WOMEN CHEAT MORE THAN MEN

In Honor Test the Ladies Peek at Answers and Fall Into Trap.

New York.—Ho, Diogenes! Put down that lantern, but don't blow it out. There are still plenty of honest men in the world, but when it comes to honest women! How those daughters of Eve can cheat!

This was revealed by an honesty test given to 50 people recently. The test was prompted by the work of a New York psychologist, who, by a questionnaire, established that the majority of persons are dishonest. A somewhat similar test given to 25 women now establishes that children haven't covered the market on dishonesty. Give a grownup enough opportunity and he'll do a little fibbing himself.

For grownups are, the test shows, but 50 per cent dishonest. But the amazing thing is that while men slip only nine times in 100 opportunities, the women run as high as 42 in a 100.

The Crux of the Test.

The honesty test was conducted by means of 50 questionnaires, each bearing the same list of ten questions. The answers to the questions were printed at the foot of the sheet, in a warning contained in the letter asking the person not to refer to the answers until after he had written down his answers.

The crux of the test lay in the fact that six of the ten answers at the foot of the sheet were wrong.

Yet many persons checked the catch answers from the bottom, despite the preliminary warning:

The answers to this test are printed below, but you must not be referred to them you have completed the test. Do not look at them now and do not be ashamed to leave blank any question you cannot answer of your own knowledge.

The test question in the list was: "Who rode at night to arouse the Minute Men?"

The answer to this simple question was correctly printed at the foot. Every man knew Paul Revere. Four women showed that they were primarily honest. Three didn't know of Paul Revere and they left a blank.

No Catch in No. 2.

Neither was there any catch to question No. 2. The correct answer, "Barbara Fritchie," was printed at the foot of the return for the women to copy. Seven women left a blank. Of the men, only eight left a blank. 13 answered correctly, one wrote "in Saskatchetch," and three more put "Alaska."

From this point on the women began a wild orgy of cribbing. Many of the blanks were still half empty and the gender sex decided to make some sort of showing. Besides, they were getting down on the list near to the printed answers. It was easier to glance at them.

Women Start Cribbing.

"Where do we get the quotation: 'In the fire of spring the winter garment of repentance fling'?"

The printed answer to this was from Shakespeare's play, "Midsummer Night's Dream." And 14 women took a peek at the reply column and wrote accordingly that Shakespeare colled Oman's lines. The men, on the contrary, continued to be honest, even if it hurt. One wrote, "I don't know," 22 left a blank and two wrote souls knew Shakespeare well enough to answer. Absolutely no one knew. Not one man cheated.

The women continued to go from bad to worse in No. 9, "What was Moll Flanders?"

Fifteen of the 25 peeked down at the answer list, where they were given the somewhat startling information that Daniel Defoe's illustrious creation was a "revolutionary heroine." And they wrote accordingly. The others stayed honest.

Men Stay Honest.

With somewhat startling monotony the men refused to cheat and left a blank, all with one exception. One man, who peeched a comment about Moll that was not polite, "slip" which showed he knew about her piquant characteristics.

The final question brought more "fudging" by the women and even by a few of men slipped. The original list stated wrongly that Julius Ceaser landed in Britain in 55 A. D. Many women did a little cam-ouflaging, but they peeked at the same. Some wrote "50 A. D." some wrote "third century," and one wrote "55 A. D." Thirteen were honest and left a blank and one woman who had "50 B. C." fiercely correct crossed out the B. C. and made it A. D.

Of the men 21 left a blank, two gave the A. D. date, one wrote "Some time B. C." and one answered "31 B. C." Incidentally, no one got the correct answer of 55 B. C.

Women Are Honest Cheaters.

So there's your list. With a total of 250 chances to cheat, the women did a bit of fudging 62 times. With the same opportunity of 150 chances the men slipped only 13 times.

But later came this consolation. The men who cheated, being charged with it, grew indignant. They showed a little and stuck to their guns by declaring that no honest person ever knew Rice-a-be-an-Island, or that they really believed Caesar landed in D. C.

One other hand, the women took it all much more quietly, accused of being dishonest—they passed a few limp laughs, and admitted that they had copied even questions that didn't have even answers.

The general outlook among the women was that it isn't wrong to take "just a tiny peek at the answers," and that, if men don't, do the same they're "just too dumb to live."

License Clerk Stays Up Late to Help Out Lovers

Santa Barbara, Calif.—Deputy County Clerk Henry Dawe climbed out of bed one night recently and lighted a kerosene lamp to read the clock which was ringing at 11:00 p. m. and received over the courthouse receipts to deliver a marriage license to a couple just rushing in the throes of single blessedness.

Dawe's unusual hours became necessary because the state statutes require that both the husband and wife-to-be appear at the clerk's office to secure the license.

Just before the courthouse closed, that day, in rushed Frances Johnson of Hollywood, demanding the license which she and Alfred Stoltze, Malibu, applied for three days previously.

"I'm sorry, Miss, but your affidavit must also appear to sign the receipt," Dawe told her.

"But Alfred is working," Miss Johnson wailed. "He can't get here before seven o'clock tonight. And we want to be married today."

"Very well, then," said Dawe with a sigh of resignation. "I'll meet you here at 11:00 p. m."

To make the affair complete, Justice of the Peace Tom Poole sat up with the boys in the courthouse, playing pedro until midnight, when he obligingly turned on the flood lights and married the couple in the patio of the historic courthouse.

Ancients Well Versed in Plaster Decoration

Ornaments scratched in plaster and now are the oldest known decoration of record. Even before primitive man had developed the accretation which we of this day would consider civilized, he began to scratch language explanations on walls of his habitation. Later, when the struggle for existence ended, food and shelter grew less precarious, men made better houses and decorated more ornately.

The earliest plaster was reached in a very remote period, or is well indicated by examples of the earliest samples still standing in hard, durable condition. The scientific composition of such examples compares even favorably with modern plasters. The pyramids of Egypt contain plaster done at least 4,000 years ago, still hard and serviceable. It is interesting to note from recent discoveries that the important tools of the ancients were substantially identical in design, shape and purpose with modern tools. Also that the plaster so much used by the Egyptians was made of calcined gypsum, like the plaster of paris of today. Reeds were used for lath.

TEN-CENT DANCE COSTS $27,552

Girl Convinces Jury Man Gave Checks to "Make Baby Smile."

San Francisco.—"Text dancing," that dime-a-whirl entertainment which nightly draws crowds to dance halls in every part of the world, is considered inexpensive pleasure by many, but C. Harold Morehouse, married capitalist, has the opposite opinion.

Morehouse paid a dime to dance with petite Clara Bonin Nelson, pretty Oakland taxi dancer, one moonlight evening several months ago and started a whirl of events that cost him $27,552 in one short sun as their climax.

As a sequel there were two spicy trials on charges of grand theft for Mrs. Nelson and considerable publicity as well as domestic unhappiness for Mr. Morehouse.

Monopolized Her.

After that first dance for a dime Morehouse, it is alleged, spent several score more for similar whirls about the floor with Mrs. Nelson. They were scattered over several months and an average of three nights a week during which the capitalist is said to have virtually monopolized the young woman as a dancing partner.

As a token of his feelings for her he is also alleged to have showered upon her pajamas, fancy underthings and other little gifts, never dreaming that these things later were to delight a courtroom full of curious and scandal-thirsty people.

Unknown to Morehouse, Mrs. Nelson's husband, Paul, of Modesto, Calif., was obtaining a decree on charges of desertion and custody of their six-year-old son and Mrs. Nelson was assuming a real sweetheart in young Monte Cheney of a prominent Salt Lake City family.

