

Christmas With No Word From One Son

Connor Family, With Four Sons In Service, Told One Is Missing

With only a ray of comfort that came from the feeling that a wife has been given in the service of her country and for its defense, the family of Mr. and Mrs. John Connor, 1333 Maple terrace, is observing Christmas with a sad heart. The family consists of Mrs. Connor, who has been in the service of the U. S. Government as a typist since Sunday night, December 13, 1941, and her four sons, who are all in the service of the U. S. Army.

READING & WRITING

By Edwin Seaver and Robin McKinn

A LOT of people who remember Christopher Morley from his smooth-shaven face, ask him why he's taken to a beard. His answer is simple: "I like it," he says. As a matter of fact, it's a story behind Morley's beard.

RETRAINING OF MEN Displaced By War

Gasoline Shortage Supply Pegged to Amount That Can Be Shipped Into Territory

The retraining of men between the ages of 35 and 60, in the Railway Record, is a technical work, this has been announced by the War Relocation Authority.

Sliced Bread May Be Banned

Why not slice your own bread? The Government is now considering a ban on sliced bread.

Officials who declined to be quoted by name said the making of bread as a means of production is a means of production.

Trains Marines Man Left in Street After Struck By Car

Michael Joseph O'Brien, 58 years of age, believed to be a resident of Kingston, who was struck by a hit-and-run driver on Sunday night, was still in a critical condition after midnight.

He was discovered by the Clark Volunteer Emergency squad and rushed to the hospital where it was found that he had suffered head injuries and a compound fracture of the right leg.

Three Years A Winner

This is an honor conferred on 'Your Home Newspaper' at the annual conference of The New Jersey Press Association held at New Brunswick in October. The ribbons and the certificate were awarded to The Record for General Excellence and Front-Page in competition with all other weekly newspapers in Class A in the entire State of New Jersey. This is the third consecutive year The Railway Record has won honors. At the conference held in 1940 and again in 1941, this 120-year-old newspaper won second place in the competition.

No person connected with The Railway Record had any part in the judging of the newspapers entered. The judges were disinterested persons of high standing in the newspaper profession including publishers, editors and teachers of journalism.

It is our purpose to continue our policy of high standards and to give Record readers full and accurate accounts of all local happenings. That is what has put The Railway Record in first place among Class A weekly newspapers of the State of New Jersey and likewise is why this newspaper is read regularly by the majority of local people. By the same token, The Railway Record is the logical medium to be used by advertisers who are interested in reaching the buying public of Rahway and vicinity.

RAHWAY LOOKS HOPEFULLY AHEAD

Rahway may well look out onto the New Year with almost confidence of what may be expected during the year.

The course of the war abroad has seemed to have settled down to the necessity of following Gen. Grant's famous declaration "to fight it out on this line if it takes all summer," so that we may expect it to continue along the present front throughout the year.

There will be more restrictions by the Office of Price Administration, even though Price Administrator Leon Henderson, who has failed to receive credit for his efforts in this connection, has been replaced by Sen. Prentiss Brown.

But the demands of the war calls for intensive production of all war supplies and needs, which will not only keep our mills, factories and industrial plants humming, but will call for an even increased output, and Rahway is fortunate in having a number of these industries right in its midst.

With a ceiling on prices and rents, and the certainty that wages will not be reduced, even though not greatly increased, there is much of satisfaction in the picture that opens up for the coming year of 1943.

The social, religious and scholastic life of this city will not be changed, except in the withdrawal of some of our youth who will be drafted in order that this war we are engaged in may be won as speedily as possible.

Socially there will continue to be engagements, weddings, and parties, religiously the spiritual welfare will be provided for as always by the ministers, who are not overlooked in due compensation for the varied services they so splendidly render to the community, and our schools will continue to be staffed by the very best educators that can be provided by those institutions that fit men and women to instruct wisely and well the youth of today.

Times are not bad, even though the public may be denied certain things it has been used to. There is no occasion for complaint. With 1943 before us, let us keep our spirits up, our hearts right, and our faith unshaken in the eventual victory of the Allies and a satisfactory outcome of the war for all the peoples of the earth.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION TO "BUCKLE DOWN"

Secretary Henry Morgenthau's recent utterance, that "having committed ourselves to the task of winning this war it is time we buckled down for the finish," is a good New Year's resolution for each of us to make.

We have had to take a little less gas for our car, a spoonful less of sugar in our coffee, as well as a cup less of the "java" each day with our meals; curtail our requests for fruit and vegetables, and deny ourselves fresh meat with several daily meals. And we have been willing to make these so-called sacrifices to our physical well-being, but all this will fall far short of what is going to be necessary if we actually win this war.

The new five per cent deferred income tax is only a suggestion of what may be expected of us in the way of taxes if we do "buckle down," determined to see that our National debt, now well over one hundred billion dollars, does not get out of hand and leave our country in bankruptcy at the end of this war.

While small business may have occasion to complain somewhat that it has not been treated quite fairly by the Office of Price Administration, in view of the tremendous profits big corporations are making, yet these merchants are willing to do their share in winning this war. This cannot be done, however, except the Government adopt, in a far greater degree than at present, a "pay-as-you-go" policy, such as is being done in Great Britain and her dependencies.

