

CAVALRYMEN WIN GLORY.

RED BANK TROOPERS MAKE GREAT SHOWING IN MANEUVERS.

They Overcame the Enemy in Two Sham Battles and Showed Such Hardihood and Good Marching Order That They Won the Praise of Military Experts—High Tribute Paid to the Troop.

Red Bank cavalry troop got back Saturday from Lake Wawayunda, after spending a week in army maneuvers. Thinned by exposure to the sun and fagged out by a strenuous week of horseback riding and long hikes, the troopers returned home happy in the knowledge that they had made the finest showing of any of the military organizations in the maneuvers. Military experts said that the record made by the Red Bank cavalry entitles it to a place among the foremost volunteer military organizations in the country.

The troop left Red Bank Saturday a week ago. The troopers were mustered in at the armory on Monmouth street and a big crowd gathered to see them off. With the troopers was an army wagon which looked like a

CAPT. V. R. STOUT.

"prairie schooner" of the early days of the West. This wagon was pulled by two husky mules. Fifty-eight troopers made the trip. They took with them 21 horses owned by troopers and 27 hired horses.

The cavalrymen pitched camp at Pompton Lake, New Jersey. Part of the trip was made on the Erie railroad and the train lived up to the road's reputation for slowness. There was also a delay of five hours on account of a wreck. The troop spent Sunday at Pompton Lake and on Monday went to Lake Wawayunda, a picturesque body of water 1,400 feet above the sea, in the foothills of the Catskill mountains. The country is rocky and rough and is thinly populated and the nearest settlement is New Milville, nine miles away.

About 200 cavalrymen were encamped at Lake Wawayunda, those besides the Red Bank being the Newark troops. These three troops made a squadron, which was in charge of Major Bryant of Newark. In addition to the troopers there was a hospital corps, and also the officers of the Maryland squadron, Lieutenant Bell of the regular army and a number of military experts.

The first maneuvers took place on Tuesday and the Red Bank troop came off with flying colors. The task imposed on the troop was that of going to New Milville and obtaining supplies for an imaginary army. Capt. V. R. Stout arranged the tactics of the foraging party. The two Newark troops undertook to prevent the Red Bankers from getting the provisions. Troop B made the trip to and from New Milville without being met by the enemy. An old disused mountain trail was used by the Red Bank troop, and the army train was well guarded. Scouts rode miles ahead and behind and on each side of the main force to give warning of the approach of the enemy. The two Newark troops hunted all day for the Red Bankers without finding them. Part of the road taken by the Red Bank troopers was so rough and rocky that the riders had to dismount and lead their horses. Major Bryant and a United States army man praised the Red Bank troopers for their strategy and for their hardihood and good marching order.

On Wednesday Troop C of Newark undertook to accomplish the task which the Red Bankers had performed the day before. The Red Bankers and Troop A of Newark were instructed to locate the foraging party. Troop A got lost in a woods and didn't find its way back to camp till late in the day. The Red Bank troop surprised the enemy and won a victory without the assistance of their allies. In this sham battle First Lieutenant Joseph Swannell and Second Lieutenant John J. Many were in command of the Red Bank troop. Both men have held their present positions only a short time and the experts said the victory of the troop was all the more remarkable on this account. First Sergeant Edgar Knight is another new official of the troop whose worth brought praise from the experts.

Most of Thursday was given up to a long march, during which the soldiers were not allowed to sit down and eat but had to munch their food while riding their horses. Later in the day there were athletic contests in which members of the Red Bank troop won most of the events. Benjamin L. Atwater, the new bugler of the troop, acted as representative of the Red Bank organization in arranging these events.

John H. White won a swimming race of 100 yards and a tub race. Walter Boskey outdistanced his Newark opponents in a rowboat race. His victory was notable because he defeated a former college champion rower. In a relay swimming race of 400 yards the Red Bank team, consisting of John H. White, Harvey Bloodgood, George Hogan and George Lovenside, was second. Harvey Bloodgood represented the Red Bankers in a half-mile swimming race, but his exertions in the relay race had tired him out and he had to quit before the contest was finished. He made a game attempt to keep on and his pluckiness was cheered by the spectators. The Newark Bankers challenged the Newark troops to a horse race, but the Newarkers declined to accept. That night the three troops gave a grand show for Major Bryant. In this as well as in the military and athletic events the Red Bankers took the leading part. The major was so pleased by the singing of Harry Boskey, Cecil Ledard and George Lovenside, that he asked them to repeat one of the songs.

On Friday the cavalrymen broke camp and went to Pompton Plains. Major Bryant offered a prize of $5 in gold to the first troop in line for march. The work of preparing for the march consisted of harnessing and saddling the horses, loading the wagons, taking down and packing the tents and clearing up the grounds. The Red Bankers won this prize. At Pompton Plains the pitching of the tents was delayed about an hour by a heavy thunder storm. The Red Bank troop was publicly praised by Major Bryant and Lieutenant Bell that night. No comment was made by the major or the army man on the work of the other two troops.

Officers of the Newark organizations congratulated the Red Bankers on their team work and enthusiasm. Capt. Stout, in responding for the troop, said that the Red Bankers' good showing was largely due to the fact that most of them lead outdoor lives. Many of them are farmers' sons and are used to horseback riding and hard work. Their everyday tasks have made them tough and wiry.

There was a big contrast between the Red Bank troop and the two Newark organizations. More wealth is said to be represented in the two Newark troops than in any other two volunteer military organizations in the United States. In a camp the Newarkers referred to the Red Bank organization as the "farmers' troop" and there has always been a good deal of rivalry between the Red Bank and Newark cavalrymen.

When the troopers got back to Red Bank on Saturday they disbanded in front of the armory. The horses owned by troopers were taken back to their quarters at Eatontown, where they will be kept till the new armory is completed in November. At that time it is expected that enough additional horses will be bought to supply each cavalryman without having recourse to a doctor's services while on the trip.

D. J. Harvey was kicked on the leg by a horse and was laid up a few days. Harry N. Suffer suffered from an outbreak of boils, but in spite of this he kept his place in the ranks. On account of the fine showing made by the troop all those who took part in the maneuvers have been excused from drill service till the new armory is built.

"AL" PARKER OWNS THE CROPS.

Unusual Suit Tried Monday at Red Bank to Decide Right of Property. A short time ago Dr. Lester H. Stryker of Shrewsbury avenue secured judgment of $65 against J. Edward Parker of Shrewsbury avenue for rent. Mr. Parker did not pay the sum and Dr. Stryker had a levy made on crops on the ground in the center of the old race track, near Shrewsbury avenue. B. Allen Parker claimed the crops belonged to him and not to J. Edward Parker. B. Allen Parker called a jury Monday before Justice Edward W. Wade to try the right of property. Mr. Parker was represented by William L. Edwards of Long Branch. Dr. Stryker acted as his own lawyer.

The jury was composed of Elias Hubbard, Charles and William Stiles, James Bray, Jr., John Connors and Henry Billings. The witnesses were the two Parkers, Tunis Worthley, Albert L. McQueen and "Al" Parker's son, Osborn. The testimony of both Mr. Parkers showed that "Al" owned the crops and that he hired Edward Parker to work for him. The jury decided that all the crops belonged to B. Allen Parker.

CHIEF EASILY MAKES AN ARREST.

Captures Man While Eating Dinner for Peddling Without License.

Schembri Gioacchino of New York was arrested at Red Bank last week by Chief Wymbs at the chief's house on Hudson avenue for peddling Irish linen without a license. Gioacchino said he came from Long Branch and said he didn't know he had to have a license. Red Bank merchants made several complaints to the chief that the peddler was going around, and Gioacchino went to the chief's house while the chief was at dinner. The chief made the peddler sit down until he finished his dinner and then placed him under arrest. Gioacchino pleaded guilty. He had about fifty yards of the linen with him and was trying to sell it for 12½ cents a yard. The wholesale price of the linen is 38 cents a yard. Recorder Badeau fined Gioacchino $5. The peddler could not pay the fine and his linen was taken as security.

BURGLAR AT RED BANK.

Horse Owned by Long Branch Man Ran Through Monmouth and Broad Streets.

A horse owned by Harry Layton, proprietor of a Long Branch livery stable, and attached to a one-seated carriage, got scared at a train at the Red Bank railroad station Friday. The boy who was driving the horse was in Ketcham's livery stable getting a pail of water for the horse. The horse ran through Monmouth street to Broad street, where the carriage collided with a farm wagon near Canal street. Two boys were thrown in the farm wagon and the horse was scratched and injured. The horse broke away from the carriage when it collided with the farm wagon and was caught further down the street. The front wheels of the carriage were bent, the shafts were broken and the harness on the horse was damaged.

REACHED HOME AT LAST.

RED BANK GIRL HAD HARD TIME TO GET OUT OF EUROPE.

Miss Beulah Manning of Red Bank and Her Uncle and Aunt of Trenton Went to Europe July 18th, and Were There When War Broke Out.

Miss Beulah Manning, daughter of Mrs. Louis Y. Manning of Maple avenue, returned home last week from a European trip with her uncle and aunt, Judge and Mrs. Thomas W. Trenchard of Trenton. The party was at Berlin when war was declared and the night before the declaration of war was made the streets were filled with enormous crowds of enthusiastic people. National anthems were sung at the cafes.