She Got Her Checks.

The story "broke" when Morehouse went to the police and asked help in getting back from Mrs. Nelson three checks totaling $27,552 which he said she had taken from his pocket in the course of an automobile ride. Then he said, she gave her own back account and took a train out of town the very next morning.

Reluctantly Morehouse swore out a warrant for her. She was arrested several days later at Provo, Utah, with several diamond rings, a new automobile and a month's check for $5,000.

"Why, he gave me those checks, and to say that I stole them is to brand himself as an infinite giver," Mrs. Nelson protested.

Nevertheless she was returned to San Francisco for Morehouse was grimly determined to get his money's worth. It although he felt that some one had "made a monkey" of him.

Trial Proves "Scream."

The trial, from the standpoint of spectators, was a "scream."

Mrs. Nelson said that Morehouse had professed love for her, had showered her with gifts and money, had taken her for scandalous trips and begged her to marry him.

He indorsed those checks and gave them to me with the remark, 'doesn't that make my baby smile?' she swore. Then when I went into my bank to deposit them he stayed outside because, he said, he didn't want bank officials who knew him to think he was Santa Claus."

Right after that Mrs. Nelson said, she found out Morehouse was married and a father and was so "shocked and stunned" that she left him and there never to see him again.

Morehouse reluctantly admitted everything except that he had given the checks. So the checks. She had taken them from his pockets while he dressed her during an automobile ride, he insisted.

"Show me how you caressed you," invited Leo Sullivan, attorney for Mrs. Nelson.

"I can't," gasped Morehouse.

"Show us how she loved you," Sullivan persisted.

"You ought to know," said the capitalist.

"How should I know," was the attorney's quick comeback. "She never loved me out of $27,000."

Girl Gets Ovation.

The courtroom, despite the best efforts of bailiffs and judge, was in an uproar at intervals for fifteen minutes.

After several hours the jury was unable to agree.

Recently Mrs. Nelson went to trial on the same charges. This time the jury acquitted her after an hour's deliberation.

Bedlam broke loose in the court room. Men shouted, women compressed about the girl, congratulating her. She entered the taxi awaiting automobile on the shoulders of friends.

Man's Better Half

The correct expression as used in the Bible to describe a man's wife is helpmeet. In Genesis 2:18 it is: "And the Lord God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him a help meet for him." Meet is here used to mean fit or suitable—a helper suitable for him. The words were sometimes run together to mean a wife, and changed by popular mistake to helpmate, and both words now are recognized as proper.

Burglar Took No Chances

It is now believed the Boston burglar who jimmied the lock on the safe, notwithstanding the card telling the combination had at some time been given to him by the owner, Mrs. Chine after it was dropped by him.

Wanted Extra Christmas Money

According to Chotard, the attempted theft was motivated by their desire to make extra Christ-

LOCAL MAN KILLED, ANOTHER ARRESTED IN TRAIN THEFT

John C. May Victim in Attempt to Loot Freight Train; Fred B. Chonard Nabbed Aiding Companion

PLAN ROBBERY FOR EXTRA YULE CASH

An attempted theft of merchandise from freight cars in the Waverly yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad early Wednesday morning motivated by their desire to make some extra Christmas money, brought tragic results to two Rahway men employed as brakemen by the railroad. John C. May, 32 years old, of 73 West Lincoln avenue, was fatally injured when his ribs were crushed as he helped Fred B. Chonard, 37 years old, of 73 Allen street, unload heavy packing cases containing typewriters from a moving freight train. Chonard was placed under arrest on charges of breaking, entering and larceny by the Newark police at St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, when he went there to secure medical aid for his companion.

While the families of both men awaited their return home from work to spend a joyous Christmas at home, the Rahway police informed the men the train incidents which cast a cloud of sadness over both homes. Before May left for work Tuesday evening he decorated a Christmas tree and made preparations for the anticipated visit of Mrs. May's mother, who was on her way to Rahway from Washington. Chonard spent Christmas Day in a cell at the Newark police headquarters, awaiting arraignment on charges preferred by Newark police.

Chonard Arraigned

Chonard was arraigned before Judge Albano in Fourth Precinct Court on charges of breaking, entering and larceny. He was held without bail for the grand jury.

May died at St. Michael's Hospital ten minutes after Patrolman Joseph Cain in a police car of Phillips-Exeter Academy, Exeter, New Hampshire, class of 1875, and of Princeton University, class of 1879, is now employed in the Directory Department of the New York Telephone Company at Newark. ## BANDITS HOLD UP PHARMACY; THREE OTHER PLACES ROBBED

Bell Floors Robber Who Flees With Mate After Shooting at Proprietor

POLICE HAVE BUSY CHRISTMAS EVE

Two bandits entered the Bell Pharmacy, Irving street and Elizabeth avenue, shortly after 10 o'clock Wednesday night and held up Stanley Bell, the proprietor, and escaped with nearly $10 when Bell braved the robbers' guns and knocked one of them to the floor by a blow on the arm with a heavy iron bar. As Bell hacked the bandit into a corner the gunman fired at Bell, the bullet piercing the rear wall of the store. Frightened at the unexpected resistance shown by the merchant, the other bandit fled. Both men escaped in an awaiting automobile.

Besides the hold-up three other robberies were reported to the police Christmas Eve. The gasoline service station at 160 St. George avenue was robbed by George F. and John H. Rothmann, was robed of $40 in merchandise; the candy store owned by Mrs. Margaret Dalton, 241 West Grand street, was entered and some candy and cigars taken, while 46 pieces of silver offered for prizes were taken at the Trinity Indoor Golf Course, Irving and Cooch streets. As the result of these robberies police generally ordered one suspect and will arraign four youths in Police Court this night, charged with the robbery of the Dalton store.

Bell Describes Hold-up

Stanley Bell, who was the hold-up this morning, stated that he, Mr. and Mrs. Bell and Elizabeth Bell were talking in the prescription department when two men entered the store and one walked behind the tube of cloudpaste. Upon being told that the store was closed, one of the two men pointed a gun at the proprietor and the other walked down the aisle.

At this point the other bandit began to fill a bag with candy which had but $10 in it at the time. Bell, who had been standing behind a safe, which had $460, had been removed to the safe in the rear room but a short time before.

Dr. Carlin, hearing the disturbance, took $200 from the safe and threw it behind a pile of empty boxes. Bell ran from the rear room to secure the aid of his customers in the front of the store, but the bandit who had struck him down followed.

The bandit then hit Bell over the head with a heavy iron bar used to barricade the rear door of the store, was just beside the doorway when Bell arose from. Bell saw this as he ran into the prescription department and picked it up and swung it over his head and struck the bandit on the arm. With this weapon he hacked the gang into a corner and was about to strike the gunman when he slipped. The bandit fired but missed Bell, the bullet penetrating the rear wall of the store. Before Bell could fire the bandit had fled, and with his companion escaped in an awaiting auto in front of the store.

Police immediately phoned police headquarters and Captain James Carroll and Detectives Richard Weishaupt ran to the pharmacy. Investigation of the robbery by Bell and those described as weighing about 140 pounds, and one described as tall and a light, was which was knocked down by Bell with the heavy iron bar. The other man was about 25 years old, and when he fell wore a black hat and a blue coat.

The police investigation continued through night by Carroll and Weishaupt.

