One would suppose from the really small quantity of good Clothing that is made and sold, compared to the enormous quantity of trash, that there was a patent on the article. It's really a problem why dealers care to sell so much poor C loth ing. Of course there's more profit on trash than on a good article, AT THE TIME, that is ; but the renewed and con tinued patronage of the come again customers more than make up to the merchant the seeming loss in the single transaction.
