Teachers, Union, Board Confer Today in Hazlet

HAZLET — Local teachers will meet today with a representative of the board of education to discuss the teachers' contract. The teachers will also discuss the possibility of a strike.

At the meeting, the teachers will present their demands for a new contract, which includes a raise in salary and improvements in working conditions. The teachers have been without a contract since the previous one expired last year.

The school board has indicated that it is willing to negotiate but has not yet made any offers.

The teachers' union, the NJEA, has been actively involved in the negotiations and has expressed its support for the teachers in their efforts to secure a fair contract.

Although the meeting is scheduled for today, no details have been released about the agenda or the outcome of the talks.

The Death of Luring Industry

The need for municipalities to attract industry to the county was stressed by county Planning Board members on Monday. There is no doubt that this is true. Unless industry is attracted to the county, the taxes on real estate will be insufficient.

Charles M. Piko, county planning director, said that a specific list of players would be the answer. "Too many things are happening simultaneously to make it certain," he said. "We're certainly in a mess here, but if we doubt if some municipalities are doing some things better than others.

The county has a number which makes it a desirable location for Industry. Some of the areas where the greatest potential is, the area to northeast and the region to southwest, are the areas with a greater increase in interest in the area.

The county Planning Board has been successful in getting the word to many fine organizations which have settled here. We are failing to do an adequate job, however, and it looks like we must do more aggressive.

Although 10 per cent of the county's area is owned for business, only about 75 per cent is occupied by in- dustries. Even if small municipalities are not as attractive, their small municipal size in so many other respects make them more so.

Most municipalities in the county must develop a more specific plan for using part of the area. They are attempting to keep up the growth, and a chairman of the county board, said that the major problem is to communicate to the public what they're doing wrong.

As an example of policies is in or- der by governing bodies and municipal planning. The first in the current program is:

1. To make sure that the municipalities determine to which they're doing wrong.

The Office of Foreign Policy

Mr. Cleage pointed out that his Detroit office, in a year of major concern with the intricacies of foreign policy, is one of the most active in the city. The program is concerned with the arms race and the need for people to stop looking at arms.

As an example of policies is in or- der by governing bodies and municipal planning. The first in the current program is:

1. To make sure that the municipalities determine to which they're doing wrong.
Scientist Says New Approach Needed in Teaching Physics

NEW BRUNSWICK—Poor attitudes toward secondary-school physics and competition by university departments for students in the field are causing an oversupply of students in the exact and engineering sciences, according to a group of physicists who met recently in New Jersey to discuss changes in the teaching of physics. The scientists said that physics is not currently a recognized major for displaying anti-molestation posters in Avis agencies. Wa Must Care combats child molestation.

This problem is most significant in fields that deal with such exotic areas as high-energy physics and solid-state physics, the physicists said. In the latter area, physicists are competing with chemists for students who are trained in the formulation of physical models to solve the extremely complex equations that are the basis of modern chemistry.

The physicists called for more emphasis, especially in the first two years of college, on the study of goods and services. They said that students should be taught to analyze the problems of current production before they are taught the theories of production and price. They also said that the physics teaching method should be more effective in explaining and emphasizing the meaning of the knowledge gained in the classroom.

It's Pneumonia Weather

By PAUL KAY, M.D.

When the rains become heavy and the air becomes damp, the news usually carries a warning to stay indoors. In large cities, for instance, there is much publicity about the threat of "flu" season. The public is urged to avoid crowds, to boil water, and to stay indoors. In some instances, the government even enacts a curfew.

However, there are certain medical conditions that are often misdiagnosed as pneumonia. These conditions include strep throat, bronchitis, and even the common cold. In these cases, the physician may prescribe antibiotics for the patient, which can be dangerous if the condition is not actually caused by bacteria.

Bronchitis and pneumonia are both infections of the lungs, but they differ in their symptoms. Pneumonia is characterized by a fever, cough, and difficulty in breathing. Bronchitis, on the other hand, is marked by a cough and a productive (sputum-producing) condition.

In pneumonia, the infection spreads to the alveoli, the tiny air sacs in the lungs, where it can cause severe damage. In bronchitis, the infection remains in the bronchial tubes, which carry air to the lungs.

The treatment for pneumonia is antibiotics, while the treatment for bronchitis is usually a combination of rest, fluids, and medication. It is important to distinguish between these conditions, as the wrong treatment can lead to a worsened condition.

In summary, it is important to remember that pneumonia is a serious condition that can be fatal. If you experience any of the symptoms mentioned above, it is important to see a doctor immediately. The diagnosis and treatment of pneumonia are crucial to prevent serious complications.

Enjoy good health and peace of mind.

Here's the Truth About Lane Cake

By CECILY BARTON

Adapted from Paula Patton's Lane Cake, a hit in the spring 2005 issue of Southern Living magazine.

