Three Rahwayans on Staff At County Camp Endeavor

On Tuesday, July 10, ninety youngsters and three mothers, composing the first group to be entertained for a fortnight at Camp Endeavor were taken to camp via special buses. They were mainly from Elizabeth and vicinity. A happy lot of youngsters they were, some at Camp for the first time looking forward to the fine times predicted by those who had been up in former years. Those familiar with the good things in store for them were eager to enjoy the playground and wondering how soon they could swim in the pool. With the fine outdoor air and healthy exercise, it wasn't long before appetites began to grow to such proportions that only a hearty meal could appease them. This was provided in due time by the camp caretaker and chef, Mr. Van Fleet.

The running of the camp is in the able experienced hands of Jesse Lounsbury, of Plainfield. Miss Mildred Stevens, of Roselle, is the superintendent. She is ably assisted by the Misses Helen Squier, Marian George and Elsie Ulbrich, all of Rahway.

The regular daily program of the camp, which begins at 6:30 a. m., and ends at 8:30 p. m. with a vesper service of song, is one well suited to the youngsters needs with it's good meals, organized play, swimming, hiking and, etc. There are frequent special events to enliven the stay at camp. Thursday night it was a marshmallow roast. Saturday afternoon, the Christian Endeavor Society of the Central Baptist Church, of Elizabeth, went up to stage a party for the campers. Many games were run off and stories told in the early part of the program, which was happily completed with lollypops, punch and refreshments. The party seemed all too brief to the youngsters so keen was their pleasure.

Sundays a special order is observed for the day. In the morning a church service is held, Miss Stevens leading. Walter O. Anderson, of Elizabeth, was the special speaker for last Sunday. He spoke about Paul's conversion, which was the Sunday School topic for the day.

In the afternoon, the C. E. society from the Roselle Presbyterian church conducted the meeting. Dr. Herbert K. England gave an instructive talk about spiders. Miss Grace Klein spoke about ghosts, and led up to the story of David and Goliath. Miss Jean McDowell acted as the leader of the meeting which included singing as well as the talks.

This gives in brief a fair idea of the plans that are being worked out by the management of the camp, for the care of the County's most needy children.

Governors of Jersey, Pennsylvania Converse Over 600,000th Telephone

The 600,000th telephone in New Jersey, representative at once of the growth of a great state and one of its most important industries, was installed in the office of Governor A. Harry Moore at Trenton on the last day of May, and the occasion was marked by a call from the Governor to Governor Fisher of Pennsylvania.

Governor Moore converses with Governor Fisher of Pennsylvania over 600,000th telephone in New Jersey, installed in the executive offices.

Governor Moore called Governor Fisher to tell him that the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company had installed its 600,000th telephone, and that the growth of the telephone system "means a great deal to our industrial and commercial world."

Part of what Governor Moore meant by the importance of the telephone in New Jersey is disclosed in the statement that, although only three states in the country are as small in area as ours, only ten of the forty-eight has as many or more telephones. There are more telephones in New Jersey now than on the entire continents of South America and Africa, with half of Italy included. Almost 3,000,000 calls a day are being made on the telephones here, using enough wire to reach to the moon and back more than five times.

DEATH FROM HEART DISEASE ON GAIN

Emotional Strain of Modern Life Blamed

London.—The mental and emotional strain of modern life is mainly responsible for the 400 per cent increase in deaths from heart disease in Great Britain and other countries, in the opinion of Dr. J. Strickland Goodall, London cardiologist and physician.

"While the death rate from cancer has increased rather less than 25 per cent, that from heart disease has increased nearly 400 per cent," Doctor Goodall informed members of the Institute of Hygiene.

"The form in which we take our pleasure," he asserted, "is a direct inversion of nature's demands for adequate rest."

The habits of visiting night clubs, drinking cocktails and smoking excessively were listed by Doctor Goodall among the destructive pleasures. He further maintained that "the emotional character of modern plays, novels and films, with their appeals to the baser passions inevitably tends to overstrain, with results which are reflected in the enormously increased number of deaths from heart disease."

These deaths are occurring at an earlier age than formerly, Doctor Goodall reported. Whereas a few years ago the common age of sudden death was between fifty and sixty years, an analysis of recent deaths had disclosed that "the age is becoming much less."

The physician recalled that 12 persons died suddenly in the United States while listening to the running account of the Tunney-Dempsey fight in Chicago, and that seven of these succumbed when Tunney was floored in the seventh round. He attributed all to emotional strain.

A critical investigation of thousands of cases of sudden death shows, said Doctor Goodall, that most of them are due to arterio-sclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, a disease often caused by hard physical work, mental strain and emotion.

Peiffer—Story

At the manse of the Central Presbyterian Church, of Newark, Miss Edith A. Story, of 64 Union street, became the bride of Henry B. Peiffer, of 220 Central avenue, at noon Saturday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Loyal Y. Graham, pastor of the Newark Church, and formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of this city, at which time the bride's father, the late Irving W. Story, was superintendent of the Sunday School and an official of the church.

The maid of honor was Miss Lillian W. Murphy, of Elizabeth. John A. Overton, of Rahway, was best man.

The bride was gowned in French blue chiffon, daintily trimmed with Chantilly lace, wore a black picture hat with silver lace, and carried a bouquet of pink rose buds. The maid of honor was dressed in beige flowered chiffon, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

After the ceremony at the manse the members of the bridal party accompanied by Rev. and Mrs. L. Y. Graham and daughter, Miss Emily, enjoyed a wedding breakfast at the Japanese room of the Robert Treat Hotel, after which Mr. and Mrs. Peiffer left for a motor trip through New York State and Canada. They will return through the White Mountains and New England States, and will reside, upon their return, at 64 Union street.

The bride has been a member of the faculty of the Alexander Hamilton Junior High School in Elizabeth. She is a graduate of Vail Deane School and Trenton Normal and has pursued special courses at Columbia and New York Universities. For a number of years she has been a teacher in the First Presbyterian Sunday School; former secretary and treasurer of the Committee of Twenty-one and active in the Christian Endeavor, Westminster Guild and choir.

Mr. Peiffer holds a position in the executive office of the Tidewater Sales Corporation, 11 Broadway, New York. He is an elder in the Second Presbyterian Church, assistant superintendent of the Sunday school, treasurer of the Grand Street Chapel and member of the Republic Lodge, No. 690, F. and A. M., New York City.

Rodig—Horling

At a nuptial mass celebrated at St. Mark's Church by Rev. John Zeller at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, Miss Anna Horling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Horling, of Germany, and sister of Anthony Horling, Jr., of 101 Irving street, was united in marriage to Oscar Rodig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Rodig, of Austria.

The wedding march was played by Miss Elizabeth Varteault. The bride wore a gown of white lace and a crown veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white bride roses, sweet peas and baby's breath.

The maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth Geisler, of this city, was dressed in pink chiffon with hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mrs. Anthony Horling, matron of honor, was attired in yellow chiffon, with hat and flowers to match.

The best man was Joseph Horling, a brother of the bride. Joseph Horling, 2nd, served as ring bearer, while little Miss Elizabeth Granrath, of Clark Township, was flower girl and train bearer. She was attired in white chiffon.

After the ceremony at the church there was a wedding breakfast and reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Horling, of 101 Irving street. Mr. and Mrs. Rodig will sail Saturday for Europe, where they will remain until the middle of October visiting in Germany, Austria, France and Italy.

Both are members of St. Mark's Church.

Among those present at the reception were: Mr. and Mrs. Peter Granrath and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Yunkus, of Clark Township, Mrs. Theodore Hintz, of Westfield, William Ballou, of Mountainside, Mrs. Julia Lachman, John Gottfried, Mr. and Mrs. John Kump, Miss Elizabeth Geisler, Joseph Horling, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Horling and children, Anthony and Joseph, of this city.

Bettle—Leonard

At a pretty service at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leonard, of Whittier street, Saturday afternoon, their daughter, Miss Elva R. Leonard, was married to Ernest D. Bettle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bettle, of 171 Reid street, Elizabeth. Rev. Chester M. Davis, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Ellsworth Leonard. Mrs. Spurgeon Bettle, a sister of the bride and sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, while Raymond Bettle, a brother of the groom, was best man. The ceremony was performed beneath a bower of blue and white from the center of which hung a large white wedding bell.

The bride was gowned in white satin trimmed with lace and she carried a bouquet of white bridal roses. The matron of honor was dressed in blue crepe de chine trimmed with gold lace and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Following the ceremony there was a wedding dinner and reception, after which Mr. and Mrs. Bettle left for Atlantic City. Upon their return they will reside at 701 Knopf street, Linden. Mr. Bettle is an electrician for the Standard Oil Company and is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, having served overseas a year.

CATHOLIC CLUB WINS FROM RAHWAY EAGLES

Strong Aerie Nine Blanked While Winners Score 4

The Young Men's Catholic Club won another notable victory in the Rahway Twilight League last night when the strong nine of the Rahway Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles went down to a 4 to 0 defeat. The birds were unable to solve the slants of Gagliardo, the Catholic Club moundsman, and were shut-out while the winners bunched their ten hits for the four runs tallied.

Connors made three hits for the Catholic Club, R. Rehak and T. Rehak coming through with two apiece. In the third the winning runs were scored when the Catholic Club batters bunched three hits for two tallies, adding another run from two hits in the fifth, and the fourth run from one safe drive in the sixth.

The score:

Origin Lost

There are various explanations of the origin of the phrase "to learn by heart." Centuries ago the heart was regarded as the seat of emotions. That which one learned by heart was usually something which made an especial appeal. In other words, one greatly wished to retain the memory of it. The heart was thought to be involved in the process.

MAY EMPLOY WARDEN TO ABATE NUISANCE

Dog Catcher Exclusively for Rahway Thought Necessary

A local dog warden will probably be hired by the City of Rahway as the result of a conference Wednesday night of Councilman A. C. Feakes and Samuel D. Love and a committee of the Rahway Branch of the S. P. C. A. The new warden will be paid by the city and will work under the direction of the local branch of the S. P. C. A., which will buy a gas tank in which unwanted animals will be killed.

The tank will be located on city property near the new incinerator with a dog pound. With all things pointing toward cooperation between the city and the S. P. C. A. as a result of the conference, it is expected the streets will be cleared, in due time, of the large number of canines that nobody will take care of.

Wednesday's was the outcome of the S. P. C. A.'s request that the tank which they were determined to purchase be located on city property. At the next meeting of the Common Council, Councilman Feakes will introduce the necessary resolutions or ordinances to carry out the plans agreed upon.

President Miss May H. Macann and Miss Marie T. Bristor, chairman of the gas tank committee, headed the group representing the S. P. C. A.

Rahway Resident Meets Transatlantic Fliers

Altoona, Pa., July 18. Numbered among the people who were privileged to meet and greet Miss Amelia Earhart, Wilmer L. Stultz and Lou Gordon, transatlantic fliers, when they arrived in Altoona and Blair County [illegible] was Miss [illegible] Ledden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Ledden, of 156 West Grand street, Rahway, N. J., who is visiting relatives in this city.

Miss Ledden accompanied her uncle, Mr. Martin [illegible] social editor of the Altoona Mirror, when the latter interviewed the three fliers yesterday and it was in this connection that the famous flying trio was introduced to Miss Ledden.

Wilmer L. Stultz, the chief pilot of the transatlantic Friendship crew, was the principal figure in the celebration taking place in this county yesterday by reason of the fact that he is a native of Williamsburg, a borough located some twenty miles from Altoona.

Upwards of 50,000 people participated in the three receptions which included a mammoth parade, luncheon and speechmaking in Williamsburg, dedication of "Stultz Field" at the Tipton airport and a parade and banquet in this city.

Miss Ledden of Rahway, was present at the various ceremonies held in this county for the fliers. She is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Canty of the Canty apartments in this city. She will continue her visit here for several weeks.

Board of Health Seeks To Curb River Swimming

Much time at the meeting of the Board of Health Tuesday night was spent discussing the situation created by swimming in Jackson's Pond, Clark Township, less than a mile above the intake of the Rahway Municipal Water Plant. Although many ways were suggested to keep people out of the water, none of them seemed practicable, and no solution to the question was found.

Edward D. Savage, owner of the pond, could put a stop to the swimming if he would, but he won't, according to President Robert K. Miller, of the water board, and Health Inspector Fred Williams. Savage has been approached by Mayor Herman Graves, of Clark Township, also who gives an account of the interview in a letter published in the Record today. Savage has offered to sell the pond to the water board as a storage basin but the board rejected his offer.

That the lake on County park property adjacent to Lincoln Highway might be thrown open to bathers, thus giving them another place to go, was suggested. It was pointed out that New Jersey has no law prohibiting swimming in potable waters. Clark Township, it is understood, may adopt an ordinance prohibiting bathing where there are not bath houses, a measure which might relieve the condition.

Inspector Williams reported Tuesday night that he visited the pond before the meeting and found close to 500 bathing there. This figure is frequently exceeded.

Nurse Service Discussed

Coordination of the work of the four municipal nurses will be sought and it was tentatively agreed that changes would be made at the end of the year so that all people, especially those most in need of the service, will be reached.

Miss Anna Dugan was appointed part-time child hygiene nurse to succeed Mrs. Katherine Mankman, resigned. She will work three days a week in Rahway and the balance of the week in another municipality.

The other three nurses are Mrs. Anna S. Kilsby, full-time child hygiene nurse, Miss Margaret Whitcraft, of the Rahway Visiting Nurse Association, a part of whose salary is paid by the city, and Miss Clara Chapin, school nurse, paid by the Board of Education.

The vital statistics report of Health Officer Fred M. Williams showed during the past month twenty-four marriages, twenty births, twelve deaths and one stillbirth. The causes of death were: Pneumonia, two; tuberculosis, chronic nephritis, Caesarean section, encephalitis lethargia, [illegible] cardiac dilitation, senility, one each.

The report showed there is not now a single case of contagious disease in the city. Diseases reported during June were: Measles, nineteen; scarlatina, two; chickenpox, three.

The report of Child Hygine Nurse Mrs. Kilsby showed 314 home visits, with 661 now on visiting list, including thirty-seven expectant mothers, 130 babies under one year and 437 pre-school children. Mrs. Monkman reported ninety home visits, with eighty nine now on visiting list. Bills amounting to $44.27 were ordered paid.

President Dr. George L. Orton was in charge of the meeting. Other officials present were: Commissioner Francis J. Hailey, William A. Ranson, Health Officer Williams.

IDENTIFY DROWNED MAN AS RAILROAD EMPLOYEE

Body Shipped to Brockton, Mass., Where He Had Bank Account

What is [illegible] as positive identification of the body found floating in the Rahway River near the Lawrence street bridge Sunday afternoon was made Tuesday night as a result of the alertness of Lieutenant James Crahan. The body is believed to be that of Adam Satkowsky, a laborer from the Pennsylvania Railroad camp who had not been seen since Friday night, July 13.

Crahan was approached by William Flagler, camp clerk, who was in search of a truck and its driver missing since [illegible] Tuesday afternoon. Crahan mentioned the drowned man and Flagler replied with the statement that Satkowsky had been missing for some time. Crahan urged him to view the body at Pettit's funeral home. He did so, identified it and then [illegible] six other men from the camp to support the identification.

Police are now seeking relatives of Satkowsky at Mantello, Mass. A letter arrived at the camp Tuesday for Satkowsky, from T. Satkowsky, 20 Emerson avenue, Mantello, Mass., who is believed to be a brother of the deceased. The letter was postmarked Brockton, Mass. It was written in Polish and the police will secure its translation.

The body remains at the funeral home pending the outcome of efforts to get in touch with relatives.

Word was received Wednesday night by Captain James Thompson to have the remains of Alexander Satkowsky taken by the National Casket Association to Undertaker Simpson of Brockton, Mass. The deceased had $4,000 in a Brockton bank.

