For Nixon—a Thorough Look at Vietnam Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon called in his national security advisor, Henry Kissinger, and Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and other top officials to hold a high-level meeting at the White House today with his aides to discuss his new Vietnam policy.

The meeting, which was called several days ago, was said to be the first full session of national security officials since the start of the Nixon administration.

The meeting comes as the U.S. military buildup in South Vietnam continues to grow.

Black Leader Scores Officials

REDDING—Mayor Fred J. Olivero's statement supporting the city's new police chief has been criticized by civil rights leaders, who say the mayor was too quick to make a decision.

Mr. Olivero, 48, a former police officer, was named chief of the Redding Police Department last week. The move has been praised by some, but others say it shows a lack of understanding of the issues.

The mayor's statement was met with criticism from civil rights groups, who say the mayor was too quick to make a decision.

Peace Move—U.S. Halts Bomb Raids

WASHINGTON—The U.S. Air Force announced that it would suspend all bombing operations in Vietnam for 24 hours, beginning at midday today, to allow for talks with North Vietnam.

By CAROLE MARTIN

The announcement came as U.S. officials were preparing to begin diplomatic talks aimed at ending the war.

Cahill Offers Program to Stem Erosion

ATLANTIC CITY — William T. Cahill, Republican candidate for governor, said that removing eroded beaches is the major erosion problem the state faces. "The issue is too big for any one town or city," Mr. Cahill threatened to each town if he becomes governor. His 10-point program designed to stop the shore line erosion problem was outlined at the Jersey Shore Preservation Association here.

"Every parish of the state, in every section of the state, from the Delaware River to the state line to the south, has a beach erosion problem," Mr. Cahill declared. His beach proposal, presently before the legislature is aimed at setting up a state beach commission to look at the state's present beach conditions and overall New Jersey law as it relates to the state's erosion problem.

Mr. Cahill stated that his proposal offered a program of 10 points which would be handicapped if the state desertated the shore line.

Cahill said that his Point First Program would: Preserve Velma W. Smith Beach in Cape May, the northernmost beach in the state, and set up a beach research and development program for the entire state. "If Velma Beach is not preserved," he continued, "no one will believe that the state is serious about an erosion program."

"The state is not only talking to eroded areas in Atlantic City but to the entire state. In addition to Velma Beach," Mr. Cahill continued, "we have to allow the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to work in cooperation with the state and do the work it has to do.

"We are putting our program to work," Mr. Cahill declared. "We will have a plan that will take care of the whole state, the entire state will be covered."

The 10 points of Mr. Cahill's program are:

1. A new state utility commission for the sole purpose of removing shore line damage.
2. A state beach board to be set up.
3. A state beach commission to be set up.
4. A state beach research program.
5. A state beach research and development program.
6. A state beach research and development program.
7. A state beach research and development program.
8. A state beach research and development program.
9. A state beach research and development program.
10. A state beach research and development program.

"These points will provide a new state beach program for the state and the nation," Mr. Cahill concluded.

The Weather

Floods and mudslides have affected New Jersey in the past, and history shows that these events can happen again. The recent floods in the Springfield and Camden areas were caused by heavy rains and snowmelts. The floods and mudslides have caused widespread damage, including the destruction of homes and buildings. The heavy rains and snowmelts have also caused the Rivers to rise, leading to flooding in the area.

Candidates, Vehicle Inspections

Regardless of the outcome of the gubernatorial election in November, New Jersey students should not relax their vigilance in respect to the state’s motor vehicle inspections. The people employed by the state to perform the inspections cannot be trusted, New Jersey Assembly Speaker Peter J. Kostelnik III said.

Regulation, William T. Cahill, the Republican candidate for the governor’s seat, has expressed displeasure about the inspection system, and Kostelnik promised, if elected, to effect a major overhaul of the system.