The party went from Berlin to Belgium, and when the train reached the frontier all passengers had to get out of the train and walk a mile to a train for Brussels. The passengers were escorted across the frontier by soldiers. At every town preparations for war were going on and soldiers were marching through the streets. Cooks and waiters at hotels had quit their jobs to join the army. Horses, wagons and automobiles had been requisitioned by the government for war purposes and baggage was moved in small handcars. The Trenchards left two trunks of clothes at Berlin because the train they took would not carry baggage, and they have no hope of recovering the trunks.

The party went to Ostend and from there took a boat to Dover, England. The boat was overloaded with passengers, and on the trip the boat was held up by an English cruiser until it established its identity. Passage to the United States was difficult, owing to the fact that the government had taken over most of the steamships for war purposes. The party went to Edinburgh and Glasgow without getting a passage, and they finally went to Liverpool, where they sailed on the Virginian for Montreal. They reached Montreal last week and immediately started for home by train.

The party had started on their European trip July 18th, and went direct to Hamburg. A week after they landed war was declared and after that all their efforts were bent on getting home. They traveled over the country where battles are now being fought. American money and travelers' checks had to be changed for gold at a high rate of discount, and gold had to be paid for everything bought. The party met Mr. and Mrs. Roger Farquhar and Verena Farquhar at London. They had been in Europe since July 4th and they expected to sail for home last week.

Landings were made at Island Beach and on the beach at Spermaceti cove. Plenty of eatables and drinkables were provided, and the boys dug a bushel of soft clams which were steamed and added to the bill of fare. The boys ran races on the beach, did athletic stunts, and spent considerable time swimming. In the afternoon a trip was made down the river to the point of Sandy Hook.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Mrs. Minerva Becker, wife of Joseph Becker of Mechanic street, was arrested Thursday on a charge of assault and battery. The complaint was made by Mrs. Elizabeth Fraze of Mechanic street, a neighbor of Mrs. Becker's. Mrs. Fraze said she went into Becker's store and she and Mrs. Becker had an argument over a grocery bill. Mrs. Fraze claims Mrs. Becker hit her with her hand in the face and throat. Mrs. Becker waived a hearing Thursday night before Justice Badeau and was held in $200 bail for the action of the grand jury. Bail was furnished by Mr. Becker.

After Mrs. Becker had been arrested Mr. Becker brought a civil suit before Justice Badeau against Mrs. Fraze to recover $29, the amount of the grocery bill. Mrs. Mary Wooster Sutton, the county's attorney, is Mrs. Fraze's attorney, and she had this suit settled before it was tried Monday afternoon.

BURGLARS IN BAKERY.

SAFE BLOWN OPEN IN CHILDS OF PRICE ON WEST STREET.

Bags of Flour Were Used to Deaden the Noise of the Explosion—Inner Door of Safe Jammed by Explosion and Burglars Fall to Get Any Money.

Burglars entered the office of Childs bakery at the corner of West and Wall streets early Sunday morning and blew the front door of the safe after drilling a hole in the door of the safe with a ratchet brace. The inner door of the safe became wedged by the explosion and the burglars were unable to get inside the safe. The noise of the explosion was deadened with sacks of flour. The intruders evidently were scared away after blowing the safe open, as they did not take anything. Only $5 or $8 was in the safe.

Chief Arthur L. Wymbs walked past the building about ten minutes before the safe was blown open, but he saw nothing wrong. He believes entrance was secured by opening the hall door on the West street side of the building with a key. The burglars left the brace and five bits behind them.

SCHOOL WILL COST $1,990.

Marlboro Men Got Contract for New Building at Crawford's Corner.

The ground stands was donated by an ancestor of Miss Crawford with the provision, however, that the land should revert to the estate in case it was ever used for any other than school purposes. The new building will be on the land which was donated, and the present school building will be sold.

A DAY OF EXCITEMENT.

ENGLISH TOWN VISITORS HAVE UNUSUAL EXPERIENCES.

John Trautman Dives In Gravel Bed and His Wife Tears Her Skirt in Two at Seaside. Cap the Close. Mr. Trautman Cuts a Dug's Tail Off.

Mr. and Mrs. John Trautman of Asbury Park, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Howe of Yonkers had an exciting day Monday of last week. Mr. Trautman is a son of William Trautman of Englishtown and the party was visiting at Englishtown. Monday of last week Mr. Trautman and his friends went to Asbury Park. Their unusual experiences began soon after arriving at the seaside. Mr. Trautman struck a bed of gravel while diving in the surf and badly lacerated his arm and shoulder. Shortly after this his wife was struck by a huge wave and was knocked down. Her head was almost buried in the sand and her husband feared her neck was broken. Mrs. Trautman was not injured but it took some time to get the sand out of her ears.

When the party reached the station on their way home they heard a commotion and saw an old woman fall down stairs. Mr. Trautman picked her up and just had time to catch his train. Mrs. Trautman stepped on her skirt while hurrying for the train and ripped the skirt nearly in half. Arriving at the home of Mr. Trautman's father they thought their mishaps were surely over but in this they were mistaken. Mr. Trautman called to his father's dog as the party was entering the house. The dog came to the house and Mr. Trautman, thinking the animal was through the door, closed the door with a slam. The dog was only partly way through the door and several inches of its tail was amputated between the door and the jam.

FIRE AT MANASQUAN.

Mrs. John Anderson Saves Her Six Children from Flames.

Mrs. John Anderson of Manasquan saved her six little children from flames that wrecked her home last Thursday afternoon. She was on the second floor bathing the children when a baker calling at the house discovered the first floor in flames. Mrs. Anderson fought her way through fire and smoke and led the children out of doors. The fire was started by a defective oil stove and the entire first floor was gutted by the flames before the firemen got the blaze out. Mrs. Anderson's husband is a fisherman and was out at sea. The loss is estimated at $2,500 and is covered by insurance.

CARTING POTATOES BY AUTO.

Millstone Farmers Using Auto Trucks to Get Potatoes to Freehold.

The farmers of Millstone Township are using auto trucks to cart their potatoes to Freehold. Five four-ton trucks from New York are now in use. Each truck will carry fifty sacks to the load, or 8,500 pounds. Five and six round trips of five or six miles are made a day. The farmers who are using the trucks are Frank Blaine, Theodore Hendrickson, Joat & Levens, Charles Gravatt, U. R. Test, James McKnight and the Foster brothers.

INVESTING IN SOUTHERN LAND.

Upper Freehold Township People Buy Land in the Sunny South.

Several of the farmers in Upper Freehold township have been making investments in Southern land. They were attracted to that section by the long seasons. Several of them have made trips South and have investigated the conditions there. Miss A. F. VanMeter of Imlaystown owns a large tract on the James river, below Richmond. Albert Nelson is interested in large tracts on the eastern shore of Maryland.

Died After Auto Ride.

Mrs. Katherine W. Sweeney, mother of Thomas J. Sweeney of Seabright, died Friday night at her home at White Plains, N. Y. Death was caused by heart disease with which Mrs. Sweeney was stricken after returning from an automobile ride. Mrs. Sweeney was 89 years old. Besides her son at Seabright Mrs. Sweeney is survived by three other sons and two daughters.

Held for Using Mail to Defraud.

W. H. Atwood of Chicago and Detroit was arrested at Asbury Park last Thursday charged with using the mail to defraud. His partner, H. N. Brock, was arrested at New York Monday. It is claimed the men had been defrauding persons out of thousands of dollars. They represented themselves as being proprietors of a typewriter supply house.

Robbed by Farmhands.

William Story's house near Freehold was robbed of two suits of clothes and several articles of silverware last Wednesday night. The thieves are thought to have been two colored men who had been working for Mr. Story. Mr. Story took his family to Freehold Wednesday night. When they returned the men were gone and the articles were missed.

Elks Hold Clambake.

The twelfth annual clambake of the Long Branch lodge of Elks was held at Murphy's Camp at Pleasure Bay last Thursday night. About 300 Elks and their wives and sweethearts were present. Dancing was enjoyed before and after the bake. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Joseph Finn, Morris Judas and Jesse Green.

Auto Upset in Collision.

An automobile in which Milton Goldstein and Max Levy of Long Branch were riding was upset last Friday when it collided with a machine driven by Howard Brown. Goldstein and Levy were badly cut and bruised and their machine was wrecked. Brown escaped injury and his machine was only slightly damaged.

Found Pearl in a Clam.

James Nevins, who works in D. E. Havens's fish market at Asbury Park, found a pearl worth from $50 to $100 in a clam he opened at the market Saturday morning. The pearl was a perfect specimen and was in the folds of a little neck clam which was taken in the waters near Highlands.

Autoists Protest Against Wyckoff.

Autoists of Asbury Park and vicinity to the number of 150 have protested to the state motor department of the methods used by Leroy Wyckoff of Manasquan, an auto inspector. The petition says Wyckoff lures autoists into speeding and then arrests them.

HEALTH OFFICER LOSER SUIT.

Long Branch Official Tagged Cows Without Proper Authority.

A verdict of $200 and costs has been awarded to Mrs. Jennie Parker of Long Branch in a suit brought by her against John Hall, Long Branch's health officer. Mrs. Parker alleged that cows owned by her had been injured when they were tagged by Mr. Hall. The cows were examined by a veterinarian and were then tagged with rings in their ears. This was in accordance with a scheme of the Long Branch board of health to secure a pure supply of milk. The tags indicated that the cows were healthy.

Mrs. Parker claimed that the rings had been torn from her cows' ears and disfigured them and that the operation of tagging had made the animals extremely nervous. The board of health disclaimed all responsibility for Mr. Hall's action and the verdict was rendered against him.