George W. Milnes Weds Miss Myrtle L. Muddell

Miss Myrtle Letts Muddell, daughter of Mrs. Alice Jane Muddell, of 294 Montgomery street, Bloomfield, formerly of this city, and George Walter Milnes, son of Mrs. Mary Milnes, of 142 Whittier street, Rahway, were married at the bride's home Thursday, July 12. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. G. Merrill, of New Market, formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city, in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives of the couple.

Mrs. John MacIntosh, of Rochester, N. Y., a sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. The best man was Clarence S. Milnes, of 172 Central avenue, Rahway, a brother of the groom.

A reception attended by about forty five guests from Rahway, Bloomfield and elsewhere followed the ceremony. Among those present were Mrs. Mary Milnes and daughter, Miss Catherine Milnes, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Milnes and children, Randolph and Virginia, of Rahway, and Miss Laura M. Shirens, of Westfield.

The couple are touring New England as far north and east as the coast of Maine. They will be at home after August 15 at 294 Montgomery street, Bloomfield.

Error In Price

In the A & P advertisement on page 11, of today's Record the price of Palm Olive Soap is given as "three cakes for 10 cents." This is wrong, and should read "three for 20 cents."

MRS. ROWLAND BURIED

Funeral services were held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Church, where a solemn mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul. Rev. M. J. Boylan was celebrant, Rev. Father Zeller, of St. Mark's Church, deacon, and Rev. Father Meinrad, of St. Elizabeth's, Linden, sub-deacon.

The casket was banked in a profusion of floral tributes. The services were largely attended. Rahway City Circle, No. 11, Lady Foresters, held services last night.

The pall bearers were Willet Hand, [illegible] Hand, Joseph [illegible] and David Williams. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

HAVE SHORT SESSION

There was a short session Wednesday night of Lakewood Grove, No. 16, Woodmen Circle, with Guardian Mrs. Mary Frank in charge and Mrs. William Connolly, secretary.

Twenty-four Children Are Examined at Elks' Clinic

There were twenty-four children examined at the Crippled Kiddies' Clinic at the Rahway Hospital Wednesday afternoon under the direction of the Crippled Kiddies Committee of Rahway Lodge, No. 1,075, B. P. O. E. Dr. Fred Albee orthopedic surgeon was again in charge, assisted by Dr. George E. Gallaway and Dr. F. V. Sell.

Dr. Albee arranged to operate on eight or ten of the children in the near future. Nearly twenty of these examined were new cases entirely. Over 100 children have been aided by the Rahway Elks clinics so far and the work is broadening out to take in a larger territory.

The patients were from this city, Carteret, Woodbridge, Port Reading, Roselle and Elizabeth. Superintendent Mrs. L. Anna Hughes and nurses were complimented on the thorough arrangements for the clinic and its conduct.

The Elks' Crippled Kiddies Committee includes M. F. Quinn, chairman, Frank W. Kidd, vice-chairman; Miss Mildred L. Livingston, secretary; Walter H. Crowell, treasurer; J. W. Urmston, William F. Weber, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. Neville, George Pickel, and the physicians who belong to the Lodge. Besides the physicians, Secretary Miss Livingston represented the committee at the clinic.

No date has been set for the operating clinic. The outing for the crippled kiddies will be held next month.

HERE 'N' THERE WITH RAHWAY BOY SCOUTS

On Monday, Troop 40 held an outdoor meeting and council fire in Pratt's woods near Madison avenue. Scouts were assembled at Milton Chapel and it was found that not a scout was missing, with the exception of T. O'Connor who is out of town. There were also several recruits which helped boost the attendance. The troop was than marched to the woods with troop flags and the program was begun. A hare and hound race was started with A. P. L. Searles and P. L. Hunter as the hares. This lasted for about twenty minutes and got the boys pretty well steamed up. After several more games, including capture the flag, flag raiding, the scouts began searching the woods for Joe Kappal who was hidden with a treasure. There was ten minutes of frantic running around and no one was lucky enough to find Joe. Assembly was then blown and the fellows assembled around the council fire. Then followed a very impressive ceremony with Big Chief Rain-In-The Face (Troop Committeeman Stanger) lighting the council fire and showing the fellows how to sound the Indian war cry. Scout James Loughlin was then initiated into the troop, and took the oath of allegiance to Troop 40. The Cowboy's Trail Song and Troop Forty's Rallying Cry were then rendered by Mr. Hardenburg and S. P. L. Monahan. Scout Norman Pelliteer then rendered "My Blue Heaven." The hot dogs and cocoa were then served and troop songs and cheers were peppily put over. The troop was marched back to Milton Chapel and dismissed, and in everyone's opinion the affair was a huge success both in the way of attendance and the carrying out of the program.

Recently the troop was timed for speed in knots which records are to be placed on the bulletin board at the Edgar road headquarters. The scouts holding the records are as follows:

Square, Moran, 2½ seconds; Sheepshank, Hunter, 5 seconds; Clove Hitch, R. Hook, 1½ seconds; Bowline, H. English, 3 seconds; Two-Half Hitches, Lenox, 6 seconds; Timber Hitch, Harman, 8 seconds; Fisherman's, Moran, 7 seconds; Weaver's, English, 4 seconds; Slip, A. Hook, ½ second.

A week ago Monday the scouting period was devoted to soap carving under the direction of Mr. Hardenburg. The model was an Indian tepee and several of the scouts produced very fine pieces of work. The remainder of the meeting was devoted to games, songs and cheers, and announcements by Mr. Hardenburg. The July issue of the troop paper was distributed and the troop dismissed.

A number of soap models have been brought down to the headquarters recently including an American flag, Indian tepee and tomahawk by F. Monahan, Indian tepee by C. Searles, dory by A. and R. Hook. Scout Clifford Lenox has donated five more chairs. It is hoped that Scout Tom O'Connor of the Crow Patrol who is vacationing at Schenectady, N. Y., will arrive home in time for camp.

Monday evening, Troop 41 held its regular meeting in the Junior Club Rooms at 7:30 P. M. The meeting was opened with the flag salute and drill led by Acting Senior Patrol Leader Willard Jennings. Short patrol meetings followed the drill. Following the patrol meeting a business meeting was held with Scoutmaster John D'Ambrosa in charge. Plans were made for an overnight hike up to Twin Falls on Thursday, July 19. First aid and knot tying were reviewed at the meeting. Several of the parents of the scouts were present at the meeting to see some of the work done. Mr. A. H. Shaefer of the troop committee was also present. There were twelve scouts present with eight in uniform. There were three cubs present. Scoutmaster John D'Ambrosa, Assistant Scoutmasters Alfred Wyllie, Jr., and Richard Corson were the officers present. The meeting was adjourned after games were played by repeating the scout oath and laws and the scout benediction.

Troop 45 held its meeting Monday night, July 16, in the basement of the Methodist church on Central avenue under Scoutmaster Frank Linton. Scout Ernest Jenkins passed his compass test while Scout Le Roy Edwards

DAILY BIBLE SCHOOLS END SEMESTERS WITH EXHIBITS, PROGRAMS

School of Federation Closed Last Night at "Y"; First Church Classes End Too

One of the most successful sessions yet held by the Federation of Churches Daily Vacation School closed last night with a big program attended by several hundred, in the gymnasium of the "Y." Principal Mrs. J. P. Mead had charge, assisted by other members of her faculty and various pastors of the Federation.

The report of the work of the four weeks the school was in operation, prior to last night, showed a total enrollment of 172 with an average attendance of 100. One of the interesting features was the regularity with which the majority attended, the same faces being seen every day. Today the children and teachers are enjoying a picnic.

Three Rahway pastors participated in the program. Rev. James W. Laurie, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church spoke with reference to the American and Christian Flag, urging the children to get behind both flags and show their colors. Rev. Finley Keech, pastor of the First Baptist Church, praised the work accomplished in the school and told of taking part of the work completed by the students to Hightstown to the summer Baptist sessions.

Rev. Harding B. Leech, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church, gave an illustrated lecture on "The Life of Christ," the pictures being illustrations of famous paintings, and including: "Last Supper" by deVince; "The Triumphal Entry" by Plockhurst, and "Clearing The Temple" by Hoffman.

The program consisted of the customary opening in charge of Mrs. Mead, including hymn and Bible reading, salute to the flag, followed by the song period, led by Mrs. Harvey Wooster, and followed by "Bible Verses" in charge of Irving A. West, assistant to Rev. Mr. Laurie at the Second Presbyterian Church; solo, "Let the Lower Lights be Burning" by Mabel Pickins; presentation of awards and closing program.

The special awards made included the following: Helpers—Jack Cornell and Marie Wagner; Bible Memory Work—George Cherry and Betty Lamphear; Manual Training—Chas. Simpson and Dale Rier; Baskets, Virginia Davis.

Awards for perfect attendance went to Amelia Ackerson, Leslie Ackerson, George Cherry, Charles Barford, Dolores Baker, Clifford Fisher, Adelaide Gassaway, Clara Mershon, Mary Paris, Christine Rankine, Charles Simpson, Olga Simpson, Harry Trembley, Hilda Trembley, Elizabeth Ummer, Dorothy Wilkes, for the Seniors and Juniors, and Robert Herman for the primary grades.

The faculty of the school included Principal Mrs. Mead, assisted by Miss Lillian Roarke, Jeanette Egnor, Mrs. Russell Ludlow, Mrs. Harvey Wooster, Irving A. West, Maskell Ewing, John DuRie, William Simpson, John Hopkins, Frank LeCompte, Clara Mershon, William Wilkes and Betty Lamphear.

Children attending the Daily Vacation School of the First Presbyterian Church, have completed a box of "goodwill tokens," consisting of toys, dolls, etc., which were made in the handicraft department to be sent to Mexican children as an indication of friendship. Rev. Chester M. Davis, pastor and head of the school announced the sending of the box at the closing exercises of the school, held Wednesday night. He stated the box will be opened on September 16, the Independence Day of Mexico.

The school completed one of the most successful courses in its history, covering the past four weeks, the total enrollment of children who attended three days or over being 183, with the average attendance 110. All Protestant denominations were represented.

One of the features of the program in the Community House was a dramatization, "The Ten Virgins" given by the children under the direction of Mrs. P. B. Woolfe and Mrs. Charles Hubbard, who had charge of the school dramatics.

The cast included: Virgins, Marguerite Monnett, Lillian Kump, Georgena Mayhury, Dorothy Dunn, Lillian Trembley, Virginia and Jane Mintel, Gertrude Morss, Betty Simpson, Ruth Corey; bride, Anita D'Ambrosa; Robert Knox; flower girls, Dorothy McIntyre, Marjorie Dunn.

Prizes were awarded as follows: First in memory work, Marguerite Monnett, who received a camera presented by Paris R. Forman, second, Betty Baumann, $2.50 in gold from Miss Maude Mundrane; first for boys, Packard Werner, who received a watch from Charles Chalconas; second, Cephas Monnett, who received a bat and two baseballs from George Hasley; honorable mention, Lillian Trembley, Billy Baumann, who were presented American flags by Miss Harriet Squier.

Memory work prizes in the kindergarten were awarded to Ruth Werner and Hilda Neugebauer for the girls, George Mayhury and William Kump for the boys. The winners in the primary department for best memory work were Marjorie Dunn, Ruth McIntyre, Carol Davis, Mildred Morton, Jeannette Thorton, all of whom had their work perfectly and, there being no choice between them, received similar prizes.

Perfect attendance awards were made to the following: Kindergarten, Russell and Lillian Armstrong, Ruth Barton, Betty McIntyre, Hilda Neugebauer, Ruth Werner, absent one day, Frank Shupper, Warren Senseney, Edna Van Valen.

Primary department attendance awards—John Barton, Camille [illegible], Robert Tairo, Dorothy Ross, Lillian and Margaret [illegible], [illegible] Marjorie Dunn, Doris Crown, Ruth McIntyre, Mildred Morss, absent

BASEBALL POOLS STILL FLOURISH

Big Lotteries Claim Many Victims in United States Despite Landis.

New York.—In December, 1922, Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, chief mogul of baseball, issued a statement in which he said that baseball pools were the "slimiest and lowest form of criminal existence," and pledged the big baseball leagues to a war which would stamp out the pools and end them forever.

Today there are at least three big pools operating all over the country. And every day the interest in them is growing as thousands upon thousands of hopeful, if misguided, citizens take "numbers" with the hope of winning a lot of money. But those who know something about baseball pools and gambling in general can't recall when any "big" prizes have been won.

The most prominent of the pools is the one known as the "Albany pool." It is generally believed that the Albany pool has its general offices in Albany, but several attempts in various parts of the country to trace it have not been successful. Federal and state officers have tried to uncover the backers of the big lottery, and although now and then, in the last year or so, there have been flurries in which some men have been involved, the Albany pool continues to operate without much opposition.

New York Fails.

The district attorneys in New York state have tried to suppress it. But although there have been five or six convictions in New York for gambling through lotteries, the pool continues. Its great secret is protected. Those who make "numbers" in the big baseball pools do not know from whom they actually get them.

A concerted drive was made last summer by federal postal inspectors. It brought the indictment of five men in Boston and the conviction of only one. Then the federal authorities in New York tried it. They did not even get a conviction. Within the last few weeks eight men have been arrested in Brooklyn and Manhattan, but no one, least of all the district attorney, believes those men are the real operators of the pool.

"To operate a gambling institution is a felony," it was said in the office of the district attorney, "and there is no question but that this baseball pool is a gambling institution, although the defense has usually been that it was merely a ticket sale.

"These pools take the money of subscribers who are given baseball teams. The number of runs counts, but to win the big prize all the teams chosen for the subscriber must have the exact number of runs he picks for them. The chance of winning a big prize is very slight."

Some Papers Aid.

"The newspapers, or some of them, help the pool. They publish the total run each day by the baseball teams, and carry tables showing the standing, in runs, for the week. But while that practice is a great help to the pool operators, it is not illegal."

It appears that the practice of "playing baseball pools" is wide-spread. But it also appears that, while the pools invariably pay off, they usually are called upon only to pay the smaller prizes which are for totals in the league and the like.

While the chance to win the big prize, says experts, may be small, nevertheless the element of chance is enhanced because the smaller prizes can be won. There is, according to the belief of the police and the district attorney, scarcely a mercantile establishment of any size in the city which does not have its baseball pool agency. Even the police stations, it was admitted, have their pools, although these are often operated only by the men attached to the particular stations.

It is said that the Albany pool will pay a high prize of $30,000 each week. It offers more than 100 smaller prizes, and those are always paid. The high prize is paid—if it is won—but that, according to those who profess to know something about the pool's operation, is a rare occurrence.

The Gold Bond pool, another mystery lottery built on the same sort of structure that holds up the Albany pool, is a smaller one and is confined almost entirely to New York. Yet its headquarters is not known. Its agents go around to business houses, post offices and other places where large numbers of men and women gather daily and sell tickets. Then comes the payment, the subscriber being told when he gets his ticket where he can go to collect if he wins.

The pool operators have recently taken to offering specials. The "Decoration day special," or the "Fourth of July special," for instance, covers games played in the two major leagues on the holiday—there are eight games in each league. Each player is to be given six teams and the total runs of each of the six teams is to count.

German Tourists Bring New Problem to France

Paris.—France has a new grievance against the former kaiser and Hindenburg, with no means of getting satisfaction without violating international postal regulations.

It started with the sudden interest of German tourists in the scene of signing of the armistice in the forest of Compiegne near Rethondes and the advent of the inevitable sellers of post cards and other souvenirs.

As if by order from their political groups the German visitors during recent weeks have been addressing cards to the former kaiser, Hindenburg and others. On Sundays these missives have numbered as many as 3,000.

But the grievance does not end there. In a large majority of the cases the senders fail to pay sufficient postage. The French authorities are not allowed to hold up the correspondence for this reason, however, and the little post office at Rethondes complains that it is being overworked.