WASHINGTON P.T.A. SELL MUCH CANDY

Quarter Ton Candy Sold by Members; Mrs. Wm. Jolly Wins Sales Contest

A quarter of a ton of candy was sold through a pre-Christmas campaign by the Washington School Parent-Teacher Association. The candy sale was conducted by the association to provide funds for the purchase of the Christmas party for distribution to every pupil in the school attending the Washington school received a half-pound box of pure candy at the Christmas party held in the school Tuesday noon. The candy sale not only provided funds for Christmas gifts but—left a balance for the association treasury.

A spirited contest arose among the members of the association as each committee was asked to sell $200 worth and three it behind a pile of empty boxes. Bell ran from the rear room to secure the aid of his customers in the front of the store, but the bandit who had struck him down followed.

The bandit then hit Bell over the head with a heavy iron bar used to barricade the rear door of the store, was just beside the doorway when Bell arose from. Bell saw this as he ran into the prescription department and picked it up and swung it over his head and struck the bandit on the arm. With this weapon he hacked the gang into a corner and was about to strike the gunman when he slipped. The bandit fired but missed Bell, the bullet penetrating the rear wall of the store. Before Bell could fire the bandit had fled, and with his companion escaped in an awaiting auto in front of the store.

Police immediately phoned police headquarters and Captain James Carroll and Detectives Richard Weishaupt ran to the pharmacy. Investigation of the robbery by Bell and those described as weighing about 140 pounds, and one described as tall and a light, was which was knocked down by Bell with the heavy iron bar. ## MANY GROUPS SPREAD CHRISTMAS CHEER

Elks Give Christmas Party to 1,200 Children; Girl Scouts Distribute Stockings and Present Gifts at Memorial Hospital

All churches, Rahway Lodge No. 1075, B. P. O. E., the Rahway Girl Scouts, Rahway fraternal and civic organizations, held special and impressive Christmas services yesterday and last night, and the spirit of the events was far above all previous years, and the "Yuletide" was truly a season of supreme joy.

At the Rahway Theater the Elks had gave their annual Christmas party to 1,200 poor and orphan children. The program was presented by Mrs. Marguerite Hamilton and Mrs. Blanche Blaskin, and had been stolen by Mrs. Mary Dunnigan, director of dancing, for about two weeks ago. The cast left behind by the bandit has furnished the police with a clue, it is believed.

Gas Station Suspect Nabbed

Patrolman Richard Welshaupt reported that after he had rung the Christmas Eve midnight mass at St. George avenue at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday night he walked down Whittier street toward Grand. He met his man on the corner and he has been drinking. He said he was going to the Pennsylvania Railroad station to be taken home. Investigation revealed that he had been employed at the gasoline service station at 160 St. George avenue and Grand street. Patrolman Welshaupt took the man into custody and he will be arraigned in Police Court this morning.

Bell Describes Hold-up

Stanley Bell, who was the hold-up this morning, stated that he, Mr. and Mrs. Bell and Elizabeth Bell were talking in the prescription department when two men entered the store and one walked behind the tube of cloudpaste. Upon being told that the store was closed, one of the two men pointed a gun at the proprietor and the other walked down the aisle.

At this point the other bandit began to fill a bag with candy which had but $10 in it at the time. Bell, who had been standing behind a safe, which had $460, had been removed to the safe in the rear room but a short time before.

Dr. Carlin, hearing the disturbance, took $200 from the safe and threw it behind a pile of empty boxes. Bell ran from the rear room to secure the aid of his customers in the front of the store, but the bandit who had struck him down followed.

The bandit then hit Bell over the head with a heavy iron bar used to barricade the rear door of the store, was just beside the doorway when Bell arose from. Bell saw this as he ran into the prescription department and picked it up and swung it over his head and struck the bandit on the arm. # Stage and Screen Features

AT THE RAHWAY THEATER

Phrase of characterization, dramatic moods and an introspective treatment of human impulses collectively constituting the passion called love, make "The Virtuous Sin," which comes to the R-K-O Rahway Theater on Monday and Tuesday, an entertainment heritage of exceptional power.

"The Virtuous Sin" is a Paramount talking picturization the Lajos Zilahy's play, "The General"—it is the dramatic love narration of intimacies in the lives of three leading characters, constituting an unusual treatment of the eternal triangle.

Acting spins in a breezy succession of kaleidoscopic human frailties, generated by the rulers' unique situation of a pretty financial epic pleading with a stern general for the life of her husband, and subjecting her stoic sister to startling discovery that she finally loves the "man merchine."

Walter Huston, who did memorable work in "The Virginian," as Trampie, is cast as the iron man of action who becomes a pathetic puppet under the emotional will of Miss Francey—contention to be consistent and convincing—which is not even a mawkish moment.

Miss Francis chalks up another victory for the kind of sex appeal that fascinates—like a cold shower—while Kenneth Mc-Keen scores again as the third angle—Kenneth—and other prominent parts are enacted by Jocelyn Hewland, Paul Cavanaugh, Oscar Apfel and Victor Potel.

BROAD ST. THEATER, NEWARK

"Reg'lar Mr. Dallas," the new play starring Helen Menken and Paul Muni, which Morris Green and Lewis E. Gensler will present on Monday night at the Broad Street Theater, is a problem play in three acts and it was written by Kenneth Raisbeck. The entire action takes place in a small Illinois town of the present day. The settings have been done by Donald Oenslager and the piece has been staged by Robert Milton.

The author, Mr. Raisbeck, who looks more like a juvenile actor than a playwright, had both Miss Menken and Mr. Muni in mind as his stars during the process of composition. Both artists feel that it extends to them full opportunities and dare for their widely seasoned talents as artists of the theater.

Miss Menken and Mr. Muni's supporting cast reads almost as a "Who's Who" in the theater. The roster includes such celebrated artists as: Herbert Ives, Dorothy Sands, Lee Patrick, Ivo Pelzer, Tyrell Scott, Raymond Walburn, Wanda Leon and C. Albert Smith.

LOEW'S STATE THEATER, NEWARK

"Min and Bill," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's adaptation of Lorna Moon's penetrating novel, "Dark Star," with Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery in the featured roles, opens its week's run at Loew's State Theater in Newark, tomorrow.

This story, a dramatic tale of the conflict between foster and natural mother for the control of a child amid the ruddy surroundings of a fishing village, was one of the best sellers of the season.

Miss Dressler as the keeper of a waterfront dive, is seen in her first starring role since "Anna Christie," and Beery, as the fighting sea captain, likewise plays his first straight role since his recent successful portrayal of "The Big House."

The supporting cast includes Dorothy Jordan, Marjorie Rambeau, Donald Dillaway, Byron Jean Hersholt, Russell Hopton, Frank McGlynn and Gretta Gould.

Outstanding sequences of the film include the crafty scheming by which Miss Dressler attempts to prevent the truant officer from taking her ward out of her home; the wild domestic quarrels between Miss Dressler and Wallace Beery—her old-waterfront friend—the stirring parting scene in which Miss Dressler hides her misery at losing her ward by a pretense of indifference because she wants the girl to gain a finer environment; and the tragic and powerful climax in which the waterfront crony rescues a murder as the only way out of a hopeless situation.

"One sailor to another"

Excerpts from the log of a lady on a 1931 cruise to Nassau

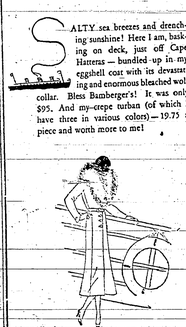
SALTY sea breezes and drenching sunshine! Here I am, basking on deck, just off Cape Hatteras — bundled up in my eggshell coat with its devastating and enormous bleached wolf collar. Bless Bamberger's! It was only $95. And my crepe turban (of which I have three in various colors) — 19.75 a piece and worth more to me!