AUTO COLLIDES WITH TRAIN.

Car is Destroyed But Mrs. Sloat and Four Children Escape.

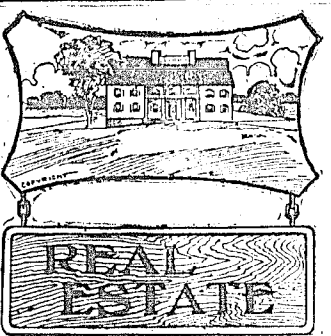

Mrs. E. C. Sloat and four children of Freehold narrowly escaped death last Thursday when an automobile driven by Mrs. Sloat collided with the second coach of a passenger train at Asbury Park. The automobile was thrown ten feet by the force of the collision. The occupants were thrown to the ground but all escaped without a scratch. The accident happened on the Corlies avenue crossing, the gates of which are broken. A flagman has been giving warning to drivers by one of the new "stop" signals in use by the railroad. Mrs. Sloat claims that the flagman failed to show the signal in time to avoid the collision.

Boy, Cartridge, Hammer—Bang!

David Innes, a twelve-year-old boy who is visiting at Seagirt, found a blank army rifle cartridge last Wednesday. He struck the cartridge with a hammer and it exploded. Pieces of the cartridge made cuts in his left forearm and on the back of his right hand. Several stitches were required to close the cuts.

Ocean Grove Man Robbed.

Rev. A. Henry Wheeler of Ocean Grove lost a $70 gold watch last week, through allowing a stranger to go to his house for the timepiece. The stranger had been talking on religious subjects with the minister, and when the latter missed his watch he accepted the stranger's offer to return to his house to get it.

TOWN TALK.

The season at Asbury Park is nearing its end and there is the usual activity of this stage of the season in the arrest of persons who sell liquor illegally. The Asbury Park authorities are fining persons who plead guilty or sending them to jail although it would seem that illegal liquor sellers at Asbury Park should be subject to the same law as the illegal liquor sellers of other parts of the county, whose cases come before the grand jury.

It is worthy of note that the raids and arrests now being made at Asbury Park are principally those of colored residents of the Springwood avenue district or of persons of minor importance. The persons who conduct the big hotels are exempt from trouble. According to a recent statement there are 78 places in Asbury Park which have taken out a federal government license for the sale of liquor, and two such places in Ocean Grove. The Ocean Grove persons have escaped arrest so far, and only a few arrests have been made in Asbury Park. This would indicate that at least seventy of the places which have paid the federal government tax for the sale of liquor have been let alone.

The prevailing sentiment at Asbury Park and the prevailing sentiment of the rest of the county is that it is a good thing for Asbury Park hotels to sell liquor. Once or twice in the history of Asbury Park important hotel men have been indicted and have pleaded guilty and paid a fine. But this was only in very exceptional cases. Usually the hotels are allowed to sell liquor more or less openly, and with not only the consent of the people of the locality but with their approval.

Asbury Park is nominally prohibition territory. No licenses to sell liquor there are issued outside of the government tax issued by the national government, and which is usually called a "government license." The fact that 78 persons are paying the national government tax shows that at least 78 many persons in Asbury Park are engaged in the illegal sale of liquor.

The sale of liquor goes on uninterrupted in Asbury Park because a majority of the people of Asbury Park want it to go on. Liquor was sold there a generation ago under Democratic judges and prosecutors, and under Democratic rule in the state. It was sold there for twenty years under Republican judges and Republican prosecutors, and under Republican rule in the state. Now that the political pendulum is swinging back again toward the Democrats, liquor selling under Democratic judges and prosecutors will probably go on just the same as in the past.

Public sentiment regulates the sale of liquor. With very few exceptions all the big hotels at Asbury Park sell liquor and have done so for years and years. Some of these hotels are "first-class" capable of accommodating upwards of 100 or 200 persons. Neither the Asbury Park officials nor the county officials interfere with these places because these places are demanded by the public.

The same is true of the hotels along the shore which sell liquor on Sundays. In many of these summer hotels liquor is sold openly every Sunday the season through, without molestation. The public demands the Sunday sale of liquor and the people of the locality want it. So long as these conditions exist at these resorts the Sunday sale of liquor will be continued.

Red Bank, Freehold and some of the other towns in Monmouth county would not tolerate for a single Sunday the sale of liquor at the hotels of those places. Public sentiment is strongly against the Sunday sale of liquor and any hotel which violated this sentiment would be put out of business in short order. But the sentiment against the illegal sale of liquor either on Sundays or on week days, does not exist at Asbury Park or along the shore.

The anti-saloon league of the state is now engaged in an effort to make New Jersey a prohibition state. A prohibition law in New Jersey would be of as little effect in many cities and towns in the state as the Asbury Park prohibition laws are in Asbury Park. With a state prohibition law in force, every locality where prohibition was not upheld by a majority of the people would be like Asbury Park is at the present time. The law would be of absolutely no effect. Indeed, it would have a harmful effect, for while it would not stop the sale of liquor, it would result in the sale of inferior qualities of liquor, and it would permit illegal liquor sellers to charge a very high price, two or three times the usual price of a drink, just as is now done in Asbury Park every day in the week, and just as is done along the shore on Sundays.

That is why such vastly different takes are told of the prohibition in Maine. The law works well in the localities where it is upheld by public sentiment. The law is a dead letter, and worse than a dead letter, in those places where it is not upheld by public sentiment. In the last election on the prohibition law in Maine the result was so close that it was in doubt for several days. That shows that the prohibition law there did not have the beneficial effects claimed for it by the advocates of state-wide prohibition, for if it created the prosperity claimed, if it had abolished misery and crime, prohibition sentiment would have been irresistible, and would have swept the state from end to end. In reality, in every center where the prohibition law in Maine is not upheld by public sentiment, liquor is sold freely, and usually it is mighty bad liquor. The men who sell liquor are not disturbed, even if the sale of liquor is against the law. The sale of liquor is upheld by public sentiment and the illegal sellers are protected by public sentiment, just as at Asbury Park.

The same thing is true of conditions in Newark, Jersey City, Atlantic

City, Hoboken and other cities concerning Sunday selling. The police permit it and the authorities permit it, because public sentiment demands it. The very fact that the authorities in New Jersey cannot stop illegal liquor selling in places where public sentiment is in favor of illegal and Sunday liquor selling shows what would happen in many places continuously if a state-wide prohibition law were enacted.

In localities where a majority of the people are opposed to the sale of liquor, prohibition or local option laws can be enforced. In localities where a majority of the people want liquor sold liquor selling will go on, in spite of any prohibition laws. In such localities it is far better to have the sale of liquor legalized and placed under the control of the local government than it is to have the sale of liquor carried on without regard to law.

The conditions in Maine, and the conditions in Asbury Park and Long Branch, show why state-wide prohibition laws are unwise. The temperance sentiment in Maine, while sufficient to enact prohibition laws in that state for the past fifty years, has not been able to enforce the prohibition laws in any locality where a majority of the people are opposed to prohibition. If a county local option law were passed in New Jersey it would probably be carried in Monmouth county, but it would not stop the sale of liquor at Asbury Park and Long Branch. The New Jersey laws today prohibit the sale of liquor at Asbury Park at any time, and the laws today prohibit the sale of liquor anywhere in the state on Sundays, yet the sale of liquor at Asbury Park is continuous, and the sale of liquor on Sundays at the shore resorts is also continuous. All the temperance sentiment in the county does not make any impression on the local sentiment in these places and the illegal sale of liquor goes on.

The sale of liquor or the prohibition of the sale of liquor should be purely a home rule question, to be decided, like every other local question, by the people of that locality. I believe it would be vastly better for Asbury Park to have the right to decide for itself whether liquor should be sold there or not, than it is to have present conditions which exist there. Many hotels there could easily pay a license fee of one thousand dollars a year for the privilege of selling liquor legally, and they probably would not sell any more liquor if they could sell it legally than they do now when they sell it illegally. The sale of liquor then would be controlled by the public officials of Asbury Park. The sale of liquor would be conducted under conditions imposed by the Asbury Park officials, instead of being conducted according to the whim or interests of the illegal sellers.

No community should fix the home rules of another community. Each community should have power to make its own laws regulating home affairs. Each community is much better able to decide its local questions for itself than the legislature is to do it for them. Where a majority of the people of any locality are in favor of any local legislation, they should have power to pass that legislation without reference to the state legislature. A great part of the complexity of law making would be avoided and a very great advance would be made toward real rule of the people if this were made possible. Any effort made by the state legislature or by any body of agitators to control the local affairs of municipalities is not only mischievous but harmful in its results.

Recently the Republican state committee in New Jersey held a meeting and discussed candidates for congress and candidates for some of the county offices in the state. Since then a number of the Republican county committees in New Jersey have held meetings and have approved certain candidates. This action has been greatly resented, particularly by Democratic newspapers, which claim that this action is in direct violation of the primary law, which provides that the people shall be free to select their candidates for office according to their own judgment, and without interference from party bosses or party leaders. "The purpose of the direct primary," says one of these papers, "is to permit the voters of each party to select their candidates instead of being compelled to accept a ticket forced upon them by a boss or a machine. This purpose is partially thwarted at least when the party organization places its O. K. on certain candidates prior to the primaries."

That is fine talk and it is true talk. The only thing about it which strikes me as humorous lies in the fact that these papers, when Woodrow Wilson was putting his O. K. on candidates for United States senator and on candidates for governor of New Jersey, proclaimed that Woodrow Wilson was thoroughly justified in doing so and that he was doing a great public service by his action.

