LOCAL NEWS.
There will be plenty to eat all day at the First Presbyterian church on February 28. There was no meeting of the Water Board as there was no quorum. Commissioners Aiken and Leonard were the only members present.
Michael Hall, Woodbridge, was opened as a roller skating rink on Thursday night. Quite a large party of ladies and gentlemen from this city attended the opening.
The work of repairing the ceiling in the 2nd ward school has been going on under Mr. Wm. Westervelt. The children were dismissed for the week.
It is rumored that the city alderman lately built by C. E. Brown, is to be converted into a hall for dances and parties, and that the Mutual Pleasure Club will hold a ball there on the fifth of March.
Mr. Carroll, of Cherry street, slipped on the pavement on Thursday night at about seven o'clock, and fell, striking his wrist. Dr. Oliver was summoned, and finding that a fracture had been sustained, set the bone.
Mr. G. O. Zeller was in a lecture on "The True Salvation Army," to be followed by a religious meeting. Revival meetings are still being held in this church, and as a result some signs of interest are beginning to appear.
Lark Washington Tea.—A cordial invitation is extended to the ladies to step into the basement of the 1st Presbyterian church, on Monday, Feb. 23, any time after 4 o'clock. A. S. Baker's, 255 Grand street, will be the place of the tea. The tea will be held in the basement of the church, and will be a very fine affair. Refreshments at the table will be moderate.
Scholarship and German.—The Scholastic and German societies, in their yearly meeting, met last Tuesday evening at the residence of Mrs. D. B. Dunham, on Milton street. The time up to midnight was devoted to general dancing, when twenty-seven couples took their places for the popular "German." This was led by a most creditable, artistic, and satisfactory manner by Mr. John A. Savage with Miss Fannie Dunham. With so many dancing, each figure occupied considerable time, and so that four or five figures were danced. The figures were very pretty and well adapted to the success of the "German."
General and Lady Washington will receive their friends on Monday, February 24, at the First Presbyterian church.
Railroad Accident.—At 11:50 on Thursday night the Lehigh freight train running toward Elizabethville, came in collision with the freight train in the station, and Dr. Daily was summoned. His right leg was badly crushed and will require amputation. He also sustained cuts and bruises. He was kept in the freight room over night and sent to St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, yesterday morning at half past nine. He was suffering such pain that he was put under the influence of an anesthetic. All that could be learned from him was that his name was Max Stein, that he was a canvasser for German newspapers, and that he lived in Elizabethville.
Herald's Club Fair.—The Herald Club will hold a fair throughout the week at Washington Hall for the benefit of the Glee Club piano fund. On Thursday evening there will be a grand dinner given to which the admission will be 50 cents. One of the prominent features of the fair will be the two showing galleries, one for ladies and the other for gentlemen. These will be under the special charge of the Glee Club. A fine rifle is offered to the gentleman making the highest three scores, and a handsome gold badge to the ladies for the highest score. A gold stem winding watch is to be given to the member of an organization, who receives the highest number of votes.
Henry S. Moore.—Henry S. Moore, whose death was announced in our last issue, came to New York as a boy, in 1859, from Albany County, where he was born, and took a mercantile position with the Clinton Makers' Association in Fulton St. He saved there until 1865, when with Peter Brainerd he started a furniture store. The firm prospered and moved to ample quarters in Knickerbocker St. The idea of trade he bought in 1870 the large establishment in Fourteenth St., which is now occupied by Mr. Moore. He owned a large amount of New York city property. He was a superior amateur horticulturist and his child's play was the success which he attained in the Opera House next Friday. The actor and the character have long been known to theatre goers. The managers have put the price of admission at a very low figure and desire the exchange.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—At a meeting of Rahway Lodge No. 30 Ancient Order of United Workmen of this city, it was resolved to investigate certain statements that are being industriously circulated in this community. Upon investigation it appears that the charges are merely the vapors of an over active brain, and have no foundation whatever, as the appended communication from the Supreme Recorder, who is the best authority, will attest.
W. E. HAVERTICK,
Recorder Rahway Lodge No. 30
Ancient Order of United Workmen,
Newark, N. J.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 4, 1885.
W. E. Havertick, Esq., Rahway, N. J.
Dear Sir:—Your favor to hand and I at once reply. The Ancient Order of United Workmen was organized Oct. 28, 1883, as a new order, the first lodge consisting of eight members here in Meadville, Pa. It has since been enlarged, and now has become fully and completely established. It has promptly and fully paid every liability to the widows and orphans of its deceased members amounting to some $20,000. There is no such thing in the story circulated as mentioned in your letter. With kindest regards,
Yours in U. H. & P.
M. W. HAVERTICK,
Supreme Recorder, A. O. U. W.

