In Rahway Feature

The ray trio above composed of Robert Young, Sherrill Fines and Don Ameche, is starred in "Who Killed Gail Preston?" at the Liberty Theatre.

Two Big Features
On Rahway Screen

Princeton and Yale may give spectators to their graduates but the movie world today speaks well for a diligent student.

After high school, young Baxter secured other men had done fairly well without square black hats and football letters, so he took his first job as a farm implement salesman.

Later, Warner brought from farm implements to insurance policies. In between were other jobs and most notably he ran a garage.

And henceforth all this was a continuing story for the stage.

His battle with the stage is the story of every detail and tribulation that goes with starting, stock and the stock. Movie ended his career for years until Baxter was given his big chance in "In Old Arizona."

His performance as the Cisco Kid won the Academy Award.

Slings the mikes he has been at the top of the heap in more than 50 pictures.

Warner is showcasing again his newest picture, "Kidnapped," coming Sunday to the Liberty Theatre.

Freddie Bartholomew is costarring with Baxter, whose leading lady is the sensational new most discovery, Arlene Whelan.

The associate picture on the double feature program is "Josette," featuring Simona Simon, Robert Young and Don Ameche.

Your Garden

By A. C. McKean
Extension Service, N. J. College of Agriculture

Amateur gardeners make a mistake to leave mimosas out of their perennial borders just because of the name which these lovely late summer and fall blooming flowers bear. Mimosas from nurseries in colors from yellow to lavender, mimosas, do well when planted in the fall and they are very decorative in plant color.

Although tolerant of temporary droughts, mimosas should have ground where plenty of moisture is provided, for swampy places are fatal to mimosas.

INDUSTRY'S CONTRIBUTION TO RAILWAY'S WELFARE

New Jersey industry every day is making a substantial contribution to the well-being of the citizens of this state. It is providing gainful jobs for about 450,000 men and women and an annual industrial payroll of about $600,000,000 for replenishing the pay envelopes of New Jersey.

This is a sizeable job these days, viewed from any angle. Robert T. Bowman, president of the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce, speaking at Auburn Park recently, urged a number of local chambers of commerce and trade groups assembled there, to acquiesce all the people of the state with the scope of this contribution by New Jersey industry to the general public welfare.

This state's industrial star is rising, Bowman believes. "The feeling," he said, "is the result of a fine job by New Jersey's present industry and the success of the state's trade organizations in persuading new industry to settle within our borders."

All and sundry are learning that this is a good state in which to do business. It is. Maintenance of New Jersey's favorable tax position and the tax excesses of other commonwealths are helping our steady industrial growth.

Yet, as the State Chamber's president points out, the importance of the never ceasing contribution to the public welfare made by the State's industry and by our local trade groups is often forgotten, minimized or altogether lost in the clamor of the local chambers of commerce and industries which pay much of its taxes and support many of our families.

New Jersey industry and New Jersey trade groups need not hide their light under a bushel. They are, as Bowman points out, doing an unselfish and sizeable job.

We need perhaps greater consciousness here by all of us of the great truth of the slogan now being used by organized chambers of commerce in New York State and elsewhere that "What Hurts Industry Hurts You."

JERSEY'S STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT COSTS INCREASE FASTER THAN IN ANY OTHER STATE

It becomes increasingly difficult to reconcile a drift toward new state imposts with revelations on the crushing weight of the present New Jersey tax burden recently made by the State Chamber of Commerce.

A Chamber news release points out that during the four years, from 1922 to 1927, the combined cost of state and local government in New Jersey increased at a higher rate of percentage than in any other state in the nation.

Thus, New Jersey hangs up a record, but taxpayers who wish that this particular laurel had gone to some other state.

The rate of tax increase in New Jersey has been alarming. Where will it end? From 1920 to 1937, New Jersey taxes, state and local combined, have increased twice as fast as our taxable wealth and the combined state and local public debt has increased five times as fast. The result is that our per capita state and local tax in 1937 stood at $21.00 as compared with New York's $12.00, and here are the figures to prove it.

During the seventeen-year period between 1920 and 1937, while our State's population increased by 33% and our taxable wealth increased by 68%, our taxes for state and local government jumped from $13,600,000 to $340,000,000, an increase of 153%, and our gross public debt, state and local jumped from $264,100,000 to $1,164,000,000, an increase of 341%.

And yet, under the pressure of the task of scraping the bottom of the state treasury in the never-ending search for funds for relief purposes, there is discernible a tendency to create new state taxes.

The way out of New Jersey's present difficulties is not the imposition of new state taxes. New state taxes mean new burdens. No relief for the real estate owner on any body else lies in that direction. Replacement taxes are too likely to turn out to be new taxes, replacing nothing, but increasing the burden on all.