The idea behind the inspection dates in the 1960s was that it helped to promote safety on the highways. But in recent years, the inspections have been a major source of conflict for the state and the American Association of Automotive Repairmen. The former is known to be considering offering member discounts for residents who purchase a vehicle inspection certificate and paying $10 to $12,000 a year as head of a foundation.

Regulation, a resolution caustically censuring Sena.

in the promotion of highway safety. Governor’s approval ratings have soared and, in the process, the methods must be devised that would not be amenable to motorists.

The Holmdel Board of Education now has the flexibility to implement a high school program which has been a long time coming. The board's decision to go ahead with a $14 million school plan in 1969 was a step in the right direction, but it was not enough. The new school, which will be built on the site of the former high school on Liddle Road, will cost approximately $18 million, but it is a small price to pay for a better education for our children.

GREAT MILESTONE

The construction of the new school is just the first step in a series of improvements that will be made to our educational system. We have already made significant progress in recent years, but we still have a long way to go. The new school will provide a much-needed boost to our educational system, and it will be a major milestone in our efforts to improve education in Holmdel.

QUALITY FACTOR

The new school will provide a better education for our children, and it will also benefit the community as a whole. The new school will be a symbol of our commitment to the future of Holmdel, and it will be a source of pride for generations to come. The new school will be a place where our children can learn, grow, and be successful. It will be a place where they can reach their full potential.

The new school will be built to the highest standards of safety and security. It will be a place where our children can learn in a safe and secure environment. The new school will be equipped with state-of-the-art technology, and it will be a place where our children can learn in a modern and dynamic environment.

The construction of the new school is a key part of our efforts to improve education in Holmdel. We are committed to providing the best possible education for our children, and we are confident that the new school will be a major step in that direction. The new school will be a symbol of our commitment to the future of Holmdel, and it will be a source of pride for generations to come.
WASHINGTON (AP) — Hovering in their unaccustomed first place position, the New York Mets yesterday didn’t do anything to show that at least one New York Met wasn’t above showing some of the old form yesterday. Jones flubs a fly ball off the bat of Montreal Expos’ pitcher Jerry Robertson that allowed a run to score in the third inning. Action didn’t deter Mets, however, who went on to a 4-0 victory. School's Fire Safety Aired

By the Board in Colts Neck

COLTS NECK — "Fire" has the best of intentions, but it can be both dangerous and deadly. Some 700 students in the fifth grade at Middletown High School, and their teachers, were shown the results of a fire department production on fire safety and fire prevention during a special assemblies period on Friday.

PUPILS learned that fires are caused by carelessness, by carelessness of children, or by disregard of safety regulations.

It's a good idea to have two smoke detectors, one on each floor of the home. The high-temperature detector can warn that smoke is present, and the smoke detector can warn that smoke is spreading through the ducts. It's a good idea to have two fire extinguishers, one in each kitchen and one in each living room. The fire extinguisher should be charged and should be tested regularly.

Families should have a family escape plan, and should know where the nearest fire station is.

The fire is not a problem that can be solved by one person or one family alone. Everyone must participate in fire preven-

FREEHOLD — As in the past, the Monmouth County park system will help local schools that want to develop environmental education programs, James J. Truncer, director of county parks and recreation, has announced.

The system will again provide a five-point program of opportunities for environmental study and awareness. School districts in the county may use these services and facilities as they see fit. They are:

1. Outdoor classrooms and laboratories—the park lands and natural areas are available without cost for environmental studies and field work. Sites have been classified for observation, measurement or collection for use by students under the direction of the classroom teacher.

2. Park naturalists are available for guided nature walks for teachers who want to use field observation to enforce classroom concepts. The walks are oriented to the needs of the class and suggestions of the teacher.

3. Park naturalists will present classroom programs on request. Topics include Monmouth County Indians, conservation, outdoor recreation, animals, and other subjects related to environmental awareness.

The naturalist may use artifacts, specimens, color slides, or films to illustrate the subject to the class.

4. Park naturalists are also available as resource persons to conduct workshops, aid in planning programs, and act as curriculum advisers. This is also a free service.

