QUESTION PARENTS TO LEARN VIEWS ON RELIGIOUS TRAINING

If They Favor it, Week-Day Bible Instruction May Be Made Available

What parents think of the proposed week-day religious education sponsored by the Rahway Federation of Churches will be disclosed in answers to questionnaires which will be mailed next week by Robert A. Coan, chairman of the federation's religious education committee. The plan is to have children dismissed from school one hour each week for the purpose of attending a class in Bible instruction supervised by a paid and competent teacher.

The classes will be held in the Protestant churches, all of whose pastors have given their indorsement. Parents of Catholic and Jewish children will not receive questionnaires because Rev. C. J. Kane and the Rahway Hebrew Congregation have pointed out to the committee that religious instruction is already given children of their faiths in classes Saturday morning. They find the current arrangement satisfactory and see no reason to change, they said.

It is, therefore, only the Protestant children who are lacking in week-day religious training here. Having secured the co-operation of all the Protestant pastors, Mr. Coan is now seeking the opinion of parents and if enough of them express a desire to have their children instructed under the committee's plan, he will seek the willing[illegible] of the Board of Education to excuse the children the necessary [illegible] each week. That granted, teachers will be sought.

The questionnaire which Mr. Coan will send out explains the purpose of the proposed course and is printed below:

The plan of Week Day Religious Education has been proposed for Rahway and this letter addressed to you in order that we may get your opinion on it.

Briefly the plan is as follows: Children of Protestant parents who request it are dismissed from school one hour each week to attend classes in religious instruction at a convenient nearby church, not necessarily their own. This will not interfere with their regular school work as the school program will be so arranged that the pupils who are not dismissed will have other occupation than their regular studies.

The religious instruction will have as its aims a better knowledge of the Bible, and moral lessons leading to honor, honesty, purity and loyalty to country, church, and to God. This teaching will be entirely non-sectarian.

The teachers will be paid and the same standards of attendance and conduct will be required as in the school.

In order that the committee may know your opinion of the plan will you kindly answer the following questions:

1. Do you approve the plan outlined above?
2. If adopted by the Board of Education, would you send your child to such classes?
3. How many children have you in school?
4. Remarks.

It is signed by R. A. Coan, chairman, Rev. C. M. Davis, R. S. Armstrong and Rev. J. W. Laurie, who comprise the committee of Week-Day Religious Education, Rahway Federation of Churches.

Y. M. C. A. DIRECTORS HEAR THREE REPORTS

Secretaries Show that Ass'n Is in Good Condition

The Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night made plans for the fall and winter activities at the Irving street building.

One of the subjects taken up was the formation of a Ladies Auxiliary to take care of dinners, etc., and this will be headed by Mrs. T. H. Roberts, Jr., as president, although all work of the Women's Department of the association will be under Mrs. Charles R. Mellck, chairman of that department. A special effort will be made to enlist mothers of boys and girls who are members of the Y.

Reports were received from Boys' Secretary Warren H. Wardle, Physical Director William M. Wilson and General Secretary Chalmers Reed. A new arrangement in the physical department calls for the office at the foot of the stairs to be put in use for the first time since the building was erected in 1916. Here towels, soap, etc. will be distributed by a man who will also have charge of the lockers.

The membership was reported by General Secretary Reed as being considerably higher than it was last year this time, while the general attitude of the members is the best in the history of the association. Arrangements were made for some big get-together meetings of the men of Rahway, and men were appointed from each church to work up interest in mass meetings to be addressed by prominent speakers.

Active Season Planned By the Y. M.-Y. W. H. A.

The social will be held Thursday night, October 25, under the direction of Miss Shirley Miller, chairman, assisted by the following committee: Miss Sadie Robinson, Miss Mildred Lilienfeld, Miss Tillie Friedman and Miss Frances Kawut. No date has been set for the dance, but it will probably take place within a month. Blume, chairman of the committee for the recent social, reported it a big success.

One new member, Leon Shotlander, was received. One visitor, Miss Matilda Regal, of Gloversville, N. Y., was present. All officers, with the exception of the vice-president, were in their chairs. They are: President, Carl Oxman; vice-president, Sarah Vogel; secretary, Frieda Kriesberg; financial secretary, Abe Zuman; treasurer, Ira M. Farber; sergeant-at-arms, Benjamin Blume.

COMMON COUNCIL WILL SEEK CAUSE OF DEATH OF TREES

Armstrong Believes Gas From Leaking Mains is Responsible for Alarming and Expensive Rate of Decay

In the belief that gas from leaking mains is responsible for the alarming rapidity with which Rahway's shade trees are dying, Councilman William H. Armstrong at the session of the city fathers Wednesday night urged that the subject be inquired into by a special committee. The subject was introduced in a letter from Shade Tree Commissioner Eugene Miller saying the commission finds it impossible for one reason or another to remove the trees as rapidly as they are dying, and that to cut away all the dead limbs in the city would cost between $20,000 and $30,000.

Mr. Miller made particular reference to the rapid death of soft maples caused, he said, by old age and lack of nourishment. In the next ten years thousands of these and other trees will have to be removed at a large expense, he said.

That gas may be the cause of the sudden demise of many of the trees was also the opinion of President James H. Craig, who, after citing an instance where seven trees in a row in Esterbrook avenue had died at about the same time, appointed the committee suggested by Armstrong. This committee consists of Councilmen Armstrong, Feakes and Ward, is to confer with the Shade Tree Commission.

Feakes, who originally brought up the subject of dead limbs at the previous meeting, was of the opinion that these should be taken down as a safety precaution at the expense of the city if the commission has not enough money. Mr. Miller's letter, which was addressed to Councilman Feakes, said that about fifty dead trees which have been condemned are still standing because the property owners will not remove them. The commission was supposed to finance the removal of such trees and limbs, he said, and the cost [illegible] assessed against the owner. The city collected the assessment but never reimbursed the shade tree commission, he complained.

Appoints Art Commission

In response to a request from the Town Circle, delivered through Mayor Thomas A. Fyffe, President Craig appointed an art commission, consisting of Stanly W. Jones, Sr., William Herman, Alfred C. Brooks and J. Stanley Davis.

The president explained that the long anticipated appointment of a zoning commission has not been made because, although he had compiled three or four pages of names for possible membership of such a commission, none of the men would consent to serve. The amount of skill required will be considerable and the amount of work stupendous according to President Craig. He suggested that a zoning engineer be called in and a local committee appointed to work with him. He promised to take action on the matter soon.

Back to Assessors

The Board of Assessors submitted a report on the Seminary avenue paving in which they recommended that owners of property opposite the backstop be relieved of twenty-five percent of their assessment because of the restricted use they are allowed of the street, a fire zone having been established directly in front of their houses. George W. Mingus, one of the owners affected, asked that the assessment be confirmed because of the rapid accumulation of interest charges which will offset any reduction they may receive. But a reduction of twenty-five percent is not sufficient, he declared. He and other owners have asked for a one-third reduction and still want it. The matter was referred back to the Board of Assessors after Mingus stated that he, whose entire frontage is within the fire zone, was granted no more reduction than his neighbor, only fifteen feet of whose land is within the zone, the remaining thirty feet being free for unrestricted use, and that his neighbor on the other side, who didn't know he was entitled to a reduction, had been granted none.