Unfortunately, there is no easy way out. There remains only one way to reduce taxes. That is, the hard road of economy in state and local government. Difficult as it seems of attainment, this and not new levies must continue to be the objective of all citizens and all agencies desiring to see a lightening of the general tax burden in this State.

MORE THAN A QUARTER OF RAILROADS ARE IN THE RED

We owe billions of dollars, but we pay in pennies. Pennies spent every day in hidden taxes by New Jersey housewives help pay for nearly two thirds of the nation's twelve billion dollar tax bill.

Hidden taxes are found in the purchase price of every article. There are 58 hidden taxes on a loaf of bread, 172 hidden taxes in medicine, and even in death, hidden taxes.

The only market we have that is worth a cent is the market for "wages paid." If we do not know how many schemes there are to curtail that market, it is a wonder if he referred to the charges made in some quarters that "big business" is "exploiting" the small business.

A family with an income of $34 a week may not be able to visualize the payment of billions of dollars, the women of this group point out, but taxes take $3.90 every week from that family to pay Uncle Sam's tax bill. That's where it hurts most.

A new breed of mosquitoes made their appearance last week. They were not of the spongy tribe, nor yet of those which alight on the walls and ceilings but of a distinctive habit. They hide on the floor and under the bed until one falls asleep, when without warning they arise and take a nip, long and strong.

The camp meeting of the Zion M. E. Church of this city now being held at Kunkel's Grove at Kinsey Corner, will continue over next week. The Rev. Isaac Jenkins, the pastor is in charge.

The arrangement of the new school districts as put forth by the Board of Education that each ward shall comprise a district, is a miserable one if intended by it that the pupils of each district shall attend the schools located within the district, and a week of experience will show the commissioners that they have made an egregious blunder.

John Barrah has been presented with a solid silver goblet lined loving cup by the Red Men as a surprise and a token of their appreciation of his faithful attendance and care in his official chair.

The most extensive railroad wreck that ever occurred in this city was that of Sunday morning last near the Perth Amboy Junction. A fast moving train of steel gondola cars laden with soft coal eastward bound was passing over the switches at that point when an axle of one of the cars broke and in its fall the whole train was thrown in all directions, car piled upon car, the coal thrown in heaps.

The Carpenter Livery office has been beautified interiorly by several photos of their own teams of white horses gotten up in good style, also prize winning harness and other subjects, along the walls.

The "dependent spirit" mentioned by Mr. Ford is one of the things that is holding the country back.

It is a public shame, that the public, unable to get jobs, has drifted into a demoralized state where men who formerly were willing to work hard, are now content to lean on a WPA shovel or wait until relief comes.

There are a few who are still trying to do something to help themselves. The situation has gone from bad to worse until now relief is the fourth biggest industry in this country.

The only market we have that is worth a cent is the market for "wages paid." If we do not know how many schemes there are to curtail that market, it is a wonder if he referred to the charges made in some quarters that "big business" is "exploiting" the small business.

This state's industrial star is rising, Bowman believes. "The feeling," he said, "is the result of a fine job by New Jersey's present industry and the success of the state's trade organizations in persuading new industry to settle within our borders."

All and sundry are learning that this is a good state in which to do business. It is. Maintenance of New Jersey's favorable tax position and the tax excesses of other commonwealths are helping our steady industrial growth.

Yet, as the State Chamber's president points out, the importance of the never ceasing contribution to the public welfare made by the State's industry and by our local trade groups is often forgotten, minimized or altogether lost in the clamor of the local chambers of commerce and industries which pay much of its taxes and support many of our families.

New Jersey industry and New Jersey trade groups need not hide their light under a bushel. They are, as Bowman points out, doing an unselfish and sizeable job.

We need perhaps greater consciousness here by all of us of the great truth of the slogan now being used by organized chambers of commerce in New York State and elsewhere that "What Hurts Industry Hurts You."

The arrangement of the new school districts as put forth by the Board of Education that each ward shall comprise a district, is a miserable one if intended by it that the pupils of each district shall attend the schools located within the district, and a week of experience will show the commissioners that they have made an egregious blunder.

The "dependent spirit" mentioned by Mr. Ford is one of the things that is holding the country back.

It is a public shame, that the public, unable to get jobs, has drifted into a demoralized state where men who formerly were willing to work hard, are now content to lean on a WPA shovel or wait until relief comes.

There are a few who are still trying to do something to help themselves. The situation has gone from bad to worse until now relief is the fourth biggest industry in this country.

The only market we have that is worth a cent is the market for "wages paid." If we do not know how many schemes there are to curtail that market, it is a wonder if he referred to the charges made in some quarters that "big business" is "exploiting" the small business.

A family with an income of $34 a week may not be able to visualize the payment of billions of dollars, the women of this group point out, but taxes take $3.90 every week from that family to pay Uncle Sam's tax bill. That's where it hurts most.
