State Acts to Prevent Rights ‘Stall-Ins’

New Jersey law officers, armed with a broad new law enforcement aid to fight political racketeering, were on duty today as the state legislature convened for a special session. The new law, a bill to establish a new Department of Law and Commerce, is designed to prevent the kind of political racketeering that has plagued New Jersey in recent years.

A bill urging the state legislature to pass the new law was introduced by Assemblyman Richard J. Hughes, a member of the Republican party. "This bill is a direct response to the political racketeering that has plagued New Jersey in recent years," Hughes said. "It is a step toward establishing a new Department of Law and Commerce that will help to prevent the kind of political racketeering that has been so prevalent in New Jersey in recent years."

Who needs 6 thermostats?
A family with 6 rooms.

Bedroom, 65°F, Bath, 72°F, Living room, 70°F, Rte. And shut off the back room that no one's using. It's possible, but only with flameless electric heating. Each room in the house has an individual electric heating unit set inconspicuously in the baseboard, walls or ceiling. Each is independently controlled by its own thermostat. And the cost for flameless electric heating? It's much lower than you might think. The cost for heating in Total Electric Homes was recently reduced by almost twenty percent. MSUANUS TOWNSHIP — The president of a non-profit organization in the township, who is also a member of the Board of Education, has resigned. The resignation will be effective at the end of the current term. The new president will be elected at next week's meeting.

Robert H. Thompson, who was named principal of the township's high school in 1973, has stepped down as head of the organization. He said he was stepping down because he felt he could not continue to fulfill his obligations as both principal and executive director of the organization.

The township's Board of Education has been meeting regularly to discuss the matter. The board has appointed a new principal for the high school and has named a new executive director for the organization.

Disagreement Ordering Forbidding Traffic Jam-Up

NEW YORK (AP) — The World War II "macon" of the United States military, which is responsible for the operation of traffic lights in the city, has ordered a traffic jam-up. The order was issued after a number of reports of traffic accidents involving pedestrians and vehicles were received.

The order requires that all traffic lights in the area be shut off and that all vehicles and pedestrians move to the side of the road. The order is effective immediately and will remain in effect until the situation improves.

There were reports that traffic "will be congested," said John J. Keenan, president of the board of the organization. He said the order was necessary to prevent further incidents from occurring.

The order was issued after a number of reports of traffic accidents involving pedestrians and vehicles were received. The accident involved a pedestrian who was hit by a car on a city street. The pedestrian was taken to the hospital and is expected to recover.

Successful Investing

BY ROGER E. SPEAR

Of 11 Southern California trades is well taken, it is generally believed that the New York Times, in the words of the Times editors, "is only one of the great stocks of the world."

I do not believe, however, that the New York Times is a good investment for the average investor. The Times has a very low dividend yield, and its price has been declining for several years. It is also a relatively small company, with a market capitalization of only $2.5 billion.

On the other hand, the New York Times is a good company. It has a long history of stability and growth, and its earnings have been fairly consistent over the years. The Times also has a strong franchise, with a large and loyal reader base.

For these reasons, I believe that the New York Times is a good stock to own for the long term. It is not a good stock to buy for quick profits, however, and investors should be prepared to hold it for several years.

NEW YORK — The cancer rate in Monmouth County is still the highest in the state, according to a report by the New Jersey Cancer Registry.

The report, which is based on data from the New Jersey Cancer Registry, shows that the cancer rate in Monmouth County is still significantly higher than in other counties in the state.

The report also shows that the cancer rate in Monmouth County has been rising steadily over the years, and that the rate is expected to continue to rise in the future.

Seven things you'll want to do at the Bell System Pavilion of the New York World's Fair

Take The Ride, one of the most impressive features of the Pavilion, while you relax in comfortable chairs provided with individual speakers, you can view a video tour of the World's Fair, scheduled for 8 p.m. on April 21, 1964. You can also view a film of the Fair, scheduled for 8 p.m. on April 22, 1964.

See the physical sciences exhibit: the actual growing of crystals, the development of the transistor, the laser, the intensely focused beam of light that may someday replace the cable as a carrier of telephone conversations.