Abuse, Humiliation

"This man talked to me as if I was a dog. . . Does a citizen have to take this abuse and humiliation from a public servant?" asked Robert A. Armstrong in a letter complaining about the conduct of Detective Sergeant James A. Coman at Farrell place and Irving street, Saturday morning, September 29. The writer said he was about to turn into Irving street when a bus hit his car. Along came Coman, according to the letter, and said, "Get in your car and pull over to the curb and give me your name and license number." Armstrong complained that complying with the policeman's orders he was unable to observe the bus number or get the driver's name. He said Coman is "unfitted for the position he holds." The communication was referred to the

COUNCIL CONFIRMS RUDDY APPOINTMENT

Decides He Is Full Time Member of Assessment Board

That Raymond L. Ruddy is a full-time not a part-time member of the Board of Assessors was established by the Common Council Wednesday night when it approved, with only two dissenting votes, the report of the assessment committee, which said in part:

"The committee feels that in view of the large amount of assessments levied since Mr. Ruddy's appointment and the great amount yet to be levied and in view of the fact that the city needs considerable equalization of taxes, there should be three full-time assessors. In view of the foregoing the committee would recommend that Raymond L. Ruddy be a full-time assessor and that the minutes of Common Council July 11 should be approved as submitted by the city clerk."

Feakes, the minority member of the committee, did not sign this report. He and Helmstadter voted against the resolution that followed.

Confirmation of Ruddy as a full time assessor would have been impossible without the consent of President Craig and Councilmen Thompson and McCollum, who formerly voted with the Democrats against it.

At the meeting of the Rahway camp plans were made to have the degree team initiate on Thursday, October 25. The meeting will be called at 7.30 o'clock on that night so a delegation can go to Camp No. 78, Elizabeth. A donation of $5 was voted toward the Salvation Army drive in Rahway.

Old Women of Ouf War on Health Law

Ouf, Turkey.—The old ladies of Ouf have declared war on the new Turkish public health inspection.

The cause of the feud lies in the latter's banning of the local Turkish crones' practice of "making themselves brides" as a cure for rheumatism, gout and the painful swellings of old age. In the good old days a crone thus suffering was bedecked by her friends in the traditional Turkish bridal gown of white serim and silver tinsel and received a convex mirror known as the "Monster's Glass."

She was made to stare into this glass at her monstrously distorted reflection while all the villagers looked at her in the mirror and hissed at the ridiculous picture of the old woman dressed in bridal gown. After an hour or two of hissing the mirror was removed, and with the removal of the artificially swollen image the actual swelling of rheumatic arm or leg was declared to have disappeared.

ON STAGE AND SCREEN

AT THE NEW EMPIRE

That sparkling musical comedy, "Oh Kay," starring the clever comedienne, Colleen Moore, is the feature attraction for today and tomorrow. The co-feature is a great comedy thriller, "Detectives," featuring Geo. K. Arthur and Karl Dane.

"South Sea Love," playing Sunday, is one of those sturdy romantic pictures with Ralph Ince and Patsy Ruth Miller. The companion feature is Claire Windsor in "Fashion Madness." The ladies will enjoy this one.

In "The Mysterious Lady," which plays Monday and Tuesday, Greta Garbo comes fresh triumphs to the screen.

For in this new feature production the exotic film star achieves new heights in character delineation and again demonstrates her ability to surround an unusually unresponsive role with sympathy.

As the beautiful Russian spy in this gripping drama of European military intrigue, Miss Garbo plots the downfall of a young army officer who has become enamored of her.

Leading him into disgrace and military prison for the loss of important documents, Miss Garbo brings a striking wistfulness into her difficult characterization by revealing her true love for the man she has betrayed.

Conrad Nagel as the dashing cavalryman gives a remarkable performance as the vengeful lover.

The co-feature is a fight film "The Count of Ten," starring Charles Ray.

When an actor succeeds in arousing [illegible] then sympathy [illegible] he is truly [illegible] This Ernest Torrence does on "The Patriot," playing Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, [illegible] 22, 23 and 24.

[illegible] his best work [illegible] The excellent cast is rounded out by Neil Hamilton.

For the hand that guided these players the greatest credit is due. Ernst Lubitsch [illegible] reason to feel proud of his accomplishment.

SHUBERT THEATER, NEWARK

The Messrs Shubert will present their latest musical play at the Shubert Theater, for one week beginning Monday evening, October 15, directly prior to its opening on Broadway.

Romance actually flares in this gorgeous and colorful production, which has been adapted from the German original by Fanny Todd Mitchell. "Music In May" has been one of the outstanding successes in Berlin and in bringing it to this country, the original score by H. Berte will be used, which will be enthusiastically received by music lovers who remember H. Berte as the composer of the German score of "Blossom Time."

The cast includes such musical comedy favorites as Gladys Baxter, Greek Evans, Bartlett Simmons, Sally Ward, Charles Lawrence, Barion Marchanto, Joseph Toner, Joseph Dertora, Marjorie Leach, George Offerman, Jr., George Smith's String Ensemble, of sixteen violinists and cellists, with Rita Mario, a troupe of dancing girls, a large male chorus, as well as a special singing chorus of young ladies, selected from various music schools in Greater New York and an augmented symphony orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford S. Woodruff, of 68 Bryant street, will entertain Mr. Woodruff's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Graham C. Woodruff, of Bronxville, over the week-end.

KEAN RAPS HAGUE IN ORANGE SPEECH

Declares for "Safe, Sane and Progressive Government"

Hamilton F. Kean, of Union County, Republican candidate for the United States Senate, had the following to say to the Republican Committee at Orange Monday night:

My opponent does try to force a smile, but he cannot laugh off, it seems to me, the revelations which every day are brought to light whenever we open our daily papers, we come across some new evidence of fraud, graft and sinecure jobs being held down by someone totally incompetent or otherwise unqualified. The great 'Genii' is apparently working over-time to dispense largess at the command of 'Aladdin' Hague, the Big Boss.

I ask you, fellow citizens, if the time has not come to stamp out this blight and pestilence from our fair State of New Jersey? Is my opponent, Mr. Edwards, to be allowed to continue, as part and parcel, his unholy alliance with Aladdin Hague and his crooked gang of cohorts, to the detriment of our commonwealth?

The investigations of the Case and Davis committees are attracting a lot of unfavorable attention to the activities of the Hague machine, and its peculiar penchant for cash transactions. What have you to say to these antics, Mr. Edwards? Your answer in today's newspapers cannot be construed by any intelligent person as convincing, or refuting the charges against your personal involvement with the Hudson County gang. Will you deny your connection with this nefarious gang? Isn't there wanton cheating of our state by the Hudson crowd, of thousands of dollars in alleged real estate and other peculiar transactions?

Then, take the garbage contract award. Well, all I can add to the revelations uncovered by the investigations, is that it "smells to heaven" figuratively and in fact. Nor while on the subject of malodorous deeds can one overlook the [illegible]ous scandal, where admittedly sinecure jobs weer held by people no more qualified to hold down same, than is my worthy opponent to occupy the senatorial seat, judging from the sample he has already given us of his ability in that respect.

Is he but a puppet? It would seem so. Hague pulls the string, and Mr Edwards dances to his tune in Washington. It is indeed amusing to read Mr. Edwards' retaliation by naming the other counties which in his opinion are as rotten as Hudson County. It is clearly the case of the "pot calling the kettle black."

I stand for a safe, sane and prosperous government. I stand for everything that is beneficial and to the interest of the masses. I have no boss. My constituents can rest assured that I will not be a shadow or the mouthpiece of the Hudson machine at Washington, nor of any other machine for that matter.

This campaign has serious consequences involved in it, and I do not wish to see our voters fooled by trickery, false issues. I feel confident that I have my finger on the pulse of popular opinion, and that is, a job for everybody, who wants to work; continuation of the Coolidge policy of plenty and prosperity; maintaining friendly and dignified relations with foreign powers, and the continuation of the tariff that has been so very helpful in keeping our factories and industries in New Jersey busy, and thus helping the backbone of this great country, the laboring man attain and hold a high standard of living, that is to be compared with no other country.