Woodrow Wilson was elected governor of New Jersey and President of the United States, but he was not elected to take charge of the primaries of the Democratic party, nor was he elected to put his O. K. on candidates at the primary. Yet this is exactly what he did do. The Republican state and county committees who have put their O. K. on candidates were elected as the managers of the party. If the purpose of the primary act is "partially thwarted" by the action of state and county committees putting their O. K. on candidates, what must have been the condition of things when Woodrow Wilson, governor of New Jersey and as President of the United States put his O. K. on candidates? The governor of New Jersey has a good many rewards to give out, and no state or county committee has a tenth part of his power to reward candidates who obey him and to punish candidates who don't. The President of the United States has a hundred times as much power as the governor of New Jersey has. It seems to me to be ludicrous to approve of the acts of a governor of a state or the acts of a President of the United States in putting his O. K. on candidates, and then objecting to men who were elected to run a party when they put their O. K. on candidates.

How well men are rewarded who "clear the track" when Woodrow Wilson wants them to do so, is shown by recent circumstances in this state. John W. Westcott got out of the way of William Hughes for United States senator when Woodrow Wilson wanted him to do so, and Mr. Westcott is now attorney general of New Jersey at a salary of $7,000 per year. William C. Gehardt is clerk of the supreme court at a salary of $6,000 per year. Otto Wittmann, who "cleared the track" for James F. Fielder when Woodrow Wilson put his O. K. on Fielder as the Democratic candidate for governor, is now surveyor of the port of New York with a rousing salary and lots of power and patronage. If it "partially thwarts" the purpose of the primary law for men who are elected to conduct the party to put their O. K. on candidates, what must it do to the purposes of the primary law when an official having tremendous power to reward and punish puts his O. K. on candidates?

The indications are that the Progressives of Monmouth county will have a full ticket in the field this year. In some places the Progressive party has become nearly extinct, the members of that party having gone back to their former political affiliations. In other places the Progressive party is maintained at its full strength, and in the states where this is the case the Progressives expect to elect their candidates for governor and also to increase their representation in congress.

The Progressive party cannot hope to become a great party unless it has principles which are fundamental in character, and which are expressed so plainly that they cannot be misunderstood. The Progressives of Monmouth county, and the Progressives of every municipality where a progressive ticket is put up, should have such a platform. It may be said that the officials of a town or a county would have no voice in the work of congress, and this would be true; but if the Progressive party is to take that part in the progress of the country which its friends are hoping for, it should submit a platform showing its aims, so that every voter would know just what the Progressive party would do if it got in power.

James G. Blauvelt of Paterson, who is one of the leading Progressives of New Jersey, has submitted a platform which he believes incorporates all the big issues of today for which the Progressive party should stand. This platform is as follows:

1. Public ownership of railroads and all public utilities.
2. Taxation. Exemption from taxation all products of labor, including buildings, personal property and farm improvements; direct taxation on land; abolish all indirect taxes; protect manufacturers by bounty.
3. Grant fortunes. Graduated income tax up to 15 per cent of all incomes over $200,000; and graduated inheritance tax up to 75 per cent of all inherited fortunes over $1,000,000.
4. Patents. Allow anyone to use any patent by paying to patentee a moderate royalty fixed by the government.

Perhaps this platform is too advanced to meet popular approval at the present time. But the conditions are being so shaped that it will not be long before a platform like this will be adopted by some party, if not by the Progressive party, then by some other party.

The one great thing about this platform is that it goes to the root of things. There are none of the superficial and temporary adjustments and demands in its make-up. Political platforms of two generations ago dealt with temporary methods of improving the condition of slaves, and in the same way political platforms of the present time deal with temporary methods of improving conditions for the general people. The abolitionists of 1860 went to the foundation of things and declared flatly against slavery and they elected Abe Lincoln on that platform. In the same way this platform set forth by Mr. Blauvelt, like the platform of the abolitionists, goes to the root of evil conditions.

The Progressive party cannot hope to win by merely saying that both the old parties are bad. They cannot win by declaring that the Republicans want to get back in power so that the old-time leaders can again run the government in the interests of the corporations represented by these old-time Republican leaders; nor can they win by saying that the Democratic party has broken its promises as bad as the Republicans ever did and that this party has shown its utter incapacity for conducting the affairs of the state and the nation by the course of the state and national administration since the Democrats have been in control. Both these statements are true, but they will not elect Progressives to office. The Democrats in the New Jersey legislature and the Democrats in congress have shown that they are as indifferent to their promises as the Republicans have ever been. It is true that Woodrow Wilson declared that the Democratic platform meant what it said, but that was when he was running for office. When he got the job for which he was running he promptly threw overboard that part of the platform which did not suit him and not only broke the platform promises, but did just the reverse of what he had promised the people of the country. The Republicans, when they were in power, did exactly the same thing, both in New Jersey and in the nation, and some of the Republican papers when taunted with the failure of their party to keep its promises, declared that a platform was put forward only to get men in office and not with the idea of keeping the promises after the candidates got in.

The Progressives cannot win in Monmouth county as they cannot win anywhere else by simply electing the Republican vote. In every instance where the Progressives have won they got a large part of the Democratic as well as a large part of the Republican vote. There are as many Democrats in Monmouth county and in New Jersey and in the United States who believe in the principles above set forth as there are Republicans. The platform set forth above is a workable platform. It is not vague and it is not an "iridescent rainbow," as was said of the principles of the early transcendentalists. It can be carried out, and the carrying out of such a platform would be a great step forward for humanity.

A NEW PUBLIC SERVICE FOR RED BANK

A Recent Interesting S. P. C. A. Case and the Need of Reform.

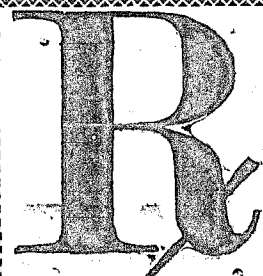

On Saturday morning, August 8th, 1914, Archie Williams (colored), of the corner of Shrewsbury avenue and Beech street, was arrested upon complaint of F. C. Moyan, the sign pictorial artist, for maintaining and neglecting a dying black French poodle dog without water, food or shelter. The two S. P. C. A. society agents, Moyan and Frank P. Thompson of Asbury Park, co-operated with Police Officer Imlay (also agent) and brought Williams before Justice Edward W. Wise of Red Bank. At the hearing Archie admitted neglecting the dog and was willing to pay the fine. The dog was in court and could hardly stand on its feet, was almost blind, dirty coated and howled from pain. On its little neck was a huge leather strap, two feet long, besides a six-foot rope. The case called for a $100 fine, but for leniency, on recommendation by agents, Archie was fined $5 and costs, totaling $7.80. While paying the fine he asked why Agent Moyan did not come to him "like a man" and tell him that keeping such a dog was an offense. Moyan in reply said that about four years ago he requested Archie to be more humane to a Newfoundland dog which he possessed, housed through the winter in an open, cracked dry goods box, where the groaning dog was obliged to lay on a wet and ice-coated potato bag, and was then told practically to mind his own business, as he had dealt with dogs all his life and needed no instructions from anybody. Failing to help the dog the Moyans succeeded in buying it from Archie for $5, instead of $10, as was demanded. Moyan then gave the dog a merciful death and a few days later Archie and others regained the dead dog, skinned it and made a rug out of its hide as a souvenir of the occasion. When leaving court at the conclusion of the recent case, Williams remarked that it looked as if the "Moyans are determined to make Red Bank a good church town." Mr. and Mrs. Moyan have been in this animal work for over twenty years and are organizers as well as financial members of the American S. P. C. A. of New York, Massachusetts and Virginia, and never fail to attend to any complaint of cruelty anywhere.

TO RED BANKERS:

In view of the above and other numerous cases of cruelty to animals in this section, it was decided that Agent Franklin C. Moyan will from now on supervise personally all cases in Red Bank and vicinity in order to prevent irregularities and to have more justice done to the animals. There is no question that Officer Moyan is best fitted for the position of representing the local branch of the Monmouth county society; he understands thoroughly animal life, having been born and bred among them on his parents' plantation and ranch, and in consequence at present being well known as an Italian painter of animals. His religion teaches kindness to all living creatures, both human and animal; his broad humanitarian and unselfish moral character is a sufficient guarantee that absolute justice will be given to both complainant and defendant, and that prosecution will depend strictly on the merits of the case in question. Moyan's years of knowledge and experience as a former New York city secret detective of domestic and foreign cases will enable him to co-operate successfully with police authorities in coping with any situation; hence his fearlessness. All complaints will be received by Moyan or any other agent or member of the society, and any further information may be had from the secretary and treasurer, Mr. Thorndike Saunders of Long Branch, an estimable and unselfish New York lawyer, working for the interests of animal protection.

F. C. MOYAN,
Red Bank, N. J.

P. S. Moyan has "no axe to grind," is independent and self-reliant; does not want anything from anybody; gets not one cent for animal work. "MOYAN MEANS SOMETHING."

The Y. M. C. A. of Red Bank.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Red Bank was founded about eight years ago. In membership, equipment and usefulness it presents most gratifying results. The maintenance of the work, however, involves an annual expenditure of about $4,200. After crediting membership dues there remains a fund of approximately $3,200, which must be raised by voluntary subscriptions. This amount must be definitely pledged by September 1st to cover the charge of maintenance for the coming year, or the work cannot go forward. The Association needs more help from its old friends, and new help from new friends. The character of the work being done is shown by the following summary, which presents the activities of the Association during the year just closed:

30,000 Persons Publicly Recommend Our Remedy; Some Are Red Bank People.