Woman Judge Applies Smile and Lorgnette

New York.—Judge Genevieve R. Cline, five feet of femininity, clad in silken judicial robes from whose heavy folds she occasionally drew forth a gold lorgnette, sat on the bench of the United States customs court in Manhattan, and no one considered it an unusual procedure. With Judge Waite, she disposed of a long calendar of routine government cases and after court was over, exclaimed:

"I'm so glad that I am being accepted as the new judge and not placed in the class of being some kind of a rarity—a woman judge."

And the first women ever appointed to the customs court—the highest honor that has been awarded to women since they were enfranchised—smiled very prettily.

Judge Cline looks young, but she has six years of government experience and several years law practice in back of her. She is the rare combination of a feminine looking woman with a good legal mind. She was appointed to the customs bench by President Coolidge at a salary of $10,000. The position is for life.

HOW A GOAT GOT "GOAT" OF A GUIDE

"Hard Luck" Joe Loses Lariat Showing Skill.

Jasper Park, Alberta.—"Hard Luck" Joe Sulkers, guide, Jasper Park, is looking around for a new lariat. Which "Hard Luck" Joe declares is his second piece of bad luck since he left the prairies. His first was in coming to the mountains. "Hard Luck" Joe has taken a dislike to the mountains.

Down on the prairies now a man can lope along for miles without winding his horse on a trail that should be a staircase with a hand rail to catch. And then, too, on the prairies a man has a chance to show how good he is with a rope. In the mountains it is different.

Joe was explaining this at some length to his tourist party at the head of Maligne lake. "Rope"—why he could "rope" anything.

She was a mild-looking young lady, but, as Joe says, "straight pretty," and she had a sharp pair of eyes as well because she spotted a mountain goat only about 500 feet above the camp, close to a group of spruce trees.

"There," she said, "Mr. Cowboy, is something you can't rope."

Joe snorted. After the steers he'd thrown, the calves he'd "hoghed" and the cayuses whose ears he'd flicker with his loop—"Say, a man wouldn't even need a horse for a goat."

Even now Joe is not quite certain as to how he got close enough to the goat to throw his rope. But he did. It settled nicely over the two black horns and the while to lead. There was a moment's pause while the goat surveyed Joe in mild surprise, and while Joe thought of "snubbing" his rope around a tree. But there was no tree quite handy enough.

And then the goat made up his mind. He was taking a different direction to Joe—but not for the first hundred yards or so. Joe hung on as long as he could. That rawhide lariat had cost a lot of money. But the goat had his eye set on a black peak straight ahead—and up—considerably up. The rope burned Joe's hands as it passed through them.

On his return Joe admitted to the mild-looking young lady that "goats sure come husky in the mountains." Outside of that remark he was noticeably silent for the rest of the trip.

Misled

"Pardon me," said the little man, "but are you quite sure it was a marriage license you gave me on March 10?"

The clerk prepared to turn up particulars. "Of course, so far," he said, "but why do you ask me?"

"Well, I've led a dog's life ever since. That's all!"

312th INFANTRY PLANS REUNION AT SEA GIRT

Pershing Extends Greetings to New Jersey Fighters

Arrangements have been completed by the Sea Girt Encampment Committee of the 312th Infantry Association, comprising veterans of New Jersey's own trained at Camp Dix during the World War, for the encampment and reunion to be held at Sea Girt, New Jersey, on August 24 to 26, 1928. The 312th Infantry Regiment saw action in the St. Mihiel, Limey Sector and Meuse Argonne offensives, having lost 409 men killed in action and some 180 wounded. While at Sea Girt the survivors of the 312th, now members of the 312th Infantry Association, will take part in the reunion of the 78th Division. Arrangements will be made to accomodate 1,000 veterans of the 312th.

The Sea Girt Encampment Committee of the 312th, of which Thomas A. Graham is chairman, has announced the receipt of the following letter from General John J. Pershing, General of the Armies and former commander of the American Expeditionary Forces: "I am very happy indeed to have this opportunity to express to the veterans of the gallant 312th my cordial greetings and my hope that their annual encampment and reunion may be a most enjoyable and memorable one. I shall be with them in spirit as they recall in reminiscence and justifiable pride their splendid record on the battle fields of France, and my best wishes shall ever go with them." The letter bears the signature of General Pershing.

A large photograph of General Pershing, a gift to the veterans of the 312th by the General, and autographed "To the 312th Infantry Association, with vivid recollections of the Regiment's worthy services, and with good wishes" by General Pershing, has been placed in the Library of the 312th Memorial Home at 620 High street, Newark.

Colonel Hugh A. Kelly, personal aide to Governor A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, now stationed at Camp Moore, Sea Girt, N. J., was the first member of the 312th Infantry Association to send in his reservation for the encampment on August 24 to 26. The Colonel will be at Sea Girt when [illegible] at Sea Girt has [illegible] to take part in the athletic events [illegible] the rifle range and in the Camp Fire meet. Captain Anthony F. Minisi, former [illegible] of the 312th Infantry Association and trustee with Captain [illegible] members of the [illegible] have left for summer training with the Officers Reserve of the 78th Division. They will return in time to take part in the encampment at Sea Girt. Members of the encampment committee include Thomas A. Graham, [illegible] Henry L. USED CAR MARKETS SHOW STEADY IMPROVEMENT

The close of the first half of the year finds the used car situation more favorable than it has been for many months.

Most sections of the country are reporting an excellent movement of used car stocks during the past month, with the last weeks of June showing exceptional gains. Good weather, together with the impetus created by vacation periods, is undoubtedly largely responsible for the steady upward trend that is being registered in used car sales by dealers throughout the country.

An excellent idea of the present public demand for used cars is found in the report of our dealer organization for the week ending June [illegible], which showed the lowest inventories on record since the first of January," said W. F. Hufstader, director of used cars for Dodge Brothers, Inc., in discussing the situation.

"During the last week of June, our dealer organization sold 5,561 used cars. This is the second high week of the year and the highest corresponding week in the 14-year history of the Dodge company. The gain during the last seven days of the month over the preceding week was outstanding and was a clear indication of the public's readiness to buy the right type of used cars."

"It has been a long time since the used car situation has been as favorable as that at present," said Mr. Hufstader, "and we at Dodge Brothers, Inc., have every reason to believe that this will be one of the best years on record."

Sunlight Baths Aid English Mine Workers

London.—By taking a holiday in Switzerland and sitting in the sun five pit boys from the mines of Mansfield have demonstrated the value of light baths for men and boys who work underground. A report of the committee which has been testing the usefulness of light in industrial hygiene has just been published.

Following the Swiss experiment with sunlight baths a clinic was opened and 50 volunteers from the mines fourteen to seventeen years old have been given ultraviolet light baths several times a week for three months. At the end of the time the boys had gained in weight an average of more than four pounds. Boys of the same ages who did not get the light baths gained a little over two and a half pounds during the same three months. The boys who had the light baths gained in height more than the boys who did not.

The clinic will be continued, and the committee report recommends that wherever pithead baths are installed light baths should be established with them. The report warns, however, that artificial light baths should be given only under medical supervision.

McCollum Outlines New Sparton Equasonne Set

As revealed by Capt. William Sparks, president of the Sparks Withington Company, of Jackson, Mich., and released through the furniture store of James McCollum, 129-131 Irving street, one of the dealers, the new "Equasonne" was developed by Sparton engineers after two years of intensive study and experiment. It is new in principle and construction and conflicts with no existing patents. It is covered by five [illegible]. The two major changes it works in reception are in improved range and in tone qualities. The improvement in range is described as follows:

"The new Sparton 'Equasonne' circuit will increase the number of stations that can be heard with satisfaction by more than 300 percent. This is done partly by improved distance reception, but mainly by extending the range of satisfactory reception further down the dial than previously thought possible. In other words, the new circuit makes the lower wave lengths (below 250 meters) just as good as the higher ones.

"This will mean little to most radio owners now, but consider that fact that seventy percent of all stations are below 250 meters and it takes on tremendous significance. Programs from this seventy percent are as good as programs from the thirty percent on the upper lengths, but only the latter are popular now because they are received best."

The second major improvement claimed for the "Equasonne" circuit is in tone. A new fullness and depth is attained by tuning squarely across a definite wave band instead of tuning "to a peak" in the center of the band. This reproduces faithfully the overtones on which rich quality depends. Interference and conflicting signals are tuned out before amplification. The wave band is pre-selected and received, and random impulses are tuned out automatically.

Among the other noteworthy features of the Sparton "Equasonne" circuit are the following: Almost complete absence of the AC hum, an amplifying unit that amplifies from 1 to 15,000 instead of 1 to 5,000 (or at most 8,000) as at present, automatic tuning of the amplifying unit to any incoming frequency, regardless of wave length, practically complete elimination of tube noise.

Mr. McCollum states that the new "Equasonne" will arrive in Rahway soon and will be demonstrated to anyone interested.

Turks Must Sit in Pews, Wear Shoes in Mosques

Constantinople.—Turks hereafter must wear shoes in their mosques and sit in pews. A government commission on religious reform has decreed that squatting on rugs by barefoot worshipers is not compatible with modern civilization.

Altars as well as pews will be installed in the mosques which now are unfurnished except with rugs. Organs and choirs will replace the droning of the Koran by the priest, the only sound which has disturbed the spacious quietness hitherto.

This change is considered to be the boldest westernizing stroke of Mustapha Kemal's government since the fez was abolished as a head covering. The commission alters a ritual which has been followed for centuries.

Locate Caracas Houses by Blocks, Not Streets

Washington.—Street corners, not streets, are used for addresses in Caracas, capital of Venezuela, according to Frederic H. Grab, assistant trade commissioner, in a report to the Department of Commerce.

Houses in Caracas are always located by the corners of the block in which they are situated. If an address is given as a certain number followed by two names it means the place is located between those two corners.

For example, "12 San Francisco A Pajaritos" means the house is No. 12, between the corners of "San Francisco" and "Little Birds" (translated).

Nature's Protection

The law of protective coloration in animals relates to the law of nature which gives animals and birds the colors which enable them to hide themselves readily. For instance, some birds are colored about the same as the trunk of a tree.

Why There Are Snakes

An example of the tremendous rate of reproduction among snakes is reported from the University of California, where a snake in the museum presented the world with a brood of 52 youngsters.

Believe Sun Laid Eggs

There are scores of beliefs regarding man's origin. The queerest is that of the ancient Peruvians, who believed that the sun came down, laid two eggs, and from those the first human beings came.

ON STAGE AND SCREEN

[illegible]NT THEATER, ELIZABETH

London's slums have been called the cup that holds the world's dregs.

That would appeal to Emil Jannings, character star as a setting for his dramatic talents, and the idea evolved by him has been translated into a motion picture called "The Street of Sin" will be shown for four days commencing Sunday July 22.

The story is by Josepf von Sternberg and Benjamin Glazer, and deals with the life of a huge rowdy, who rules the slums with his fists, portrayed by Jannings.

A new kind of underworld—that of a large city's populace and mysterious Chinatown—furnishes the background of "The Hawk's Nest" starring Milton Sills, presented as one of the double feature program for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 26, 27, 28.

Sills operates one of these underworld cafes for tourists, while Montagu Love, another underworld gangster, operates a rival establishment, which is attempting to put Sills' place, "The Hawk's Nest," out of business through framing Sills' partner, played by Mitchell Lewis. The enmity between Sills and Love is deepened through Sills' protecting the dancer, played by Doris Kenyon, who is sought by Love.

There is something inherently fascinating about a song writer trying to market a popular song especially when presented in such a gay, lifting manner as in Laura La Plante's new feature comedy "Thanks for the Buggy Ride."

This picture is one of the finest of the La Plante's. It is the type that will do her a lot of good with the fans because it is infinitely pleasing, a rare combination of rollicking farce (not slapstick) and a struggling youthful love story.

Glenn Tryon is excellent in his role. Youthful and spontaneous, he is the ideal lead for Miss La Plante. Tryon, since the days when he was a two-reel comedian, has always had that spark which makes great stars. His originality is one of his greatest assets.

OLYMPIC PARK

Four acts of free vaudeville by two of America's foremost headliners will be given at Olympic Park next week. One by The Hostens in an amazing exhibition of equilibrium and the other by The Valentines those scintillating aerialists in an act entitled "The Spectacle Whirl."

The feat of the Hostens will be unlike anything seen this season on the open air stage. It will consist of a marvelous display of dexterity on a pyramid of tables the acme of agility.

The second act of the Valentines will be a double trapeze stunt and a feat by Mlle Valentine the dainty artist of the air in a single trapeze novelty introducing her latest rope descent.

The coming of Creatore and his band beginning July 30, is causing considerable comment. Four concerts daily from the regular bandstand in the open, near the shade of the tall elms and gardens of flowers.

The community singing led by C. Henry Earle is making a decided hit. The first 3 cent day at the park has been set for July 25.

PLYMOUTH CALLED TRIUMPH OF STANDARDIZED QUALITY

"The new Plymouth is the triumph of the principle of Standarized Quality. Without it the car it is could not have been possible." That is the [illegible] W. Frazer, Chrysler and Plymouth Sales Manager, pays this famous Chrysler principle.

Standardized Quality is given the credit by Mr. Frazer for making the new Plymouth the largest, roomiest and most powerful car of low price on the market, and for including in it feature after feature heretofore possible only to higher priced automobiles.

"No car in the low-priced field hitherto has been so large, so comfortable and so roomy," he says. "No car in that field ever has enjoyed its smoothness of operation, which extends throughout its speed range, has afforded the buyer such luxuriousness of body interiors, been as comfortable over rough roads or smooth pavement, had its surplus power always available for every driving need, had the benefit of its symmetry design, enjoyed the advantages of high compression; been equipped with internal expanding four-wheel hydraulic brakes; had its engine literally floating in rubber, further to promote the advantages of smoothness [illegible] known to the low-priced field.

"Yet the buyer in that field has wanted these features and is entitled to every one of them. It simply has been impossible up to the Plymouth's advent for that man to secure them."

HE HOPES TO FLY

A. T. Von Hagen, inventor, of Seattle, in the driving seat of his new airplane, a one-man cycle machine which flaps its wings via pedals.

Sails Long in Use

On a painted Greek vase of about 600 B. C. there is a ship represented with a sail, a single passenger and a helmsman. The pictures on coins of Phoenician ships are cruder than might be expected in view of the great reputation that people had as sailors. But the ships of Tarshish made many a successful trip to Britain and Spain for tin and other metals.

Rapid Movement

The Department of Agriculture says that the speed at which a bee's wing vibrates when in flight varies. When starting out from the hive it has been determined that a bee's wing vibrates 400 times a second. Entering the hive loaded, the vibrations decrease to about 330 times a second.

ON STAGE AND SCREEN

REGENT THEATER, ELIZABETH

London's slums have been called the cup that holds the world's dregs.

That would appeal to Emil Jannings, character star as a setting for his dramatic talents, and the idea evolved by him has been translated into a motion picture called "The Street of Sin" will be shown for four days commencing Sunday July 22.

The story is by [illegible] von Sternberg and Benjamin Glazer and deals with the life of a huge rowdy, who rules the slums with his fists, portrayed by Jannings.

A new kind of underworld—that of a large city's populace and mysterious Chinatown—furnishes the background of "The Hawk's Nest" starring Milton Sills, presented as one of the double feature program for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 26, 27, 28.

Sills operates one of these underworld cafes for tourists, while Montagu Love, another underworld gangster, operates a rival establishment, which is attempting to put Sills' place, "The Hawk's Nest," out of business through framing Sills' partner, played by Mitchell Lewis. The enmity between Sills and Love is deepened through Sills' protecting the dancer, played by Doris Kenyon, who is sought by Love.

