night, belong to that class of small traders or business men that have failed in getting together enough of the needful to supply the demands of their workers.

We are a rather fast people in New York.—Many of us pass along without paying particular heed to the every day lessons taught us by the industrious ant. We belong to the butterfly species and live from "week to week." "Saturday night will soon be here and I shall have my new hat, new dress, and shoes." "Have my coat done by Saturday night and I'll pay for it." "My pay is doin to dat me a new dress Saturday night! aha! I won't play with you any more then." "We'll have a jolly old drunk on Saturday night." "I'll meet you at the Free and Easy Saturday night." "If I do anything like a decent trade Saturday night I'll pay you that little bill," and "if my husband gets his full pay Saturday night we'll pay the rent Monday"; are among the many sentences we hear during the week as we journey along.

As early as Friday afternoon and night preparations are made for Saturday. The show windows are stripped, cleaned and redressed; there is a general dusting out and rearranging of wares to be placed on sale. The sidewalks are treated to a good scrubbing and the street swept to the center.

Saturday morning opens bright and beautiful. We proceed to our business with joyous hearts and smiling countenances, planning what we intend doing for ourselves and family with our pay for the week, and on our way to business we meet and see the speculators with their smiles, cheerful good morning, and great expectations in trade. All are dressed—apparently—in holiday attire, have undergone early tonsorial operations; the butchers and grocers are neatly regaled in clean aprons and sleevelets, while the fair sex, whose duty it is to tend or take our money for a certain consideration look more inviting and bewitching than ever.

The gin seller is not a whit behind his fellows; the drinking bar is cleaned and polished, the glass wares scoured and brightened and the floor neatly sanded, and spotless napkins hung at easy intervals along the bar front, while along the front of his store are to be seen the following placards dressed out in gay and festive colors, "Free lunch to-night" "clam chowder to-night" "free oyster soup this evening," "Free and Easy to-night" also a detailed list of their choice brands of damnation breeders.

We move along with the expectant throng, pause for a moment thinking what a change a matter of twenty hours will bring forth. We stroll leisurely along until we reach the Washington or "Great Bear" market and find the same is dealers in game, meats, poultry and dairy products, driving a lively trade.—The retailers whiling, like Micawber, for "something to turn up." All along the west side the scene is the same—a complete jam of retail dealers purchasing their stores for the day's trade. By eleven o'clock the wholesale trade has become quiet and the retail trade in motion. The licensed venders or public pedlars, do no itinerant traffic on Saturday, but take up a stand just outside of the market limits—one hundred yards—to pursue the payment of market fees; and until twelve o'clock at night keep up their vociferations, in a sort of vernacular peculiar to their craft, which at times is almost deafening. "Here's your sweet Havana oranges—eighteen for a quarter!" "Haugh ho! here they go! fresh porgies; twelve for a shillin'." "Potatoes, twenty cents half peck!" "Lemons, 'ere they are! cent a piece!" "oysters, only shillin', a quart."—"Matches! shoe blacking! shoe laces!" "Ingins, only four cents a 'quart'—here's your new country cured hams ten cents a pound." These and thousands of other exclamations which are being offered at every point cause us to leave the scene and seek a more quiet neighborhood and that with but little success, so long as we remain anywhere near the market sections or the retailing thoroughfares.

As early as half past four we commence ending our labors of the week; factory after factory commences sending homeward or upon the streets, their many toilers with their week's stipend in their pockets; by six o'clock all are paid and the general trade commences, a few drinks to fortify us and the goods of the house, give our good wives the dollars, reserve a portion for our own use, which we intend spending for the "Pub la Joyful." At seven o'clock we take up our station at Washington, Tompkins, Fulton, Franklin, Union, Essex, Jefferson or Clarendon markets. What a jam! Where do all the people come from? Are they all hungry? Butter tasting, fish smelling, meat and poultry feeling, or initially ordering the heart's content. It's Saturday night; we are privileged. If Jones won't allow it, Brown will. "I wish you would keep your big feet off my dress." "Excuse me, madam, beg pardon." "There goes my skirt, all off the gathers." "Oh! my poor corn." "Wait for me, mother." "[illegible] give you half a dollar." "I can't do it, ma'am, cost more'n that," is heard as we try to edge or mill our way through the surging, swaying mass in our endeavors to reach the street.

Upon the street we find no change, baskets, bundles and parcels, buyers and sellers; some going home, others coming to buy. Dry goods, grocery stores, milliners, dress makers and clothiers, barbers and [illegible] as busy as bees in flower time. "Your turn next," or "I will wait on you in a moment" is the general welcome extended you upon entering any and every place of business.

The street cars are crowded, no matter which way they are travelling, they are filled to repletion. It's here where the poet of the metropolis, the pick pockets, ply their most profitable trade, and many are the inducements given them by the public. The fact of this class of humanity giving evidence enough for a full chapter of metropolitan life, which will appear in due season, precludes any further mention at present. The theatres and all other places of amusement are filled to their utmost capacity. At eleven o'clock, the respectable traffic commences to wane, and the respectable people travel homeward, and at twelve o'clock all respectable business and amusement is ended.

Having concluded the "quiet" part of our chapter, we will now illustrate the dark side of Saturday night. The emblazoned invitations of the dealers in liquid damnation have not been without effect. "Give a spratt to catch a salmon," is an old adage among fishermen, and as equally applicable to that species of men, and fisheries, of which there are goodly number in New York. The "free lunch" highly seasoned, has only increased the thirst for more drink. We only intended to take one drink and go home. Home? do we know that we will ever reach it? we have become "half seas over," and have enough of reason left to know that we ought to set out for it; not alone to, but just at this particular juncture, in steps two, three or a half a dozen itinerant minstrels, one or more of their number is of the female, and all most invariably, Italians. A gentle prelude is done, a song is sung, the hat is passed around, we give our dimes and ask in turn for a waltz or polka which is cheerfully given, and away we go, spinning, whirling, stumbling about and wind it dancing. What whiskey has failed to do alone, our dancing has finished to perfection, we are "dead drunk," placed upon the street, become prey to the lounging vultures, and wake up in the morning at the nearest police station with an aching head.

Others travel in a different direction, becoming partly intoxicated, the [illegible] are [illegible] away they go and finally reach the [illegible] and [illegible] vents their fleas with that [illegible] beverage [illegible] again to come.

