During my interview with Mr. How- ard, I was much impressed with his bearing on my telling him the position of affairs, as he was much more con- cerned at his aunt's death than at the purpose of her will. He told me that five years ago he had married against his aunt's wishes; she had refused to recognize his wife; and though he had written her several letters, he had never heard from her in reply. He thanked me for my information, and said ho would like to see me again, as he was coming into totyn to a situation he had just been offered. Some weeks after this, as I was re- turning home in the evening from a consultation, my attention was arrested by the figure of a woman in front of me. She was hurrying along as if trying to escape observation; but there was some- thing in her style and the limp which	the will was Mrs. Simpson, Miss How- ard's housekeeper, the mother of Simp- son in whose favor the will was made; and the other man was a lawyer's clerk who had suggested to the feasibility of such a scheme. The fact of Miss Howard's self-confinement and my own imprudence had made the plot a suc- cess, but for my accidental recognition of the housekeeper. Each of the prisoners offered to turn Queen's evi- dence; but as we had no difficulty in proving the case, this was refused, and they were sentenced to various periods of penal servitude. I had then the pleasure of handing over the estate to the rightful heir, young Edward Howard, who, notwithstanding that I had nearly been the means of depriving him of his inheritance, made me his agent. The estate turned out to be muc'n larger than I had at first thought, as I succeeded in proving that a large number of investments in Simpson's	incteen and a half is as much as that og is worth t he is your property." A tremendous shout from his fellow- tudents clearly showed the would-be rag that he was completely sold, and hat he need not look for sympathy rom that quarter, so he good-naturedly eknowledged himself beaton. FORGETTING IN THOSE OLD DAYS. "Traveling along in the rural districts of 'old Kaintuck." said the preacher, "I stopped over night at the house of a good widow. She being informed that I was a preacher, invited or called on me for family prayer, Selecting an easy lesson in the scrip ture and read- ing it in my clearest accent, I offered a short prayer. There is always a solemu interval between a 'family' prayer and the resumption of conversation, Dur- ing this interesting interval my good sister thought she ought to say some- thing bordering on religion, therefore began as follows

MCCLELLAN'S PRESENCE OF MIND.

In 1852 McClellan accompanied Captain Marcy in the exploration of the sources of the Red River, which separates Texas from the Indian Territory.

When stationed in this territory a few years after, I was asked by an old hunter what had become of Cuptain McClellap. On my informing him that I had not met the captain since the Mexican war, he said: "Well, he is a mighty plucky little man," and gave me an account of a hunt by the two captains. They left camp together, and separating a short distance, Captain Marcy tried his fawn-bleat in hopes of calling up a doc. Hearing a rustlo through the prairie grass he thought he had called in another hunter, in the shape of a panther, or, as the man ngly customer," which came bounding toward him. Marcy fired, and, the beast rolled over, uttered a shout of trimuph, which soon called McClellan to his side, when suddonly the "painter, which had only been stunned, made the fact known by a sudden attack, before Marcy had reloaded.

McClellan fired, missed and as promptly as in the case of the Mexican took in the situation, clubbed his rifle, met the animal half way, and broke both the animal's head and the rifle, but bagged this game. I heard the incident spoken of repeatedly in that country as one to roll and a little salt, and handle as showing great activity, courage and little as possible. AN ANTISEPTIC CLIMATE.

