WASHINGTON (AP) — The 3.6 million people who draw Social Security benefits were learning Wednesday about a 61.5 increase to $64 million, the largest boost in three years. Experts were expecting an increase around 3 percent for the second year in a row.

The exact figure logged on the Consumer Price Index for September, which was released today by the Labor Department, Social Security, the Commerce Department, is 3.5 percent and no higher than 3.4 percent.

The average retired worker, who now draws $111.5 a month from Social Security, was likely to wind up with about $118 increase to $64 billion. The retirement allowance for this year at $65, now $67 billion, was likely to go up to $65 to $68 billion.

These figures could be a dollar or two lower or higher, depending on the aftermath of the inflation,

Punishing the reckless

With the wrong person behind the wheel, the family car can become a lethal weapon. Legislation3 clearing by a state Senate committee this week would make it easier to prosecute those whose reckless driving causes fatal accidents or accidents in which someone is seriously injured.

Under current law, a person whose reckless driving results in killing someone faces a minimum sentence of 10 years in prison and maximum sentence of 16 months. Under the proposed legislation, such reckless drivers could be sentenced to five years in jail, and the minimum sentence would be doubled to 10 years.

The legislation also would establish a new category of reckless driving offenses, "asualty by auto." That offense, "assault by auto." That offense, which includes reckless driving that results in death or serious injury, would be punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

The legislation, which was released by the Senate Judiciary Committee, was hailed by the state County Prosecutors Association.

New Jersey has been tightening its traffic laws and cracking down on bad drivers. The move to increase the penalties for those whose reckless driving results in a death or serious injury is consistent with action the Legislature has taken to make the state's drunk driving laws the most stringent in the nation. The Senate, which now will consider the bill, had considered it in the past.

In approving the bill, the Judiciary Committee rejected the request of Mothers Against Drunk Driving, which sought an amendment to make the death/fatality law apply to any driver who causes a fatal accident while under the influence of alcohol or other drugs. We would not want to see the bill held up because of a dispute over that amendment. But we think the idea should be pursued, and we hope it will be taken up for future consideration.

The legislation also would increase the penalties for reckless driving offenses, "asualty by auto." That offense, which includes reckless driving that results in death or serious injury, would be punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

Administration grows impatient with South Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, growing increasingly impatient with South Africa's continued repression of blacks could seek "internal and international costs."

The administration has been pressuring South Africa's new government, led by President F.W. de Klerk, to respect human rights and to make significant reforms. The U.S. has imposed sanctions on South Africa, including an arms embargo and a travel ban on South African leaders. The administration has also urged other countries to follow suit.

South Africa's government has been under pressure to make progress on racial reconciliation and democracy. The issue of apartheid has been a source of conflict between the U.S. and South Africa, with the U.S. seeking to isolate the country and South Africa blaming the sanctions for its economic problems.

President Reagan spoke about the issue in a televised address to the nation, stating that "the United States has been clear about its expectations for the new government," and that "the administration will continue to work with South Africa to achieve a peaceful, democratic, and just society." The administration has also been calling for a "human rights first" approach to the situation.

The U.S. has been working with the South African government to find a resolution to the situation, and has been engaging in high-level diplomatic talks to try to persuade the government to make progress.

The administration has been working closely with Congress on the issue, and has been relying on the support of Congress in its efforts to isolate South Africa.

The administration has also been working with other countries in the region to try to bring pressure to bear on South Africa. The administration has been calling on other countries to follow the U.S.'s lead in imposing sanctions on South Africa, and has been working with other countries in the region to try to find a solution to the situation.

The administration has also been working with the South African government on a number of specific issues, including the issue of West Bank settlements. The administration has been calling on the South African government to freeze the expansion of settlements, and to resume negotiations with the Palestinians on the issue.

The administration has also been working on a number of other issues, including the issue of apartheid in South Africa, and the issue of the conflict in the Middle East.
Marketing of X-cars defended

WASHINGTON (AP) — A General Motors Corp. vice president testified yesterday that he would have gone straight to the top if President William J. Clinton had asked for the automaker's new 1M0 X-cars.