DOORS OPEN ALL DAY. At the First Presbyterian church on Monday, February 23, twenty-five cents for the evening entertainment.

THE PEOPLE'S VOICE.
[We will gladly insert under this head all articles expressing honest opinions, regarding the subject of those of a libelous or malicious character, and will endeavor to publish them as soon as possible, and as a guarantee of good faith.]

RAHWAY, N. J., Feb. 19, 1885.
EDITOR ADVOCATE:
Dear Sir: In your report of Council proceedings in Wednesday's issue, you refer to me as saying that Mr. Denike informed me as to the nuisance, & committed labor to the use of the Main street ditch. Not having had any conversation with him on the subject, and as he was absent from the meeting, I feel compelled to call your attention to the error, and have same corrected. It is stated that a member of the citizens' committee had informed me regarding the nuisance, and I had referred to it in my report. I am sorry that I should have been so mistaken, and I am sure that the committee will be glad to correct the error. I am, Sir, very respectfully,
Yours in U. H. & P.

Dear Sir: In your report of Council proceedings in Wednesday's issue, you refer to me as saying that Mr. Denike informed me as to the nuisance, & committed labor to the use of the Main street ditch. Not having had any conversation with him on the subject, and as he was absent from the meeting, I feel compelled to call your attention to the error, and have same corrected. It is stated that a member of the citizens' committee had informed me regarding the nuisance, and I had referred to it in my report. I am sorry that I should have been so mistaken, and I am sure that the committee will be glad to correct the error. I am, Sir, very respectfully,

Editor Advocate:
Dear Sir: I see by advertisement that an application has been made to the Chancellor for an order to show cause why the "new account" of the Rahway Savings Institution should not be taken from under his control.

I am not a new depositor, therefore have no particular interest in the proposition. If I was, however, and the same officers have charge of the Bank, who were in command when it was wrecked, I would not hesitate to protest with all the power I had against granting the order. Of the New Jersey Banks that failed at the time the Rahway Bank closed its doors all but the Rahway Bank have settled their accounts. Time has paid four dividends amounting to 98 per cent. But they have been nearly seven years doing this, and it does not amount to legal interest on the principal sum. With such a showing should the Chancellor grant their prayer and allow them to "run alone?"

Yours truly,
SUFFERER.

[We cheerfully publish the above communication. But our indignant correspondent has been misinformed as to facts. Our impression is that since the suspension of the Rahway Savings Institution not one of the similar institutions which have been placed in charge of the Chancellor has settled its accounts. Of all of them which opened new accounts not one has failed except the Rahway Savings Institution. Not only did the Chancellor have charge of it but he or his family had sufficient confidence in its management as to place deposits in it. The Chancellor we presume has come to the conclusion that his time will not permit him to endeavor to take care of the money of depositors and that his presumed care of the Newark Bank was of no real value. The true course for depositors is to recognize the fact that it is impossible for any Savings Bank to pay a large rate of interest and succeed. If they want a high rate they should take care of the investment themselves and by experience learn how soon they can make themselves a "sufferer."—Ed.]

THE MANAGEMENT OF SAVINGS BANKS.

The advertisement published in another column, notifying depositors in the new account of the Rahway Savings Institution that the Chancellor proposes to cease continuing his control over it, is suggestive as showing that even in so stringent a financial period as the present, a Savings Institution can be managed as well as a failure.

[The history of Savings Banks is both interesting and instructive. It is interesting as showing what wide departures have been made in their management from what was intended by those who devised them, and instructive, as proving that in almost every instance their failures have been due to these departures. The original design of these institutions was to furnish a fund by which the poor when by misfortune they became needy might be helped. They were intended to be friendly, and to a certain extent, charitable societies. The funds were to be raised by voluntary subscription and be disbursed as needed, mutually among the contributors.