Others seek pleasure at another resort; the "Free and Easy" is their resort. Songs are sung, recitations given, and one tells stories [illegible] "Tim [illegible]" after each performance [illegible] another drink, and before they wind up [illegible] singing at the same time, each [illegible] particular song, and on the [illegible] or bedlam. Angry discussions arise about the various topics of the day or intermediary, which are only settled by forcible arguments, resulting in bruised heads and blackened peepers.

Another class, [illegible] excited with the dangerous drink, set out for the gambling hells, expecting to make a raise at faro, keno or poker, only to be fleeced of their hard earned dollars. Others again curiously find pleasure in [illegible] the most [illegible] institutions which send more young men halfward than all the others combined. The proprietors of which are the most unscrupulous wretches in existence.

The fourth, sixth, eighth and fourteenth wards are also there to business and in these wards exist the scourge and scum of the metropolis. Here no parleying is indulged in; a word and a blow is the rule. From these wards we hear the cry of "murder," and it is indeed a clear Monday morning that the press of the [illegible] does not record some horrible deeds which have been enacted during Saturday night.

A visit to the "Tombs" early police—Essex Market and Jefferson Market police courts at six o'clock Monday morning, reveals to us the prison pens, gorged with all sorts of prisoners, male and female, white, and black; old and young, bruised, maimed, scarred and haggard, which is only a stereotyped picture of what occurs every Saturday night in the great Metropolis. L. H. MOREAN.

New York, April 18th, 1873.

An editor says: "We have lately heard of the diagnosis of a new disease. A lady of remarkable conversational powers approached an equally gifted friend with 'Oh, I have a very [illegible] tongue.' 'Let me look at it,' says the doctor. The unruly member is duly protruded. 'It is coated, madam, sunburnt,' remarked the doctor, who suddenly recollected that his professional services were wanted in another direction."

Here is a sample of an auctioneer's chaunt:—"Half-a-dollar, halfadollarhalfadollarhalfadolla, fadolla that's bid now give more for it want it! Half a dollar! Threequarters, threequarters—they quarters I'm bid, will you say three [illegible] this standard work—three—four volumes half morocker extry? Threequarters I'm bid, threequarters, will ye give any more? Three quarters, threequartthreequarthreequartthreequaw thee-quaw! one dollar shall I have?"

One of forty girls at a boarding school none of them could tell how many years George Washington was President, but they knew to a cent the cost of any kind of bottle in the market.

"Tim" Fron Moore, of the Rural New Yorker, was sitting in his office one afternoon some years ago, when a farmer came in and said:

"Mr. Moore, I like your paper, but times are so hard that I cannot pay for it."

"Is that so, friend Jones? I'm very sorry to hear you are so poor; if you are so hard run I will give you my paper."

"Oh, no! I can't take it as a gift."

"Well, then, let us see how we can fix it. You raise chickens, I believe?"

"Yes, a few, but they don't bring anything hardly."

"Don't they? Neither does my paper cost anything, hardly. Now I have a proposition to make to you. I will continue your paper and when you go home you may select from your lot one chicken and call her mine. Take good care of her and bring me the proceeds, whether in eggs or chickens, and we will call it square."

"All right, brother Moore," and the fellow chuckled at what he called a capital bargain. He kept the contract strictly, and at the end of the year found he had paid four prices for his paper. He often tells the joke himself, and he says he never had the face to say he was too poor to take a paper from that day.

A certain preacher was holding forth to a somewhat worried congregation, when he lifted up his eyes to the gallery, and beheld a youngster pelting the people below with chestnuts.

Dominie was about to administer a sharp [illegible] of impropriety and disrespect, but the youth anticipating him, bawled out at the top of his voice:

"You mind your preaching, daddy, and I'll keep them awake."

Horace F. Clark, Vanderbilt's son in law and right bower, was one of the most eloquent lawyers of New York city. One day, being poor, he went to Vanderbilt's office and said, "Commodore Vanderbilt, I love your daughter, and she loves me. I want your consent to my marrying her." "Ah!" said the old man cynically, "you want my money, eh, sir!" "Oh, you and your money be [illegible]." "Say, young fellow!" shouted Vanderbilt, "come back here; you can have her!" So he married the girl, went into Wall street, and is worth from twelve to fifteen millions.

A farmer man bought a horse recently, and finding the animal by no means what was represented, sent him a splendid horse and [illegible] sold him to his dealer. In about two weeks the animal was resold to the last purchaser for [illegible] having undergone another paint job, and now [illegible] is interested to know which of the two ought to sue the other.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MATTER.

Answers.—The following are the answers to the questions of the 10th instant:—

1. A town that falls here. [illegible]
2. [illegible]

Correct answers to both by [illegible] and Charles [illegible], of the M. E. Sunday School, of Rahway, N. J.

Questions.—In what part of the Bible may the following be found:

1. "Basket of summer fruit."
2. "Head [illegible]"

Answers to the above must be [illegible] Sunday morning of next week.

These coming questions should give the answers at the same time.

BE KIND TO THE AGED.

A friend of mine saw at a short distance before him an old man walking with great difficulty, and very tired. He seemed at a loss which way to go. Between my friend and the old man two little girls, eight and ten years of age, were walking and talking about the old man.

"How tired he looks!" says one.

Just then a young man passed by, of whom the old man asked the way to No. 16 East street. A hasty answer and at all that, was the only reply. In his bewilderment the old man struck against a post and his staff fell from his hand. The elder girl sprang forward to support him, while the other handed him his staff, saying, "Here it is, sir."

"Thank you, my kind girls," said the old man. "Can you direct me to No. 16 East street? I came to the city to-day to visit my son. Wishing to surprise him, I did not send him word that I was coming. I am a stranger here, and have been walking a long time for no purpose."

"Why, that's my very way," answered one; "we might wait for an hour, but we can as well walk that way as any other."

"And mine goes my kind girls!" said the old man. "I am sorry to trouble you."

"Oh," replied the little girls, "it is not the least trouble; we are very glad, and we hope to help them if we can."

They went through the old man against the house where his son lived, and he was for saying goodbye to them, but they said, "We must go round the street with you, for fear the carriages run over you."

