

POSTWAR PLANNING

Thursday, November 18, 1943

One of the tasks that soon must engage the atten of the Common Council of Rahway is postwar planning for returning soldier boys and the unemployed from industrial plants unable to maintain production at war peak. After going through the boondoggling experience of the WPA and the PWA, that followed World War I, there will need to be clear vision, a good head and a decisive check the sidewalks remaining, all the columns having been reon anything that smacks of political, municipal or any moved to other and distant-temples-and buildings. The bait that is left dangling for individual citizens, in which firm belief is placed by so many, is, first, that the Moscow quartumvirate "recognizes the necessity of establishing, at the earliest date practicable, a general international organization," but the pact does not state that it is committed to see that such an organization is established, and there is good reason to believe, the evidence accumulating from-day to day, that Prime Minister Churchill will

Though most of the Smyrna rugs formerly were manu factured by Greeks, yet today your Smyrna rug, if it is made in Smyrna, comes from a Turkish loom. The largest rug I ever saw was in the office of a former Turkish governor of Anatolio at Smyrna, and covered a floor that must have been about 60 feet square. Most of the licorice root that is imported by this country comes from Turkey, and I saw several great warehouses 100x50x50 feet high, filled o utmost capacity with licorice root. The finest Turkish obacco is grown near Samsun.

A party of us visited the ancient and Biblical city of Ephesus, some 60 miles south of Smyrna, the site of the famous temple of Diana. Here, where Paul was accused of persuading the people that "there are no gods made with hands," I saw the ruins of that old temple, which, in the time of Paul, was perhaps the most beautiful in existence, and called one of the seven wonders of the world.

a time for giving thanks, yes-and it is a time for again

This Thanksgiving finds men and women all over the world locked in struggles-in which many will die, in which many will suffer great loss and injury. It is a war that is beginning to be won-for those who believe in humanity.

It is a war for Thanksgiving. We at Hyatt, are thankful for the right to work with our hands for the Victory of the Allies. We are the soldiers of the home front. Every effort, every moment of every day, is put into the equipment that our fighting men use-vital bearings for planes, ships, tanks and guns. We give thanks for the men who use the tools of Victory that we have made.

We give them our best-and in their ever-increasing vic-tories, we shall find cause for the real day of Thanksgiving

CAUSE FOR THANKSGIVING

There is much in which the American people may find. cause for genuine Thanksgiving this year. While there may be considerable to criticise, the situation could be so much worse that we may well take advantage of this day - where the Atlantic charter encouraged the natives with as an occasion for considering only the things in which we the hope of independence, but which the free French as a people and as a nation appear to have been favored in this war, struction from bombing, such as has visited Great Britain Lebanon in Syria, as well as Syria, Iraq, Iran and Palhas not come to the United States, and that the ravages estine; and while the free French oppose this, Great and devastation of an invading army, such as that which Britain favors it, though the-proposition is hardly followed the entrance of Russia by Germany, has not likely to be negotiated in the near future, political conwrought widespread destruction over our fair land.

While we have not had everything we wanted in the way of foods and other material advantages, we have had will pass the forest of Lebanon, so decimated by fires that abundance to eat, for a nation engaged in war, and we are, today are found only scattered small groups of the famous Then, we thank Russia devoutly, for bearing the brunt

Neither should we forget that victory now appears to be assured the Allies, though the end still may be far dis-fore I was there two feet of snow having fallen throughout when discussion took place relative to a second nurse to tant and many sacrifices necessary to achieve the goal sought. Though but one of the three Axis nations has surrendered and the other two are still in possession of much territory they have seized and subdued, yet the evidence seems to be overwhelming that only time is necessary for the Allies to force its enemies to their knees on every front and in very part of the world. This hopeful view of the end of the war may be considered further reason for Thanksgiving, even though we may not see just what peace may bring to the world.

Divine Providence has been kind in giving us one of the most bountiful harvests this country has had for years, and we are most grateful that no epidemic, such as took the lives of so many of our people, both in the United States and in Europe, during World War I, has ravaged our land. We also rejoice, that in the conflict in which we are so productive 3,000 years ago, we are told, that when the C. C. Snedeker, O. O. Wilkerson, C. C. Mitchell, W. H. Rol engaged, with millions of lives at stake, and the destiny of "spies" of Israel-visited Eschol, that a bunch of grapes linson, James Smith, L. M. Rossi, Walter Dunham, R. prevailing among the people of all Allied nations, and fullest cooperation being given towards the realization of an acceptable peace with the nations warring against us. As an expression of thankful hearts, we do not complain of the heavy taxes that provide materiels and foor for our Allies fighting side by side with our own legions, but rejoice that we can contribute out of our abundance to a cause that is just, in the certain assurance that a better done since the time of Abraham, their tents of black day must eventually dawn to a people dedicated to the goat skins being seen dotting the valleys far and near. supreme task of establishing a better world for all man-

Gradually the American people are learning that our ommander-in-chief is given to promising much, but hatever might be promised, to defer to the advice of his chum and confidante, Prime Minister Churchill. World emocracy, equal opportunity and freedom are not the rinciples used today in stirring the American people to their utmost endeavor. In fact, the leadership of a crusader is wanting, while American zeal finds its sole stimulus in the continued successes of the Allies on the three war fronts, and the desire to end the war as quickly as possible.
