Spending tomorrow's money today

With the adoption of the city's budget last month comes good news and a little bad news.

The eight Democrats on the nine-member City Council approved the mayor's $26.5 million budget. While the outlays will total more than $300,000 more than last year's budget, the funds raised through taxes will be down 3 percent.

The average homeowner in the city will pay $29 less in the coming fiscal year, which is good. What concerns us about the budget is its reliance on all of the city's $1.3 million in surplus, leaving Rahway with no money for emergencies.

It would be easy to criticize the mayor and council for spending this money instead of budgeting by cutting spending. Instead, we'll illustrate our point by highlighting the hypocrisy at work here.

Last year, the Republicans on the council said they wanted to spend some of the surplus to keep taxes down. In response, the Democrats said the sky would fall. Now, the same Democrats intend to spend all of the city's surplus dollars to keep taxes down.

A fallen sky certainly would constitute an emergency. It's a shame there will be no money to pay city employees over time to help clean it up.

Let 'em roll tape

The governing bodies of several towns in Union County have been debating whether to have their meetings videotaped for broadcast on local television channels. Unfortunately, your City Council can't even get to that stage because its members are afraid of having their more insipid and irritating actions recorded.

The issue resurfaced when Mary Ann Janusz, wife of Councilman Frank Janusz, and city resident Kerri Blanchard pleaded not guilty to charges of disrupting a public meeting last month.

The two were arrested after attempting to videotape the council's meeting on Nov. 10.

It's important to remember they were charged with "disrupting" the meeting because it wasn't their attempt to record the event, but their refusal to stop that could be called a "disruption."

That's an important distinction that prompts two questions: Could someone show us the law that prohibits videotaping City Council meetings? Could someone explain why the councilmen object to having open, public meetings recorded?

No court date has been set, but when that day arrives we hope the judge dismisses this matter. No crime has been committed here.

In the future, perhaps private citizens and public officials can arrange the time, place and manner of restrictions needed to allow such taping in an orderly fashion that will not distract anyone.

Cheers and charity

In keeping with the spirit of the season and with people's natural charitable inclinations, the staff of Roosevelt School has set-up these "giving trees" for the collection of donated toys. In the past, that would have seemed a normal activity; today, the principal and his staff are braving potential harassment.

We are proud of them and their students.

"It's giving the kids a sense of giving and caring, instead of just receiving, and it's a message to those in the school who are needy that we care about them," said Principal Art Lundgren.

