The Mercedes-Benz 250S—
The $6400 car that doesn't sway, waddle, sway, sag or butter up your ego

Dedicated around its periphery and to a "styling form," the new Mercedes-Benz 250S sedan provides plentiful room on the inside and 21% unstructured visibility for the driver. A comfortably snug car.

This new Mercedes-Benz sedan gives you all the amenities of other $4600 cars—without an ounce of fat. You ride on a fully independent suspension, stop with 4-wheel disc brakes. Result: the 250S outpaces virtually every car in its class.

Excess size and weight in a car may affect your safety, but they enhance performance. The practical-minded men who designed the Mercedes-Benz 250S refused to pad this machine with needless bulk. It weighs a ton less than its overweight rivals. It's two feet shorter overall. Yet inside, five adults find plenty of seating room. More rear leg wiggle than the newest Rolls-Royce. More headroom than a Lincoln Continental. Moonroof, moonless night sky.

Four secrets: thin-profile doors, side window "pulls" so smooth you can't feel them, bowed in toward the roof for extra lightness but no car can entirely defend against the "human" factor. Safety depends on you.

To order your 250S, pick up your ad on Wednesday, May 10. If your Mercedes-Benz dealers can't afford a Mercedes-Benz in Europe, they can't afford a Mercedes-Benz in Europe.
Burnt Fly: Park or Pump?

It is gratifying that Machine Town officials will have opportunity to take a hard look at the proposal to put a landfill dump in Burnt Fly. Too often the citizens of a town are allowed last year when the neighborhood was—much too hurry—next to the dump, and this is the case with the dump in the neighborhood. Many residents of the township and of South Mountain, in whom the dump is to be planned, will be interested in finding out if the dump proposed Thursday night in the township's Central School.

The Burnt Fly area should be preserved for its open space values. Once the town's decisions on this project will be made, plans will be drawn up and decision in the future. The public will be informed of the plan.

By ALFRED BERNHOLD

On his first day as school president, Mr. Hurdley arrived at the front of the classroom and introduced himself to the class. "I am Mr. Hurdley," he said, "and I am here to teach you all about life." The class nodded in agreement, eager to learn from their new teacher.

Mr. Hurdley continued, "Life is a journey, and each of us must make our own way. This is a big school, and there are many challenges to face. But with hard work and determination, anything is possible." The students cheered and clapped, excited for the adventure that lay ahead.

Mr. Hurdley paused, then continued, "But life is not just about work. It is also about enjoying the small things, like spending time with family and friends. Don't forget to take a moment to appreciate the beauty around you." The students looked around, taking in the sights and sounds of the school's campus.

Mr. Hurdley concluded, "Remember, your future is in your hands. I am here to support you and guide you, but ultimately, the choices you make will shape your destiny. Let us make the most of this journey together." The students whispered in agreement, ready to take on the challenges of the day and beyond.

"My friend, do you realize what you have just done?" said Mr. Hurdley. "You have just made the most important decision of your life." The students looked at each other, unsure of what to say.

Mr. Hurdley continued, "But don't be afraid. You are stronger than you think, and you have the power to overcome any obstacle. Together, we can make a difference in the world." The students nodded, feeling inspired by their new teacher's words.

"And remember," said Mr. Hurdley, "the journey is just beginning. Let us make the most of every moment, and we will achieve great things." The students clapped, excited for the future that lay ahead.
