RAHWAY, N. J., FEBRUARY 14, 1885.

Hurry up, Mr. Randall. It is a poor economy which makes the country pay for an extra session of Congress.

It is a great credit to the American press that there has not been a single dissenting voice in the universal cry of denunciation of the dynamite outrages.

Mr. Corbin is doing good, hard, honest work in the Legislature and well merits the confidence of his constituents, as indicated by the large majority he receives.

As the looked for longed for 4th of March approaches the itching palm of Democracy itches more acutely to be scratched by the shekels of that $50,000,000 surplus.

The meanest club in the state is a shooting club in Burlington County, which ties strings to the legs of the pigeons to prevent their escaping when the shooter misses. A man who will not give the bird the benefit of a lead shot should be drummed out of the ranks of honest sportsmen.

The Democrats of the country at large have had the effrontery to suggest to Mr. Cleveland for the Navy Department or the Department of Justice other names than that of John P. Stockton, of New Jersey. The party in this State will demand explanation, retraction, or satisfaction.

Mr. Cleveland has expressed sound views on the silver question. If he could impress these views on his party in Congress, and get it to act in accordance therewith, the business community would be much relieved. There is probably no hope of his being able to work this miracle.

Senator Youngblood has found out that "home" is not altogether as "sweet" as it is cracked up to be. Before his constituents think with him perhaps he will be led. "Independence" is beautifully pure and virtuous, but it has its accompaniment of pain and trouble. But had it not this, of course, there would be nothing truly noble about it.

The promised "wife beater" bill has been introduced into the Legislature by Mr. Jenkins. It provides for the punishment of the offender by the infliction of "not Sheriff or his deputy." There will probably be a howl raised against this resort to "barbarous measures" but "barbarous acts" are not to be corrected by the ordinary methods of civilization.

The growing habit of sending flowers to members of the legislature presumably to influence public opinion in their favor, is a very silly and a very bad one. It does not show popularity, but merely that the recipient has those who wish to make an ostentatious show of friendship for him, for their own purposes. For the honor and dignity of our law makers by all means let this silly amateur theatrical, college commencement, school exhibition, fashion die an early death.

One of the New York dynamite editors had a good practical joke played on him a few days ago. A pebble-board box was received along with the mail, and the whole office force congregated and tremblingly watched the bold editor open it. When the cover had been pried off something flew up and struck the ceiling. The terror of the witnesses is said to have been pitiable until it was discovered that the infernal machine was but a harmless jack-in-the-box.

Mr. Kirkner, the Assemblyman from this district, has introduced into the Legislature "an act making it lawful for the governing body of any city to transfer and carry forward by ordinance any unexpended balances of taxes that have been levied for any purpose, and appropriate the same to the payment, in subsequent years, of expenses for objects similar to those for which such taxes were levied, or for the payment of any other expense for which tax is levied; the amount and object to be stated."

The county press is waking up on the road question. The Elizabeth Sunday Leader commenting on the desired improvement of the Morris turnpike, that worst of all our county highways, says:

"It is to be hoped that the board of freeholders will give this important matter the consideration it deserves. Morris turnpike is execrable; it is one of the oldest roadways in the state, and has been most neglected. It ought to be improved without any delay. Stone suitable for the road-bed is accessible all along its route, and the work can be done more advantageously and economically than at any previous time. The members of the board from this city, and the townships through which the road runs, should move in these premises at once."

Let the agitation of the road question be continued. It is by no means a hopeless task for it is said that "command dripping will wear the hardest, stone away."

The New York World has made for itself the enviable reputation of being one of the most enterprising newspapers in the United States. It has now entered a new field, and even ventures to compete with Truth, Life, and other comic papers in humorous journalism. Its opening essay is a decided success, as a parody of the following will prove.

"The inauguration will take place in a hall over two stories, and there has been an unprecedented absence of other sections.

The President has had a remarkably small number of applicants and the Democrats seem to have been pursuing their legitimate business just as steadily as if a Republican Administration was to be again fastened on the country.

Even in the formation of the Cabinet Mr. Cleveland has been troubled by few or no dissenting applications. The friends of a few gentlemen have urged their selection, probably, but the men most prominently mentioned for Cabinet positions have been more reluctant to accept than eager for the preference.

There has been no scramble for office at all, either in Mr. Cleveland's own State or in the country at large."

The State Legislature has done a praiseworthy, even if probably an ineffective act, in passing the joint resolution declaring that the Legislature of the State of New Jersey shares in the common gratitude of the loyal people of the United States, toward the patriotic men who defended the Government in the dark days of the rebellion; that it recognizes the justice and equity of certain claims of the defenders of the National Union and liberty; that it deprecates the removal of these men from public office for partisan reasons in order to fill their places with men who served on the side of the rebellion, and it requests the Senators and Representatives of this State in Congress to support an amendment introduced by Mr. McAdoo, providing not only that "persons who served in the Military and Naval service of the United States in the War of the Rebellion and were honorably discharged therefrom, shall be preferred for appointment in civil offices," but also that no Union veteran soldier or sailor shall be removed from any civil office under the Government for partisan reasons in order to make room for the appointment of any person who took part in the late rebellion.

Mr. Flynn, Democrat of Passaic, deserves credit for his candor, when in opposing the resolution he said he did so because he believed that "to the victors belong the spoils," and that if he had a friend who wanted a place he would put him in it, if the best man in the State had to go.

A gentleman who has paid considerable attention to the affairs in the Sudan, has kindly contributed the following article:

PERPLEXING TO ENGLAND.