"I had thought there was a safety problem, I'd tell him," GM's Charles Brady told a federal judge "I could tell Estes there was a problem and he'd move immediately." A problem and he'd move immediately.

General Motors Corp. vice president Brady testified in U.S. District Court as part of GM's defense against government charges that the automaker marketed the cars against government charges that the company knew their rear brakes were unsafe and could cause the autos to spin out of control during braking.

Panel eyes new gym, pool and track at R-FH

By TERENCE THOMAS
RUMSON — A committee of residents and school officials last night watchedor approved major improvements to Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High School, including up-grading of science lab, renovation of all track and field and construction of a gymnasium-swimming pool complex on the school campus.

Although the recommendations did not include the $2 million price tag for the proposed projects, the committee approved the board's plan to go forward with the projects, as long as the board fulfills its promise to the taxpayers and residents and students.
The board has agreed to hire consultants to recommend ways to renovate and make improvements.

Cases rested in murder trial

FREEHOLD — The woman's attorney doesn't remember the trial itself. Joseph Taylor and his "dead" brother-in-law were on the witness stand by the time the defendant went to prison. It was one of the most pitched legal battles in Monmouth County history.

Mr. Babbish was a former employee and has a right to know what was being charged against him, his attorney continues.

"Additionally, the board does not have jurisdiction to dismiss, according to the low division of the Superior Court." Babbish alleged the board failed to provide him with a "fair trial" under the"law of the same kind" when it was called to a special meeting for the purpose of dismissing him.

Snag hits city's plans

BY LIE SHEERMAN

LONG BRANCH — The city's proposed reservoir project is in a snag last night when the City Council voted 4-1 to put the plan on hold because of contamination of Ocean Avenue.

In a meeting earlier in the day, the council discussed the need for a new sewage treatment plant in the Long Branch area and voted 7-1 to adopt a resolution for the development of a sewage treatment plant.

Last night, after the meeting, the council voted 4-1 to put the plan on hold due to the presence of contamination on Ocean Avenue.

The council will resume discussion on the matter next month.

Nuclear effects debated

BY ALAN BRESSE

An estimated 1,000 New Jerseyans are already suffering from the effects of nuclear accidents, according to a recent study. However, even a small percentage of the population is at risk.

"We are threatening as a society to our health, our safety, and our very way of life," said John Drullw, M.D., Emilia Eras, M.D., and John Drullw, M.D. in a recent statement. "Our communities, our cities, our health systems, and our environment are all at risk.

Drullw said that the nuclear weapons in the United States and around the world are a major threat to public health and safety.

"The nuclear threat is real, and it is growing," Drullw said. "We must act now to address this threat before it is too late.

The study, which was funded by the New Jersey State Physicians' Association, found that the number of New Jerseyans suffering from the effects of nuclear accidents is growing.

The study found that approximately 1,000 New Jerseyans are already suffering from the effects of nuclear accidents, including radiation, nuclear fallout, and other nuclear-related illnesses.

"These effects are not limited to those who have been directly exposed," said Drullw. "The effects can be felt by anyone in the area of a nuclear accident.

The study also found that the effects of nuclear accidents can last for decades, and in some cases, even generations.

"It is crucial that we take action now to address the nuclear threat," said Drullw. "We must work together to ensure that our communities are safe and healthy.

The study made several recommendations, including the need for increased public awareness, the need for improved nuclear safety regulations, and the need for increased funding for research into the effects of nuclear accidents.

"We must do everything in our power to prevent nuclear accidents and to ensure the safety of our communities," said Drullw. "We cannot afford to ignore the nuclear threat any longer.

The committee, consisting of four members of the planning board and one member of the public, decided to delay action on the proposal.

In a letter to developers of the $150 million "Riverwalk" project, the planning board requested that the proposal be resubmitted in a revised form that addresses the concerns raised by residents.

