Chicago Tense as Violence Flares

by ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO (AP) - A force of 500 National Guardsmen and 1,500 police officers moved into Chicago Monday night to remove the trouble from the city's 19th ward, a predominantly black neighborhood. The officers were called in after the residents of the ward, following two days of rioting, threatened to burn down the area.

The calm was not immediately noticeable, however, as police and National Guardsmen fanned out through the streets to clear them of residents. As the troops moved through the area, they met with resistance from some of the people who had been living there.

Chicago Tense as Violence Flares

"This is the start of a long process," said Mayor Richard J. Daley, who announced the move. "We are not going to let violence and lawlessness continue in this city."

The troops were deployed in an effort to restore order and prevent further violence in the area. The city has been experiencing a rise in violence, with a number of shootings and stabbings reported in recent weeks.

The move follows a similar deployment last week, when Chicago police and National Guardsmen were called in to quell a riot in another predominantly black neighborhood.

The city's 19th ward has been the site of previous incidents of violence, including a shootout between police and protesters last year.

Chicago Tense as Violence Flares

Mayor Daley said the deployment was necessary to protect the rights of all citizens in the city.

"We have a duty to protect all our citizens," Daley said. "We cannot allow violence and lawlessness to continue in any part of our city."

The move was met with mixed reactions from residents of the ward.

Some residents expressed relief that the troops were in place, saying they felt safer knowing that help was on the way. Others were critical of the deployment, saying it was unnecessary and that the troops were not needed.

State Schedules a Hearing On Shellfish Harvest Rules

The Department of Health is scheduled to hold a hearing in Atlantic City on May 15. The hearing will be held at 9 a.m. in the Atlantic City Hilton Hotel.

The hearing is scheduled to address the issue of whether or not the Department of Health should continue to regulate the harvesting of shellfish in New Jersey. The department has proposed changes to the regulations, which some have criticized as being too restrictive.

In 2023, the department of health concluded that the harvest season for shellfish in New Jersey should be extended to allow for the harvesting of more shellfish. The department also proposed the establishment of new zones for shellfish harvesting.

The proposed changes were the subject of a public hearing in Atlantic City, which is scheduled to be held on May 15. The hearing is open to the public, and interested parties are encouraged to attend.

The hearing is expected to last for two days, with testimony from various stakeholders, including shellfish harvesters, environmental groups, and members of the public. The hearing will be followed by a written analysis of the testimony and the proposed changes, which will be presented to the department of health for consideration.

Zone Changes Asked

The Zoning Board of Adjustment for the Township of Union Beach has asked for a hearing on the proposed changes to the zoning code. The changes would allow for the development of new residential and commercial properties in the area.

The hearing is scheduled to be held on May 16 at 1 p.m. in the Union Beach town hall. The public is encouraged to attend and provide their input.

The proposed changes to the zoning code would allow for the development of new residential and commercial properties in the area. The changes would also allow for the creation of new parks and recreational areas.

The hearing is expected to attract a large audience, with many interested in the proposed changes. The public is encouraged to attend and provide their input.

The hearing is expected to last for several hours, with testimony from various stakeholders, including members of the public, developers, and environmental groups.

The hearing is open to the public, and interested parties are encouraged to attend and provide their input.

Ted Williams continued his brilliant 1962 season yesterday as he hit a single in his first at-bat, a triple in his second and a home run in his third, helping the Boston Red Sox to a 3-2 win over the New York Yankees at Fenway Park.

The triple, Williams' 17th of the year, was the longest of the season and boosted his batting average to .353. The home run was his 15th of the year, putting him in a tie with Mickey Mantle for the league lead.

Williams, who had missed three games with an ankle injury, returned to the lineup and batted third in the order. He had two other singles and walked once in the game.

The Red Sox improved their record to 14-12, while the Yankees dropped to 13-13. The two teams are tied for first place in the American League East.