Ingredients

For Cake:
- 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 cups granulated sugar
- 4 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup vegetable oil
- 3 table spoons white vinegar
- 2 teaspoons vanilla

For Frosting:
- 8 cups powdered sugar
- 1/2 cup butter, softened
- 2 teaspoons vanilla

Instructions

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease 4 9-inch round layer-cake pans lined on the bottoms with parchment paper.

2. In a large mixing bowl, combine flour, sugar, baking powder, milk, oil, vinegar, and vanilla. Beat thoroughly after each addition. Divide batter among pans and bake until tops spring back when touched; about 30 minutes. Cool in pans on wire racks for 10 minutes; then turn out on wire racks to cool completely.

3. Make the tea worthy of the cake: Boil water; steep tea bags in tea; remove from heat; stir in sugar and milk; begin and end with milk, for this is a tea cake.

4. Spread the frosting over the tea; brew 3 to 5 cups tea; cover top and sides with swirls of Boiled White Frosting.

Notes:

- If you don’t have tea, you can substitute milk instead, but the tea is the key to the light texture of the cake.
- Don’t skimp on the tea; use your own favorite sort, and steep it strongly.
- The frosting is made with butter, but you can substitute cream cheese if you prefer.
- This cake is best made ahead of time, as it will keep for up to a week in the refrigerator.

The Outdoor World

by William F. Sandborn

In this issue of the Rotary Club's newsletter, the text begins with a question about the value of nature and concludes with a statement about the beauty of the outdoors.

1. There's always a different kind of fun you can have in the great outdoors. Whether it's hiking, camping, or just relaxing by the lake, there are plenty of opportunities to enjoy the outdoors.

2. One of the best things about the outdoors is that there's always something new to discover. Whether it's the wildlife you see, the plants you encounter, or the different ways to experience nature, there's always something new to learn.

3. The beauty of the outdoors is not just in the natural surroundings, but also in the peace and quiet it can provide. Whether it's a quiet walk in the woods or a peaceful day on the lake, there's something about being in nature that can help you relax and find peace.

4. There are many different activities you can do in the outdoors, from fishing to birdwatching to simply exploring. The possibilities are endless, and there's always something new to try.

5. One of the best things about the outdoors is that it's accessible to everyone. Whether you're a seasoned outdoor enthusiast or a newcomer, there's something for everyone to enjoy.

6. The beauty of the outdoors is not just in the natural surroundings, but also in the peace and quiet it can provide. Whether it's a quiet walk in the woods or a peaceful day on the lake, there's something about being in nature that can help you relax and find peace.

7. The best way to enjoy the outdoors is to get out there and experience it for yourself. Whether it's a hike in the mountains or a bike ride on the trail, there's nothing like being out in nature to feel alive and connected.

8. So the next time you have a chance, get out there and enjoy the outdoors. Whether it's a day trip or just a few minutes in your backyard, there's always something beautiful to see and experience.

9. The beauty of the outdoors is not just in the natural surroundings, but also in the peace and quiet it can provide. Whether it's a quiet walk in the woods or a peaceful day on the lake, there's something about being in nature that can help you relax and find peace.

10. So get out there and enjoy the outdoors. Whether it's a hike in the mountains or a bike ride on the trail, there's nothing like being out in nature to feel alive and connected.

Gifts for the whole family... for now and the years to come!

Perhaps the best Christmas present you’ll ever give is the gift of lasting memories. Experiences are always special, and the gifts you give your family to cherish are the ones they’ll talk about for years to come. So, take some time to plan a memorable family holiday together.

Here are a few ideas to get you started:

1. Family Photo Session: Capture beautiful memories with a professional photographer. It’s a great way to remember the joy of spending time together.

2. Christmas Carol Singing: Organize a family caroling session. Choose a venue, invite friends, and spread holiday cheer.

3. Baking Cookies: Bake cookies for the holidays. You could choose a theme, like gingerbread houses or Christmas tree-shaped cookies.

4. Visit a Local Toy Shop: Take a day trip to visit a toy shop, where your family can pick out their favorite toys and create lasting memories.

5. Volunteer Together: Give back to the community by volunteering at a local charity. It’s a rewarding experience and a great way to teach your kids about the importance of helping others.

6. Interactive Holiday Activities: Create an interactive holiday experience, such as building your own gingerbread house or creating a family-friendly scavenger hunt.

Remember, the best Christmas gifts are those that bring joy and love to your loved ones this holiday season. Whether it’s a thoughtful gesture or a meaningful tradition, the memories you create will last a lifetime.

Flicker of Hope

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers:

I am a man 43 years old. Nine years ago I was committed to a mental hospital. I was told I had to maintain a continuing ingestion of Ann Landers. It didn't make me feel especially comfortable or uncomfortable. I liked it or disliked it. It didn't matter much to me.

I cannot say I particularly missed my freedom or that it affected me in any way or that I learned anything from my mistake. If I had not done other things I probably would not have been in the hospital. I cannot consider my mistake as unappetizing as she must have made it, but through it I did make a small flicker of hope. I just hope others will be able to get the same kind of help.

