

Many Attending Cooking Sessions At St. James School

Laura K. Kennedy Mixes
Humor With Recipes at
"Big Chief" Classes

Several hundred women from Red Bank and nearby towns gathered at the auditorium of the Red Bank Catholic high school Tuesday and yesterday afternoons to hear Laura K. Kennedy, famed home economics expert, tell about and demonstrate new recipes and ideas in homemaking.

The third and fourth of Miss Kennedy's lectures will take place this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 1:30. The sessions will continue through Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week at 1:30 p. m.

Miss Kennedy is appearing at Red Bank as conductor of the Free Cooking School of Big Chief Market. It marks the fourth time she has lectured to local audiences. On two previous occasions she lectured at cooking schools sponsored by The Red Bank Register, and last winter she appeared here in the interest of the Big Chief Market.

Experienced housewives said shoulder to shoulder with young brides as Miss Kennedy explained how to prepare toothsome new dishes. They listened raptly as she threw out hint after hint on the best way to prepare many different kinds of food. Items included among the items which Miss Kennedy spoke on and prepared during the first two sessions of the Free Cooking School were a kidney loaf, strawberry muffins, avocado salad, Oregon punch, cherry spice cake, buttermilk custard, coffee ice cream, puff, huckleberry and apple preserves, mint tea, pork chops in sour cream, fresh strawberry ice cream, fresh peach ice cream, spring vegetable mold, baked fish with pickle sauce, hot sandwich loaf, spiky apple cake with caramel icing, baked cherry pudding, cherry sauce, etc.

At the conclusion of each of her lectures Miss Kennedy distributes the dishes she has prepared to women whose names are selected. In addition, 20 free market baskets, filled with foodstuffs, are also given away.

Admission to the sessions of the school is absolutely free, and nothing is sold or offered for sale. All women are welcomed to any and all sessions, whether they happen to be customers of The Big Chief Market or not.

Miss Kennedy is also conducting a Free Food clinic at the Big Chief Market for two weeks from 4 to 5:30 p. m. on the days the cooking school sessions are held in the Catholic school auditorium, and from 3 to 5 p. m. on Friday and Saturday when there are no cooking school sessions. The Free Cooking School is the third of several which are being held in certain New Jersey towns and cities by The Big Chief Markets, which are conducting them as a practical means of making friends and building goodwill by helping women with their household problems. It is emphasized that not only is the school free, but that all women are welcome whether they happen to be customers of the Big Chief Markets or not.

The Chambers gas range used at the school is being furnished through the courtesy of Chas. H. Walton Co. of Red Bank and the Seaboard Ice Co. of Red Bank has supplied Miss Kennedy with the use of a Coolerator, an ice conditioned refrigerator.

Many Entries For Sweepstakes Being Received

All Signs Point to Record-Breaking
Number of Starters

With the 11th running of the National Sweepstakes regatta still five months away, Fred Brown, race committee chairman, announces that entries far in excess of last year's have already been filed. Last year's regatta was hailed as not only the largest held during the year, but one of the biggest power boat regattas ever held, with many all time records being broken. In one day alone 291 boats started, or more than 50 over any other single day's number.

This year closely competing with the 45-mile Sweep event will be the fast 225 cubic in. hydroplanes, a record for the 75-mile hour mark was passed. Already 20 entries for this fast event have been received, which will undoubtedly force the committee to run the heats of this race in two sections, as it is impractical to start over 12 boats in a single race even over the superior North Shrewsbury 2 1/2 mile course. Next in point of entries at this point will probably be the inland racing runabouts, which has 24 entries listed.

Of course from sheer point of numbers, outboards still hold the limelight with 140 boats already on the list and more coming in every day. Of particular interest to the committee is the entry of some 50 newcomers who have never raced at Red Bank before, which will more than replace any who have given up outboard racing during the past year.

At least a dozen states will be represented in this year's events with Jack Cooper from Kansas City and some Canadian entries vying with the large group of entries from Florida. The latter delegation of course will be led by the St. Petersburg boys who come in force within the neighborhood of 10 boats to try for the valuable Sweepstakes trophies.

Red Cross To Benefit From Flower Show

Annual County Event to Be Held at
Rumson in September

Profits of the annual exhibition of flowers, fruit and vegetables of the Monmouth County Horticultural society to be staged Wednesday and Thursday, September 18 and 19, at the carriage house on the estate of Major Edward Bowes, Rumson, will be donated to the overseas relief fund of the Red Cross it was decided Thursday night by that group at a meeting at the Rumson fire house.

Francis T. Edington, exhibition chairman, revealed that the schedule is complete. Theodore Neatler will again be secretary for the show. The society's annual picnic on the estate of Thomas S. Field, route 35, Middletown township, for members and their families will be held Wednesday, August 14. The members will also pay a visit in August to the herb garden of Mrs. M. L. Newhall, Stone Hill farm, Scotcheyville.

Charles Rice exhibited Maid of Orleans gladioli, for which he received 82 points in the monthly point competition.

Walter Rice presided at the session at which William E. Barry of Edison was welcomed as a new member.

Local Family Leaves For South America

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Delatash and daughter Mary Louise, who have been residing at Branch avenue with Mr. and Mrs. William Brevoort, left yesterday on a trip to Venezuela, South America, where Mr. Delatash is employed as an architect for the Gulf Oil Co.

Mr. Delatash is starting his second two-year contract with the Gulf company in South America. This is the first trip on which he has been accompanied by his family. However, Mrs. Delatash took a short trip to South America recently. Miss Delatash has been a student at Red Bank high school.

Red Cross Workers Wanted At Once

Mrs. James W. Parker of 175 Shrewsbury avenue, will head a group of colored volunteer workers every Thursday evening at the Red Cross Surgical Dressing Unit located in the West Berzen place school building, Red Bank.

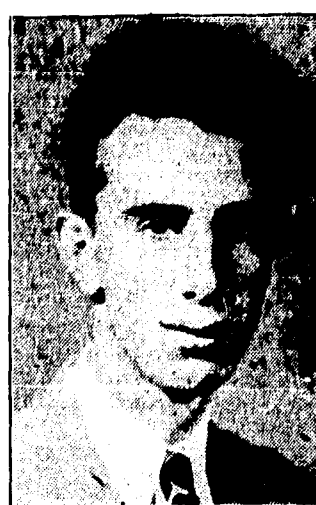

Women interested in aiding this worthy cause are urged to come to the school building at any time between 7 and 9 p. m. for as long as they care to stay. For additional information please call Mrs. Parker at Red Bank 281, or call the Surgical Dressing workroom at Red Bank 2714.

New Auditor Is Appointed For Rumson Borough

J. S. Tuenon Named—
Old Farm Village
Streets Accepted

J. S. Tuenon of Trenton was appointed borough auditor at Thursday night's meeting of the Rumson mayor and council by Mayor James C. Auchincloss and the appointment was unanimously confirmed. Mr. Tuenon was sent to Rumson several weeks ago by Walter R. Darby, commissioner of local government, following the resignation of Charles E. Cole of Freehold, who had served the borough as auditor a number of years and who was compelled to relinquish the position because of illness. The new auditor was appointed for the balance of the year and for the preparation of the 1941 budget. Mayor Auchincloss stated that Mr. Tuenon's service have been very satisfactory. His salary is $1,200, the same as that received by Mr. Cole.

Two ordinances were adopted. One accepted five streets in Old Farm Village for public use. Before the ordinance was passed Councilman J. Edward Wilson, chairman of the road committee, read a report from the borough engineer, George K. Allen, stating the roads had passed his inspection and recommended they be taken over by the borough.

The other ordinance provided for the sale of $11,500 in bonds to finance improvements on several streets. A map will be obtained from the Monmouth Consolidated Water company showing the location of all the fire hydrants in the borough. Councilman Robert G. Bailey, chairman of the fire committee, stated a test will be made on all hydrants with a new pressure gauge bought by the fire department.

A letter from F. A. Scheid suggested erection of directional signs in the vicinity of the new bridge and also the erection of an appropriate plaque at the foot of Washington street on the site of the old bridge. Councilman Louis M. Hague, chairman of the police committee, stated that directional signs have been ordered and should arrive within ten days. The matter of the plaque was referred to the committee on parks and buildings, of which Councilman James P. Bruce is chairman.

Council went on record opposing recommendation of the Monmouth County Municipal association that borough offices be closed all day Saturdays. Mayor Auchincloss stated they should remain open half a day, as in Rumson, because many people desiring to transact business with the borough are unable to go to the borough hall at any other time.

Council confirmed the election of George Russell McCue as a member of Oceanic hook and ladder company, and Cornelius John Shea as a member of Rumson fire company.

In his report Councilman Francis Nary, chairman of the incineration committee, stated that the department in the first six months of this year had traveled 4,200 miles and collected 1,182 loads of garbage and 50 loads of ashes.

Resolutions regarding the sale of bonds, read by Councilman Sheldon T. Coleman, chairman of the finance committee, were adopted.

A special liquor permit was granted for the horse show, which will be held July 18, 19 and 20 in Rumson.

The governing body will hold an adjourned meeting tonight, at which bids will be opened for alterations to the borough hall.

Fair Held Over For Two Nights

Little Silver Event
Tonight, Tomorrow

Bad weather compelled the Little Silver Bremen to close their fair Thursday and Friday of last week and to make up for this the fair will be re-opened tonight and tomorrow night. There will be the regular attractions, and awarding of the new Oldsmobile sedan will take place tomorrow night.

Saturday night's attendance was the largest of the week. The free ground prize of $10 was won Saturday night by Mrs. Eugene Varden of Middletown and Wednesday night of last week by Miss Angelina Parro of Little Silver.

Tots Doerr Group Has 10 New Members

Ten new members were accepted by the Tots Doerr association of East Kearsburg at a meeting last week. Plans were made for the association's annual dance to be held in the club rooms Saturday night, September 7. Plans were also made for the annual outing Sunday, September 23.

After the business session refreshments were served. The new members are August Miner, Stanley Watson, John McFarlane, Edward Rugginger, Jr., Charles Leslie, Fred Brunn, Jack Conlon, Stephen Pavlus, William Kowitz and John Miller.

The purpose of the association is to provide annual Christmas parties for underprivileged children of East Kearsburg and vicinity.

Blind Of The State Discuss Their Problems

First Annual Convention at Atlantic Highlands

Several hundred persons attended the first annual convention of the Blind of New Jersey Friday at the Atlantic theater, Atlantic Highlands, under the auspices of the New Jersey Blind Men's association. The purpose of the gathering was to discuss matters to improve the conditions of the blind of this state. Buses brought blind persons from Camden, Trenton, Elizabeth, Paterson, Jersey City and Newark.

Justice Frank J. Hall of Highlands, chairman of the convention committee, called the meeting to order, and the address of welcome was made by Mayor Thomas C. McVey of Atlantic Highlands, who paid tribute to the gathering for their interest in promoting projects for the betterment of conditions.

William J. Ellis, state commissioner of the department of Institutions and Agencies, was general program chairman, and chairmen of the various topics discussed at the meeting were Charles H. Elliott, "Education of Blind Children" and "Prevention of Blindness"; Robert W. Allen, state WPA administrator, "Employment of the Blind" and "Administration"; Joseph Spitz, deputy director of the New Jersey State Rehabilitation commission, "Rehabilitation of the Blind"; and Mr. Ellis, "Federation of Organizations" and "Relief and Pensioning."

Albert Cowgill, principal of the Pennsylvania institution for the instruction of the Blind, pointed out that the graduates of one school for the blind are employed in more than 150 types of occupations and professions from ministry and law to osteopathy and journalism.

Dr. S. L. Feinbloom, New York optometrist, stated that the lack of state and federal funds has handicapped the blind in securing necessary medical treatment. The blind of all ages have a right to a complete education, to work and to a well-rounded social life, declared Miss Lydia V. Hayes, state director of educational research for the state Commission for the Blind. She added the commission urges that the training of the blind be equal with that of the seeing and the blind must learn to overcome their obstacles.

According to George F. Meyer, chief executive officer of the blind commission in the state, New Jersey is unique in that it is the only state in the country to have a single agency responsible for the work of the blind in the state. Church attendance and social contacts with both blind and seeing friends were urged by Earl Quay, former manual training instructor at the New York School for the Blind. Miss Lydia Herrmann, home teacher for that New Jersey commission, requested that every blind person be helped to find a place in community life.

Charles J. Strahan represented the state department of Public Instruction in the absence of Commissioner Charles H. Elliott.

Selections were given by the New Jersey Blind Men's association quartet comprising Al Whalen, Frank Coffey, George Burck and Mike DeNussi.

The annual picnic for the blind was held in the afternoon at Camp Happiness, Leonardo, the association's summer rehabilitation home. The blind spent the afternoon boating and swimming, and later they danced to the strains of a ten-piece orchestra.

The board of managers of the association consists of William J. Adickes chairman, Frank J. Hall, Richard E. Ober, Howard K. Stults, George E. Burck, Paul Sauerland and John P. Mitchell.

Loot Gas Station At Shrewsbury

State police as well as detectives from the New Jersey Bell telephone company are investigating with Policeman Otto Herden of Shrewsbury a robbery early Sunday morning at the Shrewsbury service station on Broad street. This is the second theft at the gasoline station within two months.

According to Policeman Herden, the thieves gained entrance by forcing a window on the west side of the building. The telephone coin box was ripped off the wall, a number of spare tires and tubes were taken, the cash register and office desk was broken into and a coin box was ripped out of a cigarette machine. Only a small amount of money was in the cigarette machine and cash register.

Detective Herbert Conroy of the telephone company and Sergeant Schultz of the state police investigated Tuesday and obtained a warrant for the arrest of Policeman Herden, Monday found a coin box and the empty telephone coin box on the railroad siding between the Shrewsbury railroad station and the Paterson avenue crossing.

Parents of Mrs. Applegate are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conklin of Minnick Park. Mrs. Conklin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Heyer, also reside at Minnick Park. Mr. Heyer's parents are James Heyer of Matawan and Mrs. Maggie Innore of Cleveland.

The great-grandparents are 82 and 88 respectively. The great-grandparents are 82 and 61. The grandparents are 49 and 42 and the father and mother 22 and 19.

In addition three uncles and two aunts of the one-year-old child will attend the family reunion.

Financial Drive For Monmouth Memorial Now On

Goal of $65,000 Set—
Money Ear-Marked
for Operating Expenses

The 1940 campaign appeal for Monmouth Memorial hospital was opened enthusiastically Monday night when over 100 volunteer workers met at the Garfield-Grant hotel, Long Branch, to receive final instructions for the solicitation of subscriptions and contributions to the $65,000 fund being raised.

Judge John Warren of Sleep Hollow road, Middletown, who addressed the group, praised the "typically American spirit of serving others" which motivated the volunteer workers. "According to Judge Warren, the democratic form of government engenders the ideal of service because there is a strong belief in promoting the common welfare of all."

Good wishes for the success of the campaign were given to the group by Dorman McFaddin of Long Branch, chairman of the welfare board of the Board of Freeholders, who was present as guest of honor. Others seated at the speakers' table were George H. Conover of Keyport, general chairman of the county-wide campaign committee; Mrs. Arthur L. Haskell, Judge Jacob Steinbach, Dr. Leon Reinsner, Otis N. Auer, director of Monmouth Memorial hospital; Miss Katharine M. Horner, superintendent of nurses at the hospital; the Rev. Harold Green of Keyport, who gave the invocation; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Herrman, Mrs. Margaret Zuckerman, Frank Dean and A. E. Hock.

Instructions for the workers were given by Mr. Heck who stated that the $65,000 fund will be used exclusively for the operating expenses of the hospital. Report dates were set for July 20, July 25, July 31 and August 5.

Among those attending the meeting were leaders from the various district groups: Donald E. Lawes and Craig Hill, co-chairmen of Red Bank; Mrs. Stephen Pawley, Asbury Park; James Barbour, Long Branch; Rev. Mr. Green, Keyport; Mrs. William Sutphin, Matawan; Harry H. Neuberger, Holmdel-Lincroft; Mrs. Samuel Riker, Middletown; Mrs. Harry J. Hauselt, Bradley Beach; Mrs. Benjamin November, Highlands; Ferdinand A. Straus, Little Silver; Walter Gupill, Shrewsbury; Mrs. E. H. van Sien, Rumson.

Others present included Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Carpenter, Mrs. Walter C. Gupill, Miss Jane Gupill, Mrs. C. H. McVeigh, Thomas P. McEenna, Dr. R. Emmett Mulholland, Mrs. H. H. Brown, William Hitchcock, J. Harold Hendrickson, Mrs. Ralph Herrick, F. Howard Lloyd, Dr. William S. Currick, Mrs. S. L. Cohen, Mrs. Samuel Corse, Mrs. Ezra Davidson, Robert C. Rowing Races and Powerboat Visit Weekend Features

"Uncle Bob" Night At The Monmouth B. C.

Robert F. Wilbur to
Be Guest of Honor of
His Fellow Boatmen

The August meeting of the Monmouth Boat club will be held at the clubhouse Monday night, August 5. It will be known as "Uncle Bob Wilbur Night" in honor of Robert F. Wilbur, one of Red Bank's prominent merchants, who has been a member of the club many years.

Mr. Wilbur will not only be feted by the club that evening, but will also receive testimonials from other organizations to which he belongs. Benjamin L. Atwater, president of the club, has invited representatives of other organizations with which Mr. Wilbur has connections to be present and say a few words in behalf of the guest of honor.

Mr. Wilbur has the singular distinction of being the oldest business man in Red Bank in continuous years of active service, as well as conducting the oldest jewelry house in Monmouth county directly under his personal supervision since it was opened.

Although well past the allotted time of three score and ten years, Mr. Wilbur is probably one of the most active business men in Red Bank today. His relaxation is dropping in at the club daily for a few games of dominoes, and occasionally after the club's business session of other evening functions he will join in a game of cards or dominoes, remaining until a late hour.

Assessor George W. Bray, former president of the club, will furnish the refreshments to be served after the business session.

Blind To Have Library Service

Red Bank, Freehold
Have Braille Books

Two library services for the blind of local communities have been started by the Braille service of Monmouth County chapter, Red Cross, under the direction of Mrs. Herbert D. Wright, chairman of the service.

Mrs. Wright explained that several books, in Braille, have been left at the Red Bank and Freehold libraries for the use of residents of the community. This is the first step in what may be a county-wide library system for the blind.

Mrs. Wright said that books are left at a library for a year and then are moved on to another library in order that there may be a wide variety of reading material.

Formerly the blind had to get books through the New York public library or from other large cities. This was a tedious method involving mailing, check-ups and a good deal of red tape. With the use of local libraries for the blind these difficulties will be eliminated.

Mrs. Wright said the Braille service had been organized for five years under the direction of the Red Cross.

TINTON FALLS DANCE.

The second of a series of dances being held twice a month will be held tomorrow night at the Tinton Falls fire house. River to Be Busy Place Saturday and Sunday— Many Entries for Rowing Regattas

Powerboat Squadron To Swell Spectator Fleet

Rowing and powerboat enthusiasts will share the North Shrewsbury river Saturday and Sunday when the national rowing championship regatta and the annual rendezvous of the Staten Island power squadron will be held simultaneously. Sailboat skippers who have been monopolizing local waters for the past month will have to be content with being spectators this week-end.

The rowing regatta will get under way Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The Staten Island yachtsmen are scheduled to arrive at Red Bank about an hour later, but plans have been made to have the power squadron enter local waters on the north side of the river, at some distance from the rowing course, so that any possible wash from their boats will not disturb the rowers.

Officials of the powerboat fleet have expressed their desire to cooperate in every way possible with the rowing regatta committee, headed by Harry A. Isaacs, Jr., and there should be no conflict between the two forms of sport. Powerboat owners will undoubtedly swell the expected large attendance at the rowing events.

Designation of four events as Olympic races is expected to attract several college crews this year although the collegians have been slow in accepting entries in the past. The novelty of competition is also expected in the senior singles sculls championship race despite the fact that Joe Burk, America's Number 1 oarsman, has won a strange hold on that title in past

Red Cross Needs Volunteers To Make Dressings

Workers Form County Groups—Workroom Is Located in Red Bank

The need for volunteer workers at the Red Bank Surgical Dressing Unit of the Monmouth County Red Cross chapter is urgent. Committees representing towns and cities throughout the county have agreed to take over certain periods at the workrooms each week during which they will be responsible for producing surgical dressings at the rate necessary to fill Monmouth county's July and August quota.

The Fort Monmouth group, headed by Mrs. Dawson Olmstead and Mrs. Charles Olin, started the parade Friday by bringing 23 volunteers who turned out 760 dressings during the morning period. Groups from other localities are following this lead but each and every group is dependent upon the support of the women from the town or city they represent to hold up their end of the work.

The present schedule of working periods with the name and telephone number of committee heads follows:

Asbury Park—Tuesday, 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. Mrs. L. B. Ward, Jr., Asbury Park 144; Mrs. A. A. 4022, Allentown 282; Atlantic Highlands—Tuesday, 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. Mrs. S. Information can be obtained from group leaders or by calling the Surgical Dressing unit, Red Bank 2714.

It was pointed out that although local groups are responsible for getting workers for their own periods, everyone is urged to step in at the workroom at any time during the week for whatever length of time might be convenient. The workrooms are open from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m., Monday through Friday. The committee also stressed the fact that there is no cost involved. It is not necessary to purchase a uniform. Those who find it convenient to bring a white apron and a piece of material for a head covering are requested to do so, but a limited supply of this equipment is always available at the workroom. The work itself is very simple and can be learned in a few minutes from one of the trained workers who are always on hand to assist volunteers.

The Surgical Dressing unit workroom is in the West Bergen place school, between Shrewsbury avenue and Bridge avenue.

Three Injured in Auto Accident

Three persons were injured Saturday night when the cars in which they were riding collided at Shrewsbury avenue and Newman Springs road. All were removed to River-view hospital in the Red Bank first aid ambulance and treated for various injuries. Policeman John M. Stoye investigated.

William H. Slavin of Matawan was driving north on Shrewsbury avenue and attempting to make a left turn into Newman Springs road. The other car, driven by William M. Gaskins of Red Hill, Middletown, was going south on Shrewsbury avenue.

Three stitches were required to close the cut in Gaskins' nose. The others, LeRoy F. Bergen and Clarence B. Stultz of Matawan, both passengers in the Slavin machine, were not injured.