Over one hundred thousand have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. For backache, kidney, urinary ills, thirty thousand signed testimonials are appearing now in public print. Some of them are Red Bank people. Some are published in Red Bank. No other remedy shows such proof. Follow this Red Bank man's example.

William H. Pope, barber, 88 Wallace street, Red Bank, N. J., says: "I frequently had a sharp pain across the small of my back and did not know what caused it. I tried different kinds of medicine to no avail. Finally I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills through reading of them in the papers and got a supply at C. A. Minton & Co.'s drug store. They brought prompt relief and I now have no cause for complaint. I am in a position to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a good medicine for disordered kidneys and am pleased to confirm my former endorsement of them."

"ON A DONKEY'S BACK."

TROLLEY CONDUCTOR WRITES A BOOK ON EXPERIENCES.

R. Pitcher Woodward Traveled from New York to San Francisco in 1896-97 on a Donkey to Keep from Paying $5,000 Which He Lost on Bryan.

R. Pitcher Woodward of Eatontown, a conductor on the Long Branch trolley line, lost an election bet in November, 1896. Mr. Woodward made a wager in 1896 with a New York man that William Jennings Bryan would be elected president. If Mr. Bryan had been elected Mr. Woodward would have received $5,000. If Mr. Bryan were defeated Mr. Woodward, according to the bet, had to ride a donkey from New York to San Francisco, within 341 days. He made the trip in 340 days and two hours. The distance was 4,096 miles.

Mr. Woodward has written a book on his experiences while traveling across the country and he calls the book "On a Donkey's Hurricane Deck." The book is written in humorous style and many copies of it have been sold. The conditions of the bet were that Mr. Woodward was to start from New York without a dollar in his pockets and without begging, borrowing or stealing, procure a donkey and, riding or leading the donkey, earn his way across the continent and register at the leading hotel at San Francisco.

Mr. Woodward, according to the conditions of the bet, had to traverse the principal streets in New York on the donkey's back, and both he and the donkey had to wear spectacles and Mr. Woodward had to wear a frock coat and a plug hat. He could do away with the hat after he crossed the Mississippi river, but he had to wear the frock coat all the way to San Francisco.

Mr. Woodward won the bet by reaching the Pacific coast 22 hours ahead of time. Mr. Woodward named his donkey Macaroni and so refers to the animal throughout the book. Mr. Woodward wrote the book under the name of "Pythagoras Pod."

NATURE'S LAWS

The race horse—cannot draw a heavy load.

A racing yacht—cannot stand heavy weather.

A cheap piano—cannot stand use nor climatic changes.

A cheap player piano—why, we would not wish one on our greatest enemy.

And yet how often we see player pianos advertised by the unscrupulous, to catch the unwary, at prices that wont even buy a decent plain piano.

"Shoddy" players have been sold at cheap prices and terms in sufficient numbers by now, for the public to recognize that it is folly to spend money for poor players.

You had better invest money in a good player, that will give no trouble, pump easily enough for an invalid's use, and yet give you at will all the expressions that any living artist could get out of a piano.

Let us show you the excellent features of Empire Player Pianos. No cost to you and a pleasure and advertisement for us to show you.

ALL READY FOR THE FAIR.

FINAL TOUCHES NOW BEING PUT ON THE FAIR GROUNDS.

Many of the Tents will Go Up This Week—Big Space Enclosed for the Dog Show—No War Prices on "Eats," Drinks or Smokes—More Entries So Far Than in Any Previous Year of the Fair.

Carpenters and laborers are at work on the fair grounds putting on the final touches for the big fair which begins at Red Bank next week. The advantage of the fair association owning its own grounds is very apparent this year. From time to time during the year work is done on the grounds, leaving comparatively little rush work for the last hours.

Thomas Martin, who has furnished the tents for the fair ever since the association was formed, will furnish the tents again this year. The fair association owns a number of tents and these will be put up and cared for by Martin during the time the fair is open. The new women's building is being painted and it is the intention of the fair association to put up one new building each year until all the permanent buildings needed are on the grounds. No buildings will be erected for the cattle and other live stock, as experience has shown that they thrive better and are more secure from possible diseases under tents or under canvas shelter than they are if housed in wooden buildings. When live stock is shown in buildings there is always some danger that disease germs may lurk in the obscure corners of the building from stock which has previously occupied it; but when stock is shown in tents or under canvas, the sunshine and rain and winds wash away and destroy all possible disease germs long before the next fair opens.

Charles D. Cleveland of Eatontown, the director in charge of the swine department, has made unusual efforts to have a line lot of hogs and pigs on exhibition. He believes that the show of swine will be the best ever made at the fair. The raising of swine is carried on every farm and the pig crop is always a source of profit. Mr. Cleveland, who is an expert on swine, believes that the profits from swine on almost every farm in Monmouth county could be made two or three times as great as at present, and with very little extra expense. Mr. Cleveland will be glad to talk with farmers at the fair on this topic and will be more than glad for any farmers to send to the fair, either in competition for premiums or for exhibition purposes, any of their pigs or hogs which they may consider of extra quality.

One of the great exhibitions this year at the fair will be automobiles. Almost all the large dealers of Monmouth county will be at the fair with their various models for 1915. The automobiles will be under the main exhibition tent this year, and the entire space of this tent will be given up to this exhibit. This tent covers about an acre of ground, and the grouping together of so many makes of automobiles will make this main tent one of the most attractive and interesting places on the fair grounds, particularly to those who contemplate buying a car this fall or next year. All the styles of cars made by some manufacturers will be on exhibition, and it will unquestionably be the greatest exhibit of automobiles ever made at one time in New Jersey.

The grouping of the flowers, fruits and vegetables in one large tent, instead of having the fruits and vegetables in a separate tent from the flowers, is a change which is appreciated by farmers, fruit growers and flower men. These products of the farm, orchard and garden are allied in character and interest, and such exhibition has been expressed by exhibitors at the change. More entries in these three departments, as well as more entries in the women's department, have been made this year than at the corresponding period at any previous fair. This is partly accounted for by the fact that much greater opportunity for the proper display of goods is had on the new fair grounds as compared with the much smaller space occupied by the fair when it was on leased property, and partly by the great attendance of last year which is likely to be increased this year, making it of more advantage to display one's products. Owing to the unusual number of telephone calls and requests for premium lists which have been received by the secretary within the past few days, the date for receiving entries in the above-named departments has been extended to next Saturday.

No war prices will be at the fair, and the "eats" and drinks will be sold at regular prices. The women of the Red Bank church, who will conduct the restaurant, say that they will furnish home cooking with fresh vegetables, and that lunches and meals will be served at the same reasonable scale of prices which prevailed last year. The fair association has selected Fegen's "P. O. N." beer for the bar, and the "soft stuff" will be the drinks manufactured by Benjamin Franklin Cate of Red Bank. The cigars will be the "Toking" and the Lord Stirling cigars, manufactured by the Enterprise cigar company of Trenton. These are well established and popular brands, having a large sale everywhere in the East, and they will be sold at the regular prices of five and ten cents each.

There will be no cash paid over the bar, but tickets will have to be bought from a cashier and these will be taken by the assistants for beer, soft drinks and cigars.

The race track is in fine condition and the entries which have been received in the racing department indicate that some very fast and exciting races may be expected. The motorcycle races and the trap shooting contest are also creating much interest and a large field of contestants is expected. One of the racing features will be a match race for $200 a side between Fred Luther's horse Fred L. and Henry Muhlenbrink's horse Moxie.

A large space has been fenced in near the railroad for the dog show and a big tent will be erected within this enclosure. The dog show will be under the direction of the Rumson Kennel club. The show will be held on Saturday of next week and will continue only one day.

Under the direction of the fair directors are greatly pleased with the prospects for the coming exhibition. The attendance last year was more than double the attendance at any fair on the old fair grounds and they anticipate a very great increase in attendance this year over last year's record. The large amount of work which has been done on the fair grounds and on the race track during the past year has greatly improved conditions, and the exhibition this year will unquestionably be a notable one.

GREAT SHOW OF BABIES

GOOD BABIES, BETTER BABIES AND BEST BABIES AT THE FAIR.

Mrs. Lewis S. Thompson of Brookdale Will Have Charge of This Department and She Has a Large Staff of Physicians as Her Assistants.

There will be a show of good babies, better babies and best babies at the Monmouth county fair. The babies will be entered just as they used to be at old-fashioned baby shows. In these new-style babies' contests the babies are examined by physicians, who record on cards, and the babies are then judged by the record made. The score cards are turned over to the parents, and these cards show in what particulars the average and instruction is given as to the best methods of building up that particular baby.

Babies from six months to four years old are admitted to the contests. It costs nothing to enter a baby. Cash prizes and six medals will be awarded to the highest scoring children, and a silver cup will go to the child making the greatest improvement since last year.

Mrs. Lewis S. Thompson of Brookdale is director in charge of the baby contest and she has secured the services of a number of physicians who will act as examiners. These physicians include Drs. Field, Raftery, Sayre, Garrison, Wilson and Young of Red Bank; Drs. Kahn, Green, Shaw, Sloan and Wise of Long Branch; Drs. Bennett, Kurtz, Bass and Taylor of Asbury Park; Drs. Hendrickson and Phillips of Atlantic Highlands; Drs. Knott and Jackson of Matawan; Dr. Parbrace of Eatontown; Dr. Badlong of Belford; Dr. Roberts of Holmdel; Dr. Ely of Freehold and Dr. Trask of Highlands.