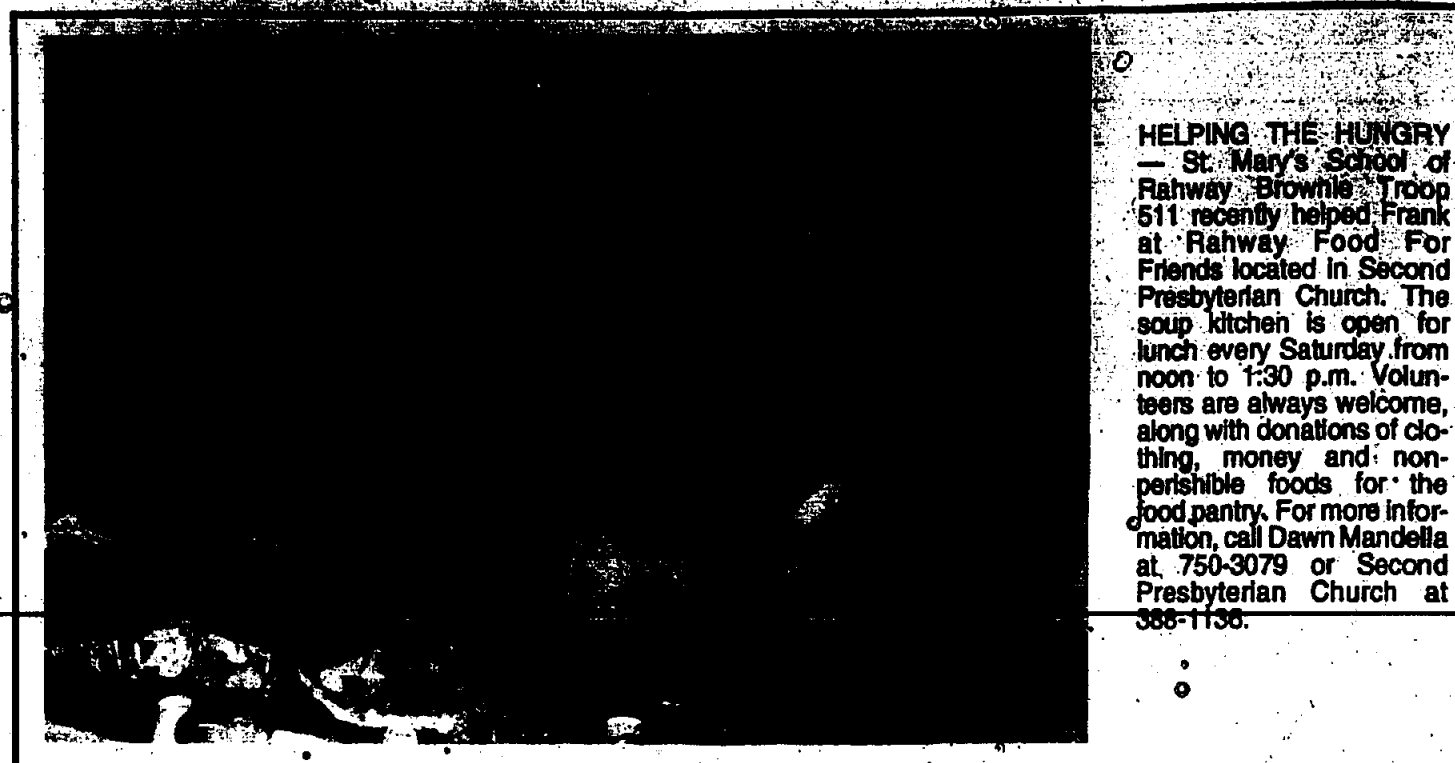

Not only are we pleasantly surprised to see a public school sponsor such an activity — running the "risk" of mixing religion with tax dollars — but the inherent lesson is to be applauded as well.

Giving is as natural a human instinct as self-preservation. Teaching that in this sort of demonstration could be criticized by politically correct cynics as an attempt to force values on children, so we applaud even louder.

We know Lundgren and his staff have a thin line to walk when trying to teach such a lesson during the Christmas and Hanukkah season, so we understand the disguise given to a traditional holiday decoration. What is important is the meaning of what they are doing. To aid and assist needy fellow citizens who seek such help is a civic virtue and a part of American culture.

Government tries very hard, but unsuccessfully, to subvert that by claiming to need to raise taxes to help the poor. That always will be wrong; compulsory charity is an oxymoron.

But that's a lesson for the students when they get older.

Do something kind for someone each day

Reporter's Notebook

By Liane Stone Ingels
Staff Writer

As I sat in my living room listening to my Nat King Cole Christmas CD, so many thoughts are going through my head. Thanksgiving has already been here and it seems as if the year just began a few months ago. Last weekend, my family celebrated my son Brandon's third birthday. Yet, I still remember what it felt like to hold him for the first time. My little baby almost nine months old. But I still remember the pain of that labor like it was a minute ago.

I must admit that I do become quite melancholy and reminiscent about my life and those around me at this time of year. As I get older, I find that the way I think about things is changing. A few years ago, all I thought about was myself. Everything was weighed and measured according to how it would affect me. Now, I find that I measure things according to how they will affect other people. I dare say, I believe I have become kinder. These days, kindness is a characteristic that seems to be lacking in many individuals.

The other day I had a talk with a colleague while in the lunchroom. She was sharing with me the joy she felt at the expression of love she received from her neighbors after a death in the family. I replied, "But you're a kind person and people respond to that. Not because you want something from them, or because you have a ulterior motive, but because you just are. And then, days that's rare."

Just the other day, my mom and I were shopping for Thanksgiving dinner. We were standing in the produce aisle, armed and ready for battle. I had three plastic produce bags preparing to attack whatever non-vegetarian my mother pointed me toward. Then I overheard an elderly woman standing next to me say that she needed a bag. But the nearest bag rack was located several feet away. So, rather than have her walk all of that way for one thing, I just gave her one of my bags.

She was astonished. She was convinced that I just happened to have an extra one. But, I didn't. I loaded all of those bags. In a gesture of kindness, I tried to prevent her from having to literally go out of her way.

New please understand that I'm not trying to tell you how to live, or raise myself as the standard for kindness. What I am trying to do is help all of us realize that we're in this thing together. If we realize that what you do affects me and vice versa, we'll do some things differently.

We'll smile at the stranger instead of scowling at them. We'll wait that extra second to hold the door for the guy behind us instead of letting it slam in his face. We'll help the young mother struggling to get her double stroller through the non-vegetarian aisle at the mall. We'll not be so quick to verbally assault the clerk behind the counter because she's only doing her

County must stop flow of hazardous waste

The Air We Breathe

The testimony given to justify siting a similar operation in Linden. Outrage has been expressed by NJPAC and others that the hospital has circumvented legislation that was to keep new hazardous medical waste incinerators from being built in New Jersey. The Linden scheme contended that it might further strain the hazardous medical waste following the siting of the incinerator. The mixed conglomerate is mixed with clinical waste, then the hospital declares the result to be municipal waste instead of the hazardous medical waste it actually is. Public administration of the fact that at least 8 percent of the material sent to Rahway, which is still quite virulent and biologically active, was included in town residents of Elizabeth, Linden, Staten Island, and Newark, as well as Rahway and Woodbridge.