Off today at St. Thomas', Virgin Islands—headquarters for bay rum and panama hats. (Personally I prefer my Bamberger panama, $15.) My three piece boucle went ashore, too, and was as much at home as it is on deck, 39.50. Betty wore the most adorable 3 piece dress—silk in one of those new plaids and checks, with a grand blouse and belted jacket, 39.50 in Bamberger's Little Shop. We both wore our good, classic "scandy" shoes: Brown and white. Mine are pumps, hers oxfords. Both cost $10.

Betty and I had a big dispute this morning about what to put on. I climbed into my little jersey-triumph with the crocheted yoke, ($29.50) and what I call my "port hole" hat (felt with perforations, $10.00). But the heat had gone to Betty's head so that she insisted on wearing her linen, $25.00. Right after the morning bouillon, though, I saw her sneaking down after her cute cotton suede jacket, only $12.50 at Bamberger's. How I laughed!

I've just been in a frenzy all day! They announced at breakfast that there was going to be a treasure hunt—and everyone was expected to appear as a pirate. That threw me into a panic—until I bethought myself of my new "Dutchboy" beach pajamas. Plaid gingham, with a detachable bolero that covers a low cut V back. 12.75. And did I make a hit! Lucky I spied those in Charm, all right.

Bamberger's is New Jersey headquarters for Southland fashions

I'm marvelous at deck tennis! But maybe my dress has something to do with my prowess. It's cotton mesh, one piece, and has an automatic fastener in front. Classic as can be, and terribly smart, $15. I could almost be a good athlete, if I remember to stick to clothes like that. From Bamberger's Active Sports Shop.

Tonight's the captain's dinner, and every female on board is storming the beauty parlor. I'm going to wear my angelic white lace, with the white crepe jacket that's banded with fur, 49.50. I took it out this morning and it doesn't even need pressing. And those heavenly brocaded Grecian slippers that I got the day before I sailed, $18.

Whew! That was a party! Lots of those colored streamers—"poppers"—plenty of champagne and everybody feeling mellow. Betty says she's best friends with everybody she's been trying to bow to since she got on board! Well, she should be—with that dress. She didn't change after the afternoon concert—but wore that glorious new print with the fur banded jacket—and took the jacket off when she danced (39.50). Now, how did I happen to overlook that in Charm?

What a day today! I started by putting on my new two-piece knit dress, with the tricky stripes and short sleeves, 16.50. I sneaked up into a life boat to do a little quiet reading, but could I? No! I got entangled in a bridge game, then I had to appreciate a porpoise with Mr. Hale, then lunch, then shuffleboard, then tea dancing. Whew! I couldn't get away at home with wearing one dress for all that and have it right. A knit can do no wrong!

SEWER COMMITTEE REPORTS TO COUNCIL

Therefore, in justice to the new administration and ourselves, we hereby tender our resignations to take effect at once. The City Clerk was authorized to send a letter of thanks to each member of the committee.

Safety Council Report

The suggestions for correction of local traffic conditions as presented in a communication from Secretary Randolph L. Gilman of the Safety Council, brought forth much critical comment and the Council voted to lay the matter on the table for action by the new Council as the recommendations were too comprehensive to be carried out this year. The motion adopted stated that if the suggestions were found practical the matter should be referred to the police committee with power.

Councilman A. C. Feakes told the Council that he would make every effort to see that the new Council carried out the suggestions—as several of the matters contained in the report were recommended in the Safety Council by him.

The full report of the Safety Council follows:

May we call to your attention various existing traffic conditions in the City of Rahway requiring urgent corrective action, and submit our recommendations for your consideration, and we trust, prompt favorable action.

1. Rigid enforcement of local ordinance and N. J. State Traffic laws, Chapter 251, Article 3, governing bicycle riding after dark and on sidewalks. Violation of this ordinance is extremely dangerous to all pedestrians and traffic, including the bicycle rider.

2. Painting of a "Slow-Down" sign on the traffic reflector type on Jefferson avenue at each side of Hamilton street intersection. This intersection has been the scene of many serious accidents, some resulting in hospital cases, since the paving of Jefferson avenue. Traffic is fairly heavy at this point due to Hamilton street being used as a connecting link to Woodbridge and Perth Amboy road.

3. Rigid enforcement of State laws permitting traffic to move on green light only and forbidding right-hand turns on red or amber lights, with signs placed on traffic signals showing "Move On Green Only." Would suggest that a survey be made in the near future and those points believed safe to permit a right-hand turn against the light be so indicated by an arrow placed on or near the traffic signal.

4. Rigid enforcement of laws governing lights on all vehicles, automotive, trailers, horse-drawn and push-carts.

5. Rigid enforcement of parking laws.

May we suggest that due public notice be given of enforcement of this program, if adopted, and the citizens be requested to give their wholehearted cooperation in observance, thus reducing the element of danger to the lives of our people.

We believe that a concentrated effort on the part of public officials, police department, Safety Council, citizens and courts will bring about the desired results.

Fowler's Salary Raised

The final reading of the ordinance increasing the salary of Fire Chief Walter H. Hitzman from $2,500 to $3,500 came up for third and final reading. J. Francis Fox, 69 Jaques avenue, who so strenuously opposed the salary increase at the meeting of The Council on December 10, again voiced his objection to this ordinance. It was adopted by an 8 to 2 vote, the Democratic members of the Council, namely, Councilmen Feakes, Lowglin and Jennings, voting against the ordinance.

Sewer Audit Discussed

The audit of the Joint Meeting as submitted by Walter H. Darby, Commissioner of Municipal Accounts, was exclusively published in Tuesday's Record, brought forth much comment. Councilman C. G. Saal, Rahway's representative on the Joint Meeting, stated that Rahway had voted against the paying of the $1,500 for legal services by McCarter and English, and the $2,500 for legal services by Attorney Francis V. Dobbins, but voted in favor of the report of Commissioner Darby. Councilman Cranford to receive funds to repair their streets damaged by the sewer because it was understood that this money would be used to mend the streets damaged by the sewer construction. This motion, however a subsequent resolution was passed to give this municipality the lump sum, which Rahway voted against.

Fowler's Work Lauded

Councilman Fowler's efficient work as chairman of the finance committee, brought many laudatory remarks from his fellow councilmen, and a rising vote of thanks by the body as a whole. Councilman William H. Armstrong said, "I wish to commend Mr. Fowler for his work on the finance committee. He has given his unscientious study and care and has made great personal sacrifices for the welfare of the city. We ought to thank this man who so earnestly worked for the people of this city."

Council President William S. Bendy also spoke of the efficiency of Councilman Fowler, and upon the motion of Councilman Feakes the Council gave Councilman Fowler a rising vote of thanks.

"I am very much embarrassed to be thanked for a job which I was elected to do," was the modest reply of Councilman Fowler.

Sewer Information Sought

City Engineer John J. Hoffman called the Council's attention to a communication he had received from Attorney Francis V. Dobbins asking for information concerning various contracts, etc., between Rahway and the Joint Meeting. He stated that some of these questions could be answered by the City Clerk; but others would have to be secured from the City Treasurer and the Council itself.

