> The bicture that marks the glorious climax of Will Rogers' career, "In Old Kentucky," plays today and tomorrow at the Rahway Theatre and brings America's beloved star to the screen in a thrilling picturization of America's favorite play. Rogers has the role of Steve Tapley, a trainer of champions and the skillful guide of young love in a land where all the horses are fast and the women beautiful. Around the romance of Dorothy Wilson and Russell Hardle much of the picture's action centers. Hardie is the trainer for wealthy Charles Richman, a job Rogers lost when he protected Miss Wilson's grandfather, Charles Sellon, from Richman's wrath. The task of training Miss Wilson's horse for the Ashford stakes takes up only part of Rogers' time, however. He is at the same time engaged in the courtship of a Southern lady, played by Esther Dale. > A mayor can do plenty to direct a city in the Street as an honest boy. He found right direction but when it comes right down to a radio under the railroad viduct facts, he has little power. He can make recommendations but if the governing body ignores them, what good are they? The mayor is elected by voters in every ward while all but one member of Council is elected by a single ward. Thus, there is a tendency for the man from the First Ward to seek as much as he can for his ward and the man from the Fifth and all the others to put the interests of his ward first. Many of our Council members in the past have thought more of being re-elected than they have of giving service to the city. The mayor, if he is as able as Jack Barger and as interested in city affairs as Jack is, knows more about the affairs of the city than any other person. I know that Jack knows more local officer recently? The case about what's going on than the majority of the hasn't come to court. city officials. We should get the benefit of his knowledge as a member of the governing body. Personally, if I were to run for office, I would rather be a Counmeil member because I would have one vote in saying what should be done. The mayor has nothing to say when the final decisions are made. Other cities of our class have
