RAHWAY N. J. SEPT. 16th, 1887.

A retired gentleman was in this week investigating as to prices, and whether we had sewers, water, etc., with the object of erecting a house. We hope he did not fall into the hands of any of the "croakers" but he got out of town; as he seemed pleased with Rahway when conveyed there.

"It's all nonsense about New Yorkers not knowing their next-door neighbors," said Dimley. "I know my next-door neighbor, and a very nice man he is."
"What is he, Dimley?" asked Teachery, "proprietor of a beer saloon?"
—[Tribune.]

It has been asked why a city is called a "city." The answer seems an easy one. There is always more or less business about a city. Besides a city has skits, and a "he" could not under any circumstances have skits of any kind—[Pittsburg Bulletin.]

"Can you tell me what is the funniest part of a 'dog'?" Farmer
—[Pittsburg Bulletin.]

"No. The funniest part of a dog is his hunger." "How do you make that out?"
"He's the star of his pants, don't you see?"—[Texas Siftings.]

"NOT A DROP MORE, DANIEL."

BY RETHEL EPHSON.

He had gone somewhat more than a year, when the Quaker was in the store of Hoskins and wanted to hire a passage for the coming season.

"I have you I will have you free if you will put up the fences on the place."
"Where is it?" asked the Quaker.

"It's on the Akim farm," was the reply.

"If that will let it at that rate, they must have let it get sadly out of repair."

"It is indeed. I cannot leave the matter to look after it. The house is poor, and the family that lived in it last year were too shiftless to buy wood, so they burnt up all the fences; in fact I would rather sell it than rent it."

"What will you take for it?" inquired the Quaker.

"It cost me sixteen hundred dollars."
"Yes, but these paid in goods, and charged their own price for them."

"Be sure," said the Quaker, "I can get trusted anywhere else, and I felt that I was running a great risk in letting him have goods; so I charged accordingly; just as anybody else would have done under the circumstances."

"But these had not told me what they would take for the place. I will give them eight hundred dollars for it, if that is any object to them."

Hoskins thought long enough over the matter to conclude that the interest of eight hundred dollars was far better for him than a farm for the use of which he realized scarcely anything, and at last said, "You can have it."

"Very well, Hoskins," they can make out the deeds to-morrow and they shall have their money. By the way, does this place have any water in it?"

"No, he has not been in the village for more than a year; at any rate I have not seen him."

"We may here tell the reader something that Hoskins did not know. The Quaker had that day received a letter from Daniel Akin, stating that he was coming to work and sticking to his motto, "Not a drop more, Daniel."

"Not a drop more, Daniel," said the Quaker, "I have a good watch, but I am not a watchmaker, and I am not a watchmaker, and I am not a watchmaker."

"Not a drop more, Daniel," said the Quaker, "I have a good watch, but I
am not a watchmaker, and I am not a
watchmaker, and I am not a watchmaker."

"Not a drop more, Daniel," said the Quaker, "I have a good watch, but I
am not a watchmaker, and I am not a
watchmaker, and I am not a watchmaker."

"Not a drop more, Daniel," said the Quaker, "I have a good watch, but I
am not a watchmaker, and I am not a
watchmaker, and I am not a watchmaker."

"Not a drop more, Daniel," said the Quaker, "I have a good watch, but I
am not a watchmaker, and I am not a
watchmaker, and I am not a watchmaker."

"Not a drop more, Daniel," said the Quaker, "I have a good watch, but I
am not a watchmaker, and I am not a
watchmaker, and I am not a watchmaker."

"Not a drop more, Daniel," said the Quaker, "I have a good watch, but I
am not a watchmaker, and I am not a
watchmaker, and I am not a watchmaker."

"Not a drop more, Daniel," said the Quaker, "I have a good watch, but I
am not a watchmaker, and I am not a
watchmaker, and I am not a watchmaker."

"Not a drop more, Daniel," said the Quaker, "I have a good watch, but I
am not a watchmaker, and I am not a watchmaker, and I am not a watchmaker."