Colored Youth Held For the Grand Jury

Curtis Burgess, colored, of West Bergen place, charged with assault and battery on Frank Taylor, also of West Bergen place, was held for the action of the grand jury by Recorder John V. Crowell in police court Monday morning.

Burgess, who is 20 years old, was arrested by Lieutenant George Clayton. According to the police, Taylor might lose the sight of his left eye as a result of the altercation. He was treated at Riverview hospital.

Encyclopedia Americana Now In Register Library

Fact Finding Scope Is Unlimited for Public Interest

A newspaper is as good as its reporters; a reporter is as good as his sources. The mere fact of news is valueless until the reporter has examined it, checked it, picked it up, and discovered its ramifications. This is a fight in the public interest against propaganda and misinformation.

To render greater service to its readers The Register has added to its comprehensive reference library the 1940 Edition of the Encyclopedia Americana, a great reference work that gives adequate consideration to American subjects. With its purchase of the Americana The Register has also acquired for ten years the services of the Americana Institute, a research organization whose fact-finding scope is unlimited.

The monumental new Americana puts at The Register editors' fingertips 100 maps showing latest territorial changes and 88,000 authoritative articles written by established experts. In the limited time that they have to write up late developments they can find already cast in simple, precise language, extensive information on any subject that presents itself.

From Aardvark to Zylonia The Register is on the spot with the latest, factual knowledge, and has the additional backing of the Americana Institute which stands ready to provide its journalists with the most exhaustive research articles on subjects of both fact and controversy.

With a passion for the fairness and integrity that have always characterized these pages, The Register editors announce this great improvement in our facilities, an investment in the public interest.

Dairy Sues Former Employee

In a decree entered in chancery court this week Jerome Bottino of Leonardo was restrained from engaging in the delivery of milk, cream, butter, cheese or other milk or dairy products in the county until June 7, 1943. Mr. Bottino is enjoined and restrained from attempting to solicit customers of Shrewsbury Dairy company, Red Bank, or from revealing any of the trade practices of the company to any other person or corporation.

The suit was instituted by the Shrewsbury dairy to compel Mr. Bottino to live up to an agreement made by him at the time of his employment. It was claimed by dairy officials that Mr. Bottino, upon leaving the employ of the dairy, immediately began the solicitation of its customers in an effort to induce them to purchase milk from another source.

The dairy company was represented by Theodore D. Parsons of Parsons, Labrecque & Borden, while Mr. Bottino was represented by B. S. Seldman of South River.

At a reception held by the Princeton club for their member, Rev. Guy A. Bensinger, new district governor, by Past District Governor and Mrs. George W. Bray, Past President Herbert E. Edwards, Past Deputy District Governor Ross E. King, Past President and Mrs. Albert W. Worden and Secretary John Hawkins. Rev. Bensinger installed the new Red Bank officers July 2.

The Red Bank club will meet Tuesday at the Molly Pitcher hotel. J. Daniel Tuller will introduce the guest speaker.

78th Division To Hold Reunion

The reunion committee of the 78th Division, Veterans association, met at New York last week and made initial plans for the annual three-day reunion which will be held at Fort Dix Friday to Sunday, August 16 to 18, inclusive.

National President E. Jerry Kamen of Newark appointed assisting committees in communities in New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Delaware and Eastern Pennsylvania, to arrange the many details in connection with the three-day program and to contact the thousands of Lightning Division veterans residing in these states.

The program includes regimental and individual rifle range contests, regimental athletic events, band music, professional boxing and entertainment, regimental reunions, a business meeting, election of officers and will conclude with a memorial service to honor the memory of the 78th Division men who died "over there."

Advance reservations may be made by writing the general secretary, Raymond Taylor, Closter, New Jersey.

The Red Bank reservation committee is headed by John VanKirk, who served in the 30th Field Artillery.

Edward W. Ogil, Chairman
Contact Committee.

ANNUAL BOAT RIDE.

The Tappa Kug club will hold its annual boat ride and picnic Sunday. It is customary to sail down the North Shrewsbury river and select an island at random for their picnic. Boats belonging to members of the club are used.

Veterans Unveil World War Statue In Union Beach

New Monument in Square Opposite Borough Hall

Under the sponsorship of the Union Beach Associated Veterans of American Wars, the new World War monument was unveiled recently by Mrs. Hannah Hickey of Union Beach, a member of the Gold Star Mothers and of the auxiliary of the Associated Veterans of American Wars, in the square opposite the Union Beach borough hall. The monument is a product of the Mansion Monument company of Red Bank and rests on a stone base, 12 feet square, being topped by a statue of an American doughboy. In its entirety the monument stands about 12 feet high.

The occasion was marked by addresses by such noted statesmen as Congressman William Rutphen and Freeholder James S. Parker. Mr. Rutphen stressed the need of patriotism in the United States during the course of our every day life. He warned against un-American activities and urged that the people be on guard against them. His words opposing this country entering foreign wars were forceful and well received.

Besides Mr. Parker, other speakers were Joseph Mayer, Ralph Damiano and Rev. Robert Anderson.

NEW JERSEY INVITES YOU—No. 29

By G. A. Bradshaw

Blueberries Now in Season

From the first modest commercial planting of cultivated blueberries, in 1910, this new agricultural industry of South Jersey now totals about 1,100 acres. Blueberry culture was originated by Dr. F. C. Coville, of the United States Department of Agriculture, in 1910, but its later development was due largely to the interest and efforts of Miss Elizabeth C. White, of Whitesbog, who had already been collecting outstanding plants of the wild types in Burlington County. Now varieties have since resulted which have made cultivated blueberries the aristocrats of small fruits. A recent survey discloses that there are about 115 growers located mostly in Burlington, Atlantic and Ocean counties, who in 1939 produced 1,535,200 pints of cultivated blueberries, which were shipped to all parts of the United States.

New Jersey Council, State House, Trenton

Know Your Government

SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS SIDETRACKED.

Fortunately for taxpayers the New Jersey legislature has adjourned until November 12 without taking action on the many "supplemental" appropriations bills in the legislative hopper.

Despite the public's unmitigated demand for governmental economy, some of the legislators had planned to take advantage of the hubbub of adjournment preparations and rush through at the last minute their "pot" spending bills, most of which had been framed to quiet the clamoring of selfish minority groups and special spending interests.

Richly deserved credit for blocking this attempted spending raid goes to those legislative leaders who, once the really important legislation was out of the way, insisted upon prompt adjournment. In the face of persistent pressure to reconvene the legislature, these leaders have remained firm in their determination to check excessive spending by the state government.

Their loyalty to taxpayers has kept under control a flood of new spending bills that might easily have wrecked economy gains made during the current legislative session. Those who sought increased spending were still smarting under the blow of the three-quarter million dollar reduction made in the general appropriations bill as the result of widespread taxpayer demand for economy. Evidently the "spenders" had hoped to re-instate most of the reductions through steamroller passage of their supplemental appropriation bills.

Effective control of the state government's expenditures would be aided to great extent if appropriations were confined exclusively to the regular appropriations bills. Piece-meal introduction and passage of appropriations is obviously a bad practice. After the state budget department and the legislative appropriations committee have held hearings for many weeks, reviewing departmental requests for funds, it is unbusiness-like and extravagant to unleash a pack of additional spending bills. Once the general appropriations bills have been made into law that should be the end of appropriations, except in cases of extreme emergency.

Governor Moore recognized the need to curb supplemental appropriations when he submitted his budget recommendations to the 1940 legislature. In his budget message he declared: "I respectfully suggest that this legislature adopt a hard and fast rule that no supplemental appropriations be enacted. Such a rule would relieve the members of your honorable body from a great deal of worry caused by groups that seek funds for their own selfish interests."

This advice should be followed not only by the present legislature but by future legislatures as well. The seriousness of supplemental appropriations can be judged by the fact that for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1939, the legislature authorized supplemental appropriations totaling $3,121,605, which was in addition to the state appropriation bill of the same year totaling $39,256,038, and the highway appropriation bill for the calendar year of 1939 totaling $35,228,660. The New Jersey Taxpayers' association believes that some method should be worked out to prevent the annual re-occurrence of this practice, and to make it extremely difficult to introduce and pass any supplemental spending legislation.

Mineola Club At Singing Wheels

Mohawk Skaters to Be Feature Attraction

Members of the Mohawk Rollers club of Mineola, Long Island, will be featured at the Singing Wheels arena Sunday afternoon and evening and will entertain with the latest steps on roller skates. The Mohawk club is one of the most advanced roller skating organizations in the East and is widely known throughout New York and New Jersey.

Several of the best figure skaters of the club will appear in specialty numbers at both the afternoon and evening sessions and will go through routines in waltzes, the Collegiate, the "Chicken Scratch," the American Promenade, the "Howdy Do" and other "called out" dances similar to the square dances.

This is the first of a number of attractions planned for the new Shrewsbury skating rink located in the former Smoke Shop Tavern on Broad street. Local skaters will be permitted to join in with the amateur skaters from the Mineola rink and enjoy skating in the dance numbers. A Hammond organ will provide the music for the dance routines.

The afternoon session will be held from 2:30 to 5 p. m. and the evening session from 8 to 11:30 p. m. There is a nominal charge for spectators.

SPECIAL BROADCAST.

The New Jersey Council of Painters and Decorators, which met in convention in Asbury Park yesterday, will have as part of their program tomorrow, a special broadcast wherein Betty Moore, internationally-known interior decorator, will be heard through Station WCAP. The program will be picked up by the convention in session from 11:30 to 11:45 a. m. on Friday.

New Market for Freehold.

The new Acme market on East Main street, Freehold, will be opened next Thursday. The new building is on the site of the Old Monmouth house. Chester Davison will be the manager of the market.

How Can the New Deal
Honestly Support Cromwell?

James H. R. Cromwell, Democratic candidate for United States senator, should feel as much at home in the party of Thomas Jefferson as the proverbial fish "out of water." In fact, his views are at such divergence with the leaders of his party, that one does not have to possess a very keen intuition to suspect that the debonair "Jimmy," husband of the fabulously wealthy Doris Duke, tobacco heiress, was selected by the "powers-that-be," not for his sympathetic adherence to ideals promulgated by his chief, nor even because of any astute political knowledge, but rather because of more practical considerations.

The New Dealers cannot very well claim the redoubtable Jimmy as their friend for he opposes practically everything they stand for. His opponent, Senator W. Warren Barbour, must be smiling broadly as he points out that his Democratic rival would repeal practically every one of the alphabetical agencies, that he is opposed to insurance of bank deposits, that he opposes collective bargaining and labor legislation, that he favors repeal of inheritance and income taxes and the substitution of an iniquitous sales tax and that he would terminate work relief projects.

The Barbour campaign headquarters in declaring Cromwell's opposition to the alphabetical agencies, quotes passages from the Democratic book, "In Defense of Capitalism." The Barbour release says that these agencies include the Works Progress Administration, Federal Housing Administration, Home Owners Loan Corporation, Farm Credit Administration, Federal Security Administration, Securities and Exchange Commission, Federal Security Administration, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and many others, and significantly adds that these "have been accepted by public opinion as necessary and desirable adjuncts of government."

It has become quite apparent that sincere New Dealers will have to vote for Senator Barbour in order to maintain the best part of the New Deal philosophy. After all, Senator Barbour has supported the President on many important questions, and has parted company with the Chief Executive only when he honestly believed him to be wrong. He has a good labor record and the most ardent liberal can find nothing in the Barbour record to oppose.

It will be interesting to watch the contortions that Cromwell backers will have to assume in order to make their candidate's record jibe with the liberalism of the Democratic party as now constituted. We wonder how the apologists will defend his opposition to bank insurance, federal housing, regulation of the stock exchange and other great New Deal reforms. We are curious to see how they will reconcile his opposition to child labor reform to the great desire of the leader of his party for the enactment of the constitutional amendment giving Congress the power to prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age.

James H. R. Cromwell is said to be a descendant of the great Oliver Cromwell, England's lord-protector who stamped out the tyranny of an English king. King Charles I and England may have had their Cromwell, but we feel sure that New Jersey voters will want no part of them on November 5.

Red Bank the Mecca
for New York Skippers.

Red Bank and the Shrewsbury river last Sunday received some excellent publicity in the metropolitan press, which carried accounts of the rendezvous to be held this summer in local waters by the New York and Staten Island power squadrons. Last week we were happy to greet the Northern New Jersey squadron. All are units of the United States power squadrons.

The New York Times, under a banner head on one of its sports pages, stated that Red Bank is fast becoming the rival to Lloyd Harbor on Long Island. Lloyd Harbor, the Times states, has been the New York cruising skippers' favored rendezvous and "is so familiar that most boats, like a farm doorman heading toward the stable at night, can find their way to Lloyd's almost without being steered."

Many skippers will visit local waters this Saturday and Sunday for the first time in their lives. By coincidence the national rowing regatta will be staged on the same days, which should prove fine for both the regatta and the yachtsmen. The latter have expressed their desire to co-operate to the fullest with the oarsmen, and will come up slowly on the north side of the river in order to avoid giving the frail craft any wash from their bows. Many of the visiting yachtsmen will no doubt witness some of the races, which should prove an added attraction to their entertainment program, and give them something to remember during their visit to Red Bank.

Commander Charles P. Irwin, Jr., of the newly-formed Shrewsbury power squadron, and other members will go down the river Saturday to meet the visiting squadron and escort the skippers to Red Bank. We extend to the New York and Staten Island yachtsmen a hearty welcome and our best wishes for many pleasant visits to our waters.

How Can I Help in the Defense of My Country?

The Monmouth County Press association recently sent a questionnaire to prominent officials and citizens in New Jersey, asking what they thought New Jersey residents could do to help in the defense of their country. The Register considers several of the replies of sufficient importance to warrant being set forth in these columns. The answers of Governor A. Harry Moore, Major General Clifford R. Powell, commander of the New Jersey National Guard; Gill Robb Wilson, state director of aviation; Colonel Mark O. Kimberling, superintendent of the state police; E. Donald Sterner, state highway commissioner, and J. Spencer Smith, president of the state board of commerce and navigation, are set forth below.

Governor Moore, "By remaining calm, cool and collected; by upholding, cherishing and living out the ideals of America; by teaching them to others; by doing our daily tasks conscientiously and patriotically; by giving the best that is in us and always looking for the best in others; by advocating and helping all efforts for the common defense; by reporting, not investigating, any un-American, suspicious or untoward circumstances and by withholding unjust criticism and suspicion, and realizing that officials of American cities, states and nation are alive to the needs of the hour and are carefully and methodically planning to meet them."

Major General Powell, "There are many vacancies for enlistment in the armed forces of the United States, including the national guard. I feel that those who are eligible can best serve through enlistment and that those who are not eligible can best further the cause of defense by encouraging enlistment until such time as a completed program has been formulated and made effective."

Gill Robb Wilson, "The answer to the question of the average citizen, 'How can I help?' becomes self evident. It is not complicated. Fill up your church pews; stop trying to keep up with the Jones'; cease this abandonment of home training of your children; reassert parental discipline; cease this contemptuous expression for law and government; purge society of its synthetic entertainment; support your community institutions; differentiate between the pursuit of pleasure and the pursuit of happiness and do your own thinking."

Colonel Mark O. Kimberling, "So far as un-American activities are concerned, our citizens might be advised to inform their police or the state police of the name and address of anyone whom they know who has un-American leanings, with a brief statement of activities, in order that a confidential investigation might be made, and the information filed in the central bureau. Citizens should also be warned not to take any part in promoting false accusations against anyone that might prove harmful to an innocent person."

Commissioner Sterner, "South of Sandy Hook the Jersey coastline is unprotected except for the usual supply of fly swatters. The concern being felt throughout the state should serve as the beginning of a general program throughout the highly industrial and densely populated North Atlantic seaboard from Boston and Washington to provide adequate marine bases and increased airport and highway facilities to handle the enormous amount of planes and army mechanized equipment authorized by the president and congress, and determined by military authorities as essential to national defense. The seal with which he contributes to this program will be the measure of every citizen's help in the drive to defend America."

J. Spencer Smith, "I believe that congress should authorize the executive branches of the government to furnish the Allies with everything we can in the way of military supplies and do it at once. That congress should repeal the Johnson act and the Neutrality act. In fact, in the opinion of the military and navy chiefs, declaring war and aligning ourselves with the Allies would help to defeat the dictators, then I think congress should do it. The price of liberty is eternal vigilance. The price of peace is to be strong enough to cause the bully to restrain his desire to flaunt his strength. In order to defend our democratic way of living let us give all the help we can to the Allies and let us use and all inform ourselves as to facts so that we can support those leaders who are endeavoring to build up our defense in the right way and at the same time to preserve our freedom and liberty so that our governmental agencies can function in accordance with the plan laid down in the Constitution."

An Interesting Letter
From an English Girl.

Last week we published an interesting letter from a young English woman, in which this country is taken to task for not plunging in the European maelstrom at the side of Britannia. The communication, written to Mrs. Benjamin Adler of Red Bank by her niece, said in part:

"You say you hope and pray that American boys will not be called up. How do you think we English take news like that? Remember, we are fighting for your freedom as well as ours. If Hitlerism (and it will) comes to England, you are next. Our country is willing to sacrifice men and women to safeguard America, and then you men like Roosevelt don't want to help. Do you wonder why we feel angry? Oh, yes, arms and munitions you will supply if we pay for it with our gold and our sailors have to go and fetch it themselves. But America doesn't want to fight? Why? I know America helped toward the latter end of the last war, but only a financial benefit. This time it is different. Never in history has there been such a war or an excuse for such a war."

We respectfully suggest that a reply along the following lines be sent to this young Englishwoman: "Dear Niece—Much of what you say we recall having heard 20 years ago. At that time you said you were fighting our war and you induced us to come over and take an active part in this mighty effort to make the world safe for democracy. We failed then to make the world safe for democracy; what guarantee have we that the result this time will be different?"

"What about France? Have you been fighting its battle? Your great former ally, which like you in effect made such extravagant claims that Hitler would never set foot on its soil, is rapidly turning to Fascism, with the great Petain, 'defender of Verdun' a quarter of a century ago, as its dictator. Many Frenchmen say that you failed to give the French army adequate aid, but this we wouldn't know. That's a matter between you and your former ally."

"You are very generous in saying that America 'helped toward the latter end of the last war,' but we are deeply hurt by your statement that we helped 'only for a financial benefit.' We fail to see how England won new colonies as a result of the Allied victory in the first war, but the United States received nothing but thousands of broken bodies and a flock of unpaid war debts. And very little gratitude, in the bargain. If your letter is typical of England's low opinion of our assistance then."

No, dear Niece (or should we say Cousin?) we in America abhor dictators and everything that they stand for. We cannot, however, dedicate ourselves to riding the world of every dictator that pops up throughout history. One good reason is that we are not prepared to cross the sea and give battle to these monsters. We can, however, and will, build our defenses to such a point that these dictators will hesitate before coming over and attacking us. You might deem this a selfish attitude, and maybe it is, but it is at least practical, and may be better in the long run for the great cause of world democracy."

"Your reference to Mr. Roosevelt should pain his friends who feel that the President has done much to aid the Allied cause (pardon us, the English cause now). There are many men in this country, such as Wheeler, Lindbergh, to mention a few, who feel that Mr. Roosevelt has been doing too much. Can it be true that maybe Lindbergh was right when he implied that the President would alienate both sides of the controversy—the totalitarian powers because we are always denouncing them and the so-called democracies because we aren't giving them enough aid?"

"No, dear Friend, this seems to be one battle that England will have to fight alone. We are in no position to aid, no matter how much we would want to. But you in your letter state that Hitlerism will not come to England. You and your compatriots seem quite confident of ultimate victory. It is quite possible that you will not need us this time, and if such be the case you won't at a later date have to extend us even the begrudging appreciation that we 'helped,' but only for a 'financial benefit.'"

We feel sure that such a letter to this young English woman might clarify America's viewpoint. We are not prepared to go overseas so that's that. We are now engaged in an important task of creating a barrier to any attempt upon the part of a foreign power from coming ever here. In that we shall succeed,

"HEADLINERS"—DEFENSE.

Atlantic City was privileged to be host over this past week-end to the "Headliners of the United States"—meaning the men and women who gather, write, edit, speak, picture and interpret news. We are conscious of great prejudice when we say that here is the strongest possible defense of freedom and democracy.

To realize this nothing more is necessary than to read the current news from abroad. Rumania's king, the poorly informed civilians of Rumania know nothing about it and resist invasion with arms, resulting in death and misery. Inspired Rumanian papers print that Russia has designs on Hungary, so the Hungarian newspapers call this "Rumanian gangsterism" designed to comfort the citizens of Rumania with the thought that their enemy Hungarians have troubles too. Because of this the inspired Hungarian press gets orders to print vicious stories against Rumania which in turn are supposed to incite bloodshed on the Hungarian-Rumanian border. And so it goes. Everything is propaganda, nothing is truth.

Thank Heaven our media of information in America are still free from newspaper to radio, magazine and billboard. Any who abuse the privilege and would seek to fool the American people are running the risk of almost certain exposure and disgrace, for by and large our "headliners" are honest and alert and they will most certainly seek the truth and make us free with its truthful use.

Only well-informed people are capable of self government. Only intelligently self-governed peoples are proof against mass bloodletting. Only peoples not everlastingly at destruction through bloodletting can long survive.—Atlantic City Press.

BOTH ARE UN-AMERICAN.

For seven years Germany has been building up its war machine. There was nothing secret about it. The democracies knew of it and did nothing either to stop it or to use their then enormous superiority in money and men and machinery to make themselves impregnable. While the Germans built guns, the democracies played games. While the exponents of brute force demanded that their people submit on short rations and give up their comforts, the democracies went their complacent ways spending billions of dollars for almost everything but planes, ships and guns.

Today it comes with shocking force that we Americans must build up our defense. The combined powers of all of the totalitarian countries. Talk won't do. Mere emotional hysteria will get us nowhere. It will mean hard work. It will mean some sacrifices. But above all else, it means that we, the people, must scrutinize the acts of our elected and appointed officials in the light of a national crisis. And when we say that, we are not thinking of Washington. We are thinking of NEW JERSEY.

It would be futile for a people to make individual sacrifices for national defense, as they will before this is over, if in our State House at Trenton, our County Court House or City Hall, money is to be wasted on pet spending projects or civic luxuries or inopportune salary increases, all of which should be deferred until our rearmament program is an accomplished fact and we are ready to defend ourselves, come what may.

