not be transacted in public. The rather lame excuse given to offset the genuine facts set forth in the statement by the Republicans. Two nights are consumed now, one for the secret caucus meeting and the other in the open session, to which the public is admitted. It seems extremely doubtful that any more, if as much, time would be needed to transact the City business in open meetings: Then again the Citizens would be able to take part and perhaps become more interested in their government.

Public meetings for public business will be the means of greater public participation and make for better government. The stand taken by Councilmen Case, Wiemer, Kimmick, Selover and Donovan is highly commendable.