What a delightful body-guard were those good children!

As they separated, the old man said, "If you ever visit my country, come to the house of John Bassett, and you shall have as hearty a welcome and as good entertainment as a farmhouse can afford."—Mother's Magazine.

"Jesu Tarus Now!"—A Christian man was dying in Scotland. His little daughter Nellie sat by his bedside. It was Sunday evening, and the bell of the Scotch kirk was ringing, calling the people to church. The good old man in his dying dreams thought he was on his way to church, as he used to be when he went in his sleigh across the country, and as the evening bell struck up, in his dying dream he thought it was the call to church. He said: "Hark, children, the bells are ringing; we shall be late; we must make the mare step quick." He shivered and then said: "Pull the buffalo robe up closer, my lass; it is cold crossing, but we'll soon be there, now!" And he smiled and said: "Just there, now!" No wonder he smiled. The good old man had gone to church.

NATIONAL DEMOCRAT.

Rahway, N. J., April 24th, 187[illegible]

It appears from last week's [illegible] that it and its [illegible] are still writhing and wriggling under some of the lashings [illegible] to the ring [illegible]. We are made the special object of [illegible] ference, and get the credit for all the [illegible] that appeared in our paper. [illegible] position is taken [illegible] editorials and correspondence, asserting that we have injured the name of Rahway by allowing these expositions of the ring, the corruptions, defalcations, etc., to appear in our columns. Does any one believe [illegible]

The ring and [illegible] found that [illegible] the private working of the city machinery was known than they supposed [illegible] has yet been told, and the leaders were greatly [illegible] Caucuses were held [illegible] Finally the [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] those who [illegible] that paper [illegible] surprised to hear that we never received one word of such advice from any Democrat, and it is not likely we should have taken much of it if such had been the case. It is in accordance with the scriptural saying, "he that is not for me is against me," and he that favors the Republican ring of the city is certainly not well calculated to give advice to a Democratic paper. As we have said before, there are Democrats who have "listened to the song of the siren" until the webs of personal interest have become so strongly woven around them that they cannot see anything wrong in [illegible] may not have approved of [illegible] the ring, but they have not so expressed themselves to us. [illegible] that a publisher of a newspaper would do anything to injure the future of his town or city. It is just the opposite of that which we have. We believe that a reform in our city government will do more to benefit Rahway than anything else, and the same Democrats [illegible] such, who disapprove [illegible] would be of the same opinion [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

The election in Union township last week passed off very quietly, only [illegible] votes being polled out of a voting population of about [illegible] hundred. The following officers were elected:

Justice of the Peace, Samuel E. [illegible]; Town Clerk, [illegible] Woodruff; Assessor, [illegible] H. Sayre; Collector, [illegible]; Judge of Election, [illegible]; Commissioners of Appeals, [illegible]; [illegible] Stephen T. Baker; Constable, Samuel [illegible]; Commissioners of Highway, Thomas E. Kingsland, John Foster, John Crane; Support of Poor, $2,000; Public Highways, $[illegible]; School Tax, $3 per child. Next town meeting and election to be held at the [illegible] of Elecia Meeker.

The Newark Advertiser, in an article on the extra session of the Senate to appoint Commissioners to suggest amendments to the Constitution, sounds the key note as follows:

"The principal reform to be urged will be in the matter of representation. In the Senate each county, large or small, has one member, thus making the man of [illegible] and importance in Cape May than five in Middlesex, six in Burlington, sixteen in Hudson, or eighteen in Essex. A division of the State into senatorial districts will be strenuously opposed by the southern counties, but the anomaly of the present system is too plain for argument. Two-fifths of our population control two-thirds of our Senate."

Gov. Parker has called an extra session of the Senate, to assemble to-day, to consider the nominations of persons to suggest and prepare amendments to the State Constitution, as authorized by resolution of the Legislature on the day of its adjournment. Speaker Fisher and General Haight have been spoken of [illegible] this Congressional district.

It is reported that there is likely to be lively times among some of the seekers for appointments by the incoming Council, and if all are kept quiet there will be some more new offices created, for the ring, at the late elections, became cognizant of the fact that it will not do to risk losing the friendship of any of its adherents.

At the elections in Bergen county last week the [illegible] elected [illegible] of the [illegible] Freeholders.

Petition for grading, etc., St. George's avenue from Ross street to city bounds [illegible] referred to street committee.

License committee reported on applications of John Callahan, A. Barths [illegible], Conrad Christ and P. B. Sharp [illegible] class B, and John Meeting [illegible] granted, Miller voting in the negative.

[illegible]

Jackson offered resolution to appoint Sylvanus White School Commissioner from 2d ward; adopted.

Also to appoint W. R. Crowell, Sr., inspector of work on new school house; adopted.

Also that when Council adjourn it be to meet on Monday evening, May 5th; adopted.

Also, that street commissioner advertise for proposals for work on Milton avenue, Price street, Lincoln and [illegible] avenues; adopted.

Miller's offered resolution that the time for completing the Monroe street sewer be extended to the 1st of June; adopted.

Resolution [illegible] street commissioner to [illegible] between [illegible] and Montgomery; adopted.

Resolution to construct a [illegible] Seminary street from Fornoff to Irving; adopted, and [illegible] ordinance to [illegible] passed.

Further supplement to ordinance relating to salaries, title taken.

Steele inquired what rate of speed was allowed by the ordinances for trains passing through the city. There having been so many changes in the ordinances in relation to it, no one was prepared to answer.

Bills read and ordered paid.

President Vail offered a resolution that, whereas Jos. Brant had declined to do the work of flagging the south side of Central avenue as awarded at pro rata rates, therefore it be awarded to John M. Weldon; objection was raised, and he substituted a resolution instructing the street commissioner to advertise for proposals for same, which was adopted.

The President called attention to the fact that the contractor [illegible] of the work of grading on Central avenue [illegible] had refused to do so, thus obstructing [illegible] of the street. The street commissioner was instructed to see that the work is finished by the contractor, or other action taken. Adj.