"We are asking for fair distribution of the money," said Byrne. "But we want to see that the community benefits from the project." The committee is concerned about the impact of the project on the surrounding neighborhood, particularly the potential for increased noise, traffic, and congestion.

B members have been the subject of much speculation, and they are often the focus of intense debate. The military's role in the conflict has been a central issue, with many questions remaining about the true nature of the conflict. Some members have been accused of using excessive force, while others have been praised for their restraint. The situation remains tense, and it is uncertain what the future holds for the members of the conflict.

KULICK — For the second year, needy families in the Freehold area can apply for Thanksgiving food.

Volunteers at the New Hope Center for Food Action, Center and First streets, are busy gathering turkeys and trimmings to fill baskets for distribution to needy families.

Reverend Robert D. Richardson, pastor of the New Hope Church, and program director for the center, said: "The New Hope Center is the only organization in Freehold that has a Thanksgiving program this year for those in need." Many programs are run by the church on a Monday through Friday, a free lunch for the elderly, and a free food pantry on a Tuesday, to help those in need through the end of the month. The New Hope Center's mission is to help the community.

"We are pleased with the early response to the drive," said Wal. "We are about 80 percent of our goal. This is great, but we still need to get out there and get more people involved." The Major Gift Committee listed in its first achievement is to raise $100,000. We are pleased that we have already surpassed our goal of $100,000.

The funds raised in the campaign will be used to continue the work of the existing Food Pantry.

Cable company representative listens to council complaints

By KEVIN FRECHETTE

A representative of the TTK Cable Company listen- ed to council complaints at last night's meeting of Township Council mem- bers.

According to Paul Meegan, area supervisor for the company, the decision to convert from the Monmouth Road system was made by the company and is not a response to the "adversarial" environment of the township. Mr. Meegan said that the council was given the opportunity to review the system and to come up with their own cable company. Mr. Meegan said that he would be willing to come back and talk to the council again in the future.

Mayor Walter Farley said that he felt the council was not being given the opportunity to discuss the issue in a timely manner. He said that he felt the council was being asked to make a decision without being given enough time to consider the issue.

Mr. Meegan said that he would be willing to come back to the council in the future to discuss the issue again. He said that he would be willing to come back to the council in the future to discuss the issue again.

Needy families to get food for Thanksgiving

By Jan Marie Werblin

For a second year, needy families in the Freehold area will receive free food for Thanksgiving.

Volunteers at New Hope Center for Food Action, Freehold and Freehold, are again gathering donations and transporting to 119 baskets for distribution the week before Thanksgiving.

Reverend Robert R. Richardson of New Hope Lutheran Church and program director for the center, said many families have requested food for the holidays and its Ladies Auxiliary and UGunda Agudath, Church, and program director for the center, have donated money and food for the baskets.

Several programs are run by the center throughout the year. Each Monday through Friday, a free lunch is provided for those in need. The emergency pantry also supplies food to families on welfare and food stamps.

Names of needy families are added to the list in several ways. Richardson said the center calls from families requesting new families registering for welfare, and the police department, and area ministers will call and give references. Some of the people come off the street.

SEA BRIGHT — The Planning Board last night voted unanimously in favor of two separate applications involving the Tradewinds Townhouse and the Riverclub Condominiums.

Martin Smith, owner of the Tradewinds Townhouse, presented an amendment of a site plan for the Tradewinds Townhouse, which includes the removal of a five-yard setback from 30 feet to 10 feet and the relocation of a swimming pool, which will be replaced by landscaping.

Peter Bass, attorney for Tradewinds Inc., conceded to the relocation of the swimming pool after resident Walter Fieldfelt appealed to the board that the pool should be moved away from the tracks. "It diverts the attention of the driver with the baby in the buggy...and that weight...he said.

In the second vote, the board approved the modifications of a site plan it had previously granted for road construction adjacent to the Riverclub Condominiums.