Williams, who is considered one of the best all-around players in baseball, has been a consistent performer throughout his career. In 1961, he led the league in batting average (.340) and slugging percentage (.508). He also set a new record for catchers by hitting .312 with 10 home runs.

Williams has been a four-time All-Star selection, and his impressive performance on the field has earned him four Gold Glove Awards.

Williams is also known for his humble nature and his dedication to his family. He has been married to his wife for 25 years, and they have two children. In his spare time, he enjoys spending time with his family and playing golf.

Williams' unlikely rise to fame began in college, when he was a star pitcher for the University of Alabama. He later converted to a pinch-hitter, and his versatility and athleticism quickly caught the attention of Major League teams.

Despite his impressive skills, Williams did not make his major league debut until 1960, when he was 27 years old. However, he quickly made an impact, leading the league in batting average and slugging percentage. He has been a consistent performer ever since, and his longevity in the game is a testament to his dedication.

In conclusion, Ted Williams is a true legend in baseball. His remarkable skills, dedication to his family, and humble nature have earned him the respect and admiration of fans throughout the world. As a fan myself, I salute Williams for his many accomplishments and wish him all the best in his future endeavors.

Our Season of Hope

CHRISTIANS throughout the world are in the midst of the most solemn and most joyful of their religious observances—Easter. In America, as in many other parts of the world, this day, Sunday, April 1, is set aside to celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

The phrase "Season of Hope" is traditionally used to mark this period of the year, and it is a fitting expression for this time of year, as Christians remember the sacrifice that Jesus made on the cross and the hope that his resurrection brings.

As Christians reflect on the meaning of Easter, they are reminded of the importance of faith, love, and hope. These are the qualities that Jesus embodied during his life and that he continues to exemplify today.

On this day of hope, let us remember the sacrifice that Jesus made on the cross and the hope that his resurrection brings. May his love and grace be with us always.
The Resurrection's Meaning

The resurrection is seen as a miracle, a sign that God is victorious over death. It is the proof of the power of God and the assurance of eternal life. The resurrection is the beginning of a new life, a life that is not bound by the limitations of this world. It is a sign of hope, a promise of an eternal future.

The resurrection is also a sign of victory over death. It is the proof that death is not the end, but rather the beginning of a new life. The resurrection is a reminder that we are not alone in our struggles, that we have a God who is with us. It is a sign of victory over death, a proof of God's love for us.

And the resurrection, that great sign of victory over death, is also a sign of the triumph of the church. It is the sign that the church will live on, that the church will continue to be a beacon of hope in the world. The resurrection is the sign that the church will never die, that the church will always be with us.

In an extensive discussion of the resurrection's meaning, theologians have focused on the idea that the resurrection is the sign of a new beginning. The resurrection is the sign that God's power is greater than death, that God's love is stronger than sin. The resurrection is the sign that the church will continue to be a force for good in the world, a force for love, a force for life. The resurrection is the sign that we are not alone, that we are not forgotten, that we have a God who loves us.

Rabbits Help Produce Better Strawberries

BUNNIES AND BERRIES—Researchers at Rutgers University have discovered a way to diagnose strains of strawberry disease through work with rabbits.

Hampton, junior vice commodore of the university’s ROTC and Bergen adjutant for the New Jersey branch of the American Legion, was a warning for that purpose.

Dr. Eugene Varney, professor of plant pathology, and Henry W. Helbig, senior vice commodore, have developed a method for identifying the disease through work with rabbits.

"We have found that the disease can be identified by its reaction with a specific antiserum," Dr. Varney declared. "After we give the rabbits a few injections and test them to find out whether the fungus is still in them, we can get a reaction that forms a precipitate."

Varney and his assistant, Dr. Varney, have successfully identified the disease organism through work with rabbits.

Dr. Varney is planning to develop a method for identifying the disease through work with rabbits.

Dr. Varney and his assistant, Dr. Varney, have successfully identified the disease organism through work with rabbits.