There is something inherently fascinating about a song writer trying to market a popular song especially when presented in such a gay, lilting manner as in Laura La Plante's new feature comedy "Thanks for the Buggy Ride."

This picture is one of the finest of the La Plante's. It is the type that will do her a lot of good with the fans because it is infinitely pleasing, a rare combination of rollicking farce (not slapstick) and a struggling youthful love story.

Glenn Tryon is excellent in his role. Youthful and spontaneous, he is the ideal lead for Miss La Plante. Tryon since the days when he was a two-reel comedian, has always had that spark which makes great stars. His originality is one of his greatest assets.

OLYMPIC PARK

Four acts of free vaudeville by two of America's foremost headliners will be given at Olympic Park next week. One by The Hostens in an amazing exhibition of equilibrium and the other by The Valentines those scintillating aerialists in an act entitled "The Spectacle Whirl."

The feat of the Hostens will be unlike anything seen this season on the open air stage. It will consist of a marvelous display of dexterity on a pyramid of tables the acme of agility.

The second act of the Valentines will be a double trapeze stunt and a feat by Mlle Valentine the dainty artist of the air in a single trapeze novelty introducing her latest rope descent.

The coming of Creatore and his band beginning July 30, is causing considerable comment. Four concerts daily from the regular band stand in the open near the shade of the tall elms and gardens of flowers.

The community singing led by C. Henry Earle is making a decided hit. The first 3 cent day at the park has been set for July 25.

PLYMOUTH CALLED TRIUMPH OF STANDARDIZED QUALITY

"The new Plymouth is the triumph of the principle of Standardized Quality. Without it the car it is would not have been possible." That [illegible] Chrysler and Plymouth Sales Manager pays this famous Chrysler principle.

Standardized Quality is given the credit by Mr. Frazer for making the new Plymouth the largest, roomiest and most powerful car of low price on the market, and for including in it feature after feature heretofore possible only to higher priced automobiles.

"No car in the low-priced field hitherto has been so large, so comfortable and so roomy," he says. "No car in that field ever has enjoyed its smoothness of operation which extends throughout its speed range; has afforded the buyer such luxuriousness of body interiors; been as comfortable over rough roads or smooth pavement; had its surplus power always available for every driving need; had the benefit of its symmetry design, enjoyed the advantages of high compression; been equipped with internal expanding four wheel hydraulic brakes; had its engine literally float [illegible] advantages of [illegible] transmission [illegible] road shocks [illegible] known to the low priced field.

"[illegible] the buyers [illegible] have wanted these features and is entitled to every one of them. It simply has been impossible up to the Plymouth's advent for that man to secure them."

Sails Long in Use

On a painted Greek vase of about 600 B. C. there is a ship represented with a sail, a single passenger and a helmsman. The pictures on coins of Phoenician ships are cruder than might be expected in view of the great reputation that people had as sailors. But the ships of Tarshish made many a successful trip to Britain and Spain for tin and other metals.

Rapid Movement

The Department of Agriculture says that the speed at which a bee's wing vibrates when in flight varies. When starting out from the hive it has been determined that a bee's wing vibrates 400 times a second. Entering the hive loaded, the vibrations decrease to about 330 times a second.

HEART OF FLAMING GOLD

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

"LOVE heals all wounds," said Miss Mary softly.

The girl opposite her lifted he smooth, dark head swiftly. "It is love that wounds," she countered. "I was a happy girl until I looked in the face of love."

"Don't tell me you weren't happy then?"

"Happy," Jean's hands dropped into her lap, the roll of gay silks forgotten. "Yes, too happy. The radiance blinded me and I lived only from moment to moment, the world forgotten. Then," her brown eyes that always reminded Miss Mary of dewy brown pansies, shone with pain and her pink lips quivered, "came a day when I must choose between love and honor."

Cool rain spattered on the hot window panes and a robin outside called for more, apparently not satisfied with the silver drops that cooled the dry grasses and refreshed the thirsty flower petals. Miss Mary glanced at the absorbed face. "I need not ask you how you decided. Your eyes are a guarantee of honor and loyalty. Sometimes the narrow road of truth is difficult but, child, it is the only one for girls like you. It would ruin you to forsake an ideal."

"That isn't what grieves me," exclaimed Jean, resuming her needle resolutely, "it is because the story told me was builded upon a lie. I sent my lover away, refused to again see him and—" Jean's voice broke in spite of her pride—"it was all unnecessary. My chum wanted him herself and she told me a garbled tale that I believed and I felt I couldn't steal a man's heart away from my friend and I promised not to stand in her way. Too late I found that Rose had lied, that he had loved only me."

The invalid watched the downcast face in silence. "I do not wish to pry, my dear, but couldn't you let him know now? Don't let pride stand in the way. He is not to blame for the mistake you made and if he truly loves you he will forgive your lack of faith."

"It wasn't lack of faith. I knew he loved me, but Rose said he had loved her first and that if I'd cease seeing him she would get him back. Rose is very poor and—he is rich. It meant, so she said everything to her and her mother."

"Love is never wasted. You will meet another man who will cherish you."

"No, I shall love no one else. It isn't pride that keeps me from telling him—it is because I have no idea where he has gone. He was in India the last I heard of him—his picture was in the paper with a lion he'd killed. I've written his club, but my letter was returned. He had left no address."

"A rich man would have houses," objected Miss Mary. "Men like that are obliged to leave addresses for business reasons."

"He has an estate in Long Island, but I don't know exactly where it is. I imagine that he had only a guest card to the club in the city and that's why he left no forwarding address."

Jean, visiting some wealthy friends in the country, had gone to Miss Mary's cottage to read to her, as did many of the neighbors, and she had asked what she could do to help her.

"If you would only cut my pieces for me and join the ends so I can start a new silk rug," Miss Mary had answered. "I can crochet nicely, but I can't manage the large pieces."

Jean's city friends would have been amused at seeing the petted person carefully cutting strips of silk fabrics and then sewing them in the strips required for crocheting. It had seemed a bit bewildering to Jean and she had privately marveled at the thrift of the very poor. To her those bits of silk seemed useless and she would gladly have made a money gift that would have saved the invalid from the necessity of making the rugs to sell, but she'd been warned not to make any mistake. Miss Mary was a gentlewoman and would have been poignantly hurt to any suggestion of charity. So Jean had pricked her white fingers and grown warm with fatigue as she sewed the flimsy bits of silk stockings and ends from discarded gowns.

"Say, Miss Mary, you haven't any rose color. Don't you like gay colors in your rugs?" she had demanded, touching with almost abhorent fingers the drabs and browns.

Miss Mary's eyes twinkled youthfully. "I adore them," she confessed, "and, especially, I love gold. I wish we had one of those metal bits to make the center."

"I have some pieces," cried the artful Jean, who had fished for this opening. "I've an old evening cloak of gold tissue that is lined with rose satin. It is in the ragbag, I'm afraid," she fibbed. "But you won't mind that."

"Mind it?" cried the other rapturously, "bring the pieces next time you come, will you?"

Jean refused a moonlight picnic to get that perfectly good coat cut up into stripe, not liking to trust her maid with the work. She was determined that patient Miss Mary should have one rug to her liking.

"Strange that the cloak should have given out," commented the invalid when the rosy flood of satin was dropped on her reclining chair. "It is of marvelous quality and does not look worn."

"One cannot always tell by appearance," bubbled Jean, her eyes dancing gayly as she hunted for a spool of rose silk to join the ends of that silk—the garment had had a Jenny label sewn in it when Jean began her ripping. "I have any number of silk stockings that I'm going to bring down on my next trip. We'll have a ducky rug."

So the heart of that rug was soft, yet flaming gold. Jean had placed the huge ball in Miss Mary's hands as soon as it was rolled. "You begin to crochet and I'll have the rose ready in no time. It was nice long strips," she concluded smiling joyously at her little secret.

The rose satin was embroidered in threads of gold and the even rows that encircled the heart of gold made a brave showing.

"Jean, I can't sell it," breathed the invalid when it was finished. "I'd rather sell my tulip quilt that I've always refused to part with. Isn't this exquisite? It reminds me of radiant youth, these glowing colors that look as though they could never fade."

Jean had gone back to the city, and the little path to the cottage was snow-covered when Miss Mary had a caller.

"My sister sent me down to see if I could persuade you to sell one of your quaint quilts. I hear you have one of the rare hooked rugs—a ship rug," he remarked after he had presented his card for introduction.

Miss Mary smiled genially. She loved to have her treasures appreciated. "You a . standing on it. It is a four-masted schooner under full sail, done on sail cloth. It is, indeed, a rare specimen, but I'll sell it. I indulged myself by keeping a rug I made to sell, see," she indicated the exquisite rose and gold rug that made a patch of glory in the late sunset as it lay across her knees, "a young girl I love gave me the pieces and she tired herself out sewing up the strips for me. Youth doesn't often spend hours toiling like that for an old person who is not her kin."

Politely he wrenched his eyes from his glorious find and turned his attention to the silky rug. "It is indeed beautiful," he said at last, a look of sadness overspreading his fine face, "the colors remind me of a great loss I sustained once—faith in the one girl in the world."

There was a poignant note of bleakness in the rich voice that diverted the invalid's attention from the quaint pattern of her rug and she looked across at him intently: "I hope you won't think me inquisitive," she began slowly, selecting her words with infinite care, "but I'm going to ask you to bear with an old woman a moment. I listened to a story lately that impressed me because of the useless hurt to two young hearts. Will you tell me the name of the girl who abused your faith? A girl who once wore a cloak of rose and gold?"

He started. His fingers had been straying over the rosy braided silk. "A cloak," he repeated, "she wore a cloak of that material the last time I saw her. She told me she loved me and that very night she telephoned me saying she claimed a woman's privilege of changing her mind."

"There was a lie between you," breathed Miss Mary, "that is her—her name is Jean."

He nodded, his blue eyes probing hers—he'd suffered too long to accept what the gods were promising. "Out of all the world of girls, it isn't possible that you have known my Jean."

"Not only do I know and love her, but," gayly she twinkled at him across that rug of love, "Jean is visiting again in the city. She was here at the Merrills only last week. You must hurry back for she's planning to go to Japan shortly."

When the explanations had been made and all cleared between the lovers, he said, "Jean, if you hadn't happened to give Miss Mary your old silk scraps we'd have never found each other again. Who'd think that a rag rug could play the part of Cupid?"

"It wasn't an ordinary rag rug," she demurred, remembering the extravagant whim that had impelled her to cut into bits the exquisite garment to please the old lady, "it was a love rug—rose and gold are the colors of love."

Botanists Know Only Four Species of Cedar

Dozens of kinds of trees are commonly called cedars but, to the botanist, there are only four justly entitled to the name.

To these four species has been given the Latin name Cedrus. The first the most famous of these true cedars is Cedrus Libani, the cedar of Lebanon. From it came the wood used by King Solomon for his temple. This tree, formerly common on the slope of Mount Lebanon, in Syria is said to be now almost extinct.

The second of the true cedars is Cedrus Dedora, the deodar of the Himalaya mountains. Under its shade the action of many of Kipling's Indian stories takes place. The third is a rare tree in the island of Cyprus in the Mediterranean sea. The fourth is Cedrus Atlantica, growing in the Atlas mountains of North Africa, and commonly known as the Atlas cedar. All four closely resemble each other and are handsome trees, sometimes seen in cultivation in America, more often in Europe.

Big Oil Company Uses Goats to Cut Its Grass

Oklahoma City, Okla.—The mowing machine and lawn mower business took a blow at Ponca City, Okla., recently when a big oil company decided to use goats to keep the grass cut on its 160-acre tank farm. There are on the farm more than 100 tanks, holding about 140,000,000 gallons of crude oil and gasoline, and strict precautions against fire are necessary. The goats do not play with fire, they won the contract on the grounds of safety and economy.

was given his scout oath. Most of the meeting was taken up with suggestions that would better the troop, Scoutmaster Linton receiving many that were real good. The Beaver Patrol has decided to elect a new Patrol leader.

Troop 47 had its meeting at the home of Scoutmaster Tom Conway Thursday evening, July 12. Patrol Leader George Smith gave a short talk on the troop paper that the patrol leaders are arranging to print. The boys have all turned in suggestions for a name. Scoutmaster Conway spoke on the camping trip to Lake Hopatcong and will give further information of a more definite nature after a meeting with the members of the troop committee, who are giving great assistance.

Field Executive C. J. Shaefer and Assistant Scoutmaster Frank Walters of Troop 42 are on a motor tour of some of the southern states. Cards received show them to have stopped at Gettysburg, Lynchburg and Richmond. They are expected home late Saturday night.

Expert Savage Fishermen

The Sandwich Islanders and the people of the Ladrones are exceptional as savage fishermen, having no fear of fairly deep water. The latter think nothing of going fishing in 10 fathoms in light canoes called proas, rigged with one sail, in the construction of which their ancestors most likely copied the Malay pirates.

FIREMEN COME FROM BEHIND TO WIN, 6-4

Redshirts Were Almost Beaten By Woodbridge Bearcats

The Rahway Firemen overcome a four-run lead to trim the Woodbridge Bearcats at Riverside Park Wednesday night. The Woodbridge battered Mooney's delivery in the fourth inning for four runs. Harry Collins pitched the balance of the game for the Redshirts, and the Woodbridge players were unable to score again. Collins led his team at bat, getting three hits, two of them doubles, and two runs.

Hits by Harry and Charles Collins and Locky and Laurent hit by pitched ball together with an error by Mullen gave Rahway four runs in the fifth and tied the score. Hits by Chaillet, Harry Collins and Laurent and an error by E. Gerity gave the firemen two runs in the sixth and clinched the game.

Chinese Market Day

Market day in China usually affords many quaint sights to the foreigner. As the country is one largely devoid of vehicles, the commodities to be offered for sale are carried to the market places in many odd ways: by wheelbarrow, on manback, poised on the heads of women, or swung to a pole borne on the shoulders of two carriers.

Ramblers to Stack Up Against Port Reading

The Ramblers will make another attempt to play Saturday afternoon if the weather permits. They will stack up against the strong Port Reading A. C. classed as one of the strongest semi-pro teams in Middlesex County. They will have in their battery "Curly" Sullivan or Hoorta pitching and Tuska catching, while the Ramblers will depend on Madden on the mound and Bill Hedeman catching.

Valuable Sugar

Milk sugar is sugar obtained from the milk of mammalia. Such sugar does not ferment. It is usually sold as a fine, white powder that looks like confectioners' sugar, and is used in modifying milk for babies, in the preparation of drugs, and in many other ways.

P. S. Operates Largest Bus Fleet in Country

Public Service Coordinated Transport operates the largest fleet of buses in the United States, according to a special article in the July 15 issue of Public Service News. The author of the article, Leroy V. Lewis, superintendent of bus maintenance, says that "from the beginning of bus operation in 1924, the company has increased the number of revenue vehicles from 682 to the present total of 1,538 buses and approximately 231 service cars and trucks. This operation covers a large part of the State of New Jersey and necessitates many outside garages to house and maintain the buses and service cars, exclusive of the bus shops.

"In order to more fully coordinate with the Newark car shops, the bus shops were recently moved from Irvington into a new building at 703 Ferry street, Newark, on the same property with the Newark car shops. This building, including the bus stores, occupies an area of approximately 37,000 square feet, and is one of the most completely equipped shops in the country, having facilities for handling all kinds of bus repairs, [illegible] work and construction of new chassis.

"Public Service operates and maintains a mixed fleet of buses from the purely city type to the full parlor type and interstate bus. The total monthly mileage operated is more than [illegible] bus miles. This operation necessitates a rigid inspection [illegible] at the outside garages. Some of the buses operate more than 700 [illegible] approximately [illegible] This is particularly true in the Camden section where a large number of deluxe buses are in service.