Frank Kane, vice-president of First Jersey National Bank, which owns the condominiums, was delighted when the board revised the plan to consider four feet of base under the two-inch top, instead of six inches of base.

"I was advised that six inches of base is unnecessary, and exceeds normal town standards by two inches," Kane said. He said the original plan should have been scrapped and should have been returned to the architectural and planning stages.

"But I think generally the board was listening to the residents and acted in the best interests of the community," Kane concluded.

LENK SAID. "We'd like to cut it down to where a person can reach the mainstream money. We're trying to get a fair amount of money for the new teachers in the district."

The salary guide has been frozen over the last two contracts. Lenk also pointed out that under the current arrangement, "if you had reached pay, it is reflected 14 years of experience." Teachers reached the tentative agreement following a four-hour session which began last Thursday and ended early Friday. The proposed pact would raise 14 percent salary increase per year.

Approximately 80 teachers attended the session at the high school and were prepared to stop in there in support of their negotiating team's efforts to reach a settlement.

The board postponed the vote until Thursday. However, the historic district area be subject to design controls and with several other Spyco proposals.

Professor says Americans hurt now by arms buildup

BY ALAN SIPRESS

WEST LONG BRANCH — Americans are already suffering from being part of a society based on nuclear weapons, said a lawyer who is set to be a judge.

No political leader should assume that there are strongly felt disarmament sentiments among the electorate, Peter J. Carton, the township attorney, said yesterday.

"This is a very serious issue," Mr. Carton said. "An adequate law to deal with the proliferation of nuclear weapons even if a nuclear arms race is not going to begin."

Mr. Carton, who is a partner in the law firm of Lipman, Block, Block and Black, said that people have been asking him whether he would run for political office.

"We have already died in significant numbers," he said. "Our society has already passed the point where the nuclear arms race is not going to begin again."

Mr. Carton said that the law must be able to provide some protection for citizens. He said that he has been working on the problem for some time.

Democrats hit GOP freeholders on environment

OCEAN—Monmouth County Freeholder candidates John Villaguz and Richard V. Kelly say their opponent's track record on environmental issues is "not-exceptionally poor."

"Like most of their Republican counterparts at all levels of government," said Mr. Villaguz, "they seem to keep watching the countryside disappear around them." And Mr. Kelly, noting his seat on the Environmental Board, added, "This is an example of an opponent's indifference."

Gov. Brendan Byrneorange is the environmental council's "most important" freeholder, the council said in a statement. "This is probably why we need a board of freeholders that is sensitive to the needs of the county."

Mr. Villaguz and Mr. Kelly also accused Democratic Freeholders John D. Amico Jr. and Harry Larrison of "budgeting sleight of hand by the Democratic majority on the Freeholders Board."

"Last year, the Democrats hired Robert J. Collins as county administrator," Mr. Larrison said. "Mr. Collins, who previously worked for and left the same company, was rehired by the Democratic majority on the Freeholders Board."

The Democratic candidates agreed that county government is frequently at the mercy of the state and the federal government in regard to environmental issues, and that a new way of doing business is necessary. In addition, other 1984 models include a 1984 Ford LTD for M. Acker, a 1984 Ford LTD for Eugene Melody, a 1984 Ford LTD for John J. Collins, county administrator.

"It's sad to say that correcting most environmental problems is a costly process," said Mr. Villaguz. "But the county relies on outside funding for these purposes, and that is probably why we need a board of freeholders that is sensitive to the needs of the county."

The county is the state's major source of revenue, and it is competing for a limited amount of federal funds. The Democratic candidates, however, say that a new approach is necessary.

The economic trend, between 1969 and 1980, employment in high technology industries grew 47 per cent nationally, but only 4 per cent in New Jersey. All of these facts are alarming and indicate we are falling far behind in high technology achievement," he said.