Even as this is being written, there are men disloyal to our national emergency, who are lobbying among our legislators at Trenton for hand-outs from the public treasury, buttonholing county officials to spend more of the people's money, or slyly working our city halls for non-emergency purposes and have nothing to do with national defense.

We speak of the dangers of the Fifth Column. There is no difference between the racketeering politician who obstructs America's defense program by unnecessarily increasing the cost of State, County and municipal government, and an alien agent who seeks to sabotage one of our industrial plants.

They are both un-American. You call one a spy. You think of the other as a spender, but you may address him as State Senator, or Assemblyman, or Freeholder, or City Commissioner. Both can wreck democracy.—New Jersey Voter.

THE POLICEMAN IS A FRIEND

Good advice to parents is given by Frank Smith, chief of police of Oklahoma City. He urges them to counsel young folks that a policeman is their friend and helper in time of need. It is unfortunate that some grown-ups try to frighten children into behaving by telling them that a policeman will take them away. The responsibility of the officer as an enforcer of the law may be perfectly well understood without making him a person to be avoided. Many boys are correctly being assured that so long as they are engaged in legitimate activities the man in uniform is their defender. Through police boys' clubs in many cities thousands of youngsters are getting acquainted with patrolmen and detectives and are learning something about how order is maintained. The boy who has made a friend of one of these officers is not apt to be seriously tempted to ward any police action that would forfeit that confidence.—The Christian Science Monitor.

TAXING LONG NAMES.

Certainly the Californian who proposes a tax on long surnames of $1 for each letter more than six—who ever wonders how he reached that limit may be advised that it is Mr. Mickey—has an idea, although whether it is a good idea remains a question. He has entrusted his scheme to Senators Nye and Lee—not Senator Schwelbenach—who suggests that they push it into law.

Fine legal points would crop up: Is an apostrophe to be regarded as a letter for purposes of taxation? Are both sections of a hyphenated name to be counted? Headline writers would interpret the suggestion that M's and W's amount to a letter and a half, and I's to only half a letter. There are many persons so attached to their names that they would keep them and part with the money but there would be a rush of changing, too.

Confusion might arise greatly compounded if large numbers should resort to the device of the Southern clan which Mencken mentions in "The American Language." "The family, having rather unwillingly had to change their name to Enrightly, to secure an inheritance, interpreted news by continuing to pronounce the original name—Darby." So howdy and ha ha, Mr. Tax Collector, for my name is Abdef, and it is to be pronounced Honorificabilitudinitatibus.—New York Sun.

HOLLYHOCKS.

They are blowing in the wind on Cardiff Hill today just as they did when Sam Clemens was Tom Sawyer and saw far below the great steamboats sweeping around the bend above Hannibal. They hold up their spikes of red and pink and yellow and white to the brooding bust as it looks out on the crossroads at sleepy little Florida, where Missouri's greatest son first laughed. They stand in blazing clumps along rail fences, behind the log houses of New Salem, where Abe Lincoln kept store, tended the postoffice and stroled with Ann Rutledge.

Along the palisades at Elsie, from which Frederick Oakes Sylvester painted the Father of Waters on golden afternoons; across the American Bottom, as early settlers called near-by Illinois, up the Old National Trail to Vandalia, down to Festus and Crystal City and beyond to old Ste. Genevieve—out along the road-side to the Lake of the Ozarks, they march, flaunting their brilliance as they go.

The State flower of Missouri may be the State flower in April and that of Illinois may be the wood violet in early spring. When June comes to the Mississippi Valley, the flower of both states is the hollyhock—now singing a chorus of color from wayside garden, fence corner, dooryard and windblown hilltop.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

WINDSORS GO TO BAHAMAS.

If Babe Ruth were to be found signed up to play right field, and pitch once a week, for a team in Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., at $3 a game, you would understand, in a small way, what it means to the King of England, to be appointed Governor of the Bahamas at $12,000 a year. That's a pretty small town job for a man who once reigned on the throne of the mighty Great Britain. Since his abdication and marriage to "the woman I love," he has been a wanderer on the face of the globe. He has been a wanderer almost all his life, but the kind of wandering he has had to do since he left the throne has not been so pleasant. However, it will give him a place to hang his hat and unpack his clothes, a place of more or less permanency, if he behaves himself, and doesn't get mixed up with people who will do him no good.

He and his wife might be a help to the tourist trade of the Bahamas to the tourist who is not content with the pleasures themselves sufficiently accessible to the public. There are people who would travel a long way to get a close-up glimpse of royalty, even second-hand royalty.—Hudson Dispatch.

LIFE IS A FESTIVAL.

A Sunday Call reader asks for a suggestion concerning the choice of some form of collecting that he may adopt as a hobby. This is indeed a difficult task, for there are so many of them. It is best perhaps to settle upon something which one feels he can really be interested in and be well fitted to pursue.

Generally speaking, it is best to collect something that will prompt pleasing memories. Most of those who collect things do so for the sake of memories. We all seek memories, and at least one is apt to be the greatest thing in the world, something really good.

There is nothing more wholesome in life than some good memory. The beauty of a good memory is that it need have no ending, except to the one who has it. It is not open to the judgment of society, it is no one's business but one's own. It is one's own way of trying to make a festival of life.

To find a good memory is to find something that has at least a hint of wisdom in it. And wisdom is what we need for "life is a festival only to the wise."—Newark Sunday Call.

THE SOUND WAY TO CHECK ALIENS.

One of the most practical measures yet taken to counteract possible fifth column activity in this country is the enactment by congress of a bill requiring the registration and fingerprinting of aliens in the United States. This measure is another providing funds for about 500 additional F. B. I. operatives to combat sabotage and espionage.

The necessity of alert defense against the undermining of foreign agents and sympathizers is obvious. We have been shown in the fate of European countries now prostrate beneath the conqueror's heel what happens when a nation fails to guard against boraers from within.

Sensible precaution calls for proper measures against all anti-American activities before they get a head-start. To close our eyes to enemies within our gates, while fortifying national defense elsewhere, would be downright folly.

The hundreds of thousands of aliens in our midst constitute a potential danger source. A considerable majority of them, doubtless, are peaceful, law-abiding men and women. But that is no reason why the ones who are working against this country should not be ferreted out.

The alien registration law provides a means of checking up on non-citizens. Change of address must be noted with the proper officials within five days. Fingerprint records will be kept on file by the F. B. I. There is nothing oppressive about such requirements. There will be a campaign of education prior to the effective date of the law, and there will be no misunderstanding about the regulations. All records are to be secret and confidential, available only to agencies designated by the immigration commission.

Non-citizens who have nothing to conceal should not object to the little inconvenience entailed by registration. That is small return, after all, for the privilege of living in this country. Those who have plenty to hide about themselves and their activities will naturally object to the law. Already howls have gone up about the violation of "civil liberties" in checking up on aliens.

This is nothing to be disturbed about. Civil liberty is not violated by the simple antiseptic precaution of protecting our nation from alien agents lying in ambush.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

ASPECTS OF REVOLUTION.

Italian Fascism is, ideologically, genuinely anti-Communist, and the idea of a Roman Empire, Fascist and Catholic, is a Vatican dream. But the radical Nazis—Goebbels, Himmler, Ribbentrop, and now apparently Hitler himself—have found that the most effective war propaganda has been that coming from the Communists. And this group are for going with Russia and for the world revolution as the best means of establishing German leadership over the whole continent of Europe and eventually of the world.

What Mussolini himself may do is a matter of speculation. If the German-Russian combination should get so strong that it should fail to drive Germany against Russia, while he is mopping up for Pan-Latinism and the Catholic corporate State, Christian but anti-clerical—then he might go Red himself.

At any rate the struggle is not likely to be over in the next few weeks. It is much more profound than that, and it is world-wide in eventual scope.—Dorothy Thompson in the New York Herald Tribune.

THE BUILDER.

Of recent years it has been the fashion among radical reformers to question the value of advertising. The question is easily answered. Nothing in the world sells until it is known. No successful commodity blunders its own way into a store and waits until somebody by some strange chance blunders into buying it. If merchants and factory managers had not hired salesmen, and had not placed advertising, our America would still be what it was in 1740, a handful of poor villages and penitentiary farmers, dotted on the edges of a smoldering forest.

Nothing in the world sells until it is known. No successful commodity blunders its own way into a store and waits until somebody by some strange chance blunders into buying it. If merchants and factory managers had not hired salesmen, and had not placed advertising, our America would still be what it was in 1740, a handful of poor villages and penitentiary farmers, dotted on the edges of a smoldering forest. The simple distribution of the simplest terms, means that you can get your favorite foods, beverages, clothes, shoes, cigarettes, soaps, cosmetics, books, magazines and all other manufactured articles, wherever in the country you are. Bringing this about, in a country 3,000 miles wide, and once apparently divided forever by the Rocky Mountains, has been no child's play. It would never have taken place without national advertising.

Railroads and steamship lines and highways provided the means of transport. But what is the use of transporting goods from a factory in Delaware to a store near a family in Oregon if the goods are not known and, therefore, are not bought? Advertising is the dissemination of news about better and less costly goods than people could make for themselves at home.—Nations Business.

METERS A SYMPTOM.

The merchants of Asbury Park not only pay heavy taxes themselves but they fill the pay envelopes out of which thousands of others pay their taxes. Under the circumstances it might be assumed that council would do everything possible to stimulate their business and give the merchants a chance to maintain and even enlarge payrolls and pay their own taxes.

On the contrary, council has cluttered the city's streets with parking meters that are not only a nuisance but are seriously impairing their business. The protests are reasonable. They request not that all meters be removed but that the meter policy be modified and that some free parking space be provided for those who, rather than deposit the meter tax, go elsewhere to make their purchases. And, as a warning, for a few hours, council held a secret session, these businessmen—businessmen, mind you, who pay council's salaries and provide the tax monies out of which council buys the lubricants for its political machine—were told their protest would be "taken under advisement." This is a pompous phrase signifying nothing.

The situation is not novel. It is symptomatic of the ruthless manner in which the present city administration has consistently sacrificed the interests of the city to suit its own political purposes. Its every move is dictated not by the welfare of citizens and taxpayers but by the desire to advance its own career.

Those who find meters damaging business and threatening lower salaries and loss of jobs are merely learning that the mayor and council has only one interest. And that is the mayor and council.—Asbury Park Press.

THE MEANING OF THE BATTLE.

From a strange war in which Hitler's aim appeared to be the plunder of a small neighbor in Eastern Europe, this has become a contest across all frontiers, and in which all continents are engaged. The world has seen no parallel since the religious wars of the 16th century, and that was a miniature prelude to this all-embracing combat in which men strive for elementary freedom against the blackest tyranny. At last we have recognized that this is no war of nations at all. It is the world civil war. And the stake is every civilizing influence and dream of liberty to which men have trodden their way in the past four centuries.—Evening Standard, London.

REASON ENOUGH TO PASS THE BILL.

Wilhelm Kunze, successor to Fritz Kuhn as the leader of the German American Bund, tells a congressional committee that passage of a bill to compel registration of foreign-controlled organizations would be a step out of the country.—Milwaukee Journal.

Gets Praise From
Lake Hopatcong

Captain Fred Brown, chairman of the race committee of the National Sweepstakes Regatta Association, received from Charles D. Pulis, executive chairman of the Lake Hopatcong Regatta association, a most complimentary letter. The body of the letter is as follows:

Just a line for the record to let you know how much the people of Lake Hopatcong and myself appreciate your coming to the Lake over the week-end and helping us out no end. I feel that a good part of the success of the Regatta is due to your pioneering for us. I have been told by numerous people of the high regard the boys who race these boats have for Fred Brown and what he says absolutely goes.

If there is any little way in which I can be of assistance to you in your racing, please let me know. Next month, it will be great privilege for me to be able to do something for you. I expect to attend and look forward to seeing you at that time. With sincere personal regards.

A LETTER FROM GLENWOOD.

The Register has received a very pleasing letter from Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Nitschelm of Glenwood-on-the-Saco, Glen, New Hampshire. Mrs. Nitschelm is a former Red Bank girl and Mr. Nitschelm is a former resident of Trenton Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Nitschelm are conducting the Glenwood and enjoying a fine season. Part of their letter is as follows:

Summer is here again, and it is time to think of vacationing. Glenwood is always much to be invited to you Jersey folks, and we will be looking forward to welcoming you to Glenwood before long.

It is always much to be invited to you Jersey folks, and we will be looking forward to welcoming you to Glenwood before long. Glenwood is always much to be invited to you Jersey folks, and we will be looking forward to welcoming you to Glenwood before long.

INVITES CORRESPONDENCE

Ocean Beach, N. Y.
July 9, 1940.

Thomas Irving Brown, Editor Register,
Dear Sir,

I am addressing this letter to you in the hope that it will be printed in your columns in the near future. As a member of the National Association of this nation, the future of this country is of immediate concern to me, and to the millions who share in my belief that democracy is the only way to the future. I believe that the present state of affairs is a threat to the future of this country, and that it is the duty of every citizen to take action to prevent it.

But this way of life cannot be defended by the isolation of our national energies. I believe that the United States must concentrate all its energies on building a strong defense force. I believe that the United States must concentrate all its energies on building a strong defense force. I believe that the United States must concentrate all its energies on building a strong defense force.

I believe that the United States must concentrate all its energies on building a strong defense force. 200 Couples At Benefit Party For Hospital

Sapphire Room
Scene of Third
Annual Dance

More than 400 persons from Monmouth county and neighboring localities attended the third annual dinner-dance sponsored by the Monmouth Memorial hospital's medical staff last Friday evening at the Sapphire Room of the Monmouth County Country club for the benefit of the hospital.

Guests were welcomed by Dr. Daniel Featherston of Asbury Park, chairman of the dance committee, and Dr. Harry B. Slocum, chief of the hospital's medical staff. Dr. Featherston's committee included Dr. Louis F. Albright, Dr. Harry W. Ingling, Dr. Martin A. Quirk, Dr. C. Byron Blaisell, Dr. Murray Woronoff and Dr. Frederick Bullwinkel.

Those present who were guests of chairman and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Featherston, included Mr. and Mrs. Emmet McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Devore, Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Carey and Joseph Kahre. At the table headed by Dr. and Mrs. Harry B. Slocum were Dr. and Mrs. Harry C. Scobey, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Love, Miss Janet Slocum, Miss Elizabeth Green, Mrs. Jessie Avall, John Lovett and Miss Lela DeCombe. President of the hospital, entertained the following at a floor-side table: Mr. and Mrs. John C. Borden, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bingham, Mr. and Mrs. Boardman Leonard and Mrs. Bule F. Ware. J. Lewis Hay's guests were Mrs. Edward E. VanHusen, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hay and Mr. and Mrs. John C. Boyd.

A large party gathered at the table headed by Dr. and Mrs. Nicholas Ransohoff, including Dr. and Mrs. Richard Frank, Mr. and Mrs. George Lee, Dr. Bernard Halbshtain, Miss Mary Warren, Miss Frances Prossauer, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Polak, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spear, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gaines, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thalheimer, Harry Whitehouse, Stanley Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Iseman and Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Cone.

Mrs. Park M. Woolley entertained Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas Daniels, and Miss Nellie Hatfield. Dr. and Mrs. C. Byron Blaisell and Dr. and Mrs. Harry W. Ingling headed a table including Mr. and Mrs. Wynne M. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Thompson, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Straus, Congressman and Mrs. William H. Sulphur and Mr. and Mrs. Otis N. Auer.

Dr. and Mrs. John E. Maher were hosts to Prosecutors Mr. and Mrs. J. Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. William McCune, Miss Margaret Mashey, Charles Eager and Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Cole.

At Dr. and Mrs. Murray Woronoff's table were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beam, Dr. and Mrs. William Pengel, Dr. and Mrs. Leroy Close, Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Perrine, Dr. and Mrs. Ann W. Hoyt and Dr. William Matthews.

Dr. and Mrs. Berkeley Gordon were at the table with Dr. and Mrs. Harold Kazman, Dr. and Mrs. Friedman and Dr. Joseph Weiner. Dr. and Mrs. Walter Rulman headed a table consisting of Rev. Herbert S. Craig, Miss Cornelia Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. David Mountford, Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Sutton and Dr. Samuel Hausman.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Altchul's table included Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Rockefeller, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore D. Parsons, Miss Eleanor Taylor, Harold Cook, Mr. and Mrs. George Ruddy, Miss Martha Ruddy, Dr. Irving Baer, Miss Mildred Hartman and Dr. Thomas Miller.

Dr. and Mrs. E. V. Quinn entertained Dr. and Mrs. Martin A. Quirk, Saling Baruch, Mrs. Katherine Hellwig, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hunter, Miss Virginia Girard and Alfred E. Chapin.

Dr. and Mrs. Leon Reiner had as their guests, Dr. and Mrs. Randolph Gulbully, Dr. and Mrs. A. Holters and Commissioner and Mrs. Frank Brazo. Mr. and Mrs. Lester McKnight entertained Miss Henrietta Hennick and James Elsmund.

At other tables were Mr. and Mrs. Manton B. Metcalf, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Gibson, Miss Mildred Peterson, John W. Flock, Jr., William H. Himmelman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Himmelman, Mrs. Harry Dobbin, Miss Kimball Smith, Miss Shirley Hasler, Miss Muriel Brown, Dr. and Mrs. Abram Morris and Dr. and Mrs. Paul K. Bornstein.

Local Townsendites At Keansburg Session

The Keansburg Townsend club held a meeting Monday night at the Oakwood tavern. Several members of the Red Bank Townsend club were guests. New members were taken into the club which now has 218 members.

Plans were made for a bus ride to the World's Fair to be taken sometime in September. The public is invited to attend the outing. The members of the Keansburg club will attend in a body the next meeting of the Red Bank Townsend club to be held at the Red Bank borough hall Monday, July 22.

Prizes donated by one of the members were awarded as a feature of the evening and the gathering was addressed by the officers of the Red Bank club on the Townsend movement. William Zundt, treasurer, and A. Wefelmeyer, secretary, both of the Keansburg group, also spoke.

RED BANK GIRL ENGAGED.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rader of 234 River road, Red Bank, announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothea Grace Rader, to Fred Gregg of Philadelphia. No date has been set for the wedding.

Settle Suit In Auto Accident

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Schwing of 127 Bridge avenue, Red Bank, were successful plaintiffs in a suit which has just been settled by representatives of Bennett Duffie of Hance road, Fair Haven.

The suit arose out of an automobile accident which occurred May 18 of this year on Route 35 near Oakhurst in which the automobile of Mr. Duffie was claimed to have been on the wrong side of the highway and had run head on into the Schwing car. As the result of the accident both Mr. and Mrs. Schwing sustained personal injuries and their automobile was practically demolished.

The amount of the settlement has not been made public, but it is reported to have been $1,500.

Following the accident Mr. Duffie was convicted in the Ocean township recorder's court of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Mr. and Mrs. Schwing were represented by Theodore J. Labrecque of Parsons, Labrecque & Borden.

Announce Betrothal At Dinner Party

Remembers When President James A. Garfield Died

Red Banker Carried Articles From Special Train at Elberon

The Register received a very pleasant call Monday afternoon from Charles H. Throckmorton, who gave us a very descriptive word picture of the laying of a special track from the Elberon station to the cottage where President James Garfield died.

Mr. Throckmorton's visit to The Register was prompted by the picture which appeared in The Register Tuesday showing President Garfield lying in the Elberon cottage in which he passed away.

Mr. Throckmorton, who was born in Long Branch, was a husky lad in his day and stood at the entrance to the property when the single car and train passed in the above mentioned premises. As the engine was uncoupled from the car in which the dying President was being transported, Mr. Throckmorton, with others, helped shove the car on the temporary track across the lawn to the rear of the cottage.

After these chores were attended to, Mr. Throckmorton said he was politely thanked for his service by the man who seemed to be in charge of the operation.

Although the picture showed the President in a wooden bed, Mr. Throckmorton said it was his recollection it was an iron bed in which the President was carried from the special car to the cottage.

ROAD IMPROVEMENTS.

State Highway Commissioner E. Donald Sterner announces that work on the underpass at the intersection of the Holmston-Clarkburg road, Section 2, Millstone township, as part of the State Highway Department WPA Work Relief Program to provide 711 man-weeks of employment for local residents.

Labor will be taken from local relief rolls and paid by WPA, thereby reducing unemployment and cutting the cost of direct cash relief for the state and municipality.

Six inch gravel surface will be spread at a paved width of 26 feet. The improvement will provide an improved outlet for motorists from the Clarkburg section of Monmouth county to the southern points in Ocean county.

Traffic Circle Opened.

The new traffic circle at Asbury avenue and Neptune highway was opened to traffic over the week-end, although it is not yet completed. Work on the $102,000 figure eight shaped circle was started five months ago.

Municipal Topics

By the New Jersey State League of Municipalities

CIVIC RESPONSIBILITY.

"It is not enough to vote regularly, to pay taxes promptly, and to live well within the law. One who does these things would certainly be classified as a good citizen. Every community needs many such people if it cannot do better.

"But a community with only good citizens is likely to be commonplace and lacking in progressive spirit. It takes more than the performance of the minimum requirements of citizenship to make a great community. Many citizens must give their time and energy beyond that which give them a passing mark. It is that amount of energy above the minimum which individuals pour into the life of the community that makes the difference between the mediocre place and the one of distinction." Harold D. Smith, director of the United States Bureau of the Budget, makes this thoughtful observation on civic responsibility in a recent address and had more to say pertinent to the subject and in succinct form that every citizen with the welfare of his community at heart should digest and consider.

"Failure to exercise the privilege of voting is all too prevalent, as has been demonstrated by a number of studies," he continued. "This is the most elemental civic duty, yet many citizens pass it over with the excuse, 'my vote does not count for much anyway.' What a feeble excuse for failing to perform the number one duty of citizenship!

"Since only a relatively few citizens may hold official positions and thus acquire a sense of participation beyond that afforded by the common duties of citizenship, there are other ways in which the individual may participate in community affairs. Most towns and cities have various organizations with community objectives which should invite the interest of many people. There are luncheon clubs, neighborhood organizations, the chamber of commerce, the community fund, labor organizations, church organizations, parent-teacher associations, and farmer groups, to mention a few.