The judges will be Dr. Alfred Hess of Deal, New York, who is one of the governing board at the preventorium at Farmingdale; and Dr. Edwin Stemberger of Long Branch. Six trained nurses will be at the fair to take charge of the babies and eight volunteers will assist the nurses.

Mrs. Charles D. Halsey of Rumson will be in charge of the reception committee in this department on Thursday, September 3d, and Mrs. Edwin Adams on Friday, September 4th. The advisory directors of this department at the fair are Mrs. William Barbour, Miss Lillian Bliss, Mrs. Howard Borden, Mrs. Harden L. Crawford, Mrs. Ernest Fahnstock, Mrs. P. A. S. Franklin, Mrs. Lewis Brown Gantry, Mrs. J. Horace Harding, Mrs. Robert Hartshorne, Mrs. George Arthur Hart, Mrs. Richard Hurd, Mrs. Thomas M. McCarty, Mrs. John Midleton, Mrs. Joel Rathbone and Mrs. Andrew Stout.

ASSOCIATION NEEDS HELP.
Funds Needed by September 1st to Carry on the Association Work Another Year.
For some time past the directors of the young men's christian association of Red Bank have been publishing an announcement calling for the work done by the association and of its financial needs. Responses to this announcement have been received by the directors, but not in sufficient volume to ensure keeping the association open next year. It will be necessary for the directors to know within the next ten days just what financial assistance is to be rendered in carrying the association through the coming year. Substantial help, in addition to what has already been offered, is necessary, and unless this help is forthcoming the directors will probably be unable to keep the association building open. They are hoping, however, that there will be a prompt and adequate response to this request for help, and that when September 1st arrives the funds in hand and the subscriptions received will be such as will enable the association to carry on its work for another year.

VICTIM OF PARALYSIS.

HENRY J. W. S. COOKE OF FAIR HAVEN DIED FRIDAY.

THE OLD SWIMMING HOLE.

MIDSUMMER SPORTS IN UP-COUNTRY RURAL VILLAGES.

Rides and Grown-Ups at Oak's Neck, Tinton Falls and Pine Brook have great times in Fresh Water Pools—Dogs Enjoy the Sport Too.

Twenty-five to thirty people go swimming and bathing daily in Fresh E. Heyer's sawmill pond at Oak's Neck. The sport is enjoyed by old folks as well as youngsters, among them being a number of women. The pond has a shallow sloping shore, with some deep holes where only the most accomplished swimmers go. One side of the pond is fringed with big gladiolus, roses and the shore is of sandy soil. During last week's hot spell the water was lukewarm and many people found recreation at the pond after their day's work was done. A number of buildings for storing lumber are in the mill yard and these are used for bathhouses. There as well as human beings appreciate the pleasure which the pond affords, and the canine population of Oak's Neck is well represented at the old swimming hole. Dogs can almost invariably be found where boys are, and one of the Oak's Neck dogs are brought to the pond by their owners.

Another rural swimming hole is at Pine Brook near Tinton Falls. This swimming hole has been made by damming up the brook. The same scenes which are enacted at Oak's Neck pond can be seen at the Pine Brook swimming hole. Many families at Pine Brook are taking summer boarders from the city this year and the New Yorkers are among the most ardent devotees of the sport.

EINTRACHT'S BIG NIGHT.

MEMBERS HEAR A WAR LECTURE BY PROF. HOENEMANN.

Founder of German Society Explains Causes of the European War and Describes His Experiences in Austria and Germany.

Enthusiasm was manifested at a meeting of the Eintracht singing society of Red Bank last Wednesday night, when an address was made by Prof. William B. Hoeneemann of Newark, who founded the society 26 years ago. Prof. Hoeneemann, who with his wife got home from the European war zone last week, gave a talk outlining the causes of the war and describing his experiences on the other side of the Atlantic. Prof. Hoeneemann formerly taught school at Red Bank.

The German national anthem, "The Watch on the Rhine," was sung and there were hurrahs for Germany and for the German Kaiser. A number of donations were made for the Red Cross society for the relief of wounded German soldiers. Following Mr. Hoeneemann's talk refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed.

Prof. Hoeneemann made a brief analysis of the war, beginning with the declaration of war between Austria-Hungary and Serbia. He explained that Austria-Hungary is a country made up of many races, with Germans or Teutons as the predominant race. One part of the empire bordering on Serbia is populated chiefly by Slavs. Serbia is a Slavic kingdom. Mr. Hoeneemann said that Serbia wanted to annex this part of Austria-Hungary and that the Serbian government gave moral support to Slavic secret societies in Austria-Hungary, which had the overthrow of the Austrian government for their chief object.

Prof. Hoeneemann told of the assassination of the Austrian grand duke who was heir to the throne. He said that this assassination was committed through the agency of the Slavic secret societies and the Serbian government and that it was to punish the Serbian government for this deed that Austria declared war on Serbia. Russia, whose population is Slavic, began to mobilize her troops immediately after war was declared between Austria and Serbia. The Russian troops were massed on the German frontier, Mr. Hoeneemann said, and that there was no doubt that Russia was preparing to push these troops through Germany. Mr. Hoeneemann said Germany had to declare war on Russia or face extinction.

France's part in the conflict, Mr. Hoeneemann declared, was animated by the defeat which was inflicted by the Germans on the French in 1870 in the Franco-Prussian war. England, according to Mr. Hoeneemann, is fighting Germany for commercial reasons. He said that the tremendous progress which Germany had made in the business world had aroused English envy and that England's sole reason for getting in the scrap was to inflict a crushing blow on a commercial rival. England's part in the fight, Mr. Hoeneemann declared, was the least justifiable of all the warring nations.

Mr. Hoeneemann said that the odds against Germany and Austria were great, that they had to fight practically every other nation in Europe, but that the two Teutonic nations might nevertheless emerge victorious from the conflict. He said that in Germany the people were united in upholding the kaiser. He said even the Socialists, who constantly oppose the kaiser in political matters, are now among the German emperor's strongest supporters. The German people, the professor said, are unanimous in believing that the fight is a fight for the national existence. He says that if the two Teutonic nations maintain their present state of feeling the other nations at war with them cannot hope to win till every able-bodied man in Germany and Austria has been killed.

Referring to the stories about mistreatment of American tourists in Germany, Mr. Hoeneemann said that he and his wife and every other American he saw in Germany were accorded the greatest respect and courtesy. He said that they underwent many inconveniences and discomforts but that these were due to the rigors imposed by war and not by any attempt on the part of Germans to show contempt or disrespect to American citizens.

He and his wife were in Austria when that country declared war on Serbia. The Austrian newspapers did not get out editions, but printed the war news on papers about a foot square. These papers or circulars were not sold, but were distributed free in front of the newspaper offices. Mr. Hoeneemann brought one of them home with him. He had planned to stay in Austria longer than he did, but war rumors made him change his mind and he and Mrs. Hoeneemann took a train for Germany.

Fifteen minutes after they got off the train the news bulletins stated that Germany had declared war with Russia. That was at midnight. Mr. Hoeneemann was awakened at six o'clock the next morning by the tramp of soldiers' feet and by other martial music. The next day he found that he had been asleep a great German army had been mobilized and was marching to invade the enemy's territory. Mr. Hoeneemann said that this revealed to him the effectiveness and preparedness of the German fighting machine.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoeneemann made the trip home from Rotterdam, Holland, on the Nieuw Amsterdam. They have spending several days with Mrs. Hoeneemann's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Sickles of Mechanic street.

KEYPORT COUNCIL DOINGS.

Trolley Company Ordered to Fix Street—Blowdowns Not Yet Laid.

The Keyport borough council has ordered the trolley company to remove the dirt left in its roadbed when new rails were laid and to lay cross-walks on First street.

About 1,600 feet of sidewalks on streets covered by sidewalk ordinances are still unaid. If the property owners on these streets do not have the sidewalks repaired the borough will do the work and charge it against the property. The street superintendent has been authorized to employ a surveyor to give grades on streets if the borough engineer does not furnish them when requested to do so.

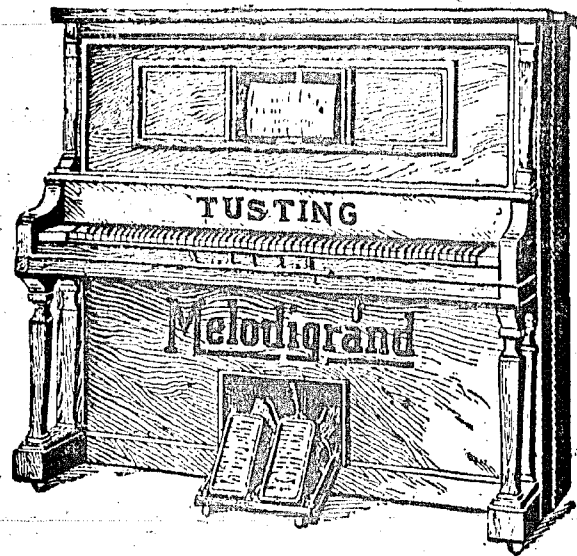

John Templeton and D. E. Mahoney have been requested to make their walks conform with the ordinance. Bills to the amount of $1,400 were paid by the council Monday night.