If vote approval is given, he pointed out the state will be able to provide funding for the following projects:

First, a $14 million network of science technology centers at the state’s public and private institutions of higher education. The centers would include resources of all state and local science management and industrial research. The costs of $13 million, in areas of space economic development, such as polymer processing, materials handling, surface modification and telecommunication.

Third, the construction and operation of undergraduate technical and engineering facilities and equipment, and for job training programs. The money, $8 million, would be appropriated equally between county colleges, private and four-year institutions.

Fourth, capital construction totaling $13 million. Of that, $1 million would be allocated for engineering and computer design centers and $12 million for technical education and training in the state. The Rutgers Board of Governors resolution cites New Jersey’s reputation as the “entrepreneurial state,” adding that the state “boasts more scientists and engineers per capita than any other state.”

Financial advisor can ease debtor's burden.

Dear Ann Landers: This is for "Bills eaten up and the money invested, it's their home that's miserable." My husband and I moved into a home seven years ago. We are not able to pay the monthly payments. Our former creditors have been helpful. They set up a budget for us, took ever the bills. We were in the same spot aad willing to cooperate. Our credit was canceled and a blot was put on us.

Calcium supplements hinder osteoporosis

BY LESLIE L. COLEMAN, M.D.

One of the first facts I see in one of our local papers is, "Three-quarters of all women take some form of calcium supplement due to fear of osteoporosis."

Once I look into this, it becomes obvious that even in the early 1980s, the possibility that osteoporosis might become a major public health problem for women in the United States was being realistically assessed.

Osteoporosis is the most common form of arthritis. It has many symptoms: systemic and local, and it is diagnosed only after extensive tests. Blood calcium and X-ray examinations.

Nature downwards deposits of calcium almost as a protective device.

On the other hand, osteoporosis is the particular condition which calcium supplements do not affect. It is the result of low levels of estrogen in the face of bone and joint arthritis. The Institute of Reconstructive Surgery at the University of New York and City and the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research were doing the most remarkable and consistent work. All parts of the face and skull can be repaired surgically in many different conditions. Specialists in this field of re-constructive surgery function in the most demanding andest settings. All parts of the face and skull can be repaired surgically in many different conditions. The entire job is here in the care of this newspaper.

Dear Martin: Can you imagine being invited by an entire community to celebrate my birthday? The event was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the supermarket under whose roof the celebration took place. It was a big event, full of surprises and good cheer. Everyone was very welcoming and it was truly a great experience for me.

We also received several gifts and cards, which I appreciate very much. The atmosphere was festive and everyone seemed to be enjoying themselves.

Thank you for your kind words and for organizing such a wonderful event. It was truly a memorable birthday for me.

Medley of meat loaves

SLIM GOURMET

Today we feature a medley of marvelous meat loaves for the school lunchbox or the commuter’s lunchtime meal. Lean, flavorful and free of preservatives, these homemade “cold cut” have generally 70 to 80 minutes, until a thermometer inserted in the center reads 175° for well-done beef, veal and turkey; or 180° for pork. Follow general directions. Makes 8 dinner servings, 240 calories each; or 18 sandwich servings, 120 calories each. Serve hot or cold.

ITALIAN MEAT LOAF
1 lb fat-trimmed beef round, ground
1/2 Ib each: lean, fat-trimmed veal and pork, ground
2 teaspoons garlic salt
1/2 cup unprocessed bran
1/2 teaspoon each: thyme, sage, fennel seeds
1/2 cup tomato juice

FOOD, FABULOUS FOOD — Lois Levy of Eatontown, right, a chairman of Anastasia's, Inc., regional division, of the Children's Psychiatric Center (CPC) of Monmouth County, is adding to the festivities this season by offering new food items, beginning Nov. 4. Loose leaf teas and imported coffees are being emphasized to attract the busy and discriminating shopper. The Boutique — featuring 38 shops this season in an expanded East/West Gallery area — is chairwoman of Mrs. Frances J. D'Oro, Red Bank. The Boutique, which opens with a champagne reception on Nov. 4, will feature 35 shops for a shopping spree.

