Recent public discussion has centered on student learning problems and the question has been asked.

'What is the board doing about the situation?" Follow-

Last spring the education committee made an in-

Student Drug Culture Subverts Society

The national school public relations association coorts that there is mark evidence of a drug subculture that has taken root in America and found fertile breeding grounds in the schools.

President Nixon's "deliberately cautious" estimate is that 10% of the nation's 18,000,000 high school students are experimenting with marijuana. Most doctors, educators and drug authorities believe the figure is closer to 25 or 35%. The public relations association report says:"This means that up to 0,000,000 students are taking drugs illegally." It added that some 50,000 school children are addicted hopelessly on heroin. The survey found high rates of drug abuse in big cities. It reported that 40% of San Francisco's junior and senior high school students were experimenting with drugs. The figure was 22% for Houston. Some teachers may use drugs themselves. It has been suggested that high school students and teachers undergo tests to spot drug users. Drug abuse reflects the failure of adults to enforce discipline in their homes, their schools and their cities.