Review the past and present of the telephone. See the numerous different telephone models used during the past years and observe the telephone manufacturing process. Examine the microwave equipment in the glass-enclosed base of the 180-foot television control tower that transmits all the television programs originating at the stock Pavilion.

Learn how national and worldwide communications work. While you sit in a domed 35-foot radio tower, thousands of tiny colored lights indicate what happens all across the U.S.A. when people telephone. Then the nation's defense communications brick and mortar — followed by the Bell System's microwave system. Later you see a map of the world and what happens when international calls are made — then a representation of the communications connections made by the cable.

Welcome to the Bell System Pavilion and welcome to the Fair.
WashingtoN — A three-way power struggle is raging within the White House over personnel appointments and domestic policy recommendations. This political struggle, which only President Johnson can decide, is coming to a head over the appointment of William E. McCarthy, congressional relations officer of the Peace Corps, to the White House.

The 34-year-old McCarthy, known as a "lobbying Mellon" within Washington communication circles, is being strongly backed by the White House for the post by former aides of Bill Moyers, former deputy director of the Peace Corps and J.W. Valenti, special assistant to the President.

These two presidential advisers are arguing that McCarthy is needed in the White House to improve the administration's liaison with Congress to pass the controversial anti-poverty programs.

A close friend of Moyers who has worked in the Peace Corps, Ms. McCarthy is being urged by the former aide to provide a communication link between Presidential and Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

Opposing McCarthy's selection are veteran Johnson aide Walter Andrews, special presidential assistant, and Mr. J.K. O'Neill, former White House press aide.

They privately argue that McCarthy, a pro-congressman of the late President Kennedy, is as "extraordinary a man" as his political counterparts in any showdown with Attorney General Robert Kennedy would not be the President, but to Kennedy.

In their background conclusions, McCarthy is described as being more political than other White House aides, neither Carter nor Sirkin have been considered for the post by the President.

Meanwhile, the attorney general spells out more clearly his own political position on the McCarthy appointment, neither Carter nor Sirkin have been considered for the post by the President.

McCarthy would strengthen the Kennedy administration's tie with the Peace Corps by adding McCarthy to the White House circle by adding McCarthy to the White House circle.

THE THIRD FORCE — The third line of White House thinking, according to the Washington Post, is that the Peace Corps is the "third force" in the administration. It is growing in influence in the White House, especially in the public's estimation of the President's anti-poverty programs.

In their background conclusions, McCarthy is described as being more political than other White House aides, neither Carter nor Sirkin have been considered for the post by the President.

The Post reports that the "third force" view is gaining strength within the administration, especially among those who oppose the Kennedy administration's "liberal" policies.

A Citizen's Responsibility

Our first weekend of warm weather has brought on the return of crowds to the parks and the other parks and recreational areas.

Welcome back to the great outdoors, we say, but remember your responsibilities while you are enjoying it.

Each spring, with the warm weather and the flowering trees, we must tackle the problem of littering and littering. The Red Bank Parks and Recreation Department reports that the problem has already started, and has asked for community-wide action to curb it.

Each year hundreds of man hours are spent in policing, repairing and cleaning up litter in the recreation areas. Police are trying to cut this needless expense with a crackdown on littering.

It's Time to Clean Up

Frederick M. Raubinger, state commissioner of education, last week issued his verdict on the Keansburg-Middletown High School sending-receiving relationship.

High school students must be withdrawn from Middletown High School by 1968. It is too much of an experiment.

Keansburg has been dallying with sending its school programs for several years, admistively in hopes of stringing out the sending-receiving relationship for as long as possible.

The municipality which has suf-cered by the sending of its own students has its own population problems. The situeation is even more acute now, with high school double sessions.

World's Fair

By April 22, all 646 acres will be shined up and the New York World's Fair will look something like this model.

The monorail which will run through the amusement section promises to be one of the Fair's highlights.

The Tower of Light will have a huge spotlight mounted between the main towers that will shoot up a beam visible from a great distance.

It's not an alien spaceship that descended on earth but rather an ovoid-shaped industrial pavilion.

The Top of the Fair restaurant and observation offer a grandstand view of the whole area.

Sound of Music

By BOB THOMAS

"The Sound of Music" is the sort of event that often occurs twice in a lifetime: when you were a child and again when you are old. The first time with the children, the second time with the grandchildren. The two experiences are profoundly different, yet each is as great as the other.

