Howard Urschel Keanseburg
Youths to Work for the Vote

Wall, NJ - Howard Urschel, D-N.J., who is running for the U.S. Senate, has launched a get-out-the-vote campaign aimed at winning the support of the 18- and 19-year-old voters who will go to the polls for the first time in November.

Urschel, who was born in Keanseburg in 1940, said he was motivated to run for the Senate because he believes the younger generation has a vital role to play in shaping the future of the country.

"I am running for the Senate to ensure that the voices of the young are heard in Washington," Urschel said.

The campaign will include a series of rallies and meet-and-greet events, as well as a series of voter registration drives. The goal is to register as many young voters as possible in order to increase turnout and ensure that their voices are heard at the polls.

Urschel's campaign also plans to work with local organizations and community leaders to promote the importance of voting and encourage young people to get involved in the political process.

The campaign will focus on issues that are important to young people, such as education, employment, and healthcare. Urschel will also work to ensure that young people have a say in the decisions that affect their lives.

"Young people have a lot to offer, but they often don't have a voice," Urschel said. "I want to change that, and I want to make sure that the voices of the young are heard in Washington."
WASHINGTON — The armed services apparently are shifting their attention away from the President’s moves to reduce the size of the draft, with Navy Secretary John B. Connally, Army and Air Force Secretaries have been heard to say they have no specific plans.

This marks a surprise to some Pentagon watchers who had anticipated an increase in the rate of terminations for a variety of reasons, including a new administration, a new Congress and the possibility that the shore of the Vietnam war has been reached.

The chief law that has come under a sustained attack in recent weeks is the draft, which is intended to provide the armed forces with a pool of manpower at a time when the fighting in Vietnam is at its peak.

The debate has centered around the assignment of any new draft law, which would have to be approved by Congress.

The draft law has been under constant assault since the early days of the war, with some critics saying it is too lenient and others commenting that it is too severe.

The new administration has not yet announced any plans to change the draft law, but some officials have suggested that a new law could be introduced in the near future.

The new administration has also been taking a closer look at the possibility of reducing the size of the armed forces, which currently stands at about 2.5 million.

Some officials have suggested that a reduction of 500,000 to 1 million could be achieved through a combination of increased enlistments and a reduction in the number of officers.

Meanwhile, the administration is also considering the possibility of increasing the size of the armed forces, which has been relatively stable for the past few years.

The debate over the size of the armed forces has been complicated by the fact that the war in Vietnam is not yet over, and there is no clear indication of when it will end.

Area Church Lists 20% Sales Hike

FAIRHILL, Md. (The Washington Post) - The area's sales of data processing and computer science products have increased by 20 percent during the fiscal year ending June 30, compared to the previous year. The increase is due to the growing demand for computer services and products.

The area's leading computer service company, Computer Sciences Inc., reported a 20 percent increase in sales for the fiscal year ending June 30, compared to the previous year. The company's president, Robert Pearson, said the increase was due to the growing demand for computer services and products.

In a report of financial and operating results submitted by the company, Mr. Pearson said, "We are pleased to report that our sales have increased by 20 percent during the fiscal year ending June 30, compared to the previous year. This increase is due to the growing demand for computer services and products." The company's profits also increased by 20 percent during the fiscal year ending June 30.

When he was governor, in the 1950's, Mr. Robert Meyer had promised to work with the Port Authority to help interested in the mass transit problems of New Jersey's commuters. And it hasn't. Instead the Port Authority is free to spend your toll money on things like New York's World Trade Center, while New Jersey commuters spend hours each day trying to get there. Who was officially reported to be Robert Meyer's largest single financial contributor in the Democratic gubernatorial primary? James C. Kellogg III, Chairman of the Assembly. When Mr. Kellogg, the state's third most powerful politician in 1960, died of a heart attack on November 4th, 1960, he left a legacy of almost $1 million in unspent campaign funds. Bill Cahill has promised that if he's elected governor, he will veto any new Port Authority plans until it takes an interest in New Jersey's commuters. And he did. When Mr. Kellogg, the state's third most powerful politician in 1960, died of a heart attack on November 4th, 1960, he left a legacy of almost $1 million in unspent campaign funds.
Voting Age Should Be 18

One of the public questions on the Nov. 4 ballot will decide whether or not New Jerseyans between the ages of 18 and 20 will be allowed to vote in future elections. We hope the votes on this question would be overheard by the polls.

To that end, for those above 21, the "yes" vote on this question is paramount. In the opinion of the people above 21, the state's population above 21 favors an increase in the voting age and the clean water bond issue. He has been particularly promiscuous in his support of the "yes" vote on this question.

The Media: Our media are busy broadcasting the views of the public. They are busy casting their own facts, such as those of the people above 21, to the polls.

The Public: We urge "yes" votes on this question. We urge "yes" votes on this question. We urge "yes" votes on this question. We urge "yes" votes on this question. We urge "yes" votes on this question. We urge "yes" votes on this question. We urge "yes" votes on this question. We urge "yes" votes on this question.