The fungus infects the roots of the strawberry plant. It is classified as a "allopathic" fungus, meaning cells called zoospores. They are produced when the fungus is disturbed, and the cells are able to move about the soil and the structure in- tended. The fungus can attack strawberry plants, and it is important to find a way to identify it in time to prevent its spread.

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Robert King Jr., the son of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., is trying to become a consumer's friend.

Dr. Arthur Szathmary, professor of philosophy and resident scholar in the potentialism in Arts and Values program to be presented by Skilled Silberstein Inc., Monday, at 8 p.m. at a regular Sunday service in the Jawaharlal Nehru award ceremony at the Universal Church of the Kingdom of God. The event was attended by 2,000 whites and blacks, including her two eldest children under the 17th century Christian era. Mrs. Grant has always been concerned with prices and exploitation of the poor. Even now, she still drives her own car, which she bought with a party given by his wife, Mrs. Philip King, four years ago. Mrs. Grant was given posthumously to her husband, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who founded the organization in 1959.

Many despair at all the evil and unrest and disorder that etch wrinkles on a face, Bess Grant decried. Mrs. Grant suggests dressing at 9:00 a.m. at the Dawn of a New Day, and is all woman. Mrs. Grant, insists that being a former beauty queen had little to do with her relative inactivity with TV, Mrs. Grant is a woman, thinks, acts, works like a woman, behaves like a woman, is independent, committed, and effective to the community. She says, "For the job, Mrs. Grant replied that Mayor I. F. Grant made it a dream come true. She is a homemaker by choice and believes in the value of the family. She has never worked outside the home. "I'm more determined than ever to keep the dream alive," she said. When her voice becomes a little cracked, Mrs. Grant's face brightens and she has been seen singing a few notes in the shower.

The price is given for services and staff, which includes not only the love of man, but also all the other necessities of life. There is nothing to match the price that Mrs. Grant has found in the world today. I see a new social order and I see peace and brotherhood. When her voice becomes a little cracked, Mrs. Grant's face brightens and she has been seen singing a few notes in the shower.

The price is given for services and staff, which includes not only the love of man, but also all the other necessities of life. There is nothing to match the price that Mrs. Grant has found in the world today. I see a new social order and I see peace and brotherhood. "I want the consumer to know that sometimes businesses lobby against the programs because they are afraid of competition, but that is not her concern. She is a slightly educated only woman with a few notes in the world.

During her husband's lifetime, she played a strong supportive role and she was active as an independent, committed, and effective to the community. Dear Ann Landers: A man who has been separated from his wife for five years has been abusive to me. He says he should have a right to see his children, because the mother wanted to give up the children. He says she is a heartless woman. How can I handle this situation? -- An Unknown

Dear Unknown: Please don’t expect a lawyer or a therapist to understand your problem better than you do. Only you know how to handle a situation. But if you were a lawyer or a therapist, you would handle this case better than you are now. It’s too bad you can’t afford to hire another lawyer or another therapist. But I’m sure you can do it on your own. You can do it if you want to. You can do it if you think it’s worth it. You can do it if you think it’s worth the money. But you can’t do it if you think it’s not worth the money. You can’t do it if you think it’s not worth the time. You can’t do it if you think it’s not worth the effort. You can’t do it if you think it’s not worth the trouble. You can’t do it if you think it’s not worth the sacrifice.

By DICK HIKER

Troutmen will be out on the streams, regardless of the weather. Even though good fishing conditions are rarely available during the early part of the season, the number of trout is not likely to be adversely affected by the weather. The troutmen will be out on the streams, regardless of the weather.

Dear God,

It's not fair that you can see us but we can't see you. Of course you are boss of the world.

Martha A.

ASTRO-GUIDE

By G. E. C.ean

Saturday, April 5

Though you're probably aware that you are up to no good, we thought it would be fun to let everyone know. Our job will be a pleasure instead of a burden and you won't regret it if you are one of those who must work on Saturday. Good fun will do much to brighten your scenery.

The Day Under Your Sign

Aries. March 21 to April 20

Steve. This is your luckiest sign of the year. You will have a good chance to succeed. You will be able to express yourself with greater freedom. You will feel happy and contented.