"The Sound of Music" is the story of the von Trapp family, who were once a part of the Austrian theater world but who are now forced to become a part of the Austrian army during World War II. The movie is directed by Robert Wise and produced by Mike Todd, and it stars Julie Andrews as the von Trapp mother and Christopher Plummer as her husband. The von Trapp children, played by Alpine children, sing a variety of songs, including "Do-Re-Mi," "My Favorite Things," and "Climb Every Mountain."

The movie has been on the screens for more than a year, and it is still playing strong. It has grossed over $50 million in its first year of release, and it is still drawing large crowds. The movie has been nominated for nine Academy Awards, including Best Picture, Best Actress (Julie Andrews), and Best Director (Robert Wise).

It's news nowadays whenever a musical is made into a movie, and "The Sound of Music" is no exception. It has been a hit in every city in which it has been shown, and it has been a hit around the world. The movie has been shown in more than 100 countries, and it has been seen by over 500 million people.

"The Sound of Music" has been a sensation, and it is easy to see why. The movie is a joy to watch, and it is a joy to think about. It is a movie that makes you feel good, and it is a movie that makes you feel happy.

"The Sound of Music" is a movie that everyone should see. It is a movie that will make you smile, and it is a movie that will make you feel good. It is a movie that will make you feel happy, and it is a movie that will make you feel good about life.

ANNIVERSARY IN LINCOLNTOWN — It was a tough fight, but they made it. The victorious Lincroft Little League, who formed the league and kept plugging until they were one of the top Little Leagues in Monmouth County. In fact, they are one of the top Little Leagues in the country. Most Leagues are called "Little Leagues," but they call themselves "Lincroft Little League." The history of their organization is said to be an important factor in their success. It is important to pass it on to you all and to your readers.

In 1930, Lincroft Little League was formed. Since then, it has been one of the most successful Little League in the United States. It is a working group of the best Little Leagues in the country. Most of all, they are proud of their elders.

Riverview was caused by a leg injury, and Jeff was probably wondering if he'd ever be able to participate in Little League again. He is fully equipped, insured and supervised by the American Little League Organization the same year. The baseball team.

We of the Little League are proud of our achievements. "We are a bud of the Little League that all boys, including the girls, can participate in," one boy said. "We make every possible effort to have boys, insofar as age limitations will allow, to compete in a League of equal age, and inasmuch as we look upon this as that, through competition, we hope to build character and sportsmanship in all Little Leagues in this community."

Since the 1964 season, being our fifth birthday, we have planned a quilt program for opening day. The quilt will be donated to the president A. McGovern, along with many of our state and local officials, have agreed to participate in this plan.

"We of the Little League are proud of our achievements," Mr. Vicier, we congratulate Lincroft Little League. We admire their perseverance and success.

Our budget of $5,000 just for baseball is enough proof that this is a working group. Most groups operate in the $2,500 budget group, and some are all fully equipped, insured and supervised by adults.

"The success of the Lincroft Little League is directly related to team sponsors and the cooperation of the New York Yankees deeper into American League play. Associated Press

Salary Hikes for State's Judges

Favored, But Where's the Money?

TRENTON — Judges in New Jersey, Superior Court and Appellate Court, can expect a wage increase of $2,750 to $3,000 a year, payable July 1, according to a report of the Senate Special Committee on Judges' Compensation, which recommends approval of the salary hike for judges of the Appellate Court and Superior Court. The report also urges a temporary increase of 10 percent in the salary of the Supreme Court Judges. The increase would be used in salaries for the judges.

Salary Hikes for State's Judges

Favored, But Where's the Money?

TRENTON — Judges in New Jersey, Superior Court and Appellate Court, can expect a wage increase of $2,750 to $3,000 a year, payable July 1, according to a report of the Senate Special Committee on Judges' Compensation, which recommends approval of the salary hike for judges of the Appellate Court and Superior Court. The report also urges a temporary increase of 10 percent in the salary of the Supreme Court Judges. The increase would be used in salaries for the judges.

Until Hughes gives us a full review of the Bill, estimated the cost of the package at $300,000. As the legislature has not yet met at the Georgian House, Rt.

The state now has 44 Superior Court judges.