[illegible]—The Third Assistant Postmaster General has given notice that on the first of May next will commence the issue to Postmasters of the postal cards authorized by the act of June 8th, 1872. They will be sold for one cent each, neither more nor less, whether in large quantities or small. The object of the cards is to facilitate letter correspondence, and provide for the transmission through the mails at a reduced rate of postage, of short communications, either printed or written in pencil or ink. They may, therefore be used for orders, invitations, notices, receipts, acknowledgements, and other requirements of business and social life, and the matter desired to be conveyed may be either in writing or in print, or partially in both. An ordinary printed business card may also be sent through the mails when prepaid by a one cent postage stamp attached, but such card must contain absolutely no written matter except the address, otherwise it will be treated as not fully prepaid, and refused admission into the mails.

The full accounts of the earthquake at San Salvador confirm the reports of the entire destruction of the city. One solitary edifice of wood was left uninjured. The only other buildings not completely leveled with the earth were the Government House and the Hotel de Parque, both built of stone. Fifty corpses were cast up from their graves in the neighboring cemetery and lay till morning—companions of the dead among the ruins. More than fifty dead and one hundred and fifty wounded had been gathered from the debris of the town, and although the loss of life from the earthquake was probably not as extensive as it was at first said to be, it was so great, and the destruction was so complete, as to inspire wonder at the tenacity of the authorities who had resolved to rebuild the city on a site which has been affected by eight serious earthquakes since the year 1575.

For the Democrat.

MASTER OF THE SITUATION.

It is difficult to contemplate a subject involving such varied and increased complications as the parent of this subject multiplies. Its complexity is apparent as the mastering of life's difficulties is difficult. [illegible] ly stated, however poorly considered, will assist the reader in seeing the difficulties of mastering the situation. To be master implies superiority over that which is to be controlled; to be in possession of advantages which do in fact, but results obtained from previous efforts and conditions. Absolute knowledge is impossible with man. Man's knowledge is relative, and mastery is only obtained by the [illegible]

[illegible] tents to another, or to surrounding objects. The relation that cause bears to effect is the same as master and subject, yet, in this evolution of things, that which appears as the cause is but the effect, the effect is all that is apparent to us, and that, in its succession, becomes a cause which ceasing to be apparent as effect, and so on through the complex multiplication of life. Who can approach a subject so vast, so complex, so difficult, without feeling, and being subdued by awe, by even an imperfect conception of that grand principle of the universe where the [illegible] of force becomes the power that evolves the whole, and all its parts [illegible] in its entirety, or in its [illegible] parts.

Integration and disintegration in matter, the processes opposite in their natures, yet are causes which produce effects that are apparent by the result of growth and development. That man who becomes master of the situation is a result, so soon as his mastery is made apparent; for to be a master of any situation is to imply a condition masterly occupied. The preexisting causes are determined only by the previous relative situations. How is mastery to be obtained? Only by persistent effort. He who regards success as the result of chance, or the effect of mere circumstances deceives and deludes himself, for he who acquires eminence in any of the varied duties of life, has done so only by devotion to, and persistency in the acquiring of that which enables him to understand the relative [illegible] and responsibilities incident to a mastery of the situation; therefore, there is no real [illegible] mastery, but in spite of persistent effort and devotion to truth as truth, independent of, and without regard to the consequences. Man, to be master of the situation should never despise small things, but be regardful of their relative merits.

In application of these truths to society, and especially Rahway society, will, I fear, render it necessary to reflect somewhat on the actions of those who are regarded here as masters of the situation. If the application of these truths to Rahway society should [illegible] were, I will add as a moral or comfort to the ring, to follow the line of least resistance by preventing [illegible] "views" from answering, until he can profit by seeing his inability to be regarded as mastering his situation, while he may be considered as evincing a disposition to persist in effort without regard to consequences; yet he should know that all evil is force misapplied, and all such efforts abortive unless devoted to truth as truth. Success, though temporary, is regarded by many as mastery; but men, like water, must find their level; and a knowledge of relative merits, their merits in the relation they bear to surrounding matter. The same test, when applied to the "trio" develops more complex questions, because their relative merits are [illegible] in a far more [illegible]

[illegible] than mere temporary success; but rather a series of successes, they being the central head or gravitating point of Rahway's political and social status, are capable, therefore, of wielding a power by adding persistency to force, and thus evolving the whole social forces that are at work, continually developing effects by rendering them apparent; and they will be continued, as if prime cause to all our present developments, unless some force be persisted in that will render their situation apparent, and then they will be only considered as they should be, effects, in the relation they bear to surrounding objects; but such a result, in the way, however much it may be desired by the masses, can only be obtained by that study and devotion to truth as truth, without regard to consequences; and all force for accomplishment of such an end must be directed by some central head possessing affinities that will attract the people to it without the use of those disturbing forces; employing only such means as are congenial to all, by inspiring nobler sentiments and greater conceptions of duty, having ever in view the fact that all sacrifices of the present should be for future good, and holding to the truth that example is better than precept for the young who are soon to come on the stage of action in the regular succession of events; thus implanting new life and vigor to the successive changes as evolved through time.

Who can seriously contemplate the results of our late city election and not be convinced as to how the mastery of the situation was obtained? He will see that to those who became successful a relative knowledge of the situation was necessary; or, in other words, a relative knowledge of the situation was necessary to be had in order that a successful campaign should result. All the forces of attraction and repulsion that could be set in motion had to be anticipated, and other forces set in motion that would be more potent for the successful accomplishment of the end desired by the trio; and for me to lay bare the weakness of human nature, and expose to the public the glaring evils of those base natures that political excitement kindles, would be but to write the truth, regardless of consequences.

We find that the selection of a candidate for councilman in the first ward, who not only possessed a relative knowledge of the duties of the office, but a social refinement that would inspire not only loyal devotion to the best interests of the people, but a high regard for that political integrity, and independence that penetrates into any questionable legislation that might, in the future, affect the social well being of our city, must be regarded as forebodeing mischief to the ever jealous saloon keeper; and hence the whole whiskey influence must be aroused to opposition, and every progress, so far as it is a result of political action, follow the line of least resistance, in said ward, by obeying the mandates of the king of the saloons, who puts forth influences among the poor and laboring classes that are more debauching to society than success to any candidate thus obtained is ennobling or honoring. One word can be said to the successful [illegible] despise not small things, but rather consider their relative merits; the local jealousies that are aroused in the human breast must be [illegible] ed down. It should not be your purpose to seek out a victim and expose [illegible] ridicule, by threats; but rather be wise and know the importance of understanding your relative situation with the reading public, and then act consistent with such knowledge, and let not your suspicions disturb the well being of those who may not have as many dollars as the ring, but who stand before society today in possession of as many manly virtues as the august trio, whose unlimited control of this city has led them to consider that whoever dare raise the pen against them, by the pen shall he be slain. I would say "Come on Macduff, and d——d be he who first cries, hold! enough!" PROGRESS.