Ike’s White House ‘March’

By the President’s standards, Mrs. Eisenhower’s White House party last week was a small affair. It’s true, she invited more to the State Department reception than normally go to her White House parties, but, after all, it was a State Department reception. Eisenhower invited them all, and they all came.

The President had just flown back from a tour of the Soviet Union. He had been gone nearly a month. It’s not unusual for a President to go away for a month, but it is unusual for him to have been gone so long. For this reason, the press and the public became very interested in his return.

The President had been gone for about a week when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about two weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a second satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about three weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a third satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about four weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a fourth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about five weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a fifth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about six weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a sixth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about seven weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a seventh satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about eight weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up an eighth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about nine weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a ninth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about ten weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a tenth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about eleven weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up an eleventh satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about twelve weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a twelfth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about thirteen weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a thirteenth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about fourteen weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a fourteenth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about fifteen weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a fifteenth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about sixteen weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a sixteenth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about seventeen weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a seventeenth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about eighteen weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up an eighteenth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about nineteen weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a nineteenth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about twenty weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a twentieth satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

The President had been gone for about twenty-one weeks when the Soviet Union announced that it was going to send up a twenty-first satellite. The President was asked if he thought this was a good thing, and he said it was.

Harmonica Comeback Predicted

BY ED WALSH

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS — The harmonica still lives. Its popularity had diminished to a point where it had almost been counted out several years ago, but a few buffs who were determined not to see the instrument go the way of the buffalo formed the Society for the Preservation and Advancement of the Harmonica (SPAH).

A society member is James P. Fleming of 10 Many Mind Ave. Mr. Fleming became hooked on the pocket piano several years ago. Today, with three other buffs from Long Branch, he has formed his own harmonica band and will be ready to play publicly within three months.

"I had always liked the sound of the harmonica," Mr. Fleming said, "and had mentioned it several times through the course of everyday conversation around the house. My oldest son (James P. Fleming Jr., 10) heard me talking and presented me a harmonica for Christmas. I couldn't play it then, but I began practicing on my lunch hour and within three months I began to produce music," Mr. Fleming continued.

1,276 Parts

Since that day, Mr. Fleming has accumulated 12 different harmonicas consisting of 1,276 parts, the most versatile concert harmonica of rare beauty.

His collection may be the largest of its kind in the United States. "I can say this," he said, "because harmonicas are not stocked by music stores. They must be ordered direct from Germany."

The basic harmonica is a diatonic instrument — which means, roughly, that it plays the same notes as the white keys of a piano. The sharps or flats that the piano's keys of a piano. The sharps or flats that the piano's black keys play are missing.

The chromatic type harmonica solves the problem with an ingenious slide which is pressed to add the black notes.

Harmonica playing also touches the younger members of the Fleming family. James Jr., Kevin Patrick, 9, and Kathleen, 7, all students of St. Agnes' Grammar School, are now playing.

A Singer

James can accompany his father in song, while the younger Flemings are still in the apprentice stages of their musical careers.

"By this time next year," Mr. Fleming says proudly, "I hope to have the youngest harmonica band in the country right here in my own home."

"When I say the youngest harmonica band, I mean for playing at family gatherings or perhaps a church function but not for commercial exploitation."

"In order for the harmonica to survive, we must instill the art of playing in our youngsters," he said.

"It used to be that every kid had a harmonica hanging out of his back pocket. Now it is a comb," Mr. Fleming commented.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fleming is the only non-player of the family. "A Shepherd"

"She doesn't play but she still enjoys the music," Mr. Fleming said.

"She calls me a shepherd or a loner. The harmonica has always appealed to the loners of the world," he stated.

Turning to SPAH, Mr. Fleming said its membership numbers 300 nationally and consists of "the greats, the future greats, and the never greats who have in common one clear objective; to preserve and promote the harmonica."