Councilman Saal informed the Council that these questions were the result of a meeting held by a committee of the Joint Meeting empowered to make the necessary arrangements whereby the Joint Meeting could proceed to obtain the excess appropriation of $850,000. He pointed out that it would be unfair to the incoming Council to handle this matter and that the necessary information should be obtained and forwarded to the new authorities.

New Traffic Light Cost $230

Councilman Samuel D. Love, chairman of the police committee reported that he had acted upon the suggestion of the Council and had supervised the erection of a traffic signal at Jaques and Hazelwood avenues. He stated this was in operation two days after the Council acted on the matter. He reported that the operation of the automatic signal light caused interference with the radio sets in the neighborhood and that a committee had been appointed to investigate.

Following his report, Councilman Love introduced a resolution, which was adopted, asking for an emergency appropriation of $870 to pay for the light. Mr. Fox asked the Council why the cost was so much above the figures given him by Mr. Williams of the Williams Electric Company. Councilman Love answered that this was due to the installation of the complex. The work of Councilman Love in his rapid installation of the light was commended by Councilman Feakes.

Senate Bills Opposed

The Council received a communication from the New Jersey League of Municipalities stating that on December 1 Senator Pierson had introduced in the Senate three bills, which if passed, would take away the authority of municipalities to select their own auditors and that all auditors would have to be sent out by the State Department of Municipal Accounts. The salaries of these auditors would be approximately 100 percent more than the municipalities are now paying. Through a lengthy resolution, presented by Councilman Fowler, the Council voted against the passage of Senate Bills 295, 296 and 297. A copy of the resolution will be sent to Governor Larson, and the Senators and Assemblymen from Union County.

Other resolutions introduced by Councilman Fowler, and adopted, were: Transferring excess balances amounting to $1,615.72, to appropriations not having sufficient. (Continued on Page Seven)

Donation Made by Trunk

Herr Karl Mertens sent a trunk by porter to a Steitin (Germany) hospital with a letter stating the owner intended entering the institution for treatment, but in case he did not arrive the trunk and its contents would become the property of the hospital. Herr Mertens' trunk was found to contain $3,750 cash and a large amount of foreign securities of value.

SOUND BUSINESS—plus

THE FIRST ESSENTIAL in the policy of the Telephone Company is that its operations shall be sound from a financial point of view. Any other policy would soon prove disastrous from every standpoint.

Our policy also requires conducting the business in such a way that service shall be constantly improved, the welfare of employees properly promoted and the general interest of the communities we serve advanced. This is sound business plus.

The severest test of such a policy does not come in boom times, but in slack periods. During the past year our business has been materially less than that for which we had built our organization and our plant. The results of the year's work are:

1. Telephone service has been measurably improved.
2. Very few employees have been laid off.
3. There have been no reductions in wage scales.
4. Construction work on new buildings and on other projects affecting not only our own men but workers outside our organization has been undertaken wherever it could properly be done, in many cases where postponement was entirely possible from every standpoint except that of the welfare of the service and the community.
5. The efficiency of the organization has been increased.
6. The financial returns have fallen, but not to a degree inconsistent with sound business under all the conditions.

Rahway Has a Merry Christmas

No matter how great the cares of many of our residents are in this, the most joyous season of the whole year, their trials and tribulations were mostly forgotten on Christmas Eve and yesterday through the thoughtfulness of their fellow men. It was an inspiring sight to see the people of this city grouped around the Community Christmas Tree at Vail place Wednesday night singing the ancient and beautiful carols, which we believe is one of the finest ways to express the feeling of Christmas. Those present at the brief, but impressive service, heard their Mayor express the Christmas greetings of the city upon his citizens making the service one which permeated true Christmas spirit throughout the city.

Following the "Sing" our citizenry wended their way home to await the arrival of Santa Claus or prepare their homes for Christmas Day. Slumbers attended the midnight services in the various churches with others attending the religious festivities at the churches yesterday morning. The happiness created by the Elks at the annual children's party at the Rahway Theater yesterday morning will be one long remembered by those who attended it. The day was quietly spent in the homes with the younger folks going to the Y. M. C. A. to witness the annual Christmas Day basketball contests in the evening.

On behalf of the people of Rahway the Record wishes to take this opportunity to thank those who arranged for the many activities which made Christmas a festive one in this city. We are sure that the joy spread through the benevolence of the Elks, Salvation Army, Girl Scouts, and individual citizens has been appreciated and has made all concerned much happier at this yuletide season.

The New Council's First Duty

With the startling disclosures made in the audit of the Joint Meeting by the Department of Municipal Accounts, especially that which shows that the Joint-Meeting has direct obligations of $148,365.50 in excess of the available assets, exclusive of the cost of the disposal plant and the necessary funds for the completion of the Rahway Valley Valley for the completion of the Rahway Valley sewer project, it should behoove the members of the incoming Common Council to give the sewer matter their thoughtful consideration during their first deliberations in the interests of their constituents. The eyes of every citizen of Rahway is turned to this matter through the wide and necessary publicity the sewer matter which has proved so costly an investment, and it would be well for the new Council to make a careful selection of the new representative of Rahway on the Joint Meeting so that he might uphold Rahway's interest to the last measure.

The 1930 Common Council should give their earnest consideration to the suggestion made by John J. Quinn, chairman of the Citizens' Committee to investigate Rahway's interest in the sewer, as submitted to the Council at Tuesday's meeting. Mr. Quinn said in part:

"It is our conviction that strong pressure may yet be brought to bear to permit the discharge of the sewage into the Rahway River, before the construction of the disposal plant and we suggest that your honorable body and the citizens of Rahway be constantly on the alert to prevent it."

The new Council should make plans immediately following their organization to get a large delegation together to back the efforts of Cranford, Westwood and Roselle Park at the hearing before the State Board of Health by Jannary 6. These municipalities will make every effort to get permission to dump the sewage of their towns into the Rahway River at once, and if they are successful, it will mean that the upwards of a million dollars by Rahway to meet the sewer conditions will have been in vain, in addition to causing an obnoxious health condition in this city which might have serious consequences.

Nothing will give the citizens of Rahway more confidence in the new municipal body than their persistent consideration in the trunk sewer and a thoughtful study to the financial aspects of the internal trunk sewer before that much needed project is launched.

Rahway Cares For Its Unemployed

While yesterday was a bleak Christmas for some of the residents of Rahway, others enjoyed the most prosperous and happiest Christmas in many years, despite the impression of the pessimists of whom this city has some of the greatest in the world.

These pessimists are always looking upon the dark side of life. Times are not nearly bad as they are pictured by them or even by the more cheerful.

The trouble today is the failure of the people to spend money. The cost of living is cheaper today than it has been in many years. Those who are employed are enjoying prosperous times rather than hard times, for wages have not been cut except in isolated cases. Reports show that savings and regular bank deposits are constantly mounting revealing that more and more money is becoming stagnated in the banks instead of being placed in circulation through purchases or investments.

Unemployment of heads of families tended to decrease the measure of happiness in some homes, but a view of the whole situation in Rahway indicates that it was not such a bad Christmas after all.

It is true that misery can be found in some homes, but suffering is not widespread because Rahway is not hit as hard as some other communities in the way of unemployed. The pleas for aid are always heard at this season of the year, and are always heard at this season of the year, and daily the people of Rahway are revealing a fine spirit of giving in bringing happiness to those less fortunately situated.

With the announcement that the City Unemployment Committee now has a balance on hand of $515.50 it is likely that Rahway will be visited by professional paupers or fakirs who have shown themselves in other municipalities to take advantage of the numerous open hearted acts on behalf of those in distress. These fakirs, who have a facility of being able to shed tears and tell the most heart-breaking stories, are preying on the generosity of the citizens and city officials who want to do all they can to help the needy.