I owe no allegiance to any clique of "pocket-fatteners,"—but stand four-square for the continuation of the principles that have animated the Republican party, and made it such a factor for the public benefit that it is today.

The "Lamp" manufactured in the Hague political factory, will play no part in my senatorial career, if it be the will of the voters to confer that high honor upon me.

I call on you, and everyone who has the best interests of New Jersey and the country at heart, to help me to stamp out the stigma that has blighted our State government in the past, and help me unloose the tentacles of the octopus,—the Hudson political machine scandals, with their graft and corruption.

"If I had only thought"

by A. J. Dunlap

An auto hurtles in the ditch
And on the fatal spot
The reckless driver, dying, sighs:
If I had only thought.

Somebody makes a bad mistake,
A business goes to pot—
Again, you hear the culprit cry:
If I had only thought.

A life is wrecked because the knave
In some misdeed is caught,
And from the prison cell he whines:
If I had only thought.

When people think before they act,
They'll be a happy lot,
And less and less the alibi:
If I had only thought.

Councilmen Feakes and Helmstadter, the only Democrats present, voted no on a resolution by Councilman McCollum, chairman of the police committee to appropriate $6,500 for the use of the police department. The object of the motion was stated to be to keep nine patrolmen on duty from now until the end of the year. All eight Republicans voted yes.

Helmstadter favored but Feakes opposed another resolution relating to the police department. McCollum requested that the city finance the purchase of new uniforms for all the men, the money to be repaid by the policemen in six equal monthly installments, to be deducted by the city from their pay. This assistance to the cops was granted by nine votes.

Phone Company Proposes A Reduction in Rates

A reduction in rates for extended scope residence telephone service will be put in effect November [illegible] in Rahway by the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company, according to a schedule filed yesterday [by] the telephone company with the [State] Board of Public Utility Commissioners.

The reduction will be accomplished through the introduction of [un]measured extended service for [illegible] subscribers to replace the present measured form, and will apply to individual lines only. It [will] permit an unmeasured number of calls anywhere within the extended scope local calling area [at] a flat rate of $4.00 per month. Rahway's extended calling area, which includes nearby points that under the regular local service are [illeg]ent toll points, is composed of Rahway, Carteret, Cranford, Elizabeth, Linden, Roselle, Westfield [and] Woodbridge.

In addition to the introduction of unmeasured extended residence service, the monthly minimum rate and allowance of calls for business extended service will be reduced. This change is expected to make the service attractive to a large number of business subscribers. The present minimum rate is [$4].50 a month for 80 calls in the extended area, and the new minimum rate will be $4.00 a month for [illegible] calls. The present charges for calls over the allowance will be retained.

Evan Evans, who has been connected with the Evans Construction Company, left Wednesday for Whelar, Cal., where he will spend the winter.

"Go to Church Sunday, Fourth of November"

Some Reasons Why You Should Attend Church Services Regularly

"GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY, FOURTH OF NOVEMBER," is a movement sponsored by the Rahway Federation of Churches as a call to the religious instinct of every person to attend church services on that day and regularly at all times.

This invitation comes straight from the heart. Human happiness results when righteousness overcomes sin. If sin wins, human lives are wrecked.

Now is the time for every person, regardless of creed to stand by his church and ask for Divine Guidance. Your Church will be of great help to you in this endeavor.

Christian Scientist Lectures in Cranford

The following is a lecture delivered Tuesday night at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Cranford, by John Ellis Sedman, C. S., of Cambridge, Mass.:

"Christ Jesus understood God. He knew what the race needed to deliver it from bondage and to usher it into the enjoyment of eternal peace and happiness. St. Paul truly declares, 'Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ.' Jesus came to show the way to salvation for all men. He succeeded, completely, gloriously! Sooner or later every man will awaken to the realization of that great fact, and will work out his salvation in the way Jesus of Nazareth taught.

"On one occasion Jesus said, in explanation of the purpose of his great work for humanity, 'I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.' Again he declared, 'And this is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent.' What more important question can occupy the thought of any man or woman of today than this, How can I gain, and do all in my power to help others to gain, that understanding of God which is eternal life? We all know with what happy anticipation people journey to a new section of country in order to make their first acquaintance with some beautiful scenery which they had not seen before, or to become still better acquainted with the grandeur and beauty which they have previously enjoyed. We all know what joy has come into our lives through association with grand and noble men and women. Sometimes a single hour spent with one of God's noble men or noble women, stands out as something for which to be increasingly grateful down through the years. With what earnestness then, with what eagerness, should we embrace every opportunity to become better acquainted with our heavenly Father, the Giver of all good.

"Why has not the race given more willing and joyful heed to the Scriptural admonition, 'Acquaint now thyself with him, and be at peace'? There are many reasons for this apparent apathy. Prominent among them stands this, that false doctrines have presented God in such an unlovely and unlovable light that they quite naturally caused people, who accepted these doctrines, to turn away from contemplation of the nature and character of the Supreme Being. A young woman was asked how she thought of God before she became interested in Christian Science. She replied, 'Oh, I did not think much about God. I preferred to think of Jesus, because I thought he was so much kinder than God.'

"False doctrines have indeed made that appear to be the case. But Jesus knew and taught something entirely different. He said of the healing power he exerted, 'If I with the finger of God cast out devils, no doubt the kingdom of God is come upon you.' Jesus knew that every instance of healing, every comforting word or deed, which reached humanity through him but exemplified God's beneficent love for His creatures expressed through Christ Jesus, the Way-shower who came to do God's will. So plain did Jesus make this fact to his students that his disciples, John declared: 'Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins.'

"The student of Christian Science, studying daily the Bible and the writings of Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, soon learns to trace the good that comes into his experience to God, with the same unerring certainty with which we all trace sunlight to the sun. He comes to know with equal certainty that evil of any kind cannot emanate from God. 'The blessing of the Lord,' says the Bible, 'it maketh rich, and he addeth no sorrow with it.'"

Colored Citizens Elect Full Slate of Officers

The following officers have been elected by the Colored Citizens' League: President, Frank C. Linton; first vice-president, Thomas Shell; second vice-president, Edward Johnson; recording secretary, Mrs. Daniel Edgar; financial secretary, Mrs. Thomas Shell; treasurer, Archie Butler; assistant treasurer, Mrs. J. W. P. Collier.

Appreciation was expressed to John C. Shell, retiring president, who has headed the organization since it was formed five years ago. New membership pins of an attractive design were distributed. The financial report showed the club to be in the most flourishing condition in its history.

Plans are under way to present at the former East Milton avenue firehouse on Friday, October 19, "A Night in Chinatown." The committee in charge consists of Mrs. F. C. Linton, chairman; Mrs. Thomas Shell, secretary; Mrs. John Gibson, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Stevens, Mrs. George Harvey, Mrs. Chauncey J. Samuels.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevens entertained the league Monday night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Samuels, 107 East Scott avenue. A social time and refreshments followed the meeting. The next session will be held November 12 with Thomas Shell, 111 East Scott avenue.

McMahon—Costello

Edward T. McMahon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. McMahon, of 29 Campbell street, and Miss Winifred Frances Costello, of Brooklyn, were united in marriage a week ago Wednesday afternoon at the Holy Innocents Church, Brooklyn, by Rev. John McMurray, rector. The maid of honor was Miss Margaret Boderick, of Brooklyn. William Ahearn, of New York, formerly of this city, was best man. John and Bernard Costello, brothers of the bride, served as ushers.