Some of the efforts to benefit CPC's High Point facility in Eatontown have all the attractive, complex flavors that one finds in a bottle of bubbly Sunday, Nov. 4.

The Trebbiano exhibited a light, straw-yellow color with a captivating, subdued, fruity nose. On the palate, it had a light-to-medium body, and a pleasant softness in the mouth with a crisp, surprising sweetness. The Sangiovese had a medium-red-purple color and a subdued, subtle aroma. On the palate it had a lighter body, a fruity bouquet, and a short, pleasant sourness in the mouth.

The Tetra Pak that was the "raison d'être" for the project is the tube-shaped, formable aluminum foil package specifically designed for wine. Paper gives the package a touch of light and elegance, and polymers make the package liquid-proof without affect- ing the quality and character of the wines, including their high-quality labels. The Tetra Pak is neutral and imparts no taste to the wine. I found no reason to doubt the material or taste of the wine.

The Tetra Pak appears to be the ideal solution to the problem of how to drink at wine places that permit both food and wine. Because it is a base, portable, it can be bought on a beach, picnic or on a boat can cause difficulties. This Tetra Pak would be a perfect alternative. For a lunch or dinner at a one-liter, it is exactly the current systems, it is probably the best of the lot. I am making a trip to a beach, package would amount to a weight of one-liter bottle containing the same wine, with potentially much less. No cost, it is lighter, including the ability to be poured without opening a bottle of package.

New Zealand meal features stuffed lamb

BY TOM HOGUE

I had never eaten a New Zealand meal features stuffed lamb, but a recent visit to one of the nation’s most renowned dining establishments, the St. James, confirmed my expectations that this dish is truly a treat.

The St. James is located in the heart of Auckland, New Zealand’s largest city. The restaurant is known for its fine dining, with a menu that includes traditional New Zealand dishes as well as international cuisine.

I began my meal with the New Zealand Lamb Loin Starter. The dish was beautifully presented on a white plate, with the lamb adorned with a garnish of fresh herbs and a slice of lemon. The meat was juicy and tender, and the flavors were well-balanced. I was particularly impressed with the attention to detail in the presentation of the dish.

For my main course, I ordered the New Zealand Lamb Loin, served with a selection of vegetables, including steamed broccoli, carrots, and potatoes. The meat was cooked to perfection, with a crispy crust and a succulent interior. The vegetables were cooked al dente, and the flavors complemented each other perfectly.

To round out the meal, I chose the New Zealand Lamb Loin Dessert. The dessert was a beautiful presentation of a classic New Zealand dish, served with a selection of fruits and a scoop of vanilla ice cream. The flavors were light and refreshing, and the dessert was a perfect conclusion to the meal.

Overall, my experience at the St. James was excellent. The service was attentive and friendly, and the attention to detail in the presentation of the dishes was impressive. I highly recommend this restaurant to anyone visiting Auckland, or anyone who appreciates fine dining.

Exxon Corp., the world's largest oil company, reported it earned $1.335 billion in the third quarter of its fiscal year, a 4.1 percent increase from the comparable period of a year ago. The earnings translated into $1.70 a share, for the planned use of 819.1 million shares outstanding.

The reports reflected the unsettled oil market conditions, which produced a 1.3 percent increase in the oil business and moves by leading oil companies to change their strategies. Exxon, based in New York, said it would pursue a relatively lower tax rate than its earnings.

The departures of Kenon Wilson from the New York Giants, Tony Dorsett of the Dallas Cowboys and John Matuszak of the Green Bay Packers all but ensure there will be a significant change in the face of the NFL this season.

Wilson, who has played for the Giants the past two years, was signed as a free agent by the Dallas Cowboys. Matuszak was released by the Giants and signed with the Packers, and Dorsett was traded to the Packers by the Cowboys.

The NFL has a total of 10 players who have been released or traded already this season. The number of players released by the NFL this season is expected to be about 15.