To guard against this condition Paris R. Forman, General Chairman of the City Unemployment Committee, announced on Tuesday an investigating committee of prominent citizens to co-operate with the Overseer of the Poor in giving aid to those who apply for it. This we think is a wise move and will allay any petty criticism which may arise through the work of the Committee.

The financial statement made public by the Committee shows that their efforts have been successful. Mr. Forman, and those who aided him in the benefit boxing show, deserve much credit for the fine work in this effort to help the needy and destitute of Rahway. The generous subscriptions received from townspeople by the Committee is mute evidence that our thoughtful citizens hold in high regard the work of the City Unemployment Committee by giving their vote of confidence through their liberal donations.

County Needs Adequate Juvenile Court

All social service workers in Rahway and those interested in the problems of juvenile delinquency should make every effort to give their earnest support to the move now on foot to secure adequate juvenile court equipment in Union County to cope with present day conditions. At the present time the now over-worked County Judge can devote but half an hour a week to the juvenile court matters and as recently pointed out by Attorney Nathan Weltchek, of Elizabeth, in an address before a parent-teacher association in that city, "We are called upon to administer a 1930 government with 1920 machinery."

The Elizabeth attorney stated that no better man could be selected for the Juvenile Court work than Judge Thompson, but no one man, however capable, can assume all of Judge Thompson's duties and expect to give his own satisfaction. The result is that juvenile delinquents must be disposed of by the Probation Department, a procedure which never was anticipated when in the days when the Juvenile Court was established," Mr. Weltchek declared.

Speaking further of the need for modern judicial machinery in handling juvenile cases, he said:

"Science is most important in dealing with children. We must make it possible for a judge to devote his entire time to the juvenile problems in the county so that he may sit down and talk freely with a child for as long a time as is necessary and in the course of discussion decide what sort of treatment rather than punishment the child needs. If juvenile court is properly guided, better manhood will be attained. If there is a mistep we not properly treated the child of today may be a criminal tomorrow.

"It has been said that not two people in 100 enter upon a course of crime who have lived 25 years of honest life up to the age of twenty years. Almost all who enter on a course of crime do so between the ages of 8 and 16. That is the time they need most heart-breaking stories, are preying on the generosity of the citizens and city officials who want to do all they can to help the needy and destitute of Rahway. The generous subscriptions received from townspeople by the Committee is mute evidence that our thoughtful citizens hold in high regard the work of the City Unemployment Committee by giving their vote of confidence through their liberal donations.

In an editorial on buses, Jimmie says: One of these days there is a reckoning coming with motor bus operation and we are sorry the railroad commission could not have . . noted the absolute inefficiency of one bus trip.

"To a fellow who believes in riding either the bus or passenger trains, to an unprejudiced mind, with the railroads paying their full share of taxes on the road system of the state and, in addition, paying upkeep of their own right-of-way, there is a day of reckoning coming for the motor bus operators.

"If the motor bus accepts cash fare and then through sending mechanical wrecks out on the highway, without any fast provisions being made to compensate passengers for the bargain, then the quicker the slowdown is made the quicker will the traveling public secure what it is entitled to receive, honest to goodness service."

Wildcat unregulated bus lines are a menace to the public.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS THEY NEVER GET

For a Department Store Salesgirl
Joy to you on Christmas morn,
By no maddened shoppers torn!
May your life this be swell
Without anything to sell;
Tis a time when tired, spent,
You've an end of punishment;
Once or twice when you can shake
Throbbing head and body ache;
Hear the old department store—
Stop; no pretty ones—and snore!
Never mind the yuletide tidings,
Stay abed and rest your dogs!

For an Infant
Lucky babe,
Rare is your bliss;
You can't read,
A card like this.

For a Salvation Army Street Corner Santa
Oh, may this Christmas bring you glee
And from those whiskers, set you free!
They must have been a nuisance
Endured from sense of duty purely.
Here's hoping you can rest a spell
Where there's no kettle, heard of bell!

For a Bootlegger
Yuletide cheer, my friend to youse
With troubles all effaced;
And may your Christmas liquor be
That eggs and garlic taste!

For Any New Yorker
If you're inclined to groan and cry
And feel your joys were somewhat blighted,
Remember you're a lucky guy
This year if you were NOT indicted.

If you don't feel the spirit quite
And think yourself a poor weak mortal,
Be happy on this Christmas night
That you have not been grilled by Kreesl.

If you complain of lack of bliss,
And grumble at your lot and fate,
Why, you'll be glad of this—
You're not a New York mastertrate!

For Calvin Coolidge
Much bolly at your feet we lay
And wish you glits galore.
For pounding home the fact each day
That two and two make four.

For a Republican Candidate in the Last Election
Though the votes are all recounted
Seemed distinctly reverses,
Just remember you're not counted
That it might have been worse.

Here gathered from all places and all time, the waits of wisdom and of folly meet.

Tyrant Winter

Winter's settled in with his blusterous roar,
Soon we'll wake again to find the snow drifted at the door.
Now the raisin pie salesrp and the apple sauce is bare
And the bird house empty stands, gone is every tenant there.

There is little beauty left, every lovely bloom has gone,
Leaves have fled like wingless fowls from an army thundering on.
And the grim invader soon will pass his chilling hand in town
Posting regulations hard which no rebel may pull down.

Night begins at five o'clock" Winter's posters will declare.
"All who venture out in the streets must heavy raiment wear.
I am driving back the sun. In the land of myrrh and awake.
You must regulate your lives to go orders that I make.

"None shall plant or harvest fruit; not a garden shall be grown,
All who dare to break my laws shall by me be overthrown."
But the patient children shrugs his shoulders and remarks:
"This dread King will run away when the grass blades green the parks!"

Rahway In 1898

(From Rahway Democrat)

Third Regiment at Athens

The Third Regiment of N. J. Volunteers, including many Rahway boys, are now located at Athens, Ga. Letters in town folk disclose the fact that they are very much disgusted by the natives, many of whom will cross the street to avoid a meeting. The colored population seemed to be "scared" as they have been informed the "crackers" will kill them. However our boys are giving their new encampment, which is modernly equipped.

Safe Blowers

The office safe at Aiken's Mills at Milton was blown open at 4 o'clock Thursday a. m., but the burglars were frightened away, getting only a few cents in change.

Tin Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher C. Jeffries of Sloan street celebrated their tin wedding anniversary Monday evening. Many valuable tokens of tin were left by the guests.

Professor Seeks Testimonial

Professor John G. Heck, organist of the Second Presbyterian Church for 25 years was tendered a testimonial benefit concert in the church Tuesday night. A receipt collection followed the concert.

A Busy Week

The Christmas holiday week was unusually eventful in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Apollos Tlotter. Sunday night a boarder paid the fair lady a visit. Tuesday afternoon a distinctive fire. Thursday night something more joyful—the marriage of the daughter Carrie to George of Rockefeller, son of Mayor-elect of Plainfield.

The Great Open Spaces

His friend was in jail, and, as a gesture of loyalty, he went to call on him. They talked for a long time, in fact the jail visitor was late in getting home for the evening meal.

"Where've you been?" demanded the irate wife, whose rest plant had soured the point of being ruined because of his tardiness.

"Been down to see the jail visiting Charlie," was the reply.

"Who's Charlie and what is he in jail for?"