The bride was gowned in white satin, trimmed with chantilly lace, wore a cap veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white bridal roses, lilies of the valley and baby's breath. The bridesmaid was dressed in Nile green georgette, with hat and slippers to match and carried pink roses.

After a reception Mr. and Mrs. McMahon left for a wedding trip to Washington and points in Virginia. They will live in Brooklyn. About fifty guests attended the reception, including relatives and friends from this city, Brooklyn, Flatbush, New York City, Pelham and Metuchen.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McMahon, the Misses Mary and Theresa McMahon of 29 Campbell street, were the Rahway guests.

Mr. McMahon has been prominent in a number of local organizations, including St. Mary's Church, Ancient Order of Hibernians, Knights of Columbus, Alumni Association, Holy Name Society and Rahway Post, American Legion.

CHRYSLER CLICKS OFF 100,000 MILES

The speedometer on Richard Arlen's 1926 Chrysler 70 roadster has just clicked 100,000 miles. The car has been more places and seen more things than a Broadway chorus girl. Paramount's leading man has piloted his busy little brown "gas chariot" over good roads and bad, from the Mexican border to the Canadian line, and he expects to see the speedometer touch the 200,000-mile mark before he parts with it.

"I'd no more think of going out Atlantic flyer would think of try- Atlantic flyer would think of trying to take off without an engine," he says. "We've made two trips East, one to New York and return and one to St. Paul and back. Last year I drove to Vancouver, B. C., and [illegible] this year is out. I'm going to take another long trip."

Whenever the young actor goes on location he drives his car if the location is within any reasonable driving distance. He doesn't consider Arizona, New Mexico or Mexican filming jaunts from the Paramount studio in Hollywood.

It was a gasoline motor that enabled Arlen to win a place in motion pictures after a year of fruitless effort. He had come to Hollywood from St. Paul at the close of the war but, with the exception of an occasional few days of work as an extra, his film experiences were limited to standing on the outside and endeavoring to look in until the day he got a job delivering film to a laboratory and used a motorcycle for a conveyance. While shooting through the iron gates of the Paramount studio he was injured and carried into the studio hospital. He became acquainted with various studio people. On his recovery he got his chance before the camera.

"Haven't paid a dime for anything except gas, oil, tires and the axles ground twice," he says. "Nothing [illegible] on the road valves ground twice," he says. "[illegible] wings were larger and back further on the body I guess it could fly."

ON STAGE AND SCREEN

REGENT THEATER, ELIZABETH

Richard Dix comes to life on the screen in his latest picture "Warming Up" with which Paramount introduces its new Sound effects. All of the thrill and excitement of the baseball setting are made part of the picture with this new feature, Paramount studio officials say, especially in the concluding sequence of the picture when a real big league pennant contest is presented. This splendid picture "Warming Up" comes to the Regent Theater for three days starting Thursday, Oct. 11.

On Sunday Oct. 14, the Regent will present The Picture of Pictures in Cecil B. DeMille's "King of Kings," which is a story of the life of Christ. This picture will be presented with a synchronized musical accompaniment and sound. Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah," "The Rock of Ages" and "Holy, Holy," are highlights of the score of sacred music rendered during the unfolding of this big biblical production. Remarkable sound effects have been created by Mr. Josiah Zuro for the strong dramatic sequences which lend themselves to natural utilization of audible accompaniment, including the rebellion of the elements after the crucifixion and the dramatic incident of the slow counting of the thirty pieces of silver as the bribe for the betrayal.

It is the consensus of opinion of the public and the press that this picture, already impressive in the extreme, has become more so through the complement of synchronized music, choral singing and sound effects.

RITZ THEATER, ELIZABETH

Augmented vaudeville de luxe is a new form of entertainment to be presented at the Ritz Theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 11, 12 and 13. The cast presenting this de luxe show will be of well-known comedy artists such as Exie Butler and Don Santo in the hottest thing ever, with their entertainers introducing the latest dance craze Pickin Cotton. Exie Butler and Don Santo will be assisted by one of the cleverest jazz bands in vaudeville. With the band will be Loring Smith and Natalie Sawyer, Miller Sisters, the two cuties.

"A Birthday Party" will be offered, a red-hot musical affair of home and night life, enacted by the acts on the bill, surprises and a barrel of laughs will be the feature of this new kind of entertainment with the well known comedian Jack Trainor acting as Master of Ceremonies. Authentic characters, peculiarly native to the west side section of New York City are finely presented in the screen version of "Tenth Avenue," a Cecil B. DeMille production featuring Phyllis Haver and Victor Varconi and Joseph Schildkraut. From start to finish "Tenth Avenue" is a remarkable picture of underworld life. It has snap, ginger and thrills galore. It will delight all picture fans and admirers of a well-known cast.

FOX LIBERTY THEATER, ELIZABETH

Starting next Sunday and running for eight days, up to and including the following Sunday, the Fox Liberty Theater in Elizabeth, will present the greatest picture ever made, "Street Angel," with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, is the title of this master stroke of filmdom, which comes from the William Fox Studios of William Fox as is credited by both press and public as being the picture triumph of the age.

Fox Movietone will accompany this wonder feature, the entire music score being synchronized in this latest and greatest form of music offering. As an added attraction "The Family Picnic" an all talking comedy will be presented, along with "In a Music Shoppe" and the Fox Movietone News.

To relate the story of "Street Angel" in full would take more space than alotted here, suffice to say that in this production Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell outdo their performance of "Seventh Heaven," which picture started both of these popular favorites on their way to being called the greatest stars of modern times.

In presenting "Street Angel" to an awaiting public the Liberty Theater management wishes to announce that in view of the tremendous crowds who will want to witness this showing, there will be four performances daily, running for two and one-half hours each, starting at 1 p. m., and running continuously until 11 p. m. daily, the exact times of showing will be at 1:00, 3:30, 6:00 and 9:15. The ladies and children are urged to take advantage of the middle shows such as 3:30 and 6:00, thereby avoiding the rush of the evening crowds.

EMPIRE THEATER, NEWARK

Midge Brandon, the ingenue soubrette, supporting Kitty Madison and Harry Evanson in "Jazz Time Revue" coming to the Empire Theater, Newark, Sunday, October 14, is understudy for Miss Madison and being carefully trained by the popular star in all the little tricks and mannerisms that have made her such a favorite in musical comedy, burlesque and vaudeville. Miss Brandon, still in her teens, is being coached by Miss Madison to sing blues songs, do acrobatic dances, and play in scenes with the comedians and if ever the star cares to take a day off from the entertainment, she is assured that the talented Miss Brandon can step into her dainty slippers and give a perfect performance. There will be the usual boxing show Thursday night.

LEOW'S STATE, NEWARK

A reporter, a girl and a dog, in a desperate adventure of the underworld of a great city, are the central figures in "Shadows of the Night," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's thrilling adventure of newspaper life which comes to the Loew's State Theater, Newark, Monday, October 15.

Lawrence Gray, Louise Lorraine and "Flash," famous police dog actor, play the leading roles, and Warner Richmond, Polly Moran, Tom McGuire, Eddie Sturgis, Tom Dugan, G. Raymond Nye and others of note are in the cast. D. Ross Lederman directed the opus.

"Flash" and Richmond stage what is said to be a sensational man-and-dog battle, and the dog's adventure rescuing his master from a gangster prison, a sensational automobile chase and other dramatic highlights make the rapid-fire drama of thrills and romance.