In other developments, the Houston Oilers have announced the signing of linebacker Ray Burris. The Oilers also have signed quarterback Mike Phipps and running back Mike Alaimo.

The Oilers have a total of 16 players on their roster who have been released or traded this season. The number of players released by the NFL this season is expected to be about 15.

Lions and Bravos: Much is at stake

The Detroit Lions and the Baltimore Orioles are two of the most storied franchises in American sports, each with a rich history and a loyal fan base. But for the Lions and the Orioles, the 2023 season is shaping up to be one of the most challenging in recent memory.

For the Lions, who have struggled for years to get back to the playoffs, the 2023 season will be a test of their ability to make the necessary adjustments to compete in the tough NFC North division. The team’s roster is filled with young, talented players who have the potential to make an impact, but they will need to learn how to play together as a unit.

On the other hand, the Orioles have been a model of consistency over the years, with a top-tier coaching staff and a deep pool of talent on their roster. However, the team has struggled with injuries and poor pitching in recent seasons, which has put them in a position where they need to make some tough decisions about their future.

The Lions and the Orioles will face each other in a crucial game early in the season, which will be a test of their ability to come together as a team and make the necessary adjustments to succeed.

Cards’ Sutter files for free agency

By the Associated Press

The St. Louis Cardinals have announced that players Matt Sutter and Tim Leger have been placed on the 40-man roster.

Sutter, a 32-year-old left-handed pitcher who has been with the Cardinals since 2017, has a career record of 11-10 with a 4.00 earned run average. He has appeared in 82 games for the Cardinals, starting 36 and making 48 relief appearances.

Leger, a 27-year-old right-handed pitcher, has a career record of 5-3 with a 3.50 earned run average. He has appeared in 37 games for the Cardinals, starting 12 and making 25 relief appearances.

The Cardinals have decided to keep both Sutter and Leger on the roster for the upcoming season.

Keyport fans aren’t as good as the team

By Ken Dempsy

The Keyport basketball team has been hot this season, and the fans have been showing their support. But are they really as good as the team?

In a recent game against a tough opponent, the fans were seen cheering and yelling for their team, but were they really making a positive impact on the game?

Some team members believe the fans are doing a great job, while others think they could be doing more.

One team member said, “The fans are really getting into the game, but sometimes they get a little too loud. We just wish they could tone it down a bit.”

But another team member added, “The fans are really getting into the game, and it’s really helping us win.”

For now, the team members are happy with the support they are receiving, but they hope the fans can continue to show their support throughout the rest of the season.

By Alfred Beirikos

North's response of two diamonds to East's hand, played in the 1934 Bridge Olympics, was a classic example of the need for correct bidding and passing. North, priding a strong hand and taking full advantage of a major suit of one heart, bid two diamonds. Smith had to bid three hearts if he wanted to enter the suit. West couldn't identify Smith's long suit. Declarer therefore took his three spades and then another heart, putting East to the game. After much vain thought East threw a second diamond in the hope that Smith was long in clubs rather than in diamonds. Murray then took a fourth diamond and took the trick.

Durable goods orders down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Orders to manufacturers for long-lasting durable goods plunged 6 percent in October, the Federal Reserve said yesterday, marking the third straight month of decline.

The orders, which represent about one-fifth of gross national product, dropped 4.5 percent in October, following a 1.3 percent decline in September and a 5.4 percent drop in August. The decline was attributed to a slowdown in the motor vehicle industry, which accounts for about 20 percent of total orders.

Some private economists took the figures at face value and said they reflected the current economic slowdown. The government administration blamed the slowdown on weather-related factors, including a record-breaking ice storm in the South and a strike by auto workers.

The Federal Reserve Board reported that factory orders — a good indication of economic activity — were up 6.4 percent in September and 7.4 percent in August. This was the highest level since 1984 in September and 1985 in August.

"The economy is slowing down, but it's not going to happen this month," said Federal Reserve Board chairwoman Janet Yellen. "We have some more to go, but it's not going to happen this month.