The question in the Sudan is now assuming most disagreeable proportions to the English Cabinet, and now that the important point in the game has been lost, gamblers like Mr. Gladstone have sought to recover the ground lost through bad statesmanship, by organizing another campaign against Khartoum, and in which the already insufficient force is to be reinforced by another column, perhaps not too weak to resist and defeat the Mahdi, but far too inferior to encounter the False Prophet, the decimating fever, and the severe loss of life from mortifying wounds, which give the wounded no hope of recovery, beneath the burning influence of a tropical sun, where the thermometer reaches 105 to 107 in the coolest places.

Leaving out the chances of cholera, the other infectious diseases which naturally belong to camp life; and sun-stroke, the mortality from privation and forced endurance, will frightfully exceed the large statistics shown by the British in India, and unless a new route than the one adopted be discovered, the soldier will be demoralized by the recurrence of the horrors of a Black Hole, similar to that of India. The best policy for the ministry to pursue is the policy which was carried out by the Russian command in retiring before the invading army of Napoleon 1st, and thereby starving out that army they could not fight. Instead of the English, the Mahdi seems to have made a feeble attempt at this, and with the British in their present position, were the False Prophet to direct his attack to their rear and mass half of his forces in their route of retreat in the rear of Suakin, all army supplies would cease, and the British would be forced to eat their camels, and by so doing would defeat themselves by destroying their only means of retreat; and this could be accomplished before aid or reinforcements could arrive in the Berber.

England must do something, and at once, and with an army of 100,000 men, and a strongly guarded railroad for these forces to pass over in the cool weather, and a possibility of always keeping the line to the rear open, the Mahdi must speedily fall back from Khartoum into the southern districts which his fanatic hordes have drained of forage and general army supplies. Men cannot fight without food, and if the Mahdi's men lose faith in him by a few heavy losses of battle, territory, camp equipment, and find themselves cut off in all directions from food, their fanaticism will rapidly disappear with their belief in the Mahdi, who will ultimately meet the fate of Arabi Bey—to be held a prisoner, awaiting the British action for the massacre at Khartoum.

GOOD COMMON ROADS.

Any person who travels through the country with his eyes wide open, cannot fail to notice the fact that the region of poor roads is almost invariably the region of sloped and dilapidated farms, of sleepy and unthrifty villages, and of a population which is generally unenterprising and behind the age. On the other hand, the region of hard, first class common roads is a region of neat, thrifty, and energetic villages, of fine and busy cultivated farms, of orchards, gardens, good stock, good fences and barns, and a general air of neatness, thrift, enterprise, and money-making. It is a mistake to suppose that it is the richness of the country which has made the good roads; on the contrary it is the good roads which have made the country rich. It is a mistake to suppose that the good roads have made the farmers and villages prosperous. Good roads directly stimulate and encourage good farming, improved stock, market gardening, fruit raising, and other industries which pay farmers the best profits. In regions of bad roads there is little use in raising stock; the poor horse or ox can travel as fast as the roads will allow. Gardening does not pay when one can go to the market with one's own horse, and villages will not thrive and make good home markets when their customers find it difficult to get into and out of them. All these things, whether it be between nations or between neighbors.

hoods, depends essentially upon easy, cheap, and rapid communication.

Not these only, but everybody, should take a direct personal interest in securing and maintaining the very best road system. For it is impossible to conceive of any class of citizens, who could not be directly and largely benefited by a general system of good common roads. It would benefit all farmers and food producers by giving them easier, speedier, and cheaper access to markets, and by making the markets more steady and reliable. It would benefit farmers, also, by increasing the value of their lands. Especially near cities and villages would wealth flow out into the country and create handsome villas and rural resorts. It would benefit all dwellers in cities and villages by making their provision markets steady, by encouraging market gardening, preventing famine prices during the wet season, by making excursions to the country easier for pleasure or business, easy and pleasant, and by making it possible for the city or village business men to own and live in a country house, some miles out of town. From the humblest laborer or mechanic to the wealthiest capitalist, all would be benefited directly and largely. No other investment of money raised by taxation pays so large a return to the public as first class common roads. And yet, strangely, no other public improvement is generally so greatly neglected.

AFTER DIPHTHERIA.

Diphtheria is a terrible disease, requiring the greatest medical skill to effect a complete cure. Even when its power is broken, it clings to the patient with great persistency, and often leaves the system poisoned and prostrated. Just here Hoo's Sarsaparilla comes to the aid, expelling all impurities from the blood, giving it richness and vitality, while renovates and strengthens the system.

Commerce Flour. $200 Reward.

We will pay a reward of $200.00 to any person who will produce testimonials equal to those we receive in relation to the high standard and uniform quality of any brand of flour now on the market that can be sold at as low price as the "COMMERCE."

Leading Lawyers, Physicians, Divines, Manufacturers, &c., speak of it in the highest terms.

Read the following—

PERKINS, N. J.
J. J. PERKINS, Esq.
I am very much pleased with the flour purchased from you, branded Commerce. It makes a splendid bread, and we find it well adapted for all the requirements of a family flour.

Hon. JOHN PARKER, Ex-Gov.

Messrs. WILKINSON, GADDIS & CO.,
General.—Your Commerce brand of flour has been used in my family with most satisfactory results. We get more bread from the same quantity of flour, and whiter and more nutritious bread than from most other varieties.

Yours, &c.
F. B. MANDVILLE, M.D., 340 Broad St.

It is noticed and remarked that the "Commerce" flour always has a rich creamy color and that it will produce more bread than the same quantity of ordinary flour. For this reason the "Commerce" is cheaper to the consumer than the ordinary flour that is generally sold at about the same price. In a word it is the "poor man's" as well as the "rich man's" flour.