"The maintenance schedule calls for the inspection of a bus every 1,000 miles, which is approximately a week's mileage. At this inspection the bus is placed on a ramp, thoroughly greased and inspected.

"A complete change of oil is made in the engine and any adjustments that are necessary are made. The bus is then given a road test to determine its performance. Gas-electric buses are tested for engine performance on a water barrel, the latter acting as a rheostat and is connected directly to the generator of the bus. This permits determining the performance of the engine without the bus being moved.

"The Bus Maintenance Department is continually watching for improvements in the field which would be of benefit to Public Service. As a result of this there were recently installed twelve high pressure grease guns in the operating garages. These guns are capable of handling a heavy grade of grease which is very desirable in bus lubrication, and have also effected considerable economy over the previous method.

"At the present time installation is being made in the larger garages of several dynamic brake testing machines. These machines measure the breaking effort at each braked wheel of a bus. The wheel of the motor vehicle is turned against friction or brake resistance by the power of the electric motor and the resulting effort is read on a meter in terms of pounds of road pull. The installation of this machine in a garage permits the equalization of the braking effect at each wheel and eliminates the necessity of further test.

"To facilitate the operation of buses in and out of the garages and at the various terminals installation has been recently made of many electric gasoline pumps. Consideration is also being given at the present time to the installation of bus washing machines in an effort to eliminate some of the labor involved in the washing of the buses.

"For the maintenance of equipment in the Southern Division this division has its own shops at Camden, which make both major and minor repairs of buses. It is equipped with machinery and tools for the rapid repair of all units.

"Under the self maintenance system which is now in operation, most of the repair work is accomplished at the outside garages, but buses and units which it is found impractical to repair at the assigned locations are sent in to the shops for overhaul."

ALPHA GAMMI PHI NINE BLANKED BY "Y" TEAM

Madden on Mound Allows Six Hits, Fans Eleven

The Rahway Y. M. C. A. blanked the Alpha Gamma Phi, 4 to 0 in a Twilight League game Tuesday night. Although the Alphas played without an error, their batting was curtailed by the delivery of Madden, who allowed only six hits and fanned eleven. It was one of the hardest fights the "Y" team has run up against in the league. Housman pitched effectively for the fraternity nine.

Bragger doubled on covering center and right field for the Y. M. C. A., a task that would have been much more difficult except for Madden's work in the box.

Swierk was the only Alpha Gamma player to collect two hits, but Bragger, Henderson and French got a pair apiece for the winners. Tom Collins and Mauren did some fast work for the fraternity. Laurent smashed out a long drive to deep center which looked good for a two-bagger until Thomas caught it.

State Specialist Pleads For Wide Vegetable Use

Vegetable dinners once or twice a week offer a pleasant change from the usual meals with meat, and July and August offers a wide variety of tender vegetables from which to choose many appetizing combinations for such dinners.

The state foods specialist of the college of agriculture at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, is suggesting for this purpose the selection of vegetables that have a contrast of texture, that harmonize in color, and that blend well in flavor. Buttered peas and carrots cooked together or separately, beets with sour sauce, scalloped potatoes, and cheese and cabbage salad with cherry pie for the older members of the family and cherry jello for the children are proposed as desirable for one dinner.

For another day the specialist recommends buttered string beans, cauliflower with cheese sauce, spinach lettuce and tomato salad, and baked custard served with fresh fruit and crisp cookies.

According to the specialist, much of the dislike for vegetables is because of poor preparation. She says: "Steam as many vegetables as possible to prevent the loss of mineral elements. Cook vegetables in a small amount of water and only until tender. The longer the cooking is continued the greater the loss in flavor and in vitamins. Most vegetables retain more of their characteristic flavor if they are served with butter rather than white sauce, but for variety now and then a white sauce or cheese sauce may be enjoyed.

"Vegetables supply bulk and thereby satisfy the appetite without burdening the body with foods rich in starch and fat which produce heat. Hot weather demands a generous use of vegetables and fruits in planning meals."

Old Belief Shattered

Experiments made at the University of California have proved that a bull's reaction to the color of red is no more than to any other color. In fact, judging by the conduct of the steers tested, it seems doubtful whether they can tell red from green, or white from blue. It is even possible that the animals have no realization of color at all.

Taking Happiness

The worst phase of modern education, says a roamer and philosopher in the American Magazine, is that it is builded upon the assumption that taking is happiness.

NATIVES PUZZLED BY U. S. SCIENTIST

Think Anthropologist Is Hunting for Treasure.

Washington.—When an American comes down to the Caribbean and begins industriously digging along a coast where pirates once flourished what is he probably looking for? If you answer "buried treasure" you agree with what the people of Santo Domingo thought when Herbert Kreiger of the United States National museum landed at their island with a request to dig among the shell heaps left there by prehistoric cave men.

Mr. Kreiger had credentials. He is a straightforward person. But—he had a strong chest with his baggage!

The Santo Dominicans remembered that a few years ago a pot of Haitian gold was found on the governor's estate, and they watched the digging American. The strong chest which Mr. Kreiger carefully loaded with bits of broken crockery of prehistoric Indians was examined incredulously. When the visitor sailed for the States with no doubloons and with a perfectly satisfied expression on his face, they were still puzzled.

In his report of the expedition, which Mr. Kreiger has just presented to the Smithsonian institution, he says that the caves of Samana bay yielded some thirty kinds of shells. These represent the remains of seafood dinners eaten by innumerable cave dwellers who occupied the island before modern inhabitants came. Mr. Kreiger also collected bones of birds and animals cast into the refuse heaps of the cave dwellings, and brought back specimens to show the kind of animal life that abounded in this tropical island before Columbus' time.

The task of piecing together the civilization of the prehistoric Indians was made more difficult by the fact that fertilizer concerns have removed large quantities of the shell heaps in collecting bat guano and limestone phosphate from the caves.

"The region is of special interest to anthropologists," Mr. Kreiger reports, "because of the presence of many heretofore unexplored aboriginal village sites and cave habitations."

Escapes With Five Kisses, Jailed for Taking Sixth

New York.—If Michael Gallagher had not been homesick for the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn, it might never have happened, he explained in police court. He was homesick and so he visited the section.

It was as wonderful as ever—and so were the Greenpoint girls. He kissed five he passed on the street. All seemed to get the idea that he meant well and to believe a watched kiss never boils, anyway, so they shooed him on his way forgivingly.

Then he met Miss Mae Hiryak, a stenographer who screamed and fought, and three Greenpoint young men who happened to be passing leaped upon Gallagher.

"Your honor," Gallagher said the next morning, "I believe Greenpoint has the prettiest girls in the world. I just couldn't help it."

"But Greenpoint can't stand for this. Five dollars and three days in jail," replied the court.

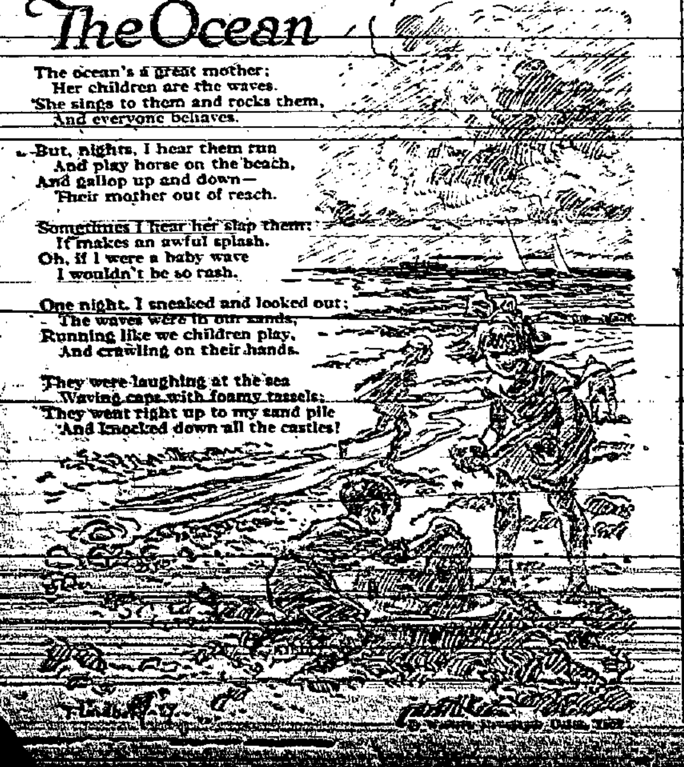
Songs of Plain Folks

By James Lewis Hays

The Ocean



The ocean's a great mother;
Her children are the waves.
She sings to them and rocks them,
And everyone behaves.

But, nights, I hear them run
And play horse on the beach,
And gallop up and down—
Their mother out of reach.

Sometimes I hear her slap them;
It makes an awful splash.
Oh, if I were a baby wave
I wouldn't be so rash.

One night, I sneaked and looked out;
The waves were in our sands,
Running like we children play,
And crawling on their hands.

They were laughing at the sea
Waving caps with foamy tassels;
They went right up to my sand pile
And knocked down all the castles!

SAFETY COUNCIL WANTS CROSSINGS KEPT CLEAR

Has Secured Co-operation of The Police Department

Announcement was made Wednesday night at the meeting of the Safety Council, by President S. D. Love, that he had received the assurance of Chief of Police John A. Smith that just as soon as possible stop signs will be painted on Lincoln Highway at important street intersection, so that when the traffic line is held up the intersection will be kept clear.

The painting will be done at the highway intersection of Hamilton street, Central avenue, Maple terrace, Milton avenue and Lake and Hazelwood avenues. Just as soon as this is done members of the Safety Council will go out on Sundays to acquaint automobilists with the new regulation.

William H. Armstrong spoke of speeding on Central avenue, and arrangements were made toward curbing this. Announcement was made of the annual meeting to be held August 2 at which time officers will be elected and arrangements made for the coming year's work. The purchase of new supplies was authorized through the secretary A. Bruce Cook. The matter of safety posters and representation at the National Safety Council meeting at New York City on October 2 were laid over till after the annual meeting.

President Love reported that the highway lights at the Hamilton street and Central avenue intersection have been installed and that they are not in operation only due to the fact that a certain type of cable needed as a connection has not yet been secured. They will probably be in operation soon.

Those present were President S. D. Love, secretary A. Bruce Cook, Maurice Chailler, Raymond Smith, Walter B. Crowell, W. H. Armstrong, Rev. [illegible] Reilly, Stephen C. Bell and Percy Foulks.

Static is a natural atmospheric interference. It is caused by stray natural electrical discharges, traveling through the same medium. It is difficult to tune it out of the way. It is more prevalent by day than by night and far more troublesome in summer than in winter.

BUSINESS TALKS

[illegible] results of the newspaper campaign were gratifying.

They reported that the public has learned that it can not afford to neglect the advertising in its favorite newspapers and that people search through these advertising columns for news of new styles, arrival of seasonal commodities and countless things that could be named.

They argue that the information given to the public through the advertising is of a great interest to the reader as a front page news story of surpassing interest.

A multitude of people are more interested by the things they see in the advertising columns than by anything in the news. The fact that they can save quite a number of dollars on some purchase they must make, or that they can obtain for a reasonable price something they wanted badly which they had felt beyond their means, interests them much more than some news event relating to people they never knew or heard of before.

The intense interest felt by the people in advertising provides an opportunity for the enterprising business man to greatly increase the sale of his goods. Many have gone on to prosperity and fortune by taking advantage of that opportunity.

Where Gold and Silver Are Trodden in Dirt

Algiers, Morocco.—Gold and silver "dust" that has been accumulating for centuries is to be taken from Moroccan jewelers' "souks" and sold. The souks are the market places: Jewelers, like all other tradesmen, work there in the open or in squalid little shops, son succeeding father in the business, always on the same spot.

The "sweepings" so valuable in American and European jewelry workrooms, never have been gathered and smelted here. The first effort to do this will be tried by a newly formed French company, whose experts believe there are fortunes in gold and silver filings trodden into the dirt floors of the native shops.

Organized Minorities

The power of the organized minority was never better illustrated than in the fight made on the naval appropriations bill in the last Congress. There can be little doubt that the great majority of our people are in favor of adequate national defense. True it is that we are as a people, almost unanimously opposed to war, but this does not mean that we are impractical enough and foolish enough to want to give up our weapons of defense in the chimercial hope that the other nations of the world will do likewise. The history of the world abundantly proves that just the opposite is true and that the nation which disarms is on the road either to annihilation or to a second or third rating in the affairs of the world.

But despite the sound general national sentiment in America, despite the fact it was shown time and again that the building of the cruisers provided for in the administration naval program not only would put us in race for naval supremacy but would not in fact give us a parity with England in the 5-5-3 ratio to which we are justly entitled, the naval bill was held up in Congress and the pacifists achieved a great victory. This victory it may be said in passing has so greatly encouraged them that they plan to fly to even greater heights in their fight on national defense in the coming Congress, on the lecture platform and in every other way possible.

Now the pacifists of various stripes who went before Congress represent only a small minority of American public opinion. But they have been carefully organized and they have their propaganda machinery so well oiled that it creates the impression that when these misled professors and their cohorts speak the entire nation trembles—when, as a matter of fact, most of the people are so busy with their every day affairs they do not even take the trouble to learn what it is all about.

The naval program as proposed by Secretary Wilbur was cut from seventeen to fifteen cruisers, and the bill was finally put through the House. It went to the Senate and the bill rested in committee until shortly before adjournment when it was reported out but was held up in the rush of business in the closing session. The fifteen cruisers are needed and badly needed, and they will not then give us the strength we are entitled to under the 5-5-3 ration agreement.

Congress will meet again in December and the naval bill will come up again. It is hoped that it will be passed and that such further steps will be taken as will assure that our navy will be one of the most powerful in the world, amply able to take care of the interests of the American people in case of trouble.

But make no mistake about it. The pacifists will be on the job crying militantly they are well organized, and trying everything in their power to discredit sane and constructive efforts made for our national defense. Unfortunately they are well organized, and the people who will have the most to suffer from unpreparedness in case of trouble are not organized.

It is to be hoped, however, that when the naval bill comes up again the real Americans will make their desires on the subject known to their senators and representatives. The pacifists will be there with sterotyped petitions and canned protests. Make no mistake about that.

Tribute to Nation's Mothers

"The Laurels of a Mother" is the title of an eloquent tribute to the mothers of the nation by James Montgomery Beck, Representative in Congress from Pennsylvania and well known writer and statesman, in the current issue of the National Republic. In paying tribute to the mothers of America Congressman Beck says in part:

"In the passing of the decades, that have given us this ever busy restless world, many changes have been wrought in the elements of nature and man. Nature's laws have been disregarded and her forces harnessed to do the works of man. Many prosperous nations have been established and passed to decay. Many and great have been the accomplishments of man in the past few centuries and still he is not satisfied with the blessings that have been bestowed upon him, but continues in his never-ending search for undiscovered facts. But even with all these changes, with all the modern invention of man, there still remains as in the beginning one thing that will never die, and that is the love and devotion of a mother for her children.

"She is the first to welcome us into this world and the last to forsake the new-made grave when God sees fit to take from her the little one whom she loved so well. She is the one great doctor, who through all the long watches of the night sits at the bedside of the beloved one and, sacrificing her own pleasure and rest, nurses it back to life and health.

"There is an old German saying which should echo pleasantly through all human hearts: 'God could not be everywhere and therefore made the mothers.' The mother holds the key to the soul. She it is who stamps the coin of character. The grandeur, the tenderness, the everlasting and divine significance of the mother is but too faintly appreciated by the human race. All that is to be desired in this world would not be a worthy recompense to her from her children and her country.