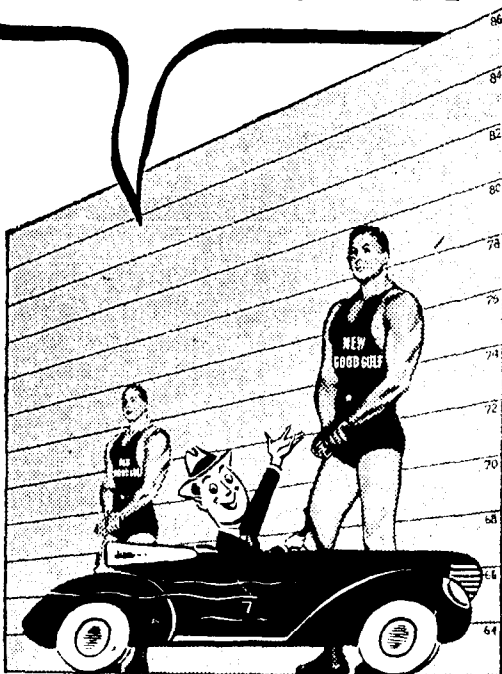

"It is often stated we are over-organized. There is much more danger in under-organization; danger that there are too few organizations to permit the individual to join with his fellows in the advancement of some community objective. He should not be permitted to lose his identity in the community mass and fail to achieve a feeling of constructive participation. His association with some smaller group in the community brings the individual out in sharper relief, and focuses attention upon his role as a member of the community. When he is not allowed to slip into the oblivion of the community mass, he is made more keenly aware of his responsibilities.

Man Dies as Car Upsets After Skid

Joseph Casola, 45, of Crawford's Corner, was killed and his six-year-old nephew was seriously injured when the car they were riding in overturned after it skidded on Route S-28 about a mile north of Matawan, Friday. Casola died of a fractured skull. The boy, Carmine Casola, suffered severe head injuries. Andrew Cinque, 35, also of Crawford's Corner, suffered a fractured right leg and contusions about the body.

Mr. Cinque's son, Genaro, 22, driver of the car, escaped with slight injuries.

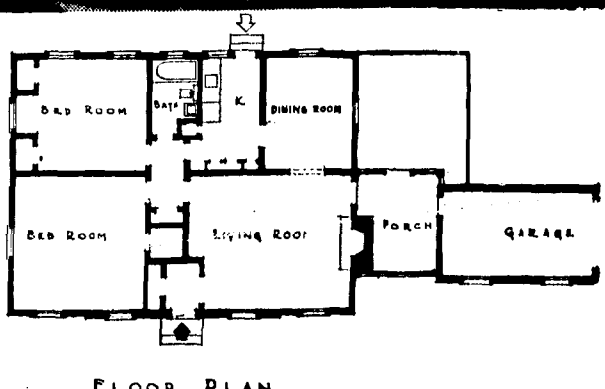

Boy! How they've stepped up Good Gulf!

Those figures up there weren't drawn haphazardly. They're a fair, comparative representation of the tremendous anti-knock improvement in the new GOOD GULF gasoline. They show you precisely how much this great fuel has been improved. The thing they don't show is that even this huge step-up has not raised the price of GOOD GULF one penny. See what a big difference it will make in your car!

Meeting At The Jersey Standard

BY CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM H. SUTPHIN

CLEAN POLITICS

Many people talk about clean politics but it took a Democratically controlled Congress to do something about it. In 1929 the Congress passed the Hatch Act, or what is better known as the Clean Politics Law. This law applies to all Federal employees and provides penalties for using Federal office to influence the votes of WPA workers or others on Federal payrolls.

Just prior to the recess of Congress for the Democratic national convention the House of Representatives passed the second so-called clean politics bill (the Senate had previously acted upon the measure) extending the jurisdiction of the 1938 Act to Federal paid state employees, forbidding state employees, paid wholly or in part with Federal funds, from taking part in political campaigns or political management. It is estimated the latter will affect some 300,000 state employees whose employment is chiefly on state highways, in agricultural enterprises, education and social service departments, where the Federal government contributes to their salaries.

The Bankhead amendment also limits political contributions to $5,000 from any individual; another amendment places a limit of $3,000, 000 on the amount the Presidential candidate's campaign committee can spend.

Marine Insurance.
The House of Representatives passed another measure which was sent to the Senate for action which provided a government-underwritten system of marine risk and war risk insurance, patterned after the war risk insurance act of the last World War, under which a fund in the amount of $40,000,000 in marine insurance is to be set up under the administration of the Maritime commission. The system is designed as a "buffer" against any inability of the private insurance market to meet the demands of commerce, and will not be used to compete against private underwriters. It is said. The system further permits the Maritime commission to insure marine risks directly when insurance is not available at reasonable rates in the private market, and to reinsure its risks assumed by private underwriters thus affording a three-way protection.

Looking Ahead
The National Defense Advisory commission is certainly letting no grass grow under its feet. Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., who is in charge of the procuring of raw materials, access to which might be cut off by the war, reports progress being made by his organization. Both tin and rubber are to be acquired for the government by two new Federal agencies supplied with R. F. funds. The procurement division of the Treasury has also been adding to the government's stores of strategic raw materials for defense purposes by purchases of tungsten, chromium, ore, manganese, optical glass and other essential articles. Of course reserves of this kind, necessary and important though they are, can only meet emergency needs for limited periods of time. Therefore, Mr. Stettinius has properly placed great emphasis upon plans for enlarging the productive capacity of the defense industries. He wishes to encourage production of synthetic rubber. Research in this direction has been under way for many years but now in the face of the existing emergency the perfection of this commodity is going ahead by leaps and bounds. I believe Benjamin Franklin once said that "Necessity is the Mother of Invention," and it seems a truer word was never spoken.

Tin, another essential, will be secured from Bolivia. It is planned to erect a smelting plant for the purpose of utilizing that country's tin ores in case trade with the Straits Settlements is cut off.

Insofar as our economic defenses are concerned, we, the United States, seem to be in a singularly favored position to resist aggression with our abundant and varied resources. Modern warfare severs the trading ties which not only reveal the economic interdependence of nations but also tend to confirm and extend that interdependence. That is why foreign trade has always been regarded as an ally of peace.

Big Tree Limb Falls.
A big limb from the last remaining ancient white oak on the grounds of Old Tennent church broke and fell to the ground last week. More than 200 years ago when the church was built these trees were a mature grove. Tree surgeons had been keeping the tree in order and the limb that broke was supported by a cable. At its thickest part it measured two feet in diameter.

Watch the Babies Around the Water

No sooner does summer weather set in than the number of accidental drownings begins to mount daily, mainly as the result of swimming and boating misadventures. Emphasis is rightly placed, therefore, in our accident-prevention crusades at this season on these recreational hazards.

There is a curious aspect of the nation's annual drowning record, however, which should not be lost sight of in our preoccupation with the broader phases of the problem of preventing drownings—one which parents of little children, particularly, should ponder. More one-year-old children than persons of any other single year of age drown annually, and those aged two years also contribute far out of proportion to their number to the toll of drownings. Each year throughout the United States approximately 400 children one or two years old drown accidentally.

A relatively small number of these deaths of young children are reported from beaches and other resorts. This is rather surprising to anyone who has watched groups of adults absorbed in their own enjoyment at beaches, blissfully unmindful of their charges. Most of the fatalities occur in our own back yards, particularly our suburban and rural back yards. A perusal of the records relating the circumstances under which 43 children aged one or two years, insured in the industrial department of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, who were drowned in 1939, indicates that about two thirds of these deaths occurred on the home premises.

A typical tragic case illustrates the suddenness with which many of these deaths occur. A 16-month-old girl was left alone in a yard by her mother who, while working in the house, occasionally looked out of the window to see what the child was doing. This went on for about an hour, when the mother noticed that the child had disappeared. The child's body was found later in a lily pond at the side of the house. Ironically, on the ground near the pond were a roll of wire and some boards which the father had intended to use in building an outdoor play pen for the girl's safe play.

The largest number of these injured children were drowned in fish ponds. Others, like the little girl in the example cited, fell into lily ponds. Cisterns, cesspools, irrigation ditches, and small streams which cut through their back yards were the scenes of other tragic deaths. In still other instances the youngsters climbed into low open barrels, vats, or other containers of fluids.

Thirteen of the insured little children fell into water when they strayed from their own yards and were not missed until it was too late to overtake or rescue them. Because of the very nature of the accident, the child cannot cry out for help. Some wandered comparatively long distances. One two-year old fell into a lake which was located no less than a quarter of a mile from his home. Most of those who wandered off were drowned in near-by rivers, creeks, brooks or other bodies of water.

Despite constant warnings from safety organizations, some mothers still take chances and leave youngsters "for a minute or two" near or in a partly filled bathtub. Several of the children in the group studied climbed into such tubs and were drowned before their mothers returned. One child, left alone in his bath for a minute while his mother was answering a telephone call, fell on his face and was drowned.

The responsibility for preventing drownings among these very young children is obviously in the lap of the parents. Children of this age must be watched constantly. They cannot be left alone safely for even a short time outside the house where there are natural or artificial ponds, nor inside the home near tubs or pans partly filled with water.

Surprise Shower Held at Belford

A surprise shower was given last week for Mrs. Joseph Dunn, Jr., the former Lena Aduhato, by Mrs. Ida Bailey and Mrs. Helen Layton at the Belford home of Mrs. Bailey. Decorations were pink and blue and the gifts were arranged in a doll's crib. Refreshments were served.

Among those present were Mrs. Rosa Vanderbilt, New Brunswick; Mrs. Edna Hellmuth, Somerville; Mrs. Francis Kosta, Matawan; Mrs. Hanna Stalla and Mrs. Katharine Myers, Keyport; Mrs. Helen Layton, Union Beach; Mrs. Marge Warfel, Mrs. Mary Koch and Mrs. Ruth Lewis, New Monmouth; Mrs. Marge Jensen, Kearsburg; Mrs. Laura Nicholas and Mrs. Lillian Richards, Red Bank, and Mrs. Rose White and Mrs. Emma Aduhato, Belford.

CIVIL SERVICE JOB.

An examination will be held at Long Branch for the position of apprentice instrument maker at Fort Monmouth. Applications may be obtained from the secretary of the board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners at any first or second-class post-office in the vicinity of Fort Monmouth, or from the manager of the Second U. S. Civil Service district, Federal building, Christopher street, New York city, and applications must be filed with the manager at the New York office not later than July 24.

The job pays $900 a year, with increases to $1,200 after three years.

RENTS SUMMER HOME.

Cornelia Van A. Chapin, sculptor, has rented the McClesse house on Navasink River road for the summer. Miss Chapin cuts stone and wood direct from life, with no preliminary model or sketches. Her work is represented in private collections at New York, Philadelphia, Washington, London and Zurich.

New Child Labor Law Effective September 1st

Limits Working Hours, Tightens Regulations and Bans Many Jobs

Newsboys Must Be 14 Years Of Age

New Jersey's new child labor law will go into effect September 1st and states specifically what employers may or may not do in relation to the employment of minors, and provides a stiff penalty for violations under Chapter 153, Laws of 1940.

Another important state statute which becomes effective September 1st is Chapter 154, which makes school attendance compulsory between the ages of 7 and 16. The law formerly provided that children over 15 who had completed the eighth grade or those over 14 who had completed the sixth grade did not have to go to school.

Labor Department in Picture.

The new child labor law calls for a maximum degree of co-operation between municipal school authorities and employers of labor on one hand and the State Department of Labor on the other. Responsibility for compliance falls on the employer. A violation will be considered a misdemeanor, punishable by not less than $25 nor more than a $500 fine, or imprisonment for 10 to 90 days, or both. Each day a violation continues will be considered a separate offense.

To prevent the importation of child labor into New Jersey, the new law provides that minors under 16 cannot be employed here in any capacity during the hours which the law of his or her own state or New Jersey would require his attendance in school. It also requires out-of-state minors to produce proof of age.

The new law calls for employment certificates for all minors under 18, except those engaged in agricultural pursuits. In the latter case, a minor under 16 must procure a special permit to engage in agricultural pursuits.

Working Papers.

Employment certificates will be issued by superintendents of schools, advising principals or teachers designated by boards of education to issue them. In no case is it compulsory on the part of the certificate issuing officer to issue a certificate. He may refuse it, in his judgment, the best interests of the minor would be served by a refusal. The issuing officer must keep a record of refusals and his reasons.

The law provides for a 40-hour week for all minors under 18; that they work not more than six consecutive days in a week, nor more than eight hours a day. Minors under 16 may not start work before 7 a. m. or later than 7 p. m. Minors between 16 and 18 may not start work earlier than 6 a. m. or work after 10 p. m., except in the case of those between 14 and 18, who may be employed in a concert or theatrical performance up to 11 p. m. The foregoing working times do not apply to minors in agricultural pursuits.

Detailed Data Demanded.

There will be two kinds of employment certificates issued, one permitting employment during school hours and the other permitting employment during school vacations and non-school hours. In each case the certificate must contain detailed information about the prospective employer and the type of employment. If a minor leaves a job, he or she must get certificate for the files of the next employer.

The new law has no requirements as to hours per day or weeks a minor between 18 and 21 may work, but it does compel employers to keep a detailed record of the name, date of birth and address of each minor under 19, hours worked each day, the starting and stopping hours, and the amount of wages paid in each case. Those records do not apply in the case of minors engaged in agricultural pursuits or in domestic service in private homes.

Although Chapter 153 lists certain types of work in which a minor under 18 may not be employed, Chapter 154 gives permission to employ minors over 14 in factories, workshops and mills where the employment would be considered as part of the schooling of such children. In such cases the employment certificate would be granted by the commissioner of education and the commissioner of labor.

Such certificates would be granted only in the cases of children over 14 who are studying part-time in grammar or high schools or vocational schools.

Many Jobs Banned.

The list of employment prohibited to minors under 18 under Chapter 153 is a lengthy one. One of its prohibitions is the employment of persons under 18 in public bowling alleys or billiard rooms and places where alcoholic beverages are sold, made or brewed.

It prohibits the employment of minors under 18 in paint factories or where dangerous or poisonous acids or dyes are made. The laws would prevent them from working around most types of machinery, such as stamping, cutting or corrugating machines and punch presses.

They may not work in mines or quarries, smelters, furnaces, foundries, forging shops or in construction work of any kind. Work for minors under 18 where grinding, abrasive, polishing and buffing machines are used is also taboo.

The task of enforcing the law is up to labor department inspectors and school attendance officers. In addition, agents of duly incorporated societies for the protection of children from cruelty and neglect may enter any establishment and have access to employment and age certificates.

Common Sense Advice During Hot Weather

To be comfortable during hot weather, live sensibly, form regular habits of living, get plenty of rest, and above all, try to acquire a cheerful and philosophical outlook on life. Such is the advice offered by Dr. J. Lynn Mahaffey, state health director, and the United States Public Health Service, which has just issued a leaflet on "Comfort During Hot Weather."

Hot weather comfort and efficiency can be increased by following a few simple procedures regarding food, drink, clothing, exercise, sleep and exposure to sun.

Recommendations of the Federal and State authorities are:

(1) Food. The influence of a warm climate on the amount of food required by an individual is commonly exaggerated. The temperature of the body is adjusted not so much by increasing or diminishing the amount of heat we produce, as by regulating the amount of heat lost. It is therefore desirable during hot weather to increase the intake of fluids which will promote sweating, a mechanism by which the skin is cooled. Fresh fruits and vegetables are excellent sources of fluid and in addition contain food elements much needed by the body during hot weather. As a general consideration, fried foods and rich pastries should be curtailed as food of these types tends to increase heat production.

(2) Drink. Attention has already been called to the necessity of drinking adequate amounts of water (6 to 8 glasses a day) to induce sweating. Fruit juices are excellent, but weak drinks, being palatable and effective in quenching thirst.

When on motor trips drink only from wells and springs approved by the health department. In many states, the State Health department has signs posted denoting a safe water supply. When in doubt, it is advisable to inquire of local authorities.

When sweating is profuse a large amount of sodium chloride is lost. When excessive, the loss of fluid and of chlorides from the blood may lead to heat cramps and to heat exhaustion. It is believed that these conditions may be prevented by the drinking of an occasional glass of water to which a small amount of table salt has been added. Three or four grains of salt to a pint of water should be sufficient.

(3) Clothing. The weight, texture and color of the clothing have a great influence on the loss of heat through the evaporation of moisture from the skin. A safe and comfortable body temperature is maintained by free evaporation of sweat from the surface of the body. To aid in such evaporation, the clothing should be loose and of such character as to permit the easy passage of air. Materials such as cotton or linen aid most in avoiding the burning effect of the hot sun. It should be remembered that dark colors absorb the sun's rays and are, therefore, warm in hot weather. White clothes reflect the rays of the sun and are cool in hot weather.

(4) Exercise. Light exercise adapted to your own strength and condition of health is preferable. All forms of active physical exercise immediately before or after meals should be avoided. Swimming is one of the best sports for the hot weather since it does not cause overheating of the body.

Refrain from strenuous exercise during the hottest part of the day.

(5) Sleep. A comfortable night's rest during the severe heat of summer will make the next day's heat seem less oppressive. The use of an oscillating electric fan which keeps air in motion without harmful direct drafts will help to insure a good night's sleep.

It is particularly beneficial to observe regular hours of sleep during the summer.

(6) Bathing. Frequent bathing helps to keep the body cool and refreshed. The shower bath is recommended as it does not have the sedative and weakening effects of the protracted tub bath.

(7) Exposure to sun. It is best to begin with brief exposure each day until the skin becomes lightly tanned, after which the body may be exposed to the rays of the sun for longer periods. Persons with sensitive skins should be especially careful as overexposure to direct sun rays may cause severe burns.

According to the Public Health Service and State health authorities, the observance of these recommendations will do much to lessen the discomfort ordinarily experienced during the hot season.

Limiting Taxes On New Development

By HERBERT U. NELSON, (Executive Vice President, National Association of Real Estate Boards)

In Buffalo, New York, private enterprise has found a way to turn 13 blocks of downtown waterfront blight into new economically valuable use as an apartment neighborhood. It has taken some pioneering state legislation and some pioneering civic co-operation to pave the way. The necessary contracts are now being worked out for a tax adjustment covering the next 20 years to which the city has agreed, which will make the ten million dollar improvement possible.

Freehold, magazine of real estate, in its July 1 issue tells the story of why Lower Main street, Buffalo, "has the makings of a real news event in contemporary real estate practice."

Seventy-two old structures, lying between the business heart of the city and the lake and river, will be razed to make room for "Fairhaven Village," 11 modern apartment buildings, eight stories high, with gardens and terraces about them. The assessed valuation of the whole tract in its present run-down condition is only $483,940. The contract now being worked out between "Fairhaven Village, Inc." and the city is for a pegged assessed valuation of one million dollars over the next 20 years, after which the city regains the power to assess in the regular way.

"By this arrangement," says Freehold, "the financial institution underwriting the Fairhaven mortgage loan has an absolute first lien on the property, approximately four-fifths of the tax lien having been removed for 20 years. After 20 years Fairhaven will pay on a probable assessed valuation of five million but by that time the mortgage will have been completely retired."

To make way for building the coming "Fairhaven Village" 10 separate properties had to be assembled through private purchase from their separate owners—a gigantic task. "When all the options were at last obtained, the square foot cost turned out to be several times the price of land in good residential districts in other parts of the city. Something had to be done to co-ordinate this uneconomic factor into an economically possible redevelopment formula."

It is worth noting that the use found for the Buffalo tract down at the lower end of Main street is by no means low-cost housing. The apartments are planned with big solarium living rooms with broad corner windows, most of them so arranged that they have a view from their own waterfront across Lake Erie to the Canadian shore, and breezes to go with the view. They are to be priced at $20 a room per month. That's the kind of location we've been letting go to waste in slums in many a great city.

It is said that 40 years ago some 1,600 families lived in the area. Today, should the blight, there are only 62. When the new construction is completed it is planned that there will be living units for 1,078 families once more, although 80% of the whole tract will be garden and playgrounds. You will be able to walk to work downtown from Fairhaven but garages for 700 cars are planned underground.

Sent Home By War.

Thirty-five years of service in the relative calm of an American university in Asia. Minor have been brought to a close. Miss Jane VanZandt, of Ocean Grove, as she reached the United States last week on a liner that steamed through the war-torn Mediterranean. Miss VanZandt founded a nursing school at Beirut, Syria, 35 years ago and had served continuously since then except for occasional visits to her home.

Actor's Father Dies.

Abraham Gorcey, 88, father of Bernard Gorcey, one of the stars of "The Sign of the Cross," and grandfather of Leon Gorcey, who played one of the leading roles in "Dead End," died Sunday at his home at Long Branch after a short illness. Mr. Gorcey was born in Russia and had been in this country over 60 years. He was a retired tailor. Four other sons survive him as do 20 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Saved Child's Life.

The life of Ruth Suydam, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Suydam of Farmingdale, was saved last week when Irving Cohen, operator of a liquor store across the street from her home, tore apart her safety harness to which she was hanging outside her baby carriage. The child was badly strangled by the harness and was gasping for breath when Mr. Cohen reached her.

Car Takes a Ride.

An automobile rolled leisurely down Broadway, Long Branch, for a distance of 150 feet Monday night. When Policeman Kaplan made an investigation he found the car doors locked and on one in the car. It was learned the car belonged to Mrs. Blanche Silk of Sea Bright, who had parked it while attending a theater and in some unexplained manner it had been started moving.

Ardena Man Loses Arm.

Joseph Schmerbach, 52, of Ardena, underwent an operation at Mercer hospital, Trenton, last week for the amputation of part of his right arm. Mr. Schmerbach was employed by the United Gravel company at Morristown, Pennsylvania, when a crane broke and pinned him under it. It was more than an hour before he could be extricated.

Dies in Florida.

Ferdinand Loeb, 81, retired broker and an original member of the New York Curb Exchange, died Sunday in a hospital at Miami, Florida, after a brief illness. He retired in 1934 from partnership in the firm of Baumberger and Loeb. He maintained a summer home at Asbury Park. Surviving are a widow, one son and three daughters.

A Young Publisher.

John Kahn, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Kahn of Matawan, is in all probability New Jersey's youngest editor and publisher. He has completed the fourth issue of "The Matawan Trumpet." The six-page edition appears in mimeograph form and contains editorials, social events, general news and advertisements.

Keyport Girl Weds.