The first statute authorizing the formation of such a society, so far as we can learn, was passed by the English Parliament in 1793. Its preamble is as follows:

"Whereas the protection and encouragement of friendly societies in this kingdom for raising by voluntary subscription of the members thereof separate funds for the mutual relief and maintenance of the said members in sickness, old age and infirmity, is likely to be attended with very beneficial effects by promoting the happiness of individuals . . . it shall and may be lawful to and for any number of persons in Great Britain to form themselves into and establish one or more societies of good fellowship . . . for the mutual relief and maintenance of all and every the members thereof in old age, sickness and infirmity, or for the relief of the widows and children of deceased members."

In New Jersey the first charter for such a society was granted to The Newark Savings Fund in 1838, and its object was stated to be "that the said corporation shall receive as deposits such small sums of money from tradesmen, mechanics, laborers, minors, servants and other persons as they shall save from their earnings." The second charter was similar to the first, and was granted in 1869 to The Provident Institution for Savings in Jersey City. The number of managers was 24, and in addition the Mayor and Aldermen of that city were made ex officio members.

From the declared objects as announced in these statutes it is evident the thoughtful inventors of the scheme of savings banks meant them to be not money-making but purely money-saving institutions. But, unfortunately, in a few years the managers became ambitious to be the heads of large financial houses. To accomplish this they invested the funds intrusted to them with a view to profit so as to pay large interest dividends. The greed for this large rate encouraged capitalists to deposit all their surplus in these institutions. A single depositor had in the Newark Savings Bank when it failed $70,000. Probably fifty at the same time had over $10,000 each in it. Well, this large profit means large risk. These large deposits mean large and sudden drafts when a suspicion of danger arises. Naturally the timidity of the depositor would be required according to the amount of his deposit. Consequently when a financial pinch came the demands of these large depositors became so great it was impossible for the banks to realize on their investments and they were compelled to stop pay.

institutions is by returning to first principles. The question of paying dividends should be once abandoned. What is wanted is not profit, but safety. Interest dividends should not be regarded for an instant as against the duty of being paid on a moment's notice to pay any depositor the amount due him. Men of large means should not be permitted to deposit at all, or at least should be limited to small contributions.

The report we refer to is an illustration of the propriety of this. It shows that all the assets in this new account consist of cash, United States Bonds and a mortgage against the Gas Company of three thousand dollars. The security of this mortgage is worth more than a hundred thousand dollars. Every depositor in this new account might at the same time demand his money, and there would be no necessary delay to count the money to pay them, the securities could be sold, the deposits paid, and there would still be a surplus of over two thousand dollars.

The lesson of this is, that no depositor and no manager should regard a Savings Institution as anything else but as a depository of the savings of those who in a rainy day may need a portion of the whole of what was placed in it, when propitious weather brought to them a surplus. Investments at all times can be made easily so long as the rate of interest is subordinated to the great question of prompt realization of the principal, but of course the rate will be very low. Still, as the real purpose of Savings Banks is to keep safely the money of depositors, to prevent it from being stolen or from being dissipated, we believe recent experiences among the numbers of them that have suspended will correct the mischiefs that have been created by a desire for large dividends, and will again make them what they were originally and beneficially intended to be—purely institutions for safety of the principal sum.

A SOLEMN OATH.—Parson Whangdoodle Baxter distinguished himself on more at the funeral of an aged colored man.

"Our deceased brother was married forty times during his life," said Whangdoodle, "but only once he was so fortunate as to be able to survive him long enough to be present on his death very solemnly occuring."

A farmer who had engaged the services of a son of the Emerald Isle, sent him out one morning to harvest a piece of ground he had not worked long before nearly all the teeth came out of the harrow.

Presently the farmer went out into the field to take notes of the man's progress, and asked him how he liked the work.

"Oh!" the man replied, "it goes a bit smoother since the pegs have come out."

"I say George, what do you pay for these cigars?"

"Fifty dollars a thousand."

"Splendid cigar, George. Smokes beautifully. Very fragrant. But fifty dollars is a great deal of money to pay for cigars."

"Why that's only five cents a piece."

"Ah, that's so. Was thinking it was fifty cents a piece. I thought it was a dreadful price for such a miserable roll of dried cabbage. I don't see how you can smoke the things."

"Well, Mr. Yager, I called to see if I couldn't insure your life in our company, one of the best and safest in the world."

"You want my life inschure, hay?"

"Yes, and on easy terms."

"How long you inschure my life?"