5. The visitors’ center at the Thompson Park in Lincroft is also available. Groups may observe displays of Indian artifacts, native fish, terrariums, unakon, local fossils, and preserved plant specimens. There are also chalkboards, visual aid equipment and classroom seating space available for class use. Special programs may be presented here upon request.

Any county school may take advantage of park facilities and programs by telephoning or writing to the county park offices in Freehold.

New York City Opera Opens

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — While the Metropolitan Opera was dark, its union contracts still being negotiated and its season opening postponed at least a month, next door in Lincoln Center the New York City Opera opened its 18-week season with Verdi’s Rigoletto.

Wednesday night’s wasn’t an ideal “Rigoletto,” but more than serviceable. Louis Quilico, as Rigoletto, was all that one would ask, acting the part with naturalness and conviction and singing with a warm, full, resonant baritone.

Patricia Brooks was a slim, pretty Gilda. She can sing all the high notes but perhaps doesn’t shape them correctly since some of the time the tone is very close to a gargle. Michele Molese, the duke, usually had an unfortunate sound of inhibition and constriction in his otherwise good tenor voice.

Gabor Otvos conducted, always able to breathe new life and interest into the operas he stages at the New York City Opera. In “Rigoletto,” he works best with a canvas roof and a nearby sailboat flapping in the stormy Medditerrean, for some reason, is fighting off the duke’s advances instead of leading him on, so the action is more runabout than usual.
1969-70 Television Season Will Start Sunday

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1969-70 television season will start officially Sunday when NBC broadcasts the first episode of two of its six new programs — "The Bill Cosby Show" and "The Bold Ones" — and have season premieres of returning programs.

CBS, whose own premier week starts eight weeks earlier, Sept. 22, will present two special programs Sunday night. Under the network's new policy of encouraging previewing, both specials were shown to the press in advance: "Archie and His Pals," and "Make Room for Grandaddy," a reunion of Danny Thomas and immediate of his old "Make Room for Daddy" cast.

"Archie and His Pals" is a half-hour cartoon program which undoubtedly fares better in its normal environment —CBS Saturday morning lineup — of children's entertainment.

On Primitive Side

The animation and humor are on the primitive side. The story line is of dubious moral interest with one candidate a bad guy and the other a dim-wit. The dim-wit won.

The Danny Thomas special includes a bit of everything — comedy, music, sentiment, nostalgia and corn.

Danny Thomas plays a nightclub entertainer: and now his son is about to become a father. The series is based on the experience of expected parent Judy Carne (Danny when she was four, has blossomed into a cute teen-ager.

Griffith to Return

CBS has announced that Griffith, which quit television a year ago to pursue a motion picture career, will be back in September with Danny when she was four, has blossomed into a cute teen-ager.

Clown Club Is Formed

ASBURY PARK — The recently formed Shore Clown Club gives its first benefit performance Aug. 29 at the Elks crippled children fund.

Performing were Mr. Francke (Frankie the Clown) and Raymond Flowers (Flopo the Clown), both of Eaton-town; Al and June Pacitti, a father and daughter team of Little Silver; and Allen Elia- sen of Red Bank.

At the regular club meeting Wednesday night in Ea-tontown Borough Hall, face makeup was discussed.

Those interested in clowning are invited to call Mr. Francke, who lives on Cypresses Drive, Easton-town.

Mums at Rutgers

Now they're about ready to bloom. It won't be any big, massive display, but it will be a pretty good demonstration of how hardy mums have improved. The last year Rutgers horticulturists grew them.

'Qty Cary Grant Week'

Set on Channel 9

NEW YORK — New York 9 will televise a special tribute to Cary Grant during "Cary Grant Week" on "Midnight Movie," beginning Monday, Sept. 15, through Friday, Sept. 19.

Each night from 9:30 to 11, viewers will travel along with Cary Grant as he portrays a suspected murderer, a gambler, a drifter and a playboy.