Miss Charlotte T. Esposito, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glosio Esposito of Keyport, was married last Saturday week in St. Joseph's church at that place to James Piazza, son of Mrs. Virginia Piazza of Matawan. Following the ceremony a reception was held for 600 guests at Harmony hall at Middletown.

Licenses Suspended.

The liquor license of the Silver Palm tavern at Asbury Park has been suspended for 30 days on a charge that false information was contained in the corporation's application for its license. The false statement was to the effect that Miss Ervel Powers, a stockholder in the company, was a resident of the state for five years.

Civil War Veteran Dead.

Thomas L. P. Dally, 92, of Ocean Grove, one of the last Civil war veterans in this section, died Wednesday of last week. Mr. Dally was a retired envelope manufacturer, having been in business at New York for 50 years. He is survived by two daughters, two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Freehold Girl Weds.

Miss Charlotte B. Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore B. Lewis of Freehold, and Henry C. McDuff, Jr., of Pawtucket, R. I., were married Friday afternoon on the lawn of the bride's home. The couple will make their home at New York where the groom is in the Cornell medical school.

Man Killed as Car Upside.

Albert Schulz, 41, of Maplewood, died Sunday and his 22-year-old girl companion was taken to Hazard hospital at Long Branch after their car overturned on Route 36 near Keyport. It is believed that Schulz fell asleep at the wheel. His companion, Mrs. Regina Hosp of Irvington, received shoulder injuries.

Jewel Robbery at Spring Lake.

A considerable amount of jewelry was stolen from the summer home of Mrs. Sarah Lehrfeld at Spring Lake recently. Among the articles stolen was a brooch set with 103 diamonds and valued at $3,000. Another brooch contained 92 diamonds and 46 sapphires and there were several valuable diamond rings in the loot.

Neptune City Man Dies.

Gilbert D. Vallaux, 70, of Neptune City, died Wednesday of last week in Pitkin hospital. He was known along the water front as Captain Bert and had piloted many fishing boats out of Shark river a few years ago. He was a widower and had two daughters.

Move for Parking Lot.

A committee of Keyport business men has been formed to conduct a drive to raise $3,000 for the purchase of a public parking lot. The property under consideration is a tract south of Front street known as the Henry Cooper property and a lot off Broad street owned by the Odd Fellows.

Freehold Couple Wed.

Miss Betsy M. Johnson, daughter of Jack Johnson, and Hugh Yarrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Yarrington, both of Freehold, were married Sunday of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Thompson, with whom the bride resided. The couple will make their home in Pennsylvania.

Killed in Fall from Window.

Mrs. Sophie Marx, 65, a former resident of Deal, was killed last Thursday morning in a fall from the window of her room on the top floor of the Berkeley-Carter hotel at Asbury Park, where she had been a summer resident the past ten years. Mrs. Marx is survived by one son.

Marriage Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hall of Adelphi have announced the marriage of their daughter, Margaret, to James Hulshart, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Rufus Hulshart of Georgia Schoolhouse. The wedding took place on the bride's birthday April 30 last. Mr. Hulshart operates a farm with his father.

Decision Upheld By Circuit Court

Prudential Co. Must Pay Iverson Heirs

The appeal of the Prudential Insurance company, based on the plea that one of the jurors was insane, was denied Friday by a jury sitting in circuit court at Newark. The jury's decision of May 8, in which the insurance company was ordered to pay $10,875 to the heirs of the late Laurence Iverson, former Shrewsbury councilman, who was killed by a railroad train at the Silverside avenue crossing in Little Silver, March 6, 1938, was upheld. The company paid Mrs. Dorothy Iverson $10,000 dollars after her husband's death but refused to pay a similar sum, in accordance with a double indemnity clause, on the grounds that death was caused by suicide.

Taking as their grounds, the fact that Andrew Cifrak of Matawan, was admitted to the Marlboro state hospital six days after the award was made, the company refused payment and appealed the case. However, Judge Smith ruled that when a party fails to examine a juror when he is called to the box, he "waives his right to object to the juror's service on account of any lack of mental capacity."

The judge pointed out that Cifrak was the only dissenting vote after only one half hour of deliberation by the jury. He held out for seven hours before agreeing with the majority and the decision rendered. Doctor J. Berkley Gordon, director of the Marlboro state hospital, testified that Cifrak was suffering from a mental disorder when he entered the hospital and probably also during the trial.

For Lunch Or Dinner — A Tempting Economical Frozen Tuna Fish Salad

For lunch or dinner—on Friday or any other day in the week here is a salad that will tempt the appetite of the most picky individual and it's so inexpensive that it will certainly tempt the housewife who watches her budget. Most of the ingredients are things that we usually always keep on hand so there won't be much marketing on this day!

FROZEN TUNA FISH SALAD

1 cup tomato catsup
1/2 cup of tomato
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup flaked tuna fish
2 tablespoons plain gelatin
6 tablespoons cold water

3 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 teaspoon horse radish
1 tablespoon cold water
Soak gelatin in the six tablespoons of cold water and dissolve over boiling water. Add tuna fish catsup, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, vinegar, horse radish, which has been soaked ten minutes in the tablespoons of cold water, salt and mayonnaise. Mix gently. Pour into two trays of automatic refrigerator and allow to freeze, stirring once during freezing process. Cut into one-half inch squares and serve on one-half inch slices of lettuce. Use three slices of tomato for each salad and place a square on each slice. Garnish with additional mayonnaise and serve. Tiny mounds of cold slaw may be used in place of the tomato slices. Serve with hot biscuits or rolls. Serves six.

A Tasty Sauce Makes Home-Made Ice Cream Seem Twice As Good

When the family gathers around the old ice-cream freezer on Sunday evening, or stands and looks longingly at the refrigerator in which is resting the ice cream, the housewife may begin to wonder if she hasn't forgotten something that will make the ice cream so much more interesting—well—there is always a sauce of course—And should she not happen to have made some in advance and stored it away, it doesn't take so long to make it right on the spur of the moment!

HOT FUDGE SAUCE

1 square chocolate or 3 tablespoons cocoa
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup hot water
1/2 cup coffee cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add butter, sugar, salt and hot water. Heat until all sugar crystals are dissolved. Cook five to ten minutes. Beat well. Serve hot over vanilla cream. If cocoa is used, mix cocoa, sugar, and butter before heating. Then add cream and let cook to a creamy consistency. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE

2 cups brown sugar
6 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup hot water
Melt butter in sauce pan and add brown sugar. Continue stirring until butter and sugar are well mixed. Add hot water and cook approximately ten minutes. Cool. Place in refrigerator to chill.

Cookies to be dropped from a spoon, like the ones the pan, do not need as much flour as the rolled variety. The dough is a little thicker than ordinary cake batter. When dropped from the spoon, leave space between spoonfuls to allow them to spread while cooking. A moist thin dough will make a broad thin wafer. Thicker dough keeps its shape better. After the first panful is in the oven, it may be noticed that the cookie spreads more than is desired, in which case, add a little more flour to the rest of the batter. Too much flour makes a tough cookie.

Dining Abroad At Home

Tasty Foreign Dishes Improve
Meaneast Meal

Thank goodness for the imagination of some cooks of other countries. They made it possible for us to make a feast of a plain meal by merely serving one of their tasty creations such as these for string beans:

STRING BEANS SPANISH STYLE

Peel and cut an onion in four quarters and slice each quarter thinly crosswise. Melt 3 tablespoons of butter in a pan, add the onions, and cook 15 minutes or until slightly amber colored, add a green pepper thinly sliced. Then add 1 pound of fresh string beans. Cook a few minutes, then add a pint can of tomatoes, heated. Bring to a boil, add a teaspoon of salt, and simmer slowly until the beans are tender.

STRING BEANS FRENCH STYLE

Boil string beans until tender in salted water. Drain thoroughly. Turn into a pan, set over a moderate fire, in three tablespoons of melted butter. Cook and toss until all the butter is absorbed. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Put in a hot dish. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and a few drops of lemon juice.

COTTAGE CHEESE SALMON SALAD FOR ANY SEASON OF THE YEAR

Have you ever prepared a Cottage Cheese Salmon Salad? It is one recipe which calls for a minimum of ingredients but gives a maximum of satisfaction.

This salad makes an ideal main dish for a buffet service at informal suppers and luncheons. In addition to its being a delicious salad it is exceptionally good to use as a spread for canapés or sandwiches.

As with most salads of this type in order to improve it, it is advisable to prepare it an hour or more before serving and place in the refrigerator. Either red salmon or tuna fish may be used in this recipe and, of course, your milkman or grocer can supply the jar of cottage cheese.

The recipe is very simple and easy to prepare. You will wish to add it to your collection of salad favorites.

COTTAGE CHEESE SALMON SALAD

1 cup cottage cheese
1 cup minced salmon (red)
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped sweet pickles
Salt and pepper to taste
1/2 cup mayonnaise

Combine all ingredients in order given. Allow to stand in a cold place for an hour before serving to improve flavor. Serve on lettuce. Tuna fish may be substituted for the salmon if you so desire. Serves six.

HOME CANNED TOMATO SOUP

With one eye watching the markets waiting for tomatoes to reach a low price and the other eye on this recipe the housewife can be assured that she will have on hand for future use, a grand supply of canned tomato soup. And such a soup—my! my! it will make friends husband and children and the children will forget what fun it is to lunch at school and hustle home.

1 peck tomatoes
3 leaves of basil
1 head celery
4 large onions
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup salt
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup butter
5 or 6 whole peppers
1 slice garlic

Cut the tomatoes in quarters, cut the celery in 2-inch lengths, slice the onions, and cook with the basil and soda over a low fire for three hours. Strain and add salt, sugar and flour which have been mixed to a smooth paste with the water. Add the butter, peppers and garlic. Boil hard for five minutes and can in sterilized jars.

A Tempting Mousse To Please The Appetite

By SIDNEY SNOW

FOR GOOD EATING and a good appetite teaser in this hot weather one should try this delicious mousse—it's bound to be a great success.

A timely tip for serving all mousses, etc.—is to chill the plate or platter on which it is to be served—and chill it well.

GRAPE-NUT MOUSSE

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

1 cup cream, whipped
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup Grape-Nuts

Bring sugar and water to a boil and boil until syrup spins a thread when dropped from tip of spoon (232° F.). Pour slowly over egg whites, beating constantly. Continue beating until mixture is cool (about 3 minutes). Fold in cream and vanilla. Add Grape-Nuts. Place in freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and let stand 3 to 4 hours, or until firm. Or turn in mold, filling it to overflowing, cover with waxed paper, press cover lightly down over paper, and pack in equal parts ice and salt. Let stand 3 to 4 hours, or until firm. Makes about 1 1/2 pints mousse.

Stretching The Food Dollar With The Aid Of Pineapple

Goodness knows we're all doing it—here on the heels of the holidays—stretching the food dollar! Or trying to. But the greater problem is that of keeping the inexpensive foods from seeming dull, prosaic, monotonous!

So we look around for tricks to add eye appeal, or allure, and appeal, and solve the problem. Let's try pineapple. Canned pineapple poses a lot of this trickery of both kinds.

Let's roll up our sleeves and perform a bit of magic. All set?—Presto-change-o! Here we go!

Dollar-stretchers to attract both the eye and the palate.

SALADS

Cabbage—Add pineapple tidbits or thin slices to shredded cabbage, quartered marshmallows, chopped green peppers and mayonnaise.

Carrots—Combine crushed pineapple, cut slices or tidbits with grated raw carrots, walnuts and salad dressing. If desired, fold into half-coagulated lemon-flavored gelatin.

Cottage Cheese—Combine 1/2 cup stewed pineapple, chopped 1/2 cup cottage cheese, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise. Split 6 slices pineapple crosswise through center. Between slices put a 1/2-inch layer of the cottage cheese filling. Garnish with mayonnaise and sprinkle with paprika (or roll edges of pineapple in paprika) before putting together. Serve on salad greens.

FRUITS
Pineapples—Add 1 small can of pineapple tidbits to prunes just before you cook them. Cook 15 minutes more. Serve cold.

Apples—Cook sliced apples in syrup poured off canned pineapple. Apples, baked—Fill centers with crushed pineapple before baking. Baste with the pineapple syrup.

Dried Fruits—Chill together cooking the leaves to steep for more than the usual five minutes, or by using more tea or both.

It is entirely feasible to make a whole day's supply of iced tea one time. The tea will not deteriorate through the day if allowed to cool at room temperature. Pour the infusion off the leaves into the pot or vessel in which it is to be kept, cover with a cloth or lid and put it to one side.

Do not put the brew into the ice box. It has a tendency to lose its flavor and it may absorb odors from the refrigerator.

Right after brewing or after the tea has cooled, first fill the glass about two-thirds full of ice and pour the tea over the ice. It may be served sweet or unsweetened or with lemon or milk to suit the taste.

MUSTARD PICKLES
1 cabbage (can be omitted)
2 heads cauliflower
2 quarts green tomatoes, sliced
2 quarts small cucumbers
1 quart medium sized cucumbers sliced
2 quarts small onions
5 green peppers, with seeds removed and peppers dried
1 large bunch of celery, sliced

Soak over night in a brine made of 4 quarts of water and 1 pint of salt. Drain. Cover with vinegar. 1 ounce of white mustard seed, soaked until tender but not soft. Drain and throw vinegar away.

Prepare a sauce of 1 cup flour, 6 tablespoons mustard, 1 tablespoon turmeric; add enough cold vinegar to make a paste; 3 cups sugar; 2 quarts vinegar. Boil all until it thickens and pour over vegetables. Bring to a boil and store in sterilized jars. Seal and store away for use as desired.

PREPARING FOR SUMMER WITH ICED TEA

In spite of the international popularity of tea as a beverage, the custom of serving it iced is almost exclusively American. Here, in the summer, the popularity of iced tea outstrips that of all other beverages.

For the best results, the brewing of iced tea requires a different treatment from hot tea. Iced tea should be made stronger than hot tea because it is subconsciously diluted. The brew can be strengthened either by al-

Hot Off the Griddle

By ESTHER DONLAN

One should use washable papers for bathrooms and kitchens. Good color-fast papers may be made washable by the application of a thin coat of varnish, but before this is done a sample should be tested to see that the color does not run. Some papers without the usual high glaze are sold as washable, and fingermarks can be washed off with a mild soap and a little water, but it is well to test a sample before buying.

Where only 2 or 3 cups of tea are to be made, a tea ball is the most convenient method to use. However, do not pack the tea too tightly into the ball to allow for the expansion of the tea leaves.

Green vegetables fade with long cooking and an excess of water. A pinch of cooking soda added when they are boiling will neutralize the acid which causes vegetables to fade, but will affect unfavorably their vitamin content.

If the kitchen sink has only one drain board, the kitchen table or kitchen cabinet may be placed at one side of the sink, and the table surface used for stacking or draining purposes.

Linens should be damper than cotton goods for ironing. Sheets, pillow cases, and other flat cottons need to be ironed very dry enough to achieve a smooth finish when ironed either by the mangle or by hand. Heavy linens, to obtain a smooth finish when ironed, need to be well dampened, though not so much for machine as for hand ironing.

Iron must have protection of rusting. And iron and fire tools, etc., may be cleaned and protected by rubbing off occasionally with liquid wax. Small rust spots may be removed by rubbing with very fine sand paper and then polished with wax. If the iron is to be placed in storage for a time, give them a coating of vaseline and wrap up in a cloth.

A waxed floor presents the nicest appearance but is slippery unless the wax is skillfully applied. Wax, on top of a good shellack, gives a hard, easily preserved finish. If wax alone is to be used on a new floor, or on one from which all other finish has been removed, wax the floor with a strong pine or oxalic acid solution. Before it is too dry, rub it and smooth it with a rough brush. Sweep up any dust and apply a filler wax. When this is dry, apply a thin coat of floor wax. Polish to prevent any excess grease and slipping. When this surface becomes soiled, the floor can be wiped off with turpentine and re-waxed. Too much wax makes floors slippery, too little makes them sticky and dull looking. Use a thin film and polish until hard and lustrous.

In choosing any pots and pans consider their shape as well as their construction. Straight-sided utensils with flat bottoms, completely covering the surface of the heating unit, will save fuel. Where small quantities are frequently employed and cooking surface limited, choose a set of two or three pots that fit together over one burner. In construction, see that the handles are non-conductors of heat, and well balanced so that the pot does not tip when empty. Slightly rounded corners and edges without a rim or with a thick molded rim are easier to clean. Lids should fit tightly and have simple edges that will be easy to clean.

Cod liver oil may supplement or be added to the diet, particularly for children until two years, and for older children, when they do not eat well, or when there seems to be general indication for it for the child's well-being.

Use baking powder with sweet milk and baking soda with sour milk. When substituting sweet milk use four times as much baking powder as soda called for in the milk recipe. A little lemon juice, or vinegar, added to sweet milk will sour it enough for cooking.

LIVER WITH SWEETBREADS IS SURE "HAT-BAIT"

If you want a new hat or something like it, it's alright to use this fine recipe on friend husband, but if it's a trip, beware! He'll never let you go when you prepare such tempting dishes that go straight to his heart (or should it be stomach?)

LIVER WITH SWEETBREADS

2 pounds fine calf's liver
1 pound sweetbreads
1/2 pound chicken livers
1/2 pound butter

Parboil the sweetbreads, cut in small pieces and set aside. Cook the liver in a very hot pan in olive oil for 5 minutes. Place on a hot platter and set in a warm place. Now, put the chicken livers in the hot frying pan, then the sweetbreads, then the mushrooms (peel and cap) and a dash of Worcestershire sauce, minced parsley and a tiny speck of minced garlic, and 1/2 pound of butter. Fry until all are done and turn out onto the liver and serve piping hot.

SOUP BALLS

3 pounds soup meat
2 quarts water
4 eggs
1 cup flour
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk

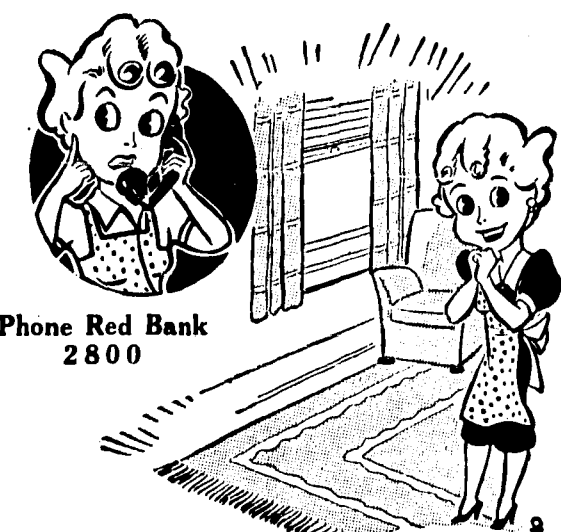

Add the water to the soup meat season to taste and cook slowly for several hours. A half hour before serving time, make soup balls as follows: Combine the salt and flour and work in the butter. Beat the eggs and add to the flour. Stir in milk, using only the hot frying pan, then the sweetbreads, then the mushrooms (peel and cap) and a dash of Worcestershire sauce, minced pars-

Dinner Dance At Sea Bright Beach Club Saturday

Second Affair This Season for Young Folk Attracts 24

Twenty-four youngsters, sons and daughters of members of the Sea Bright Beach club, attended the second dinner dance of this season Sunday evening. Connie Atkinson's orchestra played during the dinner and later until 2 a. m. for the older members of the club who arrived for the weekly Saturday evening dance.

Among those at the dinner were Beverly Simmons, Katherine Despard, Barbara Potts, Elizabeth Griddle, Anne Harshorne, Margaret and Anne Haskell, Harold and Kenneth M. Segerman, Jr., Edwin D. Sturges, Jr., Richard M. Hurd, Jr., Charles C. Lee, Jr., Richard and Gray MacW. Bryan, Jr., Charles Halsey and Amy L. Haskell, Jr.

Those arriving later at the dance included Mr. and Mrs. Edwin D. Bransome, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred N. Beadleston, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Neilson, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Hauge, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Segerman, Mr. and Mrs. A. Roger Englar, Mr. and Mrs. George Dwight, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Scott and Mr. and Mrs. J. Harlow Mellick.

Firemen Protest Ruling Of Board

School Trustees Want Warning on Drills

Members of the Port Monmouth fire company attended Friday night's meeting of the Middletown township board of education and protested against a recent ruling of the board that township firemen must get permission from the board of education before conducting fire drills at the public schools.

The ruling was the result of a fire drill at which some slag was washed off the roof of one of the township schools. A letter of protest from the Port Monmouth company was read and George Freibott and Henry Pulach, officers of the company, voiced their protest. After a lengthy discussion the letter was ordered placed on file.

The board said $75,000 in school improvement bonds for new grammar schools at Middletown village and Navesink to the J. B. Hanauer company of Newark at a 3 1/2 per cent interest rate. The bid of the Hanauer company was the lowest of four received.

The New Jersey State Republican committee will hold its session previous to the party. Clayton E. Freeman is chairman and State Highway Commissioner E. Donald Sterner and Mrs. Thompson are delegates. Delegates at large and alternates and many of the district delegates have been invited.

Three state members of the National Republican committee are expected to be present. They are: Daniel E. Pomeroi, Englewood; Mrs. Edna B. Conklin, Hackensack and H. Alexander Smith of Princeton. Members of the county committee, representative of other women's Republican clubs in the state, and members of the Monmouth county board of freeholders will also take part in the festivities.

Among the special guests will be John Knox, chairman of the county committee; Sheriff Morris Woodring; County Clerk J. Russell Woolley; County Treasurer Van R. Halsey; Howard W. Roberts, county counsel; Senator Haydn Proctor; Judge Edward Knight; Stanley Herbert and Harold McDermott, members of the state assembly.

Mrs. Clarence Blair Mitchell, president, and Mrs. Reeve Schley, vice president, will represent the Women's State Republican club. The speakers of the day will be Senator Barbour, candidate for United States Senator; E. Donald Smith, president of the Associated Wilkie clubs of New Jersey; Ben Root, Jr., president of the Associated Wilkie clubs of the United States; Senator Alfred E. Driscoll and Commissioner Sterner speaking on behalf of Senator Robert E. Hendrickson, Republican nominee for Governor.

Joseph C. Irwin, candidate for Congress from the third district, will make an address as well as Joseph Mayer, candidate for freeholder.