On the new stage program starting Monday are the Perezcato Sisters Mexican Revue and Mexican Orchestra, a company of 12 people in a flashy dance and song number. Others who will entertain on the stage will be Glenn and Jenkins, those colored singers, dancers and comedians, in "Working for the Railroad"; Morgan and Sheldon, in "A Dash of Red" a comedy and singing act; John R. Walsh, known as "America's Lyric Baritone," in popular songs and ballads; and Gibson and Rice, juggling.

A synchronized talking comedy is on the program of short films rounding out the bill. It is called "Imagine My Embarrassment," and has Charley Chase as its featured player.

This Stops Static on Airplanes

Lieut. G. H. De Baun, U. S. N., exhibiting the new spark plug for aircraft engines which solves the ten-year-old problem of suppressing engine ignition interference with radio reception on aircraft. In other words, the pilot will be able to receive messages while in the air without static from his engine.

BROAD ST. THEATER, NEWARK

Helen Hayes, rated as America's best-loved star since the retirement of Maude Adams, will be seen at the Broad Street Theater for a week beginning Monday, October 15, in "Coquette," the greatest success of her career.

As Norma Besant in "Coquette" Miss Hayes has a role that is delightfully reminiscent of "Bab," "Penrod" and her earlier successes, although the character is not to be confused with the adolescent heroines of the Tarkington plays. In "Coquette" the audience sees the transition of a care free and light-hearted belle of a small Virginia village to disappointed and despairing womanhood.

"Coquette" reveals everyday life in the home of a physician and leading citizen of a southern town. Instinctively a "coquette," Norma continues her gentle philandering until she becomes enmeshed with a youth of wayward and lazy habits. A family crisis arises when Dr. Besant forbids her to see her suitor. His warning goes unheeded and the consequences provide the somewhat tragic climax.

Miss Hayes' supporting cast includes Charles Waldron, Frederick Burton, Andrew Lawlor, Jr., Bryant [illegible], G. Albert Smith, [illegible] Merkle, Phyllis Tyler, Abbie Mitchell, Gaylord Pendleton, Dan Pennell and Joseph Mitchell. George Abbott revised Miss Bridgers' manuscript and staged the play. Usual matinees are announced for Wednesday and Saturday.

"The Blight of Hagueism"

The public press of New Jersey these days is giving much editorial space, fighting the "Blight of Hagueism," and to the layman with an opportunity of reading the denouncements of this Hudson County political czar, the impression cannot help but prevail that the blight is a most serious one. There is hardly a section of New Jersey of any moment fortunate enough to have escaped its influence. Rahway today is suffering from its invasion and will continue to suffer, unless there is a purging of local conditions at the polls next month. Its high time we awoke from our indifference and hit this political serpent a blow that will crush it for all time.

"Upon the introduction by Senator Larson of the Elisor Grand Jury bill last Tuesday at Trenton he made two certain demands for recognition upon the people of this State. First, that in this act he showed himself to be a real leader of his party, as there were some members who did not exactly go along with the Senator's proposal. The second demand for recognition was when he denounced the corruption laid bare in the Hudson County-Hague machine, and called upon the members of the Legislature to support him in his efforts to give the people this means by which justice can be done and just punishment meted out to those guilty of misconduct. He demonstrated that he is ready to fight Hague to the death.

"The hold that Mr. Hague has obtained through his appointment of judges and prosecutors and the jury commission has destroyed every chance of justice being done in Hudson County. The judicial system of Hudson County seems to protect those who would play Mr. Hague's game and bow to his yoke.

"Our interest in this matter is because the blight of Hagueism is in the State House.

"This was the reason that Senator Larson demanded support for his bill, so that he can make good his promises that when he enters the State House by the front door, Hague and his gang will go out the back door.

"There is no issue of greater concern in this campaign than that the grip of Mr. Hague upon state affairs shall be broken; and there is absolutely no other way to break this grip than by electing a Republican Governor.

"In 1924 the Democratic platform called upon the people of the State to elect a friendly Legislature. Of course, this was in the middle of the term of a Democratic Governor, when there was no chance whatever of controlling but one house of the Legislature, even had every Senator then running been elected by the Democrats.

"By the same token the Republican party today can, with every reason in the world, call upon the voters of the State to elect a Republican Governor, so that he will have a friendly Legislature and that Hagueism can be banished from the State House."

Under the caption of "Hague's Reckoning Near," the "Atlantic City Press" editorially states:

"Slowly the clouds are beginning to gather around Mayor Hague, of Jersey City, arbiter of Democratic fashion in New Jersey—begin to thicken and take definite form. By dint of the Case committee investigation he stands revealed as an $8,000-a-year official, nevertheless able to put aside millions, and one who deals in cash rather than employ the sometimes traitorous credit.

"The Legislature has passed a bill calling the elisor grand jury again into being, making it possible to proceed against him from that direction. A national press survey reaches this significant con- New Jersey: That his natural following and popularity in this State is seriously influenced by the clusion with regard to Governor Smith's chances in Hague leadership. And now comes a prominent banker and citizen of Mayor Hague's own city—a member of his own party—John Warren—and demands that Hague resign as vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Mr. Warren sums up the evidence and finds it to be conclusive and 'indicative of a guilty conscience.' Few men, even hard-boiled public officials steeped in politics, would deem it wise or practicable to resist the force of overwhelming public opinion directed against them, but apparently not so Mayor Hague. His refusal to yield an inch, his obvious determination to fight to the last ditch might elicit admiration were the circumstances other than what they are. Granting, for the sake of argument, that no conscious wrongdoing, no deliberate flouting of the public confidence has been proved against Hague, they have nevertheless been permitted to take place under his regime as Mayor and as leader of his party, with or without his knowledge. His voluntary retirement from the political arena would be the wisest move on the part of Hague, in his own interests as well as in the interest of his party and its candidate.

"The mistake Hague made is that along with the spoils he also sought the honor of public office. Had he kept in the background, employed a strawman [illegible] city hall and other city and county offices, instead of running things himself—who knows but what he might have retired to Deal a respected and [illegible] citizen."

Navy Day Observance

Saturday, October 27, has been set aside as "Navy Day," and preparations for proper observance are being pushed to the front by Secretary of the Navy and the National Chairman and Committee of Navy Day celebration.

This year the sponsors of Navy Day would emphasize the unity of interest of all elements of the community with their Navy, in the interior as well as on our seacoasts. It is well to remind ourselves that an adequate Navy is a power indispensable to the national government which must foster our overseas commerce in peace and protect it from belligerent foreign powers. Thus our Navy safeguards the nearly two billion dollars of agricultural products exported annually, as well as the three billion dollars worth of manufactured goods. It insures the uninterrupted flow of essential imports such as hemp, jute, sisal and fertilizer for the farm, as it insures the manganese, rubber and tin for our industries. Above everything it lends authority to the voice of America speaking for justice, altruism and law.

We have rejected the fatuity of disarming ourselves to set an example. At the Washington Conference of 1921 a formula was arrived at, satisfactory to all of the leading naval powers, to solve the vexatious matter of naval rivalries and competition in armaments. An informed public opinion on this point, we believe, is the best method of insuring both security and peace.

This year on Navy Day we would emphasize the unity of the Nay with every interest and activity of the national life. It is good for the people to stop a moment and consider what has caused the Nation's prosperity and greatness. The Navy has played no small part in the progress of the United States to its present state of influence. It is well to take thought that the Navy, properly maintained, is an agent of stability in a troubled world. It carries no threat but it lends authority to America's voice speaking for altruism, justice and law.

Leadership is to the strong—and until the time comes when the only security needed by mankind shall rest in the hearts of men and nations we should maintain ourselves as strong as any.

