JESUS VISITS NAZARETH LESSON IX. FIRST QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, MARCH 2. Text of the Lesson, Luke iv, 16-32-Commit Verses 18-21-Colden Text, John L

11-Commentary by the Rev. D. H. [Compiled from Lesson Helper Quarterly by per-mission of H. S. Hoffman, publisher, Philadel-16. "And He came to Nazareth, where He had been brought up." After the temptation was baptizing, and John pointed Him out as the Lamb of God. Andrew and Simon Philip and Nathaniel are the first to follow Him. Having returned into Galilee, He and His mother and His disciples attend a marriage at Cana, where He works His first miracle. He visits Capernaum and soon after journeys to Jerusalem to keep the Passover There He cleanses the temple, receives Nicodemus by night and tell him of the necessity of the new birth. On His way home He store at Samaria and talks with the woman at the well. He returns to Cana where He had made the water into wine, and there He healed the nobleman's son who was sick at Capernaum All these events intervene between the las lesson and this one, and are consecutively recorded in John i, 19; W, 54. Then He came to Nazareth, his native town, and as His custom was. He went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day. Nathaniel's question, "Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth! eth had a very poor reputation, and eyes; her color was coming and going | yet in this aneuviable place the Sor and her chest heaving, her mouth slight of God lived thirty years. The power of a holy life must be within us, not around us, 17. "There was delivered unto Him the tion to the new comer, who was greeting | book of the prophet Isaigh." He did not open t carelessly, but no doubt with the greatest reverence. Whether He read the regular portion for the day or not we are not told but He unfolded the roll till He found, what we call Isa, Ixi, 1, and then He read, and He bid you good night, Miss Ashgrove," and | surely read according to Neh. viii, 8: "Distinctly, and gave the sense, and caused them

As in Gen. i. 1, 28, so here we have in few words the doctrine of the Trinity. The Son is reading, and He says that the Spirit of the Pather is upon film, for presently He will tell us that these words concern Himself. This is the fourth reference to the Spirit in this chapter. Jesus is said to be full of the Holy Spirit, to be led by thei Spirit, to have returned in the power of the Spirit into Galilee, and now He reads from isaiah words concerning Himself, that the Spirit of the Lord is upon Aim. Without being filled, led. controlled by this same Spirit, we are simply "nobodies" in God's sight, and can do nothing pleasing unto Him. "He hath anointed me to preach the gospe! to the poor." In Isa. ixi, I, we read "Good tidings unto the meek." Indicating that "the poor" does not necessarily refer exclusively to the poor in this world's goods, though as a rule they are more likely to receive the glad adings than the rich (Luke rviii, 24), but to the theek or poor in spirit dsa. Ivii, 15; lxvi. 8; Matt. v. 8). 'He hath sent me to heal the broken heart ed." Steir says that "a broken heart is the foundation of all true theology," and the following texts indicate that such hearts are apt to be very near and dear to God (Ps. xxxiv. 3: II, 17; exivii, 8). To preach deliverante to the captives, "Ah, that is valuable, especially in the ( such as the Gadarene demoniac, and the woman bound by Satan eighteen years (Luke viii. 27; ziii, 10), and the multitudes op-"Recovering of sight to the blind." > being in much the worse case (Matt. ix, 27; "To set at liberty them that are bruised." This may refer more to the bodily afflictions inflicted by Satan, as Like ix, 39, and the other cases, such as those mentioned under "Captives." while the captives may refer nore to the minds and wills controlled by Batan, and may also have a much deeper

19. "To preach the acceptable year of the Lord." Can there be anything not included in this wonderful commission to this most wonderful man whose name is "Wonderful?" (Isa. ix, 6; Judg. xiii, 18, marg). Is it not all included in one of His far reaching sayings, 'Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest? Thank God the acceptable year has not yet passed, but even today it is true that "Now is the accepted time, now is the day of salvation." The hour in which the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear shall live, still continues, and whosoever will may take freely (Matt. xi, 28; 2 Cor., vi. 2: John v. 25). 21. "This day is this Scripture fulfilled in your eara." While all eyes were fastened on Him, He began His discourse with this startling statement, which was equal to saying: These words which I have just read to you from the prophecy of Isaiah were written not about himself, but about me, who now sit here before you, and whom you have known so long as simply the Son of Mary, the carpenter of your town (Mark vi. 3); I am the Messiah whom Isaiah foretold." 22. "And all bare him dered at the gracious words which proceeder out of his mouth. And they said: Is not this Joseph's son!" His full discourse is not given but as one has said. His words must have been "rich in matter and sweet in manner." 23, 24. "Verily I say unto, you, No prophet is accepted in his own country." We have a similar saying to this effect, "Too much fa miliarity breeds contemptin When we read that at one time "Neither did His brethren believe in Him" (John vii. 5), and at another that His friends said. "He is beside Himself" (Mark iii. 21), we do not wonder so much that His townsmen did not receive Him, for if the hearts of those nearest to Him failed to receive Him, why be astonished at the rest! 25. 27. "A woman that was a widow. Naaman, the Syrian." In reply to their desire for as mighty works at Nazareth as He had done elsewhere. He reminds them that in Elijah's day not every famished household saw a miraculous supply of food; nor in Elisha's day did every leper receive healing but the favored ones were the widow of Sa repta, and Naaman, the Syrian. God has mercy on whom He will have mercy, and whom He will He hardeneth. He causeth it to rain upon one city, and causeth it not to rain upon another city (Rom. ix; 18; Amos iv, 7). At the same time he will be found of those who seek Him, and sone who come to Him will be cast out. 28, 29. "Filled with wrath, * * thrust

Him out of the city, that they might cast Him down headlong." Alas! poor Nazareth! she knew not the time of her. 30, 31. "But He passing through the midst of them went His way." His time to die was not yet, therefore they could not harm Him. No retaliation, no vengeance, but meekly and quietly He passes from them and goes His way to teach others who will listen to Him. The field is the world, and as His commission was to make it known to all Israel then in the land that the kingdom was at hand, so ours is to preach the gospel in all the world and to every creature.