Rev. Lester Cline will deliver the invocation, a prayer entitled, "Our Country." Music will be under the direction of Mrs. E. Garfield Gifford who will bring recordings of "God Bless America" and "Hi Ho Wilkie." Bradley's radio service will provide a loud speaker. Mrs. Gifford will lead the singing assisted by Mrs. Alvin Morris and Mrs. Chester Hall of Farmingdale.

Refreshments will be served under the supervision of Mrs. Charles Stenerwald of Middletown, chairman of the reception committee of the hostess club. She will be assisted by Mrs. Harry Coddington, president of the 1-8-8 Women's Republican club of Middletown township, and members of the organization, and Mrs. Henry S. Maxson, president of the Navesink Women's Republican club and members of her group.

Mrs. Ottmar Phillips, chairman of membership of the county club, will deliver a report, as will Mrs. Kenneth Smith, secretary, and Mrs. Frank Durand, treasurer.

Whether permitting the party will be held on the lawn but if it is unfavorable the party will take place in the large barn.

Farewell Parties For Local Girl

Miss Mary Lou Delatash of Branch avenue was the guest of honor at two farewell parties held this week. Miss Delatash will leave with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Delatash, today for a two years' stay in South America.

Thursday night Miss Carol Angar was hostess at her home on Wallace street for a group of friends. Among those present were Misses Peggy Hill, Mary Jo Garrison, Janet Holmes, Marilu MacDonald, Conale Wingerter, Bunny Dillon, Dot Wood, Sally Porter and Betty Magee. Refreshments were served throughout the evening.

A group of friends bid bon voyage to Miss Delatash Tuesday night at a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Brevort of Branch avenue, where the Delatash family has been residing. Dancing and refreshments were enjoyed.

BREAKFAST FROM A TRAY

FOOD on a tray can mean service for the invalid, the late guest, or the outright lazy member of the family. Whatever it may bring to your mind, we are thinking of simple food served attractively that appeals to the eye and palate alike. Trays move easily to a window where the early sunlight streams in, or if you have a garden, a more delightful spot cannot be recommended.

Bread Between Meat

8 slices pressed ham
1 loaf white bread, sliced
salt, pepper, butter or vegetable fat
4 eggs
Select sliced cold ham, round or square slices. Cut bread in slices about 2 1/2 inches thick. Cut with 3 inch round cutter or remove crust and cut in 3 inch squares. Remove center of bread with scissors leaving just about 1/2 inch to form a cylinder. Melt butter or vegetable fat; spread bread inside and outside with butter. A pastry brush is convenient. Set bread cases over slices of ham onto a cookie sheet. Drop an egg in center of each, season with salt and pepper and put round or square slice of meat on top.

Poached Eggs and Cheese

4 eggs
4 teaspoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
4 rounds of toast
3 tablespoons grated American cheese
paprika
Pour about 1 quart water into skillet, add 1 tablespoon vinegar and 1 teaspoon salt.

Bring to boil, remove from heat. Slip eggs one at a time from saucer into the hot water. Cover and set the skillet over very low heat to keep hot, but not to boil until the whites are set. Place an egg on each slice of buttered toast. Sprinkle with cheese and paprika.

Put under broiler to melt cheese slightly.
Melon or fresh berries and coffee complete the breakfast.

Baked Sausage

1 1/2 lbs. sausage meat
1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons butter
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup milk
Pat meat into a shallow square baking pan. Sift the dry ingredients together. Work the shortening into the flour with fork or tips of fingers. Pour the milk in and make a soft dough. Knead about 1/2 minute. Roll on floured board and cover the sausage. Mark into squares for serving with a knife. Dot with butter. Bake in oven, temperature 450°F., time 15 to 18 minutes.

Serve with green apple sauce and coffee.

STUFFED PEPPERS WITH CORN

2 green sweet peppers
1/2 cup whole kernel corn, canned
2 tablespoons tomato catsup
2 teaspoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon onion salt
Butter
Cracker meal
Grated cheese
Cut off the tops and remove seeds of peppers. Put peppers and top slice in cold water and bring to boil, boiling five minutes. Cut cooked tops of peppers into small pieces and add to corn. Add catsup, sugar, and onion salt, and pack into the parboiled pepper cases. Put a lump of butter on top of each and cover with the cracker meal and grated cheese. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) until brown on top. This makes 2 servings.

THE "SNACK" AND ITS PLACE IN THE DAILY DIET

Regardless of the definition of a snack most everyone enjoys a mid-morning, mid-afternoon, or late evening snack.

While some of us may believe that eating between meals, or before retiring, is a bad habit and apt to ruin the appetite and the figure, the truth of the matter is that most people who partake of between meal snacks eat no more food, but instead distribute their daily ration into five instead of three parts.

Recent experiments conducted at one of the large eastern universities point conclusively to the fact that "many of us would be more efficient if we would take five meals a day, instead of three."

These findings should prove interesting to mothers when the children come home hungry after school. She should neither urge them to wait until dinner without eating nor let them fill up on sweets. A cracker or piece of bread spread with peanut butter, cottage cheese, or jam, and a glass of milk will serve nicely for this light repast.

Mothers also can speed up their daily duties by pausing in the middle of their morning or afternoon work for a glass of orange or tomato juice.

SHORT RECIPES FOR FINE SALADS

When one isn't in the mood for doing extensive reading, short and "to the point" recipes will be a great comfort. Here are a few that can be made in a glance:

MIRABEAU SALAD

Cut in one-inch squares one cucumber, two tomatoes, and one potato. Put in salad bowl separately, cover with vinegar sauce. Add one teaspoon French mustard in the dressing. Lay anchovies over the top and a green olive cut in strips in the middle.

ITALIAN SALAD

Use equal parts carrots, turnips, string beans, and roast beef cut in small squares, and peas. Season with salt, pepper, tarragon, vinegar and olive oil and garnish with beet.

SUMMER SALAD

Raw celery, fresh pineapple and pimientos in equal parts, and all cut julienne style. Place in a salad bowl and cover with well seasoned mayonnaise.

STRING BEAN AND TOMATO SALAD

Equal parts of fresh boiled string beans and peeled and quartered tomatoes. Put the beans around the edge of the salad bowl and the tomatoes in the center. Serve with French dressing and fresh chopped parsley.

When furnishing a kitchen one should bear in mind the following equipment—a high stool, a chair stepladder combination or a plain stepladder, in which case a small chair will be needed—a metal paper basket—a towel rack—a clock—a garbage can, or, if the house is equipped with an incinerator, or better still, a small can with drain which is attached to the drain pipe of the sink and swings back when not in use—also a work table.

Stryker, Disbrow Erected Building

In the story in last Thursday's Register pertaining to the sale of the Stryker building on Monmouth street to Anderson Brothers, Inc., it was stated that the building was erected in 1909 by William E. and Lester Stryker. This is an error.

The building was erected in 1909 by Franklin P. Stryker and Morgan V. Disbrow, who formed a partnership that year to expand the livery stable business started on the site in 1904 by Mr. Stryker. A one-story rambling frame structure was torn down to make room for the new three-story brick building. In 1911, Mr. Stryker bought out Mr. Disbrow's interest and took in his nephew, Dr. Lester H. Stryker, as partner. The firm became known as Stryker & Stryker and bought the first motor moving van used in this locality. Mr. Stryker sold his interests in the business in 1929. He was a member of the Red Bank borough council a number of years ago and is now a constable.

CHURCH BEACH PARTY

The Young People's choir of the Methodist church held a beach party Monday night at Avenel. Miss Ruth Sniffon was chairman. A feature of the party was a softball game between the Willeya and the Woolleys. The former team was led by Mrs. Theresa Willey, church organist, and the latter nine by J. Russell Woolley, county clerk. Watermelon, frankfurters and soda water comprised the refreshments.

Capt. Stewart Cook Has 94th Birthday

Capt. Stewart Cook of Atlantic avenue, Long Branch, observed his 94th birthday Tuesday. He is enjoying fairly good health for his age. The day was spent greeting relatives and friends. He received numerous cards and floral remembrances, and there was the customary birthday cake.

The Cook family is noted for its longevity. Mr. Cook has a sister, Mrs. Ellen Lane, also of Long Branch, who is 98 years old. Thomas Cook and Stewart Cook, of Cook & Oakley, Red Bank, are sons of Mr. Cook. Other children are Mrs. Grace Biddle and Charles E. Cook, both of Long Branch.

Club Celebrates Fifth Anniversary

The fifth anniversary of the Oakie Dokie Sport club was celebrated Monday evening with a dinner party at the Virginia tea room, Asbury Park.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. John S. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Keane of Red Bank, Mrs. Ella Woolley of West Long Branch and Mrs. Myra Fox of Red Bank.

PRUE WHITE ENTERTAINS.

Miss Leslie Caesar of Roslyn, Long Island, formerly of Rumson, and Miss Edith Crawford of Rosemont, Pennsylvania, were week-end guests of Miss Prue White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vose White at Roshallon, Rumson.

CANNED GOODS HAVE PLACE IN SUMMER MENUS

There is hardly a week goes by even in the summer time, when we don't fall back on canned goods—it may be that we're in a hurry to prepare some dish, or it might be, as in this case, that the canned product is better than what we could do with the fresh.

STUFFED PEPPERS WITH CORN

2 green sweet peppers
1/2 cup whole kernel corn, canned
2 tablespoons tomato catsup
2 teaspoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon onion salt
Butter
Cracker meal
Grated cheese
Cut off the tops and remove seeds of peppers. Put peppers and top slice in cold water and bring to boil, boiling five minutes. Cut cooked tops of peppers into small pieces and add to corn. SPECIAL DRESSING FOR TOMATO SALAD

A special dressing for a tomato salad is something that very few women bother with. However, here is a dressing just for this particular salad. It can be kept in a covered jar in the refrigerator indefinitely which in itself is a great inducement.

TOMATO SALAD DRESSING

1 can tomato soup
1/4 cup vinegar
1/4 cup oil
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
3 tablespoons grated onion
Place all the above ingredients in a quart jar in given order. Mix together 1 teaspoon salt, 1 scant teaspoon mustard and 1 teaspoon paprika, and add this to ingredients in the jar. Seal, shake well and place in refrigerator.

WHERE VILLAINS DRANK AND DIED

This old inn, now a favorite rendezvous of epicures, stands at a bend in the road at Adelphi. It is Our House Tavern now; originally Marriner's Tavern, built in 1747 by George Marriner who, in 1745, crossed the Atlantic from England in a boat of his own construction. In the dangerous days of the American Revolution, patriots and Tories drank and brawled at this center of social and political activity. The community then was known as Blue Ball. Here the notorious outlaws of Fagan, "The Pine Robber," waylaid travelers and here, in September, 1776, Fenton, one of the gang, met death at the muzzle of an American

Jersey Aero Club Stops Membership

Lack of Planes Forces Closing

The Jersey Aero club of Jumping Brook road, Hamilton, has been forced to close their membership rolls temporarily due to failure of the government, according to them, to give any financial aid to flying clubs.

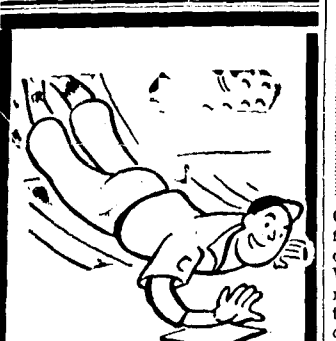

The club, located near Ashbury Park, has had but one airplane since June 12, the other two planes having been cracked up. With over 70 members active in flying, the limited facilities of the club force pilots to wait hours during week-ends for their turn.

The club received a new 65 horsepower Piper cub Monday which will increase the facilities for flying. However, the club hopes that, inasmuch as they have produced over 40 new pilots this last year without government financial aid, the government will help them keep the club open by contributing toward the purchase of a third plane.

Philip Roy Named On Bucknell Dean's List

Philip H. Roy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip M. Roy of Second street, Fair Haven, has been named to the dean's honor list at Bucknell university for high scholastic standing during the second semester of the 1939-40 college year.

Roy, who will be a junior at Bucknell this fall, was one of 46 sophomores cited on the honor list, which is restricted to students achieving an academic average of 85% or better.

Roy is enrolled in the commerce and finance course and is a member of Sigma Chi, men's social fraternity and an active member of Cap and Dagger, Bucknell's dramatic organization.

Colonel Dudley Visits CCC Camp

Colonel J. H. M. Dudley, commanding the 78th Division, known as the Lightning Division, and his staff were recent guests of Lieutenant Herbert A. Franck of Middletown in an official inspection of the Civilian Conservation Corps camp at Chatsworth.

The camp consists of 200 Negro boys, many of whom are from Red Bank and vicinity. Lieutenant Franck has been commended by his superior officers for the high moral and physical condition of the boys in his charge. The camp because of its distance from other centers supports and maintains its own fire department.

Lieutenant Franck recently made a tour of inspection of the state colony for feeble-minded boys at New Lisbon, where he was invited to address the faculty and many of the inmates on the functions and methods of the CCC.

Stamps IN THE NEWS

By the AP Feature Service

The Pan-American commemorative stamps keep coming. A single bright blue 15 centavo is the contribution from Argentina, second largest of the countries of South America. Inscription is "Union Pan Americana, 1890-1940" above a drawing of a laurel wreath surrounding the globe.

The drawing is "The Republic Argentina correos." Below the stamp recalls Argentina's peace efforts, which started in 1902 with erection of "The Christ of the Andes" on the boundary with Chile when the two finally stopped fighting. It seems significant, too, of her neutrality, now as in the first World war, and may mean she does not intend to have her delegate to the Pan-American conference walk out again as he did at a stormy session in 1928.

The United States Postoffice Department sold several million dollars' worth of stamps to collectors alone during the fiscal year ending June 30, Postmaster General James A. Farley has announced. The Philatelic department was responsible for $1,100,670 of the sales. Still more were disposed of at the philatelic windows of large post-offices.

The Monmouth County Philatelic society met in regular session Friday night. Notices for the meeting were mailed from Cheyenne, Wyoming, Wednesday morning of last week and bore the first day official cancellation of the new three-cent commemorative featuring the 50th anniversary of the admission of Wyoming to statehood.

Complete Entry List and Regatta Program

Other Information About Championship Rowing Races

The Register publishes below the complete entry list and program of the national championship rowing races to be held on the North Shrewsbury river at Red Bank Saturday and Sunday.

A parade in which the oarsmen will take part will be held at 1 o'clock. The national association of Amateur Oarsmen's dinner, at which Jack Kelly and Paul Costello, former N. A. O. champions, will appear, will be held tomorrow night at the Molly Pitcher hotel.

Although the 1940 Olympic games scheduled for Helsinki, Finland, have been cancelled because of war conditions, the winners in four local events, the championship single and double sculls, four-oared shells with coxswain, will be considered as having qualified to represent the United States as members of the American Olympic rowing team and will be awarded special medals and be entitled to wear the official American Olympic uniform.

The trophies to be awarded include one donated by Mrs. Richard Fox, valued at $1,500, and the Philadelphia Gold Challenge cup, emblematic of the world's single championship, which is valued at $5,000.

Hospital Auxiliary To Hold Benefit

A great number of balloons containing favors will be dropped from the ceiling of the Sapphire room of Monmouth County Country Club, Eatontown, Friday night, July 20, when the second annual balloon dance for the benefit of the Monmouth Memorial hospital will be presented by the Shrewsbury auxiliary.

A final committee meeting will be held Tuesday afternoon, July 23, at the home of the chairlady, Mrs. L. Gray Marshall on Runyan avenue, Deal Parkway, Deal. Mrs. John W. Bailey of Brown place is co-chairlady.

Veterans' Night At Sea Bright Fair Tonight

Radio Stars to Aid in Awarding Buick Car Sunday Night

Tonight is American Legion Night at the Sea Bright firemen's fair, which is attracting large crowds nightly. Invitations have been extended to the American Legion posts and to other veterans' organizations in the county to attend the fair to night and the group having the largest number on hand will receive a Buick American flag, 4x6 feet, with staff and pedestal. The free ground prize will be a $15 pair of American woolen blankets.

The feature event Sunday, the closing night of the fair, will be the awarding of a 1940 Buick sedan. Two prominent radio stars, who are summer residents of Sea Bright, Wilmer Walter and J. Maitland, known on the radio as David Harvack and Zeke Swinney, respectively, will take part in making the award, along with Mayor Walter J. Sweeney of Sea Bright, and James D. Thorson, Jr., chairman of the car committee.

Monday night was First Aid night and the prize of two all-wool ambulance blankets for the largest delegation present was awarded to the Fair Haven first aid squad. The ground prize that night, a $10 32-piece luncheon and 26-piece silver set, was won by Mrs. Victor Perotti.

Tuesday night was set aside for the Ladies' auxiliaries of the county fire departments and the prize of an eight-piece aluminum set and 32-piece luncheon set for the largest group was won by the East Kensington auxiliaries. Mrs. Herbert F. Young of Sea Bright won the ground prize, a $12.50 wicker hamper and large towels.

The Rumson firemen won the cup last night for having the largest delegation present. Later open house was held at the Sea Bright fire house. The ground prize, a $15 walnut coffee table and 18-piece gold-trimmed silverware set, was won by Miss Dorothy Covert of Sea Bright.

River Oaks on River road and Buena Vista avenue, Fair Haven, the latest residential development of Allen Brothers, will be officially opened to the public Saturday. The occasion will be marked by the opening for public inspection of the model home, the first residence to be completed there. Eight other homes are under construction of the 40-acre tract which was formerly part of the Hoagland estate.

The model home fronts on River road. Combining charity with the opening, members of the Junior Service league of Red Bank will be on hand to receive offerings from visitors for the league's milk fund. The home will be open for inspection all day Saturday and every day thereafter. Furniture for the home was provided by the Sterling Furniture Co., and the drapes and blinds were furnished by the Sherman shop.

Keeping pace with the houses under construction at River Oaks is the building of streets through the tract and at present 1,500 feet of roads are being built.

70 Ranking Amateurs In Annual Tourney

Sea Bright Tennis Club Draws 16 of First 19 Ranking Men

The 53d annual invitation tournament of the Sea Bright Lawn Tennis and Cricket club, which will start July 22 and will last through July 28, has attracted over 70 of the nation's leading amateur players, including 22 women who will compete in the Ladies' singles for the Sea Bright Bowl and 38 or 40 of the ranking men players who will compete for the Sea Bright Bowl offered in that competition.

These bowls, the insignia of victory in an invitation tournament, are won outright by any player who wins them three times, not necessarily consecutively. Sidney B. Wood has won the trophy in the men's singles twice, once in 1930 and again in 1932 while Robert Riggs, first in the national ranking this year, has also won twice, once in 1937 and again in 1938. Should either of these men win again this year the bowl for their event would become their permanent possession.

Due to the uncertain international situation, there will be no Davis cup competition this year. In lieu of that, ranking tennis stars are competing in many of the tournaments that have nationwide prominence. All but three of the 19 ranking amateur players have accepted invitations to the Sea Bright tourney. The ones with acceptances, to date, are Robert L. Riggs, Frank Parker, winner of men's singles last year; Gilbert A. Hunt, Donald McNeil, Welby Van Halst, Elwood Cook, Bryan M. "Billy" Grant, Gardner Mulloy, Hal Surface, Sidney S. Wood, Frank Kovacs, Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn, Francis X. Shields and Ladislav Hecht, the Czechoslovakian player who reached the third round of the men's singles last year. John Doe, almost a fixture at Sea Bright invitation tournaments, winner of the men's singles in 1929, will not be present at the tourney due to business affairs.

Among the women players who have accepted for the tournament are Miss Alice Maize, winner of the Sea Bright Bowl outright in 1938, after three consecutive wins in the women's singles; Miss Helen Jacobs, winner of another bowl in 1932; Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabian, Miss Helen I. Bernard, winner of the women's singles last year; Miss Virginia Wolfenden, the only player in the women's singles last year to extend Miss Bernhardt to three sets; Miss Dorothy May Bundy, Miss Pauline Betz, Miss Katherine Johnson, four English players, Miss Valerie Scott, Rita Jarvis, Nina Brown and Marjorie Hardwick; Mrs. Richard S. Stark of Rumson, formerly Carolin Babcock, who won the women's singles in 1934, and at the moment is winning all the Sea Bright Lawn Tennis & Cricket club championships in which she plays; Miss Patricia Canning; Miss Hope Knowles and Mrs. John Van Ryn.

Play in the tourney starts Monday and will continue through the following Sunday, July 28. The finals of the men's singles and the women's doubles will be played Saturday, July 27, while the finals of the women's singles, the men's doubles and the mixed doubles will be played on Sunday, July 28.

The draw to make up the brackets for the tournament will take place tomorrow and the seeded players will be named at the same time under the direction of the tournament committee, headed by Charles D. Halsey. Included in Mr. Halsey's committee are Mrs. Schuyler VanVechten and C. Frederick Nelson, Jr., as vice chairman. Also Mayor James C. Auchincloss, Mr. and Mrs. Elliot W. Coleman, Councilman Sheldon T. Coleman, Clement L. Despard, Mrs. Robert G. Isley, J. Upshur Moorehead, Mrs. J. Sanford Shanley and Hooker Talcott.

Paramount Dairy Has New Department

A new fruit and vegetable department has been opened in the Paramount dairy and delicatessen on Broad street which is being conducted by Abe "Red" Dworkes. Abe Halperin, who for several years has been employed at the Davidson store on Broad street, is in charge of the new department.

The store, which caters to a high class of clientele, is carrying a complete line of fruits and vegetables as well as a full line of dairy products and delicatessen goods. A free delivery service is conducted by the proprietor.

Scholarship Won By Member Of Methodist Choir

Richard Warner Will Receive Lessons From William Falk

J. Richard Warner of Hudson avenue, tenor soloist of the Methodist church, has received a scholarship from William Falk, noted singing teacher of New York. Mr. Warner has been studying under John Ebner at the Atlantic Highlands post office and was later transferred to Red Bank. He was at one time a temporary carrier on the rural free delivery route.

One proviso in the scholarship is that Mr. Warner, who is employed at the Second National Bank and Trust company, must sing as part of a quartet at the Allenhurst Episcopal church every Sunday during the summer.

Mr. Falk was formerly connected with the Metropolitan Opera company of New York. Two of his pupils are Emilio DeGorgozza, presently the head of the voice department of the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia, and Edward Johnson. Mr. Falk is engaged at the Beth Israel synagogue, Long Branch, as organist. He lives at Allenhurst during the summer.