"The call of our republic today is much greater than in the days of our forefathers. Our responsibilities are greater, and our industries both at home and abroad have increased so much that prosperity seems to be everywhere. But with all this prosperity there are many grave dangers to counterbalance our triumphs. We are daily being reminded of the fact that our future success lies wholly in the character of our people and of the necessity of preparing to safeguard the high ideals of American citizenship. The future of any country is entirely dependent upon the mothers of the country who are to be its future custodians. The mother's trust is even greater than that of our own statesman. When we praise one of our great statesmen, he is only reaping the reward of the everlasting care of his mother. As one of our Presidents has said, 'All that I am, and all that I hope to be, I owe to my angel mother.'"

Parachutes are improving all the time, and eventually those marooned on the ninth floor needn't wait for the elevator.

Uncle Sam's New Money

Everyone is waiting expectantly for the new paper money which, we are informed in dispatches from Washington, will soon be with us. The new money will be standarized in design and about two-thirds the size of the present currency. This is in line with the record of the Treasury Department for efficiency and economy. The new money will be economical because millions of dollars will be saved annually in cost of material, and time will be saved in production because twelve bills can be printed on one press at one impression while only eight of the present bills can be so printed.

Standardizing the designs will also be a big help to the public in counting and watching its money. For instance—there are now five different kinds of ten dollar bills. Under the new system of currency there will be but one kind and it will be easily distinguishable. The one dollar bill will have a design entirely different from the designs of the higher denominations, and will be recognizable at a glance. This is especially sensible in view of the fact that it will then be impossible for a counterfeiter to raise a one dollar bill to a ten or a bill of a hundred dollar denomination. The one dollar design would be recognized at once. The one dollar bill will carry George Washington's face and the $100 bill will have Franklin's photograph on the front, with an entirely different design from the one dollar bill on the back. Each of the eleven different denominations to be printed will have the face of a different patriot on the front and a separate and easily distinguishable design on the back.

It is interesting to note that the present change in our currency is the first of any importance in more than sixty years. From time to time proposals have been made to change the size and designs of our bills but these have always met with failure. The present plan was adopted after a great deal of study and consideration by the Treasury experts and is believed to be the last word in efficiency and economy. In addition to other advantages the smaller size of the bills will enable the fellow who has money to get along with a smaller and less cumbersome purse.

The change will mark the passing of the yellow-back bill as the new issues will all be green backs. And as soon as you learn which picture appears on the different denominations of bills it will be almost impossible to short-change you unless you are half asleep.

The new bills will reach the public gradually, and will be paid out as the old bills are taken in. The old bills will then be destroyed.

An Improved Postal Regulation

The new postal rates law which went into effect on July 1 contains one clause which will have special popularity and strong approval. We refer to the case of those persons who for any one of many reasons may wish to send a newspaper to somebody in another community—not through subscription through the office of the paper, but just a casual single issue. Perhaps there has been occurence of some little event that is of mutual interest and concern and a mention of which is made in the paper. The first impulse is to wrap up a paper and send it. In the days which preceded the war-jazzed rates, this was frequently done, especially in the semi-rural communities where, having run through the items of a local daily or weekly, it was a common practice to wrap up the paper, affix a one-cent stamp to the wrapper and send it to a hometown fellow sojourning in some distant city. The courtesy was appreciated and it entailed but slight expense.

But the war period and the days that followed the war brought regulations which made this process so expensive and so complicated that the custom was very largely abandoned. Such mail was carried for two cents for each two ounces up to eight ounces, plus fourth-class zone rates, plus a two-cents service charge on each paper weighing more than eight ounces. This necessitated a study of zones and zone rates, and in the end it was often found that the mailing cost was far in excess of the original cost of the newspaper.

Now that system has been abolished, being replaced by a plan described in the following simple and reasonable order: "The rate on second-class matter newspapers, etc., has been established at one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof regardless of distance."

Thus is brief, fair, simple, directly to the point and generally satisfactory. In order to mail a single copy of the home paper, one needs only to place it on the letter scales and apply one cent in postage for each two ounces. This will probably result in a considerable increase in the private mailing of newspapers, but of course the more thoroughly convenient way for Rahwayans is to subscribe for the Record in order that your out-of-town friends may receive a copy of each issue, with all the mailing trouble handled for you by the publishers.

Caution and a Remedy

The daily exodus of Rahwayans bent upon a good time in the country, at the seashore or mountain climbing and camping is on. Each succeeding day sees the ranks of local pleasure seekers increasing and will continue to increase for weeks to come. One of the enemies of a season of out of doors is poison ivy, and many persons there be who have come in contact with this thing to their sorrow. It should be avoided zealously, as extreme cases of suffering frequently result.

A contemporary gives us a remedy for poisoning due to ivy, "washing in a five percent solution of ferric chloride in a 50-50 mixture of water and glycerine," or "use a five percent solution of potassium permanganate in water, which oxidizes and destroys the poison." Good though these remedies may be, there is another, simpler and effective.

Let any person—man, woman or child—who has been handling poison ivy, or been where it is growing, bathe hands and face in a strong solution of washing soda and water, and let it dry on the skin, which it will do in a few minutes. It will be well to take this precaution whenever going where the poison ivy grows.

Some persons are so susceptible to poisoning that they are affected by the wind blowing from the poison vine, especially at this season of the year. There are many vacant lots in Rahway, where rank poison ivy flourishes. Its bright green leaves are attractive to children. It should be rooted out and destroyed in "clean-up week."

The biggest race of the season is going to be the Brown Derby and it won't be decided until the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

TARDY

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

With fumbling hands and awkward feet
A youngster slips into his seat,
Ashamed the teacher's look to meet.

There is a panic in his heart,
But not of fear—but just to start
The day not having done his part.

And something of rebellion, too.
"Of course, she'll blame it all on you,
And think you played. It isn't true."

Ah, what's the use of being good?
He ran the fastest that he could.
She won't believe him. No one would.

And so he stumbles through the day,
And stutters things he has to say,
And wishes he could run away.

But Mother had to telephone,
Mother had matters of her own,
And so he had to dress alone.

Maybe he was a little slow,
That's why he's late. Well, maybe so,
He says, but how was he to know?

Mother had duties to be done,
And quite forgot about her son.
"My goodness! Here's you cap. Now run!"

But when the children stand in line,
If some one isn't there at nine,
I hope the fault is never mine.

A doctor, called to a ranch house in the Northwest on other matters, found a cat with a leg cut off. He made an efficient leg for the cat out of a clothespin. This didn't work out as well as expected, for the peg leg with its tap, tap on the wooden floor frightened the mice and rats away before the poor cat could get near enough for a spring. It nearly died from starvation until it was decided to put a rubber nipple over the peg leg. This worked beautifully. The cat could cross the floor with the quietness of an Indian walking in the forest [illegible]

The peg struck center in the hole, plugging it up as clean as a whistle.

It is presumed that Boston fishermen would be interested in this discovery of a New York angler, that is, if they could find some worms. The whisky-soaked angleworm had seized the fish by the throat with a stranglehold.

Wild geese were flying overhead at the time and one of them must have decided to lay an egg on the wing.

It Takes So Little

It takes so little to make us sad,
Just a slighting word or a doubting sneer;
Just a scornful smile on some lips held dear;
And our footsteps lag, though the goal seemed near,
And we lose the courage and hope we had—
So little it takes to make us sad.

It takes so little to make us glad,
Just the cheering clasp of a friendly hand,
Just a word from one who can understand;
And we finish the task we long had planned,
And we lose the doubt and the fear we had—
So little it takes to make us glad.

Learn to Play Lip Golf

By RING LARDNER

To the Editor:

It takes all kinds of golf players to make a world in the good old summer time, but along about this time of yr. they's only 2 classes you might say namely haply marred men and guys that can afford to go South. The 1st named has got a big advantage in many ways. For inst. they don't half to spend from 1 night to a wk. in one of them ten tangle Pullmans witch some people jokengly calls a sleeping car. I could go on and name a whole lot of other advantages witch a married man has got if they was any.

On the other hand the bachelor goes South in the winter and can golf all the yr. around and are right on their game when the season opens up North whereas the men with baggage has got to begin all over again every May, and it generally always takes them till the 1st of Nov. to find out what is the matter with their game.

AN EXHIBITION GAME

Wife—What train did you come out on?

Husband—I missed the first two but got home on the third.

Wife—We caught a mouse this p. m.

Husband—Did he get into a trap?

Wife—No. Carrie killed him with a broom.

Husband—That's a good Carrie.

Wife—I'm going to get rid of her though. I'll tell her I've decided to do my own work.

Husband—A fine idea!

Wife—Will you have some more bread?

Husband—I can't get rid of this slice.

Wife—No more potatoes or nothing?

Husband—How is the greens?

Wife—All gone. I'm sorry. Did you have much lunch?

Husband—I had a couple of good rolls.

Wife—We must hire a new chauffeur. Gus don't never clean the car.

Husband—Gus can't drive, neither.

Wife—The garage man says he can get us a good one.

Husband—(pretending he has a cold)—Caddy?

Wife—You you better see him.

Husband—I hooked one today.

Wife—Oh, you did! Who?

Husband—Hazard.

Wife—The Bucks' driver? But I thought they paid him $25 a wk.

Husband—I topped it.

Wife—But we can't afford it.

Husband—Why not?

Wife—You can't always win at poker. By the way, how much does the boys owe you from last night?

Husband—Spalding 50, Victor 75 and the Colonel 31.

Wife—I bet Victor didn't dast tell his wife. She's a terrible loser. You and her would make a good team. You ought to know her.

Husband—Ouimet.

Clark Mayor Deplores Swimming at Jackson's

Editor, Record.

Will you kindly permit me space enough in which to express my views in regard to what I would define as a public nuisance in permitting swimming and bathing in the pond known as Jackson's Lake.

As an official and citizen of the Township of Clark with residence overlooking this beautiful body of water which up to a fortnight or so ago was peaceful and pleasing to the eye has, under the graciousness of Mr. Savage in permitting swimming, become a condition almost beyond comprehension. But alas! This stream is the source of Rahway's drinking supply. There are many whose only supply of water is supplied by the municipal water plant, but that does not seem to be of any concern to Mr. Savage, for hasn't he a wonderful driven well on his premises?

Believing that some sort of recreation should be provided for the various municipalities for a cooling dip in the hot, sweltering days and nights of summer yet, I do not approve of the nuisance created by those taking advantage of the beautiful surroundings of Jackson's Pond.

The Union County Park Commission while expending large sums of money for developing a park system in Union County, could perform no better service and recreation to the taxpayers of Union County than by considering a swimming pool for the many pleasures and enjoyment of the many of the opportunity to swim and bathe of the hundreds who would avail themselves under proper sanitary conditions.

Mr. Savage in being informed of the swimming at Jackson's Pond retorted "Let them swim," and then knowing from past experience that the crowds would increase nightly, runs away and secludes himself in his summer home in Spring Lake safe from the turmoil and nuisance and from the officials of Rahway. Is Mr. Savage assuming the role of a physician and [illegible] conditions as they are in connection with the source of water [illegible] prescribing a dose much [illegible] than Rahway is able to [illegible] a case of [illegible] At any rate Mr. Savage's attitude can be termed [illegible]

SELLERS OF BLOOD SEEK TO UNIONIZE

"Bleeders" Want to Raise Scale of Rates.

Berlin.—Competition in the sale of human blood has become so keen in Vienna that the price has dropped to 50 Austrian shillings a liter.

It is blood is used in blood transfusions. These have become so common in medical practice in that city that a regular trade has developed and quite a number of people live solely from the sale of their blood.

Many of them have been bled 12 to 14 times, the record is 16 times.

The Eiselberg clinic is the distribution center of the "bleeders"; from there they are sent to the various hospitals as needed.

The "bleeding" trade is, of course, the last refuge of the impoverished. After about 14 bleedings, however, they find themselves "without blood and without money," and the constant bleeding has made them incapable of heavy manual labor for life.

The names of the patients whose lives are often saved by the blood transfusions are kept secret from the "bleeders" in order to prevent later money requests. Personal gratitude is therefore unable to help them.

RUNS IN AUTOS. PATHS

Tuesday night at the corner of East Milton avenue and Paterson street, Arthur Herman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Herman, of 100 Rutherford street, was struck by a car driven by Leo A. Moriarity, of 44 Pioneer street, Newark. It is claimed that the Herman youth ran from behind one car into the other. He was taken to Dr. George L. Orton who examined him and stated there was nothing wrong with him except cuts and bruises about the back. Patrolman Joseph Jardot investigated the accident and made the report.

Tuesday evening Dorothy Edwards, 4 years old, of 21 Newton street, was struck by a Yellow Taxi, driven by C. J. Engelhart. The child ran behind the cab as it was backing. The little girl was not injured according to the report of Dr. George E. Gallaway.

FAILS IN BUSINESS, STARS IN KITCHEN

Husband Is Forced to Work Under Eye of Wife.

Los Angeles.—If a husband is a failure in business life, try him out as the family cook; fire the maid and chauffeur and let him do their work; dispense with the laundry man and, in general, turn the errant spouse loose to make himself useful about the place.

Some such program is doubtless being advocated in many local homes, following the divorce case testimony adduced recently from Kenneth Gulick McClurg, former New Yorker, before Judge Raymond I. Turney.

McClurg's wife, the former Lillian Stanford, is attempting to divorce him on grounds of infidelity and cruelty. McClurg denies everything and is fighting the charges. When he took the stand to testify in his own behalf courtroom spectators were treated to a story as pathetically humorous as anything in divorce court history.

Says Wife Dominates Him.

Originally well to do, McClurg asserts that he was dominated by his wife. They spent almost all his fortune under her direction, he says. Then he set about to look for work. First he started a garage, but it was a failure. Then he looked for work in a department store, but failed to make the proper connections.

"When my wife learned of this failure she was furious," McClurg told Judge Turney. "She discharged the servants. Some one had to do the work and she told me that I was to be the one.

"From then on I was a servant to her. I rather liked the work itself, but for me it was intolerable. For two years, from 1925 to 1927, I submitted to it. At first I didn't resist because I loved her. When I did begin to resist it was too late."

During those two years, the testimony shows, McClurg lived an amazing life. Every meal that was cooked in the household was produced by the docile husband and he was a good cook even Mrs. McClurg admitted that. Dainty concoctions, tasty sauces for the food and [illegible] steaks [illegible]

Between meals McClurg was not idle. When the dishes were washed [illegible] the house, then washed and [illegible] his [illegible] when Mrs. McClurg and her mother [illegible] of [illegible] drove them [illegible] would have made a model [illegible]

Shy and Sensitive.

The whole trouble McClurg confided to the [illegible] was his own innate reticence. From childhood, he had been shy and sensitive. The other boys didn't understand [illegible] He hated meeting people. As he grew older he tried to conquer himself.

But whenever he went in business [illegible] He [illegible] people and successfully [illegible] over business deals, and whatever he tried was a failure.

[illegible] Mrs. McClurg charged that this seemingly model husband was unfaithful and cruel. She also asserted that she had furnished $25,000 of her own money for the garage venture and that at the start of it was lost.

Such a problem Judge Turney decided is not one to be decided lightly, in the manner of the average divorce, so he took the case under advisement and that is where it now stands. Meanwhile Mrs. McClurg has gone back to her home in Santa Monica, and her estranged husband is endeavoring to avoid the threats of other husbands whose wives have pointed him out as an example of what a husband might do around the house.

Resolution

In truth, there is no such thing in man's nature as a settled and full resolve either for good or evil, except at the very moment of execution.—Hawthorne.

"Tiffany" Diamonds

An authority on diamonds says that there are certain diamonds that contain a slight tinge of milkiness and some that when exposed to the ultra violet ray or bright sunlight and then taken into a dark room will glow for as much as five minutes or sometimes more. This does not depend upon the quality of the diamond. This variety of diamond was named the "Tiffanyite" in 1896.

Distance Computation

The adopted unit of stellar distance is the distance traveled by a light wave in a year. This unit is called the light year. The distance in light years astronomically is then translated into miles, using as a basis the fact that the velocity of light is 186,300 miles per second, and it travels from the sun to the earth in 400 seconds.