Eddie Brodel of West Front street will box a six-round semi-final featherweight match tonight at the Hudson sporting club at Hudson, New York, with Young Clark, the former amateur champion featherweight of Albany, New York. Brodel has been practicing daily the past two weeks and is in fine trim.

Timely Hints For Piano Buyers

The surest safeguard to the piano buyer is the established reputation of certain piano manufacturers. This reputation, to be of any real worth, must have been tested by time and supported by industrial and financial ability. When this is backed by a local dealer of standing the buyer has the best guarantee that can possibly be given him. The pianos we handle have been tested by time and are of acknowledged worth. You have only to think of the name EVERETT, McPHAIL, HARDMAN, PACKARD, IVERS & POND or MERRILL and the truth of our statement is apparent. Our line of instruments contains the best make each in its class. As far as our reputation is concerned, as local dealers, we have been over twenty-five years in this county. Our reputation for fair dealing can be attested by hundreds of customers scattered all over this state. Our prices are fixed on an absolute basis—the lowest prices compatible with reliable goods. All patrons, no matter what their knowledge or lack of knowledge may be regarding pianos, are certain of the same fair treatment.

A One-Price House

We are the only "one price" house in this section of the state. Each piano is tagged in plain figures. It is simply a question of how much money you wish to put in an instrument and you will then receive the very best for the amount you wish to invest. With our "one price" system there is not an extra $50.00 tacked on the price of a new piano to make up for the big value placed on your old instrument if you have one to be exchanged. If we allow you $50.00 for an old square it is because we expect to get $50 for it when we sell it.

Again, with our magnificent line each make is sold in its class. It would be impossible, for illustration, for us to charge $250 or $275 for a make that had no standing when we had on our floor the beautiful little HARRINGTON, sold all over the United States for $275.

It would be equally impossible for us to sell a make that did not even have a legitimate parentage for about the $200 mark when we had in our warehouses the well known MILLTON at $235.

It is the "unknown, untried and unsung" kind of a piano having no real fixed price that irresponsible dealers sell out of its class and without interest.

Of course they can say they do not charge interest when they charge fifty dollars more than a piano is really worth—it is not LEGAL interest—that's sure!

Our methods are those of any successful business house. Everyone comes in on the same basis and receives the best value for his money.

Our guarantee is unique in piano selling. It is broad and simple—Exchange if not satisfactory. It is supported not only by our financial responsibility, but better than that, by the reputation of the House of Tusting. All of these facts prove that it is safe to buy here for you are certain of obtaining in every instance the best piano for the least money.

TOWN TALK.

A few days ago two Seabrook young men took a walk of forty miles. Twenty-five years ago this would not have been considered a remarkable feat, but in this age a person who walks forty miles in a day is somewhat of a prodigy. Military men have often pointed out that the United States would be at a disadvantage in a war, because the average American does not know how to walk and would be incapable of making long marches.

The automobile, the telephone and the other means of quick transportation and communication have made long walks unnecessary in carrying on business matters; and walking as a pastime is not practiced by many folks. Yet for real sight-seeing, walking is superior to any other means of travel, while on the score of healthfulness much can be said in its favor.

About the only people who walk for pleasure nowadays are the boy scouts. The hikes which they take through the country enable them to enjoy the beauties of nature to a much larger extent than many grown-ups, who regard walking as laborious. Walking will never displace the quicker means of travel in carrying on business transactions; but signs are not wanting that walking may become a popular pastime. In some parts of the country walking clubs are being formed, the members of which make Sunday trips of twenty to fifty miles, and this form of exercise and pastime may again become as popular as it was during the past generation.

The Allen homestead at Shrewsbury, which is more than 200 years old, has had to be practically rebuilt in order to repair the damage done by a fire. Yet the house has lost none of its old-time distinctiveness. The new part of the dwelling has been built along the same lines as were followed by the original builders and even the fire-scarred colonial furniture has been repaired and treated in such a way as to retain its ancient beauty.

Shrewsbury, although one of the oldest settlements in the country, has only two or three landmarks of the early days, when it was the most important town in this part of New Jersey. Conditions of life in an old American village can never be fully realized by the present generation, and it is only by the preservation of such ancient structures as the old Allen homestead and the old Christ church that people of this age can catch glimpses of the past and imagine what that life and its scenes and its characters were.

It is gratifying that the present owner of the Allen homestead has preserved this house as a reminder of the important part played by Shrewsbury in the early days of Monmouth. Too much tradition and too much sentiment are a clog on progress and development; but in a bustling, busy commonwealth like Monmouth it is to-day, pride of ancient greatness is not a detriment. Reminders of life in the early days of America are worth preserving because they are typical of the spirit that laid the foundation for this great country, and it is well that the few remaining landmarks in Old Monmouth should be cherished and preserved.

Government ownership is making road headway. Two incidents of the past week show this. One of these incidents was the introduction of a bill in congress providing for the purchase by the United States government of a large number of vessels to engage in traffic with other nations. The other incident was the introduction of a measure in congress providing for government ownership of the telephone system in Porto Rico.

The influence of corporations in this country is sufficiently great to prevent congress from making the telegraphs and telephones of the United States a part of the postal system, as is the case almost everywhere else in the world. The same influences which for so many years prevented the introduction of the parcels post system in this country and prevented the introduction of the postal savings banks are now at work to prevent the government from taking over the telegraphs and telephones. In the same way that Porto Rico is to get the advantages of government owned telegraphs and telephones before they are bestowed on the people of this country, so the people of the Philippine Islands get the benefit of the parcels post system and the postal savings banks long before the people of this country enjoyed these blessings. But the parcels post and the postal savings banks were finally established here, and it will not be many years before this government will own and operate the telegraph and telephone systems of the country.

Franklin C. Moyn of Shrewsbury avenue has been appointed an official agent of the society of the prevention of cruelty to animals. Mr. Moyn and his wife have for many years been connected with this society and with other societies having similar aims, not only in this state, but also in New York, Massachusetts and Virginia. Mr. and Mrs. Moyn and George T. Angell were among the organizers of the Massachusetts humane society.

Everyone who knows Mr. Moyn knows that he is not a grafter, and that he does not take up this work because he hopes to make less out of it. Nor is he likely to take up cases where spite between neighbors is the cause of the action. The reputation of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals has suffered a great deal in this part of Monmouth county because of the absolute lack of common sense in conducting its affairs, and also because the society has been ready to take up any case of alleged cruelty without reference to the merits of the case. Under this system the society has become the vehicle through which revenge for personal grudges has been sought. In other instances the most wanton act have been committed by the agents of the society for no other apparent reason than to show their authority. Great and needless damage has been done to individuals through the operations of the society.

Take the case of the horse which fell down on the icy street in front of the Second national bank two or three years ago, for instance. The owner of the horse had started from his home in West Red Bank with his horse and wagon. The roads in the vicinity of his home were soft and free from ice. When he got down town, where the streets were hard and icy, his horse, which was smooth shod, fell down. He unhitched the horse from the wagon and started to lead it back home. On the way home the horse slipped on the ice at the corner of Broad and Wallace streets and fell down again. He went to a blacksmith's to get a blacksmith to take the shoes off the horse, in order that the horse could walk back to its stable easier. When he returned with the blacksmith he found that an agent for the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals had come along and had shot the horse without making any inquiry whatever about it. I believe that this agent should have been prosecuted by the society and should have been sent to jail for a good "long term" for his outrageous act, and should have been made to pay the value of the horse besides; but the society weakly apologized for the act of the agent and kept him in its employ.

Take the case of the cow which died at Little Silver a few summers ago, where the owner was sued by the society. The cow was suddenly taken sick while it was being driven to pasture and it lay down in the road. The owner had the cow removed to the side of the road, under the shelter of a big tree. He gave it food and water regularly and employed a veterinary surgeon to look after it. The cow died after two or three days and a neighbor, who had a personal grudge against the owner of the cow, induced the society to bring a suit against the cow's owner. This was done without any investigation of the case at all. The case fell through, and there was absolutely nothing to sustain it; but the owner of the cow was put to the expense of a lawsuit, and put to the humiliation of being charged with cruelty to his cow, when as a matter of fact he had been very solicitous for its care and well-being.

Several times within the past few years persons have been sued by the society for shooting dogs which were killing their chickens. In two of these cases the dogs were shot with chickens in their mouths. This did not deter the society from bringing suit against the men who shot the dogs. One farmer was sued three times on a case like this, the society bringing each suit a little differently in order to get the case in court again. The farmer won, of course, but he was put to a good deal of trouble and expense before the society was permanently beaten in the case.

It is actions like these which have brought the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals in great disrepute in this part of the county. This should not be so. This society can do a very beneficial and wholesome work; but it cannot do it if agents are grafters, taking all sorts of cases without investigation for the hope of getting fees; or if the society takes up cases incited by enmity between neighbors, with no foundation on which to base a suit.

The appointment of Mr. Moyn as agent for the society should go a good ways toward regaining for the society the moral support of this community. Mr. Moyn has lived at Red Bank five years and has become well known as a conscientious, upright citizen, who has done a great deal in his individual capacity to protect animals from cruelty. He has taken his present position only because he believes that as agent for this society he can be of more service to the community than he could through his work in this direction as a private citizen.

BEER AT THE FAIR.

A Letter from the President of the County Church Federation.