Beware of Closed Garages

The Record takes this opportunity of warning Rahway automobile owners never remain for even a minute in a garage with the door closed and with the engine of the car running. We have given our readers this warning on many occasions, and with the approach of the cold weather season the recurrence of danger again presents itself. Fatalities from this condition have occurred on several occasions hereabouts from neglect to avoid the possibilities of such results.

A gasoline engine in operation emits through its exhaust pipe a large quantity of carbon monoxide which is one of the deadliest gases known. Even a small percentage of it in the air is sufficient to cause death. And it is all the more dangerous because it has no odor and therefore cannot be detected by the senses. Without the slightest warning, the victim becomes unconscious, and unless somebody else hastens to his aid, in a few minutes he will be dead or beyond all power to resuscitate. Many a man has thus been killed, through the noiseless closing of the garage door by the wind, as he sat in his car "warming up" the engine. He heard nothing, smelt nothing, felt no suffocation nor dizziness, but simply fell into a sleep that knew no waking.

It is all right, and is often necessary, to let an engine run for a little while before taking the car out of the garage. But when you do so, either go out of the garage yourself, or be sure that the door is wide open, and so fastened open that the wind cannot close it. Best of all, do both; Fasten the door open, and then stand outside until the engine is sufficiently warmed.

Dangers From Fallen Leaves

With the arrival of fall months and falling leaves also comes a new danger which must be reckoned with by local automobile drivers. It may not be generally known, but the effect on even a heavy vehicle of a single leaf which has dropped on the wet pavement is surprising; it even may be disastrous, according to bulletin issued by Vice-president Matthew R. Boylan, of the Public Service to the company's operators.

This is the time when the trees are shedding their foliage, and when rain is not needed to make the spots the leaves cover moist. To the time of a swiftly moving car one of them has much the same relation a discarded banana skin has to the heel of a careless pedestrian's shoe.

Driving is precarious enough. Fall brings added dangers, and heeding such reminders as this is good practice in avoiding the skids and collisions which will be even more imminent with the coming of winter's ice and snow.

Another danger, annually arriving is that from burning leaves, left carelessly in the street without an attendant. There is nothing so fascinating, it seems, to the smaller children than the opportunity of playing in fire, and an unguarded pile of burning dry foliage affords an excellent magnet. Rahway has had a number of such accidents, and those who would burn the fallen leaves in our streets should feel a double responsibility in seeing that no mischief comes from their desire to keep their property fronts cleaned up.

The New York World is making much of the fact that, in 1918, Chief Justice Taft denounced Prohibition. Since the World, in 1920, supported Hoover, it appears to be an even break.

Mexico's new President never served in the army. But he cultivated an uncommon amount of courage somewhere along the line.

In time, Mae West, Broadway's much-arrested dramatic star, may come to realize that it's safer to act within the law.

As football clashes with politics, let us hope no confusion develops with respect to the Nassau and Tammany tigers.

Talk about world progress. A bathing beauty contest is going to be staged in Turkey.

The Record Scrapbook

Here gathered from all places and all time, the waifs of wisdom and of folly meet.

Then and Now

In the dear and departed old days
For which we so frequently weep
As pensively backward we gaze
Whatever we wanted was cheap.
A dime was considered a pretty fair tip
To bestow on a Pullman car porter.
Six dollars would pay for a holiday trip
And a pretty good show cost a quarter.

In that gentle and kindly old time
A washable celluloid collar
Could be had anywhere for a dime
And neckties were three for a dollar.
For pleasure and clothing, for bed and for board
One had very little to pay
And he could exist for a week, like a lord
Upon what it now costs him per day.

In that simple and innocent age
Life moved at a moderate speed
There was little in which to engage
There was little to do, see or read.
A man who played cards or sat up after ten
Was considered a bit of a devil
A kelly pool parlor was labelled a den
And a ride in a cab was a revel.

It costs a bit more to abide
At the speedier pace of today
We move at a livelier stride
And it's tough to tuck savings away.
But much as it costs to keep up with the game
And hard as the present day gait is
You wouldn't for any reward I might name
Turn backward and dwell in the 'eighties.

Rahway 60 Years Ago

(From National Democrat)

Sad Occurrence

Mr. B. F. Clark and family, of this city, were visiting at Milford, Pa., last week when a most painful and melancholy accident occurred. The nurse, with the little son Ernest, about 8 years of age, and a babe went down to a stream of water. The little boy went in bathing, and went out too far, when the nurse saw the danger and went into the water to save him when both were drowned. The little babe was left at the edge of the water, and was also in danger of being drowned when discovered by some colored people.

Purchased Property

Denman & Freeman have recently purchased the property of the Rahway White Rubber Company on Seminary street, this city. This will make a fine place for their carriage manufacturing.

Made Fine Appearance

Independence Hook and Ladder Co. No. 1 made a very nice display in their parade through the streets, headed by a fine band of music, on Monday afternoon, previous to their picnic.

Big Fire

Just as we go to press Tyres, Lufberry & Co.'s sawmill is being consumed by fire—can't be saved. Other buildings in danger.

Sad and Fatal Accident

Anthony Morse Marsh came to his death on Saturday evening in a very sudden and melancholy manner. With another young man he had been down the river in a rowboat having their guns along. Coming ashore at Monroe street, Marsh took hold of the barrel of his gun to pull it towards him, when the hammer caught and the gun was discharged, the contents taking effect in the breast and lungs. He was taken to the house of his brother where he lived but one hour.

Trades Property

Ex-Mayor Hough, of this city, has been trading some of his property here for a farm at Port Monmouth, Monmouth County.

Goes a Picnicing

The First Presbyterian Sunday school numbering about 350 scholars and teachers accompanied by a fine band of music, went on a picnic to Haviland's Grove yesterday. They marched from the church to the depot and made a very nice appearance with their flags and banners.

Another M. D.

As will be seen by a card in our advertising columns, Dr. Selover has commenced the practice of medicine in this city. He comes well recommended, having had five years experience in various capacities of Dr. in the army.

Items From Everywhere

Mrs. Herman Fogle, of Meyersdale, Penn., has a hen which is believed to be the only labor saving fowl in that vicinity. This hen each day saves Mrs. Fogle the trouble of gathering its egg by coming to the porch and cackling for admittance to its mistress' home. When the door is opened the hen goes directly to the pantry, deposits an egg in the nest constructed for her use and again cackles to have the door opened for egress.

The near-freezing weather which struck Ranger, Tex., made a total wreck of T. H. Brown's glass eye and caused serious injuries to his good one. The glass optic exploded when Brown stepped from a warm room int othe cold temperature outdoors. Physicians who removed particles of glass from Brown's eyeball said the explosion was caused by the sudden change of temperature.

Officers of the United States Army complain that the uniform of the Wichita, Kan., police is too much like their own. An official complaint was made after a woman motorist, whose car had been tagged for overparking, grabbed an Army officer by the collar and spoke forcibly about "you pestering policemen."

There is at least one honest man in Chicago; W. M. Kilgo is seeking him. Mr. Kilgo parked his car in Grant Park. When he got back to it he found sticking behind the ignition switch four $1 bills and a note which read: "Sorry for your broken bumper." On examining the bumper he found that $4 would more than pay for the damage.

A honeymoon broken when parental objections separated them shortly after their marriage 40 years ago has been resumed by E. J. Burch, 64, and his wife, Anna, 61, in the county home at Greenburg, Penn. The couple lost trace of each other following their separation. Recently, Burch, almost blind, was sent to the county home. In the dining room he recognized his wife's voice and the reunion followed.