A REFRESHING beverage for an invalid is made by slicing a tart apple after observations is that the climate of Damaraland possesses what we might call an autiseptic character for several months of every year. The quality is an attendant of the long annual drought, kept down with a wire screen. These every living thing suffers during that corks have a perfectly smooth surface period from the excessive heat, and much confort is impossible, even in the shade, while in places exposed to the which winds, the thermometer has risen to 1299; and the sand, unmoistened for six months, becomes so hot that I have scen eggs harden in it. This arid heat is opposed to the propagation of ferment, for it dries up everything that is exposed to the wind before it has time o sour. No manifestations of tuberculosis are known. Wounds of every kind heal remarkably quickley and without enough suppuration taken place to make the bandages stick. Tho manner in which large neglected wounds heal of themselves would form an interesting study for a professional surgeon., I observed a case of a Herero whose right lower arm had been shattered in battle by a musket-ball. The healing process had worked itself out in such a way that the whole lower arm saucepan with enough milk to moisten with all its muscels had become withered and useless, while the upper-arm boud Add a little butter, and when quite hot was whole and covered at its lower end pour it on buttered togst, garnishing only with the brown skin. All the with line muscles and ligaments of the olbowjoint had vanished, while the shoulder muscles remained, so that the unpleasaut spectacle was presented of the man ppearing to gesticulate with his bones. A woman lived at our station whose feet had been barbarously cut off in some war several years before, so that her autors might more easily get off the ron ornaments which the Herero vomen wear on their ankles. Although the woman had to lie helpless for a long time, her wounds eventually healed up, and now she has been hopping around on her knees for thirty years. -----SHE DIDN'T. One of these I have occasion to remember too well, and I can never think of it but I thank Providence for saving me from becoming an accomplic - unwit ingly in a most daring piece of imposture. I was intorrupted one night at tea by the servant entering and saying that lady wished to see me. Hastily finishing the men, I hurried to my business room. As I entered and bowed, a lady rose, made a slight courtesy, and remained standing. I begged her to be seated, and asked of what service I could be to her. It was alittle time before she answered, and then it was in a nervous, frightened way, glancing around the room as if sho were afraid somebody clso was present. I saw that, although she was dressed in good style, she had not the air of a lady; but as she wore a thick veil, I could not distinguish her features, though I made out a gray hair liere and there. "I suppose I had better explain wh I am and what I want," she began. am Miss Howard of Graham Square, and I want you to make out my will. I started involuntary, for this elderly person, though I had never seen her b fore, had been the subject of many a surmise and many a gossip with the neighbors. She was reported to be very wealthy; but had apparently abandoned the world, for, during the last five years, she had shut herself up in her house, seeing up one but her servants. My ouriosity was therefore piqued at the iden of making out this old eccentric's will. Taking up a pen, I asked her to give me the particulars of how she wished the property disposed of. "That is very simple," she said. wish my whole property to go to Mr. David Simpson of Stafford Street liere. THE DRAMA A CENTURY AGO.

In 1776 the drama was very strong. The most brilliant play writer was Sheridan. He wroto "The Rivals" in 1778 when only 25 years old. All his plays have been written before our date, ut he lived until 1816. Riphard Cumperland was famous in his day, not only dramatist, but as essayist, poet, lovelist. He was honored with a funeral Westminister Abbey. I saw the side of his coffin exposed when the grave was opened for Dickens. Cumorland died in 1811. George Colman. After that he appeared once each day, Mrs. Cowley, che un anor of "The Belle's Stratagem," and Macklin, the author of A recent writer in Nature gives an "The Man of the World," all hold their instance of remarkable adaptation in eleground on the modern stage. Delicious Food, Healthfulness and Economy. CLEVELAND'S

SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

Albany, N. Y., is the Manufactured by Cleveland Brothers, PUREST, STRONGEST, MOST HEALTHFUL, and will always be found THE MOST RELIABLE AND MOST ECONOMICAL preparation ever produced for making most delicious, light, white, sweet and healthful biscuits, cakes, pastry, puddings, &c., and has met with unprecedented success wherever introduced during the past fifteen years.

The public have a right to know what they are using as food. Anything that so vitally, affects the health of the family as the daily bread we eat should be free from any suspicion of taint, and housekeepers should demand that manufacturers plainly state all the ingredients of compounds that are used in the preparation of our daily diet. Do not use baking powders whose manufacturers wholly or partly withhold from the public a knowledge of the ingredients from which they are made. CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER is made only of purest Grape Cream of Tartar, Bicarbonate of Soda, and a little wheat flour, the latter to preserve the strength of the powder. Nothing else whatever is used in its manufacture.

NEW YORK, July 11, 1884. In analyzing samples of baking powder purchased by myself of a number of grocers in New York City, I find that CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER contains only pure Grape Cream of Tartar, Bicarbonate of Soda, and a small portion of flour.