"Got confused and took another feller's car."

"Well, what kept you visiting him so long? What did you talk about?"

"Outdoor life."

Prohibition Illegal

France Worries Italy.

Lindbergh and Line.

Einstein Sees Reality.

The country discusses the decision of Federal Judge William T. Clark, who says prohibition isn't legal, because the people didn't pass on it.

Judge Clark is interesting to millions of women, although they may not know it. He is one of the 14 men of O. N. T. Clark spoof thread" family.

Judge Clark's decision that prohibition isn't legal will be reversed by the Supreme Court probably.

But the Supreme Court will be slow to render a decision making illegal 40 billion dollars' worth of property that has been invested in the business during the past ten years, in the crusade that has created bootlegging, hijacking, gangs, racketeering and other features of the bootleg industry.

The Supreme Court will hardly condemn everything that the national government has done in the name of prohibition, at this late date.

Judge Clark, declaring that the people never had a chance to pass on the prohibition amendment, said:

"The people can't be expected to respect laws they don't pass."

Admiral Pratt, chief of our naval operations, says it is ridiculous "to hope that the United States will ever equal that of Great Britain, without a development of our Merchant Marine."

We arranged to have only as many warships as the British, carrying our British orders in that respect most humbly. And we forget that Britain has a fleet of auxiliaries, passenger-carrying ships that can be used for transporting troops, munitions, ready-made airplanes, high-powered guns. Each great merchant ship is a warship in itself.

The building of five new fortresses on the island of Corsica arouses Italy, according to reports from Lechorn. This Telegrafo says that ships from France are unloading rifles, machine guns, munitions, armored cars, field telephones and cotton and "arming Corsica in a hostile manner."

The Italian, Napoleon Bonaparte, starting from Corsica to the military school in France, finally ruled the French and conquered much of Europe. It would be strange if France returned by the Napoleon road to conquer Italy through Corsica.

Congressman Tilson says the McNary-Hall bill is the "dole" in disguise. For some reason, very professional "100 per cent American" seems to favor the McNary-Hall bill.

Is the dole so much worse than the bread line? Is it better to let a man stand in line for three hours, to get a miserable cup of coffee and a piece of bread, than to give him and his family, without waiting, end directly, enough to keep from starving? Why not call the dole something else?

Why worry so much about the dole if you have confidence that the economy is going right?

Science says the world will not end for at least a million million years. Perhaps she will have forgotten all about it by that time.

Some very important news about a new engine comes from London. Operating by gas, the Junkers Diesel engine—the engine drives a truck weighing one ton, with a load of passengers, fifty miles an hour for more than twenty miles an hour for a total cost of two cents.

When there is room for railroads, already burning coal-oil engines, to compete successfully, can't run fifty miles for two cents.

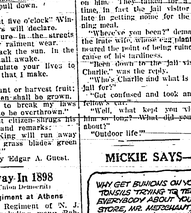
Family of Five Saved by First Aid Squad Trained by Telephone Man



Saving an entire family from almost certain death by gas asphyxiation is the recent heroic achievement of the Sanders Avenue First Aid Squad of Oakhurst, N. J.

On Sunday morning, November 9, a milkman making his early morning rounds in the Glen Cove folk heard the scream of a little girl. He ran to her aid, found her lying unconscious at the entrance of the residence of Harry Gates, and detecting the strong odor of illuminating gas he placed a call for the First Aid Squad, at Oakhurst.

Within five minutes the squad arrived. Two men were detailed to take care of the girl on the verandah, another little girl was found lying unconscious at the foot of the stairway, and a third child—a boy—also was found to be overcome by the gas fumes.

Dashing up the stairway to the second floor, the rescue party found Mr. and Mrs. Gates both within the shadow of death. Mr. Gates was placed in the ambulance and sped to the Monmouth Memorial Hospital where resuscitation was given on the way. Mr. Gates showed practically no signs of life, his breathing had stopped entirely and his heart action was so feeble as to be almost imperceptible, but the first aid squad immediately started the prone pressure method of artificial respiration, and the administration of oxygen. For over six hours the men labored and after eleven tanks of oxygen were used before Mr. Gates recovered consciousness. Now all members of the family have recovered.

The First Aid Squad of Oakhurst was organized last February by William W. Dennis, plant engineer, assistant for the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company at Asbury Park. Having completed the telephone company's first aid training course, he has trained the squad since its organization and has served as the captain. Two other telephone men on the squad are Robert Hyde, lineman, and Lester Herbert, cable splicer's helper. Other members of the squad are Walter Brown, president; Edward Ireland, treasurer; Julian Brown, Thomas Comber, Irving Sickles, Homer Throckmorton, Raymond Miller, Wallace Lachenauer, Frank Kolb, Henry Hervey and Nicholas Harvey.

Helpful Advice to Girls

By NANCY LEE

DEAR NANCY LEE:
I am a girl in my middle teens. I have quite a few friends, am considered good looking. My problem is this; About three weeks ago I met a young man three years my senior, two of my friends informed me that he has been in the "pen" for forging a check. I do not know if this is true or not, but if so, should I stop our correspondence or should I not. I do not believe he would think of doing such a thing now and my friends who know him well say he wouldn't. How this young man is no title to anyone now. Please advise me as I do not have "Mother" with me as my parents think I am a wee bit too young and I prize them so myself.

BLUE-EYED MARY.

BLUE-EYED MARY.
First of all the people making the accusations against this young man should prove that he is guilty of the question was guilty of a crime, there may have been circumstances. Very often, "to know all is to pardon all." As to the young man's worth, you must judge for yourself whether he is worthy of your friendship, regardless of his past. Since you have absolute proof, it would be better not to mention the accusations against him. Let your actions during the incident to his attention. By the way, do your parents approve of your friendship? They should decide this problem and not you by selecting companions.

DEAR NANCY LEE:
I am a young girl in need of advice. I am in my teens and considered good looking. I go to all the hop and very popular but there is one habit I have that spoils my whole nature. In company with boys I insist on talking in a low voice and it appears to them that I am whispering.

About 3 months ago I met a boy about my own age. Every girl I know is crazy about him. He has good income and a wonderful personality. He is also very handsome. For a while and he let me be under the impression that he was very fond of me, but now since I have changed my habit of talking in a low voice he has left me entirely alone. I love him dearly and would do anything to get him back. Please help me.

BLUE-EYED MARY.

If you but knew how many girls would feel delighted. Why not practice talking in a normal voice? Then you will be more attractive to the young men and will not be considered a "wall flower." Ask your other little friends to help you overcome this habit. And your other little habits, too, if you have any. Don't be afraid to ask your friends to help you. Remember, we are only human and we all have our little faults. Don't be discouraged. Just practice and you will soon overcome your habit.

DEAR NANCY LEE:
I am a girl of 17 years and have been going with a boy for about a year. He is very nice to me and I like him very much. He is 19 years old and has a car. He has been going with another girl for about a month and I am very much worried. I am afraid he will like her better than me. Please tell me what to do.

WORRIED.

Why worry? Let him go with the other girl. Perhaps he will tire of her and return to you. Don't show him that you are worried. Be nice to him and he will appreciate you more.

GROWING THE POINSETTIA

By A. C. McLEAN
N. J. Agr'l Extension Service

Poinsettias are among the showiest plants, and many of them will be distributed as Christmas gifts. A spreading bushy manner of growth, and the production of numerous flowers for Christmas will make a specimen with them a joy.