It has been said that to reach a person's good graces—and pocketbook—the stomach is the surest route. So our Salvation Army officials evidently believe, as they opened their $2,500 campaign drive with a dinner at a local rendezvous on Tuesday night. With the firing of the initial guns, Rahwayans have a chance to "plant their dollars and watch them grow" into the number of human souls brought from no man's land, to an understanding of their duty and prerogative on a journey from the cradle to the grave.

City Crullers

The sweeping of a new broom is generally a clean one. So it may be said of the new "Y" boys' secretary, Mr. Warren H. Wardle, who, if a beginning is a criterion, will make the dust of popularity arise and settle broadcast over the area covered by the local institution's influence. One feature of the new secretary is that he is methodical, enthusiastic and thorough in what he undertakes. He seems to take nothing for granted, but digs in and just compels, by systematic planning and painstaking leadership.

In view of the tender plants his duty to nurture and develop by intelligent gardening, his position in the scheme of things, probably presents opportunities as come to no other official engaged in "Y" work. Popular with the youngsters, at the same time commanding their respect, insures a rich harvest of influence, guiding their endeavors for a higher and nobler life. The Twist extends the right hand of welcome and we bespeak for him the kindly feeling and co-operation of parents and friends of the Rahway Y. M. C. A. as he assumes the reins of government in this branch of Christian leadership.

It isn't necessary to ask "what will the harvest be" in the annual fall gathering of St. Mary's Parish. Past experience in this important event assures of a successful harvest of the wherewithal necessary to keep this great work progressing in the local parish. With such a high caliber of leadership as our Catholic friends of St. Mary's are fortunate in having it is a foregone conclusion that the bins will be bulging after the corps of harvesters have completed their gleaning.

• • •

The Hoover-Republican Club is certainly whooping things these days. With an addition of over one hundred new members during the past two weeks enthusiasm runs high and the political pot is boiling over to such an extent that it becomes necessary to secure a larger meeting pot. The Masonic Temple affords this progressive organization ample space to conduct their meetings, while the entertainment committee are exerting to the utmost to provide speakers who can speak and at the same time drive home with effect their arguments in favor of the party's standard bearers. From now until election day the publicity wedge will most likely continue to crack the logs of opposition and provide firewood aplenty.

• • •

Now that the new Grover Cleveland public school has been accepted by the Board of Education officials, may the school faculty teach the young idea how to shoot to hit the bull's eye of learning. The new building cost money; but then school buildings and school bells are the bulwark of Democratic government, without them the star of liberty would soon fail to illuminate and as a nation we would be groping our way toward an uncertain destiny.

• • •

According to a notice in Rahway Record Tuesday's edition the members of the Rahway Colored Republican Club will meet at their headquarters Tuesday next for the purpose of receiving instruction in the use of the ballot. This idea might with profit be extended to many of our brothers and sisters of the Caucasian race, who undoubtedly will go to the polls in November with but a smattering of understanding as to the proper indorsement of candidates whose names appear on the ballots. Education isn't only necessary in the schoolroom of childhood but continues on till maturity of years permits exercise of right of franchise. Good government doesn't result from mass voting but from intelligent voting. If we knew the qualifications of those who would attempt to govern us and vote accordingly, a new era would ensue, and we would be a happier and better people.

• • •

If you are skeptical of the statement made that the present generation are sidetracking in a desire to be good, your convictions will receive encouraging support by following subsequent issues of the Record the long lists of children in public and parochial schools with perfect attendance records. Surely all good things do not come tied up in packages. Our schoolhouses contain a bevy of youngsters, while they may not have wings, yet they are cognizant that success in life only comes through strict application to the daily duties presenting themselves, and searching of guideposts as found between the covers of their schoolbooks.

THE TWIST.

LITTLE BAND-WAGON JOURNEYS

By L. T. MERRILL

(©, 1928, Western Newspaper Union.)

2.—President by One Vote

ALTHOUGH bickerings between Jefferson and Hamilton within Washington's cabinet and barbed partisan newspaper attacks made the "Father of His Country" weary of the Presidency before his first term had expired, he was persuaded to stand for re-election, and again scored a unanimous vote of the 132 members of the electoral college, with John Adams re-elected as vice president.

The bickerings increased, the factional warfare became more intense as Washington's second administration progressed. The President was made the victim of violent diatribes in scurrilous newspaper articles, and pamphlets. "Tyrant," "impostor," "embezzler," "crocodile," "hyena" were some of the epithets of his traducers.

When in 1796 Washington issued his famous farewell address, urging partisans to sink their differences, it fanned rather than quenched the blaze of acrimony. Jefferson charged that Washington was unwilling to run again for fear of being defeated.

For the first time the Presidential office was a prize open to real competition. There were no nominations by the caucus, convention or mass meeting. But John Adams for the Federalists and Thomas Jefferson for the Anti-Federalists soon emerged head and shoulders above the others as the leading contenders.

These two presently became the targets of bitter attack and counter-attack. Adams was inconsistently assailed as an aristocrat and derided for being the son of a shoemaker. It was recalled to his discredit that he had acted as legal counsel for British soldiers involved in the Boston massacre.

He was roasted for his alleged monarchist sympathies. "Liberty, equality and no king!" became a slogan of the Jeffersonian Republicans, paraphrasing it from the motto of the French revolution, with which at the time they were fervidly in sympathy. The tricolor cockade of France became a campaign badge of Jefferson's friends.

Jefferson, on the other hand, did not escape condemnation. He was berated for many things he had not done. Utterances in his books and letters were deliberately garbled.

In the first contested Presidential election the religious issue played a prominent part. Thrusting at Jefferson's deism, his opponents demanded the election of a "Christian President." He had a reputation as a philosopher, but to what ill use had he not put his philosophy! He had refuted Moses and tried to disprove the Bible story of the deluge! If he had tried to establish religious freedom in Virginia, they said, it was because he desired not freedom of worship, but freedom from worship. He had wasted his time, that should have been put to better uses, they asserted, in idly speculating about why negroes were black and white men white, and in perfecting eccentric inventions, such as whirligig chairs.

Besides the newspaper attacks, handbills, posthills and broadsides were got out in great quantities on both sides. Charges of fraud and of ballot box stuffing were bandied about with spirit.

Then the dust settled, and the ballots cast by the 138 members of the electoral college were counted. The Massachusetts man was found to have received 71 votes and his Virginia opponent 68. Adams' total was only one vote more than the number required to elect him, while Jefferson's fell just two short of the number that would have made him President.

The clumsy old provision which made the candidate receiving the next to the highest number of votes the vice president saddled President Adams with a vice president who was then his principal political foe—though in times past they had been collaborators in drawing up the American Declaration of Independence.

The counting of the votes was a scene of dramatic interest, not only because of the closeness of the contest, but because one of the two leading contenders, by virtue of being vice president, presided at the meeting, opened the certificates, read them, and finally declared himself elected.

A question has been informally raised regarding the validity of four Vermont electoral votes cast for Adams. Had they been disallowed, the victory would have gone to his opponent. No one formally, however, objected to the Vermont votes being counted in, though there was ample opportunity for the Jeffersonian adherents to do so.

The inauguration took place in the house of representatives. "All agree," President Adams wrote to his wife, "that, taken altogether, it was the sublimest thing ever exhibited in America."