"Religion of Science" to Displace Existing Beliefs of Humanity

By REV. DR. JOHN HAYNES HOLMES, New York

Out of the "old, superstitious speculations" of Judaism and Christianity will rise a new, third religion founded on humanism. Modern man refuses to believe that there is anything sacred. He insists upon the recognition of reality. He is turning from the priest to the test tube. He has found that the things handed out by Jewish synagogues and Christian churches are fairy tales and simply untrue.

A new religion will result. This new religion will recognize every particular religion as a divine and holy thing. It will be a universal church as lofty as the love of God. It will have no one God and no one faith.

Because Judaism and Christianity display no interest in science, they will be succeeded by this new religion which does.

Campaign Progresses for Prevention of Diphtheria

The second of a series of articles on diphtheria prevention prepared by Health Specialists at the request of the New Jersey Committee for the Prevention of Diphtheria is by Dr. Henry O. Reik, Executive Secretary of the State Medical Society. Dr. Reik, says on the subject of the protection of the preschool child, "One of our recognized health statisticians has made the statement that the most dangerous occupation in life today is that of being a baby or an infant less than one year of age. This because of the larger incidence of disease, the greater number of accidents that can befall a youngster and the higher percentage of mortality attending disease attacks during that period of life. He might, indeed, have extended the danger period with reference to some diseases and shown from statistics that, as concerns diphtheria, for instance, the first 6 years of life cover a time of exceptional risk. One has but to glance at any year's record of the number of cases of diphtheria reported in the State to become conscious of the fact that a large majority of all cases of the disease occured among young children. A second look, directed at the number of deaths resulting from diphtheria disclosed the striking fact that the vast majority of victims were under 6 years of age. These two facts deserve to be considered very seriously.

"We used the word 'victims' advisedly. The adult may or may not—as he chooses, protect himself against infectious diseases. The responsibility is his own and the loss his own in the event of serious illness or death. Not so the infant or young child. Not old enough to understand the risk or determine upon a course of action, he is dependent upon the wisdom and care of his elders. If they fail him, he becomes really a victim of their ignorance or carelessness.

"Those of us interested in the present state-wide effort to abolish diphtheria must recognize and must find the means of compelling parents to recognize the necessity for protecting especially the very young children. It is among children below [illegible] takes its heaviest toll and creates its greatest ravages. The most need for protection is in the homes, and it is within the home we must construct our protective barriers. Let the message be carried to every mother and father in the land that the greatest degree of susceptibility to diphtheria exists during the first 6 years of life, that the greatest danger of death from diphtheria is to little children attacked by this disease, and—a bit of good news—that these children can be rendered immune, can be thoroughly protected by a very simple procedure. Every young child should be given the benefit of protective immunization against diphtheria. Ask your doctor to do it. It is the child's right."

Wants Typist Job, But Has Only One Hand

Detroit, Mich.—Mrs. Flora Parker is looking for a job as typist or stenographer and she has only one arm.

When she was two and one-half years old in London she was the victim of an accident. After she grew up she taught school in London and then there was a young chap who had "gone out," as they say over there, to Canada. He sent for her. They were married. "Two years later there was a baby and then, suddenly, Mrs. Parker was the Widow Parker. Little Flora is three."

"I intend to make my own living," she said. "It is going to be difficult to make any prospective employer believe that I can be efficient. I can be. I am fast on the typewriter and my missing arm has never been a missing one to me. You see, I lost it so young that I never knew its use, and what we never have we do not miss."

Peculiar Trees

The most extraordinary forest in the world occupies a tableland six miles in width, near the west coast of Africa. The peculiarity of the trees is that, though their trunks are as much as four feet in diameter, they attain the height of only a foot. No tree bears more than two leaves, and these attain a breadth of two feet.

Colors of Silk

There are many commercial varieties of the silkworm graded according to the size, color, and quality of the cocoon. The color of the worm's prolegs before spinning indicates the color the cocoon will be. This varies in different species and may be silvery white, cream, yellow, lemon or green.

ONE MAN IS KILLED, ANOTHER LOSES LEG IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Many People Cut and Bruised As Cars Crash in or Near Rahway Over Week-End

One man was killed, another lost a leg and several were injured in automobile accidents in or near here over the week-end. The dead man was the victim of a hit-and-run driver now being sought by Woodbridge police. The man who lost his leg was riding a motorcycle which was in collision with a Yellow Cab.

Bobby Van, Robert Bubbles, or John Costello, of 65 Fortieth street, New York, was the man killed while walking in Lincoln Highway, from Colonia to this city, early Sunday morning. He was taken to the Rahway Hospital at 3 o'clock and died at 3.45 without regaining consciousness. His skull was fractured at the base and his lower jaw was broken.

Van Bubbles or Costello was one of a party of four men walking in the street with Van next to traffic. The car, bearing New Jersey plates, knocked him several feet. It was alleged by two of Van's companions, Albert Nelson of 35 Malden street, Providence, R. I., and John Stocking, of 65 Fortieth street, New York, that the engine of the car went dead and the driver asked their help to get it started so he could take Van to the hospital. When they got the machine running it darted away, the men declared, but not before they secured the license number which is now being looked up by Woodbridge police.

The third companion of Van went on to New York. The pal said Van was a professional dancer performing at fairs and carnivals.

Leg Amputated

The right leg of Alexander Kish, [illegible], of 24 Pershing avenue, Carteret, was amputated at the knee at the Rahway Hospital Saturday evening as the result of an accident in which a Yellow Cab and his motorcycle were involved. The cab which was from Elizabeth, was driven by [illegible], of [illegible] Court, [illegible] city, who was given a summons.

The operation upon Kish was performed by Dr. J. S. Mark assisted by Dr. Joseph Wantoch, the family physician. Kish will recover.

Lezak Ambrus, 18 years old, of 34 Pershing avenue, Carteret, was riding on the motorcycle behind Kish. He was cut and bruised on one cheek.

Kish was going south on Main street and the taxi was going west on Elizabeth avenue. Acting Roundsman D. J. Rommel investigated. Adam Mader of 112 West Twelfth street, Linden, was in the taxi, while Raymond F. Foster of 77 Barnett street, this city, was riding directly behind the taxi.

Girl Cut

Miss Mary Babitsky, 16 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Babitsky of 13 Somerset street, Carteret, was cut on the forehead and scalp when she was thrown through the windshield of a car driven by Anthony Sova of 150 Roosevelt avenue, Carteret. The machine hit a pole at Hazelwood and New Brunswick avenues at 11.15 a. m. Sunday when Sova swerved to avoid a collision with another car. The girl was treated at the Rahway Hospital by Dr. Mark.

Police Car Damaged

The police Chrysler was badly damaged early Monday morning when Acting Roundsman Rommel and Patrolman Kelly were on their way to investigate an accident. The police car struck another machine which turned out in front of it at St. George avenue near Pierpont street.

Rommel received a scalp wound on the back of the head and Kelly's shoulder was injured. Rommel was treated by Dr. Mark at the Rahway Hospital.

According to Rommel's report filed at police headquarters they sounded their horn and whistles all the way from Inman avenue to Grove street and near Pierpont it is alleged that a car operated by Miss Cecilia Rudolph, of 147 East Fifteenth street, New York City, pulled out in front of them. They tried to pass behind the other car and the police machine skidded on the wet pavement and hit the rear of the New York car, throwing the officers out.

Gets Sprained Back

In the accident which the officers were on their way to investigate, Mrs. Minnie Hunecke, 58 years old, of 33 Locust avenue, Arlington, received a sprained back and bruises on the chest and suffered from nervous shock. She remained at the Rahway Hospital overnight.

Vernon Simmons, of 88 Elm avenue, this city, and Edmund Kane, of 933 Bond street, Elizabeth, took her to the hospital. She was riding with other members of her family in a car operated by Philip Rheinwald, of 429 East 162d street, New York City. Their car was in collision with a machine operated by Thomas C. Sampson, of 199 Trent street, Trenton. Patrolman Eugene McMahon investigated and summoned the drivers to appear in Police Court Friday night.

Bicyclist Hurt

When the bicycle on which he was riding at Fulton and Commerce streets was hit by an auto driven by Michael Schilling, of Colonia, Willard Jennings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Jennings, of 30 New Brunswick avenue, received a severe cut over the left eye.

Jennings was taken to police headquarters, and thence to the office of Dr. George E. Gallaway by Fred Rowe, of 175 Broad street, this city. Dr. Gallaway dressed the wounds and ordered Jennings to bed to await the development of the injuries to his stomach.

Milton B. Davis, of 226 Elizabeth avenue, this city, reported to Acting Lieutenant Erwin Payne at police headquarters on Saturday afternoon that his auto had been hit in the rear in front of the City Hall by a truck that did not stop. He gave the registration number of the truck to the police, and an investigation is being made.

Rahway Men Are Among Guardsmen at Sea Girt

The first contingent, which includes the Elizabeth division of the New Jersey National Guard, left Saturday for their annual two weeks' encampment at Sea Girt. They left the armory in a body at 7.30 a. m. and paraded to the Central Railroad station where a special train awaited them, which conveyed the boys to their destination. On assembling at Sea Girt the entire battalion passed in view of Governor Moore, who was standing on the steps of his summer home.

The Elizabeth division is made up of four companies in which are registered a number of Rahway boys. These are: Corporal W. H. Hedeman, Corporal Harold G. Orr, Corporal Percy McAvoy, Private Edward Heide, Private J. Thompson, Private M. Brennan, Private S. Drake, Private P. Haber, Private C. Klemm, Private Z. Petro, Private A. Ries, Private John McCullough, Private J. M. Soos and Private C. McMaster.

There is a Y. M. C. A. at Sea Girt which provides many diversions in the way of movies and boxing, as well as a well stocked library.

POLICE COURT NOTES

A number of those arrested by Captain James Thompson and a detail of patrolmen Saturday night in the raid on the home of Mrs. Hattie Gillison, of Jack street, were given fines last night when arraigned before Judge F. N. Talley in police court. Mrs. Gillison was fined $25 as proprietor of the place where an alleged drunken brawl took place shortly before and until after midnight Saturday.

Samuel Walker, 27, of Main street, charged with carrying a concealed weapon, was also fined $25, while the other fines included: Ebsworth Aaron, 19, of Jack street; Christopher Ellis, 17, of 27 Lawrence street; Carter Ellison, 37, of 11 Haydock street; Benhalder Draper, 15, of 25 Haydock street, $10 each for disorderly conduct. [illegible] of Sheridan road, Chicago, and Hart's [illegible] also of Sheridan road, forfeited $5 bail for failing to appear, the former on charges of disorderly conduct and the latter on a charge of reckless driving, both tickets being given by Officer Fitzpatrick of the County Police.

MOOSE PLAN BAZAR

Plans for the bazar to be held for three nights on the lawn of the Moose Home, August 20, 21, 22, were made at a meeting of Rahway Lodge, No. [illegible] L. O. O. M. last evening. A special committee from the Senior lodge will work with the committee named from the Junior Moose, these two groups having conferred at the meeting last night. There will be the usual array of booths with entertainment features and musical numbers. The lodge also planned to attend the picnic of Elizabeth Lodge, Saturday, August 4, at Ukranian Park, Linden.

JUNIORS PLAN

Announcement was made last night at the meeting of Union Council, No. 37, Jr. O. U. A. M. of a bus ride to be held to Palisade Park Saturday night, August 4, under the auspices of the Junior Club. August Stricker is chairman of the committee in charge. This Thursday evening a delegation will go to Linden to see District Deputy Nelson A. Brower and staff of Rahway [illegible] officers of Linden Council. Councilor William T. Scheid presided with Secretary Harry Stuart assisting.

BUS RIDE TOMORROW

The committee in charge of the Auxiliary to the Exempt Firemen's bus ride and outing of the Ladies' Association, request that all those intending to attend, be at the Exempts headquarters at 106 Main street by 9 o'clock sharp Wednesday morning. The committee includes Mrs. E. J. Best, chairman, Mrs. DeWitt C. Foulks, Mrs. Walter I. Springer and Mrs. Edward Schuer.

EARNSHAW—HART

At the Church of the Holy Comforter Sunday, July 22, at 12:30 p. m., John French Earnshaw of Montclair and Miss Mary Elizabeth Hart, of Roselle Park, were married by the rector, Rev. R. W. Elliott. The bride was attended by Mrs. Charles Lee, of Montclair, and H. Hayward Christensen, of Montclair, was best man.

GUARDSMAN ARRESTED

Anthony Jensen, of 117 West Grand street, was taken to police headquarters Sunday night by Patrolman Joseph Jardot on request of Captain McKenna, of Company D, 114th Infantry, for failure to go with the company to Sea Girt. He was turned over to the Military officers yesterday.

AUXILIARY HAS OUTING

Thirty members and friends of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Army and Navy Union enjoyed a bus ride and outing at Atlantic Beach Sunday. Mrs. Wallace I. Van Pelt was chairman of the committee in charge. A shore dinner, bathing and various social diversions were on the program.

RAIN PREVENTS GAME

The Rahway Firemen and Elizabeth Colored Giants made three attempts to get started in a baseball game Sunday but rain checked them each time.

MUNICIPAL WADING POOL WHICH SPRANG UP ALMOST OVERNIGHT AT CITY YARDS

No sooner did the water start whirling from the fountain yesterday in the new municipal wading pool which Councilman John B. Thompson's street department has built in an incredibly short time at the City Yards, East Milton avenue at the Rahway River, when throngs of children undressing as they ran poured from all points of the compass.

In a moment the big circle was crowded with waders of all sizes, although the water was as yet scarcely ankle deep and that only in the center. All yesterday afternoon the kids disported in the pool, and last night crowds of adults were attracted to the place, word having spread around that it was open. Admiration was expressed by all, many of whom had not even known that the pool was under construction.

The remainder of the week children will be barred from the pool, to give the penetration bottom time to harden, a precaution which would have been taken at the outset had not the children decended upon the place like an avalanche and plunged into the pool without regard for somewhat soft tar which stuck to their feet, and in some cases, when they sat down, to their bathing suits. The official opening is expected to take place Saturday of this week.

Lately an eye sore, the particular portion of the City Yards which has been given over to this improvement is now one of the most attractive spots in the city. And it is yet only about one-fourth completed. The land will be laid out with gravel walks and planted with shrubs and trees, and it may be that swings and other amusement devices for children will be installed.

A design in the layout of the place is already visible, with the large pool, eighty feet across, as the nucleus. A gravel walk surrounds the bluestone rim, and, adjacent to Milton avenue, the walk widens, separates, passes around a small circular plot of what will be flowers, grass or shrubs, and thence continues to make two separate entrances from the avenue. Between the avenues is the line of Lombardy poplars which have been there some time. Several of these, despite their large size, have been transplanted to various other points adjacent to the path, in such a way as to give a symmetrical design to the whole.

The improvement was the idea of Councilman Thompson and was carried out with the assistance of City Engineer C. S. Bush, Street Commissioner Peter Godfrey and others. It is a complete surprise to most people, inasmuch as it has not heretofore been given much publicity in the newspapers.

Nor was there any hot air preliminary to its building. Somehow or other this commodity, usually considered essential when any municipal improvement is contemplated, was dispensed with and Councilman Thompson instructed his men to proceed forthwith.

Somewhere in the neighborhood of three weeks have passed since the project was started. It has been built by men of the street department in their spare moments, without labor-cost to the taxpayers. The pool has a depth of two feet at the center and two inches at the rim.

S. P. C. A. PROMOTES SCHOOL ESSAY TILT

"Kindness to Animals and Humane Work," Subject

An essay contest will be opened to the students of Rahway schools next term under the auspices of the Rahway Branch of the S. P. C. A., it was decided at a meeting Friday night at the residence of the president, Miss M. H. Macann, at 34 Irving street. The subject will be "Kindness to Animals and Humane Work," and the winners will receive gold pieces for prizes.