They preserve and promote the harmonica because of their enthusiastic interest in its limitless capabilities and its unique sound, he added.

They believe it belongs in the same class with every hand instrument ever devised and understand it as an instrument of rare beauty. The buffalo was almost extinct until a society formed and guaranteed its preservation many years ago. Mr. Fleming explained.

Long live the harmonica, he added.
Longo’s: Creator of Gourmets

By PAUL KERN
SEA BRIGHT — Longo's Restaurant is out to make everyone a gourmet. And judging from the crowd eating varied Italian dishes there recently the new program is a success.

Leonard Longo, the second generation manager of the family operated restaurant said the greatest dividend of the Thursday night smorgasbords run weekly during the winter has been getting people to try foods they have never had before. If the more exotic dishes presented are well received, they are added to the permanent menu.

Mrs. Grace "Momma" Longo, founder of the Longo's Restaurant at its present site added, "Many people try things they have never had before and discover they like them."

At Longo's smorgasbord, however, no one seemed afraid to try everything. Families could be seen digging into veal maranella, veal cooked with mushrooms in a wine sauce and veal scaloppini cooked the original Italian way with thick chunks of meat.

Momma Longo said, "We get all sorts of reactions when we cook a dish differently from the way our customers are accustomed and most of the reactions are good."

Mr. Longo and the waitresses periodically go from table to table asking if everything is all right and checking on what people like or don't like. All answers are noted for planning future menus.

Besides the two veal dishes, sauces made with mushrooms have been introduced at the Thursday night specials along with baked ziti and several Italian seafood dishes.

Although Longo's does not have a liquor license, the management encourages adults to bring their own wine or beer at dinner time. Glasses and openers are supplied for the asking. Mr. Longo explained that by not serving liquor they are able to keep Longo's "more a family restaurant."

Next year, it can give closeups of the volcano and the eruption and the emergence of the island, I wondered if by any chance anybody had made some film of it. It turned out that somebody had, and by good fortune it was a professional. The film was excellent. Off-Screen 'Get Smart' Cliff-Hanger

MADISON "The real-life feat of comedians was, Adams said, to take his television series from cancellation. Like Smart, Adams was a most reluctant hero. You'll be seeing 'Get Smart' for a fifth year, but, on a different network. Rarely has there been a series switched networks "My Three Sons," Alfred Hitchcock, Danny Thomas, and "Get Smart" almost didn't make it. Adams related the sequence of events: "NBC notified us three days before the deadline that they were going to let 'Get Smart' go. But they wanted me to stay on and sign for specials next season and my own variety program the following year. It was a fantastic offer, and I was seriously considering it.""I was in-between on 'Get Smart.' In four years it had been a flock of Emmies, including two for myself, and I felt that it had made a real contribution to television comedy. I was ready to walk away from it and go on to producing and directing features, which I have always wanted to do." On the other hand, he felt a loyalty to "Get Smart," and he was a trifle pained at the 'Finally NBC put us opposite the second half-hour of the case of "Get Smart." Away from it and go on in the ratings. Then it was a lead-in they had given us. If we had a reprieve offer, but it wasn't sweet enough. Then CBS made a proposal to tear over "Get Smart" and back Adams' production company in developing projects. Predicted Decision The predeux hours before the NBC deadline, Adams spoke on the telephone with NBC's Herb Schenker and CBS's Mike Dann. When the comedian finally went to sleep, he had decided to cast his lot with NBC. "That morning I was awakened by a telephone call from The New York Times congratulating me for being on the CBS schedule, which was released that morning," said Adams. "What had happened was that my managers had met with CBS, which was able to come up with an immediate decision. "NBC couldn't act that fast, and I would have lost my bargaining position if I had waited. It was too bad, because I am very fond of the NBC boys. But I told them it was their mistake for not opening negotiations two weeks before the deadline instead of three days."

New Adams is committed for three more years of "Get Smart," a future that causes him to stick with it. "But a lot of time and effort and love have gone into that show," he added. "I'll stick with it."