Mickie's Mixture

Dear Mister Editor:

I hasn't the slightest idear how all this election combustion is affectin you, but I'm tellin yer, its baginnin ter get on my nerve. The one salvation ter keep me from goin complete coockoo is readin bout the Yanks wallopin their opponents and Babe Ruth swattin home runs. Taint only starin yer in the lamps from every newspaper yer pick up, but about 99 outer every 100 yer meet on the street is talkin Herb Hoover or Al Smith. Honest I'm gettin dippy. Only Saturday last a kid says to me, "I don't want that guy to get elected." Who?" says I. The answer was a pointin of his finger ter a passin automobile carryin a Hoover sign. "Why?" says I. "Cause I aint no protestant," [illegible] came the answer. Two girls stopped me on the street the other day. "Who you goin to vote for?" was the interrogation thrown at me. Course I evaded an answer by sayin I was waitin ter see how much these big guys was payin. One of the females was a Hoover-ite and the other a Smithy [illegible]

Same afternoon Ma says, Mickie, cut the grass on the back lawn. Says I here is where I get away from this political stuff. Heard the roar of an airplane engine over me head, I looked toward the place where they say the pearly gates is swingin and begee painted on the underside of the wings of that there plane in letters about two feet long was the words "Hoover and Kean." Honest, I wouldn't be surprised to see Smith and Hoover streamers floatin from the next [illegible] moon.

• • •

Now we read of Al Smith [illegible] lerin fer somethin stronger, [illegible] I'll bet a quart of the city's drinkin water agin a glass of grape [illegible] that he would be satisfied with a half of one percent majority in the electoral college. What ya [illegible]

• • •

My Ma says no liars can go to heaven. That's a purty broad statement, cause from my acquaintance, folks, heaven must be a darned lonesome place, with only God and George Washington there.

• • •

I been readin with interest where Uncle Sam has been tryin to shut up a lot of radio broadcastin stations. But what if we was able ter shut up about 99 percent of these human gossip stations wouldn't it be heavenly.

• • •

Pa came home tother day with one eye all swelled up as though he had bumped a Dempsey [illegible] "Pa," says I, "fer heaven's sake what's the matter?" "Son," says pa, "Job might er had boils but no bumble bee ever flew thru his open windshield."

• • •

Jack and Jill ran down the hill
Gravity was helping;
That was nice but there was [illegible]
And they got up a yelping.
They met Al Smith acoming up,
Then they started to bet
That he was the one
Who started the fun
And made the road all wet.

• • •

I've heard Ma say when she was younger, they uster give ministers of the gospel pound parties and such things to help them along. But, as I look around the home town things seem different nowadays. Begee every sky pilot is drivin automobiles, excepting one that I knows of—he's blind. Yes siree, things do change. They don't even need amen corners and mourners' benches in the churches. Who said times wasn't prosperous? Maybe yer don't know it, but American wealth has increased more than 4,400 percent since 1850, yet some mothers' sons has the nerve ter tell us we would be more prosperous under Russian government, and they feel we can't afford a navy.

Little Johnny Whiddetree,
Got real fresh with a bumblebee.
The Bumblebee, with a bumble frown,
Lit on Jimmy, and then sat down.
He sat so hard, and got so busy,
That Johnny squawked like a flustered Lizzy.
And now dear children listen to me.
Never monkey with a bumblebee.

COUNCIL HEARS MAIN ST. PROS AND CONS

Reserved Decision Tuesday On Suggested Widening

Opinions, favorable and otherwise, relative to the proposed widening of Main street, were expressed before the Common Council in special session Tuesday night. Judge Orlando H. Dey, representing thirty-three petitioners, urged that the street be extended three feet on each side by cutting into the sidewalks. The Council finally reserved decision.

The cost of such an improvement from the railroad bridge to Milton avenue would be $12,000, or about $5.58 per front foot, according to City Engineer C. S. Bush. If the improvement is carried beyond Milton avenue to Commerce street the cost will be $20,000, or about $6.03 per front foot. The sidewalks are now fifteen feet wide on each side. If the street is altered as requested by the petitioners, the width of the walks will be reduced to twelve feet on each side.

Judge Dey pointed out that he represented the owners of eighty-five percent of the property between the bridge and Milton avenue, and that the objectors were therefore a small minority. He requested that the improvement be made in time to facilitate Christmas shopping.

It is the desire of the petitioners to have the cost shared among the owners and the city at large, one-third of the expense being borne by the latter and two-thirds by the former.

The principal objector was Dr. John M. Randolph, of 131 Main street. He said, in a letter to the council:

"At present, Main street is of ample width to permit parking on both sides and to enable traffic in both directions to proceed simultaneously. An increase of six feet over the present width would encourage careless parking and parking in double rows. The proposed increased width would not facilitate traffic movement, and as just pointed out, might even hinder it.

"Reducing the width of each sidewalk three feet would cause unnecessary inconvenience to pedestrians. At busy times near the Cherry street intersection, the sidewalk is now crowded to capacity. Reduction of sidewalk width would hinder foot traffic and would encourage the dangerous practice of stepping out into the street when encountering a slow-moving group of persons on the sidewalk.

"At the expense of the city and of the property owners, the present paving and sidewalks have been constructed in a substantial manner and at a considerable cost. It seems entirely unwarranted to enter into a reconstruction program when the present paving is in good condition. Widening of the roadway would incur an expense of approximately $30,000.

"This proposed plan has many obvious disadvantages. The advantages, if any, are difficult to discern. The plan would seem to be a poorly conceived notion on the part of a well-meaning few who have not given the matter careful thought.

"The City Treasurer can doubtless mention a half dozen more deserving enterprises which could be completed for the city's share of the expense. The time is not ripe for the haphazard expenditure of municipal funds. Furthermore, any contemplated street changes should be made for the better and not for the worse."

G. O. P. CONTINUES WEEKLY BELABORING OF THE DEMOCRATS

Jersey City Speaker and the Local Candidates Praise Republican Party

George W. Shaw, of Jersey City, and a large number of Republican candidates for various offices in the city and State continued their weekly belaboring of the Democrats at the meeting of the Herbert Hoover Republican Club in the Craftsmen's Club Masonic Temple, Friday night. Gatherings will be held in this place weekly until the Friday before election day, the old quarters in the Woodruff Building being too small to accommodate the crowds.

After declaring that "The Democrats never stood on the American side of any American question," Shaw urged voting the full Republican ticket. He made special reference to Morgan F. Larson for Governor and Hamilton F. Kean for Senator.

C. G. Saal, candidate for councilman-at-large, thanked the city and county committees for their confidence in him in placing his name on the ballot after the withdrawal, because of ill-health, of James H. Craig.

Preceding Mr. Shaw there were speeches by Assemblyman George Compton, of Hillside and Thomas Muir, of Plainfield. After due attention to the National issues Assemblyman Compton urged the election of Hamilton F. Kean in order to continue a successful national business administration, extolling the business experience and ability of Mr. Kean and his fitness to support the administration in progressive policies. Larson's large heartedness and humanitarian instincts were stressed by Mr. Compton, who also spoke briefly in behalf of the Assembly ticket and local candidates.

Assemblyman Muir spoke of Assemblyman Compton as house majority leader next year and dealt chiefly with National and State issues.

Hans Bakgaard, a tenor of much ability who is the guest of Nels Neilson, and who gained considerable prominence in Denmark before coming to this country, delighted all with his solo work. He played his own accompaniment.

Fifty-two new members were received and the receipts of the evening were $327 according to the reports of Treasurer William F. Veech and Financial Secretary C. C. [illegible].

Veech reported on the rally to be held at the high school auditorium on Friday, October 26, when a notable array of speakers will be provided.

Expressions of regret were made that James H. Craig was obliged to withdraw from the race for re-election because of ill-health.

An invitation was received from the Clark Township Republican Club to attend a rally Friday night. Councilman William H. Armstrong served as secretary.