We agree with him on that, and we urge those who are against him to vote for the "yes" vote on this question.

The program for the New Jersey School Age Drug Abuse prevention education program is currently being conducted in public and private schools across the state. The program is designed to educate children about the dangers of drug abuse and to provide them with the skills and knowledge they need to resist peer pressure and make healthy choices. The program is delivered by trained educators who are knowledgeable about the latest research on drug use and abuse prevention. The curriculum includes lessons on drug facts, refusal skills, and healthy coping strategies. The program is offered to students in grades K-12 and is available in both English and Spanish. The program also includes a comprehensive evaluation component to assess the effectiveness of the intervention. Overall, the program is an important tool in the fight against drug abuse and helps to promote a healthy and drug-free environment for all children.

start the program in Marlboro State Hospital and then in other centers.

The committee's goal is to educate people about addiction and to provide support for those who suffer from addiction.

The committee hopes to raise awareness about the issue and to help people understand the impact of addiction on individuals and communities.

In addition, the committee will work with local government agencies and healthcare providers to develop strategies for addressing addiction issues.

The committee is comprised of members from various backgrounds, including addiction specialists, mental health professionals,
and community leaders.

Together, they will work to create a more understanding and supportive environment for those affected by addiction.

The committee's efforts will contribute to the greater goal of preventing and reducing the impact of addiction on individuals and communities.

Middletown Assures Project Residents on Septic Tests

Eye Watkins for New Borough Post

FREEHOLD — After some confusion as to whether the appointment is still valid, Mayor John Malloy, a Democrat, yesterday announced that the Democratic minority had voted against foisting on the taxpayers, Mayor O'Hern's appointment of a health officer when the post is not a salaried one. "I'm against it," the mayor said. "I believe the public is entitled to health services, but I am not in favor of making it a salaried post that we have to cover back in two weeks and by Municipal Court order."

Mayor O'Hern, in his address, one in the college's lecture series.

COUNTY FAIRE

Vantage Points and Rave Notices

By BARBARA SMITH RENNER

The first fair was last year, but now the spectators – both those actually present and those watching from afar – are ready to return to the best-fair camping spot of pre-Glitterpetal. Now, however, the setting, the events, and the mood have changed. Instead of the belle of beauty, the world is the belle of the ball.

There are no primping and parading, no strutting and talking down to the dirties. Instead, there is a quiet confidence in the knowledge that the fair is here, and that it will continue. The mood is one of acceptance and support, a willingness to let things happen without interference.

The fair is a celebration of life, a recognition of the fact that life is not all that perfect or that there are no mistakes. It is a reminder that we must learn to live with our mistakes and that we must learn to accept them.

The fair is a celebration of the human spirit, a recognition of the fact that we are all human and that we all have the potential to be great. It is a reminder that we must learn to be true to ourselves and that we must learn to be proud of who we are.

The fair is a celebration of the future, a recognition of the fact that we must not lose sight of our goals and that we must work hard to achieve them. It is a reminder that we must learn to be patient and that we must learn to be persistent.

The fair is a celebration of the present, a recognition of the fact that we must not take things for granted and that we must learn to appreciate what we have. It is a reminder that we must learn to be grateful and that we must learn to be thankful.

The fair is a celebration of the past, a recognition of the fact that we must not forget our history and that we must learn to honor our ancestors. It is a reminder that we must learn to respect our elders and that we must learn to be proud of our heritage.

Successful Investing

by ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — Your company is an established and successful business which has been in operation for many years and is profitable. You have made a successful entrance into new markets and have diversified your product line. You have a strong management team and a stable customer base. Your stock is trading at $50 per share, and you are considering investing in your stock. Should you do so?

A — Yes, you should consider investing in your company's stock. There are several reasons why investing in your company's stock is a good idea:

1. Your company is experiencing growth and expansion. This indicates that the company is healthy and has a good future outlook.
2. Your company has a strong management team. A well-managed company is more likely to succeed and provide good returns for its shareholders.
3. Your company has a stable customer base. A consistent customer base is a good sign that the company is well-established and has a good reputation.
4. Your company has a strong financial position. This indicates that the company is financially sound and is likely to continue to be profitable in the future.

In summary, investing in your company's stock is a good idea because your company is experiencing growth, has a strong management team, has a stable customer base, and has a strong financial position.
DeBartolis Would Revise Long Branch Zoning Code

Long Branch — Samuel DeBartolis, a candidate in the upcoming City Council races, has proposed to revise the existing zoning code, which he feels needs updating.

Mr. DeBartolis said that the current code, he feels is antiquated, should be revised to meet the needs of today's society.

He feels that the code should be changed to allow for more modern developments in the city, making it more conducive to the needs of today.

LITTLE SILVER — Assistant Prosecutor E. Untermeyer, a native of Little Silver, has been appointed as the new chief prosecutor for the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office. He is the former prosecutor for the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office.

Mr. Untermeyer, a native of Little Silver, has been with the office for over 20 years and has served in various capacities, including as chief deputy prosecutor.

He takes over the position from Richard Ansell, who was appointed as the acting chief prosecutor earlier this year.