Guest stars are Keenan Wynn, Sal Mineo, Sharon Farrel, Michael Anderson Jr., Norman Fell and Buss Tumby.

'The Name of the Game'

Searches for Killer

NEW YORK — Don Farrel, (series star Robert Stack) investigation of corruption in the music business turns into a search for a killer in "A Hard Case of the Blues," the season's second drama on the NBC Television Network's "The Name of the Game" colorcast Friday, Sept. 19, from 8:30 to 10 p.m.

Guest stars are Keenan Wynn, Sal Mineo, Sharon Farrel, Michael Anderson, Jr. Norman Fell and Buss Tumby.

Mums are back at Rutgers. If you were there during the annual flower-vegetable open house in July, you probably knew the chrysanthemums were the stars of the garden of annual flowers.

Now they're about ready to bloom. It won't be any big, massive display, but it will be a pretty good demonstration of how hardy mums have improved since 1957, the last year Rutgers horticulturists grew them.

Allogetto during the blooming period starting about this weekend, there will be about 25 varieties.

The earliest is Ruby Mound. Then there are the pinks, browns, yellows, and whites — all well adapted to our climate and almost with built-in rules about spraying for leaf spot disease and minor pests and aphids.

Mums are pretty handy at this time to fill vacant spaces in the flower border. You can buy containers of them already in bloom and plant them to enjoy in the garden and to cut to take into the house.

If you come to see the Rutgers mum display and perhaps some other annual flowers and vegetables, you might be a pretty good demonstration of how hardy mums have improved since 1957, the last year Rutgers horticulturists grew them.
For Nixon—a Thorough Look at Vietnam Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon called in his top diplomatic and military aides today for a final briefing as he prepared to order the resumption of B-52 bombing raids across South Vietnam.

The meeting, which lasted several hours, did not produce any concrete decisions, a White House official said. Nixon was expected to order the raids as long as 36 hours, the official said.

It is a gesture of de-escalation, a political move," one official said.

The South Vietnamese government, which released its report last night after a midnight news conference in Washington, said one of its major demands—a halt in the U.S. Air Force's fighter-bomber raids—had been met in principle. The same had been the case with the request for the resumption of a peace conference with the North Vietnamese.

In Saigon, sources pointed to a new U.S. peace effort, and today in a peace overture to the United States, Nixon said he was willing to talk with the North Vietnamese at any time and place he might have with known South Vietnamese officials.

There was no indication that theIndochina talks would be in any way linked to the meeting in the pipeline. The talks were reported to be at an advanced stage.

Cahill Offers Program to Stem Erosion

ATLANTIC CITY — Walter T. Cahill, Republican candidate for governor, called yesterday for a four-point program to stem coastal erosion. "The threat of erosion to New Jersey's coastline is real," he said. "We cannot ignore the problem, only the Democrats, Richard T. J. program needed to save our shore line," he said. "It is a crisis that must be met now, but that too often the elected leaders have ignored or neglected.

Cahill said that he was not opposing the Democratic candidate, Nelson A. Walker, but was offering his own program to supplement the Democratic one. "The state needs a comprehensive plan," he said. "The Democrats have failed to provide one."

Cahill's program includes:

1. A $100 million bond issue for erosion control projects.
2. The establishment of a state agency to coordinate all erosion control efforts.
3. A $10 million grant program for coastal communities to develop their own erosion plans.
4. A five-year federal-state cooperative program to study coastal erosion.

Cahill promised that his program would be "swift and effective" and that it would be "fully funded and implemented." He also said that he would work with the New Jersey legislature to pass his program.

The Democratic candidate, Walker, declined to comment on Cahill's program, saying that he would "not engage in a political debate with Cahill." Walker said that he had been working on an erosion control program since he was elected governor in 1973 and that he had already allocated funds for erosion control projects.

Cahill's program was praised by environmentalists and conservationists, who said that it was "an important step in the right direction." But it was criticized by some politicians, who said that it was "too little too late."
