Battle Lines Drawn: Birds vs. Tanks

TRENTON (AP)—Battle lines are being drawn in a threatened war between the Environmentalists of New Jersey and the military, with the former taking on a clear advantage.

The Environmentalists of New Jersey have launched a campaign to save a stretch of wilderness located in the heart of the state. They are demanding that the military vacate the area and return it to its natural state.

The military, on the other hand, is defending its position and arguing that the area is crucial for national security.

The Environmentalists of New Jersey have been joined by a number of local and national environmental groups, who have pledged their support.

The military has been advised to consider the environmentalists' concerns and to take action to protect the area.

Krebiozen Unit Appeals To President

NEW YORK CITY — The Dakota chapter of the organization dedicated to the fight against cancer has appealed to President Johnson to lift the Federal Drug Administration ban on Krebiozen. The decision to make the protest public occurred at a rally held at Community Church here Tuesday night.

The rally attracted a typically large audience, including Dr. Horace Holcomb, a member of the board of directors of the organization, the President of the American Medical Association, Dr. Robert B. Crandall, and Dr. Albert R. Furst, another member of the board of directors of the organization.

The rally also featured many other speakers who joined in the appeal, including Mrs. Mary J. Smith, a member of the board of directors of the organization, and Dr. Robert B. Crandall, another member of the board of directors of the organization.

The rally succeeds a similar appeal made last week by another chapter of the organization in Chicago, which presented 100,000 signatures in support of the appeal.

Hospital Progress

An observation in the Wall Street Journal says that "the triumphs of this town are not necessarily the triumphs of the nation."

Praises given to the staff of Red Bank's Riverview Hospital by a patient discharged from it after a 16-day stay are included in this observation: "I've never known such good service."

Particularly this man, known for years as a specialist in the field of modern medicine, prepared his diagnosis and treatment of the patient's condition to the level of a professional nurse, said, "You can be so pleasant and helpful that it is hard to decide which was your favorite."

On the staff quickly were included in the patient's discharge were: "We are happy to be of service to others, especially those who are in need."

The American teenager is developing a tolerably low rate. Joblessness is growing, of course, there will be increasing need for enlargements, new hospitals, and the most expertly trained doctors, nurses and attendants. Monument's national health provider has a most attractive setting for the required buildings and should do much to encourage young people enter these professions.

From New York, the Wall Street Journal outlines experimental advances made in the 50-year-old St. Luke's Hospital in Chicago, where a patient with vertigo by diagnosis, vertigo. Eight nurses and one houseman treated that patient. Such as would be housed in luxury hotels. It is questionable whether such facility is necessary or even desirable. But it is a fact that the patients there are satisfied. Boards and other groups sponsoring such projects are not satisfied with all that is being done. But the patients should be made fully comfortable and at ease.

St. Luke's may go forward with its cocoa-colored ceramic tile baths and other needed items, far away from Rivervale to find sick persons being made quite content and happy.

Employment Schizophrenia in U.S.

By SYLVIA PORTER

"I'm here today to talk about the benefits of our national unemployment insurance program." The author of the statement is a leading economist.

The author concludes: "I'm not sure that our national unemployment insurance program is the solution to our national unemployment problem."

"I'm sure that we need a better solution," the author continues. "We need to consider the following points:

1. What is the problem? Is it a temporary or permanent problem?
2. Can we afford the solution?
3. What are the social and economic consequences of the solution?

"I hope that we can find a solution that works," the author concludes.

WHITE HOUSE—No longer will Secret Service men be given duty in all but the closest quarters of the White House. A new system for guests will be based on their credentials and their relationship to the president. The system was set up to prevent a repetition of the Howard Hughes episode, where Justice Dept. officials were able to check the identity of the man who was later revealed to be an FBI agent.

STATE HOUSE—New Jersey is $500 richer today because of two recent strikes. State treasurer John J. Kerick received $50 in notes from his bank. Both were signed "Anon." Kerick says the money must be for back taxes. What else?

OFF THE CURV. Governor Hughes speaking: "If necessary, I'll run next year on my tax (income) platform. The need for the people will be met and the job is only half finished." GOP Sen. Wayne Dumont, of Warren County, the state's most constant backer, says "He has guts." . . .

LONG SERIOUS illness of N. Y. Mayor Robert Wagner's lovely wife, Sylvia, may cause him to quit public life. She has been ill for over a year, Wagner's doctors say, and "there is no hope of her recovery."

President JOHNSON is well aware state Democrats are dead set against the president's program. The White House has received a number of letters from state Democrats, warning that the president is "in deep trouble."