Linden officials are rumored to be pursuing the placement of a similar treatment plant for hazardous medical waste near the site of the proposed hazardous chemical waste incinerator in Linden. This new plant would import 43 percent of the medical waste from all of New Jersey in order to use the facility of the Rahway incinerators operators for a handsome fee.

Public outrage at such a scheme was completely ignored at the public hearing before the Linden Planning Board. Linden residents pleaded with the board and the mayor to stop the planned import of over 18 million pounds of hazardous medical waste along Routes 1 and 9 and down Wood Avenue and other city streets. Some City Council members also joined the group of citizens to call for an end to the planning process for the facility. Citizens of the high traffic accident rates along the heavily traveled

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

We'll clean up freeholders' mess

To the Editor:

The Union County politicians established a protected government monopoly and built the UCRA's incinerator in Rahway.

Now, four of the five major systems and expanded markets, the political elite contrived a garbage scheme to force the 21 municipalities in Union County to pay an escalating mandatory dump fee.

This garbage-disposal system is an assault on the U.S. Constitution. The Supreme Court of the United States has ruled flow-control of garbage is unconstitutional.

All of the blame for this bureaucratic nightmare must rest squarely on the shoulders of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

When will the taxpayers be spared all of this bureaucratic government? Frank J. Ferra, Jr.

Is it really a privilege?

To the Editor:

Driving is a privilege in New Jersey, right? I mainly drive in suburbia. It seems like no one in suburbia knows how to drive responsibly. Most don't.

In November, the Arthur L. Johnson Key Club gave teachers the opportunity to "dress down" for a day by participating in Blue Jeans for Babies Day. ALJ teachers Linda Bianco, Katharine Dunn, Mary Jane Yawik, Terry Arico and Lorraine Olszewski celebrated the more than $250 raised for baby research at the Student Council-sponsored bagel breakfast.

AT THE LIBRARY

Young Readers invited
The Clark Public Library will hold the December Young Reader's Club on Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. Children ages 6 to 12 are invited to learn about Kira-gami: Paper Folding and Cutting at this program to be held in the Ayers Community Room in the Library. Everyone comes in contact with paper in one form or another every day. This program will show how a flat piece of paper may be transformed into beautiful decorations by folding and cutting with scissors. Many of the projects will be appropriate for seasonal decorations for the home or a tree.

The library is located at 303 Westfield Ave. in Clark. This is a free program. The Clark Library offers all persons equal access and accessibility to its services, programs and activities. Any person, requiring special arrangements should contact the library in advance.

For further information, call (732) 388-5999.

Divorce is topic
The Clark Public Library will hold a workshop titled "Legal Aspects of Divorce" at 7 p.m. on Dec. 15 in the Ayers Community Room at the library. This workshop will be conducted by Rosalind Mink of Mink and Mielicki. Mink specializes in matrimonial issues in her practice. This seminar will include topics such as child support, alimony, custody, discovery, post-judgment issues and grounds and costs for divorce.

For further information or to register, call the library at (732) 388-5999.

UCC professor from Rahway aids in mentoring program

With a lot of special attention from dedicated faculty, including one from Rahway, 18 selected Union County College students are mentoring high-achieving students in some very challenging subject areas. One student, a single, diabetic mother of a severely disabled child, holds a nearly perfect grade-point average with a major in chemistry. Another hails from Nigeria and describes himself as a "slow learner" who nevertheless earns good grades with a major in biology. And there are many more like them.

Of 59 applicants, the college is one of only 10 to be awarded a $204,056 incentive grant from the New Jersey Commission on Higher Education to implement a faculty mentoring program to improve graduation and transfer rates for minority and/or low-income students. The grant provides money over three years for the program, which has been named the UCC Graduate/Transfer Support Program.

In addition to financial need and strong academic performance, students are also selected for the mentoring program based on their show of motivation to succeed at UCC and subsequently at the four-year college or university level.

Participating faculty members meet individually with students every two weeks and are planning workshops, cancer awareness, and group support activities. They also provide computer-aided instructional and tutorial services to increase participation in the college system.

The three faculty mentors chosen for the project are Mubang Khan of Edison, a chemistry professor; Professor Elliot Fisher of Jersey City, who teaches mathematics; and Professor John Flynn of Rahway, a member of the Engineering Technologies Faculty.

He tells the story of a nursing student who was struggling in class and was close to dropping out of her program. Just as she had sought assistance through a laboratory technician, she was accepted into the mentoring program. Thus, she was able to retain her 3.70 grade-point average.

Valerie Blue of Elizabeth is one of the students being mentored. Accepted to a major university on a full scholarship when she graduated from high school, the 20-year-old's goals were placed on hold when she became pregnant and gave birth to a severely disabled son.