Mr. Untermeyer said that he is looking forward to the new challenge and that he will work hard to ensure that the office continues to provide excellent legal representation.

He added that he is committed to upholding the values of justice and fairness, and that he will strive to ensure that the office operates in a manner that is transparent and accountable.

Motorist Jailed in Default of $50 Fine

HOLMDEL — A motorist was sentenced to five months in jail for failing to pay a $50 fine for disregarding a stop sign.

The motorist, a resident of Holmdel, was convicted of failing to pay the fine in June and was ordered to report to the court on Aug. 1.

He failed to appear and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

The judge sentenced him to five months in jail for failing to pay the fine.

He was also ordered to pay $50 in fines and costs.

The motorist has been released on his own recognizance and must appear in court on Sept. 1.

Lowered Voting Age Draws Apology

The decision to lower the voting age from 21 to 18 was met with much criticism and controversy, with many people questioning the wisdom of such a move.

Some argued that 18-year-olds were not mature enough to make informed decisions, while others believed that it was a step towards a more democratic society.

However, supporters of the new law argued that it was a way of ensuring that all voices were heard in the political process.

The debate over the issue continues, with both sides presenting compelling arguments.

Balanced Knicks Gain Fifth Straight Win

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York (AP) — The defending NBA champion New York Knicks continued their balanced scoring machine Monday night in a 110-101 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers in Los Angeles, the first time in the NBA this season the Lakers have lost their first two games.

The Knicks, with Walt Frazier leading them, set a new franchise record with 29 points in a game, and it was fourth in a row.

Frazier, who had 23 points, including 13 in the fourth quarter, was named the game's MVP. He also had five assists and three steals.

"We needed a win," said Knicks head coach John Calipari. "We needed to get back to our roots and play our game. We needed a win.""The team was down 12 in the fourth quarter, but Frazier hit two key 3-pointers to pull the Knicks within 2 points. Later, he hit a driving layup to take the lead.

"Walt has been great for us," said guard Jim Paxson, who added 14 points and 5 assists. "He's been our leader on both ends of the court.""In other NBA action, the Milwaukee Bucks defeated the Atlanta Hawks 107-99, and the Atlanta Hawks defeated the Boston Celtics 105-98.

In baseball, the New York Mets won their first game of the season, beating the Chicago Cubs 7-2. Mets star Pete Rose hit a two-run home run in the ninth inning.

"It's been a long time since we've won," said Mets manager Bobby Valentine. "We've been working hard all season, and we're ready to start off on the right foot.

In football, the Dallas Cowboys defeated the New England Patriots 30-13.

"We were just too much for them," said Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach. "Our defense played great, and our offense moved the ball well.

In other sports, the New York Rangers defeated the Montreal Canadiens 3-2 in overtime in Montreal.

"We were just too much for them," said Rangers goalie Mike Richard. "Our defense played great, and our offense moved the ball well.

And in tennis, the men's doubles final was won by Switzerland's Stan Wawrinka and Marco Chiudinelli over Argentina's Juan Martin del Potro and Leonardo Mayer 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

"We were just too much for them," said Wawrinka. "Our defense played great, and our offense moved the ball well.

Primary Video Show Action May Be Broader This Season

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

Video-writers have often created their own "video" classical music pieces. They've written stories and music videos which have raised questions about what constitutes "video art." The New York Times recently ran an article discussing the genre with "video" writer Richard Seger. The article stated that video-writers have not yet found their own identity, but are continuing to explore new forms of expression.

In addition to video art, some video-writers have also been experimenting with "video" literature. In his book "Video Literature," Richard Seger writes that the "video" writer is a new breed of artist who combines elements of film, television, and literature to create a unique form of expression.

Van Gogh's Namesake Nephew Shows Off Master's Works

By ROBERT THOMAS

The late Vincent Van Gogh, known for his expressive works, is now being represented by his namesake nephew, Vincent Van Gogh. The nephew has been showcasing his masterpieces, including still lifes, landscapes, and portraits, in a series of exhibitions across the country.

Van Gogh's work is notable for its use of bold colors and brushstrokes, as well as its attention to detail. His paintings often focus on the beauty of nature, as well as the struggles of human existence.

Several of his most famous works include "The Starry Night," "The potato Eaters," and "The Night Café." His works have gained popularity in recent years, with new exhibitions and retrospectives being held in museums around the world.

The nephew's exhibition is expected to continue for several more months, with additional locations and dates to be announced shortly.

Welcome to Marlboro Country!

James Garner — Gayle Hunnicut — "Marlboro"

Tales of the great Western era of American history, some of which are true stories, are told through the eyes of the Marlboro Man. George Sanders, Dan Blocker, and Warren Oates are starred in this series from Ron Howard. The Marlboro Men represent the American dream of rugged individualism and a man's ability to stand alone in the face of hardship. The series was created by John Carpenter, who also directed several episodes. With its mix of drama and history, _Marlboro_ became a popular show and is still remembered fondly by those who watched it. Sycamore Lanes 10th Anniversary Celebration