"Well, it's this way: You pay so much a year as dues, and should you die your wife and family will get $2,000."

"You don't den my life get inschured, hain't it?"

"Of course we can insure you against death, that is something beyond the power of man."

"Den what you call him a 'life inschurance company' fur, hay?"

"Well, that is the name they have, and."

"Hold on, schute! Go mit yourself slow, young man. I tells you something. Den don't you no life inschurance companies; den penen all death inschurance companies. You don't den foolish me, unch don't it fool you?"

A well-known railroad lawyer, while accompanying several ladies on a tour of inspection through the penitentiary the other day, stopped in front of a cell where a grim-looking fellow sat, and said:

"Look, here is an excellent specimen. How are you?" addressing the convict.

"Sort slow at present."

"You don't find life in here very enjoyable, I presume?"

"Well, it ain't as full of o' fun as it might be."

"What were you put in for?"

"Well, podnor, you an' me was about in the same business. I know you."

"In the same business? What do you mean?"

"Yes, I am a railroad lawyer, ain't you?"

"Yes."

"Well, I am a train robber."

WOMAN FIREFIGHTERS.

The editor of an Omaha paper, in commenting on several cases in that city where children died from the effects of taking cough syrup containing morphia remarks that opiates, poisons and narcotics are more dangerous than firearms. Mothers should note this and furthermore that different Boards of Health, after making careful analyses have certified that the only purely vegetable preparation of this kind, and one that is in every way harmless, prompt and effective, is Dr. Ross' Cough Cure. Mayor Lechro of Baltimore, and the Commissioner of Health, have publicly endorsed this valuable discovery.

Leading Lawyers, Physicians, Divines, Manufacturers, &c., speak of it in the highest terms.

Read the following:—
J. J. FETTER, Esq.,
"Dear Sir: I am very much pleased with the flour purchased from you, branded 'COMMERCE.' It takes a pleasant taste of bread, and we had it well adapted for all the requirements of a fine family flour."

Hon. JOHN PARKER, Esq. Gov.

Mrs. WILKINSON, GADDIS & CO.,
Grocers.—Your Commerce brand of flour has been used in my family with most satisfactory results. We get more leaves from the same quantity of flour, and produce a nutritious, sweet, white loaf. We wish to see no other in our family. Yours truly,
A. L. BRUCE.

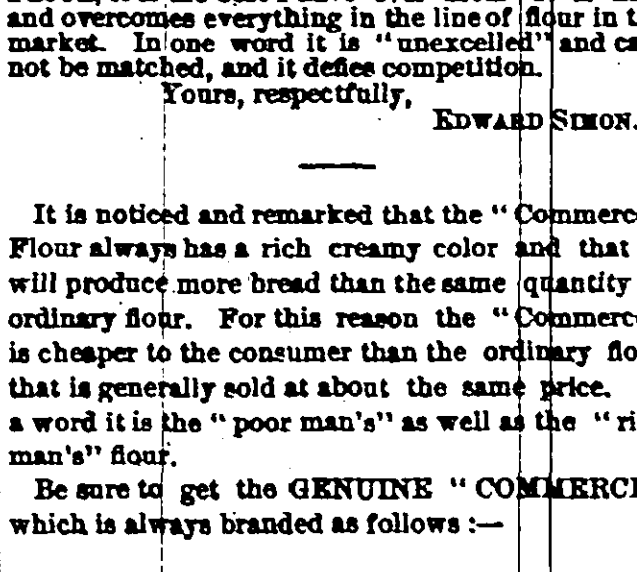

F. D. MAHER, Esq., 240 Broad St.

PARSONAGE, 25 Franklin St., Newark, N. J.
Messrs. WILKINSON, GADDIS & CO.,
Grocers.—In reference to the "COMMERCE" Flour, it is the best I have ever used. It is fine, and overcomes everything in the line of flour in the market. In one word it is "unexcelled" and cannot be matched, and it defies competition.

Yours, respectfully, EDWARD SIMON.

It is noticed and remarked that the "Commerce" Flour always has a rich creamy color and that it will produce more bread than the same quantity of ordinary flour. For this reason the "Commerce" is cheaper to the consumer than the ordinary flour that is generally sold at about the same price. In a word it is the "poor man's" as well as the "rich man's" flour.

Be sure of getting the GENUINE "COMMERCE" which is always marked as follows:—