P. S.—I propose to follow our newly elected Council and see that proper [illegible] its funds good or expose [illegible] such other matters do I propose to discuss, as are likely [illegible] effect on any [illegible]

The Presbytery of Elizabeth has elected Rev. [illegible] Peck as Moderator. Three churches reported revivals of great interest, resulting in the ingathering of from fifty to one hundred persons to each of the three churches. Others reported large accessions [illegible] an increase of benevolent contributions were generally reported. The amount collected for foreign missions by the Ladies' Society was $4,300, in addition to the usual church collections.

The Presbytery of Elizabeth on Wednesday received a report showing an increase of benevolent contributions through the Presbytery of some three thousand five hundred dollars over the contributions of the preceding year. Out of twenty-nine churches ten have adopted the plan of regarding missionary work of the church as one work, and gather monthly contributions to the work as a whole upon thorough system. Several other churches have adopted varying systems of beneficence, that are an improvement upon the old plan of annual plate collections. The following were elected commissioners to the General Assembly: Rev. Aaron Peck, of Perth Amboy, and Rev. E. C. Read, of Elizabeth, principals, and Rev. Dr. Kempshall, of Elizabeth, and Rev. John Ewing, of Clinton, alternates; Ruling Elders, [illegible] and Dawe, principals, and Ogden Woodruff and J. Woodruff alternates. An overture to the general assembly requesting that the column for ministers' salaries in the statistical blanks be omitted, was adopted. Summit was chosen as the place of next stated meeting in October.

The annual reports of the various railroad corporations of New Jersey, recently laid before the Legislature, present some statistics of general public interest. The Pennsylvania Central operates, under its lease, the following roads: The Belvidere, Delaware, the Flemington and Lambertville, the Camden and Burlington, the Cape May and Millville, the Freehold and Jamesburg, the Mercer and Somerset, the Millstone and New Brunswick, the Mount Holly, Lumberton and Medford, the Pemberton and Hightstown, the Perth Amboy and Woodbridge, the Rocky Hill, the Salem, the Swedesboro, the Vincentown, and West Jersey roads, besides the old Camden and Amboy and the New Jersey Roads, and the Delaware and Raritan Canal. The aggregate cost of those several works was $88,649,427, and upon their entire capital the Pennsylvania pays ten per cent. dividends to the stockholders. The company also operates horse railroads in New York and Jersey City, which were built by money furnished by the old joint companies. Most of the small local roads were constructed by the companies before the lease made to the Pennsylvania Central, and some of them would not now be in existence had it not been for the aid thus furnished.

A call has been issued for a national convention of the producers and consumers of the United States, to be held in the Astor House on the 6th of May next, the object of which will be to promote, by co-operation, the interests of producers and consumers and also to consider what can be done to reduce the cost of transportation by railroad and water. The Senate Committee on Transportation Routes have expressed their approval of the meeting, and promised to be present, if possible, in person or by delegate.

In Middlesex county the Board of Freeholders will stand 14 Democrats to 13 Republicans and 1 Liberal.

[illegible] Church on Sunday evening last.

Judge G. W. Savage embarked on board the Minnesota yesterday afternoon for Europe.

It appears that a little Sorosis has entered into the competition for the appointment of engineer and surveyor for the next year.

Mr. J. R. Shotwell has added a French roof to his large building near the Post Office, which greatly improves the appearance of that part of Main street.

S. of T. Every member of Rahway Division No. 56, is requested to be present at the meeting on Monday evening next, to receive the G. W. P. of the State of New Jersey. Hour of meeting 8 o'clock.

Mr. Wilde's horse, attached to a carriage, being left with no one as a guard and untied, on Wednesday morning, took a notion to go home, and the last seen it was proceeding in that direction at a moderate speed.

Jennie, daughter of Josephus Shann, formerly editor of this paper, was married on Thursday evening last, as will be seen by reference to the proper heading.

We understand the Temperance Alliance of this city, have resolved to publish in the city papers the names of all signers to applications for tavern and saloon licenses during this year.

Work is progressing on the new school house, and complaints are made that the masonry is not as neat and substantial as it should be.

A large stock of wall paper, window shades and fire board prints, for sale very low at George F. Brown's, 135 Main street.

Bishop Odenheimer visited this city yesterday and administered the rite of confirmation at the Church of the Holy Comforter [illegible]

Sermon next Sabbath morning, at the 1st Baptist Church, by the pastor, Rev. Edwin B. Wheeler, on the subject, "The discipline of suffering." Services at 10½ o'clock. Evening services hereafter at half past seven.

Orient Lodge No. 126, A. F. & A. M., of Elizabeth, will visit LaFayette Lodge, of this city, on Monday evening next, and will work the M. M. degree. A full attendance of the members of LaFayette Lodge is desired.

White is fitting up his ice cream saloon in fine style. He now has two separate rooms, one of which is intended especially for ladies and private parties. He will, no doubt have a good run this summer.

Over 100 houses and farms to trade for Rahway property. Have all those of the farms myself and can give full particulars. Can suit any one. Apply to Ferguson. tf

We notice by the Tom's River Courier that Henry Tappan, who recently removed from this city to Bayville, Ocean county, has been elected President of the Ocean County Oyster and Stock Raising Company.

A young man named Franklin died of small pox at Elizabeth on Saturday last, taking the disease from wearing a hired costume at a masquerade. This wearing of such costumes is a dangerous thing.

The pro rata business is sure to be coming to grief in Common Council, some of the members opposing it, which prevents the requisite two-third's vote. This is just as well, as it gives all the contractors a chance and prevents considerable ill feeling.