Fire Damages Restaurant, Other Stores

Early Morning Blaze Cuts Strand Interior

Fire which originated in the kitchen of the Strand restaurant on Broad street early Saturday morning almost entirely gutted that portion of the establishment as well as the luncheon and did considerable damage to three adjoining stores. Prompt work upon the part of the Red Bank fire department prevented the flames from spreading to other shops in that part of the business district.

The fire started around 2:30 o'clock in the kitchen and spread rapidly to the lunch room and stores south of the restaurant. The fire doors between the kitchen and restaurant and cocktail lounge closed saved after the fire broke out and saved this portion of the building from destruction.

The stores damaged in addition to the Strand lunch were the Strand shoe repair shop, located in the same building, and Elliott's stationery store and City bakery, located in a building owned by Mrs. Sarah Thomas of Broad street.

The firemen were occupied for about three hours in extinguishing the stubborn flames which spread rapidly after the burning began. A stove was drawn into the air-conditioning chamber. The flames roared up the shaft and mushroomed to the adjoining buildings.

The fire was discovered by Gus Andrew, night counter man, who had gone into the kitchen to bring out some orders. Just as he reached the kitchen, he said, flames appeared to spurt from the air-conditioning chamber which is used to carry smoke and cooking odors from the kitchen.

Andrew rushed back to the lunch room and told the customers to leave quickly as the place was on fire. The customers, numbering about 16, were made up of merrymakers returning from a dance of physicians and nurses held the night before at the Monmouth County Country Club.

Andrew then ran to the fire alarm box but found that Joseph Halliday, proprietor of the City bakery, who had been working all night, had noticed the flames and had sent in an alarm from Box 252 at the corner of Broad and Monmouth streets. The entire department responded.

Before the arrival of firemen, Policeman Leroy McKnight, who had been cruising the borough in a police car, entered the building to make sure that everyone was out. He was slightly scorched about the face and was treated by the Red Bank first aid squad.

John Morris, one of the proprietors of the Strand restaurant, was on duty at the cashier's counter, collapsed from shock and excitement and was treated by Dr. S. C. Wilkins, who had been on the scene since the start of the fire.

A second alarm was sounded shortly after the firemen arrived which brought out additional men and equipment. The Navesink hook and ladder aerial truck was pressed into service and was credited by Chief Thomas Brasch, who directed the activities of the firemen, with preventing the flames from spreading to other buildings. About 500 feet of hose was laid in order to pump water into the burning buildings.

Deputy Chief Jones directed operations in the rear of the buildings.

New Rural Carrier

HARRY Y. SMITH

Harry Y. Smith of Peters place, carrier at the Red Bank postoffice, will take over Albert Snyder's job as rural free delivery man in Middletown township, beginning August 1. Mr. Snyder expects to retire at that time. Mr. Smith has had 20 years of postal service. He started in at the Atlantic Highlands post office and was later transferred to Red Bank. He was at one time a temporary carrier on the rural free delivery route.

Prominent Broad Street Property Changes Hands

Miss Dorothy M. Schlicht- ing Broker in Transac- tion—Once Show Place

Miss Dorothy M. Schlichting, trading as C. Irving Patterson Agency, has sold the property located at 371 Broad street, a short distance south of Branch avenue and almost directly opposite Leroy place, to F. Gualdo and Martha E. Ford of Scobeyville. The property was owned by the estate of Elizabeth H. Hill.

The property, which several years ago was one of the show places in that section of Broad street, when that section of the street was in the residential zone, has a frontage of 60 feet on Broad street, with a depth of 225 feet. The Joseph McCue property adjoins it on the north and the William A. Pintard property on the south.

The large dwelling which contains two five-room apartments and a suite of offices occupied by Dr. Joseph J. Hawkins, dentist, sits on a terrace.

Mr. Ford, a retired business man, purchased the property as an investment. He plans to immediately paint and otherwise improve the place. There are no anticipated changes to be made in the occupants.

The house was built well over half a century ago by one Mr. Williams, a prominent artisan well builder, who enjoyed a prosperous business in this section of Monmouth county. Mr. Williams later sold the property to Thomas Davis, who for many years conducted a real estate and insurance business on West Front street.

Later it came into the possession of Captain Charles P. Irwin and his sister.

During this time it was kept up by the respective owners as a show place and there was much rivalry between the owners of this large dwelling and their neighbors as to which had the most attractive piece of property in that section of Broad street.

Early neighbors were the late Joseph T. Burrows, Mrs. Mary Trux, who later became Mrs. Jacob C. Shuts, and more recently the late William A. Pintard, Sr., prominent Red Bank attorney.

Dan Hendrickson Dies At New York

Free Lance Writer Had Worked for Racing

Daniel T. Hendrickson, newspaperman, legislative contact man and former schoolmaster, was Tuesday afternoon at Flower hospital, New York of a paralytic stroke. He was stricken Thursday of last week at the Hotel Bryant, New York, where he had lived for the past three years and was taken to the hospital that day. He had been in poor health for more than a year.

Mr. Hendrickson was born in Middletown township July 25, 1876, 64 years ago, and was the only child of the late Daniel C. and Lillian Bloodgood Hendrickson. He had been employed locally by the Keansboro Beacon and The Red Bank Standard and was engaged in free lance work at the time of his death. A short time ago he was employed by the racing interests to work for the passage of the new state racing bill. He was supervising principal of the South Amboy public schools for nine years.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Bertha Willett, and four children. Mrs. Cornelius A. Wall of Middletown township, Mrs. Alvin F. Blacksmith of Port Monmouth, Mrs. Calvin C. Meury of Shennectady, New York, and Daniel C. Hendrickson, Jr., of Keyport. He also leaves six grandchildren.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Harvey S. Bedle funeral home, Keyport, with Rev. Harold Green, pastor of the Keyport Reformed church, officiating. Interment will be in Fair View cemetery.

Rumson PBA Prepares For 17th Annual Ball

Affair This Year to Be Held August 21 at Molly Pitcher

The Rumson Patrolmen's Benevolent association is making preparations for the 17th annual ball which will be held Wednesday night, August 21, at the Molly Pitcher hotel at Red Bank. The chairman is Edmond Desmond of Rumson. Seth Johnson, also of Rumson, is treasurer.

The committee, headed by Rufus C. Finch, would have it stressed that the show this year is primarily for persons interested in watching good horses and good horsemanship and not for a select few who come to see personalities of the "horse set." This show is for the public, the proceeds go to public charities, and the public has been especially considered in the entertainment.

Salvation Army To Have Speaker

Special Services to Be Held Sunday Night

Colonel and Mrs. Henry D. Bale will have charge of the service at the Salvation Army chapel Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

COLONEL HENRY D. BALE

Colonel Bale is a lifelong Salvationist, his parents and sister being Salvationists and Salvation Army officers before him. They commenced their service nearly 60 years ago in the earlier years of the army. The colonel, himself, has given over 50 years as a commissioned officer, during which time nearly all parts of the United States have shared his services in connection with his army appointment, as well as other countries of the world. The colonel served first as corps officer, then as assistant at five national and territorial headquarters, principally in accounting and audit inspection work. He has been in many state divisions as secretary and has been field secretary in the Southern territory with headquarters in Atlanta, Georgia, and Central territory with headquarters at Chicago.

Mrs. Bale is of Welsh extraction and, as is true of Welsh people, is fond of song, being herself an acceptable soloist. Her parents were also Salvation Army officers.

Aviation News

Registration is now taking place for the next non-competitive C. A. A. ground school course. The classes will be instructed by Leon Rex and Mr. Patrick, those very accomplished veterans of the first course. Entrance conditions are a trifle different than they were for the previous course. Competitive students must submit to a physical examination at the beginning of the course, but need pay no fee at all. Non-competitive students pay the old rate of $10. Rumors have it that the course will be more intensive and hence shorter this time. This is undoubtedly an attempt to finish the course and award the scholarships in time to catch the fine flying weather in the fall. People interested in this course should register immediately as the classes will be limited. The Red Bank Chamber of Commerce received several hundred inquiries before registration opened.

Verne Trent has left for the Spartan School of Aeronautics at Tulsa, Oklahoma, where he will act as instructor, the same school which took Tony Ming away from the shore. There is a real dearth of competent instructors for private flying these days and, therefore, a real opportunity for any young man who can afford to meet the requirements for the commercial and instructor ratings. Asbury Park is looking for two more instructors.

At Red Bank Van Winkle Todd, World war pilot and ace, has soloed in a Luscombe as well as in the Cub. Due to his previous flying time he is already considered to have done his cross-country work. Bruce Hendrickson of Long Branch has soloed. George Scott of Little Silver has made his cross-country flight.

At Asbury Park airport, Blackburn Seigler of Lakeland, Florida, has soloed. New students include Bernard Barrett, Red Bank; William Kashche, West Deal; H. W. Crawford, Ardmore, Pennsylvania; Arthur Lane, Belmar; Edward Lankenau, Asbury Park; Allen Coles, Harrison; Chadwick Hendrickson, Red Bank; Martin Keller, Loch Arbor; Randall Gant, Osbornville; Norton Crane, Vernon Crane and Ellsworth Crane, Barnegat; Richard Cosel and Arthur Lowell, Fort Monmouth.

Captain Goodsell arrived at Asbury Park airport Friday in his big Ford trimotor NC8405. Captain Goodsell is a retired army flyer, one of the very first to indulge in night flying, one of the first to fly over the German lines in the last war. He is now "harmstoring"—traveling over the country, stopping at an airport for a few days or a week and taking people up for short flights. For those

Red Cross Doing War Relief Work

Red Bank Branch Completes Dresses

The Red Bank branch of the American Red Cross has a large number of woolen dresses ready for shipment. The dresses are for children and women. All material was purchased in a wholesale manner, and chosen for durability and appearance. The dresses are made of gray, green, and brown wool, some having interesting designs woven into the material. All have long sleeves, small round collars, belted backs and pockets. Dresses for the youngsters were made appealing by adding a handkerchief of contrasting color.

All the dresses were cut out by 12 women of the local branch. These women meet three mornings each week in the Little Silver clubhouse to cut materials. The motor corps service distributed the required materials throughout Monmouth county. It is interesting to note that many of the people sewing the dresses had never done any such work before. Competent instructors introduced the simplest method and these beginners rapidly advanced to more complicated work. Dresses ready for shipment were received from the following volunteer units: Ladies Hebrew society, Mrs. Leon Rueckhaus, chairman; Trinity Guild, Mrs. Bance, chairman, and units from Holmdel, Lincolnton, Fort Hancock, Eatontown, and Miss Flora Willgus.

The Rumson Country club did not have fire works this Fourth of July but instead voted to donate the money to the war sufferers. A check for $323.50 was received by Miss Lucy Tompkins this week.

Mrs. Irving Krakowitch, chairman of the card party sponsored by the Young Men's and Young Women's Hebrew association for the benefit of the war relief fund, announced that $63.10 had been raised. The Junior Service League under the guidance of Mrs. James Clark has formed a surgical dressing unit. Mrs. Clark supervises the surgical dressing work each Monday morning at the West Bergen place school.

A new unit was formed under the leadership of Mrs. John Osborn for the Reformed church. They have just completed 25 hospital bed shirts. Mrs. Darrow of Lincolnton, sent two dozen hospital bed shirts to the chapter rooms. A sewing unit has been formed in Coll's Neck and will meet each Tuesday.

Bernie Kellum Speaks To Council

The regular meeting of the Pride of Monmouth Council No. 27, Sons and Daughters of Liberty was held Tuesday night in the hall above Clayton & Magee's clothing store on Broad street. Miss Ida Goodspeed, newly elected counselor, presided. An address was made by Bernie Kellum. During the business meeting plans were discussed for a Pollyanna birthday party. The party will be held Tuesday, July 30, and will be in honor of members whose birthdays occurred in July. Remarks were heard from Mrs. Luella Keane, state representative; Jack Keane, state representative; Mrs. Barbara Heyer, deputy; and others.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Jack Keane, Mrs. Neva Dennis, Mrs. Barbara Heyer, Mrs. Clara Chambers, Mrs. Olive Croymond, Mrs. Alberta Ratcliffe, Miss Evelyn Ratcliffe, Miss Norma Norman, Miss Ida Goodspeed, Roland Scott, Charles Ashmore, Charles Holmes, Charles Croymond, Bernie Kellum, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Reinhaus, Mr. and Mrs. Barry Dowdy, Mrs. Alice Downen, Miss Charlotte Brown, Miss Helen Downen, Lewis Colmorgan and Charles Downen.

Fair Haven

(The Red Bank Register can be bought in Fair Haven from Joseph Piccolo, Garden State Grocery and Mr. Weintraub.)

E. L. Ketcham moved a native holly tree last year from Farmingdale to his premises here on First street. The tree, which is 39 feet in height, is a beautiful specimen and many questioned the advisability of moving a holly tree of this size. However, after careful nursing the tree this year shows it has taken root in its new environment and presents a very healthy appearance. It is one of the show trees of Fair Haven. At the same time, Mr. Ketcham moved the holly tree he also moved several exceptionally old Azalea bushes and these, too, are in a thriving condition, due to his expert care.

Council Favors Inlet Proposal

Red Bank Solons Adopt Resolution

A resolution putting the Red Bank borough council on record as favoring the construction of an inlet to the Low Moor section of Sea Bright, near the southern boundary of that borough, was passed Monday night at a meeting of that body.

The motion was introduced by Councilman Joseph C. Irwin who stated that the feeling of the various towns affected is being sounded prior to a hearing to be held by the war department in the near future. The Fair Haven council passed a similar resolution last week.

Mr. Irwin declared that the necessary legislation for the establishment of a park and the cutting through of an inlet to connect the Shrewsbury river with the ocean had been passed by both branches of the legislature and had been signed by the governor. No appropriation for the work, he said, had as yet been made.

The councilman asked by Mayor Charles R. English if there had been any objection to the project, stated that some opposition had been expressed by those who felt that cutting through of an inlet might result in increased inundation of the peninsula at this point by higher tides. Army engineers, said Mr. Irwin, had made a preliminary survey and found that the water level would not vary to any great extent.

Councilman Harold S. Allen added his endorsement to the project, declaring that creation of a recreational area at Low Moor would greatly benefit this section. The vote on the resolution was unanimous.

Applications for two liquor licenses were denied upon recommendation of Councilman J. Albert Van Schoick. The applicants were John Palandrino of River street and Thomas Stobie and Ray Fredenberg for premises on Monmouth street.

After the application for the Palandrino license had been read Mayor English asked the council its pleasure. Councilman Van Schoick mumbled something about the matter taking "the usual course."

"What is the usual course?" asked Mayor English. Mr. Van Schoick then made a motion that the application be rejected and the vote was unanimous. All members were present excepting Thomas M. Gossill. The other application was also rejected by unanimous vote.

Sprique Williams, retired police officer, was appointed a special officer without pay.

What Do You Know About Health?

By FISHER BROWN and NAT FALK

1. WHAT WAS ONE OF THE TREASURES BROUGHT BACK BY MARCO POLO?

2. HOW OLD ARE CLINICAL THERMOMETERS?

3. ARE CONTOURIONISTS DOUBLE-JOINTED?

Answers:

1. Upon his return from his travels he brought back a pair of spectacles, given to him by a Mandarin, and reported that they were in general use in China. This was about 1270 A.D.

2. Thermometers began to make their appearance in English hospitals about the time of the Civil War. They were about 10 inches long, so large in fact that it took five minutes to register temperature in the armpit. Sir Lauder Brunton relates that they were so clumsy that one tried them "like guns." Sir Clifford Allbutt invented the modern pocket thermometer in 1868.

3. No. Contortionists, or persons spoken of as having double joints, merely have longer ligaments holding the ends of the bones together, which allow a greater freedom of action.

Monmouth County Winner In Polo League Tourney

Upsets Leaders, Burnt Mills Four, for First Victory

Monmouth County club's polo team, playing the third game in the New Jersey Polo League matches this season, upset the league leaders Sunday by defeating Burnt Mills at Schley field, Belmar, to hand the home team the first defeat of the season, 5 to 4. It was Monmouth's first victory.

The Monmouth team, composed of George Oliver, Dr. N. A. Yuckman, Herbert Schiffer and Anson Clough, rode even with the Belmar quartet for the first two chukkers, each team tallying twice. In the third period, Burnt Mills took the lead on Robert Johnson's three-point goal. However, in the fourth marker, Oliver and Schiffer of the local quartet each pounded the ball for goals and took their team out to the fore. Oliver scored again in the fifth to put Monmouth ahead, 5 to 3, with one chukker to play.

Burnt Mills rallied their forces, but succeeded in tallying but one goal in the last frame. Monmouth played a defensive game after Oliver's score in the fifth. Oliver was the spark plug of the Monmouth riders with three tallies. Yuckman and Schiffer each added a point for their side while Clough, at back, played a defensive game, holding the league leaders to their four-goal score.

Winmont Farm, playing its third game, was overwhelmed by the Peapack team, 14 to 2, on the Monmouth County Country club's Tinton avenue field at Eatontown. Winmont scored but once, their other goal coming by way of a handicap. Dr. Wilt Undermyer saved the Winmont team from utter humiliation with his lone tally in the second frame.

Easy also scored for Peapack in this frame which left the Winmont club with a one-goal lead.

However, the visitors rallied in the third period and banged through four shots. From then on it was all Peapack's game. East scoring five times and John Cowperthwaite at back, scoring four times.

There will be no league games next Sunday which will bring Rube Williams' Rumson team into action against the visiting Bryn Mawr quartet while Shrewsbury travels to Philadelphia to tangle with Blue Hills.

Archer Wins Medal In Long Island Meet

Harold Hill, an outstanding member of the Monmouth Archery club, placed third in the club tourney at Great Neck, Long Island, Sunday. Hill scored a total of 1,232 points and trailed the winner, Henry Schriber of Norwich, Connecticut, by 64 points. Stan Fisher of Forest Hills, Long Island, tallied 1,244 points to finish second.

The highlight of the tourney, however, was not the men's match but the fine showing by Miss Ann Huber of the Essex Archers, who scored a total of 1,322 points and also became the first woman in the state to shoot to effect aim at 80 yards. This feat has been accomplished by only few men and modern records do not show any woman having accomplished it.

The next archery tourney in the vicinity will be held next week at Palisades Park under the supervision of the Interstate Park Commission, including over 15 participants from the Monmouth club.

Ice Yachtsmen Start Early To Renovate Craft

Elisabeth R., Fully Reconditioned—Other Boats Under Way

Although the ice yachting season is fully five months away, owners of ice yachts registered with the North Shrewsbury Ice Boat and Yacht club have already begun to put their craft in tip-top shape for the coming season.

The first to take up this work was Captain Reuben R. White, who has given his class A yacht Elisabeth R., a thorough going over and the craft is all ready for re-assembling. The boat has been thoroughly scraped and repainted and every bit of her rigging has been inspected.

At the present time Thomas Irving Brown, president of the club, has his class A yacht Phantom undergoing renovation. All the old varnish has been removed and several coats of fresh varnish are being applied. Last year Mr. Brown had the misfortune of having the runner plank of his class A yacht Say When broken in two and a new runner plank is now being built by his brother-in-law, Captain Harry Clay.

The material for this runner plank, as well as for a new keel for the Phantom, was purchased through the Blaisdell Lumber company. The Phantom will come out with a new type keel, which is being built by Mr. Clay. Mr. Brown has made arrangements with Harry McMahon to use the Marconi rig which Mr. McMahon had on his class A yacht, Elmer.

Mr. Brown returned to the club and main-sail gear outfit.

Ira Crouse, who came out last year with his class A yacht Rut, formerly the Tyro, with an entirely different rigging, plans certain changes which will tend to make his yacht considerably faster. These changes are now under way.

Towners Bow To Long Branch

Worth Twirls 4-Hit Game to Beat Locals

The Red Bank Towners, in quest of their second triumph over the Long Branch A. C., could do little or nothing against the four-hit pitching of "Babe" Worth Sunday afternoon at the Long Branch field. Long Branch lost 6 to 3. Bill Wichmann, St. Peter's college twirler, and former Red Bank Catholic high star, opposed Worth but was nipped for six runs in two three-run rallies in the third and sixth innings.

Red Bank held a two-run lead previous to the Branchers powerful attack in the third and thereafter were never in the game. Ellis scored the first Red Bank run as the result of some smart base running. The speedy shortstop walked to open the first inning and went to third on Mulvihill's safe hit. The double steal was worked successfully by Mulvihill being cut down and Ellis crossing the plate.

Long Branch scored their margin of victory in the third after Spitz had walked and advanced to second on Worth's infield out. He advanced to third on Woody VanDyke's hit and scored on Bova's infield out. Hits by Howe and Agamenon scored VanDyke and Howe.

VanDyke, with three hits, and Agamenon with two, including a double, led the victors at bat. John Mulvihill shared second honor with Agamenon as he also accounted for two safeties.

Surf, Field And Stream

Timely Notes On the Great Outdoors by "Stew" VanVliet

As we gathered from many points of New Jersey and Pennsylvania at the Broadway Yacht Basin, Point Pleasant, for a day's sport of deep sea fishing on the "Dixie," Captain Fairbanks and his crew were busy storing aboard clams, squid and bunnies. The weather did not look very promising. There was a heavy fog bank off the mouth of Manasquan Inlet and a chill wind coming in from the Northeast. Promptly at eight a. m. we cast off and on rounding into the inlet ran onto the party and charter boats from Brielle. There were the comfortable seaworthy boats of the Paramount Fleet out of Manasquan Yacht Basin loaded with fishermen. There were the sleek charter boats out of Brielle headed for tuna with their outriggers awaying.

As we reached the open sea visibility was nearly zero so Captain Fairbanks decided to head for a little marker buoy that he knew of which lay about five miles South-Southeast of the inlet and although we were unable to see more than a hundred feet ahead he hit it right on the nose. By time anchoring was dropped a chill drizzle set in and as none of us were prepared for this kind of a day there was nothing to do but grin and take it.

In our party were Chet Forrar, Harold Kelly and the writer of the Red Bank Register anglers; also Mrs. Catherine Field and Mrs. M. Hanson of Red Bank. After the pool for the largest fish was made, which was won by Mrs. Hanson with a 2½ pound mackerel, all lines were overboard. We tried bottom first in hopes of getting some sea bass and porgies, but Mr. Ling decided to take a hand in it and would not give the others a chance, so after a bushel or two of these slimy beauties came over the rail we decided to call a halt on them.