Discussing goals

Quiet week for Rahway firefighters

It was an unusually quiet week for Rahway's firefighters.

Firefighters responded to three oil furnace malfunctions last week.

The first was on Nov. 21 at a single family home on 754 Union St. at 11:32 a.m. The fire was extinguished with two chemical fire extinguishers.

The second was on Nov. 22 at 11:45 at a single family home at 2266 Allen St. The third was at a single family home at 1508 Lawrence St. at 5:59 on Nov. 27.

All three were malfunctions in the houses' oil burners. These burners heat water which is then circulated throughout the house for heat.

In these incidents, there was no water in the burners. According to one fire official, this often happens when people flip out their heaters for the winter.

The malfunctions usually aren't serious.

Global program at UCUA is certified

What started out as a "model program" to provide a cost-effective, sound solution to disposing of hazardous waste in the municipal waste stream is now a NIDEP-certified permanent depot in the Solid Waste Management Plan.

"Global Recycling Technologies Inc. and the Union County Utilities Authority demonstrated that when business and government work together, we can create a program that saves money and protects the environment," said UCUA Chairman John Kish. In 1996, the Environmental Protection Agency recognized the UCUA for the successful implementation of its initial pilot program, outstanding work protecting the environment and its leadership in this partnership and recycling program.

"Through this program, we can reduce a major source of mercury that could find its way in the waste stream to the Union County Resources Recovery Facility," said UCUA Executive Director Joseph Spicola. "Global is able to recover a minimum of 95 percent of the lamp components and 99.9 percent of the mercury from these lamps. Participating generators of mercury bearing lamps no longer need to manage, manifest or pay hazardous waste transportation charges or hazardous waste taxes to recycle these spent lamps."

To date, Global and Union County businesses have recycled more than 225,000 mercury-containing lamps. This program is now open to all Union County businesses, residents.

Merchants and Drovers to open doors for holidays

For the last time prior to a major interior restoration, the Merchants and Drovers Tavern will open its doors for the annual holiday season. The Friday evening open house will feature songs of the period sung by Christopher Gibbs.

"Customized interpreters will portray tavern staff," said Ann Hoeser, chairman of the holiday event. "A fire will warm the kitchen, and the furnishings of the tavern will be arranged to give visitors an accurate picture of an early hotel."

Visitors may also browse in the Terrill Tavern Museum Shop, where unique gift items may be purchased. Orders will be taken for images of the past. A Rahway Album, a new book of historic photographs. The album is due from the publisher in less than two weeks. Also available again this year are the Merchants and Drovers Tavern greeting cards featuring the tavern in watercolor painted by noted artist, Lloyd Green.

The shop will be open during both open houses and also from 11 a.m. on Dec. 6, 13 and 21.

The Merchants and Drovers Tavern was built shortly after the American Revolution. First mentioned as a tavern in 1798, it was enlarged to a four-story hotel by the 1820s and served continuously as an inn until the 1950s.

The first floor tavern and the exterior have been restored, but most of the upper rooms remain empty and unrestored. A federal NEPA grant for more than $180,000 will help to fund interior restoration of the upper floors, said society President Ted Merrill. "The total project cost is estimated at more than $250,000, and we have been contacting the Mill campaign to share the balance by the end of the year."

"Following the 1998 restoration, the Merchants and Drovers Tavern, listed on the National Register of Historic Places, will become a museum of tavern life and stagecoach transportation," according to Linda McGowan, executive director.

Greeting their quests

Michelle Chen, chairman of the Rahway Hospital Foundation, and Patricia Caruso, Foundation vice chairman, were on hand to greet guests at the organization's sixth annual benefit fashion show and luncheon at The Hilton at Short Hills on Nov. 15. The event featured a three-course luncheon, followed by a fashion show presented by Neiman Marcus of Short Hills and a boutique auction. Prizes were prepared in gift baskets which were coordinated by volunteer Andrea Austin of Clark. Proceeds from the event will benefit a Community Health Center at Rahway Hospital.

LET THE BIBLE SPEAK

1 Pet. 4:11

READERS BEWARE:
JESUS warns that all the modern day miracle workers, fake-healers, and those who pretend to speak in tongues (a foreign language one did NOT learn) are servants of SATAN, and their claims are wholly false and fraudulent (Acts 8:9-11, Acts 19:16-17).

Jesus foretold that "False Christs, false prophets and false apostles," will arise and perform false miracles, lying wonders and deceiving many.

Thus, the word of God clearly teaches these men and women are impostors; wolves in sheep clothing (Matt 7:13-23).

Therefore we urge readers to go back to the Bible and investigate the scriptures that they may be enlightened of the fundamental TRUTH (Gen. 3:4-5, Matt 24:23-25, 2Cor. 11:13-15, 2Thess. 2:9-12, 1Jn. 4:1).