We will next week commence the publication of another of those serial productions, in chapters, furnished us every year "by authority," and entitled, "Laws of New Jersey." Some of the chapters will be more interesting to our readers than others, especially those which treat of matters pertaining to our own [illegible]

SOMETHING NEW.—E. B. Hayward announces in an advertisement this week something new for Rahway—regular auction sales of real estate, every Saturday afternoon. This project will, no doubt, be of advantage to those who wish to buy as well as those who have property to sell. Parties desiring lots, and parties wishing factory sites, etc., will do well to attend.

Officer McVicar is after the delinquent poll taxpayers with a "sharp stick." He reads the "document" to them and informs them that they must either "come down" or "go down" to "durance vile." There are many who have not paid for five years, and it now comes pretty hard on them, but they should be compelled to pay as well as the rest of us.

A young man, a stranger, fell in a fit when in front of the Railroad House, Irving street, on Saturday night. After reviving he stated that he was on his way from the west to his home in Brookline, Mass. He was in destitute circumstances and had suffered for want of food for some time, having only succeeded in getting enough money to buy a ticket from Philadelphia to New York. He seemed to be troubled, which no doubt brought on the fit.

Houses, lots and farms for sale, printed list sent for it. Can suit any one. Apply to Ferguson. tf

We visited Stacy's photographic gallery yesterday, and was shown an imperial size photograph of the late Henry C. Lawrence. This picture has been photographed from a smaller one taken in group, and shows a wonderful amount of ingenuity in the operator in separating the figures, so as to get so perfect and lifelike a picture of the deceased. The picture for one not taken from life is certainly a fine specimen of the photographic art. Mr. Stacy gives particular attention to copying and enlarging from old pictures.

CHORAL UNION REHEARSAL.—We remind our readers (those who receive the paper in time) of the public rehearsal of the Rahway Choral Union, at the 2d Presbyterian church this (Thursday) evening. Those who desire a good seat will have to go early, for, judging from the number of tickets sold, the church is likely to be well filled. The programme is varied, comprising sacred, sentimental, classical and amusing pieces. Doors open at 7:15, to commence at 8 o'clock. Admission $1.00. Proceeds as a testimonial to the widow of the late Henry Lawrence.

POLICE COURT.—Before Police Justice David J. Bunn.

April 15th—Smith Budd, breach of the peace, arrested by officer McDonald, complaint dismissed.

18th—William Palmer, malicious mischief, arrested by officer Marshall, fined $10 and costs, committed to the county jail in default.

18th—George Butler, breach of the peace, arrested by officer Geery, discharged with a reprimand.

19th—Louisa Scudder, drunkenness, arrested by special Wright, discharged upon a promise to leave the city.

22—James Lane, breach of the peace, arrested by officer Manning, fined $1 and costs.

A false alarm of fire last night resulted in very serious consequences to Mr. Isaac E. Marsh, one of the members of Franklin Engine Co. He was "on the rope," when, slipping, he fell and the wheels of the engine passed over one of his legs, breaking it just below the knee and also crushing it near the ankle. Mr. Marsh though beyond the age of those who generally do fire duty, was a very active member of the department, always on hand when duty called.

Notwithstanding the unpleasant weather on Thursday evening last, the reception of Rev. R. H. Lockwood, the new pastor of the 2d M. E. Church, was largely attended, and all had a very pleasant time. The evening was spent in conversation, singing, partaking of an excellent supper prepared by the ladies, etc. The pastor's health is improving and he expects to be able to fill the pulpit on Sunday next. Rev. Mr. Matthews, a young man from Rutgers College, preached excellent sermons on Sunday last morning and evening.

A large stock of wall paper, window shades and fire board prints, for sale very low at George F. Brown's, 135 Main street.

Major General Mott has formally assumed command of the National Guard of the State and has announced as a portion of the staff: Col. Daniel Izabor, Asst. Adjt. Gen.; Edward L. Welling, Surgeon; Major Michael T. Dwyer, A. D. C.; Major Edward T. Kennery, A. D. C.

There are now five hundred and fifty convicts in the State Prison, about 400 of whom are employed daily in the workshops. The new keeper, Mr. Charles Wilson, will not, it is understood, make any material change in the staff of Prison subordinates, his object being to secure to the State the best possible results attainable by the experience and fidelity of employees.

The corporators of the Elizabeth and New Brunswick railroad met at the house of [illegible] in New Brunswick on Saturday and arranged the preliminaries to a permanent organization. Another meeting will be held at an early day. It is estimated that the road can be built, including the bridges, for about [illegible] and [illegible] that it will be built.

The April term of the Essex County Court commenced last week. Judge Depue, in his charge to the Grand Jury, alluded to the prevalence of obscene publications, mainly in the city of Newark, which he denounced in no measured terms. The case which called forth the Judge's remark was that of a Newark paper, whose proprietors were arrested some time ago on the charge of [illegible], and whose case will come before the Grand Jury at the present term.

[illegible]

A new organization, styling itself the New York and Delaware Railway Company, filed articles of association under the general railroad law [illegible] Saturday last. The road is to be [illegible] from New Brunswick, in Middlesex, to [illegible] on the Hudson river, in the township of Weehawken. The following are the directors: Samuel S. Patterson, of Hillsdale, Bergen county, N. J.; Manning N. Knapp, of Hackensack, Bergen county, N. J.; Ashbel Green, of Palisades, Bergen county, N. J.; J. T. Bondinot Colt, of Paterson, Passaic county, N. J.; Cornelius S. Blauvelt, William S. Banta, and John J. Anderson, of Hackensack, Bergen county, N. J.; John M. Courtenay, William Bond, Henry M. Alexander, Charles [illegible] Street and Leonard T. Gutherie, all of the city, county and State of New York; J. Alden [illegible], of the [illegible] of Chicago, State of Illinois.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Prominent among the [illegible] engaged in the wholesale and retail grocery trade in New York, [illegible] justly held to be [illegible] is that of the Campbell Bros., 17 Vesey street, already known to many of our readers, having the [illegible] goods of their [illegible] who for years [illegible] dealt with them, as they have always found their goods as represented, and we think [illegible] to the advantage of those that have not [illegible] their supplies from [illegible] dealers to give them a call and see if they do not get more and better goods for their money than they have from [illegible]

A lady of our acquaintance visited New York last fall to purchase her winter supply; prominent was the shawl. Well, she shopped up and down and finally bought; on her return home she strayed into the dry goods store of Mr. Sulzberger, at 243 Greenwich street; of course she must look at his shawls, and a more disgusted lady with her purchase you will seldom meet, and she often asserts that she could have bought from him a better shawl for less money. Of course she now does not make her purchases until she has examined his goods. See his card. Ladies make no purchases until you have examined his large and varied stock.