Instead of throwing the plant away, as is frequently done, let it remain dormant in the soil until spring. Cut the plant back to within a few inches of the ground outdoors and when new shoots appear, repot it in fresh soil and place in the sunshine. Give it plenty of water and feed occasionally with liquid manure. Keep it growing until the middle of June, then plunge the pot in the ground outdoors and allow it to remain there until September.

Fashion Is Favoring Feathered Fancies

Says Marie Marot

SHOULD you fancy a nice new hat, see to it that it is decorated with a smart feather effect. It is astonishing to watch how the feather has staged its come-back for each and every season. Now we have ostrich, fancies, fancies of various kinds, but we are to have hats with whole plumes, judging by the showcases of some of the most exclusive shops. Of course, in the last analysis it is up to us to decide whether or not we wish to be plumed.

So many interesting things are to be found in the stores just now. Lovely evening ensembles in various exquisite colors are among the clever daytime sets of intriguing interest. We have sketched some of the latter for you.

The hat centered in the group is of black velvet with a feather cockade of black and white. The feather band is of white ostrich with a black tip. The hat is a close-fitting model with a brim that is cut away at the back.

Mr. Gobble Turkey

"We're having a grain party," said the turkeys. "Do you want to come?"

"No, thank you," said Mr. Peacock, "we have another engagement."

"I would hardly say that it was polite of you to ask," answered Mrs. Peacock, bolding her head high in the air.

"We hate to speak to others, they say! Well, look at your feet then!

"Ha, ha, gobble, gobble!" And how Mr. Turkey laughed.

For the peacocks thought their beautiful trains and hung their heads in shame.

"We are so ugly and they are so ashamed of them. When any creature speaks of their feet they will hang their heads and their spread-out trains will droop.

Of course it was rather mean of Mr. Gobble Turkey to speak in such a way to the peacocks, but then he was very angry with them for being so rude to him when he had asked a simple question.

He was very much suspected the peacocks of pulling out his tail feathers in his question.

But they denied it away.

"And I invited them so nicely to my party, too," he said. "Only once a grain party is one of the finest affairs ever given. Everybody brings a few grains of this kind of delicious grain today at these parties.

"What are you talking about?" asked Mr. Gobble Turkey.

"You know," said Mr. Gobble Turkey, "that the peacocks do not care at all about building their own homes or their own nests. They are very lazy.

"And they do not take any pride in the fact that they make their own home.

"They would rather sense one else did the work, and they just take a bonus that they can find easily.

"Yes, I do believe—"

"What?" interrupted the other animals. "You mean you think that the peacocks have stolen a nest and have hurried off to the long grass to it?

"What what I think," said Mr. Gobble Turkey.

"Well, it is strange," said the other animals, "to think that they don't care about making their very own homes. And we they're up to their old tricks.

"Yes," said Mr. Gobble Turkey. "I suppose they will always steal their nests! It just their way of getting homes.

"And peacocks will always be the same—always."

"And we hope turkeys will, too," said the other animals, "and always will remain parents."

"Indeed they will," said Mr. Gobble Turkey, as he led the way to his party which was in progress.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

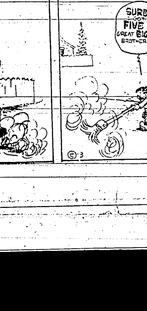
By WILL ROGERS

EVERY once in a while there comes along a Champion in some certain line, that is really a Champion. Not a Dempsey. Some one who will go out and defend his Title any time in the day or night if anybody wants to challenge for it. Well, such a person is Willie Hoppe, the greatest Billiard player that ever blessed an uneven Table. Well, here is a Story that Willie Hoppe tells on Mark Twain:

"Mark Twain was a Billiard Fan, and one time in a game with Sir-



ten he come in to see us play. Solomon had made the marvelous average of 100, and when the game was over the Referee announced that the distinguished Mark Twain was in the gallery and a few words would be welcome from him. Mark Twain arose and congratulated Solomon on his wonderful game and turned to me and complimented me on holding my cue so steadfast during my long sojourn in the chair. Then he stated:

"Once in Nevada I dropped into a Billiard room and began to knock the Balls around. The Proprietor asked if I would like to play a little. I said I would. He said, "Knock the balls around and I will see how good you play." So I hammered them around awhile and he said, "That's enough; I will play you left handed."

"It hurt my pride but I played him. Well, he commenced to play and I commenced to chalk my cue, and he kept on playing and I kept on chalking; he kept one hand behind. When he has run his string out I said, That's wonderful. If you can play that good left handed what could you do right handed?"

"'Couldn't do anything,' he said, 'if I ain't left handed.'"

Local Minister Writes On 18th Amendment

A Layman Looks At Religion

By Arnold Latemar

The question "Where shall we go...New Year's Eve" has been asked for more than a month, with answer everyone between the ages of 18 and 50. But strangely enough the commencement of that question is "What shall we do?" never seems to be mentioned.

It is to be generally hoped, however, that two-thirds of those who vote 20 anywhere will violate the Eighteenth Amendment, some in a small and genteel way and others in a disgraceful and unhealthy way.

Is it not more appropriate to awaken on the first day of the new year with a clear head and twinkle in your eye, than with a befuddled brain due to over imbibing of intoxicants?

In addition to becoming intoxicated, how many will do other things a great deal more sinful, for which they will suffer the pangs of a guilty conscience for life?

Why not try to celebrate this New Year's Eve in a sane and sensible manner. After all, becoming drunk and being generally obnoxious won't make your luck any better for the coming twelve months.

Elephants still in the wild state are carefully protected, and the sojourner who runs out of them in a market demand for the ivories.

Whence Is the Christmas Spirit

Whence is this Spirit of Christmas
That fills all the air with a song,
That robs the old world of her hatred
And puts laughter and love in the throng?

We know where it goes with its blessing,
Thinking neither of cost nor of gain,
It goes where sorrow and sickness are,
Where there is sorrow and sickness and pain.

But whence could it come but from Heaven,
The source of all goodness and love,
It was born in the Bethlehem manger
And lives on in the hearts of His own.

—BEV. EDWIN H. DAVIS,
Pastor, First Presbyterian Church.

NEW YEAR'S AND THE 18TH AMENDMENT

by
Rev. Joseph L. Ewing, D.D.
Superintendent of National Presbyterian Missions

There are cutting and slashing "bitter enders" on both sides of every important public question. Just now the advocates of the legal traffic in strong drink are at war with the chief provisions of the Eighteenth Amendment. Backed by an abundance of money, and having in their ranks many "bitter enders" on both sides of the political fence, they are trying to secure the enactment of legislation which will indicate a determination to repeal the amendment and restore intoxicating liquors to the places where men may traffic in them and the thirsty may go to obtain them and be legally poisoned.

It is a very ambitious proposal they indulge, since to repeal will require the joint agreement of both legislative bodies of thirty-two of the forty-eight sovereign states, and the reversal of an action which, after a century of conservative legislation forty-five of the forty-eight states wrote into our statute law. There are some who do not know this background or thing it through the reason which gave us the 18th Amendment, who indulge the expectation that repeal is just around the corner. There were doubtless voters who, in the recent election who felt that their ballots for men committed against the Eighteenth law will mean its prompt early reversal. Then there are supposedly brilliant thinkers who imagine that a modified Volstead law would restore temperance at least to the well-educated higher classes. The above have been indulgence at least to the well-educated higher classes. The above have been indulgence at least to the well-educated higher classes. The fallacy of this hope is seen in the simple facts that while that will keep temperate people, it will not keep intemperate people temperate