The Bible plainly teaches that: God is NOT mocked and failure to discern the TRUTH from error is FATAL.

Crusaders close in convincing fashion Post outstanding 8-2 mark

By Andrew McGinn
Assistant Sports Editor

The Johnson High School football team ended its season on a very convincing winning note last Thursday with a 34-0 rout of Mountain Valley Conference Mountain Division rival Governor Livingston in a game played in Berkeley Heights.

The victory put Johnson's final record at 8-2, among the best marks in Crusader history. The Crusaders, who defeated GL 31-0 at Nolan Field in Clark last year, have never lost to the Highlanders in head coach Bob Taylor's five years with the team.

Other standout Johnson seasons this decade that included playoff berths were 1981-7-2-1, 1984-7-3, 1995-11-0 and 1996-7-3. Johnson also made the state playoffs in 1977, losing to Palisades.

"Winning eight games is a pretty formidable result," said Taylor, whose team faced one of its toughest schedules yet this season. "This team molded them into one of the elite teams in school history with high-caliber football, class and character."

Johnson 34, Gov. Livingston 6

The offensive line, led by the monstrous blocks of Jerry Dentillo and Mike Fink, turned in a sparkling performance as three Johnson players reached the 100-yard rushing mark in the same game for the first time this season. Senior fullback Eric Gerstner saw his best for last, rushing for 108 yards and high 235 yards on 17 carries and scoring three more touchdowns in his Johnson finale.

In the game, Gerstner broke Jason Hassler's school single-season record of 137 points set last season. Gerstner, who broke Hassler's single-season touch-down mark Nov. 15 against Hillsdale, ended the season with 150 points in Union County. It assured Johnson of a third consecutive county scoring champion. Hassler turned the trick in 1996 following Frank Menzies in 1995.

Gerstner's final numbers are a fantasy football cover dream: 158 carries for 1,381 yards and 24 touchdowns. Add one to his jersey No. 43 and you have John Higgins re-incarnated.

The incredible season Gerstner put together surprised many, including Taylor.

"Eric surprised us a bit this season with his ability to outman people," Taylor said. "We knew he would be a hard-running fullback, but once he gets into the open field he wasn't going to get caught."

Gerstner, who excels in the classroom as well, is waiting to hear from Princeton University, with whom he applied earlier in the year. Gerstner also garnered From King and Student of the Month honors during his record-setting week.

Quarterback Dennis Bowden, also playing his last game at Johnson, topped 100 yards on the ground for the first time this season, rushing for 108 yards on 100 carries. The senior signal-caller also scored two touchdowns on runs of 29 and five yards and ran in a two-point conversion.

For the season, Bowden gained 513 yards on 66 carries and completed 51-of-97 passes for 721 yards. He threw five touchdowns and was intercepted twice.

Ryan Gerner joined Gerstner and Bowden as 100-yard rushers against GL as he gained 101 yards for 13 carries. The halfback, who is sure to be the focal point of the offense next year, nearly reached 1,000 yards this season, rushing for 967 yards on 119 carries. He also scored eight touchdowns.

Senior linebacker/defensive end Brian Drake was equally as impressive on defense as Gerstner was on offense. Drake established a school record with 152 tackles and 35 assists. He also made his mark on offense, where he caught two touchdowns out of his tight end spot.

Despite the loss of some key players, including Gerstner, Drake and Bowden, Taylor expects his team to be just as strong next year. Jason Navarro, who filled in for Nick Spagnuolo at wideout following his season-ending shoulder injury, will take over as quarterback and will be joined by members of a junior varsity squad that went undefeated this season.

"Our program has reached the point where we feel we're going to be competitive every year," a confident Taylor said.

The Crusaders made the playoffs for a fourth consecutive season this year and last year they should once again be among the top teams in North Jersey, Section 2, Group 2.

Rahway's McClain honored for good work off the field

Recognized for commitment to community service

By Andrew McGinn
Assistant Sports Editor

Rahway native and Western Connecticut State senior defensive back Bobby McClain was one of 22 players named to the 1997 American Football Coaches Good Works Teams.

The two, 11-man teams honor players for their commitment to community service.

McClain, a 1994 graduate of Rahway High School, was just as active off the field this season for WCSU as he was on it. One of his many accomplishments was the founding of Concerned Black Men at WCSU, an organization which performs community service at the university and the surrounding Danbury area.

McClain was prompted to found WCSU's chapter of Concerned Black Men, which is a national organization, because of the high rate of African Americans who leave the university after just one semester.

"It's a support group and it's also to let the community know that there are positive black males out there," McClain noted.

McClain is also the founder and editor of the first minority newsletter on campus and an active participant in the Good Friends Program, a program that tutors children in grades 4-6 at nearby Roberts Avenue School.

A post-graduate, McClain founded the newsletter after the university failed to publish his work, as well as the work of others in its newspaper. After starting with a modest two pages, the newsletter has grown to more than 20 pages and features the work of a diverse group of students.