Perhaps it cannot be done altogether by the Government, but if Sen. Harry Byrd's request that our current expenses be cut from three to five billion dollars, and further taxes levied that will yield from six to eight billion dollars, it will come close to that desired goal where income tax is concerned. That is our interpretation of what Secretary Morgenthau meant when he urged that the American people "buckle down for the finish" of this war.

THREE BIGGEST EVENTS OF 1942

There will undoubtedly be a wide variance of opinion with reference to what may be considered the three most important events of the past year. But among them at least are three that are outstanding: The establishment of a second front in North Africa, Germany's failure to destroy the Russian army, and the apprehension, in the United States, of eight Nazi saboteurs, six being executed.

The American people were almost a unit, for months before either the Dieppe invasion or the North African landing, that the Allies, and especially the United States, should open a second front. Of course, as an ally of Russia, Russia felt that we should provide some relief for the power that had so successfully and so phenomenally withstood the Axis powers.

When, therefore, U. S. troops, under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, landed in French Africa without even a suspicion on the part of the Axis, the nation, if not the Allied world, rejoiced. It was considered just the proper appreciation that was due Russia, as well as the assuming of American responsibility for the successful outcome of the war.

With Nazi troops and tanks established in Stalingrad, it seemed almost out of the question that Russia would ever be able to muster sufficient force of men and machines, bombs or planes to drive the Nazis out. That this was the most astonishing military feat of the war, not only establishing Premier Stalin as a military genius, second to none among the Allies, but actually marking the change in the war from a possible Axis victory to the certainty of an Allied victory.

The apprehension of eight Nazi saboteurs, with the execution of six of them, actually established confidence in the minds of the American people that our Government was not one of appeasement and did actually believe in the principles of democracy. Here was evidence, that while our Government stood for freedom, it would not tolerate action that was subversive to the foundation principles upon which our government rested.

With these three important events established, one may almost predict that the united efforts of the Allies, with the United States expanding her lend-lease program to an almost unlimited degree, will not only guarantee a successful end to the war, but a much better world in which to live afterwards.

Perhaps there may be a more perfect form of government than the democracy we enjoy here in the United States, but this war has opened the eyes of the world to what seems inevitable at times, when even a man of inferior background, sets himself to become the dictator, not only of his own land, but of the entire world.

The relentless onward drive of the gargantuan political juggernaut established by Hitler, has been a revelation to the whole world of what a monarchy, evolved into a totalitarian form of government, can do to destroy life, decimate a country and ravage an entire nation, with utter impunity and disregard for all conventions of civilization, all principles of international warfare, and all appeals of humanity.

In this reign of terror and beastly, inhumane murder, in Japan's ruler, Hirohito, who, in many respects, seeks, by inordinate practices, to outdo, by diabolical tortures, the inhumane practices of Hitler.

The Allied Nations, therefore, oppose such savage methods, and the United States takes its stand, committed to the four freedoms that absolutely eliminate any and all these unseemly, degrading and devastating practices that are being carried on at this time by the Axis powers.

The first freedom, that of worship, is one we are proud of, since this nation had its beginning as a refuge for persecuted peoples of many different religious beliefs.

Let us not overlook either, the fact that, only 200 years ago, even here in the United States, our fellow men were being burned at the stake because there were differences of opinion between neighbors in matters of religion. That question was debated by the people of this land, who decided, when the Declaration of Independence was finally ratified, that in matters of religious belief, there would henceforth be absolute freedom of worship.

Our bill of rights presents the second freedom, that of free speech. While we do enjoy this to a certain degree, it has been found necessary to curtail this liberty to some extent, since there are found certain individuals and certain groups of people who cannot be trusted to use this privilege for the general good of either the people, individually speaking, or the nation as a whole.

Again, the never ending restrictions in this freedom has been necessary for some restrictions in the way of campaigns to soften up the people of a nation in preparation for the incoming of a totalitarian system of government to replace whatever form may have existed before his invasion. Not only has Hitler, but also Hirohito, been found guilty of using every unfair, unjust and untruthful means of deceiving the people they desired to overcome. The art of falsifying facts and the truth, perhaps never attained so important a place in the methods of a ruler as in this war.

However, the fact that freedom of speech is a bulwark of democratic privilege calls for a careful consideration of whatever restrictions of this liberty may be deemed of importance, and, therefore, should be surrendered only after most profound consideration.

Freedom of want is the early 30's, less than 15 years ago, here in the United States we had nearly fifteen million people unemployed, the question of supplying the entire world with necessary food when this war is over, looms up tremendously large.

However, we remember, how this nation tackled that job, under Herbert Hoover, at the close of the first World War, and it must be undertaken again, but this time with ample preparation beforehand, that should be started even now to provide all that will be needed in the way of food, to keep millions from actually starving to death.

With a certainty in the minds of the Allies, but, no matter how long this war may be or how terrible may be the ultimate cost, the Allied powers are going to be victorious in the end, there are millions of people, yes, perhaps it may be said, that most of the people throughout the world, are in a state of fear, as to the outcome of this war. Even the people under the domination of cruel fate that will be theirs if the Allies actually win this war.

The fear must be and will be ultimately allayed by the Allies in the worldwide establishment of this fourth freedom.

And not only relief from fear of any sort or kind of national power that might be established by a totalitarian government, but from other fears that they will not be properly taken care of in their declining days; those who never have to beg; those in business must be guaranteed freedom from periods of depression, such as we