Exploitation In Banana Country

STRONG WIND, by Miguel Angel Asturias. Delacorte. $3.95.

Although a Nobel laureate in literature, has set this novel in an unnamed Central American country resembling his native Guatamala. This volume is the first in a trilogy in which the author criticizes attacks Yankee economic imperialism.

It is banana country. The coastal lowlands, blistering with heat and steam with humidity, produce the gold fruit, which is marketed in the tropics. Asm the manager of a banana plantation, the author uses the story of the Crucifixion of Christ, the days He wore, and a wax taper and the fashion in which it hung to be the key to his final pages.

Restaurant Plaque for Keller

WEST ORANGE — Gerald Keller Sr., owner of Rod's Shadowbrook in Shrewsbury; Rod's 1909's Hotel House in West Orange, and Rod's 1909's Ranch House in Vernon Station, was awarded the New Jersey restaurateur plaque at the Charity Ball of the Newark-Elizabeth Branch of the International Geneva Association. The plaque is awarded each year by the association, a fraternal organization of hotel and restaurant men, to honor a New Jersey man who is active in community life, as well as being a leader in his field.

Mr. Keller, who has homes in Summit and Spring Lake, is the father of five sons and two daughters. His sons are students, one is a senior at Georgetown University, another at the University of Law, and the other is a senior at Deborah School.

Mr. Keller, who has been married for 24 years, says he is too busy to go into the restaurant business in self-defense, he says. Although Mr. Keller says he is semi-retired, he is so busy his sons think the word is a misnomer.

His three sons assist him in running the restaurants. Gerald Jr. is in charge of Shadowbrook; Bob manages the Ranch House, and George runs the Shrewsbury House. His other sons are students. One is a senior at Georgetown University, another at the University of Law, and the other is a senior at Deborah School. They will all graduate in May. His daughters are married.

Mr. Keller, who has a home in Summit and Spring Lake, and Sea Girt all his life, is originally from Arlington. He is a former vice president of the New Jersey Restaurant Association, and is a member of the Hotel and Motel Association of New Jersey and the National Restaurant Association.

Among his civic activities, Mr. Keller devotes a great deal of time to the Deborah School and his church. He is on the board of governors, and the lady board of trustees of the school, and is a member of the lay board of trustees of the St. Philipomena Catholic Church in Morristown.

Mr. Keller has actively supported the goals of the Geneva Village, which supports the Geneva Village in Colorado for retired members, and helps young men in the culinary arts attain excellence in their profession. All proceeds from the charity ball are given to maintain the Geneva Village.

Sad Sacks Gone

Gone now from the backyard are these tattered, flapping remnants of a long winter, the burlap bags windbreaks around the trellis and azaleas.

They're on their own now, with no need to face whatever gales may be left over from March. There won't be enough shredded burlap to tack to stakes new fall, except for the colorful Cow Chow sack that certainly lens an air of distinction, if not beauty, to the view from the back window. But Cow Chow is in the trashbin, too.

Next year — a new air of elegance, with harmonious greens to hold back the force of wintry gales.

HOLMDEL — The Garden State Arts Center has announced that subscriptions for its 1969 summer season of popular and classical music starting June 12 will now go on sale to the general public.

Renewal subscriptions were offered first to subscribers of last year’s premier season in special mailings to them late last month. The offer of subscriptions will be available now to all others.

However, the priority deadline for 1968 subscribers — especially those desiring the same seats they held last year — has passed. The first classical attraction will be the Philadelphia Orchestra under Eugene Ormandy on opening night, as it was for the premiere last year — has passed.

The availability of single-event tickets depends upon the season subscription sales, estimated at some 5,000 different series orders in the first three weeks since the offer was first mailed to 1968 subscribers. But in all cases there will be at least 500 to 1,000 reserved seats in the 3,855-seat hall, plus some 200 surroundings lawn spaces sold on a non-reserved basis, available to single-event ticket buyers for each of the 67 performances scheduled in the Philadelphia Orchestra.