McClain, the only New Jersey native chosen for the team, finished with 83 tackles, including 56 solos, for WCSU (3-5) this season, his first as a full-time starter. The Education major stood out at his defensive back position, picking off five passes and breaking up five others.

"My hard work over the summer really paid off," McClain said.

"While most people were on vacation, I was taking summer classes, going to work and working out and preparing myself for the season ahead."

Rahway grid team drops finale

The Rahway High School football team dropped its final game of the year Thursday in its annual Thanksgiving Day matchup against host Linden at Cooper Field. With the defeat, Rahway fell to 2-7, a reversal of last year's 7-2 record.

Rahway's lone score in the 27-6 setback came in the third quarter when Rick-Yan Mosley rushed into the end zone on 10 yards out.

Linden held a 21-0 lead at the half as the Tigers' offense, coached by Patrick Zypke, playing for the injured Rashawn Staring, and Charles Leventi scored on short runs in the first quarter and Wyatt Stradford hauled in a 20-yard pass from Chris Rayford in the second quarter to give Linden the commanding lead.

Rayford struck again in the fourth quarter when the junior quarterback reached the end zone from four yards out to close out the scoring.

"This marked the Tigers' first win over Rahway since their 49-16 victory in 1994. The Indians were victorious over Linden 17-0 last year and tagged out a 16-13 win in 1995.

Rahway will lose six seniors to graduation, including All-County two-way lineman Antonio Gandy and fellow two-way star Jake Switzer, the Indians' captain this season.

This year's squad featured just eight juniors, but Panko is optimistic that the experience of the returnees will translate to "more victories next season."

Sophomore Steve Brown, who replaced junior Brad Thomas at quarterback midway through the season, will head into next season as the starting signal-caller. However, Panko did not rule out Thomas returning as a starter and said he would be used in the backfield, just as he was after the quarterback switch this season.

Union County

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1997 — SECTION B

UCUA and freeholders draft new trash plan

By Sean Dally
Staff Writer

With waste flow laws in the state overturned, it is up to the UCUA and the freeholders to amend the county's garbage disposal plan.

The Union County Utilities Authority took the first step toward this during a special meeting Nov. 25, when its board of commissioners approved an amendment to the county's solid waste disposal plan. The amendment must be approved by the county government and the state Department of Environmental Protection.

The amendment would reduce per-ton garbage disposal fees or "tipping fees" at the Rahway-based incinerator to $50. Until recently, they had been $83.05 for Union County's flows.

But it would also impose a $13.53 per ton charge on towns that choose not to sign waste disposal contracts with the UCUA.

The amendment relies heavily on a proposed lease with the UCUA and the incinerator's operator, Ogden Martin. This lease is expected to come before the UCUA Board of Commissioners for approval later this month.

Under the amended waste disposal plan, Ogden Martin would terminate and then amend its service contract with the UCUA and lease the incinerator for 25 years.

Booded debt, totaling $175 million of the UCUA's $283 million would be bought by Ogden Martin in exchange for the remaining $106 million would be paid partly through existing UCUA funds, $28.3 million from a debt service reserve fund, $11.5 million from a dedicated state loan and $3 million intended for construction.

Of the remaining $75 million, $46 million would be paid through a segment of the $50 tipping fee with $13.53 of the tipping fee going toward debt service. Smaller portions of the tipping fee — $2.71 and $2.50 — would be used for paying off the local community fee to Rahway and for administrative fees at the UCUA, respectively.

The state also could force the county to assess a user charge on all of the UCUA's debt and, if the UCUA should default on its bonds, impose the debt service on Union County's bonds.

The UCUA expects to bring in 440,000 tons of garbage each year — 250,000 tons in a "put or pay" agreement with Union County as part of the lease agreement and 190,000 tons from the Bergen County Utilities Authority. Since the local community fee portion of the tipping fee is $2.71,

UCUA and freeholders draft new trash plan

This fee drew some criticism from the public at the meeting.

"Am I to understand that if I don't sign an agreement with you people, I'm going to have to pay you extra to bring my trash anywhere?" said Frank Pears, a resident of Scotch Plains who is active in the Conservative Party.

But according to the UCUA, all of the residents of Union County were required by the state to incur the UCUA's bugged debt to build it. This is an equal application of debt, they said.

The state also could force the county to assess a user charge on all of the UCUA's debt and, if the UCUA should default on its bonds, impose the debt service on Union County's bonds.

The UCUA expects to bring in 440,000 tons of garbage each year — 250,000 tons in a "put or pay" agreement with Union County as part of the lease agreement and 190,000 tons from the Bergen County Utilities Authority. Since the local community fee portion of the tipping fee is $2.71, competitive bidding due to the now-defunct state waste flow laws.