The reputation of Mr. James H. Noe and Sons, among dealers, housewives, mechanics and artists, is so thoroughly established, after thirty years' successful effort, that anything we could say to our readers by way of commendation would be regarded by all that have used their brushes, as superfluous. To such customers a card apply [illegible], a good reliable article we would say furnish yourselves or employees with Noe brushes. One fair trial will convince the most skeptical of the superior quality of these goods. See their card.

The place to buy cheap for cash—Bird's, No. 133 Broad street, Elizabeth, N. J. Splendid assortment of new Spring Goods now opening. A word to the wise is sufficient. We are selling white goods, linens, hosiery, fancy goods and notions, cheaper than any house in the city. You will admit it if you try us. Our goods are first class in every respect. We sell them cheap for cash. All goods marked in plain figures. One price and no deviation. Pinking and marking for embroideries, braiding patterns, &c., at the sign of the big plaid [illegible]

The Purest and Sweetest Cod-Liver Oil is Hazard & Caswell's, made on the sea shore, from fresh, selected livers, by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York. It is absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians have decided it superior to any of the other oils in market. apl24-1w [illegible] There has been a general rush the last month at the Drug Stores of J. A. Walton and A. W. Watson, Rahway, for Dr. A. Boschee's German Syrup. [illegible] It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and for any person suffering with a severe cough, heavy cold settled on the breast, consumption, or any disease of the throat and lungs, it has no equal in the world. [illegible] 75 cents. Two doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sample bottles free of charge.

L. M. GREEN, Proprietor, Woodbury, N. J.

DENTISTRY.—J. W. Vansant, Surgeon Dentist, Office corner of Main and Cherry street, in the rooms formerly occupied by Dr. Hanks, where he will be happy to wait on all those who may desire his services in any of the various branches of Dentistry. Teeth extracted without pain by the use of Nitrous Oxide. All work warranted.

N. B.—After giving close attention to the study and practice of the profession for six years, I feel confident of giving entire satisfaction to all those who may favor me with their patronage.

DISSOLUTION.—The Co-Partnership heretofore existing under the name of J. E. TIER & CO., Bakers and Grocers, is this day dissolved by mutual consent—W. L. Tier withdrawing from the firm. All claims against the old firm will be paid by J. E. Tier, and all persons indebted to the same are requested to make immediate payment to him. J. E. TIER & CO.

A CARD.

Having associated with me JEREMIAH W. TIER, who is also a thorough practical baker, we will continue the business at the old stand under the name of J. E. TIER & BROTHER. Thankful for the patronage heretofore bestowed, we hope for a continuance of the same. J. E. TIER.

JOB WORK of every description [illegible]

A HAPPY HOME.—The first year of married life is a most important one in the history of man and wife. Generally as it is spent, so is almost all subsequent existence. The wife and the husband then assimilate their views and their desires, or else, conjuring up their dislikes, they add fuel to their prejudices and animosities forever afterward. [illegible] says Rev. Mr. Wise, in his Bridal Greeting, "of a bridegroom who glowed in his eccentricities. He requested his bride to accompany him into the garden, a day or two after the wedding. He then threw a line over the roof of their cottage. Giving his wife one end of it, he retreated to the other side, and exclaimed:

"Pull the line."

She pulled it, at his request, as far as she could. He cried:

"Pull it over."

"I can't," she replied.

"Put pull with all your might," shouted the whimsical husband.

But vain were all the efforts of the bride to pull over the line, so long as her husband held on to the opposite end. But when he came round, and they both pulled at one end, it came over with great ease.

"There," said he, as the line fell from the [illegible] [illegible]

A New York letter writer furnishes the St. Louis Republican with the following remarkable story: [illegible]

[illegible]

FOLLOWED THEIR LEADER.—Seldom has a simple story been told in more touching language than the account given by the Toronto Globe of a lamentable accident which lately befell a flock of sheep when passing over a bridge in Upper Canada. "There is," says the Globe, "a covered bridge at Perris five hundred feet above high water mark. A drover recently attempted to drive a thousand sheep across it. When about half way over, the bell-wether noticed an open window, and recognizing his destiny, made a strike for glory and the grave. When he reached the sunlight he at once appreciated his critical situation, and with a leg stretched towards each cardinal point of the compass he uttered a plaintive 'Maa' and descended to his fate. The next sheep and the next followed, imitating the [illegible] [illegible] rated sheep. The erewhile placid stream was incarnadine with the life-blood of innocent mutton, and not until the brief tail of the last sheep, as it disappeared through the window, waved adieu to the wicked world, did this procession cease."

A few evenings since, one of our country towns, Mrs. W., was putting her little ones to bed, she as usual called them to say their prayers. A little girl, five years old, having just been disposed of with the closing sentence of "and make me a good girl, for Christ's sake," when Johnnie, three years old, came and knelt beside his mother's knee. After repeating, "Here I lay me," &c., his ma essayed to close for him, but Johnnie was paying more attention than she; and when she said "and make me a good little girl, for Christ's sake, amen," he said, "I shan't! I don't want to be a good little girl for Christ's sake, mama."—Frankford (Ky.) Yeoman.

One of the fruit dealers of Portland caught an urchin stealing some, and proceeded to execute condign punishment. The boy begged to be released, because he had just been vaccinated from a fresh cow. "What the —— has that got to do with it?" shouted the infuriated fruit dealer. "She was a hooking cow, and it got into my blood," was the whimpering reply.

A Danbury paper says that an out-of-town couple applied at one of the Danbury drug stores for soda water. "What syrup?" propounded the clerk. "Syrup—syrup," repeated the bucolic fop, with an incredulous stare, and then leaning forward, impressively added, "stranger, money is no object to me to-day, you kin put sugar in them."

A Sacramento lawyer remarked to the court: "It is my candid opinion judge, you are an old fool." The judge allowed his mildly beaming eye to fall upon the lawyer a brief moment; then, in a voice husky with suppressed tobacco juice and emotion, said: "It is my candid opinion that you are fined $100."

