PHUNNY GRAPHS.

A Tender-Hearted Man.
I used to see a man
With a heart,
And press the door with trembling hand,
As modest girls and jars
Would almost fall out of her finger taper.
It was not bad for a right,
Will not do for a left,
Because I do not think it's right;
And that's the reason why
I always keep my eyes open my paper.
—N. Y. Journal.

A Dair Disaster.
Dowdy Podunk's name was Margy,
She hung up A,
Then flounced away
While trying to sing on piano.

A Scare Mark.
A man's name was he;
He reached for a sedative
And found it hard to come to the —Washington Post.

Faith, hope and charity—the loan of an umbrella.—[Washington Post.]

The man that knows it all rarely makes an opportunity to tell it.—[Indianapolis Journal.]

If an active young man is very bright he cannot stay dark.—[New Orleans Picayune.]

When is a man not an actor?
You give up Nine times out of ten.—[Marshall P. Wilder.]

It is one of the unsolved mysteries how two persons can exchange rubbers and both invariably get the worse pair.—[Puck.]

"Why do you beat?"
My husband's a scamp."
He told me to seek change."—[Epoch.]

Whichever you hear a man say that all men do alike it is an apology for some contemptible scoundrel.—[Artchinson Globe.]

"I would like to be that fence."
You would? Yes, that man is boarding in, I said. More questions asked.—[Well Citizen.]

"He was awfully flattering. He said my neck was the color of his favorite rose," said Alida.

"He told me he liked yellow roses best," returned the gaily Estelle.—[N. Y. Sun.]

Wool think the talk about the McKinley bill raising prices is all bosh! Van Pelt—"Why so?"

Wool—I can't raise the price of a drink any easier than I could before.—[Brooklyn Life.]

Mrs. Bond—Did you tell Mrs. Jaw-smith that I was but, Norah?

Norah—I did not.

Mrs. Bond—Did she say anything?

Norah—She said "thank goodness,"

num.—[N. Y. Sun.]

Jack Johnson—What species of bird do you like best?

Kora Bellows—When I was a child I liked the canary best, but (blushing) since I grew up I rather prefer the sparrow.—[N. Y. Herald.]

Wife (in her usual strain)—Archibald, have you taken a drink to day?

Archibald—No, my dear—on honor.

Wife—Well, go and take two. I have a million dollars for your consideration.—[Munsey's Weekly.]

"I caught a kiss from Ethelarkins at the theater last night."

"How did that happen?"

"She threw it at her fiance. Well, you know how a woman throws. I stood right behind her!"—[N. Y. Sun.]

Mabel—Haven't I told you a hundred times not to kiss me?

Jacques—Yes, I suppose you have.

Mabel—Well, if you know how hard it was for me to say it you wouldn't make me do it.—[Boston Courier.]

Young Mr. Bedrock—Want to marry your daughter?

Old Maiz Surplus—What for?

Bedrock—Well, I don't know exactly but I hope it's not less than a hundred thousand.—[Boston Courier.]

Ethel—Is your intended husband still?

Maud—Who do you refer to?

Ethel—Why, Jack Brown, of course.

Maud—Oh, Jack! He is not my intended. He is only my engaged.

Stanley's Weekly—

"Are you out with Mr. Dreamy, the poet, Ethel?"

"Yes, I am, the nasty thing. He wrote some lines about a girl at the seashore and dedicated them to me. He had the audacity to call me a sand which. Made me feel ridiculous."—[N. Y. Sun.]

Mr. Hicks—What a pretty blonde Miss Ming Chester is! But she's an all! All the King's horses, and all the Cheats were all dark too. Where will she get her light hair front?

Miss Weeks—From Paris—Life's Calendar.

She—The roads are rather hilly this morning.

He—How I do envy them!

She—Do it! Well, there's a minister on the road. I will, and if you are you can have the privilege of being known as "hilly boy."—Yonker's Gazette.

De Style—I say, old man, your marriage: can't you suggest some acceptable and appropriate present for me to make? I want to be married next week?

Benedict—Certainly, my boy. What do you think of a copy of Milton's Paradise Lost?"—[N. Y. Sun.]

Taylor's Boy—Does Mr. Hightyle board here?

Woman—Yes, little boy.

Taylor's Boy—Well, here's a new pair of pants for him.

Woman—You can't leave these here,

little boy. There's a very sick woman in the house and we've got to be absolutely quiet.—[Munsey's Weekly.]

Lacock Justice—Why did you shoot the plaintiff's dog?

"Because he tried to bite me."

Travert—It is that so? I thought you said she promised to treat you as one of the family.

Dicks—That was the trouble. She did.—[Inter-Ocean.]

WATER SUPPLY FOR A VILLAGE.
A Windmill and Tank Tower, Over an Artesian Well, the Best Water Supply
In the Sanitary Arrangement of homes
there is no feature more important than the water supply. In many communities the water obtained from open or shallow wells near large towns or cities is ammoniacal, nitrate and chloride, the ammonia being obtained by putrefaction and the nitrates by the oxidation of the water.

But procuring a good water supply is only a question of depth. With the aid of modern improved machinery water can be obtained in any country by sinking arti-

esian wells.

Wells were used in China at an early period, notably as a source of water for the burning of combustible gas. Wells were also numerous in Greece, and previous to the time of Alexander the Great.

Water was obtained in Persia, India,

and other countries by means of arti-

esian wells.

Water towers, tanks, and wells are now extensively used throughout the world.

Water towers are now extensively used.

Water tanks are now extensively used.</