The contract will stand until at least the middle of this month, when federal court Judge Joseph Irsana will hear the case.

The amended solid waste plan may include a re-instatement of waste flow control laws in Union County. Irsana has said waste flow control laws re-instated in Essex, Hudson and Mercer counties for a short time.

This is because these counties are far along in their new waste disposal plans. A loss in garbage to their county utilities authorities, brought on by a lack of waste flow control, could hinder their transformations.

Union County was not a part of this application to Irsana. UCUA Executive Director Joseph Spatola has made his own application, saying the county needs 90 days of waste flow control to help get its new garbage disposal plan underway.

Irsana has not re-instated waste flow control. Instead, he said that the county may not stand for a re-instatement of waste flow controls; to gain that approval, the county will have to apply to Irsana's court.

At work, at play

Freeholder Dan Sullivan shows two-year-old Matthew Smith of Cranford the new Union Park playground in Garwood. The playground, which has sections appropriate for different age groups, will serve as a model for other playgrounds. Other playgrounds scheduled for renovations include Mattano Park in Warrinanco Park, the loop area of the Watchung Reservation, parts of Elizabeth River Park, Ulrich Pool, and Echo Lake Park.

With ISTE extension, county continues transportation plans

By Walter Elliott
Staff Writer

Transportation projects in Union County and around New Jersey can enjoy their ISTE funding for six more months, but after May 1, Congress may rethink its spending plan.

The Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act funds road and mass transit construction improvements. The seven-year-old mechanism was to have expired Sept. 30 while Congress debated changing the funding formula.

When the House and Senate failed to agree on formal changes, they voted for a $3.3 billion extension. According to Rep. Bob Franks, R-7, about $274 million is available to New Jersey.

"The compromise was a victory for our state," said Franks, a member of the House Transportation Committee, who represents much of Union County. "It provides for additional highway funding which wasn't included in the Senate version of the bill."

Under the current law, New Jersey and other states in the Northeast have been receiving a better return on their federal gasoline tax revenues. Congressmen from the West and South, seeking a greater share, have proposed six states where the federal gas tax revenues are lower have to tie funding approval to the federal balanced budget plan.

Having the ISTE funding continue is advantageous to Union County," said county Director of the Office of Policy and Planning Mauro Checchio. "The fund is designed to assist areas of high congestion and air pollution. Union County is just the area for the ISTE."

Checchio said ISTE money will allow several projects to continue. Upgrading the intermodal freight railroad between Staten Island and Roselle, for example, remains on track. Also ongoing are planning studies for the

Lincoln Tech offers new scholarship

It's available at LTI's Union campus and is named after freeholder chairman

Lincoln Technical Institute is seeking applicants for Linda Stender/Union County Scholarship Award.

The scholarship, said Lincoln President and CEO Pat Santangelo, is sponsored with Linda Stender, chairman of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders. It will allow the winner to choose among several technical training programs offered by Lincoln's campus in Union.

"We have openings available for scholarship testing and we're encouraging eligible residents of Union County to apply for the program," Santangelo also said.

The full tuition award, valued at up to $13,000, may be used to train in automotive or diesel truck technology, air conditioning, refrigeration and heating technology, or architectural or mechanical drafting and CAD technology.

"These programs train workers for highly skilled, career oriented jobs," said Santangelo, adding that more than 90 percent of the county's graduates are employed in the field in which they trained.

Linda Stender has a demonstrated commitment to local job training and employment programs, and we appreciate her support for our new scholarship program in Union County," he also said.

Stender said she was "honored that Lincoln Tech created the scholarship in my name."

"As Union County strives to become a high-technology business environment, it's critical to have a properly trained workforce. Lincoln Tech provides the kind of training in demand by businesses moving into our region," she added.

To be eligible for the scholarship, the applicant must be a resident of Union County, be a U.S. citizen, and possess a high school diploma or GED equivalent.

Applicants will be screened by Lincoln's standard entrance exam and the top finalist will be interviewed by an independent committee who will make the final selection.

Individuals interested in applying for the Linda Stender/LTI Scholarship award may call Tom Pellis at (908) 964-7800.

Meeting at Lincoln Technical Institute in Union are Union County Director of Policy and Planning Mauro Checchio, LTI Executive Director Steven Buchenot, Freeholder Linda Stender and LTI Agency Representative Tom Pellis.

ISIS H.S. FOOTBALL

By J.A. Parachini
Sports Editor

As the 1997 season came to a close for 10 area teams on Thanksgiving and an 11th two days later, more than half of our 12 schools finished with winning records.

Seven clubs completed the 1997 campaign with above-.500 marks and four of those qualified for the NJIAA playoffs in their respective divisions.

One of those four schools, No. 1 Elizabeth, made it to a sectional final. The Minutemen will face Plainfield in this Saturday's North Jersey, Section 2, Group 4 state game.