The most disinterested man of the day is a Davenport, Iowa, shoe maker, who takes a hammer with him when he goes into the street, and drives down all the nails he finds protruding from the plank sidewalks.

A Buffalo girl, pretty and eighteen, has sold over five hundred sewing machines in the last two years. She travels with a horse and wagon, smiling when she leaves a machine and shedding tears if anybody afterwards refuses to keep it. That does the business.

Mr. Thomas Khat is rehearsing the music for his summer night's concerts, the jovial musquito sharpeneth his bill, the shrubbery agent and the lightning-rod man have arrived, all of which means that spring has come.

Mr. James Smith, an Australian journalist, has received a spiritual communication that the world is to be "burned as black as a forgotten toast by a wave of fire" within a year.

ELIXIR DE LONGUEVIE

OR FASSON LONG LIVED BITTERS, have been used in France for more than 100 years, and are now being introduced into this country. They are composed of Vegetable extracts, and are designed for the purification of the blood, thus preventing as well as curing nearly all diseases to which the human system is liable. As a blood purifier, and as a promoter of long life, they are believed to be unequaled. Price 50 cts. per bottle. We wish to introduce them into this section, and desire an energetic Agent, to whom liberal terms will be offered. A. W. DESPARD & CO., Sole Agents, No. 42 Cedar street, N. Y.

CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion. Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. In these complaints it has no equal, and one bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that a marked improvement is soon perceptible.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, and in Bilious Diseases.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhoea or Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance.

☞ Price in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post paid, on receipt of 6 cents, or two post stamps.

Also, Dr. Culverwell's "Marriage Guide," price 25 cts.

[illegible] HAMLET'S SOLILOQUY

[illegible]

(He didn't soliloquize, however, he signed it and [illegible])

To sign, or not to sign, that is the question:
Whether 'tis nobler in my mind to suffer
The slings of narrow and outrageous salaries,
Or to take pen against small salaries,
And thus by signing mend them?—To sign—to steal—
No more; and by a "grab," to say we mend
Back salaries, and lost shares of C. M. stock
My friends were heir to; 'tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wished. To sign—to steal—
[illegible]
For in that theft of cash, what folks may think
When we have shuffled up our salaries,
May give us fits. There's the respect
That made a lifetime term of my first term;
For who would bear the whips and scorns of time,
The press' throng, and good men's contumely,
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
When thus himself would the question give
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
And lose the name of action.—Soft you now!
[illegible]
[illegible]
And so approve the stealing
[Approved, accordingly, March 4th, '73, at [illegible]]

A TOUCHING INSTANCE OF GRATITUDE.

[illegible]

The New York Herald is authority for a statement that a project is on foot for a grand international regatta on Flushing Bay and Shrewsbury River during the approaching season, which, if carried out on the magnificent scale contemplated by its originators, will mark a new era in the history of boating in this country. The design has the merit of ambition. The Oxford and Cambridge University crews of England, the famous London Rowing Club and any amateur crews in any country which may desire to race or are to be invited and to be allowed to contend in races open to all nations for single sculls, pairs, fours, [illegible] and eight-oars, as the case may be. As a novel feature of the great regatta Venice is to [illegible] with gondoliers, so that we may behold on the placid waters of Flushing Bay a contest such as has never before been witnessed on this side of the Atlantic. [illegible] will be capped by the sight of canoe races, and, it is hoped, of a race between boats and boatmen of Japan. A sufficient sum of money is to be raised by subscription to afford a number of prizes well worth contending for, and it is proposed that with the European [illegible] will be paid in money, so that the successful crew can either use it to pay their expenses or invest it in such a trophy as may suit their taste, according as economy or the love of honor may prompt.

[illegible] good story about a "Shelf bark lawyer" [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] Thermometers were put into the Louisville High Schools a short time ago, for the first time, and Taylor, the janitor, exerted himself to the utmost to keep up the warmth to the desired standard, but all his efforts failed and the rooms were cool. [illegible] [illegible]

The Ladies Repository says: "Ten years ago no man would suffer a man to retain her hand in his much less to encircle her with his arm in the ordinary relations of social life, and yet, at the bidding of fashion, and because the [illegible] [illegible] will not only permit these liberalities, but will remain willingly strained to his breast for a quarter of an hour at a time, publicly exhibiting herself in a position which of herself she [illegible]"

The city of San Salvador, capital of the Central American Republic of that name has been destroyed by an earthquake, causing a terrible loss of life. Eight hundred persons perished, and property valued at [illegible] was destroyed. The earthquake was followed by a conflagration, and many buildings were burned.

As an illustration of how out-of-way is some [illegible] Long Branch real estate, it is said that there are old men now living there who used to plant potatoes where the waves now [illegible] [illegible] high.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MATTERS.

ANSWERS.—The following are the answers to the questions of the 17th ult.:
1. [illegible] 1 Samuel 29, 20.
2. [illegible] Luke xx, 24.
[illegible] answers were sent by [illegible] of [illegible] and Charles Terrill, [illegible] Sunday School, of Rahway, N. J.

QUESTIONS.—In what part of the Bible may the following be found:
1. "Satan."
2. "Beautiful woman."
Answers to the above must reach us by Saturday morning of next week.
Those sending questions must give the answers at the same time.

THE AIM OF THE TEACHER.—The Sunday School Times says: "There is no truth of which Christian workers in the Sabbath School need to be more frequently reminded than that expressed by our dear Lord Himself: 'Without me ye can do nothing.' It matters not how perfect the machinery, how gifted the teachers, how thorough their preparation, how punctual and faithful their attendance, [illegible] they may teach, how luminous the Scripture narratives and truths become under their exposition, how pointed and practical their applications—it still remains true that without the Spirit's blessing all is vain. Just in the measure of the teacher's dependence upon the Holy Ghost for results will his teaching be successful. The teacher's dream should be very close to this form."

A GOOD EXAMPLE.—The following item [illegible] An excellent lady of New York [illegible] from her work as a Sabbath school teacher. She [illegible] constantly engaged in it for fifty years; has had five hundred children under her instruction; how many of these have been hopefully converted, she knows not, but she has the names of one hundred and three who have made professions of conversion while in her class.
