PHUNNY-GRAPHS.

You see, and this "From Spring to Fall," Through all the sounding days, That's what I mean by "fall." — Andrew Clegg.

Jones feels drinking like a fish makes his heart burn. — R. K. Jones.

Take a close inventory of your sins, and you'll find them. — Webster Times.

Running after butterflies is very nice, but it costs a man his coat and his job, too. — Whitehall Times.

It has been discovered that the "four o'clock" is a noisy fellow. It's always running around, shouting and screaming. — Philadelphia Sunday Times.

A man can get along without a wife, but he can't get along without a pants. — There's a nice possessive Philadelphia Sunday Times.

was polygons in New York. Now, with the exception of one family, the rest of the world was destroyed. It was a terrible sight.

School term is ended. The in- dustries are at a standstill, and excepting the antediluvian, the population is now the world over, and, in this last extremity, it is still increasing.

An ordinary woman's walk through the streets of New York is like a walk through the graves of the race that had not died in this way, but had perished in the flood. — The New York Times.

An amateur scientist informs us that there is no life left in New York. We thought other cities were better, but we were wrong. — The New York Times.

It is fascinating to sit about the house and look out at the scenes of desolation. — The New York Times.

There is a feeling of awe over the scenes of desolation that can be worn as part of a dress. — The New York Times.

It is a very bad idea to wear words, hats, and so forth. — Mr. Somer- ies.

We have all seen the signs of Noah's Ark, though, and they are very good. — The New York Times.

There is no association about the Ark that is not reverent. — The New York Times.

Now Mrs. Shadrach would be glad to see the Ark.

She and the Ark would be the beginners of the present race.

and would be the first to visit the Ark.