The Minutemen last won the section in 1989 when they blanked Morris Knolls 25-0 in the title game at Williams Field in route to an 11-0 season and No. 1 state ranking.

Elizabeth also won the section in 1981 when it beat Union 21-0 in the final and 1988 when it beat Morris Knolls 13-12.

Plainfield has never won a playoff sectional championship.

Elizabeth will seek to avenge its only loss this year as it was defeated by Plainfield 8-6 on Sunday, Nov. 2 at Hot Site Field. It was the first time Plainfield defeated Elizabeth since 1980, which was the last year the Minutemen had a losing season, finishing 4-5.

Schools that finished with winning records included Elizabeth (47th straight season), Union (21st), Roselle Park (14th), Johnson (5th) and Brearley (4th). Linden and Governor Livingston also recorded winning seasons after finishing below .500 last year.

Elizabeth captured its third consecutive Wechsler Conference American Division championship while Westfield won the National Division crown.

Immediately won the Mountain Valley Conference-Mountain Division title while Ridge captured the Valley Division championship.

Rahway's Broderick a soccer standout Named to National Coaches' team again

Eastern Connecticut State University senior sweepstakes/midfielder Yvette Broderick, a Rahway native, was named to the National Soccer Coaches' Association of America/Unihio All-Region women's soccer team for the second consecutive year.

Broderick, a first-team NSCAA All-New England Region pick as a junior, was one of 11 second-team selections to the first NSCAA All-New England Region team.

The two-time Little East Conference Player-of-the-Year was named as one of three defenders on the second team, joining Tina Fernandes of Western Connecticut State University and Laura Kochanowicz of Amherst.

Broderick, the team's starting sweeper back in 1997, opened the season as a defender but was moved to midfield at the midway point of the season.

After collecting two assists in the first nine matches of the season, Broderick had three goals and five assists in the final 10.

She shared the team-lead in assists with seven and shared second-place in points with 13 while starting all 17 matches in which she appeared in for the 9-8-2 Warriors.

In her career, Broderick started all 34 matches in which she appeared and scored six goals, four of them game-winners.

She also had six assists and averaged 92.6 minutes per outing.

Last year, in her first season with ECSU after transferring from Mitchell College (New London, Conn.), Broderick contributed three goals and five assists for the 11-4-2 Warriors.

In addition to being named conference Player-of-the-Year for the second straight season, Broderick was named to compete in the New England Women's Inter-Collegiate Soccer Association (NEWISA) Division 3 Senior Bowl, which featured the region's top seniors in an exhibition match that was held Nov. 23 at Nickerson Field in Boston.

Broderick becomes the eighth all-region selection for Eastern since 1988, but only the second to be honored more than once.

This year, the Warriors competed in the newly-formed 33 school Metro Region, which included schools located in Connecticut, Rhode Island, Western Massachusetts, Northern New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania.

Lawmen act in kindness for victims

For the 16th consecutive year, police officers tried to make Thanksgiving a "nice" holiday for dozens of families victimized by crime.

Thirty-five baskets full of canned goods, toiletries and more were delivered Nov. 25 to needy families in a food drive sponsored by the Union County Juvenile Officers' Association. The group, with members of the Prosecutor's Office Victim Witness Unit, supplied 25 turkeys and other foods donated by county employees.

"This is a true gesture of kindness for those less fortunate, and it is made possible by the combined efforts of a lot of people," said Prosecutor Thomas Maubach. "We all feel good about it."

Among the families receiving baskets of food were a young mother and her son who survived a domestic violence attack; a family in Rahway victimized by an arson; a woman whose only son was shot; a death in Plainfield; an Elizabeth family whose son was attacked and beaten to death in Elizabeth.

Saab automobiles have been synonymous with innovative technology and advanced engineering since the first Saab was unveiled in 1947. The Swedish automaker has continued to pioneer a long lineup of safety, comfort and performance features, many of which have been adopted by other manufacturers. The following are Saab world innovations, and all of these features — small or large — are available on today's Saab 900 and 900i.

today's Saab turbo engines are intercooled, use four valves per cylinder, direct ignition and dual overhead camshafts. Over the years, refinements have reduced the feeling of "turbo lag" to virtually nil, and today's turbos are as reliable as a normally aspirated engine.

The Douglas Family is Growing! If you're driven by or stepped into Douglas Auto Group recently, you've noticed major renovations in progress. Now we're ready to announce the Douglas Buick-Volvo and Douglas Ford are moving to their new locations on Morris Avenue on December 8th, and we invite you to stop in for refreshments to help us celebrate.

You will discover beautiful new facilities, almost tripling the size of the sales and service areas and featuring a wide variety of new cars and trucks.

During our Pre-Grand Opening Celebration, save on every model in stock. All vehicles have been clearly marked and reduced to our lowest prices. Ask about financing as low as 1.9% and no money down leasing options.