There will be as many prizes as there are schools, the winner in each grade school to receive a $5 gold piece, and the winner in the high school to be rewarded with a $10 gold piece.

Miss Marie T. Bristor, who suggested the contest, was named chairman of the committee to make all arrangements.

Committee Discharged

Miss Bristor was also chairman of the [illegible] committee, which was discharged with thanks after Miss Bristor reported on a successful conference held with a committee of the Common Council of which Councilman A. C. Feakes was chairman. The Council is expected to authorize locating the tank which will be for the humane execution of unwanted dogs and cats, near the new incinerator. Other members of the S. P. C. A. committee were Miss Helen Clarkson and Mrs. L. M. Edwards.

Arrangements were made for the nomination of officers at the next meeting, and for the celebration of the eighteenth anniversary of the Rahway unit, September 21, when the officers will be elected.

Treasurer Miss Clarkson reported a balance of $2,901.53. She was authorized to rent a safe deposit box.

Miss Grace Jackson was welcomed after her illness. Greetings were received from Miss Mary P. Robinson, who was unable to be present. Five new members were received. Members were present from this city, Linden, Westfield and Scotch Plains.

The report of Miss Macann as police agent, showed considerable work done since the previous meeting, including issuance of permits to kill kittens, fourteen; homes sought for dogs, eight; lost dogs reported, six; dogs destroyed by society, five; cats destroyed, seven; complaints received, nine; investigations, five; cases referred to police, ten; referred to the Board of Health, three; referred to veterinarian, fourteen; dogs caught by dog warden, fifty-two; redeemed, twelve; letters and cards received relative to work of the society, four; telephone calls, 122; out-of-town calls, ten.

Mrs. P. L. Washburn served as secretary pro tem. After the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess and general sociability was enjoyed.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Randolph L. Gilman and son, Robert, of 184 Hamilton street, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Milnes and children, Randolph, Virginia and Beulah, of 171 Central avenue, have gone to St. Alban's Bay, on Lake Champlain, Vt., to spend their vacation.

Water Superintendent and Mrs. C. W. Ludlow, of 152 Seminary avenue, left Saturday for a vacation of two weeks at Syracuse, N. Y.

Mrs. Frank Denton and son, Herbert, and Mrs. Meta R. Bennett, of 20 Mooney place, returned Saturday from a week's stay at Troy, Pa., making the trip by auto.

Mrs. W. E. Stockman and the Misses Hazel, Edith and Muriel and Henry Stockman, of 634 St. George avenue, have gone to their cottage at Mattaponsett, Mass., on Buzzard's Bay, to spend the summer.

NEW REPUBLICAN CLUB STAGES BIG PROGRAM

With Speeches, Moving Pictures And Entertainment

The most ambitious program yet attempted by the Rahway Republican Club, Inc., was carried out Friday night at Red Men's Hall, where the comparatively recent club will meet hereafter. Candidates and others made speeches and entertainment features were enjoyed. It was stated that the organization will support all Republican candidates.

An address on the county park system, illustrated by motion pictures, was given by F. S. Mathewson, supervisor of recreational activities. He mentioned the fact that the first piece of land donated for a county park was given by the Wheatena Company, of this city. He also stated that $168,000 has already been spent here for land, the development of which was cut short by the voters' refusal to grant the appropriation asked for at the last general election.

Pictures of Union County School Field Day, baseball, football, cricket, bowling on the green, swimming, horseback riding, skating, boating and other recreational features were shown and 1,207,000 persons were recorded as visiting the parks during the past year.

Council President James H. Craig, candidate for reelection, Ross O. Fowler, councilmanic candidate from the Third Ward, Councilman John B. Thompson, of the Fourth Ward, Oscar B. Garthwaite, Sr., Attorney William V. Herer and Secretary Joseph A. Keating were among those who spoke. Fowler offered the benefit of his business experience to the city if he is elected. Craig promised even greater service if he is elected. Thompson dwelt upon the rapid strides the club is making and also referred to the street improvements now being made, and Garthwaite spoke about the election laws.

A clever entertainment program was given by Samuel Van Dyke, Lenwood Hughes, William Treadwell and Edward Osborne, under the title, "A Rehearsal for the Darktown Strutters' Ball." Several quartet selections and individual numbers by each member of the quartet were presented. Some skillful dances were executed by Van Dyke and Osborne. Treadwell served as accompanist.

The contest for the table lamp will be closed at the next meeting. Several new members were received.

Bus Service to Shore May Be Available Soon

Bus service between Jersey City and Belmar, with one stop in this city to pick up and discharge passengers will be inaugurated as soon as the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners grant permission. Rahway's municipal consent has been given for the contemplated service, which is offered by the Blue Boy Bus Company of Jersey City. The stop in Rahway will be at a point on Lincoln Highway to be designated by city officials.

It is said the service will be a year 'round, and that stops will be made at all shore points as far down the line as Belmar. The bus company has promised to put twenty-four vehicles in operation, and to run them hourly.

PLAYGROUNDS CROWDED

With the restoration of the tennis courts at Riverside Park after the effects of the recent storm when the entire recreation field was under three feet of water, the activities of the city playground under Miss Anne Shotwell, are attracting large numbers daily. The Union County Park Commission's playground in the park at the corner of Elizabeth avenue and Grand street, is also attracting a large number of children. [illegible] organized program of play is carried out under Miss Kathryn West, of Westfield, Henry Forsch and Miss Jean [illegible] of Rahway.

Man Held for Grand Jury On False Pretence Charge

Charged with obtaining goods under false pretences, Harry J. Furber, formerly of this city, who gave his address as 10 Green street, Woodbridge, was held for $1,000 bail by Judge F. N. Talley Friday night to await the action of the Grand Jury. Furber pleaded guilty to securing a Chevrolet coupe from the Rahway Supply and Service Company, W. C. Hoblitzell, president, with a worthless check in the amount of $100, which was to have been the down payment. The transaction took place June 4, and after no trace could be found until last Wednesday afternoon when he was arrested on the outskirts of the city by Captain Thompson and Patrolman Walker. He pleaded guilty, and was unable to supply bail.

A warrant issued by Recorder H. E. Pickersgill, of Perth Amboy, was also presented at police headquarters charging Furber with having obtained and sold a Dodge coupe on which Frank Van Syckle, auto dealer, Perth Amboy, had a chattel mortgage for $410. Stacey M. Coutts is the complainant.

For having a stolen automobile in his possession, Walter P. Scudder, of 104 West 89th street, New York City, was held for extradition and his bail fixed at $2,000. Scudder was taken into custody the preceding evening by Patrolman Joseph Jardot. He had a Pontiac sedan from the Hertz U. D. Corporation, Broadway and 54th street, New York City, in his possession at Commerce and Bryant streets.

Ralph Mentosi, of 122 Poplar street, Jersey City, was fined $5 for speeding. Patrolman Joseph Jardot was complainant.

RAHWAY BOY WINS

The winners of sixty State scholarships to Rutgers University were announced today by Luther H. Martin, registrar. These scholarships, valued at $230 a year for four years, were competed for in June by 275 candidates, 103 passing the examination successfully. Milton Friedman, of 104 Main street, Rahway, valedictorian of the Class of 1928 of Rahway High School, was one of the winners.

Jack Levin, of South Side High School, Newark, was high in the competition with an average of 91 per cent, Joseph Farkas, of Trenton High School was second with 86.8 per cent, William L. Donegan, of New Brunswick High School, third with 86.5 per cent, and John F. Borcher, of Bound Brook fourth, with 86.2. No candidates qualified in Cape May, Hunterdon, Gloucester, Ocean, Salem, Sussex and Warren counties.

CLUB SURPRISES MEMBER

The Wednesday Afternoon Club surprised one of their members, Mrs. Thomas Thompson, of Valley Road, Clark Township, with a party yesterday afternoon, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. A delicious luncheon was enjoyed by all of the members who presented their hostess with a number of beautiful gifts. The afternoon was spent in playing cards and high score was made by Mrs. Walter I. Springer.

Those present were: Mrs. Walter I. Springer, Mrs. John Wolke, Mrs. Charles Klasek, Mrs. Max Preitz, Mrs. Albert Papirnik, Mrs. Ernest Enquist, Mrs. Alfred Aurich and Mrs. Thomas Thompson.

MOTHERS CLUB MEETS

The Mothers and Others Club met on Friday night at the home of Mrs. Edward Wendt, on Thirza place. This was a most pleasant gathering, card games and refreshments being enjoyed by the members.

Those present were: Mrs. Stanley Carhart, Mrs. George McIntyre, Jr., Mrs. Walter Wilson, Mrs. J. H. Cramer, Mrs. Archie McIntyre, Mrs. George Weber, Mrs. J. Edmond Glendinning and Mrs. Edward Wendt.

COMMITTEE ANNOUNCES UNION SERVICE SLATE

Trinity Methodists and Second Presbyterians Join

The committee in charge of the union summer services between the Second Presbyterian and Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, of which Frederick L. Mintel is chairman, has just completed the schedule of pulpit supplies for this eight-week period, which begins Sunday, in Trinity church, at 10:45 a. m.

An item of particular interest is that the Rev. Wallace H. Carver, formerly pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church and now serving as pastor of the Northminster Presbyterian Church, Evanston, Ill., has telegraphed to Mr. Mintel his acceptance of the committee's invitation to take charge of the service on Sunday morning, August 26.

Rev. James W. Laurie, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, will be in charge of the opening union service Sunday morning. The remainder of the schedule is as follows: July 29, August 5 and 12, the Rev. Ralph G. Saxe, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, Stony Point, N. Y.; August 19, the Rev. James B. Hodgson, of Princeton; August 26, the Rev. Mr. Carver; September 2, Irving A. West, assistant at the Second Presbyterian Church, Rahway, and the closing service, September 9, the Rev. Hedding B. Leech, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Rahway.

The Second Presbyterian Sunday School will meet each Sunday from 11.45 to 12.30 in its own building. The Trinity Methodist Sunday School, which is closed for the summer, will resume its sessions on Sunday, September 9, at 9.45.

The first four union services will be held at Trinity Church, the last four at the Second Presbyterian.

Church Officers Announce Union Service Preachers

The officers of the First Baptist and First Presbyterian Churches are pleased to announce the following preachers for the six remaining union services this summer:

At the First Baptist Church, Elm and Esterbrook avenues—July 29—Rev. Royal N. Jessup; August 5, Rev. Edward O. Clark, pastor of Chevy Chase Baptist Church, Washington, D. C.

At the First Presbyterian Church, West Grand and Church streets—August 12, Rev. Eben B. Cobb, D. D., Pastor Emeritus of the Second Presbyterian Church, Elizabeth; August 19, Rev. George Hubbard Payson, D. D., New Brunswick; August 26, Rev. Robert Armstrong, Pastor of the South Congregational Church, Pittsfield, Mass.; September 2, Rev. C. M. Davis.

FACTORY CLOSES

The Wheatena Company closed its plant Friday for a vacation of three weeks, during which the entire staff of employees will receive full pay. A number of employees have already had their vacation and they resumed their duties yesterday that do not require operation of the plant. Arthur R. Wendell, vice-president, treasurer and general manager, who has been abroad with Mrs. Wendell and daughter, Miss Eleanor, for the past four months, returned yesterday.

SOCIETY PLANS OUTING

Plans for an outing were made Friday night by the Junior Young People's Society of the Lutheran Church. A special meeting will be held Thursday night to complete plans.

COUNCIL TAKES RIDE

Advance Council, No. 101, Loyal Association, held an outing to Palisade Park Thursday night, in which nearly fifty members and friends participated. The trip was made in private autos.

CLARK SOLONS PUT UP FIGHT

Jackson's Pond Problem May be Subject of Vigorous Action

CALLED A MENACE

Alleged pollution of the Rahway river through bathing in Jackson's Pond, Clark Township, less than a mile above the intake of the Rahway Municipal Water Plant, which has aroused the residents of both Rahway and Clark Township, will probably be brought to a head within twenty-four hours, it was learned today. The action of Rahway water authorities who have been attempting to find some means to stop the bathing is expected to be forestalled by a movement on the part of the Clark Township officials who declare that they have stood the nuisance long enough.

With the Rahway officials helpless owing to the lack of a State law prohibiting bathing in potable waters, the Clark officials are expected to attack the problem from a different angle. The first movement will probably be tonight, although the wrath of Mayor Herman Graves has been so aroused that he may forestall the special meeting of the Township Committee and Board of Health he has called for tonight and prevent further bathing through drastic measures.

It became known today that Health Inspector Samuel Flamm of Clark, was instructed by Graves to make a close inspection of conditions about the pond and report in detail tonight. Graves believes that if this report is what he fully expects it to be, the Township Committee will have plenty of cause for immediate action to check conditions which are declared to be unsanitary to the extreme. Graves is more bitter today with what he declares to be a "public nuisance" under his very windows, than he was Friday when he issued a statement condemning the action of Edward S. Savage, owner of the pond, for refusing to co-operate by stopping bathing at the pool.

Yesterday the pond was crowded to capacity and last evening cars lined the roadway and crowded onto the small piece of land owned by Savage. The latest developments, that indicate that the bathing as far as Savage is concerned is designed to be a permanent thing, including the erection of stands, a special concession alleged to have been sold to a vendor, while three others parked their autos or carts on the road adjacent to the grounds. It also became known that a high fence may be erected about the property, indicating that admission may be charged.

Savage has refused to listen to any pleas from either President of the Rahway Water Board Robert K. Miller, or Health Inspector Fred M. Williams, and even the contemplated circulation of petitions by private citizens has failed to move him in his determination to "let them bathe." With the new $168,000 Rahway water plant, the city water is being kept pure, the water authorities state, although it is necessary to keep a close check by the chemists at the plant to see that there is no change. However, the thought of the bathing by such a group as are frequenting the pool daily, is causing many Rahway citizens to turn again to well water.

The conditions, however, as far as Clark Township is concerned, have reached the state where they are unbearable, the bathing lasting until 4 o'clock in the morning at times and parties remaining every night until after 1 and 2 o'clock. The township has also been put to considerable expense policing the road and taking care of traffic and Mayor Graves declares that this is another thing which must stop. The lack of bath houses, he declares, makes it objectionable for a decent person to walk or drive past the spot, "necking parties" also giving exhibitions in broad daylight.

In reviewing the situation while standing in his yard overlooking the pond, Mayor Graves stated last evening that he had found conditions so unsanitary that he felt that drastic action had to be taken at once, not only to protect Rahway's water supply, but in the interests of the township. Such conditions, he explained are not allowed to exist elsewhere, and he could not understand why they should be permitted at the pond.

The water situation in Rahway, following the action of the Board of Health in attempting to check the bathing with no apparent success, and the vain efforts of the Water Board to secure co-operation from Savage as they did last summer, has placed the entire situation up to Clark Township and according to Graves the township will probably meet the problem by ending the bathing in a decisive manner.

Savage has owned the property for some time, owning only that part covered by water and a small strip between the dam and the property of F. Kauffmann, extending from the pond to the road. He purchased it from A. White, former ice dealer, following which the dam decayed and the pond ran dry. When the Union County Park Commission contemplated condemning the land for park purposes, Savage erected the present concrete damn and restored the lake, later offering it to the Board of Water Commissioners, who turned the offer down.

INSTALLS SENTINEL

Star of Rahway Council, No. 110, Daughters of America, meeting Friday night, installed Mrs. John Stiles as outside sentinel. Junior Past Councilor Miss Ida Pinfield was in charge. Preliminary plans were made for an outing to the seashore. Councilor Miss Grace Moore was in charge of the meeting, with Mrs. William Dickinson acting secretary. The dark horse prize was won by Mrs. Harry J. Gramm.