All this time the mate stuck to his post in the bow chumming for a school of mackerel which all of a sudden seemed to arrive out of nowhere by the thousands. Then the fun began, mackerel came over the side one and two at a time and the weather for this moment was perfect. In the latter case tugged hooks will be used for fishing which may serve as identification for the fish whether it breaks the line while being played or is played to boat and the wire leader cut before the fish is released.

This to my mind is a big waste of money, there is no immediate danger of the extermination of the tuna. Why not spend the money on the bluefish, and weakfish which are already nearing extermination.

The third annual United States Atlantic tuna tournament, which will be held August 19, 20 and 21, according to the tournament committee, composed of representatives of competing clubs. Walter F. O'Malley, of the Freeport Tuna club, was unanimously re-elected chairman of the tournament and Leo B. Travers, of the Manasquan River Marlin and Tuna Club, was re-elected treasurer. Harry T. Runk, of the Brielle Marlin and Tuna Club, succeeded Ned Schafer, who requested that he be relieved of the duties of secretary. Charles W. Strong is the new executive secretary. A fee of $50 was fixed for a minimum entry fee of 25 for two boats or less. In this way the committee hopes to make the tournament self-supporting and at the same time encourage entries from distant locations and smaller clubs. Invitations will be extended to clubs at Ocean City, Md., Miami, Fla., Nova Scotia and Cuba.

The 1940 Striped Bass derby sponsored by the sportsmen's council of the Marine district of New York state announced that "The purpose of the contest is to stimulate interest in the striped bass as a game fish, to the end that legislation may be obtained to safeguard the existence of this warlike of our waters. We know that many fish for striped bass are entirely unaware that the species is in danger; and if they were brought to the realization that this is a fact, they would want to help preserve this sport for the future. To make these sportsmen to the danger which threatens their sport requires publicity. To accomplish the protection which is so sorely needed, legislation of certain commercial interests, requires further publicity which will fuse the sportsmen into an organization that can bring the necessary pressure to bear on our legislative bodies."

Rules and conditions—1. The period of the contest will begin at 12:01 a. m. Sunday, September 15, 1940, and end at 12:00 midnight, Sunday, November 17, 1940. 2. The territory is the ocean front from Montauk Point, Long Island, New York, to Cape May, New Jersey. Fish caught in bays or rivers are not eligible. 3. Everyone (men and women) may enroll at any time, before or during the period of the contest. Only one fish may be entered per enrollment. Additional entries may be made at a fee of fifty cents (50 cents) each. 4. The enrollment fee is one dollar ($1). The re-enrollment fee is fifty cents (50c). 5. Upon receipt of entry fee the committee or its accredited agent will furnish enrollment card, a button, and an affidavit form for submitting prize fish. Affidavit forms which must be used for entering prize fish, will also be available at all weighing-in stations. 6. Cash prizes will be awarded for the heaviest striped bass entered as follows:

First prize	$200
Second prize	100
Third prize	50
Fourth prize	25

In addition there will be tackle prizes. I will be glad to furnish further information. Enrollment blanks may be had at my office.

In the George Ruppert contest all 12 classes have now been entered. The latest entries are a 35-pound striped 42½ inches long, with a girth of 24 inches caught surf fishing at Montauk Point by O. E. Carlisle of Flushing, Long Island. This puts Mr. Carlisle in line for $250. The new leading channel bass weighs 15 pounds. This fish was 48 inches long with a girth of 30 inches. A 13-pound blackfish tops in that class. The largest fluke weighs 13½ pounds. The remarkable catch of a six ounce codfish still leads for $250. Entry blanks for this contest are on hand at the office of The Red Bank Register.

Upland game, including pheasants, quail, grouse and rabbits will be provided with seed stock refugees by virtue of a recent federal grant. Twenty-five acres, ranging from 6 to 25 acres have been leased for five years by the New Jersey State Fish and Game Commission in a program to provide seed stock refugees for small game in agricultural localities. The areas are expected to better conditions for wildlife by providing food and cover in a region where "clean farming" is practiced.

According to the New Jersey Fish and Game Commission the plan is already in operation in other parts of the state and the current acquisition of land is expected to bring advantageous results.

Funds for this and other wildlife conservation work in New Jersey have been made possible by the Federal-Aid-to-Wildlife Act which was sponsored in Congress by the National Wildlife Federation.

Wildlife Authorities Discuss Problems

Leading Authorities Hold a Conference Once a Year

(By C. M. Palmer, Jr., Secretary, The American Wildlife Institute.)

Each year the Country's leading wildlife authorities assemble for an important meeting somewhere in the United States. They come together to discuss controversial questions, problems of fundamental interest to those seeking to restore the natural resources of North America, and to hear reports of the latest developments of wildlife scientists. These yearly meetings are known as North American Wildlife Conferences. The fifth annual North American Wildlife Conference was held in Washington, D. C., March 18, 19 and 20.

There were many important questions, many controversial issues, discussed at the Conference. Among them was the highly important issue of farmer-sportsman relations. Farmers and sportsmen have been quarreling about property rights, the right to hunt game, etc., almost since the first tiller of the soil fenced off his little piece of property in these United States.

Farmers often own property. I don't want none of you city fellows shootin' up my livestock, and frightenin' my wife half to death with your blasted shotguns, and breakin' down my fences. I own this property—so it goes.

Sportsman—"All right, we'll go, but we don't have to, if we don't want to. The law says wild game belongs to the people of this country—and I claim the right to exercise the God-given right of taking what belongs to us."

The law, when invoked, is not very helpful in most instances. Professional interpreters of Blackstone tell us that our law is largely derived from the common law of England. Before the barons forced King John to grant the Magna Charta or the English Bill of Rights—at Runnymede in 1215, the ownership of all wild animals was in the King, and the taking of them was his personal prerogative. From that time on the title of wild game has changed so that the state held title to wild game—not in its sovereign capacity, but as the representative of and for the benefit of all the people. In other words, the game belonged to the people.

This theory became engrafted upon the common law in England and the general rule in the United States is that every person to whom the state has issued a hunting license may hunt and take game in every place where he has a right to be, provided he does not infringe upon or injure the rights of others.

In that last sentence lies the farmer's argument. They claim that the hunter has no right to be on private property—unless invited—and that he infringes upon the rights of others when he hunts without benefit of invitation, or, at least, permission.

There, briefly, is the problem of farmer-sportsman relations, which has caused a panel of distinguished authorities, representing both schools of thought at the fifth annual North American Wildlife Conference.

Another important and highly controversial problem which came before the Conference, was an old issue between sport and commercial fishermen. Sport fishermen claim that the commercial catch of certain species of fish should be prohibited, while the commercial fishermen are vigorous in their protests over any such legislation, claiming their livelihood would be taken away from them.

Charles E. Jackson, acting commissioner of the Bureau of Fisheries, discussed this controversy which is a very delicate one. Certain species of fish fall definitely into the sports class and the commercial fishermen have little if any interest in them, principally because the supply is limited or uncertain, and also because several such fish are not considered palatable. In this class fall tarpon and barracuda. White and blue marlin and sailfin, while edible, do not appear on the commercial market because of their rarity.

At the other end of the line there are the strictly commercial fish such as the cod, haddock and flounder of the North Atlantic, the herring and sardine of California and several Alaska salmon. Some of these fish will not take a hook, and therefore are of no value to the sportsman. Others put up such a poor fight that catching them is not considered sport.

The sore spot in the controversy concerns species of fish that are caught in large numbers with commercial gear, while also furnishing sport for the angler. Of these, the striped bass, or rockfish as it is sometimes called, is the subject of many bitter words. Anglers of New Jersey state that the striped bass should be protected as a strictly game fish, while the commercial fishermen present opposing arguments.

Of the fresh water fishes, walleye pike is the main species caught both by hook and line and in nets.

Questions concerning the species of fish that are disputed by the opposing factions were discussed by scientists and experts at the Conference and several suggestions were made.

Probably the most vital question concerning the conservationist is pollution. The problem is not a new one, as everyone knows. A good portion of the Conference time was devoted to what has been done to clean up America's defiled waters and what can be done in the future. The recent passage by the House of the Baileys Bill with the amendments by Congressman Mundt of South Dakota were reviewed.

Recently Congressman Mundt said: "The problem of pollution has been before Congress in one form or another for at least five years. The fact that we are again confronted with legislation to remedy the pollution of navigable waters of America is in itself good testimony to the fact that individual initiative and private industry alone will not solve the problem. Needed is some kind of stimulus from the Federal government."

"We have talked about pollution and criticized it for generations. The Mundt amendment does something about it. It stops the problem from growing worse while we continue to study ways and means of correcting evil practices which are already well on the way to ruining the public waters of this country."

Congressman Mundt went into detail at the Conference about his plans and ideas for continuing the war against pollution.

The opening day of the Conference was highlighted by a welcoming address by Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes. He was followed by Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey, who painted the picture of the possible future of the wildlife of the United States. Hoyes Lloyd of Canada described what our northern neighbor was doing in the matter of restoration.

Carl D. Shoemaker of the National Wildlife Federation described the various wildlife legislative measures pending in Congress.

On Tuesday it was planned that A. M. Day of the Biological Survey gave a comprehensive report of the various conservation measures being undertaken with funds provided by the Pittman-Robertson Federal Aid-to-Wildlife Act.

Another feature of the program was the address of Charles H. Taylor, assistant director of the CCC, who talked on the relationship of the CCC and wildlife conservation. In relation to this, several noted educators gave their views on what wildlife means to the public in general.

Lending an international flavor to the Conference was the arrival of delegates from Mexico as well as from Canada.

The technical sessions were conducted by groups from Federal and State governments as well as private parties, and were aimed at a better understanding of wildlife management in the field through scientific study.

The Conference this year was sponsored jointly by the American Wildlife Institute and the National Wildlife Federation, and was held during the third annual Wildlife Resolutions Week which was observed throughout the nation from March 17th to the 23rd.

Allaire Wins Clayton Trophy

Sails Bill Olsen's Spirit to Victory

Bill Olsen's Spirit, with Charles Allaire at the helm, won the Willis A. Clayton trophy sailboat race Sunday afternoon at Red Bank.

Lack of wind Saturday forced cancellation of the Comet class race of the Monmouth boat club and the Dickman skiff event, the boat club was able, however, to hold its weekly events in the afternoon.

The Fair Haven yacht club held their usual weekly regatta Sunday afternoon.

Weddings

EDWARDS-SHIPWAY.

Miss Dorothea Karow Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Edwards of Buttonwood lane, Rumson, and Charles Morgan Shipway, son of Mrs. Charles Morgan Shipway and the late C. M. Shipway, formerly of Charleston, North Carolina, and now of Princeton, were married Friday night at 8 o'clock, at George's Episcopal church, Rumson. Rev. George Fiske Dudley, rector, performed the ceremony.

MRS. CHARLES M. SHIPWAY, JR.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown was made of white marquisette over satin and applied with Chantilly lace on the bodice and made with bishop sleeves. Her long tulle veil was trimmed with old family lace and fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a white prayer book with a marker of white orchids and ribbon.

The maid of honor was Miss Barbara Godwin of Rye, New York. She wore a peach colored gown with a fitted lace bodice and short puffed sleeves. The neckline of the gown was heart shaped and the net skirt flared at the hemline. She carried a chandelier and ivy and wore a small flowered hat.

The bridesmaids were Miss Joan Van Tine of Rumson, Miss Marian Cowles, New York, Miss Mary Hailigan, East Lansing, Michigan; Miss Katherine Lee, Wilmington, Delaware; Miss Lilla Murchie, Kennebunkport, Maine, and Miss Juliet Brewer of New Bedford, Massachusetts. All were dressed in gowns like that worn by the maid of honor.

John E. Ramsey, Jr., of Baltimore, Maryland, was best man. The ushers were Paul Griffin of New York; Robert McCord, Greenwich, Connecticut; Hunt T. Dickinson, Locust Valley, Long Island; Samuel Irwin, Philadelphia; E. Sydenham Page, Jr., Delaware; Pennsylvania, and Reginald Johnson, Riverdale, New York.

The bridegroom's mother wore a flowered chiffon gown with matching accessories. The bride's mother was attired in grey chiffon and lace and wore a small red hat.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. The couple are now on a trip to Bermuda. Mrs. Shipway's traveling costume consisted of a black fitted coat, white hat trimmed with black and matching accessories.

After October 1 the couple will reside at 34 Wiggins street, Princeton. Mrs. Shipway, Jr., graduated from Smith college this past June.

BEICHEK-LARLAUD.

Miss Anne Beichek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boris Beichek of High street became the bride of Harold Larlaud, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Larlaud of William street, Saturday morning at the Presbyterian church. Rev. John A. Hayes, pastor, officiated.

Miss Beichek, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a bridal gown of pink tulle and a tulle veil falling from a tiara of roses. She was attended by Miss Gerda Doebner of Newark, who wore a blue tulle and tulle frock with a small flowered toque. The bride carried a bouquet of blue cornflowers and sweet peas, while Miss Doebner carried pink sweet peas.

Noel Larlaud was his brother's best man. Boris and Alex Beichek, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

Mrs. Beichek wore a blue gown with a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Larlaud wore a dark print with a corsage of pink roses.

A reception following the church service at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Larlaud left on a motor trip through the New England states. They will return at the end of the week and take up their residence on William street. Mrs. Lar

Firemen To Benefit From Auction Sale

Plans for the annual auction sale to be held by the Eatontown fire department were announced this morning. The sale will open Monday night, August 26, and will run the entire week, closing Saturday night, August 31.

According to Ralph Lewis, chairman of this year's sale, the auction will take place nightly starting at 8 o'clock on John Bligini's property at the corner of Main and Lewis streets. Any person having old furniture or household goods that they wish to contribute are asked to call Eatontown 88 and the goods will be picked up by the firemen.

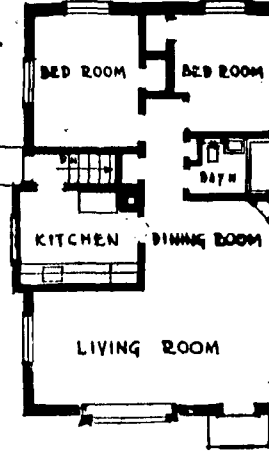

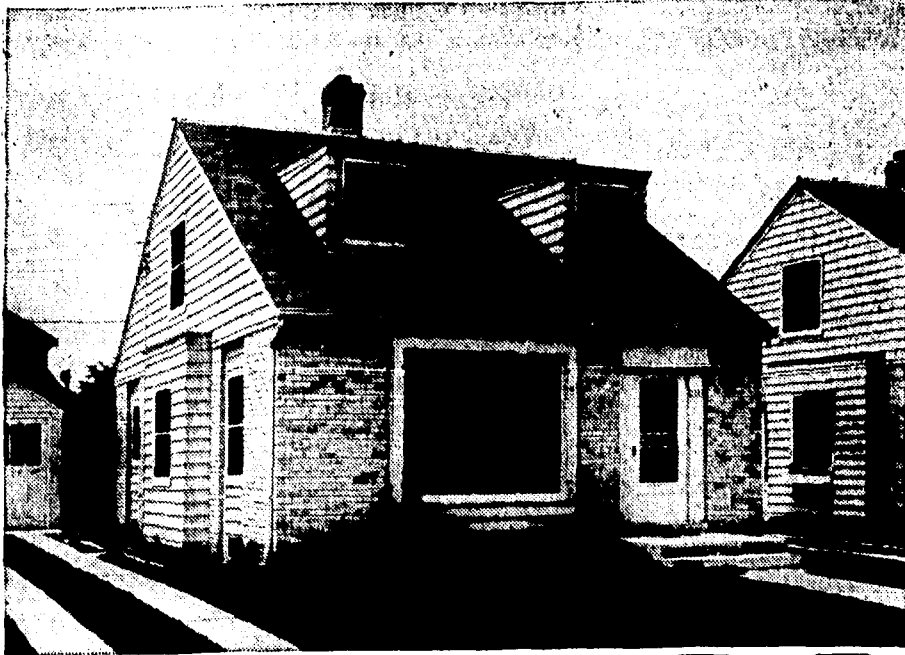

MOTORCYCLIST INJURED.

Walter Brand of Lewis street, Eatontown, was injured yesterday afternoon when, while riding a motorcycle on Bridge avenue, near Catherine street, he was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Eileen Erlander of Elberon. He was treated for a cut right middle finger and knee.

FALLS IN CAR.

Interesting Variation of the Small Home

This home reflects individual expression in small-home design. The large glass area in front guarantees an abundance of light for the living room and at the same time establishes the character of the exterior appearance. The living room and dining room are joined, a union widely advocated by many architects. The property is valued at $5,600 and was financed with a mortgage of $5,000 insured by the Federal Housing Administration. Over a period of 25 years, monthly payments on a mortgage of this amount, excluding taxes and hazard insurance, would amount to about $29.

Rainbow Vets Attend Reunion

New Jersey Named for 1941 Affair

Local members of the Rainbow Division Veterans returned this week from the annual reunion at Montgomery, Alabama, elated at their success in naming a Jersey man as commander of the organization as well as securing next year's reunion for this state.

Attending from this section were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Slattery, Robert Hayward and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mitchell. Thomas Payne of Newark accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Slattery. Mr. Hayward is the present president and Mr. Slattery is secretary of the New Jersey chapter.

The reunion was held Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Representatives of every state attended. Mr. Slattery was a member of the time and place committee, which considered bids for holding the 1941 reunion at Denver, Des Moines and Orlando, Florida, and was successful in having Atlantic City designated.

Mr. Hayward was a member of the nominating committee and was able to have William S. Nevius of Arlington, summer resident of Highlands for many years, named for president, in opposition to six other candidates. Mr. Hayward was named treasurer and Mr. Slattery was appointed assistant editor of The Reveille, the veterans official publication. The latter is also chairman of the 1941 reunion.

STEINER FACTORY SOLD.

The Steiner-Liberty pajama factory at Neptune City has been sold to Morris Kessler and John Lambie of Newark, who will operate it as a carton manufacturing plant. Operations will start about September 30 and the plant will employ at least 300 men and women.

OSBOURNE IN HOSPITAL.

John D. Osbourne of Loch Arbour, secretary and campaign manager for United States W. Warren Barbour, is a patient at Roosevelt hospital at New York, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Suggests Painting At Red Bank "Y"

Necessary Work Is Reported to Board

A qualified painter is needed to mix paint and to volunteer his services to paint a few of the necessary spots in the interior of the "Y" building at 40 Riverside avenue.

Lester R. Ross, chairman of the house committee, submitted his report to the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian association last night and mentioned the above fact with the explanation that several of the places to be painted are dangerous for an amateur to tackle. The interior needs immediate attention as to paint, if the building is to be preserved.

In the past several Red Bank painters and decorators have volunteered their services to aid the board in establishing a permanent building for the youth of the community. The house committee furnishes the paint and the painting is done by volunteers. Harold A. Hendrickson, chairman of the building committee, also announced that the grounds around the building had been cleared by a youth interested in keeping the building and lot in presentable condition. Charles Harrington of Bank street, accomplished the clean-up in about four and one-half days. The board members were very appreciative of the youth's thoughtfulness and hope that he has set an example for the rest of the young men who use the "Y" for recreation.

Theodore D. Parsons called the meeting to order, after which John B. Allen gave the opening prayer. The next meeting of the board will be Wednesday, August 21, at 8:10 p. m.

Those attending included Theodore D. Parsons, president, F. Pierre Holmes, treasurer, Harry C. F. Wordon, recording secretary, John B. Allen, G. Howard Lippincott, Lester R. Ross, Theodore J. Labrecque, Harry Malchow, Harold A. Hendrickson, Arthur B. White, Joseph C. Irwin and Wilmer A. Robbins, general secretary.

FOOD PRICES LOWER.

New Jersey retail food prices during June were less than one per cent below those of the previous month, although they were nearly 1.16 per cent above prices in June a year ago, the monthly survey of New Jersey retail food prices prepared by the State Department of Agriculture revealed.

All meats declined 0.28 per cent, with pork showing a seasonal decline of 4.24 per cent and veal, 1.48 per cent. Beef rose 0.22 per cent, lamb was up 2.21 per cent, and poultry meat cost 1.01 per cent more.

A drop of 0.33 per cent was shown in dairy products during June. This was due to seasonal decline in the prices of butter and cheese. Fresh milk remained unchanged in price, and eggs experienced a slight seasonal increase.

All fruits and vegetables declined 2.33 per cent and fresh fruits and vegetables were 2.38 per cent cheaper than in May. Beverages and chocolate cost 0.47 per cent less than the preceding month; coffee and tea were cheaper and cocoa and chocolate rose.

CELEBRATES 84th BIRTHDAY.

Richard Tobin of Arthur place celebrated his 84th birthday Monday when many friends and relatives called on him. He received many cards, letters and gifts. He has been a resident of Red Bank and Fair Haven for the past 55 years, having moved here from Brooklyn.

ROAD IMPROVEMENTS.

Trenton, July 18—State Highway Commissioner E. Donald Sterner today approved plans for the construction of the Ellisdale-Wainford-Allen Road, Section 4, Upper Freehold township.

This is a State Aid project, to be financed through a grant of the automobile license fees and gasoline taxes, and will provide 144 man-weeks of employment, thereby reducing unemployment and the direct cost of cash relief to the state and municipality.

Surface treated gravel, six inches deep, will be spread at a paved width of 18 feet for one mile. Two gravel shoulders of four feet each will give the thoroughfare a graded width of 26 feet.

HOSPITAL PATIENTS.

Surgical patients admitted to Riverview hospital within the past week were Albert Wilson of Bergen place, Red Bank; Lawrence Durante of Matawan, and Miss Anna Kane of Headens' Corner. Miss Minnie Roanman of West Front street, Keyport, is a medical patient at Riverview, being admitted Tuesday.

FRACTURES WRIST.

Joel Sparling of Fair Haven, 13, fell from a cherry tree Saturday and fractured his right wrist. He was taken to Riverview hospital for treatment.

Card of Thanks.

By this method we desire to thank the officers and members of the Red Bank Fire department for their prompt and efficient services rendered at the fire, which made it possible for us to sustain a lesser loss than at first anticipated. Words fail us to adequately phrase these few sentences of compliment. We do, however, want the boys to know that their alertness and efficiency made it possible to stop what might have been one of Red Bank's most serious conflagrations.