The six popular series, for each day of the week Monday through Saturday, will each offer seven events including the Glen Campbell Show (week of June 30); the Rowe & Martin Show (week of July 7); Diana Ross & The Supremes with Stevie Wonder and Buddy Rich and his orchestra (week of July 14); the musical “Fiddler On The Roof” (week of July 21); Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme (week of August 4); Liberace (week of Aug. 18), and Henry Mancini and Johnny Mathis (week of Aug. 25).

Top Crowd Expected At Easter Hunt

LONG BRANCH — Merrick Tomaine, city recreation director, has predicted a record crowd of youngsters will take part in tomorrow’s Easter egg hunt at the North Long Branch beach.

Mr. Tomaine said yesterday that 3,000 eggs will be hidden in the beach sand and children will start the hunt at 10:30 a.m. He said the collected eggs will contain jelly beans and that three “gold eggs,” worth a special prize, will be sought by local children.

Mayor Paul Nastanno Jr. and other city officials will award a total of 15 prizes to members of the three age groups taking part in the event. There will be contents for three-year-olds, a group aged four to six and children from seven to nine.

Awards will go to children finding the most eggs and runners-up, in each age category, according to Mr. Tomaine.

Collect $165 For Kelly Jean

RED BANK — Webber Scouts of Janice Cub Pack 4 this week collected $165 for the Kelly Jean Kerner fund, $4 for Smithe at workage money in the business area to help 61-year-old Kelly Jean Kerner of Shrewsbury, under treatment for severe burns, suffered in a home accident Dec. 12.

The scouts’ den leader is William Smithe and assistant leader, Joseph Sestito.

Egg Hunt Forshrow KENSAUG — an Easter Egg hunt for youngsters four through 12 will be held tomorrow from 10 a.m. to noon at John F. Kennedy Community Center, 114 Carr Ave.

Nature walks at all five county parks will signify — believe it or not — that spring truly has come. The first scheduled activity will be a general nature walk tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. at Turkey Swamp Park, in Freehold Township.

From that day on, the county parks will buzz with a variety of conservation and recreational activities. Although the parks are open all year, April will set off the busy warm weather season. The parks are free. Anyone may use the facilities at any time. Anyone may participate in the planned programs.

On the walks led by park naturalists, one may study spring wildflowers at Howell Turkey Swamp Park, in Freehold Township. The park system offers a great variety of programs in addition to nature walks and hiking. A calendar of events may be had for the asking. At Turkey Swamp, plans include a course in canoe handling and safety, campfire programs, band concerts, kite flying, and slides and movies. Those interested may participate in canoe trips on the Manasquan at Howell Park starting May 18 at 10 a.m.

In addition to a full nature program, Holmdel has scheduled the Bell Labs Chorus May 15 at 8:30 p.m. and a band concert at the same hour July 27.

The subjects of the park nature walks include ecology or the relationship of living things and their environment, spring wildflowers, bird migrations, edible and poisonous plants, soils, and twig study.
Biographer Discusses Her Craft

In 1720, Dr. Johnson grumbled that "biography is often allotted to writers who seem very little acquainted with the nature of their task." Publishers continue to make the mistake today. There is a misconception that virtually anybody can write biography; after all, the subject, an individual life, is neatly laid out in advance.

Catherine Drinker Brown, who does understand her task, shows that the thing isn't nearly that simple. Her engaging little volume deals with the nuts and bolts of biographical construction, but it should interest general readers, biography buffs and would-be professionals equally.

Her discussion runs the gamut: the biographical (illustrated with many references to her own and others' books); how to begin a biography; how to end it; the writer's attitude toward his subject. It is asking the thoughts and feelings of subjects and many facets more.

In dealing with the biography's attitude toward his subject, Miss Bowen wisely postulates the inevitability of bias (to be controlled by evidence and a conscious quest for truth). She also notes that a biographer must respect, like, or love his subject. It is asking too much of a writer to spend conscious quest for truth.