To the Editor of THE REGISTER:

Since the Monmouth county church federation has become a party in the discussion over the decision of the Monmouth county fair association to have a beer bar at the fair, may I ask the courtesy of your paper to state the position of the federation? It was with surprise and regret that many people of the county learned that the directors planned to have a bar at the fair. Many of the best people of the county think this is a backward step and a serious mistake. The federation sought opportunity to present this side of the matter to the directors, and, in view of the possible moral harm, to ask them to reconsider their decision; and it is not pertinent to say, as has been said, that we are narrow and fanatical in so doing.

The federation has not called in question the motives of the directors. It is said there are 35 directors, "almost all of whom are church members," and they are to have this bar as a moral protection. We have been told by more than one director that only ten or twelve ever attend the meetings, and some who were opposed to the license were not at the meeting when it was voted on, and did not know of the meeting. The motives of the men may have been genuinely sincere; but the standing of the ministers and laymen of the federation, and of the other people, is equally as high as that of the directors, and they have as deep regard for the moral welfare of the people, and may be permitted to question the moral protection of a bar.

The federation has had no desire to injure the fair; indeed the feeling was quite the reverse. If any injury is done, it will be because of the sale of beer. Many people do think it a menace, and will have nothing to do with the fair. There is no use denying that many in the county do resent this decision of the directors, no matter what is said of their motives in getting the license. Where the federation and others differ with the directors is on the method of getting rid of an evil. The directors say there was much illicit sale of liquor, and a deal of drunkenness at the fair. A pertinent practical question comes in here. Were the directors not able to clear the grounds of this illegal sale and drunkenness by an efficient and determined police force? It seems natural to suppose that the directors would let the people of the county understand they were determined to stop this sort of thing, and would use vigorous means to protect the people from this moral menace. The directors are to pay $50 a day for this license. Could they not have used that sum in employing detectives who would have cleaned up the conditions admitted?

The sincerity of the directors may readily be admitted, though the fact cannot be blinked that this is not everywhere conceded. Yet, in view of a growing opposition to beer drinking, and with the experience of the subway saloon in New York a few years ago, to expect to help morality and decency and good legislation by open selling of beer is a questionable thing, and awakens suspicion in the minds of a good many who care for the protection of men and young men from temptation and moral danger.

JOHN G. LOVELL,
President County Church Federation.
Long Branch, August 24, 1914.

A Card.

TO THE FRIENDS OF JOHN M. CORLIES: We, the Democratic committee of the borough of Rumson, wish to thank all of Mr. Corlies' friends in Monmouth county for the interest they have shown in him as a candidate for the Democratic nomination of sheriff. The Democratic committee of Rumson believe that Mr. Corlies would have been a most worthy candidate for this office because of his large number of personal friends throughout the entire county; because of his well-known uprightness and integrity; and because of the ability and faithfulness he has shown during his term of service as chosen freeholder; but we find, on a careful survey of political conditions, that the Democratic committee of arrangements of Monmouth county have made another selection, that of Mr. Barklow as Freehold, as the candidate for sheriff. Under these conditions we believe that Mr. Corlies' candidacy for the Democratic nomination for sheriff would be unwise, and Mr. Corlies has decided not to be a candidate at the primary.

We again wish to thank all of Mr. Corlies' friends throughout the county for their offers of assistance in his behalf, and we assure them that their interest in Mr. Corlies is appreciated and will be gratefully remembered.

FRUIT MEN ORGANIZE.

ORCHARDISTS MEET AT RED BANK AND FORM ASSOCIATION.

Temporary Officers Elected and Rules Laid Down for Meeting the Expenses of the Organization—Fruit Growers in Need of Expert Packagers.

The Monmouth county fruit growers' association was temporarily organized Monday night at the Globe hotel, J. Hull McLean of Eatontown was elected president, James C. Hendrickson vice president, Edwin L. Beckman secretary and William B. Conover treasurer. Seven large peach growers joined the association and agreed to pay the expenses equally for the present. Later on the arrangement will be made where the members will pay according to the quantity of peaches or apples shipped. Those who joined the association were the four officers, J. Dey Conover, Thomas S. Field and William M. Greenwood. Other large fruit growers in this part of the county will probably join the association. Meetings will be held every Monday night at the Globe hotel. Fourteen growers attended Monday night's meeting. John Baird of Freehold, manager of J. H. Hale's large peach orchard at Fort Valley, Georgia, told how he raised peaches in Georgia and told of the workings of the Georgia fruit exchange. Mr. Baird said the three essential points of raising peaches were spraying, thinning the peaches and cultivation. He said that peaches had to be packed in baskets honestly, in order to get good price for them. Mr. Baird said it was necessary to organize in order to sell large crops and he advised the growers to organize at once.

William B. Duryee, Jr., county farm demonstrator, was at the meeting. He said he had advertised the large peach crop in produce papers and that his office had sent out 621 letters Monday morning to commission men throughout the Eastern states. Mr. Duryee received a telegram while at the meeting, stating that one commission man would take several carloads of Elberta peaches, which will be ready for shipment about Labor day.

Some of the growers said on Monday night that they had no one who knew how to pack the peaches properly and four or five men asked Mr. Baird to secure them an expert packer. Mr. Baird said he would try to get some packers, but he thought it was too late in the season to secure good packers for this year's crop.

FARM DEMONSTRATION WORK.

An Executive Committee Formed to Aid the County Farm Demonstrator. The advisory committee of the Monmouth county farm demonstration bureau organized last Saturday by electing Holmes V. M. Dennis of Freehold president and W. B. Duryee, Jr., farm demonstrator, secretary. An executive committee was elected, composed of Mr. Dennis as chairman, W. H. Reid of Tinton, J. T. Ketcham of Farmingdale, Garret W. Buck of Colt's Neck and James C. Hendrickson of Middletown.

This executive committee will have control over all phases of farm demonstration service and will meet monthly or at the call of the chairman to outline work for the improvement of farming conditions in Monmouth county. During the past four months Mr. Duryee, the farm demonstrator, visited 213 farms and sent out 592 letters of information. The executive committee discussed work for the ensuing year, which included the development of the Monmouth county fruit growers' association, the organization of poultry associations, and the establishment of a demonstration field in the trucking section under the Skinner system of irrigation. Accurate records of the cost of such a system will be kept so that farmers may know the possibilities of irrigation as a means of increasing the farm income.

AN ANCIENT TEAM.

Horses Thirty-Five Years Old Out at Pasture on the Fair Grounds.

For the past six months there has been out at pasture on the grounds of the Monmouth county fair association an ancient team of horses. The horses are owned by J. Amory Haskell, the president of the fair association. The horses have not been used at all during the past five years, and they are kept partly for sentimental reasons and partly because of the service they have done in the past. The team was driven by Mrs. Haskell when she was a little girl and both she and Mr. Haskell regard the horses with affection. The horses are in fine condition and while they are apparently fit for hard service they will have an easy life of it as long as they live. It has been proposed to drive the horses around the race track during the fair as an exhibition team of old horses.

CHILDREN AT THE FAIR.

PLAYGROUND WITH A SHELTER TENT TO BE SET UP.

Thursday of Next Week Will be Children's Day at the Fair and All Monmouth County School Children Have Free Admission Tickets for That Day.

Thursday of next week will be the first day of the Monmouth county fair and before school closed last summer tickets were sent to every school in the county to be distributed among the children by the teachers. Over 20,000 free school children's tickets were thus distributed under the direction of John H. Cook, the director in charge of the school department.

This year a playground is to be set up on the fair grounds and it will be operated under the supervision of the Red Bank recreation association. A tent 30x40 feet will be provided through the generosity of Sigmund Eisner and John S. Applegate, Jr., and this tent will be used as a shelter during the heat of the day. The playground will be open to all children who attend the fair, but children under five years of age must have an older child or a grown person to care for them. Children over five years of age may be left at the playground by their mothers while the older folks are viewing the sights.

The recreation association has arranged a series of contests which will take place on the race track in front of the grandstand at 9:45 o'clock on Thursday morning. Prizes will be awarded in each event, and a $250 gold piece will be given to the boy or girl winning first place in the greatest number of events.

The events will include 40-yard, 50-yard and 60-yard dashes, potato race, sack race, midge race, relay race, wheelbarrow race and tug-of-war. There will also be folk dances by the girls. The contests are open to all children of Monmouth county and the above program is offered as a special feature for the children on children's day.

The playground is a new feature of the fair. It will be open every day of the fair from 9:00 to 11:00 in the morning and from 1:30 to 5:00 in the afternoon.

KIDS HAVE AN OUTING.

About 150 Children of Playgrounds Taken on Auto Ride Yesterday.

About 150 boys and girls who attend the Red Bank playgrounds at the Shrewsbury avenue school and the high school had a free automobile ride to Asbury Park and return yesterday afternoon. The trip was made in six touring automobiles, an automobile rabout and an auto truck loaned by Edward J. Reilly of Mechanic street.

Nearly 300 children gathered at the Shrewsbury avenue playground, where the start was made. The automobiles began to arrive about two o'clock and the last one departed at 3:15 o'clock. Two weeks ago the children of the Shrewsbury avenue playgrounds were given a similar ride and yesterday those who did not go on the first ride were picked out first. Four or five other autos had been promised for yesterday's outing, but they did not put in an appearance and over 100 children were disappointed.

The children were dressed in their best blus and tuckers and they were delighted with the prospect of a long ride in a machine. This was the first ride in an automobile that a number of them had ever enjoyed and they had a fine time. They went to Asbury Park along the shore road and returned home by the back road through West Long Branch, Oakhurst and Eatontown.