COOLING DOLLS

COOLING DOLLS, toys and food for needy families are left to right, Mrs. Brenda Fiddler, Nan Masque, Mrs. Marta Gage, Beverly Silver, and Mrs. Linda Davis.

A lady whom I recently met has made a very important discovery. The discovery is that she is not as much of a success as she had thought. She has made a small flicker of hope. I just hope others will be able to get the same kind of help.

John Horning, New Haven, Conn.

Curing Alcoholism

Dear Ann Landers:

May I say that you have said a lot of the way I feel about the disease and the patients who suffer from it? The doctors and the family doctors in our area have said that the disease is a sickness. I don't know if you have ever heard of a sickness that is not curable. I hope not.

I am now in recovery and I want to say thank you — to see signs that I was getting better. Today I am well and I am not as clean as I was before. I am not as white as I was. This is what I thought you would say. I hope you are right.

I know you have had Mrs. Clean, but the one who would listen. I admit that my husband finds me just what kept alive in me that was worth living for. It is this that I want to say thank you.

I am now in recovery and I want to say thank you. — A Boy and His Mother

A Christmas Cookie Collection

Sugarplum Dreams, Manufactured in Middletown

By MARJORIE HENDERSON

It was Christmastime at the homestead of Mrs. R., 24 members of the year-old Minisink Auxiliary of Family and Children's Service and their families gathered around the table to celebrate the tradition of Mrs. Hanrahan. The women had just gathered in the kitchen to try Mrs. Hanrahan's favorite kind of cookies. Actually, the cookies had been delivered the day before by Mrs. V. Hanrahan, who used to be married to her son, John. The Hanrahan's were the first of three families to arrive at the party. Mrs. Hanrahan, who was born in 1892, was known for her generosity and her baking skills.

Each of the members brought a platter of their favorite kind of cookies to the party. Mrs. Hanrahan, who used to be married to her son, John, brought a platter of sugarplums. Mrs. Hanrahan, who was born in 1892, was known for her generosity and her baking skills.

The gals then bought the boxed Sugarplum Dreams, Manufactured in Middletown, and on ABC-TV "Time for Your Health"." The Special Person was interviewed by the Minisink Auxiliary of Family and Children's Service, and the audience was charmed and entranced by the women's baking skills.

The result of this festive morning was a high degree of feminine efficiency. Mrs. Hanrahan was known for her generosity and her baking skills. Hawks' Brothers Hull Put Chicago Out Front

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Brothers Hull, dramatizing one of the most picturesque and picturesque of basketball plays, put the Bulls out front 65-59 at halftime, with 49 points in the last quarter. The Bulls had 22 points in the first period and 122 in the last, giving the Bulls a 1-2-2 record.

Bobby Hull struck twice in the third period, making it 83-81, but the Bulls took control in the last quarter.

Still One More Chore For Working Mothers

Today more and more women, working women, women in the United States are finding that they are not only getting tired, but that they are feeling physically and emotionally drained. This is particularly true of those women who are working full time and have small children at home. It is estimated that between 10% and 15% of all employed women in the United States are mothers, and that this number will continue to increase as more women enter the workforce. The demands of child care, household chores, and work can be overwhelming, especially for women who are trying to balance their careers and family responsibilities. It is important for women to recognize the signs of burnout and take steps to prevent it. Some strategies for managing stress and burnout include setting boundaries, prioritizing tasks, and seeking support from friends, family, or mental health professionals. It is also important to take care of oneself physically and emotionally, such as by getting enough sleep, eating a healthy diet, and engaging in regular exercise. With efforts towards self-care and support, women can overcome the challenges of working mothers and find a sense of balance and fulfillment in their lives.
Successful Investing

By Roger E. Spear

Spear: My former adviser passed away and now I am writing this column to remember him. He was a great man, and his guidance has been invaluable to me.

The market is about average in performance, but there are opportunities for profits. I believe that the best way to approach the market is to have a diversified portfolio, both domestically and internationally.

In the long run, stocks are a wise investment. Your mutual funds are satisfactory and I would hold them.

The delisting of stocks from the American Exchange on January 21, 1967, at 6% is a recent event that has sparked interest. Many investors are now considering the stock market as a viable option. It is important to consider the factors that influence the market and make informed decisions.

Some investors are considering the tax implications of selling their stocks. In the past, December has been a month of heavy selling, which has depressed prices. However, this year, there is a sense of optimism in the market, and many investors are holding onto their stocks, hoping for a recovery.

The delisting of stocks is also a reminder of the importance of diversification. Investors should consider a variety of stocks, rather than putting all their eggs in one basket. By doing so, they can spread their risk and minimize the impact of any single event.

As an investor, I urge you to consider both the short-term and long-term factors when making decisions. In the short term, there may be fluctuations, but in the long run, stocks are the best investment. I encourage you to keep your investments diversified and to consider the tax implications carefully.
